See notes under the preceding section; as to personating minister and sham marriage, see notes under section 2493.

In General.—The failure to comply with the requirements as to the license subjects the officer or minister to the penalty under this section, but the marriage is, notwithstanding, good to every intent and purpose. State v. Robbins, 28 N. C. 23; State v. Parker, 106 N. C. 711, 713, 11 S. E. 517.

Statute of Limitations.—A summons was issued to recover the penalty against a justice of the peace, under this section for performing the marriage ceremony without the delivery of the license therefor to him, required by this section, within less than a year from the time he had performed it, it was held, that the plea of the statute of limitations, sec. 443, par. 2, could not be sustained. Wooley v. Bruton, 184 N. C. 438, 114 S. E. 628.

§ 2500. License issued by register of deeds.—Every register of deeds shall, upon application, issue a license for the marriage of any two persons, if it appears to him probable that there is no legal impediment to such marriage. Where either party to the proposed marriage is under eighteen years of age, and resides with the father, or mother, or uncle, or aunt, or brother, or elder sister, or resides at a school, or is an orphan and resides with a guardian, the register shall not issue a license for such marriage until the consent in writing of the relation with whom such infant resides, or, if he or she resides at a school, of the person by whom said infant was placed at school, and under whose custody and control he or she is, is delivered to him, and such written consent shall be filed and preserved by the register. When it appears to the register of deeds that it is probable there is a legal impediment to the marriage of any person for whom a license is applied, he has power to administer to the person so applying an oath touching the legal capacity of said parties to contract a marriage. (Rev., s. 2088; Code, s. 1814; 1887, c. 331; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—Section 2503 which provides the penalty for violation of the provisions of this section should be read along with this section and the annotations under the two sections should be considered together.

The two sections are in pari materia and should be construed together. Joyner v. Harris, 157 N. C. 295, 297, 72 S. E. 970; Bowles v. Cochran, 93 N. C. 398. The editor has deemed it expedient to place all constructions of the two sections under section 2503.

§ 2500(a). Certificates of health for applicants for license.—No license to marry shall be issued by the register of deeds of any county to a male applicant therefor except upon the presentation by the said male applicant of a certificate executed within seven days from the time of the presentation of said certificate to the register of deeds as hereinafter provided, showing the nonexistence of any venereal disease, the nonexistence of tuberculosis in the infectious stages, and that the applicant has not been adjudged by a court of competent jurisdiction an idiot, imbecile, or of unsound mind. No license shall be issued to any female applicant who shall not present a certificate showing the nonexistence of tuberculosis in the infectious stages, and that she has not been adjudged by a court of competent jurisdiction to be of unsound mind. (1921, c. 129, s. 1.)

Chapter 256, Public Laws 1933, purports in the caption to repeal §§ 2500(a) to 2500(e) but no mention is made of the sections in the context of the act, which is codified here as § 2500(g).

§ 2500(b). Certificates executed by what physician.—The certificate referred to in the preceding section shall be executed by any reputable physician licensed to practice medicine and surgery in the State and who shall reside within the county in which said license to marry shall be applied for; or by the county health officer of such county, whose duty it shall be to examine such applicants and issue such certificates without charge: Provided, where a city or town is located in two or more counties, then a physician who practices medicine and surgery in the State and lives in said city may examine applicants and execute such certificates in either county in which said city may be located. Such physician residing without the county in which the marriage is to take place may issue such certificate when the Clerk of the Superior Court of the county in which such physician resides certifies under his hand and seal that the person who signs such certificate is a reputable physician and surgeon, actually engaged in the practice of his profession. This clause, however, shall not be interpreted as applying to physicians residing in the town or city located in two counties: Provided, further, that any physician who practices medicine and surgery in the State and lives within a radius of three miles of the county line in which the license is applied for may examine and execute such certificate. (1921, c. 129, s. 2; 1923, c. 101; 1925, c. 296, s. 2; 1927, c. 240, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The effect of this section is summarized in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 294.

§ 2500(c). Issuing license without certificate a misdemeanor.—Any register of deeds who issues a license to marry without the presentation of the certificate provided for in the preceding sections, or contrary to the provisions of this law, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than two hundred dollars or imprisoned for thirty days in the discretion of the court. (1921, c. 129, s. 3.)

§ 2500(d). False statement by a physician a misdemeanor.—Any physician who shall knowingly and willfully make any false statement in the certificate hereinabove provided for shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than two hundred dollars, or imprisoned for not more than six months. (1921, c. 129, s. 4.)

§ 2500(e). Laws affected or repealed.—No laws in force March 5, 1921, relating to the issuance of licenses to marry shall be repealed or abridged by this law, except such as may be in conflict herewith. (Rev., s. 2105; Code, s. 1833; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 25; 1921, c. 129, s. 5.)

§ 2500(g). Affidavit of groom as to physical condition when applying for marriage license.—The register of deeds of the several counties of the state shall require, before issuing a marriage license, that the groom shall file with him an affidavit setting forth that he does not have active tuberculosis or any venereal disease, and has not had either of said diseases for a period of two years prior thereto. The affidavit must be signed by the maker and sworn to before the register of deeds or any other person authorized to administer oaths: Provided, however, that when the affidavit is made before the register of deeds, he shall not make any charge therefor.

The applicant, in lieu of making affidavit as herein set out, may file a certificate of health as provided by law before a passage of this section.

Upon the applicant complying with either of the provisions of the foregoing section the register of deeds may issue a license to marry: Provided the contracting parties are otherwise qualified to marry according to law: Provided further, that the bride shall not be required to stand a physical examination. (1933, c. 256, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section probably offers an alternative to the present requirement of a health certificate from the groom in order to obtain a marriage license. Nothing is said as to the bride except "the bride shall not be required to stand a physical examination." Apparently this eliminates as to her requirement of a health certificate, without the necessity of making an affidavit of health in lieu thereof. See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 223.

§ 2501. Obtaining license by false representation misdemeanor.—If any person shall obtain a marriage license for the marriage of persons under the age of eighteen years by misrepresentation or false pretenses, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3371; 1885, c. 346.)

As to false pretenses, see sections 4277 et seq.

§ 2502. Form of license.—License shall be in the following or some equivalent form:

To any ordained minister of any religious denomination, minister authorized by his church, or to any justice of the peace for.....county: A. B. having applied to me for a license for the marriage of C. D. (the name of the man to be written in full) of (here state his residence), aged .....years (race, as the case may be), the son of (here state the father and mother, if known; state whether they are living or dead, and their residence, if known; if any of these facts are not known, so state), and E. F. (write the name of the woman in full) of (here state her residence), aged.....years (race, as the case may be), the daughter of (here state names and residences of the parents, if known, as is required above with respect to the man). (If either of the parties is under eighteen years of age, the license shall here contain the following:) And the written consent of G. H., father (or mother, etc., as the case may be) to the proposed marriage having been filed with me, and there being no legal impediment to such marriage known to me, you are hereby authorized, at any time within sixty days from the date hereof, to celebrate the proposed marriage at any place within the said county. You are required, within sixty days after you shall have celebrated such marriage, to return this license to me at my office with your signature subscribed to the certificate under this license, and with the blanks therein filled according to the facts, under penalty of forfeiting two hundred dollars to the use of any person who shall sue for the same.

Issued this .... day of ....., 19.. L. M.,
Register of Deeds of.....County

Every register of deeds shall designate in every marriage license issued the race of the persons proposing to marry by inserting in the blank after the word "race" the words "white," "colored" or "indian," as the case may be. The certificate shall be filled up and signed by the minister or officer celebrating the marriage, and also be signed by one or more witnesses present at the marriage, who shall add to their names their place of residence, as follows:

I, N. O., an ordained or authorized minister of (here state to what religious denomination, or justice of the peace, as the case may be), united in matrimony (here name the parties), the parties licensed above, on the ..... day of ....., 19...., at the house of P. R., in (here name the town, if any, the township and county), according to law.

Witness present at the marriage: .....N. O.
S. T., of (here give residence). (Rev., 2089; Code, s. 1815; 1899. c. 541. ss. 1, 2; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 6; 1909, c. 704, s. 3; 1917, c. 38.)

License Not Issued Until Filled Out.—A blank marriage license, though signed by the register of deeds, is not issued until filled up and handed to the person who is to be married, or to some one for him, and, if at the time of such issuance the register has become functus officio, the failure to record it does not render him liable to the penalty imposed by sections 2504 and 2505, for failure to record the substance of each marriage license issued. Maggett v. Roberts, 112 N. C. 71, 16 S. E. 919.

§ 2503. Penalty for issuing license unlawfully.—Every register of deeds who knowingly or without reasonable inquiry, personally or by deputy, issues a license for the marriage of any two persons to which there is any lawful impediment, or where either of the persons is under the age of eighteen years, without the consent required by law, shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars to any parent, guardian, or other person standing in loco parentis, who sues for the same. (Rev., s. 2090; Code, s. 1816; 1895, c. 387; 1901, c. 722; R. C., c. 68, s. 13; 1871-2. c. 193, s. 7.)

I. IN GENERAL.

Object of Section.—This section is a wise and beneficient one, the object being to protect the parties themselves, and the community as well, from hasty and improvident matrimonial alliances, which eventually produce discord and unhappiness in the family—one of the essential units of our republican household—and are hurtful to society in many ways. Joyner v. Harris, 157 N. C. 295, 297, 72 S. E. 970. See also, Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 312, 315, 45 S. E. 662; Gray v. Lentz, 173 N. C. 346, 350, 91 S. E. 1024.

The section is remedial in its nature. Gray v. Lentz, 173 N. C. 346, 350, 91 S. E. 1024.

Construed with Section 2500.—This section and section 2500 are in pari materia and should be construed together. Joyner v. Harris, 157 N. C. 295, 297, 72 S. E. 970; Bowles v. Cochran, 93 N. C. 398; Gray v. Lentz, 173 N. C. 346, 91 S. E. 1024.

II. DUTIES OF REGISTER.

Duty Highly Important.—To all persons who believe that the welfare of human society depends largely upon the family relation, and that the contract of marriage should be defended by careful and just laws for the purpose of guarding against legal impediments and to prevent the marriage of those under a certain age, when the parties are presumed not to be able to contract, the duty of the register of deeds, the officer in our State charged with the duty of issuing marriage licenses, seems most important and most solemn. That officer must exercise his duties carefully and conscientiously, and not as a mere matter of form. Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 312, 315, 45 S. E. 662; Agent v. Willis, 124 N. C. 29, 32 S. E. 322; Julian v. Daniels, 175 N. C. 549, 555, 95 S. E. 907.

Cannot Be Delegated.—A register of deeds can not delegate to another the duty of making the required reasonable inquiry into the legal competency of persons applying for a license to marry. Cole v. Laws, 108 N. C. 185, 12 S. E. 985.

Delivery to Third Party Prohibited.—This section prohibits the register from permitting the completed license to pass from the office and beyond his control into the hands of any applicant acting for a party to the proposed marriage. Coley v. Lewis, 91 N. C. 21, 24.

Therefore, where the register delivered a license complete in form to one with instructions not to give it to the parties until the mother's consent in writing was given and it was never presented to the mother or her consent obtained, but the marriage ceremony was performed under it, it was held that the register is liable to the penalty. Coley v. Lewis, 91 N. C. 21.

Inquiry by Deputy Will Not Excuse Register.—If a party to a marriage is under the age authorized by law, the register can not excuse himself from liability, because his deputy or agent made proper inquiry, if he did not make the inquiry himself. The trust is personal to him. Maggett v. Roberts, 112 N. C. 71, 16 S. E. 9, 919.

III. DILIGENCE REQUIRED.

Reasonable Inquiry.—The register violating these requirements is not liable to the penalty when he has made reasonable inquiry and has been deceived, without laches on his part. Agent v. Willis, 124 N. C. 29, 32 S. E. 322; Cole v. Laws, 104 N. C. 651, 656, 10 S. E. 172; Williams v. Hodges, 101 N. C. 300, 303, 7 S. E. 786; Laney v. Mackey, 144 N. C. 630, 633, 57 S. E. 386; Gray v. Lentz, 173 N. C. 346, 91 S. E. 1024.

Same—Not a Mere Formality.—The requirement of reasonable inquiry is not merely a formal matter, which is met by taking the oaths of the husband or other parties unknown to the register, but it is expressive of a sound principle of public policy designed to protect immature persons from hasty and ill-advised marriages, made without the consent of their parents or guardians or those having properly the care over them. Julian v. Daniels, 175 N. C. 549, 555, 95 S. E. 907.

Same—What Required.—By reasonable inquiry is meant such inquiry as renders it probable that no impediment to the marriage exists. Bowles v. Cochran, 93 N. C. 398.

It would seem that "reasonable inquiry" involves at least an inquiry made of, or information furnished by, some person known to the register to be reliable, or, if unknown, identified and approved by some reliable person known to the register. This is the rule upon which banks act in paying checks, and surely in the matter of such grave importance as issuing a marriage license the register should not be excused upon a less degree of care. Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 312, 317, 45 S. E. 662; Furr v. Johnson, 140 N. C. 157, 52 S. E. 664; Joyner v. Harris, 157 N. C. 295, 298, 72 S. E. 970.

Same—Register Not Required to Examine Witnesses.—The section, that is section 2500, does not require that the register shall make inquiry by examination of the witnesses in such cases under oath, but merely declares that he shall have "the power to do so." His using, or failing to use, such discretionary power is merely a circumstance to be considered by the jury. Furr v. Johnson, 140 N. C. 157, 52 S. E. 664; Joyner v. Harris, 157 N. C. 295, 298, 72 S. E. 970.

Same—Sworn Statement of Stranger Insufficient.—It is not sufficient that he takes the sworn statement of the parties or their friends not known to him. Snipes v. Wood, 179 N. C. 349, 102 S. E. 619, citing Gray v. Lentz, 173 N. C. 346, 91 S. E. 1024.

Same—Question for Jury.—See post this note, "Pleading and Practice," V, B.

Illustrations of Reasonable Inquiry.—When a man of good character and reliable applied for a license, and produced to the register a written statement purporting to give the age of the female as over eighteen years, and also the name and residence of the parents and the person producing the statement said it was true, though no name was signed to it, it was held that the register had made such inquiry as was required of him, and was not liable for the penalty. Bowles v. Cochran, 93 N. C. 398. For other cases where the inquiry was held reasonable, see Walker v. Adams, 109 N. C. 481, 13 S. E. 907; Harcum v. Marsh, 130 N. C. 154, 41 S. E. 6.

But when a register of deeds issues a license for the marriage of a woman under 18 years of age without the assent of her parents, upon the application of one whose general character for reliability he was ignorant, and who falsely stated the age of the woman, without making any further inquiry as to his sources of information, it was held, that he had not made such reasonable inquiry into the facts as the law required, and he incurred the penalty for the neglect of his duty in that respect. Cole v. Daws, 104 N. C. 651, 10 S. E. 172. Again where the uncontradicted evidence showed that the register took the word of the prospective bridegroom and his friend, neither of whom he knew the same rule applies. To the same effect are the following cases: Williams v. Hodges, 101 N. C. 300, 7 S. E. 786; Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 312, 45 S. E. 662; Laney v. Mackey, 144 N. C. 630, 57 S. E. 386; Morrison v. Teague, 143 N. C. 186, 55 S. E. 521; Joyner v. Harris, 157 N. C. 295, 301, 72 S. E. 970; Julian v. Daniels, 175 N. C. 549, 95 S. E. 907; Snipes v. Wood, 179 N. C. 349, 102 S. E. 619.

IV. CONSENT OF PARENT.

Must Be Written.—According to the terms of section 2500, where one of the parties is under eighteen years of age, the written consent is a condition precedent to its issue. Coley v. Lewis, 91 N. C. 21.

Section Prescribes Order.—Section 2500 fixes the order in importance of those from whom the register of deeds should obtain the written consent for the marriage of minors under eighteen years of age. Littleton v. Haar, 158 N. C. 566, 74 S. E. 12.

Same—Father's Consent if Possible.—If anything, the language of our statute more clearly and strongly calls for the same interpretation and requires the written consent of the father, if living and not unable or disqualified in some way to give it. Littleton v. Haar, 158 N. C. 566, 570, 74 S. E. 12.

Thus when a minor resides with the father, which the register could reasonably have ascertained, the written consent of the mother only indicates that the subject of the application for the license is under the age specified, and does not preclude her father from suing the register of deeds for the penalty provided for issuing a license without his consent. Littleton v. Haar, 158 N. C. 566, 74 S. E. 12.

Same—Stepfather Not Included.—The word "father" used in the section does not include stepfather, and the written consent of the mother, the father being dead, authorizes the issuing of the license. Owens v. Munden, 168 N. C. 266, 267, 84 S. E. 257.

Same—When Mother's Consent Sufficient.—It was held in Littleton v. Haar, 158 N. C. 566, 74 S. E. 12, that the consent of the persons named in section 2500 and in the order named should be obtained, the effect of the decision being that if the child is living with father and mother, the written consent of the father is necessary, and if with the mother, the father being dead, that her consent is sufficient. Owens v. Munden, 168 N. C. 266, 267, 84 S. E. 257.

V. THE ACTION.

A. In General.

Jurisdiction.—A justice of the peace has jurisdiction of an action against a register of deeds for unlawfully issuing a marriage license. Dixon v. Haar, 158 N. C. 341, 74 S. E. 1.

When the action under this section is against the register and his sureties, it is therefore for the amount of the bond ($10,000) to be discharged upon payment of $200, and the superior court has jurisdiction. Joyner v. Roberts, 112 N. C. 111, 114, 16 S. E. 917.

Venue.—An action for the penalty against a register of deeds under this section should be tried in the county wherein the cause of action arises. Dixon v. Haar, 158 N. C. 341, 74 S. E. 1. And if brought in the wrong county, it should be removed and not dismissed. Id. As to venue, see section 464, par. 2 and 470, par. 1.

Action Abates upon Register's Death.—Under section 461, an action for a penalty, against a register of deeds and the surety on his official bond, abates on the death of the officer. Wallace v. McPherson, 139 N. C. 297, 51 S. E. 897.

Register Not Indictable.—The issuing of a marriage license by a register of deeds in violation of the section is not an indictable offense, unless the illegal act be done mala fide. State v. Snuggs, 85 N. C. 542.

B. Pleading and Practice.

Allegations in Complaint.—In an action under this section it is essential that the complaint should allege that the register issued the license knowingly or without reasonable inquiry. Maggett v. Roberts, 108 N. C. 174, 12 S. E. 890.

Presumption as to Time of Issuance.—The presumption is that a marriage license, signed by a register of deeds, was issued during his term of office. The burden of proving the contrary is on the party asserting it. Maggett v. Roberts, 112 N. C. 71, 16 S. E. 919.

Burden of Proof.—The burden of proof is upon the plaintiff to show that the officer issued the license when he knew of the impediment to the marriage, or that it was forbidden by the law, or when he had not made reasonable inquiry. Furr v. Johnson, 140 N. C. 157, 52 S. E. 664; Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 312, 45 S. E. 662; Joyner v. Harris, 157 N. C. 295, 298, 72 S. E. 970.

Question for Jury as to Reasonable Inquiry. — Where there is a conflict of evidence, whether there has been "reasonable inquiry" is to be submitted to the jury upon all the evidence under proper instructions. Joyner v. Roberts, 114 N. C. 389, 19 S. E. 645; Harcum v. Marsh, 130 N. C. 154, 41 S. E. 6; Furr v. Johnson, 140 N. C. 157, 52 S. E. 664.

The fact that the register administered an oath to the applicant and his friend does not, of itself, exonerate him. He is permitted by the statute to do so, that he may better elicit the facts, and his doing so or failing to do so would be but a circumstance for the jury to consider. Gray v. Lentz, 173 N. C. 346, 354, 91 S. E. 1024.

Same—Nonsuit Erroneous.—If the evidence is conflicting as to the reasonableness of the inquiry made by the register, the question should be submitted to the jury, and a judgment as of nonsuit thereon is erroneously entered. Lemmons v. Sigman, 181 N. C. 238, 106 S. E. 764.

Reasonable Inquiry Question of Law When Facts Admitted.—It is well settled that the facts being admitted or found by the jury, the question as to what is "reasonable inquiry" is one of law for the court. Joyner v. Roberts, 114 N. C. 389, 19 S. E. 645; Trolinger v. Boroughs, 133 N. C. 312, 45 S. E. 662; Snipes v. Wood, 179 N. C. 349, 102 S. E. 619; Julian v. Daniels, 175 N. C. 549, 95 S. E. 907.

Same—Instructions to Jury.—If the facts are admitted, it is the duty of the court to instruct the jury whether they are sufficient to constitute reasonable inquiry; if they are in controversy, it is the duty of the court to instruct the jury that certain facts to be determined from the evidence do or do not constitute reasonable inquiry. Spencer v. Saunders, 189 N. C. 183, 126 S. E. 420.

Evidence.—In a civil suit against a register evidence of nolo contendere pleaded by the husband in a criminal action is not admissible. Snipes v. Wood, 179 N. C. 349, 102 S. E. 619.

Proof of the officer's failure to administer the oath to the applicant for the license is admissible to show a lack of reasonable inquiry. Laney v. Mackey, 144 N. C. 630, 57 S. E. 386.

The testimony of a witness as to the age of the woman depending solely upon her statements to him, which he repeated to the register when the license was applied for, is not substantive evidence of her age. Joyner v. Harris, 157 N. C. 295, 72 S. E. 970.

§ 2504. Record of licenses and returns; originals filed.—Every register of deeds shall keep a book (which shall be furnished on demand by the board of county commissioners of his county) on the first page of which shall be written or printed:

Record of marriage licenses and of returns thereto, for the county of ....., from the ..... day of ....., 19...., to the ..... day of 19...., both inclusive.

In said book shall be entered alphabetically, according to the names of the proposed husbands, the substance of each marriage license and the return thereupon, as follows: The book shall be divided by lines with columns which shall be properly headed, and in the first of these, beginning on the left, shall be put the date of issue of the license; in the second, the name in full of the intended husband, with his residence; in the third, his age; in the fourth, his race and color; in the fifth, the name in full of the intended wife, with her residence; in the sixth, her age; in the seventh, her race and color; in the eighth, the name and title of the minister or officer who celebrated the marriage; in the ninth, the day of the celebration; in the tenth, the place of the celebration; in the eleventh, the names of all or at least three of the witnesses who signed the return as present at the celebration. The original license and return thereto shall be filed and preserved. (Rev., s. 2091; Code, s. 1818; 1899, c. 541, s. 3; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 9.)

§ 2505. Penalty for failure to record.—Any register of deeds who fails to record, in the manner above prescribed, the substance of any marriage license issued by him, or who fails to record, in the manner above prescribed, the substance of any return made thereon, within ten days after such return made, shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars to any person who sues for the same. (Rev., s. 2092; Code, s. 1819; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 10.)

Legislature May Relieve.—An act of the Legislature relieving the register from the penalty for failure to record passed after an action was brought to recover the penalty, but before judgment, is constitutional. Bray v. Williams, 137 N. C. 387, 49 S. E. 887.

Penalty Is in Alternative. — The penalty given by this section is in the alternative, either for the failure to record the substance of the license issued or for failure to record the substance of the return. Maggett v. Roberts, 108 N. C. 175, 178, 12 S. E. 890.

Jurisdiction.—Notwithstanding the penalties imposed do not exceed $200 (and if only one was sought to be recovered a justice of the peace would have jurisdiction), a plaintiff may unite several causes of action for several penalties against same party, in same complaint, and if the aggregate amount thereof exceeds $200 the superior court will have jurisdiction. Maggett v. Roberts, 108 N. C. 174, 12 S. E. 890.

Prosecution in Nature of Person. — An action against a register of deeds to recover the penalties imposed for a failure to comply with the provisions of the statute in relation to issuing marriage licenses under this section must be prosecuted in the name of the person who sues thereof, and not in the name of the State. Maggett v. Roberts, 108 N. C. 174, 12 S. E. 890.

Where Register Functus Officio.—If the filling up and handing the paper previously signed to the party proposing to be married was done, not by the register but by an agent, and at the time the register was functus officio, the paper would be equally invalid because lacking the signature of a de facto register, and there could be no penalty for not recording it. Maggett v. Roberts, 112 N. C. 71, 16 S. E. 919.

MARRIED WOMEN

Art. 1. Powers and Liabilities of Married Women

§ 2506. Property of married woman secured to her.—The real and personal property of any female in this state, acquired before marriage, and all property, real and personal, to which she may, after marriage, become in any manner entitled, shall be and remain the sole and separate estate and property of such female, and shall not be liable for any debts, obligations or engagements of her husband, and may be devised and bequeathed, and, with the written assent of her husband, conveyed by her as if she were unmarried. (Rev., s. 2093; Const., Art. X, s. 6.)

Cross References.—For a full treatment of the subject of Married Women, see under Husband and Wife, 7 N. C. Enc. Dig. 286—445; 14 N. C. Enc. Dig. 360—387; as to conveyances by husband and wife, see section 997 et seq; as to dower, see section 4099 et seq.

Editor's Note.—For a discussion of the history of this legislation and of many of the earlier cases construing it, see Ball v. Paquin, 140 N. C. 83, 52 S. E. 410. For a discussion of the early law regarding married women's contracts, see the notes under the following section.

It will be noted that this section is identical with the constitution, art. 10, sec. 6 and the annotations under that section should be referred to.

Common Law Rules.—At common law, marriage was an absolute gift to the husband of all the personal property of the wife in possession, and the same became his property instantly on the marriage; and it was a qualified gift of all the personal property adversely held, and all the chose in action of the wife, which became the husband's absolutely upon his reduction of the same into possession, during the coverture, with the right in case the wife die to administer on her estate, and in that character to collect, and after payment of her debts to hold the surplus to his own use, without obligation to distribute to any one. O'Connor v. Harris, 81 N. C. 279, 282.

It was also competent to the husband having choses in action "jure mariti" to assign the same for value, or as a security to pay his debts, and the assignment availed to pass the right to the assignee to collect and have the proceeds as his absolute property, if collected during coverture, just as the husband might have done if he had kept and reduced it into possession himself. O'Connor v. Harris, 81 N. C. 279, 282.

When Provision Took Effect.—The Constitution of 1868, Art. 10, sec. 6, took effect for purposes of domestic policy, in April, 1868, and not when Congress approved it. Freeman v. Lide, 176 N. C. 434, 435, 97 S. E. 402, and cases cited.

Power of Legislature.—The Legislature may abolish all the incapacities of married women, and give them full power to contract as feme sole. Pippen v. Wesson, 74 N. C. 437, 445.

A Broad and Comprehensive Provision.—This provision is very broad, comprehensive and thorough in its terms, meaning and purpose, and plainly gives and secures to the wife the complete ownership and control of her property, as if she were unmarried, except in the single respect of conveying it. Walker v. Long, 109 N. C. 510, 512, 14 S. E. 299.

Effect of Section.—A married woman holds her separate and real and personal property free from any debts, obligations, or engagements of her husband, according to the provisions of our constitution and this section. Graves v. Howard, 159 N. C. 594, 75 S. E. 998.

The real property of the wife, whether acquired before or after marriage, remains her sole and separate property (N. C. Const., Art. X, sec. 6), and therein the husband has no vested interest, but merely the power to refuse his written assent to her conveyance thereof. Kilpatrick v. Kilpatrick, 176 N. C. 182, 96 S. E. 988; Vann v. Edwards, 135 N. C. 661, 666, 47 S. E. 784.

In construing section six of article 10 of our Constitution and statutes passed on the subject, it has been held that neither the constitutional provision nor the statutes referred to had the effect of enabling a married woman living with her husband to bind herself by contracts strictly in personam, but that the constitutional provision declaring her property, real and personal, to be her sole and separate estate was intended and operated to enable her to charge her personal estate by contracts on the principle by which, under recognized equitable principles, she was formerly allowed to charge her separate estate in the hands of a trustee and her real estate also by contract in which her husband joined and the wife's privy examination taken. Ball v. Paquin, 140 N. C. 83, 52 S. E. 410; Farthing v. Shields, 106 N. C. 289, 10 S. E. 998; Flaum v. Wallace, 103 N. C. 296, 9 S. E. 567; Pippen v. Wesson, 74 N. C. 437; Warren v. Dail, 170 N. C. 406, 409, 87 S. E. 126.

Same—Wife's Obligations. — The purpose of this section was to protect the estate of the wife from liability for her husband's debts arising under the common law by reason of the coverture, but it was not intended to protect the property from her own obligations. Vann v. Edwards, 135 N. C. 661, 47 S. E. 784; Brinkley v. Baleance, 126 N. C. 393, 35 S. E. 631; Royal v. Southerland, 168 N. C. 405, 406, 84 S. E. 708.

Applies to Property Not Otherwise Secured.—This section does not apply to cases where the property is secured to the wife by marriage settlement, or deed of gift or will. The property is thereby secured to her by act of the parties. The object of the act is to secure the property to the wife by act of law when it has not been done by act of the parties, who may make restrictions and limitations over. Cooper v. Landis, 75 N. C. 526, 533.

Acquisition of Property Not Affected. — It is settled law in North Carolina that this section imposes no limit upon the wife's power to acquire property by contracting with her husband or any other person, but only operates to restrain her from, or protect her in, disposing of property already acquired by her. Osbourne v. Wilkes, 108 N. C. 661, 667, 13 S. E. 285, and cases cited.

Meaning of "Convey."—The word "convey" must be restricted in its operation to such property as is by law required to be transferred by a written instrument. The word "convey and devise" are technical terms, relating to the disposition of interests in real property. It would not be technically or legally correct to speak of conveying personal property by a verbal sale of it, or even by a writing, any more than it would be to speak of devising it by last will and testament. Vann v. Edwards, 135 N. C. 661, 669, 47 S. E. 784.

Conveyances of Personalty.—A married woman has the absolute power to dispose of her property by will, and she can convey it "with the written assent of her husband," which does not restrict her freedom in the disposition of her personal property, as conveyances apply only to realty. Everett v. Ballard, 174 N. C. 16, 17, 93 S. E. 385.

There is no restriction whatever upon the right of a married woman to dispose of her personalty as fully and freely as if she had remained unmarried, either in the Constitution or by any statute. Vann v. Edwards, 135 N. C. 661, 47 S. E. 784; Ball v. Paquin, 140 N. C. 83, 91, 52 S. E. 410; Rea v. Rea, 156 N. C. 529, 532, 72 S. E. 873.

May Devise and Bequeath Property.—See notes under section 2511.

Statute of Limitations.—Since section 408 removes the disability of marriage, and section 454 allows a wife to maintain an action without the joinder of her husband, when it concerns her separate property, and against her husband, when it is between the husband and wife, and there being no exception in favor of the wife when she holds a claim against him, the statute of limitation will run against a note thus held by her. Graves v. Howard, 159 N. C. 594, 75 S. E. 998.

Money from Sale of Wife's Realty.—Money received by the husband from a sale of the wife's lands before the adoption of the Constitution in 1868 belonged to him absolutely, unless at the time he received it he agreed to invest it for her in some other way. Kirpatrick v. Holmes, 108 N. C. 206, 12 S. E. 1037.

But if the wife acquired the title and the marriage occurred prior to 1868, and the sale was made subsequent to that time, the proceeds would be her separate estate; and if the husband purchased other lands with such proceeds and took title in his own name, in the absence of any special agreement to the contrary, he would become a trustee for her. Kirpatrick v. Holmes, 108 N. C. 206, 12 S. E. 1037.

Vested Rights Protected.—The husband's right to receive and appropriate to his own use his wife's distributive share in her mother's estate was vested, under the law then in force, of which no subsequent legislation could deprive him, without his consent. Morris v. Morris, 94 N. C. 613, 616.

Separate Estate.—Prior to the adoption of the Constitution of 1868 it was held that deeds by which property was conveyed to a trustee for the sole and separate use of a married woman created an active trust in the trustee, and this was held because otherwise the statute would execute the use, and the husband would, as husband, become vested with rights in and control over his wife's property. But by the Constitution of 1868, as declared in Walker v. Long, 109 N. C. 510, 14 S. E. 299, the wife's property was rendered secure to her, and not subject to the control of, or to the debts or obligations of, her husband. So that it was no longer necessary to invoke the fiction of the law in order to protect the wife's property from the husband or his creditors in deeds made subsequent to the adoption of that Constitution. Freeman v. Lide, 176 N. C. 434, 438, 97 S. E. 402. See also Pippen v. Wesson, 74 N. C. 437, 443.

Since the adoption of the Constitution of 1868, she has or can have the legal as well as the equitable estate, but this of itself does not give her the unrestricted disposition of her property. Its only effect was to do away with the necessary concurrence of the trustee by vesting in her the legal title. Her common law disabilities still continue. Sanderlin v. Sanderlin, 122 N. C. 1, 3, 29 S. E. 55.

Lien on Married Woman's Property.—By construing sections 6 and 3 of Article X of the Constitution in connection with section 2433 of the Code, the conclusion is sustained that for all debts contracted for work and labor done, a lien is given upon the property of a married woman. Ball v. Paquin, 140 N. C. 83, 95, 52 S. E. 410.

Presumption as to Property Delivered to Husband.—Under the change made in the law of married women's property rights by this section and const. art. 10, § 6 where she receives checks from her parents as personal gifts to her which she endorses and delivers to her husband, there is a presumption that he receives the money in trust for her, and in the absence of evidence that it was a gift, she may recover the same in her action against him, or, after his death, against his personal representative. Etheredge v. Cochran, 196 N. C. 618, 146 S. E. 711.

§ 2507. Capacity to contract.—Subject to the provisions of section 2515 of this chapter, regulating contracts of wife with husband affecting corpus or income of estate, every married woman is authorized to contract and deal so as to affect her real and personal property in the same manner and with the same effect as if she were unmarried, but no conveyance of her real estate shall be valid unless made with the written assent of her husband as provided by section six of article ten of the constitution, and her privy examination as to the execution of the same taken and certified as now required by law. (Rev., s. 2094; Code, s. 1826; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 17; 1911, c. 109.)

IV. The Action for Breach.

I. IN GENERAL.

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 62.

Editor's Note.—The common law, by which the contract of a married woman was void, continued to be the law in court of law in this State until the adoption of the Constitution of 1868. Pippen v. Wesson, 74 N. C. 437. 441,

At common law the contract of a married woman was void, but it was held in equity that she might have an estate settled to her separate use, and, that although she had no power to bind herself personally, she might with the concurrence of the trustee specifically charge her separate estate, and the courts of equity would enforce the charge against the property. But her contracts, in order to create a charge must refer expressly, or by necessary implication, to the separate estate as a means of payment, this being in the nature of an appointment or appropriation. Knox v. Jordan, 58 N. C. 175; Frazier v. Brownlow, 38 N. C. 237; Sanderlin v. Sanderlin, 122 N. C. 1, 3, 29 S. E. 55; Pippen v. Wesson, 74 N. C. 437, 441.

Ch. 193, sec. 17. Public Laws 1871-2, known as the Marriage Act was the first legislation directly regulating the power of a married woman to make contracts. It seems that the only change made by this act was that the consent of the husband in writing was required in order to allow her to change her separate estate. See Arrington v. Bell, 94 N. C. 247. This Marriage Act was in effect for about forty years and was frequently construed by the courts.

The present section known as the Martin Act was passed March 6, 1911 and has entirely changed the law. This renders obsolete the numerous constructions of the previous legislation. The general effect of these former provisions is discussed by Rodman, J., in Pippin v. Wesson, 74 N. C. 437. Other cases can be found under the title Husband and Wife in 7 N. C. Enc. Dig. 286 et seq.

Section Constitutional.—This section is constitutional and valid. Warren v. Dial, 170 N. C. 406, 87 S. E. 126.

The effect of this section is to take married women out of the classification which the law recognized, prior to its enactment, and to make them, with respect to capacity to contract, sui juris. This section is held to mean what it plainly says, that, except as to contracts with her husband, in which the forms required by § 2515, must still be observed, and except in conveyances of her real estate, in which case her privy examination must still be taken and her husband's written consent had, a married women can now make any and all contracts so far as "to affect her real and personal property," in the same manner and to the same effect as if she were unmarried. Taft v. Covington, 199 N. C. 51, 55, 153 S. E. 597.

Operates Prospectively. — This section operates prospectively and does not apply to contracts made prior to its adoption. Stephens v. Hicks, 156 N. C. 239, 72 S. E. 313.

Section Does Not Apply to Estates in Entirety.—The doctrine of title by entireties between husband and wife as it existed at common law remains unchanged by statute in this State. And this section has been construed, in Jones v. Smith, 149 N. C. 318, 62 S. E. 1092, as not affecting estates held by husband and wife as tenants by the entirety. Davis v. Bass, 188 N. C. 200, 124 S. E. 566.

Cited in Etheredge v. Cochran, 196 N. C. 681, 146 S. E. 711.

II. POWERS CONFERRED.

Legislature Has Power to Remove Restraints.—The restraints upon a married woman's power to "contract" rest upon the statute, not upon the Constitution, and of course can be removed by statute. There is no prohibition upon the Legislature to do so, and indeed the court in many instances has indicated to the Legislature that justice might be facilitated by more liberal legislation in that regard. Finger v. Hunter, 130 N. C. 529, 530, 41 S. E. 890.

Effect of Section.—The effect of the Martin Act (this section) is to take married women out of the classification which the law recognized, prior to its enactment, and to make them, with respect to capacity to contract, sui juris. Dorsey v. Corbett, 190 N. C. 783, 130 S. E. 842; Satterwhite v. Gallagher, 173 N. C. 525, 92 S. E. 369; Thrash v. Ould, 172 N. C. 728, 90 S. E. 915; Warren v. Dail, 170 N. C. 406, 87 S. E. 126; Royall v. Southerland, 168 N. C. 405, 84 S. E. 708; Lipinsky v. Revell, 167 N. C. 508, 83 S. E. 820; Tise v. Hicks, 191 N. C. 609, 612, 132 S. E. 560.

This section should be held to mean what it plainly says, that, except as to contracts with her husband, in which the forms required by sec. 2515, must still be observed, and except in conveyances of her real estate, in which case her privy examination must still be taken and her husband's written consent had, a married woman can now make any and "all contracts so far as to effect her real and personal property," in the same manner and to the same effect as if she were unmarried. Warren v. Dail, 170 N. C. 406, 410, 87 S. E. 126; Lipinsky v. Revell, 167 N. C. 508, 83 S. E. 820; Everett v. Ballard, 174 N. C. 16, 18, 93 S. E. 385.

Same—Practically Makes Free Traders.—This section practically constitutes married women free traders as to all their ordinary dealings. Price v. Charlotte Electric Railway Co., 160 N. C. 450, 452, 76 S. E. 502; Croom v. Goldsboro Lumber Co., 182 N. C. 217, 219, 108 S. E. 735. For the statutory provisions as to free traders, see sections 2525 et seq.

Conveyances of Personalty.—This section does not extend to conveyances of personalty by the wife to the husband, and certainly when it would lead to an absurd conclusion, as in instances of a gift from the wife to her husband. Rea v. Rea, 156 N. C. 529, 72 S. E. 573, 873.

Section 2515 Not Effected.—This section does not alter the effect of section 2515, requiring certain findings and conclusions by the probate officer to a conveyance of her lands directly to her husband, and her deed not probated accordingly, is void. Singleton v. Cherry, 168 N. C. 402, 84 S. E. 698; Butler v. Butler, 169 N. C. 584, 86 S. E. 507.

III. LIABILITIES INCURRED.

Liable for Breach of Contract.—When the Legislature authorized a married woman "to contract and deal so as to affect her real and personal property in the same manner, and with the same effect, as if she were unmarried," it authorized contracts for breach of which they would be liable as fully as if they had remained unmarried. Everett v. Ballard, 174 N. C. 16, 18, 93 S. E. 385.

Same—Contract to Convey Realty.—On a breach of a married woman's contract to convey her land, she may be held responsible in damages, as in other contracts by which she is properly bound. Warren v. Dail, 170 N. C. 406, 410, 87 S. E. 126. Though the contract to convey is made without the written consent of the husband. Everett v. Ballard, 174 N. C. 16, 93 S. E. 385.

Same—No Specific Performance.—This section means that when a married woman makes an executory contract to convey land and her privy examination is not taken she can only be held in damages, and that specific performance may not, as formerly, be enforced. Warren v. Dail, 170 N. C. 406, 410, 87 S. E. 126.

Liability of Wife Where Husband Agent.—Under this section, a wife may appoint her husband as her agent for doing in her behalf work which may be of such dangerous character as to be a menace to the safety of others, and is liable with him for his negligence that, while acting as her agent, he proximately caused an injury to a child who found explosive caps negligently left by him while causing her lot to be blasted and excavated on a bordering street. Krachanake v. Mfg. Co., 175 N. C. 435, 95 S. E. 851; Barnett v. Cotton Mills, 167 N. C. 580, 83 S. E. 826, cited and applied in Richardson v. Libes, 188 N. C. 112, 123 S. E. 306.

Where Husband Is Alien.—A married woman whose husband is an alien and never visited or resided in the United States is personally liable on her contracts. Levi v. Marsha, 122 N. C. 656, 29 S. E. 832.

Liable When Partner or Surety.—Since the passage of the Martin Act, a wife has been held liable jointly and severally on her contracts whenever a partner or a surety. Bristol Grocery Co. v. Bails, 177 N. C. 298, 299, 98 S. E. 768.

A wife by becoming surety on the obligations of her husband creates a direct and separate liability to the creditor of the husband which makes her personally responsible, under this section, without requiring the statutory formalities necessary to the validity of certain contracts made directly between the wife and her husband. Royal v. Southerland, 168 N. C. 405, 84 S. E. 708.

Assessments on Stock.—In Robinson v. Turrentine, 59 Fed. 554, construing the former provisions of this section, it was held that the purchase of stock by a married woman was not a "contract" within the terms of the section and that the wife was liable upon an assessment although the stock was purchased without the written consent of her husband.

Husband Still Liable for Funeral Expenses.—The common-law rule that the husband is liable for the funeral expenses of his deceased wife and for "necessaries" during their married life is not affected by this section, when there is nothing to show an express promise to pay on her part, or that the articles were sold on her credit or under such circumstances as to make her exclusively or primarily liable according to the equitable principles of indebitatus assumpsit. Bowen v. Daugherty, 168 N. C. 242, 84 S. E. 265.

IV. THE ACTION FOR BREACH.

Inability to Get Husband's Consent Immaterial.—The rule that a married woman is liable in damages for failure to specifically perform her contract to convey her lands under the Martin Act may not be successfully defeated upon the ground that she may be unable to get the consent of her husband to the conveyance, in the absence of any bad faith. Warren v. Dail, 170 N. C. 406, 87 S. E. 126.

Wife May Claim Personal Property Exemption.—Under the provisions of Article X, section 1 of our Constitution, and of this section the wife may claim her personal property exemption from the assets of a partnership with her husband when the validity of the partnership contract is not questioned by them under the provisions of section 2515, and each has consented that such exemption should be allowed to the other therefrom. Bristol Grocery Co. v. Bails, 177 N. C. 298, 98 S. E. 768.

Estoppel of Wife.—As to the doctrine of title by estoppel applying to a married woman under the provisions of this section, who has joined with her husband in a deed to his lands with warranty, the wife's interest not appearing on the face of the instrument, but which title the wife afterwards acquired. Quere? Builders, etc., Co. v. Joyner, 182 N. C. 518, 109 S. E. 259.

Judgment against Wife as Surety.—In Royal v. Southerland, 168 N. C. 405, 81 S. E. 708, it was held that under this section a judgment could be rendered against a wife upon her obligation as surety to her husband. Thrash v. Ould, 172 N. C. 728, 731, 90 S. E. 915.

Judgment Enforced by Execution.—It was held in Lipinsky v. Revell, 167 N. C. 508, 83 S. E. 820, Brown, J., construing this section, that judgment could be rendered against a married woman upon her contracts and enforced by execution, though she had not specifically charged her property with payment thereof. Thrash v. Ould, 172 N. C. 728, 730, 90 S. E. 915.

§ 2508. Capacity to draw checks.—Bank deposits made by or in the name of a married woman shall be paid only to her or on her order, and her check, receipt or acquittance shall be valid in law to fully discharge the bank from any and all liability on account thereof. (Rev., s. 2095; 1891, c. 221, s. 30; 1893, c. 344.)

§ 2509. Conveyance or lease of wife's land requires husband's joinder.—No lease or agreement for a lease or sublease or assignment by any married woman, not a free trader, of her lands or tenements, or chattels real, to run for more than three years, or to begin in possession more than six months after its execution, or any conveyance of any freehold estate in her real property, shall be valid, unless the same be executed by her and her husband, and proved or acknowledged by them, and her free consent thereto appear on her examination separate from her husband, as is now or may be required by law in the probate of deeds of femes covert. (Rev., s. 2096; Code, s. 1834; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 26.)

As to the formalities necessary in married women's conveyances, see section 997 and notes.

Written Assent of Husband Required.—The power of a married woman to convey her property is regulated by the Constitution, Art. X, sec. 6, and must be exercised by the written assent of her husband. Walton v. Bristol, 125 N. C. 419, 34 S. E. 544; Stallings v. Walker, 176 N. C. 321, 97 S. E. 25; Kilpatrick v. Kitpatrick, 176 N. C. 182, 96 S. E. 988.

Same—How Expressed.—His assent need not be by deed, for he has nothing to convey; and his joining with her in the instrument is sufficient. Jones v. Craigmiles, 114 N. C. 613, 19 S. E. 638, and cases there cited. His signing the instrument merely as a witness is a sufficient "written assent." Jennings v. Hinton, 126 N. C. 48, 35 S. E. 187. A letter written by him is also sufficient. Brinkley v. Ballance, 126 N. C. 393, 35 S. E. 631; Stallings v. Walker, 176 N. C. 321, 324, 97 S. E. 25.

Husband's Indorsement Does Not Validate Deed. — The written assent of her husband indorsed on the deed does not meet with the constitutional and statutory requirements necessary for her to make a valid conveyance. Council v. Pridgren, 153 N. C. 443, 69 S. E. 404; Jackson v. Beard, 162 N. C. 105, 107, 78 S. E. 6.

Privy Examination Required.—In order to convey a married woman's separate real estate or fix a charge upon it, her privy examination is required. Council v. Pridgen, 153 N. C. 443, 69 S. E. 404; Jackson v. Beard, 162 N. C. 105, 107, 78 S. E. 6.

Deed Made in Foreign State.—A deed executed by a married woman in another state, according to the laws of such state, for realty in this State, without privy examination of the wife, as required by section 997, is void. Smith v. Ingram, 130 N. C. 100, 40 S. E. 984.

Conveyance as Executrix.—It is not necessary that a married woman should be privily examined as to the execution by her of a lease for land, as executrix under the will of a former husband, and when she was a feme sole. Darden v. Neuse, etc., Steamboat Co., 107 N. C. 437, 12 S. E. 46.

Action for Damages for Breach.—A married woman may be held in damages for the breach of her contract in the lease of her separate lands for more than three years, though her husband has not joined therein or given his written consent thereto. Miles v. Walker, 179 N. C. 479, 102 S. E. 884. The opinion in this case draws the distinction between suits for specific performance on the leases mentioned in this section and actions for damages on same. Ed. Note.

§ 2510. Husband cannot convey, etc., wife's land without her consent; not liable for his debts.—No real estate belonging at the time of marriage to females, married since the third Monday of November, one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, nor any real estate by them subsequently acquired, nor any real estate acquired on and since the first day of March, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, by femes covert, who were such on the said third Monday of November, one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight, shall be subject to be sold or leased by the husband for the term of his own life or any less term of years, except by and with the consent of his wife first had and obtained, to be ascertained and effectuated by deed and privy examination, according to the rules required by law for the sale of lands belonging to femes covert. And no interest of the husband whatever in such real estate shall be subject to sale to satisfy any execution obtained against him; and every such sale is hereby declared null and void. (Rev., s. 2097; Code, s. 1840; R. C., c. 56; 1848, c. 41.)

See 8 N. C. Law Rev. 478.

Formerly Husband Could Lease and Convey.—At common law the husband, upon the marriage, was seized in right of his wife of a freehold interest in her lands during their joint lives. After the birth of issue he was seized of an estate in his own right, called tenancy by the curtesy initiate. Coke Lit., 67 A. This estate, if he survived his wife, was called tenancy by the curtesy consummate, and insured to his benefit for life. Either as tenant by marital right or as tenant by curtesy initiate, the husband was entitled to the rents and profits and might lease or convey his estate, and it might be sold under execution against him. Taylor v. Taylor, 112 N. C. 134, 135, 16 S. E. 1019.

Former Right to Rents and Profits. — Where a man was married, and the land was acquired by his wife before the adoption of the Constitution of 1868, and the act called the "Marriage Act," he was a tenant by the curtesy initiate, notwithstanding the Act of 1848. Houston v. Brown, 52 N. C. 161. If he was the tenant by the curtesy initiate, he was necessarily entitled to the possession. Wilson v. Arentz, 70 N. C. 670. And if entitled to the possession, he had a right to the permanency of the rents and profits, etc. Morris v. Morris, 94 N. C. 613, 618.

In General.—This section expressly provides that a husband shall not have power to dispose of his wife's land for his own life or any less term of years without her assent, nor can the same be subject to sale to satisfy any execution obtained against him. Bruce v. Nicholson, 109 N. C. 202, 206, 13 S. E. 790.

Purpose and Effect of Section.—Neither this section nor the Constitution of 1868 abolished tenancy by the curtesy initiate, but since the passage of this section such tenancy confers no right which the husband can assert against the wife as respects her real estate acquired after that act took effect—the intention and effect of the act being to provide for the wife a home which she can not be deprived of either by her husband or his creditors. Taylor v. Taylor, 112 N. C. 134, 16 S. E. 1019.

Same—Tenancy by Curtesy Limited.—It has been decided that neither this section nor the Constitution of 1868 destroyed such tenancy, although the husband was stripped almost entirely of his common law rights therein during the coverture. Walker v. Long, 109 N. C. 510, 14 S. E. 299; Taylor v. Taylor, 112 N. C. 134, 137, 16 S. E. 1019.

The tenancy by the curtesy initiate is stripped of its common law attributes till there only remains the husband's bare right of occupancy with his wife, with the right of ingress and egress (Manning v. Manning, 79 N. C. 293), and the right to the curtesy consummate contingent upon his surviving her. * * * The husband is still seized in law of the realty of his wife, shorn of the right to take the rents and of the power to lease her lands. * * * He has by the curtesy initiate, a freehold interest, but not an estate in the property. Taylor v. Taylor, 112 N. C. 134, 137, 16 S. E. 1019. See Walker v. Long, 109 N. C. 510, 14 S. E. 299.

Vested Rights Not Impaired.—By this section the husband's vested rights as tenant by the curtesy initiate to the rents and profits were not impaired. Cobb v. Rasberry, 116 N. C. 137, 21 S. E. 176.

Same—Sufficient Complaint.—A complaint by a husband which states that he was married to his wife in 1841, that he had by her several living children, and that she acquired the land in question by a deed executed to her in 1864, is sufficient to show his title as tenant by the courtesy initiate of the land. Wilson v. Arentz, 70 N. C. 670. And where this curtesy exists the fact that this section deprives the husband of the power to lease the land without the consent of his wife, will not prevent his recovery of the land by an action without joining his wife as a party. Wilson v. Arentz, 70 N. C. 670.

Curtesy Consummate Can Be Sold.—A tenant by the curtesy consummate may sell his estate, notwithstanding this section. Long v. Graeber, 64 N. C. 431.

Lease Not Complying with Section Is Void.—A written lease of land for a term of five years, made subsequent to the passage of this section without the privy examination of the wife, is void as to the wife and passes no interest to the husband in the rents and profits thereof. Richardson v. Richardson, 150 N. C. 549, 64 S. E. 510.

Who Can Sue to Recover Possession.—A tenant, by the curtesy initiate, could have sued alone for and recovered possession of the lands and the rents and profits, in this State, before the adoption of the present constitution. Walker v. Long, 109 N. C. 510, 511, 14 S. E. 299. But since the passage of the section the husband cannot maintain an action in his name alone to recover lands of which he is tenant by the curtesy initiate, but the wife can maintain such action, either by joining her husband or suing alone. Walker v. Long, 109 N. C. 510, 14 S. E. 299; Thompson v. Wiggins, 109 N. C. 508, 14 S. E. 301.

Same—Where Husband Conveys Land to Wife.—A conveyance of land from husband to wife will pass the legal estate of the vendor and enable the vendee to sustain an action to declare title and recover possession. Walker v. Long, 109 N. C. 510, 14 S. E. 299.

Statute of Limitations Not Applicable.—A tenant by the curtesy initiate has not such estate in the land of his wife that will put in operation the statute of limitations against either the husband or wife in favor of one claiming title by adverse possession. Jones v. Coffey, 109 N. C. 515, 14 S. E. 84.

Husband Can Surrender Curtesy.—Since the section was enacted a husband has the right to surrender his estate as tenant by the curtesy initiate and let it merge in the reversion of his wife, who, with the assent of her husband may sell the same and receive the whole of the purchase money. Teague v. Downs, 69 N. C. 280.

Land Purchased with Wife's Money.—Where land is purchased by a husband with his wife's money, the proceeds of the sale of her real estate, and title is taken to the husband alone, a resulting trust is created in favor of the wife, and a purchaser from the husband with notice stands affected by the same trust. Lyon v. Akin, 78 N. C. 258.

§ 2511. Capacity to make will.—Every married woman has power to devise and bequeath her real and personal estate as if she were a feme sole; and her will shall be proved as is required of other wills. (Rev., s. 2098; Code, s. 1839; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 31.)

May Defeat Curtesy by Will.—Since the Constitution of 1868 a married woman may by will deprive her husband of curtesy in her separate estate. Hallyburton v. Slagle, 132 N. C. 947, 44 S. E. 655; Freeman v. Lide, 176 N. C. 434, 97 S. E. 402; Tiddy v. Graves, 126 N. C. 620, 36 S. E. 127. And she can so devise her separate estate whether the trust is active or passive. Freeman v. Lide, supra.

§ 2512. May insure husband's life.—Any feme covert in her own name, or in the name of a trustee with his assent, may cause to be insured for any definite time the life of her husband, for her sole and separate use, and she may dispose of the interest in the same by will, notwithstanding her coverture. (Rev., s. 2099.)

Editor's Note.—In the concurring opinion in Patterson v. Franklin, 168 N. C. 75, 79, 84 S. E. 18, Clark, C. J. states that this section was passed as a result of the decision in Price v. Charlotte Electric Co., 160 N. C. 450, 76 S. E. 502. The same is mentioned in Kirkpatrick v. Crutchfield, 178 N. C. 348, 352, 100 S. E. 602.

Former Provisions.—The law formerly prevailing allowed the husband the earnings of his wife and the proceeds of her labor but the husband could confer upon the wife the right to her earnings, upon which they became her separate estate, giving her a right of action to recover them in her own name. Patterson v. Franklin, 168 N. C. 75, 84 S. E. 18.

In General.—This section and section 454 give to a married woman the fullest and most untrammeled power to bring actions even against her husband and in all cases whatever. Crowell v. Crowell, 180 N. C. 516, 105 S. E. 206; In re Will of Witherington, 186 N. C. 162, 153, 119 S. E. 11. And her right to sue her husband extends to tort actions. Crowell v. Crowell, 181 N. C. 66, 106 S. E. 149.

Recovery for Loss of Consortium.—It is now well settled in practically every jurisdiction that the wife has a right to the consortium of her husband and can recover when there has been an intentional and direct invasion or breach of the marital relations. Brown v. Brown, 124 N. C. 19, 32 S. E. 320. In every case, however, the recovery was allowed only where there was an intentional invasion. The right of the wife to recover in North Carolina for a direct and intentional invasion is clearly settled. Id. 3 N. C. Law Rev. 100.

Effect on Rights of Husband.—By virtue of the statutes giving married women separate property rights and the right to sue for injuries, the husband is deprived of his former rights in her property and choses in action. Hinnant v. Tidewater Power Co., 189 N. C. 120, 126 S. E. 307.

Joinder of Husband Unnecessary.—Since the passage of this section a married woman may sue without joining her husband to recover damages she has sustained by reason of a personal injury wrongfully inflicted. Kirkpatrick v. Crutchfield, 178 N. C. 348, 100 S. E. 602.

Same—Not Improper.—While the husband is not a necessary party to his wife's action to recover for the value of her services rendered upon a quantum meruit, under this section, his joinder therein as a party plaintiff is not improper; and where he has alleged an independent cause of action upon a quantum meruit, the Supreme Court, on appeal, in the exercise of its discretion, may remand the cause with direction that the allegations of the complaint as to the statement of the husband's cause to be stricken out and the action of the wife proceeded with. Shore v. Holt, 185 N. C. 312, 117 S. E. 165.

Action against Seducer.—Under the provisions of this section, a married woman who has been seduced may, in proper instances, maintain her action for damages against her seducer without joinder of her husband as a party. Hyatt v. McCoy, 194 N. C. 25, 138 S. E. 405.

Action of Wife for Tort to Husband.—In Hipp v. Dupont, 182 N. C. 9, 13, 108 S. E. 318, the court said: "It follows therefore (from this section) that the husband cannot sue to recover his wife's earnings, or damages for tort committed on her and there is no reason why she can sue for tort or injuries inflicted on her husband. The law has never authorized the wife to maintain such action for torts sustained by the husband."

Husband and Wife Employed Together.—Since the passage of the Martin Act, section 2507 and this section the separate earnings of a married woman belong to her, and she may sue and recover them alone; and where the evidence tends only to establish the fact that the employer was to pay a husband and wife each a certain and different amount for services, the husband may not recover the whole upon the theory that the amount he was to receive was augmented by what she was to receive for her separate services. Croom v. Goldsboro Lumber Co., 182 N. C. 217, 108 S. E. 735.

Services Rendered to Husband.—For wife to recover for services rendered to her husband in his business, or outside of her domestic duties, while living together under the marital relation, there must be either an express or an implied promise on his part to pay for them; and the relationship of marriage, nothing else appearing, negatives an implied promise on his part to do so. Dorsett v. Dorsett, 183 N. C. 354, 111 S. E. 541.

Cited in Earle v. Earle, 198 N. C. 411, 151 S. E. 884.

§ 2514. Savings from separate property; liability of husband for income.—The savings from the income of the separate estate of the wife are her separate property. But no husband who, during the coverture (the wife not being a free trader under this chapter), has received, without objection from his wife, the income of her separate estate, shall be liable to account for such receipt for any greater time than the year next preceding the date of a summons issued against him in an action for such income, or next preceding her death. (Rev., s. 2100; Code, s. 1837; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 29.)

Wife Entitled to Income.—A wife is entitled, under this section, to recover and hold to her own use her separate property, and also the income derived from it. And agents appointed by her, whether before or after marriage, must account with and pay to her what they have received, either before or after marriage. Manning v. Manning, 79 N. C. 293, 300; State v. Lanier, 89 N. C. 517, 521.

An instruction that if the husband bought bonds with money derived from crops grown on his wife's lands the bonds would belong to the wife in the absence of evidence that he had rented the lands from his wife is not reversible error, there being evidence that the wife had repeatedly claimed title to the bonds, and there being no evidence that the husband had bought the bonds except that they were thereafter in his possession. Dail v. Heath, 206 N. C. 453, 174 S. E. 318.

Husband Acquires No Property Rights.—The exclusive receipt by the husband of the income of the wife, even during the entire period of the coverture, does not confer upon him any rights in her property, nor take away his liability to account for its income for at least twelve months preceding a demand. Wells v. Batts, 112 N. C. 283, 288, 17 S. E. 417.

Husband Liable When Agent.—A husband who, without objection by the wife, receives the income from her separate estate is liable only for the receipts for one year preceding the action brought to recover such receipts, although they were received as agent. Faircloth v. Borden, 130 N. C. 263, 41 S. E. 381.

Effect of Agreement to Pay Rent.—The agreement of the husband to pay rent precludes the possibility of assent, and implies objection on the part of the wife to her husband applying the rents to his own use, and such agreement removes the restriction, as to husband's liability to account for rents, imposed by this section. Battle v. Mayo, 102 N. C. 413, 9 S. E. 384.

Evidence of Surrender Must Be Positive.—Evidence of the surrender of the rights of the wife to the husband during their joint occupancy of land must be positive and unequivocal in order to confer proprietary control upon him. Wells v. Batts, 112 N. C. 283, 17 S. E. 417. And mere silence on the part of the wife is insufficient. See Branch v. Ward, 114 N. C. 148, 19 S. E. 104.

§ 2515. Contracts of wife with husband affecting corpus or income of estate.—No contract between a husband and wife made during coverture shall be valid to affect or change any part of the real estate of the wife, or the accruing income thereof for a longer time than three years next ensuing the making of such contract, or to impair or change the body or capital of the personal estate of the wife, or the accruing income thereof, for a longer time than three years next ensuing the making of such contract, unless such contract is in writing, and is duly proved as is required for conveyances of land; and upon the examination of the wife separate and apart from her husband, as is now or may hereafter be required by law in the probate of deeds of femes covert, it shall appear to the satisfaction of such officer that the wife freely executed such contract, and freely consented thereto at the time of her separate examination, and that the same is not unreasonable or injurious to her. The certificate of the officer shall state his conclusions, and shall be conclusive of the facts therein stated. But the same may be impeached for fraud as other judgments may be. (Rev., s. 2107; Code, s. 1835; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 27.)

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's Note.—All transactions of the wife with her husband in regard to her separate property were held void at common law. Sims v. Ray, 96 N. C. 87, 2 S. E. 443. This was because at common law the husband and wife were deemed one person, and it was necessary to convey to a third person, as a conduit, in order to pass the title to property from one to the other. Sydnor v. Boyd, 119 N. C. 481, 485, 25 S. E. 92.

Section Passed to Protect Wife.—This section was passed to protect the wife from the influence and control which the husband is presumed to have over her by reason of the marital relation. Sims v. Ray, 96 N. C. 87, 89, 2 S. E. 443. The law presumes that contracts between husband and wife affecting her real estate are executed under the influence and coercion of the husband, and to rebut this presumption and render the contract valid, an officer of the law must examine the contract, and be satisfied that she is doing what is reasonable and not hurtful to her, and so certify, and we do not think it was the purpose of the Legislature to abrogate these requirements. Kearney v. Vann, 154 N. C. 311, 319, 70 S. E. 747; Caldwell v. Blount, 193 N. C. 560, 562, 137 S. E. 578.

The purpose of this section was to prevent frauds by the husband upon the wife, and to give validity to transactions, invalid at common law, between husband and wife, of the nature described, provided they are executed with the prescribed formality. Sims v. Ray, 96 N. C. 87, 2 S. E. 433; Long v. Rankin, 108 N. C. 338, 12 S. E. 987; Stout v. Perry, 152 N. C. 312, 313, 67 S. E. 757.

Section Constitutional.—This section has been held to be constitutional and valid in Sims v. Ray, 96 N. C. 87, 2 S. E. 443; Long v. Rankin, 108 N. C. 338, 12 S. E. 987; Kearney v. Vann, 154 N. C. 311, 319, 70 S. E. 747; Butler v. Butler, 169 N. C. 584, 586, 86 S. E. 507.

Strict Construction.—This section is an enabling statute and must be strictly construed. Caldwell v. Blount, 193 N. C. 560, 137 S. E. 578.

It is necessary that it should affirmatively appear that the provisions of this section have been strictly complied with. Sims v. Ray, 96 N. C. 87, 2 S. E. 443; Butler v. Butler, 169 N. C. 584, 586, 86 S. E. 507.

Same—Requirements Necessary.—No deed from a wife to her husband, conveying her land to him, is valid, unless the officer who certifies that he privately examined the wife, as required by statute, shall also state in his certificate his conclusions that said deed is not unreasonable or injurious to her. The statute requires that both conclusions, to-wit, that the deed is reasonable and not hurtful or injurious to the wife, shall be stated by the officer in his certificate attached or annexed to the deed. Caldwell v. Blount, 193 N. C. 560, 563, 137 S. E. 578.

Section 3351 Not Applicable.—Section 3351 does not affect this section, requiring the additional certificate in the deed of the wife of her separate realty to her husband. Foster v. Williams, 182 N. C. 632, 109 S. E. 834.

II. TRANSACTIONS INCLUDED.

Parol Transfer for Less Than Three Years Valid.—A wife can upon a fair consideration give land by parol to the husband for a period less than three years under this section. Wells v. Batts, 112 N. C. 283, 289, 17 S. E. 417.

Section Applies to Contracts Only.—An examination of this section shows that it applies solely to contracts and not to conveyances; indeed, the word "contract" is used five times. The object of the Legislature was clearly to prevent the wife from making any contract with her husband whereby she should incur a liability against her estate which in the future might prove a burden or charge upon it, or cause a change or impairment of her income or personalty. Rea v. Rea, 156 N. C. 529, 531, 72 S. E. 573, 873.

If this section extended to conveyances, it would be a violation of that provision of the Constitution by adding the requirement that some third party, a magistrate or other official, must give his wise approval before she can do what the Constitution guarantees that she may do "with the approval of her husband." Concurring opinion Clark, C. J. in Frisbee v. Cole, 179 N. C. 469, 475, 102 S. E. 890.

Same—Personalty.—As to conveyances of personalty there is no restriction whatever upon the right of a wife to dispose of her personalty as fully and as freely as if she had remained unmarried. Vann v. Edwards, 135 N. C. 661, 47 S. E. 784; Deese v. Deese, 176 N. C. 527, 528, 97 S. E. 475.

Same—Conveyance in Trust is an Exception.—This section however applies to conveyances by the wife of her land in trust to another for her husband. Best v. Utley, 189 N. C. 356, 361, 127 S. E. 337; Davis v. Bass, 188 N. C. 200, 124 S. E. 566; Garner v. Horner, 191 N. C. 539, 540, 132 S. E. 290.

Notes Payable to Husband and Wife Jointly.—Where the wife has conveyed her lands with her husband's written consent, and with the consent of all parties, takes a mortgage back on the same day and as a part of the same transaction to secure notes given in part payment of the purchase price, payable to herself and husband jointly, it is not evidence that she made him an unqualified gift, either of the notes or a half thereof, and they remain her property as fully as the land for which consideration alone they were given; and the transaction comes within the express letter as well as the spirit of this section. Kilpatrick v. Kilpatrick, 176 N. C. 182, 96 S. E. 988.

Conveyance by Entirety.—When land is purchased by the wife with money belonging to her separate estate, with conveyance to the husband and wife by entirety, it is not a gift by the wife to her husband, of her personal property and though thus conveyed at her request creates a resulting trust in the lands in her favor. Deese v. Deese, 176 N. C. 527, 97 S. E. 475.

Deeds of separation though not favored by law, are under certain circumstances recognized by this section and §§ 2516 and 2529, when signed in conformity thereto. Taylor v. Taylor, 197 N. C. 197, 148 S. E. 171. See also Brown v. Brown, 205 N. C. 64, 169 S. E. 818.

Consent Judgment Must Conform.—A consent judgment, that transfers the wife's title in her separate realty to her husband, must be in conformity with this section. Ellis v. Ellis, 193 N. C. 216, 136 S. E. 350.

Applicable to Wife's Interest in Estates by Entireties. — During the continuance of the joint lives of the husband and wife, who have acquired an estate by entireties, the wife's interest in the lands is such as is contemplated by this section and where the estate has been conveyed to one in trust for them both, and the officer in taking the acknowledgment of the wife has failed to make the certificate required by this section, requiring him, as a prerequisite to its validity, to certify, that the instrument was not unreasonable or injurious to her, the instrument itself is void, and he may not, by will or otherwise, dispose of her interest thereunder. Davis v. Bass, 188 N. C. 200, 124 S. E. 566.

Policy on Husband's Life Included.—An insurance policy on the life of her husband, payable to a married woman, being a vested interest, is embraced in the word "body" as used in this section, which requires all contracts between husband and wife affecting "the body or capital" of the latter's estate to be in writing and accompanied by the privy examination of the wife. Sydnor v. Boyd, 119 N. C. 481, 26 S. E. 92.

III. THE CERTIFICATE.

Certificate Must Be Annexed to Deed.—It has been uniformerly held that the deed of a wife, conveying land described therein to her husband, is void, unless there is attached or annexed to said deed the certificate of the probate officer as required by statute. Caldwell v. Blount, 193 N. C. 560, 562, 137 S. E. 578, and numerous cases cited.

Certificate Conclusively Presumed to Be True.—This section only requires that the officer taking the probate of a deed to lands from a wife to her husband shall state his conclusions that the contract or deed "is not unreasonable or injurious to her," and it will be conclusively presumed that it was upon sufficient evidence, and where the statutory requirements have been followed, the action of the officer taking the probate is not open to inquiry in a collateral attack in impeachment of it, except "for fraud, as other judgments may be" so attacked. Frisbee v. Cole, 179 N. C. 469, 102 S. E. 890.

Amendment of Defective Certificate.—Where the certificate required by this section is defective, it cannot be subsequently amended so as to render a deed valid, at least after the death of the wife. Best v. Utley, 189 N. C. 356, 127 S. E. 337.

Same—Evidence.—Where the defendants allege that certain of the requirements were observed by the officer but omitted by mistake from his certificate, testimony of the wife and the probate officer as to what transpired at the time is competent in rebuttal of the defendant's evidence, if he had introduced any, and immaterial if he did not do so. Anderson v. Anderson, 177 N. C. 401, 99 S. E. 106.

Evidence is not admissible to show that the facts stated in the certificate are not true. Best v. Utley, 189 N. C. 356, 127 N. C. 337.

Probate or Acknowledgment—Proof of Deed.—Where the husband joins with his wife in the execution of a deed to her lands, and it is certified that he had assented thereto at that time, the objection to the probate of the husband that it was taken after his wife's death is untenable, for the probate or acknowledgment is not the execution of the deed, but the proof thereof. Frisbee v. Cole, 179 N. C. 469, 102 S. E. 890.

Where a deed to lands from the wife to her husband has not been properly probated before her death under the provisions of this section, the probate may not thereafter be amended so as to make the conveyance a valid one which otherwise is void. Butler v. Butler, 169 N. C. 584, 86 S. E. 507.

IV. EFFECT OF NONCOMPLIANCE.

Noncompliance Renders Deed Void.—The failure on the part of the probate officer to observe the requirements of the statute renders a deed absolutely void. Davis v. Bass, 188 N. C. 200, 124 S. E. 566; Wallin v. Rice, 170 N. C. 417, 89 S. E. 239; Barbee v. Bumpass, 191 N. C. 521, 522, 132 S. E. 275; Best v. Utley, 189 N. C. 356, 361, 127 S. E. 337; Whitten v. Peace, 188 N. C. 298, 124 S. E. 571; Garner v. Horner, 191 N. C. 539, 540, 132 S. E. 290; Foster v. Williams, 182 N. C. 632, 109 S. E. 834.

Where the husband has conveyed to his wife his title to lands held by them by the entireties, and the wife thereafter conveys her title by deed to the husband and herself, which deed is not probated under the requirements of this section, with respect to the finding of the probate officer that the instrument was not unreasonable or injurious to her, the wife's conveyance is void in law, and does not operate as an estoppel by deed to her during her life or her heirs at law after her death. Capps v. Massey, 199 N. C. 196, 154 S. E. 52.

The failure of the certificate of a deed to lands from a wife to her husband to state that the conveyance was "not unreasonable or injurious to her" renders the instrument void. Farmers Bank v. McCullers, 201 N. C. 440, 160 S. E. 494.

Same—Partial Omission.—The deed of a wife to her husband, duly acknowledged and with private examination properly certified, was held invalid in Singleton v. Cherry, 168 N. C. 402, 84 S. E. 698, by the unanimous opinion of the court, because of the fact that the officer taking the probate failed to certify that the making of the deed was not unreasonable and not injurious to the wife. Butler v. Butler, 169 N. C. 584, 586, 86 S. E. 507.

Same—Oral Declarations Incompetent.—Oral declarations of the wife are incompetent to give validity to her deed to her husband of her separate realty, which is void for noncompliance with this section. Shermer v. Dobbins, 176 N. C. 547, 97 S. E. 510.

Under Void Deed Husband Takes Only Curtesy.—Where the husband has had children by the wife of her first marriage, and he has received an invalid deed from her of her separate lands, after her death he has only an estate for life therein as tenant by the curtesy, and under foreclosure sale under a mortgage given by himself and his second wife, only such life estate may be conveyed to the purchaser. Caldwell v. Blount, 193 N. C. 560, 137 S. E. 578.

Defective Paper Good as Color of Title.—A paper writing void for failure of compliance with this section is good as color of title. Best v. Utley, 189 N. C. 356, 127 S. E. 337; Whitten v. Peace, 188 N. C. 298, 124 S. E. 571.

Same—Title by Adverse Possession.—The possession of lands by the husband under a deed made to him by his wife, void for compliance with this section, is for the benefit of the wife, and during the continuance of the marriage relation during her life cannot be considered as adverse to her and vest title in him by sufficient adverse possession. Semble, after her death his possession would be adverse possession against heirs; and quaere as to whether it would be such before demand is made for possession. Kernegay v. Price, 178 N. C. 441, 100 S. E. 883. See Norwood v. Totten, 166 N. C. 648, 82 S. E. 951.

§ 2516. Contracts between husband and wife generally; releases.—Contracts between husband and wife not forbidden by the preceding section and not inconsistent with public policy are valid, and any persons of full age about to be married, and, subject to the preceding section, any married person, may release and quitclaim dower, tenancy by the curtesy, and all other rights which they might respectively acquire or may have acquired by marriage in the property of each other; and such releases may be pleaded in bar of any action or proceeding for the recovery of the rights and estates so released. (Rev., s. 2108; Code, s. 1836; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 28.)

See note under § 2515.

At the common law the husband and wife were regarded as so entirely one as to be incapable of either contracting with or suing one another, but in equity, it was always otherwise, and there, many of their contracts with each other were recognized and enforced. George v. High, 85 N. C. 99, 101.

What Contracts Included.—This section clearly refers throughout to contracts between the husband and the wife, and does not and was not intended to affect the contracts between the husband and the wife and third parties. Jackson v. Beard, 162 N. C. 105, 110, 78 S. E. 6.

Separation Agreement Valid.—A deed of separation executed by the husband and wife is not against our policy, when properly made in accordance with section 2515. Archbell v. Archbell, 158 N. C. 408, 74 S. E. 327. As to separation agreements, see Editor's note under section 2529.

Mutual Releases Do Not Bar Wife's Right to Alimony.—Mutual releases between husband and wife of their interests in the separate property of one another does not bar the wife from making application for temporary alimony and attorney's fee in a subsequent suit for divorce. Bailey v. Bailey, 127 N. C. 474, 37 S. E. 502.

Rent Notes Given Wife by Husband Valid.—Where a husband occupies his wife's land for nine years, during the whole of which period he received the rents therefrom, under an express agreement with his wife to account to her for such rents, and each year gave his wife a note for the rent, it was held that the notes constitute a valid indebtedness on the part of the husband to his wife. Battle v. Mayo, 120 N. C. 413, 9 S. E. 384.

Money Lent to Husband Recoverable.—In a suit brought by a wife against the administrator of her deceased husband for money "advanced and lent" to him during the coverture, where the marriage took place since the adoption of the Constitution of 1868, it was held that the contract between them was not inconsistent with public policy, and was, therefore, valid. George v. High, 85 N. C. 99.

§ 2517. Wife's antenuptial contracts and torts.—The liability of a feme sole for any debts owing, or contracts made or damages incurred by her before her marriage shall not be impaired or altered by such marriage. No man by marriage shall incur any liability for any debts owing, or contracts made, or for wrongs done by his wife before the marriage. (Rev., ss. 2101, 2106; Code, ss. 1822, 1823; 1871-2, c. 193, ss. 13, 14.)

Justice Has Jurisdiction.—A justice of the peace has jurisdiction of an action against a married woman to recover a debt contracted prior to her marriage. Hodges v. Hill, 105 N. C. 130, 10 S. E. 916; Neville v. Pope, 95 N. C. 346; Beville v. Cox, 109 N. C. 265, 13 S. E. 800. And the justice also has jurisdiction where the action is on a contract made or a wrong done by her before the marriage. Neville v. Pope, 95 N. C. 346, 348.

Wife May Appoint Husband as Agent.—A wife may appoint her husband to act as her agent to settle her antenuptial debts in the same manner as one sui juris may appoint an agent, and compliance with the requirements of section 2515 is not necessary. Stout v. Perry, 152 N. C. 312, 67 S. E. 757.

Where prior to their marriage the wife incurs liability for a negligent injury to the husband the subsequent marriage does not affect her liability. Shirley v. Ayers, 201 N. C. 51, 158 S. E. 840.

§ 2518. For wife's torts, husband not liable.—No husband shall be liable for damages accruing from any tort committed by his wife, or for any costs or fines incurred in any criminal proceeding against her. (Rev., s. 2105; Code, s. 1833; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 25; 1921, c. 102.)

Editor's Note.—The present section, abolishing the husband's liability for the torts of his wife was substituted for the former provision by ch. 102, Public Laws, 1921.

At common law the husband was liable for the tort of his wife, although committed without his knowledge or consent and in his absence, and although living separate at the time, on the ground that "as her legal existence was incorporated in that of her husband, she could not be sued alone, and if the husband was protected from responsibility the injured party would be without redress." Roberts v. Lisenbee, 86 N. C. 136. This principle was modified by the Act of 1871-2, (this section as it was formerly) so that the husband could only be held liable for torts committed while the husband was living with the wife. Young v. Newsome, 180 N. C. 315, 316, 104 S. E. 660. The case of Roberts v. Lisenbee, 86 N. C. 136, supra, gives a good discussion of the common law and statutory liability of the husband for the contracts and torts of the wife, by Ashe, J. The following cases were decided under the former provision.

Liability for Slander.—Under the former provisions of this section it has been held that "a husband is liable for slanderous words spoken by his wife in his absence and without his knowledge or consent." Presnell v. Moore, 120 N. C. 390, 27 S. E. 27; Young v. Newsome, 180 N. C. 315, 316, 104 S. E. 660.

Negligence of Clerk in Wife's Store.—The husband living with his wife is jointly liable with her for damages resulting from an injury received by a customer through the negligence of a clerk in her store, if she is liable therefor. Brittingham v. Stadiem, 151 N. C. 299, 66 S. E. 128.

Upon Death of Wife Action Abated.—Where husband and wife are jointly sued for the wrong of the wife and the wife die, the action abates. Roberts v. Lisenbee, 86 N. C. 136.

§ 2519. Estate by the curtesy.—Every man who has married or shall marry a woman, and by her has issue born alive, shall, after her death intestate as to the lands, tenements and hereditaments hereinafter mentioned, be entitled to an estate as tenant by the curtesy during his life, in all the lands, tenements and hereditaments whereof his said wife was beneficially seized in deed during the coverture, wherein the said issue was capable of inheriting, whether the said seizin was of a legal or of an equitable estate; except that when the wife has obtained a divorce a mensa et thoro, and is not living with her husband at her death, or when the husband has abandoned his wife, or has maliciously turned her out of doors, and they are not living together at her death; or if the husband has separated himself from his wife, and is living in adultery at her death, he shall not be tenant by the curtesy of her lands, tenements and hereditaments. (Rev., s. 2102; Code, s. 1838; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 30.)

As to husband's curtesy, see also the notes under section 2510.

This section retains curtesy in practically its common law form (certainly as to curtesy consummate), but the rights of the husband in his wife's property have been so cut down by the Constitution, by statutes, and by pronouncements of the court, that his estate by curtesy initiate is of little value. See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 273.

Actual Seizure Necessary at Common Law.—At the common law, it is essential that the wife, or the husband in the right of the wife, shall have seizin in deed—that is, actual seizin—actual possession of the estate, to entitle the husband as tenant by the curtesy. Nixon v. Williams, 95 N. C. 103, 104. By this section it makes no difference whether the seizin is of a legal or of an equitable nature. Ed. Note.

Common Law Curtesy Abolished.—The common law estate of the husband as tenant by the curtesy initiate in the lands of his wife was abolished by sec. 6, Art. X, of the Constitution, and now, by virtue of that provision and the statutes passed in pursuance thereof, while the husband has an interest, the right to enter upon and occupy the land with the wife, he has no estate therein until her death. Walker v. Long, 109 N. C. 510, 14 S. E. 299.

When Right Attaches.—After a child of the marriage has been born alive and capable of inheriting, the husband is tenant by curtesy initiate in his wife's lands, and as such has a valuable right. Jackson v. Beard, 162 N. C. 105, 78 S. E. 6.

Husband Has a Freehold Interest.—A husband has, by the curtesy initiate, a freehold interest, but not an estate, in the property. Thompson v. Wiggins, 109 N. C. 508, 510, 14 S. E. 301.

A Bare Right of Occupancy.—The only right attaching to tenancy by the curtesy initiate in the wife's real estate is the bare right of joint occupancy with the wife with the right of ingress and egress. Thompson v. Wiggins, 109 N. C. 508, 14 S. E. 301.

Curtesy Consummate Is Not Changed.—Tenancy by the curtesy consummate, remains as at common law. The husband may sell such interest, Long v. Graeber, 64 N. C. 431. And it is liable to sale under execution against him after his wife's death. McCaskill v. McCormac, 99 N. C. 548, 6 S. E. 423; Thompson v. Wiggins, 109 N. C. 508, 509, 14 S. E. 301.

Husband a Necessary Party.—A husband, tenant by curtesy, has an interest in his wife's land and is a necessary party to a suit concerning it. Jackson v. Beard, 162 N. C. 105, 110, 78 S. E. 6; McGlennery v. Miller, 90 N. C. 215.

Joinder of Minor Husband.—When the husband, being a minor, joins in the deed to lands of his wife, the conveyance is voidable, subject to his affirmance or ratification when he becomes of age; and where the deed has been disapproved in apt time by him, the conveyance, requiring his valid or statutory consent, is void. Jackson v. Beard, 162 N. C. 105, 78 S. E. 6.

Effect of Divorce a Mensa.—Where a wife has obtained a divorce a mensa et thoro, whatever rights the husband had in her lands are suspended until a reconciliation shall be effected, or until by her death he may become tenant by the curtesy consummate, and therefore she is entitled to recover from him the possession and use of her lands. Taylor v. Taylor, 112 N. C. 134, 16 S. E. 1019.

§ 2520. In actions against wife, husband served and may defend.—In all actions brought against a married woman, who is not a free trader (as hereinafter provided for), the summons shall be served upon the husband also, and on motion to the court in which the action is pending, he may be allowed, with her consent, to defend the same in her name and behalf, but no judgment shall be given against him upon any liability claimed against her arising before the marriage or upon any contract made by her alone after her marriage. (Rev., s. 2103; Code, s. 1824; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 15.)

As to when married woman may sue or be sued alone, see section 454.

Since Martin Act Married Woman Can Sue or Be Sued Alone.—In conferring on married women the absolute freedom of contract the right carries with it the privilege and liability of suing and being sued alone. Patterson v. Franklin, 168 N. C. 75, 84 S. E. 18; Lipinsky v. Revell, 167 N. C. 508, 83 S. E. 820; Royal v. Southerland, 168 N. C. 405, 407, 84 S. E. 708.

Where a married woman is sued alone upon her executory contract, her husband is not a necessary party. Lipinsky v. Revell, 167 N. C. 508, 83 S. E. 820.

Effect of Acceptance of Service.—The acceptance of service of summons by a married woman gives the court jurisdiction of the person, and authorizes further proceedings according to the course and practice of the court. Nicholson v. Cox, 83 N. C. 44.

Under Section 454 No Judgment against Husband.—No judgment can be rendered against a husband who is joined with his wife in an action under section 454. Harvey v. Johnson, 133 N. C. 352, 45 S. E. 644.

Failure of Husband to Make Proper Defense.—Where a feme covert is sued with her husband, whom she instructed to make a proper defense to the action, which he fails to do, is no ground for an injunction to restrain the collection of the judgment in the absence of fraud. Neville v. Pope, 95 N. C. 346.

Where husband and wife are sued together on their joint obligation, it is the duty of the husband to defend for both, and to set up the wife's inability in a proper case; and if he fail to do so, the wife can not have the judgment against her set aside on the ground of her incompetency to contract. Vick v. Pope, 81 N. C. 22.

Where a feme covert, sued with her husband and others as surety to an official bond, accepts service of the summons at the husband's instance, relying upon him to employ counsel and defend the suit, and because of such reliance on her husband takes no steps in the matter personally, and judgment goes by default, a case or surprise and excusable neglect is presented which entitles her to have such judgment set aside. Nicholson v. Cox, 83 N. C. 48.

Where Husband Selects Counsel.—A judgment against a married woman, appearing in the suit by counsel of her husband's selection, is as binding as one against any other person, unless it be obtained by the fraudulent combination of the husband with the adverse litigant. Vick v. Pope, 81 N. C. 22.

Power of Attorney Need Not Be Registered.—A power of attorney, given by a married woman to dismiss an action concerning her land, need not be registered to give it validity. Hollingsworth v. Harman, 83 N. C. 153.

§ 2521. Discharge of husband from defense; liability for costs.—When a husband is allowed to defend for his wife, he may be ordered to pay costs for any misconduct, and may be discharged from the conduct of her defense, if it shall appear to the court that his defense is not bona fide in her interest. (Rev., s. 2104; Code, s. 1825; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 16.)

Art. 2. Acts Barring Reciprocal Property Rights of Husband and Wife.

§ 2522. Divorce a vinculo and felonious slaying a bar.—When a marriage is dissolved a vinculo, the parties respectively, or when either party is convicted of the felonious slaying of the other or of being accessory before the fact of such felonious slaying, the party so convicted, shall thereby lose all his or her right to an estate by the curtesy, or dower, and all right to any year's provision or distributive share in the personal property of the other, and all right to administer on the estate of the other, and every right and estate in the real or personal estate of the other party, which by settlement before or after marriage was settled upon such party in consideration of the marriage only. (Rev., s. 2109; Code, s. 1843; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 42.)

Editor's Note.—In the case of Owens v. Owens, 100 N. C.

240, 6 S. E. 794, a wife who murdered her husband was held to be entitled to her right of dower irrespective of her crime. The Legislature the following year adopted this section.

It is questionable whether an estate by the entirety is included in this statute. Conceding that it is not, a just result can be reached by the application of the recognized principle of equity that where one acquires title to property under circumstances which renders it unconscionable that he retain the beneficial interest, a constructive trust will be declared in favor of those entitled to the benefit and enjoyment. 5 N. C. Law Rev. 374.

No Application to Estates by Entireties.—This and the following section deal with the rights of husband and wife growing out of the marriage relation, such as dower, curtesy, and the like, and has no application to estate by entireties. McKinnon, etc., Co. v. Caulk, 167 N. C. 411, 83 S. E. 559.

In Bryant v. Bryant, 193 N. C. 372, 137 S. E. 188, it was held that where husband and wife hold estate by entireties, and the husband has murdered the wife, and her expectancy of life has been legally determined to have been longer than his own, equity will decree that he hold the legal title to lands held by them in entireties in trust for her heirs at law until his death, subject to his right of management and the use of the rents and profits for his own life. As this decision was based upon equitable principles, it was not necessary to determine whether the provision of this section, in reference to the felonious slaying of the husband or wife, which was enacted after the decision in Owens v. Owens, 100 N. C. 240, 6 S. E. 954, embraces estates held by entireties.

Husband's Rights Terminated by Divorce. — Personal choses in action which belong to the wife, reduced into possession by the husband, in the words of a recent author, "remain his, but as to rights dependent on marriage, and not actually vested, a full divorce or the legal annihilation ends them." Schouler's Dom. Rel., section 221, and authorities cited in the notes; Arrington v. Arrington, 102 N. C. 491, 514, 9 S. E. 200.

Effect of Valid Foreign Divorce.—Where a wife who had resided here, bona fide removed to Illinois, and instituted an action for divorce in one of the courts of that state and the husband, in this State appeared by attorney and defended the action there, it was held that he was bound by a decree for divorce on a verdict rendered in that action, and that his property rights in her estate here were terminated from its date. Arrington v. Arrington, 102 N. C. 491, 9 S. E. 200.

When a spouse is beneficiary, the effect of a subsequent divorce on his right to take might be controlled by this section. See 12 N. C. Law Rev., 376.

When Homicide Is Admitted.—The provisions of this section do not require a conviction of the offense where it is admitted that the homicide had been committed. Parker v. Potter, 200 N. C. 348, 349, 157 S. E. 68.

§ 2523. Wife's elopement or divorce a mensa at husband's suit a bar.—If a married woman elopes with an adulterer, or willfully an without just cause abandons her husband and refuses to live with him, and is not living with her husband at his death, or if a divorce from bed and board is granted on the application of the husband, she shall thereby lose all right to dower in the lands and tenements of her husband, and also all right to a year's provision, and to a distributive share from the personal property of her husband, and all right to administration on his estate, and also all right and estate in the property of her husband, settled upon her upon the sole consideration of the marriage, before or after marriage; and such elopement may be pleaded in bar of any action, or proceeding, for the recovery of such rights and estates; and in case of such elopement, abandonment, or divorce, the husband may sell and convey his real estate as if he were unmarried, and the wife shall thereafter be barred of all claim and right of dower therein. (Rev., s. 2110; Code, s. 1844; 1893, c. 153, ss. 1, 2, 3; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 44.)

Wife Deprived of Dower.—A wife who commits adultery and is not living with her husband at the time of his death is thereby deprived of her dower. Phillips v. Wiseman, 131 N. C. 402, 42 S. E. 861.

§ 2524. Husband's living in adultery, etc., or divorce a mensa at wife's suit a bar.—If a husband separates from his wife and lives in adultery, or willfully and without just cause abandons his wife and refuses to live with her, and such conduct on his part is not condoned by her, or if a divorce from bed and board is granted on the application of the wife, he shall thereby lose all right to curtesy in the real property of the wife, and also all right and estate of whatever character in and to her personal property, as administrator, or otherwise; and also any right and estate in the property of the wife which may have been settled upon him solely in consideration of the marriage by any settlement before or after marriage, and in case of such adultery and abandonment or divorce, the wife may sell and convey her real property as if she were unmarried, and the husband, if there has been no condonation at the time of the conveyance, shall thereafter be barred of all claim and right to curtesy in such real property. (Rev., s. 2111; Code, s. 1845; 1893, c. 153, s. 4; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 45.)

Possibility of Condonation Recognized.—This section recognizes the possibilites of condonation and the resumption of the marriage relation. Joyner v. Joyner, 151 N. C. 181, 183, 65 S. E. 896.

Art. 3. Free Traders.

§ 2525. Requisites of writing to make her free trader.— Every married woman of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, with the consent of her husband, may become a free trader in the manner following:

1. By antenuptial contract, proved and registered, as hereinafter required; or,

2. By her and her husband signing a writing in the following or some equivalent form:

A. B., of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, wife of C. D., of ..... county, with his consent, testified by his signature hereto, enters herself as a free trader from the date of the registration hereof.

(Signed)

A. B.
C. D.

Witness: E. F.

Registered this ..... day of ....., 19....

The said writing may be proved by the subscribing witness or acknowledged by the parties before any officer authorized to take the probate of deeds, and shall be filed and registered in the office of the register of deeds for the county in which the woman proposes to have her principal or only place of business. (Rev., s. 2112; Code, s. 1827; 1871-2, c. 193, ss. 18, 19.)

Effect of Martin Act.—That the Martin Act practically constitutes a married woman a free trader, see under section 2507, analysis line, "Powers Conferred," catchline, "Practically Makes Free Traders."

Legislature Has Broad Powers.—In Hall v. Walker, 118 N. C. 377, 380, 24 S. E. 6, the court said: "There is no constitutional inhibition on the power of the Legislature to declare where and how the wife may become a free trader. Const., Art. X, sec. 6, was not intended to disable but to protect her." Lancaster v. Lancaster, 178 N. C. 22, 23, 100 S. E. 120.

Section for Benefit of Married Women.—This section was passed for the benefit of married women who wish to engage in business, in order to give them credit, and it was not intended for the benefit of their debtors. Wilkes v. Allen, 131 N. C. 279, 281, 42 S. E. 616.

Does Not Make Wife Free to Convey.—By becoming a registered free-trader, a married woman is not enabled to convey her real property, without joinder of her husband and without her privy examination. Council v. Pridgen, 153 N. C. 443, 449, 69 S. E. 404.

Compared with Section 2514.—By a proper construction of section 2514, where the wife is not a free trader, the husband's liability is limited, but where she is a free trader, his liability to account for her income received by him is unlimited except by the general law applicable to agents and other persons. Manning v. Manning, 79 N. C. 293, 300, 302.

§ 2526. Writing effective from registration. — From the time of the registration of the writing mentioned in the preceding section, the married woman therein mentioned shall be a free trader, and authorized to contract and deal as if she were a feme sole. (Rev., s. 2113; Code, s. 1828; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 20.)

Section Does Not Include Conveyance.—The words "free-trader," "contract" and "deal," refer to contracts and trades in some business enterprises, and are restricted under this section to the dealings of the wife as a free-trader with reference to her contracts in the pursuit of the business she is engaged in; and the word "deal," taken in its legal significance, does not enlarge this meaning so as to confer upon a married woman power to convey her real estate. Council v. Pridgen, 153 N. C. 443, 69 S. E. 404.

Justice Has Jurisdiction.—A justice of the peace has jurisdiction of an action against a married woman in regard to liabilities incurred by her while she is a free trader. Hodges v. Hill, 105 N. C. 130, 131, 10 S. E. 916; Neville v. Pope, 95 N. C. 346.

§ 2527. Certified copy as evidence.—A copy of such writing, duly proved and registered and certified by the register of the county in which the same is registered, is admissible in evidence as certified copies of registered deeds are or may be allowed to be. (Rev., s. 2114; Code, s. 1829; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 21.)

Evidence of Being Free Trader.—Where it is averred, and not denied, that a married woman is a free trader, and the judgment fastens no personal liability upon her it was held that she was bound by the judgment. Roseman v. Roseman, 127 N. C. 494, 497, 37 S. E. 518. In this case Montgomery, J. dissented holding that the only evidence competent to prove that a married woman is a free trader is the registered writing or a duly certified copy. Ed. Note.

§ 2528. Revocation by entry on record and publication.—The right of a married woman to act as a free trader may be ended at any time by an entry by her, or by her attorney, in the margin of the registration of the writing above mentioned, to the effect that from the date of such marginal entry she ceases so to act, and by publication to that effect weekly for three weeks in some newspaper published in the county in which she had her principal or only place of business, or if there is none so published, then in any other convenient newspaper. But such entry and publication shall not impair any liabilities incurred previously thereto, nor prevent such married woman from becoming liable afterwards to any person whom she may fraudulently induce to deal with her as a free trader. (Rev., s. 2115; Code, s. 1830; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 22.)

§ 2529. Separation by divorce or deed; husband non compos.—Every woman who is living separate from her husband, either under a judgment of divorce by a competent court or under a deed of separation executed by said husband and wife and registered in the county in which she resides, or whose husband has been declared an idiot or a lunatic, shall be deemed and held, from the docketing of such judgment, or from the registration of such deed, or from the date of such idiocy or lunacy and during its continuance, a free trader, and may convey her personal estate and her real estate without the assent of her husband. (Rev., s. 2116; Code, s. 1831; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 23; 1880, c. 35.)

See note under § 2515.

Editor's Note on Separation Agreements.—Separation deeds have been rare in this State, and, for a long period of time, they were declared absolutely void in North Carolina, as they were in England. This was the conclusion reached in Collins v. Collins, (1866) 62 N. C. 153. The decision was based upon the intention expressed in the Code to regard man and wife as one, upon the decisions of the English courts regarding the marital bond as inseparable, and upon the general grounds of public policy in preserving the marriage bond.

After the case of Collins v. Collins, supra, decided in 1866, and before the next case involving separation agreements, decided twenty years later, Sparks v. Sparks (1886) 94 N. C. 527, the legislature had enacted, in furtherance of the constitutional provisions guaranteeing married women's rights, this section.

In the Sparks case, supra, on page 532 the court says: "This section, passed in February, 1872, in furtherance of the constitutional provision, by which the property of the woman, on her marriage, is secured to her as separate estate, implies a possible legal separation of the parties, by voluntary agreements, and defines her condition and rights resulting therefrom."

Later in Smith v. King, (1890) 107 N. C. 273, 12 S. E. 57, the court states that separation deeds are not regarded with favor in North Carolina. In that case, the deed had been rescinded by a subsequent cohabitation, and therefore the court did not decide what the effect of that deed would have been, if not so rescinded. In a subsequent case, Cram v. Cram (1895) 116 N. C. 288, 21 S. E. 197, there is an intimation that separation deeds are not looked upon with favor.

The leading case in North Carolina, Archbell v. Archbell, 158 N. C. 408, 74 S. E. 327, was decided in 1912. Although the separation deed in that case was held to be void because of an invalid certificate of the probate officer, Justice Hoke said, that due to the "distinct recognition of deeds of this character . . . we are constrained to hold that public policy with us is no longer peremptory on this question, and that under certain conditions these deeds are not void as a matter of law."

From these decisions it clearly appears that separation deeds are valid "under certain conditions." In North Carolina, there is no direct decisions which would show these necessary "certain conditions." However there is general agreement as to requisites in practically all jurisdictions. As stated in the Archbell case, 158 N. C. 408, 74 S. E. 327, supra, these requisites are as follows: (1) That there must be a separation already existing or immediately to follow the execution of the deed; (2) that the separation deed must be made for an adequate reason, of such a kind that it is necessary for the health or happiness of one or the other; (3) that it must be reasonable and fair to the wife, considering the condition of the parties. In North Carolina, in addition, the separation deed must conform to the statutory requirements, concerning deeds between husband and wife. See 2 N. C. L. R. 193, 194.

Section Constitutional.—This section is a valid exercise of the legislative power. Lancaster v. Lancaster, 178 N. C. 22, 23, 100 S. E. 120.

When Husband's Assent Unnecessary.—The husband's assent cannot be required when either by reason of mental incapacity he is unable to give assent, or by his conduct in abandoning his wife or maliciously turning her out of doors he has practically emancipated her, for in both cases she must rely upon her property or her labor for her support. Lancaster v. Lancaster, 178 N. C. 22, 23, 100 S. E. 120.

This section has been referred to in a number of cases as an exception to the constitutional provision which requires the assent of the husband, though not directly construed. In these cases it is stated that the husband's assent to the conveyance of the realty is required "except in cases under secs. 2116 and 2117." Council v. Pridgen, 153 N. C. 443, 69 S. E. 404; Harvey v. Johnson, 133 N. C. 352, 45 S. E. 644; Sanderlin v. Sanderlin, 122 N. C. 1, 29 S. E. 55; Moore v. Wolfe, ib., 711, 715, 30 S. E. 120; Fathing v. Shields, 106 N. C. 289, 295, 10 S. E. 998; Hodges v. Hill, 105 N. C. 130, 10 S. E. 916; Flaum v. Wallace, 103 N. C. 296, 304, 9 S. E. 567; Sparks v. Sparks, 94 N. C. 527; Lancaster v. Lancaster, 178 N. C. 22, 23, 100 S. E. 120.

Declaration of Insanity Necessary.—In order for a wife to become a free trader because of insanity of her husband it is necessary that he shall be declared insane. Abbott v. Hancock, 123 N. C. 99, 102, 31 S. E. 268.

Section 2293 an Alternative Method.—Section 2293 is not in contradiction of this section, but is an optional alternative method to which the wife can resort if for any reason it should be desirable that in future the record of the deed should show that at the time of the conveyance the husband had been adjudged a lunatic. Lancaster v. Lancaster, 178 N. C. 22, 23, 100 S. E. 120.

§ 2530. Abandonment by husband.— Every woman whose husband abandons her, or maliciously turns her out of doors, shall be deemed a free trader, so far as to be competent to contract and be contracted with, and to bind her separate property, but the liability of her husband for her reasonable support shall not thereby be impaired. She may also convey her personal estate and her real estate without the assent of her husband. (Rev., s. 2117; Code, s. 1832; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 24.)

Section Constitutional.—This section was held constitutional in Hall v. Walker, 118 N. C. 377, 24 S. E. 6; Brown v. Brown, 121 N. C. 8, 27 S. E. 998, 38 L. R. A. 242; Finger v. Hunter, 130 N. C. 529, 531, 41 S. E. 890.

There is no constitutional inhibition on the Legislature to declare by statute when and how a wife may become a free trader, and notwithstanding the provisions of Article X, § 6, to the effect that a married woman may convey her separate realty with the written consent of her husband, the provision of this section is valid, and in such cases, § 2509, requiring the execution of her deed by her husband and her separate examination taken, does not apply. Keys v. Tuten, 199 N. C. 368, 154 S. E. 631.

When Husband an Alien.—In Troughton v. Hill, 3 N. C. 406, it was held that when the husband became an alien the wife became a feme sole for the purpose of contracting, and might acquire and transfer property. Hall v. Walker, 118 N. C. 377, 381, 24 S. E. 6.

An action to recover possession of land may be sustained against a married woman alone, whose husband is an alien, resides abroad, or has abandoned his wife. Finley v. Saunders, 98 N. C. 462, 4 S. E. 516.

Where Husband Fugitive from Justice.—In an action against a married woman where the husband is a nonresident and a fugitive from justice, the husband is not a necessary party. Heath, etc., Co. v. Morgan, 117 N. C. 504, 23 S. E. 489.

Departure from State Not Required.—This section does not require the departure of the husband from the State to enable the wife to use her property for her support. Vandiford v. Humphrey, 139 N. C. 65, 51 S. E. 893.

Abandonment Sufficient.—Abandonment of the wife by the husband is sufficient for her to execute a valid conveyance of her lands without his joinder. Bachelor v. Norris, 166 N. C. 506, 82 S. E. 839; Pardon v. Paschal, 142 N. C. 538, 55 S. E. 365.

Same—Tort Actions.—Under a reasonable construction of the Constitution and this section, a wife abandoned by her husband may maintain an action in tort, in her own name, against a third person. Brown v. Brown, 121 N. C. 8, 27 S. E. 998.

Same—Wife Need Not Wait Six Months.—Under this section a wife is not required to wait six months (the time required to elapse before entitling her to bring an action for divorce) before she is permitted to make contracts. Vandiford v. Humphrey, 139 N. C. 65, 51 S. E. 893.

Evidence of Abandonment to Be Submitted to Jury.—In order for a wife abandoned by her husband to become a free trader under this section, it is not necessary that the wife be abandoned for the statutory time necessary to constitute grounds for divorce, and where, in an action by her to set aside her deed executed without the written consent of her husband, the defense is set up that at the time of its execution she had been abandoned by her husband, and pleadings in her action for divorce alleging abandonment at the time are introduced in evidence, the issue of abandonment should be submitted to the jury even though abandonment was not an issue in the divorce proceedings, and the granting of a judgment on the pleadings in her favor is error. Keys v. Tuten, 199 N. C. 368, 154 S. E. 631.

CHAPTER 52.

MILLS.

Art. 1. Public Mills

Cited in Hyatt v. Myers, 73 N. C. 232, 240; Branch v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 77 N. C. 347, 349.

§ 2532. Miller to grind according to turn; tolls regulated.—All millers of public mills shall grind according to turn, and shall well and sufficiently grind the grain brought to their mills, if the water will permit, and shall take no more toll for grinding than one-eighth part of the indian corn and wheat and one-fourteenth part for chopping grain of any kind; and every miller and keeper of a mill making default therein shall, for each offense, forfeit and pay five dollars to the party injured: Provided, that the owner may grind his own grain at any time: Provided further that this shall not apply to Lenoir and Cleveland counties: Provided, further, that in Northampton and Franklin counties it shall be lawful for water mills to take for toll for grinding one-sixth of the indian corn and wheat, and one-twelfth part for chopping grain of any kind: Provided, further that this section shall not apply to Hertford, Bertie and Hyde counties. (Rev., s. 2120; Code, s. 1847; R. C., c. 71, s. 6; 1777, c. 122, s. 10; 1793, c. 402; 1905, c. 694; 1907, c. 367; 1929, cc. 129, 139; 1933, cc. 150, 158.)

Editor's Note.—The amendments of 1929 above cited added the last two provisos to this section. Public Laws 1929 ch. 311, applicable only to Pamlico and Robeson Counties, changed the maximum toll for grinding Indian corn from one-eighth to one-sixth.

Public Laws 1933, cc. 150, 158, exempted Cleveland, Hertford, Bertie and Hyde counties from the operation of this section. For act increasing the toll from one-eighth to one-sixth in Pender county, see P. L. 1933, c. 298.

§ 2533. Measures to be kept; tolls by weight or measure.—All millers shall keep in their mills the following measures, namely, a half-bushel and peck of full measure, and also proper toll-dishes for each measure; but the toll allowed by law may be taken by weight or measure at the option of the miller and customer. (Rev., s. 2121; Code, s. 1848; 1885, c. 202; R. C., c. 71, s. 7; 1777, c. 122, s. 11.)

§ 2534. Keeping false toll-dishes misdemeanor. —If any owner, by himself or servant, keeping any mill, shall keep any false toll-dishes, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3679; Code, s. 1848; R. C., c. 71, s. 7; 1777, c. 122, s. 11.)

"False Toll Dishes" Defined.—The words "false toll dish," as used in the statute, mean a toll dish measuring more than one-eighth of a half bushel. State v. Perry, 50 N. C. 252. The measure kept need not be averred in the indictment. Id.

Sufficiency of Evidence.—An indictment for keeping false toll dishes was sufficiently supported by proving measures of one-seventh and one-sixth of a half bushel were kept. State v. Perry, 50 N. C. 252.

But an indictment for keeping a false toll dish is not sustained by proof that the mill owner took one-sixth part of each half bushel with a half gallon toll dish. State v. Nixon, 50 N. C. 257.

Art. 2. Condemnation for Mill by Owner of One Bank of Stream

§ 2535. Special proceedings; parties; summons. —Any person wishing to build a water mill, who has land on only one side of a stream, shall issue a summons returnable to the superior court of the county in which the land sought to be condemned, or some part of it, lies, against the persons in possession and the owners of the land on the opposite side of the stream, and against such others as have an interest in the controversy, and the procedure shall be as is provided in other special proceedings, except so far as the same may be modified by this chapter. (Rev., s. 2122; Code, s. 1849; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 1.)

For full treatment of eminent domain proceedings, see §§ 1705 et seq.

Corporation That Erects Mills Generally.—The Legislature, in providing for the condemnation of land for the purpose of erecting mills thereon, classifies a corporation that erects mills generally as one of those private corporations which enjoys a prerogative franchise because of some powers or duties, which it is to perform for the public, and to that extent is quasi public. Bass v. Roanoke Nav., etc., Co., 111 N. C. 439, 454, 16 S. E. 402.

Withdrawal of Verbal Consent to Maintain Dam.—Where the plaintiff built a mill, and, with the verbal consent of the defendant, constructed a dam across a stream upon land of the latter; and after the mill had been in operation for several years, the defendant withdrew his consent to the further use of the land for this purpose, and notified the plaintiff to level the dam, which he failed to do; thereupon the defendant caused the obstruction to be removed. In an action by the plaintiff for damages, it was held that the plaintiff should have taken a conveyance of the easement, or pursued the remedy pointed out for the condemnation of land for mill purposes. Kivett v. McKeithan, 90 N. C. 106.

Cited in Benbow v. Robbins, 71 N. C. 338; Gwaltney v. Scottish Carolina Timber, etc., Co., 111 N. C. 547, 550, 564, 16 S. E. 692.

§ 2536. Commissioners to be appointed.—If no just cause is shown against the building of such mill, the court shall appoint three freeholders, one of whom shall be chosen by the plaintiff, another by the defendants, and the third by the court, or if the plaintiff or defendants refuse or fail, or unreasonably delay to name a commissioner, the court shall name one in lieu of such delinquent party. These commissioners may be changed from time to time by permission of the court for just cause shown. (Rev., s. 2123; Code, s. 1850; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 2.)

Right of Appeal.—Defendants have a right to appeal from an interlocutory order of the court appointing freeholders to view, lay off and value land for a mill site. Minor v. Harris, 61 N. C. 322.

§ 2537. Meeting to be appointed and commissioners notified; witnesses examined.—The third commissioner shall cause the other to be notified of the time and place of meeting, and shall preside at their meetings. They may, if necessary, summon and examine witnesses, who shall be sworn by the presiding commissioner. Any commissioner named by or for either of the parties who, without just cause, fails to attend any meeting notified by the president, shall forfeit and pay to the opposite party fifty dollars; and if the president, in like manner, unreasonably delays to notify the other commissioners of a meeting, or fails to attend one that is appointed, he shall forfeit and pay to the plaintiff fifty dollars, and to the defendant a like sum. (Rev., s. 2124; Code, s. 1851; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 3.)

§ 2538. Oath and duty of commissioners.—The commissioners shall be sworn by some officer qualified to administer an oath to act impartially between the parties, and to perform the duties herein imposed on them honestly and to the best of their ability. They shall view the premises where the mill is proposed to be built, and shall lay off and value a portion of the land of the plaintiff, not to exceed one acre in area, and an equal area of land of the defendants opposite thereto, and report their proceedings to the court within a reasonable time, not exceeding sixty days. (Rev., s. 2125; Code, s. 1852; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 4.)

§ 2539. Contents of commissioners' report. — The report of the commissioners shall set forth:

1. The location, quantities and value of the several areas laid off by them.

2. Whether either of them includes houses, gardens, orchards or other immediate conveniences.

3. Whether the proposed mill will overflow another mill or create a nuisance in the neighborhood.

4. Any other matter upon which they have been directed by the court to report, or which they may think necessary to the doing of full justice between the parties. (Rev., s. 2126; Code, s. 1853; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 5.)

§ 2540. When building not to be allowed.—If the area laid off on the land of either party take away houses, gardens, orchards, or other immediate conveniences; or if the mill proposed will overflow another mill, or will create a nuisance in the neighborhood, the court shall not allow the proposed mill to be built. (Rev., s. 2127; Code, s. 1854; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 6.)

See sec. 1714.

In General.—The court is forbidden to confirm a report which takes away houses, etc., even though erected before the proceedings are commenced. Burgess v. Clark, 35 N. C. 109.

Denial of Injunction.—An injunction will not be granted to restrain the erection of a dam when money damages will suffice. Burnett v. Nicholson, 72 N. C. 334.

§ 2541. Power of court on return of report. — If the report is in favor of building the proposed mill, and is confirmed, then the court may, in its discretion, allow either the plaintiff or defendant to erect such mill at the place proposed, and shall order the costs, and the value of the opposite area, to be paid by the party to whom such leave is granted; and upon such payment, the party to whom such leave is granted shall be vested with title in fee to the opposite area. Such payment may be made into court for the use of the parties entitled thereto. (Rev., s. 2128; Code, s. 1855; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 7.)

§ 2542. Time for beginning and building mill; to be kept up.— The person to whom leave is granted shall, within one year, begin to build such water mill, and shall finish the same within three years; and thereafter keep it up for the use and ease of its customers, or such as shall be customers, to it; otherwise, the said land shall return to the person from whom it was taken, or to such other person as shall have his right, unless the time for finishing the mill, for reasons approved by the court, be enlarged. (Rev., s. 2129; Code, s. 1856; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 8.)

§ 2543. Rebuilding mill after destruction.—If a water mill belonging to a married woman, or a minor, a person of unsound mind, or imprisoned, falls, burns, or is otherwise destroyed, such person and his heirs shall have three years to rebuild and repair the same, and any person under any disability aforesaid shall have three years from the removal of the disability. (Rev., s. 2130; Code, s. 1857; 1903, c. 74, ss. 1, 2; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 9.)

Art. 3. Condemnation for Races, Waterways, etc., by Owner of Mill or Millsite

§ 2544. Special proceedings; summons.— Any person who has land on one or both sides of a stream and wishes to build a water mill, or has a water-mill already built and may fine it necessary for the better operation of said mill or the building of the said mill to convey water either to or from his mill by ditch, waterway, drain, mill-race, or tail-race or in any other manner, over the lands of any other person, or erect a dam to pond said water over the lands of any other person, or raise any dam already built, may make application by petition in writing to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the said lands to be affected, or a greater part thereof, are situated, for the right to so convey the said water or pond the same by the erection of a dam or the raising of any dam already built; and the procedure shall be as in other special proceedings. (Rev., s. 2131; 1905, c. 534, s. 1a, k.)

§ 2545. Contents of petition. — The petition shall specify the lands to be affected, the name of the owner of said lands, and the character of the ditch, race, waterway or drain or pond intended to be made, and said owner or owners shall be made parties defendant. The petition shall state the distance desired to be condemned on each side of the ditch, waterway or drain to be constructed or erected, and not more than thirty feet from each bank can be condemned. (Rev., s. 2132; 1905, c. 534, s. 1b.)

§ 2546. Commissioners to be appointed. — Upon the hearing of the petition, if the prayer thereof be granted, the clerk shall appoint three disinterested persons qualified to act as jurors, and not connected either by blood or marriage with the parties, appraisers to assess the damage, if any, that will accrue to the said lands by the contemplated work, and shall issue a notice to them to meet upon the premises on a day specified, not to exceed ten days from the date of said notice. (Rev., s. 2133; 1905, c. 534, s. 1c.)

§ 2547. Oath and duty of commissioners.—The appraisers having met, shall take an oath before some officer qualified to administer oaths to faithfully perform their duty and to do impartial justice in the case, and shall then examine all the lands in any way to be affected by the said work and assess the damage thereto and make report thereof under their hands and seals to the clerk from whom the notice issued, who shall have power to confirm the same. (Rev., s. 2134; 1905, c. 534, s. 1d.)

§ 2549. When commissioners' report not to be affirmed.—If the area laid off on the lands of either party take away houses, gardens, orchards or immediate conveniences, or if the mill proposed or erected will overflow another mill of pond water within two hundred feet of another mill, or will overflow or pond water within two hundred feet of the millsite or premises of a person who has the right under this chapter, or by the authority of law, to rebuild a mill after its destruction, or if the mill create a nuisance in the neighborhood, the court shall not allow the report of the appraisers to be affirmed. (Rev., s. 2136; 1905, c. 534, s. 1g.)

§ 2550. When petitioner may enter on lands.— After the return of the appraisers and the confirmation thereof the petitioner shall have full right and power to enter upon said lands and make such ditches, waterways, drains, races or other necessary works and construct such dams: Provided, he has first paid or tendered the damage assessed as above to the owner of such lands or his known or recognized agent in this state. If the owner is a nonresident and has no known agent in this state, the amount so assessed shall be paid by the petitioner into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county for the use of such owner: Provided further, that the mill-owner shall not be compelled to pay said damages so assessed unless he shall enter upon such lands and make ditches, drains or other works or erect such dam. (Rev., s. 2137; 1905, c. 534, s. 11.)

§ 2551. Owner of mills and millsites protected. —No other person shall have the right to erect or maintain any dam, ditch, waterway, drain or race that will overflow or pond water within two hundred feet of the millsite or premises of any person or body corporate who shall have erected a mill, dam, ditch, drain or race under the provisions of this chapter, or of any millsite owned by any person who has the right under this chapter, or by the authority of law, to rebuild a mill after its destruction. When any person violates the provisions of this section the owner of said mill or millsite shall have a right of action against said person to tear down said dam or other works so built or erected to the extent herein forbidden and to abate the same as prescribed by law for the abatement of nuisances. (Rev., s. 2138; 1905, c. 534, s. 1h.)

§ 2552. Report to be registered.—The petitioner, or any other person interested, may have the said assessment registered upon the certificate of the clerk, and shall pay the register the usual legal fees for registering such instruments in his office. (Rev., s. 2139; 1905, c. 534, s. 1i.)

§ 2553. Fees of appraisers. — Each appraiser shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar for each day actually employed in making said assessment, to be paid by the petitioner. (Rev., s. 2140; 1905, c. 534, s. 1j.)

§ 2554. Obstructing mill races or dams a misdemeanor.—Any person who shall obstruct any drain, ditch or dam constructed under this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., 3381; 1905, c. 534, s. 11.)

Art. 4. Recovery of Damages for Erection of Mill

For full treatment of this subject, see 12 N. C. Enc. Dig. 334 et seq., 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 736 et seq.

Exclusiveness of Remedy.—Ordinarily, in cases to which this section applies, the remedy given must be pursued. Kinsland v. Kinsland, 186 N. C. 760, 120 S. E. 358.

Section Does Not Apply to Trespass.—The remedy under this section does not apply to an action for damages for a trespass committed on the plaintiff's land. Henley v. Wilson, 77 N. C. 216.

Sufficiency of Description.—A petition for damages, caused by the erection of a mill upon the stream below, which described it as a "grist-mill" without calling it a public mill, or a grist-mill grinding for toll, was sufficient. Little v. Stanback, 63 N. C. 285.

Proper Issue.—In an action for damages resulting from ponding water upon plaintiff's land, caused by the erection of defendant's milldam, on issue involving the amount of annual damage done thereby is the proper one to be submitted to the jury. Hester v. Broach, 84 N. C. 252.

Procedure to Assess Damages.—In a petition for damages for ponding water back, where, in the county court the plaintiff's right to relief is denied, the proper course is to impanel a jury to try the allegations made in bar of such right, and if such allegations are found for the plaintiff, the proper course is then to order a jury on the premises to assess the damages, but in all cases where there is an appeal to the superior court, the facts are to be ascertained by a jury at bar, but in that court, those pertaining to the question of relief, and those as to that of damages, are to be separately submitted. Jones v. Clarke, 52 N. C. 418.

Easement Limited to Mill Purposes.—Where the lower proprietor has acquired an easement in the lands of the upper proprietor to pond water back thereon from a dam erected on his own land to operate a public mill, the exercise of this right under the easement does not affect the title to the submerged land of the upper proprietor or subject the upper proprietor to an action for damages that will start the running of the statute of limitations, nor will this use of the water ponded on the land of the upper proprietor by the lower proprietor for fishing with hook and seine ripen into his exclusive use for these purposes. Thomas v. Morris, 190 N. C. 244, 129 S. E. 623.

Liability for Defect in Bridge.—Where water was thrown, by the erection of a mill dam, upon the highway, and the former proprietor of the mill had built bridges over the water, which, during his ownership, he repaired, and which were also repaired by the present proprietor, who did no other work on the roads, it was held that the present proprietor was answerable in damages to an individual who sustained an injury by reason of a defect in one of the bridges. Mulholland v. Brownrigg, 9 N. C. 349.

Proof of Ownership.—In an action for overflowing the plaintiff's land, he need not prove his title, though it be set forth in the declaration, for possession alone is sufficient to support this action against a wrongdoer. Yeargain v. Johnston, 1 N. C. 180, cited in notes in 41 L. R. A. 749; 59 L. R. A. 901.

Plaintiff Entitled to Nominal Damage.—Instructions to a jury, that if a plaintiff sustains no injury from the ponding of water upon his mill wheel, still he is entitled to nominal damages, are correct. Little v. Stanback, 63 N. C. 285, cited in note in 59 L. R. A. 819.

A motion for a new trial for failure of the court to instruct the jury to return at least nominal damages, because some overflow was admitted, it appearing that no such instruction was asked, that the admission was qualified and the testimony conflicting, and that there was evidence to show that no damage was actually done, was properly refused in the discretion of the court. McGee v. Fox, 107 N. C. 766, 12 S. E. 369.

Same—Injury Unnecessary.—In an action for damages for the maintenance of a dam across a stream, the plaintiff is entitled to recover nominal damages, without showing an injury capable of being estimated, or one that is perceptible in the sense that it is attended with some actual damage; for the mere fact of ponding back the water on plaintiff's premises is sufficient to entitle him to nominal damages. Chaffin v. Fries Mfg. Co., 135 N. C. 95, 47 S. E. 226, rehearing denied in 136 N. C. 364, 48 S. E. 770.

If the water be ponded back on the land of another by the erection of a milldam, he is entitled, in the remedy by petition, to nominal damages, whether there be actual damage or not. Wright v. Stowe, 49 N. C. 516.

Measure of Damages.—The measure of damages for backing water on land by means of a dam is the difference in the value of the land before and after the injury complained of. Borden v. Carolina Power, etc., Co., 174 N. C. 72, 93 S. E. 442.

Permanent Damages.—In an action for backing water on plaintiff's land by means of a dam, the plaintiff is entitled to permanent damages, past, present, and prospective. Borden v. Carolina Power, etc., Co., 174 N. C. 72, 93 S. E. 424.

Damages to Health.—Damages may be given for injury to health as well as to land by overflowing. Gillet v. Jones, 18 N. C. 339. See also, Waddy v. Johnson, 27 N. C. 333.

Exemplary Damages.—In an action for overflowing plaintiff's land by the erection of a milldam, where a recovery has been had before, and the nuisance was not abated, plaintiff can recover sufficient exemplary damages to compel an abatement of the nuisance. Carruthers v. Tillman, 2 N. C. 501, cited in 59 L. R. A. 881.

Damage Only When Stream is Swollen.—Where the erection of a mill on a stream causes the water to overnow the land of a proprietor above only when the stream is swollen, that circumstance will not excuse such party from damages altogether, but will only diminish the quantum of such damages. Pugh v. Wheeler, 19 N. C. 50, cited in notes in 30 L. R. A. 667; 41 L. R. A. 749; 59 L. R. A. 819, 877.

Decrease of Custom.—Where, in suit for damages for ponding water, it appeared that plaintiff sustained injury to his mill by reason of defendant's erecting another mill and dam lower down on the same stream, the measure of damages was the value of the injury actually sustained by plaintiff up to the time of trial; and, in estimating the same, the decrease of custom (in the matter of toll) could not be considered. Burnett v. Nicholson, 86 N. C. 99, cited in note in 59 L. R. A. 896.

Counterclaim Inadmissible.—In an action for damages for ponding water back on plaintiffs' land, it was no error for the judge to charge that defendants could not set up as offset and counterclaim any benefit which plaintiff had received thereby, and add that the jury should, upon all the evidence, ascertain if plaintiff had sustained any damage. McGee v. Fox, 107 N. C. 766, 12 S. E. 369.

Action May Be Brought at Any Time.—Ponding a stream so as to throw the water over the land of a proprietor above, which the water did not before cover, gives him a good cause of action at any time when he may wish to use his land, unless he has granted the easement, either actually, or by presumption of law from the length of time he has permitted the easement to be enjoyed. Pugh v. Wheeler, 19 N. C. 50.

Easement Not Granted by Payment of Judgment.—The payment of a judgment for ponding water by a milldam does not amount to the purchase by defendant of an easement to pond back water on plaintiff's land. Candler v. Asheville Elect. Co., 135 N. C. 12, 47 S. E. 114.

§ 2556. When dams abated as nuisances. — When damages are recovered in final judgment in such civil actions, and execution issues and is returned unsatisfied, and the plaintiff is not able to collect the same either because of the insolvency of the defendant or by reason of the exemptions allowed to defendant, the judge shall, on the facts being made to appear before him by affidavit or other evidence, order that the dam, or portion of the dam, or other cause creating the injury, shall be abated as a nuisance, and he shall have power to make all necessary orders to effect this purpose. (Rev., s. 2142; Code, s. 1859; 1876-7, c. 197, s. 3.)

When Applicable.—This section, applies where water is ponded upon the plaintiff's land by a dam constructed on the property of another or where a trespass of like character is committed, because at common law an action could be brought each day so long as the trespass continued. But the statute does not apply and was never intended to apply to an actual entry upon the complainant's premises and the construction thereon of a dam for the purpose of ponding water and retaining possession. Kinsland v. Kinsland, 188 N. C. 810, 811, 125 S. E. 625.

Denial of Injunction.—An injunction will not be granted to restrain the erection of a dam whereby the mill wheel of the plaintiff is flooded so as to become useless. Burnett v. Nicholson, 72 N. C. 334.

For such an injury damages will adequately compensate, and should the annual damage exceed twenty dollars the plaintiff is remitted to his common-law action, and can compel an abatement of the nuisance. Burnett v. Nicholson, 72 N. C. 334.

Where the owner of land adjoining an old mill site sought to enjoin the erection of a new mill, and it was ascertained by a verdict, that the mill, though injurious to the health of the plaintiff's family, was advantageous to the public, relief was refused; especially as the old mill was erected before the plaintiff purchased. Eason v. Perkins, 17 N. C. 38.

When Injunction Granted.—In the case of the erection of a milldam, a court of equity will not interfere by injunction, unless it be shown that it will be a public nuisance, or, if it will be a private nuisance only to an individual, unless it manifestly appears, that so great a difference will exist between the injury to the individual and the public convenience as will bear no comparison, or that the erection of the dam will be followed by irreparable mischief. Bradsher v. Lea, 38 N. C. 301.

Existence of Another Remedy.—On application for an injunction to restrain the defendant from building a new mill, on the ground that the construction of the dam would injure the land of the plaintiff and the health of his family, testimony being heard, the court held that it is not every slight or doubtful injury that will justify the use of the extraordinary power of injunction to restrain a man from using his property as his interests may demand, especially as, if the injury apprehended should result, the complainant may resort to law for damages. Wilder v. Strickland, 55 N. C. 386, cited in note in 59 L. R. A. 851.

When Demand and Allegation of Insolvency Unnecessary.—The demand for damages in the complaint for ponding water upon and injuring the lands of the upper proprietor required by this section, is not necessary when the relief sought is to enjoin the maintenance of a dam on the plaintiff's own land by the defendant's trespass thereon, and the abatement of the nuisance thus caused, and the trespass being continuing, the allegation of defendant's insolvency is not necessary. Kinsland v. Kinsland, 188 N. C. 810, 125 S. E. 625.

Cited in Hester v. Broach, 84 N. C. 252.

§ 2557. Judgment for annual sum as damages.—A judgment giving to the plaintiff an annual sum by way of damages shall be binding between the parties for five years from the issuing of the summons, if the mill is kept up during that time, unless the damages are increased by raising the water or otherwise.

In all cases where the final judgment of the court assesses the yearly damage of the plaintiff as high as twenty dollars, nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to prevent the plaintiff, his heirs or assigns, from suing as heretofore, and in such case the final judgment aforesaid shall be binding only for the year's damage preceding the issuing of the summons. (Rev., ss. 2143, 2144; Code, ss. 1860, 1861; 1868-9, c. 158, ss. 12, 14.)

See annotations under sections 2555 and 2556.

Assessment Cannot Be Beyond Preceding Year.—In proceedings under the statute for ponding water on plaintiff's land, the jury have no right to go back further than one year in assessing damages, but if they do, the error may be corrected by the court only giving judgment for one year preceding the issuing of the summons. Goodson v. Mullen, 92 N. C. 207.

Judgment May Be for Sum in Gross.—Where, in an action for damages to land by ponding water on it, the jury found that the land was damaged eighty dollars per year, it was not erroneous for the court to give judgment for a sum in gross, and not for each year's damages. Goodson v. Mullen, 92 N. C. 207, 211.

Recurring Causes of Action.—Case for nuisance in erecting a mill will lie for every fresh continuance after action brought; heavy damages are not usual in the first verdict, but in a second action the damages should be high to compel an abatement of the nuisance. —— v. Deberry, 2 N. C. 248, cited in note in 59 L. R. A. 836.

Conclusiveness of Damages.—In a proceeding to recover damages for ponding water by a milldam, the verdict of the jury and the judgment of the court thereon are conclusive as to the assessment of damages, up to the time when such judgment was rendered. An application for relief from damages, assessed for a period subsequent to the time of the judgment, can only be heard if the dam is taken away or lowered. Beatty v. Conner, 34 N. C. 341.

Judgment Not Res Judicata.—Where an action to abate a dam and for damages to land caused by the ponding back of water was submitted to arbitrators to find whether plaintiffs were entitled to damages, and, if so, distinguishing in finding the same between those from permanent injuries and annual damages for five years from a certain date. The arbitrators assessed "the permanent damage of the plaintiffs to this date to their lands" at a certain sum, and also awarded a certain annual damage for each of the five years. Judgment was entered on the award, the judgment providing that the execution should be subject to the provisions of section 2556, the judgment was not res judicata of plaintiff's right to recover damages after the termination of the five-year period for all except a fresh injury, since the judgment contemplated the removal of the dam at the end of the five years. Candler v. Asheville Elect. Co., 135 N. C. 12, 47 S. E. 114.

§ 2558. Final judgment; costs and execution.—If the final judgment of the court is that the plaintiff has sustained no damage, he shall pay the costs of his proceeding; but if the final judgment is in favor of the plaintiff, he shall have execution against the defendant for one year's damage, preceding the issuing of the summons, and for all costs: Provided, that if the damage adjudged does not amount to five dollars, the plaintiff shall recover no more costs than damages. And if the defendant does not annually pay the plaintiff, his heirs or assigns, before it falls due, the sum adjudged as the damages for that year, the plaintiff may sue out execution for the amount of the last year's damage, or any part thereof which may remain unpaid. (Rev., s. 2145; Code, s. 1862; 1868-9, c. 158, s. 15.)

MONOPOLIES AND TRUSTS

§ 2559. Combinations in restraint of trade illegal.—Every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce in the state of North Carolina is hereby declared to be illegal. Every person or corporation who shall make any such contract expressly or shall knowingly be a party thereto by implication, or who shall engage in any such combination or conspiracy, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof such person shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court, whether such person entered into such contract individually or as an agent representing a corporation, and such corporation shall be fined in the discretion of the court not less than one thousand dollars. (1913, c. 41, s. 1.)

History of Chapter.—See Shute v. Shute, 176 N. C. 462, 465, 97 S. E. 392.

Agreement Not to Compete May Be Forbidden.—Persons and corporations cannot be ordered to compete, but they properly can be forbidden to give directions, or make agreements, not to compete. State v. Craft, 168 N. C. 208, 213, 83 S. E. 772.

A general averment without allegation of specific facts is insufficient to constitute a cause of action, under this and following sections. State v. Standard Oil Co., 205 N. C. 123, 124, 170 S. E. 134.

§ 2560. Any restraint in violation of common law included.—Any act, contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce which violates the principles of the common law is hereby declared to be in violation of the preceding section of this chapter. (1913, c. 41, s. 2.)

Distinction between Common Law and Modern Rules.—Originally at common law, agreements in restraint of trade were held void as being against public policy. The position, however, has been more and more modified by the decisions of the courts until it has come to be the very generally accepted principle that agreements in partial restraint of trade will be upheld when they are "founded on valuable considerations, are reasonably necessary to protect the interests of the parties in whose favor they are imposed, and do not unduly prejudice the public interest." Mar-Hof Co. v. Rosenbacker, 176 N. C. 330, 331, 97 S. E. 169. The distinction may now be made between "general restraint" and "partial restraint." Morehead Sea Food Co. v. Way & Co., 169 N. C. 679, 86 S. E. 603. For illustrations of these kinds of restraint, see the notes to sec. 2563.

§ 2561. Burden of proof as to reasonableness on defendant.— All contracts, combinations in the form of trust, and conspiracies in restraint of trade or commerce prohibited in the two preceding sections of this chapter are hereby declared to be unreasonable and illegal, unless the persons entering into such contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce can show affirmatively upon an indictment or civil action for violation of the preceding sections of this chapter that such contract, combination in the form of trust, conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce does not injure the business of any competitor, or prevent any one from becoming a competitor because his or its business will be unfairly injured by reason of such contract, combination in the form of trust, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce. (1913, c. 41. s. 3.)

§ 2562. Contracts to be in writing.—No contract or agreement hereafter made, limiting the rights of any person to do business anywhere in the state of North Carolina shall be enforceable unless such agreement is in writing duly signed by the party who agrees not to enter into any such business within such territory: Provided, nothing herein shall be construed to legalize any contract or agreement not to enter into business in the state of North Carolina, or at any point in the state of North Carolina, which contract is now illegal or which contract is made illegal by any other section of this chapter. (1913, c. 41, s. 4.)

§ 2563. Particular acts defined.—In addition to the matters and things hereinbefore declared to be illegal, the following acts are declared to be unlawful, that is, for any person, firm, corporation, or association directly or indirectly to do or to have any contract, express or knowingly implied, to do any of the acts or things specified in any of the subsections of this section.

1. To agree or conspire with any other person, firm, corporation or association to put down or keep down the price of any article produced in this state by the labor of others, which article the person, firm, corporation or association intends, plans or desires to buy.

2. To make a sale of any goods, wares, merchandise, articles or things of value whatsoever in North Carolina, whether directly or indirectly, or through any agent or employee, upon the condition that the purchaser thereof shall not deal in goods, wares, merchandise, articles or things of value of a competitor or rival in the business of the person, firm, corporation or association making such sales.

3. To willfully destroy or injure, or undertake to destroy or injure, the business of any opponent or business rival in the state of North Carolina with the purpose or intention of attempting to fix the price of anything of value when the competition is removed.

4. Who directly or indirectly buys or sells within the state, through himself or itself, or through any agent of any kind or as agent or principal, or together with or through any allied, subsiduary or dependant person, firm, corporation or association, any article or thing of value which is sold or brought in the state to injure or destroy or undertake to injure or destroy the business of any rival or opponent, by lowering the price of any article or thing of value sold, so low, or by raising the price of any article or thing of value brought, so high as to leave an unreasonable or inadequate profit for a time, with the purpose of increasing the profit on the business when such rival or opponent is driven out of business, or his or its business is injured.

5. Who deals in any thing of value within the state of North Carolina, to give away or sell, at a place where there is competition, such thing of value at a price lower than is charged by such person, firm, corporation or association for the same thing at another place, where there is not good and sufficient reason, on account of transportation or the expense of doing business, for charging less at the one place than at the other, with the view of injuring the business of another.

6. Who is engaged in buying or selling any thing of value in North Carolina, to make or have any agreement or understanding, express or implied, with any other person, firm, corporation or association, not to buy or sell such things of value within certain territorial limits within the state, with intention of preventing competition in selling or to fix the price or prevent competition in buying of such things of value within these limits: Provided, nothing herein shall be construed to prevent an agent from representing more than one principal. But nothing in this proviso shall be construed to authorize two or more principals to employ a common agent for the purpose of suppressing competition or lowering prices: Provided, further, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent a person, firm or corporation from selling his or its business and good will to a competitor, and agreeing in writing not to enter the business in competition with the purchaser in a limited territory, as is now allowed under the common law: Provided, such agreement shall not violate the principles of the common law against trusts and shall not violate the provisions of this chapter. (1913, c. 41, s. 5.)

For digest treatment of this subject, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 423 et seq., 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 447 et seq.

Restrictive Stipulations in Sale.—Transactions involving the sale and disposition of a business trade or profession between individuals with stipulations restrictive of competition on the part of the vendor do not, as a rule, tend to unduly harm the public and are ordinarily sustained to the extent required to afford reasonable protection to the vendee in the enjoyment of property or proprietary rights he has bought and paid for, and to enable a vendor to dispose of his property at its full and fair value. Mar-Hof Co. v. Rosenbacker, 176 N. C. 330, 97 S. E. 169.

Test as to Reasonableness.—A valid contract in partial restraint of trade, while primarily for the advantage of the purchaser of a business, inures to the benefit of the seller by enhancing the value of the good-will and enabling him to obtain a better price for the sale of his business, the test as to territory being whether the restraint agreed upon is such as to afford a fair protection to the interest of the party in whose favor it is given, and not so large as to interfere with the interest of the public; and such will not be held to be unreasonable when they do not affect the public and go no further than to remove the danger to the purchaser of competition with the seller. Morehead Sea Food Co. v. Way & Co., 169 N. C. 679, 86 S. E. 603.

Contract Not to Engage in Competing Business.—A provision of an agreement for the sale of a partner's interest that he would not again engage in the mercantile business in a certain town or near enough thereto to interfere with plaintiff's business was not in violation of this section. Wooten v. Harris, 153 N. C. 43, 68 S. E. 898.

An exchange of the defendant's fish business for stock in the plaintiff company, with an agreement not to engage in similar business for ten years within 100 miles is valid, and not in violation of this section. Morehead Sea Food Co. v. Way & Co., 169 N. C. 679, 86 S. E. 603.

Reasonableness of Agreement to Raise Price Immaterial.—An agreement among dealers in a necessary article of food, to raise its price, is an indictable offense at the common law, and evidence that dealers controlling a large part of the supply of milk in a town having by agreement raised its price, testimony is irrelevant that a dealer not a party to the agreement had also raised the price of his milk to his customers, or whether the agreement was reasonable or necessary for the article to yield a profit in its sale. State v. Craft, 168 N. C. 208, 83 S. E. 772.

Same—Intent Immaterial. — The intent of milk dealers combining to raise the price of milk is immaterial. State v. Craft, 168 N. C. 208, 83 S. E. 772.

Illegal Division of Territory.—Under a contract dividing a county into separate territory, within which each of the respective parties was not to interfere with the business of the other in operating cotton gins, etc., the plaintiff sold the defendant a cotton ginning plant, the latter agreeing to remove the plant and not to again operate one there, the intent of the agreement was a division of territory, with the object to eliminate competition therein, and the agreement will not be enforced. Shute v. Shute, 176 N. C. 462, 97 S. E. 392.

Exclusive Sale for Specified Period.—A contract made in good faith between a vendor and purchaser of a certain particular make or character of a manufactured product that restricts the former from selling articles of the same make or kind to other dealers within the town wherein the purchaser conducts his mercantile business, and which requires the expenditure of large sums of money and much time in advertising the goods and popularizing them on the local market, does not come within the intent and meaning of this chapter; and in vendor's action for the purchase price the seller may recover damages as a counterclaim for breach of the seller's contract in that respect. Mar-Hof Co. v. Rosenbacker, 176 N. C. 330, 97 S. E. 169.

Contract to Sell at Label Price.—A contract of sale of merchandise for resale by the buyer, which stipulates that the buyer will not sell the merchandise except at label prices and will not sell or permit the sale of any other similar merchandise, is violative of this section. Standard Fashion Co. v. Grant, 165 N. C. 453, 81 S. E. 606.

A contract for sale of cafe and good will for a period of five years does not affect the interest of the public or fall within the terms of subsection 6 of this section. Hill v. Davenport, 195 N. C. 271, 141 S. E. 752.

Discrimination Not Allowed.—Where a public-service corporation has acquired the exclusive right to furnish hydro-electric power and light to municipalities, and to other public-service corporations, for distribution to consumers, including subsidiary companies that it controls, it may not discriminate among its patrons under the same or substantially similar conditions as to the rate charged, or select its customers. North Carolina Public Serv. Co. v. Southern Power Co., 179 N. C. 18, 101 S. E. 593.

Attempt to Drive Competitor out of Business.—An indictment charging that the employees of a rival company in the sale of lawful commodities had combined together to break up their competitor's business by systematically following its salesmen from house to house and place to place and to so abuse, vilify, and harass them as to deter them in their lawful business and to break up their sales; that they falsely represented that their rival company was composed of a set of thieves and liars, endeavoring to cheat and defraud the people, etc., charges a conspiracy indictable at common law. State v. Dalton, 168 N. C. 204, 83 S. E. 693.

Grant of Municipal Franchise.—A private sale of public utilities by the city authorities to an electrical power plant with a grant of a municipal franchise does not create or tend towards a monopoly. Allen v. Reidsville, 178 N. C. 513, 101 S. E. 267.

Ordinance Restricting Sale of Commodity.—A municipal ordinance prohibiting the sale of milk within the city without a permit, is not invalid as tending to create a monopoly although the permit "may be suspended or revoked at any time for cause. State v. Kirkpatrick, 179 N. C. 747, 103 S. E. 65.

Contract in Violation of Section Unenforceable.—A contract made in violation of the terms of this section will not be enforced. Standard Fashion Co. v. Grant, 165 N. C. 453, 81 S. E. 606; Shute v. Shute, 176 N. C. 462, 465, 97 S. E. 392.

Threats to Retaliate unless Competition Withdrawn.—Threats by one ice company that it would sell ice in the town of a second ice company, if that company continued to supply ice to a rival of the first company are not prohibited by this section. Smith v. Morganton Ice Co., 159 N. C. 151, 74 S. E. 961.

The refusal by wholesalers of ice to sell a retailer on the same terms as those offered to other retailers in the city is not a violation of this section, it not appearing that the parties were business competitors. Rice v. Ashville Ice, etc., Co., 204 N. C. 768.

Cited in Lewis v. Archbell, 199 N. C. 205, 154 S. E. 11.

§ 2564. Violation a misdemeanor; punishment.—Any corporation, either as agent or principal, violating any of the provisions of preceding section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and such corporation shall upon conviction be fined not less than one thousand dollars for each and every offense, and any person, whether acting for himself or as officer of any corporation or as agent of any corporation or person violating any of the provisions of this chapter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1913, c. 41, s. 5.)

§ 2565. Persons encourging violation guilty.—Any person, being either within or without the state, who encourages or wilfully allows or permits any agent or associates in business in this state to violate any of the provisions of this chapter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished as provided in the preceding section. (1913, c. 41, s. 6.)

§ 2566. Continuous violations separate offenses.—Where the things prohibited in this chapter are continuous, then in such event, after the first violation of any of the provisions hereof, each week that the violation of such provision shall continue shall be a separate offense. (1913, c. 41, s. 7.)

§ 2567. Duty of attorney-general to investigate.—The attorney-general of the state of North Carolina shall have power, and it shall be his duty, to investigate, from time to time, the affairs of all corporations doing business in this state, which are or may be embraced within the meaning of the statutes of this state defining and denouncing trusts and combinations against trade and commerce, or which he shall be of opinion are so embraced, and all other corporations in North Carolina doing business in violation of law; and all other corporations of every character engaged in this state in the business of transporting property or passengers, or transmitting messages and all other public-service corporations of any kind or nature whatever which are doing business in the state for hire. Such investigation shall be with a view of ascertaining whether the law or any rule of the North Carolina corporation commission is being or has been violated by any such corporation, officers or agents or employees thereof, and if so, in what respect, with the purpose of acquiring such information as may be necessary to enable him to prosecute any such corporation, its agents, officers and employees for crime, or prosecute civil actions against them if he discovers they are liable and should be prosecuted. (1913, c. 41, s. 8.)

§ 2568. Power to compel examination.—In performing the duty required in the preceding section, the attorney-general shall have power, at any and all times, to require the officers, agents or employees of any such corporation, and all other persons having knowledge with respect to the matters and affairs of such corporations, to submit themselves to examination by him, and produce for his inspection any of the books and papers of any such corporations, or which are in any way connected with the business thereof; and the attorney-general is hereby given the right to administer oath to any person whom he may desire to examine. He shall also, if it may become necessary, have a right to apply to any judge of the supreme or superior court, after five days notice of such application, for an order on any such person or corporation he may desire to examine to appear and subject himself or itself to such examination, and disobedience of such order shall constitute contempt, and shall be punishable as in other cases of disobedience of a proper order of such judge. (1913, c. 41, s. 9.)

§ 2569. Person examined exempt from prosecution.—No person examined, as provided in the preceding section shall be subject to indictment, prosecution, punishment or penalty by reason or on account of anything disclosed by him upon such examination, and full immunity from prosecution and punishment by reason or on account of anything so disclosed is hereby extended to all persons so examined. (1913, c. 41, s. 9.)

§ 2570. Refusal to furnish information; false swearing.—Any corporation unlawfully refusing or willfully neglecting to furnish the information required by this chapter, when it is demanded as herein provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than one thousand dollars: Provided, that if any corporation shall in writing notify the attorney-general that it objects to the time or place designated by him for the examination or inspection provided for in this chapter, it shall be his duty to apply to a judge of the supreme or superior court, who shall fix an appropriate time and place for such examination or inspection, and such corporation shall, in such event, be guilty under this section only in the event of its failure, refusal or neglect to appear at the time and place so fixed by the judge and furnish the information required by this chapter. False swearing by any person examined under the provision of this chapter shall constitute perjury, and the person guilty of it shall be punishable as in other cases of perjury. (1913, c. 41, s. 10.)

§ 2571. Criminal prosecution; solicitors to assist; expenses.—The attorney-general in carrying out the provisions of this chapter shall have a right to send bills of indictment before any grand jury in any county in which it is alleged this chapter has been violated or in any adjoining county, and may take charge of and prosecute all cases coming within the purview of this chapter, and shall have the power to call to his assistance in the performance of any of these duties of his office which he may assign to them any of the solicitors in the state, who shall, upon being required to do so by the attorney-general, send bills of indictment and assist him in the performance of the duties of his office: Provided, that the state shall pay the actual and necessary expenses of the solicitor incurred while performing such duties and not over one hundred dollars as an extra fee when the expense account is approved by the attorney-general and governor and duly audited, and the amount of the fee is fixed by them.

The necessary expenses incident to carrying out the provisions of this chapter shall, when approved by the governor and audited, be paid out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated. (1913, c. 41, s. 13.)

§ 2572. Remedy by civil action.—If it shall become necessary to do so, the attorney-general may prosecute civil actions in the name of the state on relation of the attorney-general to obtain a mandatory order to carry out the provisions of this chapter, and the venue shall be in any county as selected by the attorney-general. (1913, c. 41, s. 11.)

§ 2573. In what name civil action prosecuted.—It shall be the duty of the attorney-general, upon his ascertaining that the laws have been violated by any trust or public-service-corporation, so as to render it liable to prosecution in a civil action, to prosecute such action in the name of the state, or any officer or department thereof, as provided by law, or in the name of the state on relation of the attorney-general, and to prosecute all officers or agents or employees of such corporations, whenever in his opinion the interests of the public require it. (1913, c. 41, s. 12.)

§ 2574. Civil action by person injured; treble damages.—If the business of any person, firm or corporation shall be broken up, destroyed or injured by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of the provisions of this chapter, such person, firm or corporation so injured shall have a right of action on account of such injury done, and if damages are assessed by a jury in such case judgment shall be rendered in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant for treble the amount fixed by the verdict. (1913, c. 41, s. 14.)

Causal Relation Between Violation and Injury Must Be Shown.—Section 2563 condemns a contract of sale only when such sale is made "upon the condition" that the purchaser shall not deal in the goods or merchandise of a competitor of the seller, and in order for a party to recover damages for a breach of the statute under the provisions of this section, he must show a violation of the statute and a causal relation between the violation and injury to his business. Lewis v. Archbell, 199 N. C. 205, 154 S. E. 11.

MORTGAGES AND DEEDS OF TRUST

Art. 1. Chattel Mortgages: Form and Sufficiency

§ 2575. Form of chattel mortgage.—Any person indebted to another in a sum to be secured may execute a chattel mortgage in form substantially as follows:

I, ..., of the county of ..... in the state of North Carolina, am indebted to ....., of ..... county, in said state, in the sum of ..... dollars, for which he holds my note to be due the .... of ....., A. D. 19...., and to secure the payment of the same, I do hereby convey to him these articles of personal property, to wit: ..... but on this special trust, that if I fail to pay said debt and interest on or before the .... day of ....., A. D. 19...., then he may sell said property, or so much thereof as may be necessary, by public auction for cash, first giving twenty days notice at three public places, and apply the proceeds of such sale to the discharge of said debt and interest on the same, and pay any surplus to me.

Given under my hand and seal this .... day of ....., A. D. 19.....

..... (Seal).

Dig. 18 et seq.; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 371 et seq. For cases in which some transactions were and others were not held to be mortgages, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 24, et seq.; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 5.

Essential Elements.—No particular form is essential to the validity of a chattel mortgage; mere informality will not vitiate it. No seal is necessary. It is sufficient if the words employed express in terms or by just implication the purpose of the parties to transfer the property to the mortgagee, to be revested in the mortgagor upon the performance of the condition agreed upon, however informally expressed. A power of sale is not essential. Comron v. Standland, 103 N. C. 207, 9 S. E. 317.

While no particular form is necessary to constitute a mortgage, yet the words must "clearly indicate the creation of a lien, specify the debts to secure which it is given, and upon the satisfaction of which the lien is to be discharged and the property upon which it is to take effect." The statement that the creditor is to have a lien, and that on default he may take possession and sell, * * * sufficiently discloses the intent. Harris v. Jones, 83 N. C. 318; Britt v. Harrell, 105 N. C. 10, 12, 10 S. E. 902.

If a security for money is intended, that security is a mortgage; though not having on its face the form of a mortgage. McCoy v. Lassiter, 95 N. C. 88, 92.

§ 2576. Registration.—Chattel mortgages substantially in the form provided in the last section are good to all intents and purposes when the same are duly registered according to law. (Rev., s. 1040; Code, ss. 1273, 1274; 1870-1, c. 277, ss. 1, 2.)

Cross References.—As to place of registration, see sec. 3211; for further provisions as to registration of mortgages, see Probate and Registration, sec. 3311; for fees of probate and registration, see sec. 2490.

As to offense of disposing mortgaged or otherwise incumbered property, and the punishment therefor, see section 4287.

In General.—The lien of the chattel mortgage is created by registering the original instrument, and such registration is notice to the world of the existence of the lien. It is not material to the public whether the debt and property were transferred by the mortgagee. The purpose of the Legislature in passing the statute in reference to registration was to prevent the creation of secret liens which embarrass trade and tend to encourage fraud. Hodges v. Wilkinson, 111 N. C. 56, 65, 15 S. E. 941.

Necessity of Registration Between the Parties.—Registration is not essential between the parties to the mortgage. Thomas v. Cooksey, 130 N. C. 148, 151, 41 S. E. 2; William v. Jones, 95 N. C. 504.

Registration Prior Attachment Gives Priority.—The registration of a mortgage prior to attachments issued by creditor makes it superior to the creditor's lien, but only on property situated in the county where the mortgage was registered. Williamson v. Bitting, 159 N. C. 321, 74 S. E. 808.

No Special Statutory Mode of Registration.—There is no special statutory mode presented for the registration of a chattel mortgage. The provisions of section 3311 relates merely to inexpensive form of mortgage. Williamson v. Bitting, 159 N. C. 321, 322, 74 S. E. 808.

Assignment of Mortgage Not Required to Be Registered.—There is no provision which requires assignments of chattel mortgages or the debts secured by them to be proven or registered; nor is there any good reason for enacting such a law, though it has been done in other states. The mortgage is declared "good to all intents and purposes" when registered according to law. No matter how often they be assigned, they are still good to protect the interest of the holder of the debt. Hodges v. Atkinson, 111 N. C. 56, 65, 15 S. E. 941.

Delivery to Register in His Office Necessary.—It is required for a valid filing of a mortgage that it be delivered at the office of the register of deeds, and until then it can acquire no priority over one theretofore executed; and where two mortgages given to different persons on the same subject-matter are delivered to the register of deeds out of his official office, carried by him to that place and marked by him filed at the same time, the filing and registration are regarded as being simultaneous, and the mortgage first executed will have priority of lien. McHan v. Dorsey, 173 N. C. 694, 92 S. E. 598.

Registry after Death of Mortgagor.—A mortgage both of land and personal property may be registered after the death of the mortgagor. William v. Jones, 95 N. C. 504.

Registry after Bankruptcy—Priority over Assignee. — The registration of a mortgage after a commission in bankruptcy is good against the assignee. William v. Jones, 95 N. C. 504.

§ 2577. Mortgage of household and kitchen furniture.—All conveyances of household and kitchen furniture by a married man, made to secure the payment of money or other things of value, are void, unless the wife joins therein and her privy examination is taken in the manner prescribed by law in conveyances of real estate, except when said mortgage or conveyance is executed for the purchase money thereof. (Rev., s. 1041; 1891, c. 91; 1931, c. 211.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added the exception as to purchase money mortgage. The amendment does not contravene the policy of the law designed for the protection of the home. Kelly v. Fleming, 113 N. C. 133, 18 S. E. 81; Thomas v. Sanderlin, 173 N. C. 329, 91 S. E. 1028. It is also consistent with the law which permits the husband to execute a purchase money mortgage or deed of trust on his real estate that will be valid as against his wife without her joinder in the instrument. See § 1003. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 392.

Provisions within Police Power of State.—The provisions of the sections are in exercise of the police power of a State and promotive of its economic welfare and public convenience and comfort, and designed for the protection of the home, and is a constitutional and valid enactment. Thomas v. Sanderlin, 173 N. C. 329, 91 S. E. 1028.

Doctrine of Section Public Policy.—The requirements that the wife must join in the conveyance of the husband's realty, in the conveyance of his allotted homestead, and in a mortgage of his household and kitchen furniture, and that the husband must give his written assent to the conveyance by the wife of her realty, are all of a piece as a declaration of public policy. Thomas v. Sanderlin, 173 N. C. 329, 336, 91 S. E. 1028.

Section Applies to Liens Conferred by Writing—Property of Wife and Husband.—This section could not apply to those methods of conveyance of personal property by sale and delivery where no writing was used, for then the privy examination of the wife would have been impracticable. Nor to the sale by the husband of the personal property of which he was the sole owner, because, in this instance it was not necessary that the wife should join. But it was intended to prevent the conveyance by chattel mortgage, or in any other way by which a lien could be fixed thereon, of the property named, as by deed of trust or conditional sale, without a writing signed by husband and wife, and the privy examination of the wife, as in sale of real estate; and this may be applicable to such property whether it belong to the husband or to the wife. Kelly v. Fleming, 113 N. C. 133, 139, 18 S. E. 81.

The word "convey," in its broadest significance, might embrace any transmission of possession, but we are restrained to its legal meaning, which, ordinarily speaking, is the transfer of property from one person to another by means of a written instrument and other formalities. Rapalje & Lawrence Law Dict., "Convey, Conveyance." According to Webster a conveyance is "an instrument in writing by which property or the title to property is conveyed or transmitted from one person to another." The meaning of this word being well understood at common law, it must be understood in the same sense when used in a statute. Smithdeal v. Wilkerson, 100 N. C. 52, 6 S. E. 71; Kelly v. Fleming, 113 N. C. 133, 138, 18 S. E. 81.

Applies Only to Conveyances of Furniture by Husband—Privy Examination.—This section applies only to conveyances by the husband of the household and kitchen furniture, and the requirement of the privy examination of the wife in giving her assent thereto is within the power of the General Assembly and is in line with the same requirement in the Constitution, as to the joinder of the wife in the conveyance of the allotted homestead—the only instance in which the Constitution recognizes such a requirement. Thomas v. Sanderlin, 173 N. C. 329, 337, 91 S. E. 1028.

Mischief Sought to Be Overcome.—The evident mischief sought to be overcome by this section is the facility with which these necessary articles for the comfort and convenience of every household, however humble—the household and kitchen furniture—may be conveyed away, notwithstanding the protection which the law throws around them by the personal property exemption, at least, during the life of the husband, by the chattel mortgage, or other lien, now almost the only basis of credit for the poor man. Kelly v. Fleming, 113 N. C. 133, 139, 18 S. E. 81.

Liberal Construction—Goods for Sale in Shop Not Covered.—The words "household and kitchen furniture" may comprise not only that species of property which is in actual use, but also that which is on sale in shops, yet no one will contend that this statute should be construed so literally as to embrace articles of this kind of the latter class. Kelly v. Fleming, 113 N. C. 133, 138, 18 S. E. 81.

Distinguished from § 4103—Constitutionality.—A distinction between this section and § 4103 should be noted. In this section the conveyance without the joinder of the wife is declared to be void; while in the latter statute, such conveyance is declared to be invalid only for certain purposes. The owner of household and kitchen furniture is deprived absolutely of the right to convey said property by mortgage, without the consent of his wife, whereas the owner of a home site is deprived of such right only to a limited extent. If the former statute is constitutional, as held by this Court, it seems that there can be no question as to the constitutionality of § 4103. Boyd v. Brooks, 197 N. C. 644, 652, 150 S. E. 178.

Husband's Own Property before Passage of Section.—Whether the provisions of the act could be made to apply in case of a chattel mortgage, etc., by a husband, of his own household and kitchen furniture, at any rate, of such as was owned by him before the passage of the act, a quaere. Kelly v. Fleming, 113 N. C. 133, 18 S. E. 81.

Phrase "Household Furniture" Covers a Piano.—A piano owned by the husband and placed in his home for the use of his wife and daughters, and so used by them, is included under the statutory terms "Household and kitchen furniture" as used in this section, and a chattel mortgage thereof by the husband is invalid unless the wife signs as directed by the statute. Thomas v. Sanderlin, 173 N. C. 329, 91 S. E. 1028.

Application to Joint Note of H. and W. to Bind Separate Estate.—This section requiring a private examination of a married woman to a chattel mortgage on household and kitchen furniture, does not apply to a note signed by husband and wife binding her separate personal estate. Harvey v. Johnson, 133 N. C. 352, 45 S. E. 644.

Art. 2. Right to Foreclose or Sell under Power

§ 2578. Representative succeeds on death of mortgagee or trustee in deeds of trust; parties to action.—When the mortgagee in a mortgage, or the trustee in a deed in trust, executed for the purpose of securing a debt, containing a power of sale, dies before the payment of the debt secured in such mortgage or deed in trust, all the title, rights, powers and duties of such mortgagee or trustee pass to and devolve upon the executor or administrator or collector of such mortgagee or trustee, including the right to bring an action of foreclosure in any of the courts of this state as prescribed for trustees or mortgagees, and in such action it is unnecessary to make the heirs at law of such deceased mortgagee or trustee parties thereto. (Rev., s. 1031; 1901, c. 186; 1887, c. 147; 1895, c. 431; 1905, c. 425; 1933, c. 199.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 199, inserted the words "or collector" following the words "executor or administrator."

Power of Sale Vests in Executor of Mortgagee.—When a power of sale in a mortgage is given to the mortgagee, "his executors," etc., upon default, and the mortgagee dies leaving a will under which his executors qualify, the power of sale vests in the executors by virtue of this section and the contract in the mortgage. Scott v. Blades Lumber Co., 144 N. C. 44, 56 S. E. 548.

Same—Even in the Absence of Stipulation to That Effect.—The executor of a mortgagee may exercise the power of sale contained in the mortgage, when the deed in terms confers such power upon the mortgagee and his executors. This section was intended to confer the power of sale upon executors and administrators when such power is not given in the deed. Yount v. Morrison, 109 N. C. 520, 13 S. E. 892.

Cited in Allred v. Trexler Lumber Co., 194 N. C. 547, 548, 140 S. E. 157.

§ 2579. Foreclosures by representatives validated. — In all actions which were brought or prosecuted prior to the fourth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and five, for the foreclosure of any mortgage or deed in trust by any executor or administrator of any deceased mortgagee or trustee where the heirs of the mortgage were duly made parties and regular and orderly decrees of foreclosure entered by the court and sale had by a commissioner appointed by the court for that purpose and deed made after confirmation, the title so conveyed to purchaser at such judicial sale shall be deemed and held to be vested in such purchaser, whether the heir of such deceased mortgagee or trustee was a party to such foreclosure proceeding or not, and such heir of any deceased mortgagee is estopped to bring or prosecute any further action against such purchaser for the recovery of such property or foreclosure of such mortgage or deed in trust. (Rev., s. 1032; 1905, c. 425, s. 2.)

§ 2580. Renunciation by representative; clerk appoints trustee.—The executor or administrator of any deceased mortgagee or trustee in any mortgage or deed of trust heretofore or hereafter executed may renounce in writing, before the clerk of the superior court before whom he qualifies, the trust under the mortgage or deed of trust at the time he qualifies as executor or administrator, or at any time thereafter before he intermeddles with or exercises any of the duties under said mortgage or deed of trust, except to preserve the property until a trustee can be appointed. In every such case of renunciation the clerk of the superior court of any county wherein the said mortgage or deed of trust is registered has power and authority, upon proper proceedings instituted before him, as in other cases of special proceedings, to appoint some person to act as trustee and execute said mortgage or deed of trust. The clerk, in addition to recording his proceedings in his book of orders and decrees, shall enter the name of the substituted trustee or mortgagee on the margin of the deed in trust or the mortgage in the book of the office of the register of deeds of said county. (Rev., s. 1038; 1905, c. 128.)

See section 2583 and annotations thereunder.

§ 2581. Agent to sell under power may be appointed by parol.—All sales of property, real or personal, under a power of sale contained in any mortgage or deed of trust to secure the payment of money, by any mortgagee or trustee, through an agent or attorney for that purpose, by such mortgagee or trustee, appointed orally or in writing, whether such writing has been or shall be registered or not, shall be valid, whether or not such mortgagee or trustee was or shall be present at such sale. (Rev., s. 1035; 1895, c. 117.)

Recitals in Deed Prima Facie Correct.—Recitals in a trustee's deed that the trustee made the sale in pursuance of the power contained in the deed of trust are taken as prima facie correct. Hayes v. Ferguson, 206 N. C. 414, 174 S. E. 121.

§ 2582. Survivorship among donees of power of sale.—In all mortgages and deeds of trust wherein two or more persons, as trustees, or other wise, are given power to sell the property therein conveyed or embraced, and one or more of such persons dies, any one of the persons surviving having such power may make sale of such property in the manner directed in such deed, and execute such assurances of title as are proper and lawful under the power so given; and the act of such person, in pursuance of said power, shall be as valid and binding as if the same had been done by all the persons on whom the power was conferred. (Rev., s. 1033; 1885, c. 327, s. 2.)

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 93.

Execution of Power by Survivor Trustee in Mortgage.—Where one or two trustees in a power of sale mortgage dies, the survivor may execute the trust, this being a trust coupled with an interest. Cawfiel v. Owens, 129 N. C. 286, 40 S. E. 62.

§ 2583. Clerk appoints successor to incompetent trustee.—When the sole or last surviving trustee named in a will or deed of trust dies, removes from the county where the will was probated or deed executed and/or recorded and from the state, or in any way becomes incompetent to execute the said trust, or is a nonresident of this state, or has disappeared from the community of his residence and his whereabouts remains unknown in such community for a period of three months and cannot, after diligent inquiry be ascertained, the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the will was probated or deed of trust was executed and/or recorded is authorized and empowered, in proceedings to which all persons interested shall be made parties, to appoint some discreet and competent person to act as trustee and execute the trust according to its true intent and meaning, and as fully as if originally appointed: Provided, that in all actions or proceedings had under this section prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred, before the clerks of the superior court in which any trustee was appointed to execute a deed of trust where any trustee of a deed of trust has died, removed from the county where the deed was executed and from the state, or in any way become incompetent to execute the said trust, whether such appointment of such trustee by order or decree, or otherwise, was made upon the application or petition of any person or persons ex parte, or whether made in proceedings where all the proper parties were made, are in all things confirmed and made valid so far as regards the parties to said actions and proceedings to the same extent as if all proper parties had originally been made in such actions or proceedings. (Rev., s. 1037; Code, s. 1276; 1869-70, c. 183; 1873-4, c. 126; 1901, c. 576; 1933, c. 493.)

Editor's Note. — Public Laws 1933, c. 493, inserted the words "and/or recorded" following the word "executed." It also inserted the clause relating to instances where the trustee has disappeared.

Section Becomes Part of Contract.—Where a deed of trust is executed after the effective date of this section the provisions of the section enter into and become a part of the contract, and a later statute providing a more economical and expeditious procedure for such substitution, so long as the rights of the parties, especially those of the cestui que trust, are not injuriously affected, does not violate the constitutional provisions. Bateman v. Sterrett, 201 N. C. 59, 159 S. E. 14.

Appointment of New Trustee upon the Death of the Old.—Upon the death of a trustee, the clerk of the superior court may appoint another under this section who may proceed to execute the trust according to the terms of the deed. Wright v. Fort, 126 N. C. 615, 36 S. E. 113.

Appointment of Trustee upon the Death of the Last Survivor.—Upon the death of the last survivor of a board of trustees named in a deed for property to be used as a "Baptist church and for the education of the youths of the colored race," it was held that their successors will be appointed under this section, by the clerk of the court. Thornton v. Harris, 140 N. C. 498, 53 S. E. 341.

Appointment upon Appeal.—Where clerk of superior court, for want of jurisdiction, dismisses a proceeding for the appointment of a trustee, on appeal the judge of the superior court may make such appointment. Roseman v. Roseman, 127 N. C. 494, 37 S. E. 518.

Petition for Appointment of New Trustee—Title of New Trustee.—Under this section, when a trustee dies, all of the parties in interest may join in a petition to the superior court to have a new trustee appointed, and upon the passing of the decree the substituted trustee holds the legal title upon the same trusts as the original trustee, so far as it is competent for the court to confer them. McAfee v. Green, 143 N. C. 411, 55 S. E. 828.

Necessity of Bond for Substituted Trustee.—It is not necessary in substituting one trustee for another in pursuance of this section, to require a bond of the substituted trustee. Strayhorn v. Green, 92 N. C. 119.

Personal Powers of Old Trustee Cannot Be Transferred upon the New.—Where the powers to be exercised by the original trustee are of a personal nature depending upon his discretion, such powers cannot be conferred upon the appointed trustee. See Young v. Young, 97 N. C. 132, 2 S. E. 78.

Administrator C. T. A. Taking Place of Executor Trustee.—Where an executor named in a will is thereby also appointed a trustee and renounces or dies, the administrator cum testamento annexo appointed in his stead succeeds to the trusteeship, and hence an appointment by the clerk of the court, under this section, of a trustee in place of the executor is void and clothes the appointee with no power. State v. Peebles, 120 N. C. 31, 26 S. E. 924.

All Persons Interested Must Be Made Parties.—The appointment of a trustee in cases where the former trustee has died, removed from the county, or become incompetent cannot be done on an ex parte motion or petition. The application for such appointment is in the nature of a civil action, and all persons interested must be made parties, and have full time and opportunity to set up their respective claims. Guion v. Melvin, 69 N. C. 242.

Section Not Applicable.—Where the terms as to foreclosure in a deed of trust on lands to secure borrowed money have been complied with as to the substitution of the trustee, the method expressed for this purpose is contractual and does not arise under this section requiring certain proceedings to be taken in the courts; and a deed made by a substituted trustee in accordance with the agreement passes the title to the purchaser at the foreclosure sale. Raleigh Real Estate, etc., Co. v. Padgett, 194 N. C. 727, 140 S. E. 714.

§ 2583(a). Substitution of trustees in mortgages and deeds of trust. — In addition to the rights and remedies now provided by law, the holder and/or owners of all or a majority, in amount, of the indebtedness, notes, bonds, or other instruments evidencing a promise or promises to pay money and secured by mortgages, deeds of trust, or other instruments conveying real or personal property, or creating a lien thereon, may exercise the following powers:

(1) To substitute a trustee by the execution of a paper writing whenever it shall appear that the trustee then named in such mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument, securing the payment of money, whether such then named trustee shall be the original trustee named therein or a substituted trustee, has removed from the State, become incompetent to act mentally or physically, or has been committed to any institution, private or public, on account of inebriacy, or conviction of a criminal offense, or has refused to accept such appointment as trustee or refuses to act or has been declared a bankrupt, or against whom a petition in involuntary bankruptcy has been filed, or against whom a suit has been instituted in any court of this State in which relief is asked against him on account of insolvency, or a cause of action has been asserted against him on account of fraud against his creditors, or has died, and if such named [trustee] in such mortgage, deed of trust or other instrument as aforesaid, is a corporation and such corporation has ceased to do business, or has ceased to exercise trust powers, or has excluded from its regular business the performance of such trusts, or has been declared a bankrupt, or has been placed in the hands of a receiver, or insolvency proceedings have been instituted in any court of this State or in any court of the United States against it, or any action has been instituted in either of said courts against it in which relief is asked on the ground of insolvency or fraud against its creditors, or when any officer or commission of this State, or any employee of such commission or officer, has taken charge of its affairs for the purpose of liquidation pursuant to any statute, or when it is a foreign corporation, or the trustee is not a resident of this State or cannot be found in this State, or has disappeared from the community of his residence and his whereabouts remains unknown in such community for a period of three months or more. (1931, c. 78, s. 1; 1935, c. 227.)

Editor's Note.—The title of the act from which this section is taken purports to amend § 2583. The body is, however, an independent statute, in effect, supplementary to such section. No similar statute has been found, but in the belief that decisions under substitution powers conferred in deeds of trust will be helpful by way of analogy, collections of these are referred to. 4 Cook, Corporations 3672-3673; Wiltsie, Mortgage Foreclosure (4th ed.) § 831; Ettlinger v. Persian Rug Co., 142 N. Y. 189, 36 N. E. 1055 (1894) (trustee beyond jurisdiction and insane, bondholders allowed to foreclose without service on trustee or appointment of a new trustee). 9 N. C. Law Rev. 403.

The provision at the end of the section reading "or when it is a foreign corporation, or the trustee is not a resident," etc., was added by the 1935 amendment.

§ 2583(b). Powers in preceding section cumulative and optional. — The powers recited in the sub-section of the foregoing section shall be construed and held to be cumulative and optional. (1931, c. 78, s. 2.)

§ 2583(c). Certificate by Clerk of Superior Court.—Whenever the powers set out in sub-section one of section 2583(a) shall be exercised the Clerk of the Superior Court shall certify that the instrument has been executed by the owner or owners of a majority in amount of the indebtedness, notes, bonds or other instruments secured therein, have executed the same, and that it has been made to appear to him that the cause of substitution as set forth therein is true and that the substituted trustee is a fit and proper person or corporation to perform the duties of said trust, and unless such certificate is attached to said instrument before registration and registered therewith the same shall be invalid and of no effect. (1931, c. 78, s. 3.)

§ 2583(d). Right of appeal by any person interested; judge to review findings of Clerk de novo. — Whenever the power contained in subsection one of section 2583(a) is exercised in respect to any deed of trust, mortgage or other instrument creating the lien which was executed prior to the ratification of this act, then, at any time within twelve months from its registration but within thirty days from actual knowledge of the same, any person interested therein may appeal from the findings of the Clerk of the Superior Court pursuant to section 2583(c), and such appeal shall be duly constituted when a written notice signed by, or on behalf of such person, shall have been served in any of the methods of service of summons provided by law on all other parties interested therein, including the said substituted trustee, in which notice it shall be stated that a motion will be made before the Judge of the Superior Court of the county of the clerk who made such certificate at the next regular term of such Superior Court beginning more than ten days after the service of said notice on all interested parties, and the docketing of such notices on the civil issue docket of said county. On the hearing of said motion it shall be open to all parties to contest and defend the findings of said clerk, and the judge shall review said findings de novo and make such findings in respect thereof as shall appear to him from the evidence to be true, and if the said substituted trustee shall be removed at said hearing another trustee shall be substituted in his stead by the court upon a finding that he or it is a proper person or corporation to perform the functions of said trusteeship, but only one such appeal shall be allowed as to each appointment. (1931, c. 78, s. 4.)

as such trustee and shall thereafter be removed as herein provided, such removal shall not invalidate or affect the validity of such acts in so far as any purchaser or third person shall be affected or interested, and any conveyances made by such trustee before removal if otherwise valid, shall be and remain valid and effectual to all intents and purposes, but if any trustee upon such hearing is declared to have been wrongfully removed, he shall have his right of action against the substituted trustee for any compensation that he would have received in case he had not been wrongfully removed from such trust. (1931, c. 78, s. 5.)

§ 2583(h). Substitution made as often as justifiable. — The powers set out in section 2583(a) may be exercised as often and as many times as the right to make such substitution may arise under the terms of such section, and all the privileges and requirements and rights to contest the same as herein set out shall apply to each deed of trust or mortgage and to each substitution. (1931, c. 78, s. 8.)

§ 2584. Mortgage to guardian; powers pass to succeeding guardian.—When a guardian to whom a mortgage has been extended dies or is removed or resigns before the payment of the debt secured in such mortgage, all the rights, powers and duties of such mortgagee shall devolve upon the succeeding guardian. (Rev., s. 1034; 1905, c. 433.)

§ 2584(a). Sales by mortgagees and trustees confirmed.—All sales of real property made prior to February tenth, nineteen hundred and five, by mortgagees and trustees under powers of sale contained in any mortgage or deed of trust in compliance with the powers, terms, conditions and advertisement set forth and required in any such mortgage or deed of trust, are hereby in all respects ratified and confirmed: Provided, this section shall not apply to litigation pending August 25, 1920. (Ex. Sess. 1920, c. 27.)

Art. 3. Mortgage Sales

§ 2585. Personal property; notice and place of sale.—All personal property sold under the terms of any mortgage or other contract, expressed or implied, whether advertised in some newspaper or otherwise, shall be advertised by posting a notice at some conspicuous place at the courthouse door in the county where the property is situated, such notice to be posted for at least twenty days before the sale, unless a shorter time be expressed in the contract. (Rev., s. 1042; 1889, c. 70; 1909, c. 49, s. 1.)

Cross References.—For advertisement of execution sales of personalty, see Civil Procedure, Art. 28.

Strict Compliance with Statute.—In foreclosure proceedings under a power of sale contained in a mortgage, the requirements of the statute and the contract stipulations of the instrument, not inconsistent with the statute in respect to notice and other terms on which the power may be exercised, shall be strictly complied with; and when such has not been done, no title can pass under the sale in respect to the immediate parties thereto. Ferebee v. Sawyer, 167 N. C. 199, 83 S. E. 17.

Same—Notice of Postponement.—But this applies when a postponement is had by reason of the sale being enjoined or for other reasonable purposes, for in the absence of statutory or contract provisions to the contrary, a notice of postponement made in good faith, and reasonably calculated to give proper publicity of the time and place, is held sufficient. Feebee v. Sawyer, 167 N. C. 199, 83 S. E. 17.

Place of Sale Not Affected by This Section.—The place of sale designated in the mortgage controls at what place the sale is to be affected. This rule is not affected by this section which merely provides for the place of notice, and makes no mention of the place of sale. Palmer v. Latham, 173 N. C. 60, 61, 91 S. E. 525.

Section 687 Does Not Affect Mortgages under This Section.—Section 687 requiring notice under mortgage, etc., for thirty days is, by express terms, prospective in effect and is amended by the Laws of 1909, ch. 705, prescribing publication in a newspaper "once a week for four weeks"; therefore it does not affect mortgages made prior thereto, coming under the provisions of this section requiring that whether advertised in a newspaper or otherwise, the sale "shall be advertised by posting a notice at some conspicuous place at the courthouse door," etc., for twenty days, etc. Jenkins v. Griffin, 175 N. C. 184, 95 S. E. 166.

Presumption of Regularity.—While powers of sale under mortgage are closely scrutinized by the courts and held to the letter of the contract, the law presumes the regularity of the sale in the execution of such powers and places the burden of proof on the party claiming a failure of proper notice or advertisement to show it. Jenkins v. Griffin, 175 N. C. 184, 95 S. E. 166; Cowfield v. Owens, 129 N. C. 286, 288, 40 S. E. 62.

§ 2586. Charges for legal advertising. — The publication of all advertising required by law to be made in newspapers in this state shall be paid for at not to exceed the local commercial rate of the newspaper selected. Any public or municipal officer or board created by or existing under the laws of this state that is now or may hereafter be authorized by law to enter into contracts for the publication of legal advertisements is hereby authorized to pay therefor prices not exceeding said rates. Nothing herein shall apply to contracts or agreements for legal advertising in this state existing at the time this section takes effect.

No newspaper in this state shall accept or print any legal advertising until said newspaper shall have first filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which it is published a sworn statement of its current commerical rate for the several classes of advertising regularly carried by said publication, and any owner or manager of a newspaper violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1919, c. 45, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 2587. Foreclosure of conditional sales.—In all sales of personal property wherein the title is retained by the seller to secure the purchase money, or any part thereof, and no power of sale is conferred, and default is made in the payment of said obligation by the purchaser, then in all such cases it is lawful for the owner of such debt thereby secured, without an order of court, to sell such property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay off said indebtedness, at public auction for cash, after first giving twenty days notice at three or more public places in the county wherein the sale is to be made, and apply the proceeds of such sale to the discharge of said debt, interest on the same, and costs of foreclosure, and pay any surplus to the person legally entitled thereto. Before making any such sale, in addition to the advertisement above required, the owner of said debt shall, at least ten days before the day of sale, mail a copy of the notice of sale to the last known postoffice address of the original purchaser or his assigns. (1913, c. 60, s. 1.)

For other provisions on conditional sales, see section 3312.

A contract for the sale of personal property, retaining title in the vendor until the purchase price has been paid, without express power of sale therein, comes under the provisions of this section, as if written in the contract, and gives to the vendor the right to sell the property in default of payment of the purchase price, or part thereof, without the consent of court, upon certain advertisement specified in the statute; and it is reversible error for the court to charge the jury that the vendor could not sell the property without the consent of the purchaser. House v. Parker, 181 N. C. 40, 106 S. E. 137.

§ 2588. Real property; notice of sale must describe premises.—In sales of real estate under deeds of trust or mortgages it is the duty of the trustee or mortgagee making such sale to fully describe the premises in the notice required by law substantially as the same is described in the deed of authority under which said trustee or mortgagee makes such sale. (Rev., s. 1043; 1895, c. 294.)

The purpose and intent of this section was to give complete and full notice to the public of the land to be sold, so that the public generally would know and understand from the advertisement the exact property offered for sale. Douglas v. Rhodes, 188 N. C. 580, 583, 125 S. E. 261.

The Word "Substantially."—In Douglas v. Rhodes, 188 N. C. 580, 583, 125 S. E. 261, the court said: "If the Legislature had intended that the real estate (set forth by metes and bounds in the deed of trust in the present case) in a deed of trust or mortgage should be described by metes and bounds when advertised for sale under the terms of the deed of trust or mortgage, it could have easily said so in the statute, but on the contrary it used the word 'substantially.' The word 'substantially,' Webster defines to mean: 'In a substantial manner, in substance, essentially.' It does not mean an accurate or exact copy."

Same—Sufficient Description. — Advertisements for the sale of land under foreclosure of mortgage or deed of trust are required by this section to describe the lands "substantially" as in the conveyance thereof; and while it may be more advisable to give the exact description, the deed made in pursuance thereof is not necessarily void for lack of such description, as where the land is designated as a well-known and certain tract, or place of business, or manufacturing plant, with reference to the book in the office of the register of deeds where the description is given, with number of page, etc., for a more particular description, it is a sufficient description of the land and will convey the title if the notice of such has been published in accordance with the terms of a mortgage or deed in trust. Douglas v. Rhodes, 188 N. C. 580, 125 S. E. 261.

Applicable to Deed of Trust or Mortgage.—Under a fair construction of this section, it is applicable to a sale under the power in a deed of trust or mortgage. The notice required by law under the statute would be the notice in the deed of trust or mortgage. Douglas v. Rhodes, 188 N. C. 580, 582, 125 S. E. 261.

§ 2589. Real property; power of sale barred when foreclosure barred.—The power of sale of real property contained in any mortgage or deed of trust for the benefit of creditors shall become inoperative, and no person shall execute any such power, when an action to foreclose such mortgage or deed of trust for the benefit of creditors would be barred by the statute of limitations. (Rev., s. 1044.)

As to statute of limitation on foreclosure, see section 437(3).

Applicable to Contracts in Existence at Enactment.—This section is applicable to those contracts which existed at the time of its becoming operative; but, as to those, it only affected an existing remedy, which does not impair the obligations of the contract, when a reasonable time has elapsed thereafter within which the action could have been instituted. Graves v. Howard, 159 N. C. 594, 75 S. E. 998.

Subject to Ten-Year Limitation.—While formerly there was no bar to the execution of a power of sale contained in a mortgage of lands, mortgages then executed are made subject to the ten-year statute, by this section. Jenkins v. Griffin, 175 N. C. 184, 95 S. E. 166.

The power of sale may be exercised at any time within ten years after maturity of any note secured. E. H. & J. A. Meadows Co. v. Bryan, 195 N. C. 398, 142 S. E. 487.

Where notes secured by a mortgage are barred by the statute of limitations, and the power of sale contained in the instrument is barred by the lapse of over ten years from the date of the last payment on the notes, the trustee's contention that the mortgagor would have to pay the amount of the notes in order to be entitled to the equitable relief of restraining the foreclosure on the principle that he who seeks equity must do equity, is unavailing. Serls v. Gibbs, 205 N. C. 246, 171 S. E. 56.

Where notes are given in series, secured by a mortgage on lands providing that upon the nonpayment at maturity of each as they became due all of them were to become due and payable, it is at the option of the mortgagee to enforce the sale upon the happening of the event specified, and when the mortgagee has not exercised his option, the statute of limitations would apply as from the due date of each note in the series, as if the provision for the acceleration of the payment had not been incorporated in the mortgage. And where more than ten years had elapsed since the maturity of some of the notes recovery therein was barred under this section and § 437, subsection, 3. E. H. & J. A. Meadows Co. v. Bryan, 195 N. C. 398, 142 S. E. 487.

When it does not appear that the mortgagee in a mortgage on lands securing the payment of notes in series has exercised his option to foreclose under a provision making all the notes payable upon the failure of the maker to pay any of them at maturity, the presumption is that he has waived his right to do so, but will not be held, on that account, to bar his right to foreclose under the power of sale therein contained. E. H. & J. A. Meadows Co. v. Bryan, 195 N. C. 398, 142 S. E. 487.

Running of Statute on Installment Debts.—Where a debt is made payable in two installments, maturing at different times, the creditor may elect to wait to sue till the second installment is due, and the statute of limitations will not begin to run until that time. Cone v. Hyatt, 132 N. C. 810, 44 S. E. 678.

Limitation When Power of Sale for Default of Interest Optional.—The statute of limitations does not begin to run upon default in payment of annual interest upon the principal, when the power of sale contained in the mortgage is optional with the mortgagee upon default of either interest or principal of the debt. Scott v. Blades Lumber Co., 144 N. C. 44, 56 S. E. 548.

Statute Does Not Commence Running until Debt Due.—The statute of limitations does not begin to run against the principal of a mortgage of lands until it is due, and the power of sale contained in the mortgage may be exercised within ten years after the maturity of the principal. Scott v. Blades Lumber Co., 144 N. C. 44, 56 S. E. 548.

Doctrine of Cone v. Hyatt, Changed by Section. — The holding in Cone v. Hyatt, 132 N. C. 810, 44 S. E. 678, that the power of sale in a deed of trust or mortgage is not barred by the statute of limitation, though an action for foreclosure thereon is barred, is changed by this secton. See also Lester Piano Co. v. Loven, 207 N. C. 96, 101, 176 S. E. 290.

§ 2590. Land lying in two or more counties; place of sale.—When a mortgage or deed in trust conveying lands lying partly in two or more counties confers upon the mortgagee or mortgagees, trustee or trustees, therein named, any power for the sale of such lands, without naming the place of sale, or conferring upon such mortgagees, trustee or trustees, the right to select the same, in the exercise of such power, any sale thereunder may be made at the courthouse door of any one of the counties in which such lands are situate, and at no other place except as hereinafter provided; but when such lands consist of two or more detached parcels, lying wholly within the limits of different counties, the sale of each and every one of such parcels shall be made at the courthouse door of the county in which the same is situate. (1911, c. 165, s. 1.)

§ 2591. Reopening judicial sales, etc., on advanced bid.—In the foreclosure of mortgages or deeds of trust on real estate, or by order of court in foreclosure proceedings either in the superior court or in actions at law, or in the case of the public sale of real estate by an executor, administrator, or administrator with the will annexed, or by any person by virtue of the power contained in a will, or sale under execution duly issued the sale shall not be deemed to be closed under ten days. If in ten days from the date of the sale, the sale price is increased ten per cent where the price does not exceed five hundred dollars, and five per cent where the price exceeds five hundred dollars, and the same is paid to the clerk of the superior court, the mortgagee, trustee, executor, or person offering the real estate for sale shall reopen the sale of said property and advertise the same in the same manner as in the first instance. The clerk may, in his discretion, require the person making such advance bid to execute a good and sufficient bond in a sufficient amount to guarantee compliance with the terms of sale should the person offering the advance bid be declared the purchaser at the resale. Where the bid or offer is raised as prescribed herein, and the amount paid to the clerk, he shall issue an order to the mortgagee or other person and require him to advertise and resell said real estate. It shall only be required to give fifteen days' notice of a resale. Resales may be had as often as the bid may be raised in compliance with this section. Upon the final sale of the real estate, the clerk shall issue his order to the mortgagee or other person, and require him to make title to the purchaser. The clerk shall make all such orders as may be just and necessary to safeguard the interest of all parties, and he shall keep a record which will show in detail the amount of each bid, the purchase price, and the final settlement between parties. This section shall not apply to the foreclosure of mortgages or deeds of trust executed prior to April first, nineteen hundred and fifteen. (1915, c. 146; 1917, c. 127, ss. 3, 4; 1919, c. 124; 1929, c. 16; 1931, c. 69; 1933, c. 482.)

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 15, 300.

Editor's Note.—The meaning of the 1931 amendment is not entirely clear. The act of 1929 inserted the words "or by order of court in foreclosure proceedings in the Superior Court." The 1931 amendment repeals the former and inserts the words "or by order of court in foreclosure proceedings either in the Superior Court or in actions at law." While a proceeding for foreclosure must be in the Superior Court and is an equitable remedy under the former practice, the distinction between actions at law and suits in equity is abolished, and the remedy is by a civil action. The provision for resale upon an advanced bid has been held not to apply to a sale of land under execution (Weir v. Weir, 196 N. C. 268, 145 S. E. 281), and to make the provision apply to such sales, or to other than foreclosure sales under order of court, would seem to be adding something to the meaning of the words employed. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 383.

Public Laws of 1933, c. 482, inserted, near the end of the first sentence, the words "or sale under execution duly issued."

Liberal Construction—Time of Making Deposit on Advanced Bid.—While the clerk of the Superior Court is without authority to order a resale of lands foreclosed under mortgage without an increase bid filed with him under the provisions of this section, and the payment of the deposit required, the provisions of the statute relating thereto are to be liberally construed to effectuate its intent to protect the mortgagor, and when within the statutory time limit the offerer has communicated with the clerk of the court by phone and offered to come from an adjacent town and make a sufficient deposit, and is informed by the clerk that it would be sufficient to send a cashier's check by mail on that day, and a good cashier's check is accordingly mailed, a substantial compliance with the statute has been made, though the check was received by the clerk after the expiration of the time limit of the statute. Clayton Banking Co. v. Green, 197 N. C. 534, 149 S. E. 689.

Deposit to Secure Bid within Court's Discretion.—In a suit to foreclose a mortgage an order of the trial court that the bidder at the sale or resales be required to secure his bid before acceptance of the same, is within the sound discretion of the trial court, and is not affected by this section. Koonce v. Fort, 205 N. C. 413, 171 S. E. 367.

Purpose of Deposit on Advanced Bid.—The deposit required by this section is to guarantee against loss in a resale of land under foreclosure sale of a mortgage, and where the clerk of the Superior Court has required of a person placing an advance bid a deposit representing a five per cent increase bid, and in addition a deposit to guarantee compliance with the bid, under the statute, and the lands are resold and bought in by the one making the advance bid, and he refuses to pay the amount because of threatened litigation, and the lands are again resold and bring a surplus over that of the prior resale, there has been no loss occasioned by the first resale, and the person making the deposit therefor is entitled to receive it back as against the claim therefor of one holding a note secured by a junior mortgage on the same property. Harris v. American Bank & Trust Co., 198 N. C. 605, 152 S. E. 802.

Estoppel to Set up Irregularities in Foreclosure Proceedings.—Where the trustee in a deed of trust proceeds to advertise and foreclose the land under the terms of the instrument, and upon request of the trustor, continues the sale from day to day for about a month in order to give the trustor time in which to raise the money to pay off the lien, and the trustor is present at the time of the first continuance of the sale and at the time of the actual sale, and made no objection thereto, and failed to raise the bid within ten days, and thereafter the purchaser at the sale transfers to a bona fide purchaser without notice, the trustor is estopped as against the bona fide purchaser without notice to set up his claim to the land on the grounds of alleged irregularity in the foreclosure proceedings. Phipps v. Wyatt, 199 N. C. 727, 155 S. E. 721.

Confirmation of Sale Not Subject to Collateral Attack.—In an action to recover the balance due on mortgage notes after foreclosure, confirmation of the sale by the clerk, under this section, and application of the proceeds to the notes, cannot be collaterally attacked in plaintiff's action to recover the deficiency after foreclosure. First Carolina's Joint-Stock Land Bank v. Stewart, 208 N. C. 139, 179 S. E. 463.

Execution Sales.—This section is not applicable to execution sales. Weir v. Weir, 196 N. C. 268, 269, 145 S. E. 281.

Authority of Clerk—Exception to Distribution or Proceeds.—The only authority conferred by this section on the clerk is to order a resale of the property where the bid has been raised as therein prescribed, and where there are a first and second mortgage upon such lands, foreclosed under the second, an exception to the distribution of the proceeds is untenable, the remedy, if any, being by independent action. In re Bauguess, 196 N. C. 278, 145 S. E. 395.

Same—Amount of Commission Allowed.—Where lands have been sold under a power of sale in a deed of trust, and under this section the amount it brought at the sale has been raised, it is within the authority of the clerk of the court to allow the commission provided for in the deed to the extent of the advanced price, when reasonable, against the claim of subsequent lienors or claimants. In re Hollowell Land, 194 N. C. 222, 139 S. E. 769.

Power and Authority of Clerk.—This section, does not require that all sales of land under mortgage or deed in trust be reported to the clerk of the court, but only when an advanced bid has been made and is properly safeguarded or paid into the office of the clerk of the court. Pringle v. Building, etc., Ass'n, 182 N. C. 316, 108 S. E. 914. See also In re Sermon's Land, 182 N. C. 122, 128, 108 S. E. 497.

While under the provisions of this section, it is required that the clerk order title to be conveyed to the purchaser at the final resale, semble, this order is merely ministerial when the resale has been made in accordance with the statute in other respects, and the omission may be supplied by the clerk making the order nunc pro tunc, and the deed accordingly made will convey the title to the purchaser. Lawrence v. Beck, 185 N. C. 196, 116 S. E. 424.

The supervisory powers invested in the clerk of the court over sales under a mortgage, deed of trust, etc., are not those of general control as exercised by the courts in case of an ordinary judicial sale, but confined by the statute to sales, and resales under the power of sale contained in the instruments, and in accordance with the directions of the statute. Lawrence v. Beck, 185 N. C. 196, 116 S. E. 424.

The supervisory powers given the clerks of the Superior Courts by this section apply to sales and resales under the power of sale contained in mortgages and deeds of trust and not to ordinary judicial sales, and the statute must be strictly complied with. Redfern v. McGrady, 199 N. C. 128, 154 S. E. 3.

Notwithstanding ten days have elapsed from the date of the sale, at the time the increased bid was made, the clerk has the power, in his discretion, to order a resale, without waiting for the expiration of twenty days within which parties to the proceeding might file exceptions to the sale. Vance v. Vance, 203 N. C. 667, 668, 166 S. E. 901.

The order of the clerk to deliver title required by this section is, however, merely ministerial in its nature, and its omission, when in fact the trustee has, after complying with all the terms of the power of sale contained in the deed of trust, made title to the purchaser, does not invalidate the foreclosure, or render the title acquired by the purchaser as grantee in the deed of the trustee void, solely for that reason. Cheek v. Squires, 200 N. C. 661, 668, 158 S. E. 198.

By this section, the clerk has the power to make an allowance to the mortgagee or trustee for his services in making the sale, to be retained by him from the proceeds of the sale. From an order making such allowance, a party interested in the land or in the proceeds of the sale, may appeal to the judge, who upon such appeal may affirm, reverse or modify the order of the clerk; in the absence of such appeal, the order of the clerk is final and conclusive. Tidewater Brokerage Co. v. Southern Trust Co., 203 N. C. 182, 183, 165 S. E. 353.

Where appellant raised the bid within ten days after the sale under foreclosure, and the property was resold, and knocked down to him at the advanced bid, it was held that if he failed to pay the purchase price the clerk has no power under this section to attach him for contempt or force him to take his wife's rents, the lands belonging to the separate estate of his wife, and after foreclosure the rents being paid to her. In re Longley, 205 N. C. 488, 489, 171 S. E. 788.

Same—Effect of Cash Stipulated at First Sale.—Under the provisions of this section, the clerk of the court has no jurisdiction, except to order a resale of land sold under the power of sale of a mortgage, when, within the ten days required by the statute, the bid at the sale has been raised; and a mere statement made at the foreclosure sale that the purchase price be paid in cash upon confirmation, implies only that the cash would be required if the bid should not be raised in the amount and time prescribed by law. In re Mortgage Sale of Ware Property, 178 N. C. 693, 122 S. E. 660.

Same—Where Property Injured within Ten Day Period.—This section controls as to ordering a resale of lands sold under a power of sale contained in a mortgage or deed of trust, and confers no power on the clerk to make such order, unless within the ten days allowed there shall be an increased bid, etc., and does not extend to instances wherein a material loss has been sustained by destruction of a house on the lands, within the stated period. In re Sermon's Land, 182 N. C. 122, 108 S. E. 497.

Where the mortgage premises has been materially diminished in value by the loss by fire of a house thereon, which has been sold under a power contained in the instrument, the bidder at such sale having no title or right of possession, or control over the property for its preservation or protection, within ten days provided by this section, the loss occurring within that time falls on the owner, and the preferred bidder is not chargeable therewith, or required by law to take the property at the price he had bid therefor. In re Sermon's Land, 182 N. C. 122, 108 S. E. 497.

Same—When Supervisory Power Begins. — The clerk of the court acquires supervisory power of the sale of land under power contained in a mortgage or deed of trust from the time of an advanced bid paid into his hands, under the provisions of this section, which continues until after the final sale under foreclosure. Lawrence v. Beck, 185 N. C. 196, 116 S. E. 424.

Same—Order Accepting Mortgagor's Deed.—Where a resale of lands under mortgage has been made under the provisions of this section, the clerk may enter an order accepting the mortgagor's deed nunc pro tunc as to the time it should have been tendered, when otherwise the observance of the statute had been made. Briggs v. Asheville Developers, 191 N. C. 784, 133 S. E. 3.

Section Incorporated in Mortgages and Deeds of Trust.—The provisions of this section, concerning the sale of land under a power thereof contained in a mortgage or deed of trust, enter into and control the sale under such instruments. In re Sermon's Land, 182 N. C. 122, 108 S. E. 497.

Status Under Section of Mortgage and Deeds of Trust Sales.—Under this section a sale of land under the power in a mortgage or deed of trust is given the same status as if made under a judgment or decree of court. Pringle v. Building, etc., Ass'n, 182 N. C. 316, 108 S. E. 914.

Purpose of Section as to Mortgagors.—This section was intended for the protection of mortgagors where sales are made under a power of sale without a decree of foreclosure by the court. In the latter cases there was always an equity to decree a resale when a substantial raise in the bid, usually 10 per cent. had been deposited in court. There being no such protection as to mortgagors, whose property had been sold under power of sale without a decree of foreclosure, the same opportunity of a resale when there has been an increased bill of 10 per cent. when the bid at the first sale did not exceed $500, and of 5 per cent. when the bid of the first sale was more than $500. Pringle v. Building, etc., Ass'n, 182 N. C. 316, 317, 108 S. E. 914.

Irregularity in Conveyance—Time to Keep Sale Open. — Where a trust deed to secure money loaned on lands has been foreclosed, this section requires the sale to be kept open for ten days for the tender of increased bids, etc., but where it appears that an irregularity in conveying the land before the expiration of the statutory time could not have prejudiced any of the parties, they are concluded by the judgment upholding the validity of the transaction. Wise v. Short, 181 N. C. 320, 107 S. E. 134.

No Specific Performance When Sale Reopened.—The principle upon which specific performance of a binding contract to convey lands is enforceable, has no application to the successful bidder at a sale under the power contained in a mortgage or deed of trust of lands, during the ten days allowed by this section, for, within that time, there is no binding contract of purchase, and the bargain is incomplete. In re Sermon's Land, 182 N. C. 122, 108 S. E. 497.

Title of the Bidder.—Under the provisions of this section, the bidder at the sale during the period of ten days acquires no interest in the property itself, but only a position similar to a bidder at a judicial sale, before confirmation. He is only considered as a preferred bidder, his right depending upon whether there is an increased bid and a resale of the land ordered under the provisions of the statute. In re Sermon's Land, 182 N. C. 122, 108 S. E. 497.

Rights of Highest Bidder—Payment of Mortgage within Ten Days Period.—The last highest bidder at a foreclosure sale of a mortgage on lands is but a proposed purchaser under this section acquiring no right until the statutory provision of ten days has expired, and the payment of the full mortgage indebtedness to the mortgagee within that time cancels the instrument and all rights arising thereunder. In such case no recovery of damages can be had by the bidder against the mortgagor or a purchaser from him to whom the equity of redemption has been conveyed. Cherry v. Gilliam, 195 N. C. 233, 141 S. E. 594.

The one who is the last and highest bidder at the foreclosure of a mortgage or deed of trust on lands is but a proposed purchaser within the ten days before confirmation, and where the mortgagee has become such purchaser and within ten days allowed by statute for an increase bid a third person pays the mortgage debt and has the notes and mortgage assigned to him, such person has the right of lien and foreclosure under the terms of the mortgage securing the note. Davis v. Central Life Ins. Co., 197 N. C. 617, 150 S. E. 120.

Same—Revocation of Order for Deed.—Under this section it is the duty of the clerk of the Superior Court to readvertise and resell the mortgaged property as often as the statute is complied with, and the last and highest bidder at a prior sale acquires no rights in the property until his bid has finally been accepted and the order made for the deed to be made to him; and such order having been made by the clerk prematurely, it is proper for him to make an entry revoking it and order a resale, and an injunction will not lie to restrain the resale where the order has been thus revoked and the statute complied with. Hanna v. Carolina Mortgage Co., 197 N. C. 184, 148 S. E. 31.

Rights of Owner of Equity of Redemption.—Where lands have been many times resold under this section and the owner of the equity of redemption has not protected himself at the sales, he may not have the deed at the final foreclosure sale set aside for irregularity when the last purchaser is an innocent purchaser for value in good faith. Brown v. Sheets, 197 N. C. 268, 148 S. E. 233.

Deposit of Advanced Bid with Clerk.—Under the facts of this case presenting the question of a valid resale of mortgaged land under the provisions of this section, objection that only two per cent. of the proposed advanced bid was deposited with the clerk was untenable. Briggs v. Asheville Developers, 191 N. C. 784, 133 S. E. 3.

Keeping Open for Ten Days—Purchasers Title.—Under the provisions of this section as to resale of mortgaged lands upon a raised bid, it is required that the matter be kept open by the clerk for ten days thereafter, in order that the purchaser thereof may acquire title. Briggs v. Asheville Developers, 191 N. C. 784, 133 S. E. 3.

Recitals in Deed as to Compliance with Section Prima Facie.—Where the question in controversy in a suit for specific performance against the purchaser, is whether there has been a compliance with this section as to a resale under a mortgage upon the raise of a bid at a prior sale, the recitals relating thereto in the deed tendered by the mortgagor are only prima facie evidence of such facts, and alone are insufficient to sustain the judgment. Briggs v. Asheville Developers, 191 N. C. 784, 133 S. E. 3.

Striking Out Order for Resale.—Where, on account of an upset bid, an order for a resale has been entered, it is error, eleven days thereafter to strike out such order and declare the sale final in prejudice of further rights of mortgagers. Va. Trust Co. v. Powell, 187 N. C. 372, 127 S. E. 242.

There is nothing in the statute which deprives the court of its power to prescribe the terms upon which land or other property shall be sold under its orders, judgments or decrees. Koonce v. Fort, 204 N. C. 426, 430, 168 S. E. 672.

Deposit When No Upset Bid Is Made.—Under the provisions of this section the last and highest bidder at a foreclosure sale obtains no interest in the land until the elapse of the ten-day period for the filing of an increased bid, and although the mortgagee or trustee may, in fixing the terms of the sale, require a reasonable cash deposit to cover the cost of the sale and insure completion of the sale by the purchaser if no upset bid is made, the reasonableness of such deposit may be determined by analogy to the deposit required for an upset bid, and a demand for a cash deposit at the sale amounting to twenty-five per cent of the bid is unreasonable. Alexander v. Boyd, 204 N. C. 103, 167 S. E. 462.

Recovery of Deposit.—Where the last and highest bidder at a sale of lands under decree of foreclosure has been required under order of court to deposit a certain per cent of his bid in cash to show his good faith, he is entitled to receive his deposit back upon the entering of an order of resale by the clerk under the provisions of this section, upon the placing of an advanced bid and cash deposit by another. Koonce v. Fort, 204 N. C. 426, 168 S. E. 672.

Commissions Allowed.—Upon the ordering by the clerk of a resale pursuant to this section, the original sale, under the power, becomes a nullity, and that part of the instrument providing a certain per cent as selling commission to the mortgagee or trustee is inoperative; and in lieu thereof he is entitled only to the costs and expenses of the sale and such sum to compensate him for his services actually rendered as may be approved by the clerk, subject to review on appeal, or by the court direct where a restraining order has issued. Pringle v. Building, etc., Ass'n, 182 N. C. 316, 108 S. E. 914.

Appeal will be dismissed when the clerk has not complied with the provisions of this section. In re Sermon's Land, 182 N. C. 122, 108 S. E. 497.

Jurisdiction of Judge on Appeal.—The discretion vested in the superior court judge on appeal from the clerk, sec. 637, to hear and determine the matter in controversy, unless it appear to him that justice would be more cheaply or speedily administered by remanding it to the clerk, can not confer jurisdiction on the judge to pass upon the reasonableness of the price of land sold under the power of sale in a mortgage, wherein the clerk has no authority under this section, to further pass thereon in the absence of an increased bid. In re Mortgage Sale of Ware Property, 187 N. C. 693, 122 S. E. 660.

Cited in Hayes v. Ferguson, 206 N. C. 414, 416, 174 S. E. 121; Miller v. Shore, 206 N. C. 732, 733, 175 S. E. 133.

§ 2592. Surplus after sale to be paid to clerk, in certain cases.—It is competent for any trustee or mortgagee who sells any real, personal or mixed property under the power of sale contained in any deed of trust or mortgage of any kind and who has in his hands any surplus money, after paying the debt or debts secured by such deed of trust or mortgage and costs and expenses of such sale, to pay into the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county where the sale was had, any surplus moneys in his hands as aforesaid in all cases where the grantor in such deed of trust or mortgage is dead and there is no executor or administrator of his estate, and in all other cases where such trustee or mortgage is, for any cause, in doubt as to who is the proper party or parties to whom to pay such surplus moneys. Such payment to the clerk shall have the effect to discharge such trustee or mortgagee from all liability to the extent of the amount so paid. The clerk shall receive such money from such trustee or mortgagee and execute a receipt for the same under the seal of his office. The failure of any clerk, however, to place his seal upon such receipt shall not invalidate the receipt if it bears the genuine signature of the clerk. The official bond of such clerk shall be responsible for the safe keeping of such moneys until the same shall be paid to the party or parties entitled thereto, or be paid out under the order of a court of competent jurisdiction. (1913, c. 15, ss. 1, 2.)

See note under § 2591.

Alternatives of Mortgagee.—Where the owner of lands has mortgaged the same during his life as tracts numbered 1 and 2, and has later conveyed tract No. 2 to a purchaser in fee simple, and has devised tract No. 1 for life with remainder over. It was held, that the mortgagee should hold the proceeds of the sale after the satisfaction of his mortgage for the life tenant and remaindermen, who may determine whether the surplus be invested in accordance with their equities, or the interest of the life tenant be paid in cash under the provisions of sec. 1791, or the mortgagee may relieve of liability by paying the fund into court pursuant to this section. Brown v. Jennings, 188 N. C. 155, 124 S. E. 150.

Statute of Limitations Need Not Be Pleaded.—Section 405 applies to actions wherein formal pleadings are required to be filed and not to proceedings in the nature of a controversy without action upon an agreed statement of facts for the distribution of funds arising from a foreclosure sale under this section and § 2593, the rights of the parties being determined in accordance with the admitted facts. § 2593. Special proceedings to determine ownership of surplus.—Special proceedings may be instituted before the clerk of the superior court to determine who is the rightful party to whom any fund paid into his office under the preceding section shall be paid. All persons claiming an interest in such funds shall be made parties, and if an answer is filed raising issues as to the ownership of said moneys, the case shall be transferred to the civil issue docket of the superior court for trial. Any party in interest may appeal to the judge of the superior court from any order made by the clerk. The clerk may require bond of parties when action is transferred to civil issue docket, as in other civil actions. The court may, in its discretion, order the costs and a reasonable attorney's fee to be paid out of the funds in controversy. (1913, c. 15, s. 3; 1919, c. 111, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 2593(a). Orders signed on days other than first and third Mondays validated; force and effect of deeds.—In all actions for the foreclosure of any mortgage or deed of trust which has heretofore been instituted and prosecuted before the clerk of the superior court of any county in North Carolina, Wherein the judgment confirming the sale, made by the commissioner appointed in said action, and ordering the said commissioner to execute a deed to the purchaser, was signed by such clerk on a day other than the first or third Monday of a month, such judgment of confirmation shall be and is hereby declared to be valid and of the same force and effect as though signed and docketed on the first or third Monday of any month, and any deed made by any commissioner or commissioners in any such action where the confirmation of sale was made on a day other than a first or third Monday of the month shall be and is hereby declared to have the same force and effect as if the same were executed and delivered pursuant to a judgment of confirmation properly signed and docketed by the clerk of the superior court on a first or third Monday of the month: Provided, that this section shall not affect litigation pending February 22, 1923. (1923, c. 53, s. 1.)

See note under § 536.

§ 2593(b). Injunction of mortgage sales on equitable grounds.—Any owner of real estate, or other person, firm or corporation having a legal or equitable interest therein, may apply to a judge of the superior court, prior to the confirmation of any sale of such real estate by a mortgagee, trustee, commissioner or other person authorized to sell the same, to enjoin such sale or the confirmation thereof, upon the ground that the amount bid or price offered therefor is inadequate and inequitable and will result in irreparable damage to the owner or other interested person, or upon any other legal or equitable ground which the court may deem sufficient: Provided, that the court or judge enjoining such sale or the confirmation thereof, whether by a temporary restraining order or injunction to the hearing, shall, as a condition precedent, require of the plaintiff or applicant such bond or deposit as may be necessary to indemnify and save harmless the mortgagee, trustee, cestui que trust, or other person enjoined and affected thereby against costs, depreciation, interest and other damages, if any, which may result from the granting of such order or injunction: Provided further, that in other respects the procedure shall be as is now prescribed by law in cases of injunction and receivership, with the right of appeal to the supreme court from any such order or injunction. (1933, c. 275, s. 1.)

See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 420, for review of this section.

Constitutionality.—This section does not violate any provision of the Constitution of the United States or of the State of North Carolina, by which limitations are imposed upon the legislative power of the General Assembly of this State. It does not impair the obligation of the contract entered into by and between the parties to a mortgage or deed of trust; it does not deprive either party of property without due process of law; nor does it confer upon mortgagors or grantors in deeds of trust any exclusive privilege. Woltz v. Asheville Safe Deposit Co., 206 N. C. 239, 242, 173 S. E. 587.

This section is constitutional and valid. Hopkins v. Swain, 206 N. C. 439, 174 S. E. 409.

This section is remedial only, and is valid for that purpose. Woltz v. Asheville Safe Deposit Co., 206 N. C. 239, 242, 173 S. E. 587.

Retroactive Effect.—This section is applicable to a sale made since its enactment, although the sale was made under the power of sale contained in a mortgage or deed of trust executed prior to its enactment. Woltz v. Asheville Safe Deposit Co., 206 N. C. 239, 242, 173 S. E. 587.

Requiring Bond within Court's Discretion.—The condition that plaintiff file bond to indemnify defendant against any loss by reason of the delay is within the court's discretionary equitable power, the provisions of this section being constitutional and valid. Whitaker v. Chase, 206 N. C. 335, 174 S. E. 225.

Where the mortgagee or cestui que trust is not satisfied with the bond given by the mortgagor or trustor, as provided by this section, his remedy is by motion that plaintiffs be required to increase the penal sum of the bond and give additional sureties, and he may not attack the validity of the order restraining the consummation of the sale upon the ground that the bond is inadequate. Woltz v. Asheville Safe Deposit Co., 206 N. C. 239, 173 S. E. 587.

Where the parties expressly waive a jury trial, and the trial court finds that the amount bid at the sale represented the fair market value of the lands, and that there was no assurance that a larger sum would be offered if the lands were resold, the findings support his judgment dissolving the temporary order restraining the consummation of the sale. Barringer v. Wilmington Sav., etc., Co., 207 N. C. 505, 177 S. E. 795.

When Foreclosure May Not Be Restrained.—An executor may not restrain the foreclosure of a deed of trust executed by his testator prior to his death upon the executor's petition for sale of the lands to make assets, when by the terms of the deed of trust the trustee is authorized to advertise and sell the lands, the right of the trustee to sell the lands being contractual, and the sale by the trustee being subject to the provisions of this and the following sections. Miller v. Shore, 206 N. C. 732, 175 S. E. 133.

This and following sections have no application after a foreclosure sale under power contained in the instrument has been confirmed. Whitford v. North Carolina Joint-Stock Land Bank, 207 N. C. 229, 230, 176 S. E. 740.

Granting Resale after Action for Specific Performance.—Where the last and highest bidder at the sale instituted action for specific performance, and the personal representative of the deceased mortgagee gave notice in apt time that he would make application to the resident judge of the district out of term and out of the county for an order restraining the consummation of the sale made by him under the mortgage on the grounds of inadequacy of the bid, and for an order for a resale, the court had authority to hear the motion. Hopkins v. Swain, 206 N. C. 439, 440, 174 S. E. 409.

§ 2593(c). Ordering resales before confirmation; receivers for property; tax payments.—The court or judge granting such order or injunction, or before whom the same is returnable, shall have the right before, but not after, any sale is confirmed to order a resale by the mortgagee, trustee, commissioner, or other person authorized to make the same in such manner and upon such terms as may be just and equitable: Provided, the rights of all parties in interest, or who may be affected thereby, shall be preserved and protected by bond or indemnity in such form and amount as the court may require, and the court or judge may also appoint a receiver of the property or the rents and proceeds thereof, pending any sale or resale, and may make such order for the payment of taxes or other prior lien as may be necessary, subject to the right of appeal to the supreme court in all cases. (1933, c. 275, s. 2.)

See annotations under § 2593(b).

§ 2593(d). Right of mortgagee to prove in deficiency suits reasonable value of property by way of defense.—When any sale of real estate or personal property has been made by a mortgagee, trustee, or other person authorized to make the same, at which the mortgagee, payee or other holder of the obligation thereby secured becomes the purchaser and takes title either directly or indirectly, and thereafter such mortgagee, payee or other holder of the secured obligation, as aforesaid, shall sue for and undertake to recover a deficiency judgment against the mortgagor, trustor or other maker of any such obligation whose property has been so purchased, it shall be competent and lawful for the defendant against whom such deficiency judgment is sought to allege and show as matter of defense and off-set, but not by way of counter-claim, that the property sold was fairly worth the amount of the debt secured by it at the time and place of sale or that the amount bid was substantially less than its true value, and, upon such showing, to defeat or off-set any deficiency judgment against him, either in whole or in part: Provided, this section shall not affect nor apply to the rights of other purchasers or of innocent third parties, nor shall it be held to affect or defeat the negotiability of any note, bond or other obligation secured by such mortgage, deed of trust or other instrument: Provided, further, this section shall not apply to foreclosure sales made pursuant to an order or decree of court nor to any judgment sought or rendered in any foreclosure suit nor to any sale heretofore made and confirmed. (1933, c. 275, s. 3.)

See 12 N. C. Law Rev., 366, for note on "Relief During the Depression."

§ 2593(f). Deficiency judgments abolished where mortgage represents part of purchase price.—In all sales of real property by mortgagees and/or trustees under powers of sale contained in any mortgage or deed of trust hereafter executed, or where judgment or decree is given for the foreclosure of any mortgage executed after the ratification of this section to secure payment of the balance of the purchase price of real property, the mortgagee or trustee or holder of the notes secured by such mortgage or deed of trust shall not be entitled to a deficiency judgment on account of such mortgage, deed of trust or obligation secured by the same: Provided, said evidence of indebtedness shows upon the face that it is for balance of purchase money for real estate: Provided, further, that when said note or notes are prepared under the direction and supervision of the seller or sellers, he, it, or they shall cause a provision to be inserted in said note disclosing that it is for purchase money of real estate; in default of which the seller or sellers shall be liable to purchaser for any loss which he might sustain by reason of the failure to insert said provision as herein set out. (1933, c. 36.)

Editor's Note.—The effect of this section is to limit the creditor to the property conveyed, when for the purchase money, changing in that respect section 507. This applies only to such contracts as are made after the ratification of the Act, Feb. 6, 1933. See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 219.

Art. 4. Discharge and Release

§ 2594. Discharge of record of mortgages and deeds of trust.—Any deed of trust or mortgage registered as required by law may be discharged and released in the following manner.

1. The trustee or mortgagee or his or her legal representative, or the duly authorized agent or attorney of such trustee, mortagee or legal representative, may, in the presence of the register of deeds or his deputy, acknowledge the satisfaction of the provisions of such deed of trust or mortgage, whereupon the register or his deputy shall forthwith make upon the margin of the record of such deed of trust or mortgage an entry of such acknowledgment of satisfaction, which shall be signed by the trustee, mortgagee, legal representative or attorney, and witnessed by the register or his deputy, who shall also affix his name thereto.

2. Upon the exhibition of any mortgage, deed of trust or other instrument intended to secure the payment of money, accompanied with the bond or note, to the register of deeds or his deputy, where the same is registered, with the endorsement of payment and satisfaction appearing thereon by the payee, mortgagee, trustee, or assignee of the same, or by any chartered active banking institution in the state of North Carolina, when so endorsed in the name of the bank by an officer thereof, the register or his deputy shall cancel the mortgage or other instrument by entry of "satisfaction" on the margin of the record; and the person so claiming to have satisfied the debt may retain possession of the bond or mortgage or other instrument: Provided, that if such mortgage or deed of trust provides in itself for the payment of money and does not call for or recite any note secured by it, then the exhibition of such mortgage or deed of trust alone to the register of deeds or his deputy, with endorsement of payment and satisfaction, shall be sufficient. But if the register or his deputy requires it, he shall file a receipt to him showing by whose authority the mortgage or other instrument was canceled.

3. Upon the exhibition of any mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument intended to secure the payment of money by the grantor or mortgagor, his agent or attorney, together with the notes or bonds secured thereby, to the register of deeds or his deputy of the county where the same is registered, the deed of trust, mortgage, notes or bonds being at the time of said exhibition more than ten years old, counting from the date of maturity of the last note or bond, the register or his deputy shall make proper entry of cancellation and satisfaction of said instrument on the margin of the record where the same is recorded, whether there be any such entries on the original papers or not.

Upon the presentation of any deed of trust given to secure the bearer or holder of any negotiable instruments transferable by delivery, together with all the evidences of indebtedness secured thereby, marked paid and satisfied in full and signed by the bearer or holder thereof, to the register of deeds or his deputy of the county in which same is recorded, the said register or his deputy shall cancel such deed of trust by entry of satisfaction upon the record and such entry of satisfaction shall be valid and binding upon all persons: Provided that prior to such presentation and cancellation, any person rightfully entitled to any such deed of trust, or evidences of indebtedness, which have been lost or stolen, may notify the register of deeds, or his deputy, in writing of such loss or theft, and said register, or his deputy, shall make a marginal entry in writing thereof, together with the date such notice is given, upon the record of the deed of trust concerned, and thereafter same shall not be cancelled as above provided until the ownership of said instruments shall have been lawfully determined; Provided further that nothing herein shall be construed so as to impair the negotiability of any instrument otherwise properly negotiable, nor to impair the rights of any innocent purchaser for value thereof.

4. Every such entry thus made by the register of deeds or his deputy, and every such entry thus acknowledged and witnessed, shall operate and have the same effect to release and discharge all the interest of such trustee, mortgagee or representative in such deed or mortgage as if a deed of release or reconveyance thereof had been duly executed and recorded.

5. The conditions of every mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument securing the payment of money shall be conclusively presumed to have been complied with or the debts secured thereby paid as against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration from the trustor, mortgagor, or grantor, from and after the expiration of fifteen years from the date when the conditions of such instrument by the terms thereof are due to have been complied with, or the maturity of the last installment of debt or interest secured thereby, unless the holder of the indebtedness secured by such instrument or party secured by any provision thereof shall file an affidavit with the register of deeds of the county where such instrument is registered, in which shall be specifically stated the amount of debt unpaid, which is secured by said instrument, or in what respect any other condition thereof shall not have been complied with, whereupon the register of deeds shall record such affidavit and refer on the margin of the record of the instrument referred to therein the fact of the filing of such affidavit, and a reference to the book and page where it is recorded. Or in lieu of such affidavit the holder may enter on the margin of the record any payments that have been made on the indebtedness secured by such instrument, and shall in such entry state the amount still due thereunder. This entry must be signed by the holder and witnessed by the register of deeds. Provided, however, that this subsection shall not apply to any deed, mortgage, deed of trust or other instrument made or given by any railroad company, or to any agreement of conditional sale, equipment trust agreement, lease, chattel mortgage or other instrument relating to the sale, purchase or lease of railroad equipment on rolling stock, or of other personal property. (Rev., s. 1046; Code, s. 1271; 1870-1, c. 217, 1891, c. 180; 1893, c. 36; 1901, c. 46; 1917, c. 49, s. 1; 1917, c. 50, s. 1; 1923, c. 192, s. 1; 1923, c. 195; 1935, c. 47.)

Editor's Note.—The proviso contained in the second clause of this section, and the entire fifth clause were added by the amendment of 1923.

The second paragraph of subsection 3 was added by the amendment of 1935.

Modes of Release.—A mortgage can only be released so as to affect purchasers at a sale under the mortgage by a cancellation on the margin of the registration thereof under this section, or by a reconveyance of the mortgaged property duly recorded. Barber v. Wadsworth, 115 N. C. 29, 32, 20 S. E. 178.

Construed as a Whole.—This section will be construed to effectuate the legislative intent as gathered from its language, and by harmonizing its various parts when this can reasonably be done. Richmond Guano Co. v. Walston, 187 N. C. 667, 122 S. E. 663.

Not Retroactive.—This section has no application to a mortgage given prior to the passage of the section nor does it wipe out a valid debt existing at the time the statute took effect. Dixie Grocery Co. v. Hoyle, 204 N. C. 109, 113, 167 S. E. 469. And it is not a ground for setting aside a foreclosure of a mortgage given before the passage of the act in an action by a subsequent mortgagee. Roberson v. Matthews, 200 N. C. 241, 156 S. E. 496.

Procedure of Cancellation and Effect.—Regularly, the mortgagee acknowledges the satisfaction and discharge of the mortgage in the presence of the register of deeds, and he enters satisfaction on the margin of the record of the mortgage, and this entry is signed by the mortgagee; and this, done as required by this section, will operate as a deed of release, or reconveyance of the land, embraced by the mortgage. Otherwise the mortgagee must reconvey the land by proper deed. Walker v. Mebane, 90 N. C. 259, 266.

Application Only to Deeds of Trust and Mortgages.—This section giving to the marginal entry of satisfaction the effect of reconveyance applies only to discharge of trust deeds and mortgages. Smith v. King, 107 N. C. 273, 277, 12 S. E. 57.

Subsection 2—Applies to Deeds of Trust.—Subsection 2, of this section does not exclude from the intent and meaning of the statute a deed of trust given for the purpose of securing a loan of money. Richmond Guano Co. v. Walston, 187 N. C. 667, 122 S. E. 663. It was contended in this case that the omission of words "deed of trust" from the provision near the end of the subsection, namely, "that the register or his deputy shall cancel the mortgage or other instrument," conclusively shows that a register is not given power to cancel a deed of trust. However, the court did not assent to this rather ingenious argument, the gist of their conclusions being as follows: Considering this section as a whole the natural and reasonable interpretation of the language must refer the words "mortgage or other instrument" in the clause quoted above to the words of the first line of the subsection "mortgage, deed of trust or other instrument."

Marginal Satisfaction Not Necessary as Between Parties.—When a mortgage debt has been discharged, the mortgage is no longer operative, between the parties, though not marked "satisfied of record." Blake v. Broughton, 107 N. C. 220, 12 S. E. 127.

Form and Validity of Cancellation.—This section must be strictly complied with in order to secure the grantee in a subsequent conveyance of the locus in quo against the prior encumbrance, and where this is done upon exhibit of the canceled conveyance and notes marked paid, the entry should recite correctly the name of the beneficiary and payment of the note, notes or bonds, as the case may be, by the payee thereof. Mills v. Kemp, 196 N. C. 309, 145 S. E. 577.

Same—Notice to Subsequent Mortgagee.—Where an entry of cancellation is made of record by the register of deeds in canceling a mortgage under this section reciting another name as mortgageee, trustee or cestui que trust than that appearing in the registration of the instrument, and that the "bond" was marked paid, when the instrument recited four bonds maturing in series, it is sufficient to set a later grantee or mortgagee upon inquiry as to whether the register of deeds has made a mistake in cancelling the mortgage, and fix him with notice of all facts a reasonable inquiry would have revealed. Mills v. Kemp, 196 N. C. 309, 145 S. E. 557.

Mortgagee Alone May Cancel.—Only the mortgagee is entitled to have his mortgage canceled on the book in the office of the register of deeds, either in person, by subsection 1, of this section, or by the register of deeds upon the exhibition of the mortgage and note properly indorsed by him, by subsection 2 and 3; and when the mortgagee cancels the instrument in person, under subsec. 1, it is a complete release and discharge of the mortgage, under subsec. 4, for in such case the statute does not require the exhibition of the mortgage and the note it secures. First Nat. Bank v. Sauls, 183 N. C. 165, 110 S. E. 865.

Where a note, secured by a mortgagee, is assigned and pledged as collateral by the mortgagee to his own note, without an assignment of the mortgage conveying title for the purpose of the security, but which was only left with the payee of his note, the legal title to the lands remains in the mortgagee, who alone is authorized to cancel the mortgage. First Nat. Bank v. Sauls, 183 N. C. 165, 110 S. E. 865.

Under this section there is no authority given to the register of deeds to enter cancellation of record upon the cancellation thereof by the mortgagor. Faircloth v. Johnson, 198 N. C. 429, 127 S. E. 346.

Effect of Forged Cancellation.—When the attorney for the owner of the land agreed to have a mortgage canceled of record, and thereafter surreptitiously obtained the cancellation stamp of the register of deeds and forged his signature so that apparently the mortgage was canceled under the provisions of this section, subsection 2, and relying thereon the proposed purchaser accepted the deed and paid the consideration: It was held that the supposed cancellation of the mortgage was void as against the mortgagee who had no notice thereof until immediately before bringing his action to have the supposed cancellation declared void. Union Central Life Ins. Co. v. Cates, 193 N. C. 456, 137 S. E. 324.

Same—Upon Rights of Third Mortgagee.—As against the mortgagee of a third mortgage given on the same lands, the wrongful cancellation by a forged entry on the margin in the registration book is a nullity, and the lien continues until the payment of the debt it secures, as prior to that of the third mortgage, when the second mortgage lien has lawfully been canceled of record. Swindell v. Stephens, 193 N. C. 474, 137 S. E. 420.

Effect of Prior Fraud.—Where the register of deeds has entered "satisfaction" of a deed of trust, and thereupon subsequent mortgagees, etc., have acted in good faith, the prior fraud or collusion of the parties to the canceled instrument will not affect their rights when they were unaware thereof or had not participated in the fraud. Richmond Guano Co. v. Walston, 187 N. C. 667, 122 S. E. 663.

Cancellation by Attorney—Ratification Thereof.—While an attorney at law has no power to cancel or discharge a deed of mortgage, without authority conferred by his client, yet where such attorney informs his client that he is unable to complete an arrangement agreed upon with the debtor for obtaining a new mortgage and the sale of a stock of goods, upon which the creditor has a lien, unless a cancellation of an old mortgage was made, and that he would cancel the old mortgage by a day named, unless directed not to do so; the attorney receiving no such direction, cancelled the old mortgage, and forwarded to his client the new mortgage and power of sale, and the new mortgage was returned without objection to be registered: It was held to be a ratification by the client of the act of cancellation of the old mortgage. Christian v. Yarborough, 124 N. C. 72, 32 S. E. 383.

Authority of Trustee to Release Part of Property without Satisfaction.—This section only empowers the trustee to "acknowledge satisfaction of the provisions of such trust, etc.," the entry operating as a reconveyance. As was said in Browne v. Davis, 109 N. C. 23, 13 S. E. 703; "It was never contemplated that the trustee could by this means release from an unsatisfied trust specified parts of the land." We do not mean to say however that the creditor might not be estopped, under certain circumstances, from enforcing his claim against that part of the land undertaken to be released by the trustee if done with the creditor's consent and authority properly shown. Woodcock v. Merrimon, 122 N. C. 731, 736, 30 S. E. 321.

Even if an attempted release is under seal it is ineffectual, as the statute authorizing such mode of release confers no power upon a trustee to release specific parts of the property conveyed, and especially where the secured debt remained unsatisfied. Browne v. Davis, 109 N. C. 23, 13 S. E. 703.

Effect of Cancellation by First Mortgagee.—The legal title to mortgaged lands is conveyed by the instrument to the mortgagee, and remains in him until transferred or assigned, for the purpose of the security or the cancellation of the instrument, under this section and where the mortgagor has afterwards conveyed the fee-simple title to another, and receives a mortgage back to secure a note for the balance of the purchase price of which the same mortgagee becomes the holder, his personal cancellation of the first mortgage, without producing it or the note it secures, is a complete discharge or release of the lien thereof, and where he borrows money after such cancellation, and hypothecates the note of the second mortgage as collateral to his own, the lender for the purposes of the security, acting in good faith, has a prior lien on the lands. First Nat. Bank v. Sauls, 183 N. C. 165, 110 S. E. 865.

Entry of "Satisfied" as Evidence of Payment of Debt.—It is competent to introduce as evidence of payment of an indebtedness secured by mortgage the entry of "satisfied" on the margin of the record signed by the mortgagee and witnessed by the register of deeds. Robinson v. Sampson, 121 N. C. 99, 100, 28 S. E. 189.

Not Retroactive in Effect.—Subsection five is not to be construed retroactively so as to effect those who became creditors prior to its passage. Hicks v. Kearney, 127 N. C. 205, 127 S. E. 205.

The conclusive presumption of payment of a note secured by mortgages or deeds of trust of land after fifteen years, etc., is prospective in effect, and inapplicable to such instruments theretofore executed. Const. of N. C., Art. 1, § 17; Humphrey v. Stephens, 191 N. C. 101, 131 S. E. 883; Hicks v. Kearney, 189 N. C. 316, 127 S. E. 205.

Payee or Mortgagee Must Be Sui Juris.—In order to constitute a valid cancellation under subsection 2, this section clearly contemplated a payee or mortgagee who is sui juris. Faircloth v. Johnson, 189 N. C. 429, 127 S. E. 346.

§ 2594(a). Entry of foreclosure.— In case of foreclosure of any deed of trust, or mortgage, the trustee or mortgagee shall enter upon the margin of the record thereof the fact of such foreclosure and the date when, and the person to whom, a conveyance was made by reason thereof. (1923, c. 192, s. 2.)

Failure of Trustee to Comply Does Not Affect Purchaser.—The purchaser of lands at a foreclosure sale made in conformity with a deed of trust upon lands is not affected with constructive notice of fraud by the omission of the trustee to comply with the provisions of this or the following section. Cheek v. Squires, 200 N. C. 661, 662, 158 S. E. 198.

Cancellation without Knowledge of Cestui.—Where the trustor paid the trustee the amount of the mortgage debt and the trustee entered a cancellation of the deed of trust on the records under this section, without the knowledge of the cestui que trust, the cancellation was held valid. Parham v. Hinnant, 206 N. C. 200, 173 S. E. 26.

§ 2594(b). Trustees or mortgagees to file reports of sales.—It shall be the duty of any trustee or mortgagee making sale under the provisions of any power to file an account with the clerk of the superior court in the county where the land lies as is required by commissioners making sales for partition, and for the auditing and recording of said account the clerk shall be allowed the same fees as are provided for auditing accounts of such commissioners. (1923, c. 192, s. 3.)

§ 2594(c). Copies of law to be sent registers; posting and publishing copies.—The secretary of state shall certify copies of this law to every register of deeds in the state, whose duty it shall be to post such copies in a conspicuous place in his office and cause the same to be published for one month in some newspaper in the county. The expense of such publications shall be borne by the county. (1923, c. 192, s. 4.)

§ 2595. Register to enter satisfaction on index.—When satisfaction of the provisions of any deed of trust or mortgage is acknowledged and entry of such acknowledgment of satisfaction is made upon the margin of the record of said deed of trust or mortgage, or when the register of deeds or his deputy shall cancel the mortgage or other instrument by entry of satisfaction, then the register of deeds or his deputy shall enter upon the alphabetical indexes kept by him, as required by law, and opposite the names of the grantor and grantee and on a line with the names of said grantor and grantee, the words "satisfied mortgage," if the instrument of which satisfaction has been acknowledged or entered is a mortgage, and the words "satisfied deed of trust," if the instrument of which satisfaction has been acknowledged or entered is a deed of trust. (1909, c. 658, s. 1.)

§ 2596. Recorded deed of release of mortgagee's representative. — The personal representative of any mortgagee or trustee in any mortgage or deed of trust which has heretofore or which may hereafter be registered in the manner required by the laws of this state may discharge and release the same and all property thereby conveyed by deed of quit claim, release or conveyance executed, acknowledged and recorded as is now prescribed by law for the execution, acknowledgment and registration of deeds and mortgages in this state. (1909, c. 283, s. 1.)

§ 2597. Release of corporate mortgages by corporate officers.—All mortgages and deeds in trust executed to a corporation may be satisfied and so marked of record, as by law provided for the satisfaction of mortgages and deeds in trust, by the president, any vice-president, cashier, assistant cashier, secretary, assistant secretary, treasurer, assistant treasurer, trust officer or assistant trust officer of such corporation signing the name of such corporation by him as such officer. Where mortgages or deeds in trust were marked "satisfied" on the records before the twenty-third day of February, nineteen hundred and nine, by any president, secretary, treasurer or cashier of any corporation by such officer writing his own name and affixing thereto the title of his office in such corporation, such satisfaction is validated, and is as effective to all intents and purposes as if a deed of release duly executed by such corporation had been made, acknowledged and recorded: Provided, however, this validating provision shall not apply to any suits pending in the courts of the state on February 23, 1909. (1909, c. 283, ss. 2, 3; 1935, c. 271.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment of 1935, vice-president, assistant cashier, assistant secretary, assistant treasurer, trust officer and assistant trust officer, were added to the list of officers enumerated in the first sentence of the section.

MOTOR VEHICLES

Art. 1. General Provisions

§ 2598. Terms defined.—The term and words "motor vehicles" used in this chapter shall be construed to mean all vehicles propelled by any power other than muscular power, except traction engines, road rollers, fire wagons, engines, police patrol wagons, ambulances, and such vehicles as run only upon rails or tracks. The term "owner" shall include any person, firm, association, or corporation owning a motor vehicle or renting a motor vehicle, or having the exclusive use thereof under a lease or otherwise. The term "public highway" or "highways" shall be construed to mean any public highway, township, county, or state road, or any country road, any public street, alley, park, parkway, drive or public place in any city, village, or town. The term and words "business portion of any city or village" shall be construed to mean the territory of a city or incorporated village contiguous to a public highway which is at that point either wholly or partially built up with structures devoted to business. (1917, c. 140, s. 1.)

Editor's Note to Chapter.—Since 1920 the motor vehicle law has undergone radical changes in its development. In this process of evolution as many as two and three statutes have been passed at various times covering, in a general way, the same subject-matter but in no way referring to each other or expressing the effect upon the existing legislation. To illustrate there are now two statutes purporting to regulate the issuance of titles to automobiles, three the registration thereof, and three regulating the operation of them.

The result of this legislation has been to impliedly amend, modify and even repeal many of the older provisions. But in its present state no agency other than the supreme court through interpretation as cases arise thereunder can determine with accuracy which of the provisions exclusively control a given proposition where there are more than one provision purporting to control the situation. To say that all the prior law respecting subjects regulated by the more recent statutes, are repealed would be somewhat presumptive. However, it is possible to cross refer to cognate sections and indicate in a general way under each section the probable effect of the similar sections when taken together, and this has been the policy throughout the chapter.

As to evidence of violation in prosecutions for other crimes, such as murder, see note to § 2601.

Editor's Note to Section.—Although this section purports to define the enumerated terms as used in this chapter, it is probable that it defines only those terms as used in the sections appearing in the Consolidated Statutes of 1920, as subsequently amended, and does not apply to the terms as used in the new statutes passed since that time. This is especially true where the same terms are defined in the new statutes.

As to definition of the terms used in the Motor Vehicle Act of 1927, see § 2621(1); the Uniform Act regulating the operation of vehicles, see § 2621(43); the act regulating motor busses, see § 2613(j); the gasoline tax act, § 2613(il); and the title protection act, § 2621(i).

A "motor vehicle" under the Motor Vehicle Act, §§ 2621(1)-2621(42) is every device for transportation of persons and property upon the public highways that is self-propelled. The same definition is given in the Uniform Act regulation the operation of vehicles, § 2621(43). The term "highway" in the Motor Vehicle Act, §§ 2621(1)-2621(42), is defined as any place lawfully used by the public for vehicular travel, but does not include a driveway upon the grounds of a university, college, other institutions or private persons. The same definition is given in the Uniform Act regulating the operation of vehicles, § 2621(43). For the definition of "highways," and "motor vehicles" as used in the Motor Bus Act, see § 2613(j); the Gasoline Tax Act, § 2613(il); and the title Protection Act, § 2621(i).

"Auto Truck" Defined as Automobile.—See Bethlehem Motors Corp. v. Flynt, 178 N. C. 399, 100 S. E. 693.

§ 2599. Violation a misdemeanor.—Any person violating any provision of this chapter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days; and any person violating any provision of this chapter, where serious damage is done, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1917, c. 140, s. 21; 1921, c. 141.)

Editor's Note.—This section as amended at the regular session of 1921 is applicable to a violation of the sections appearing in this chapter in the Consolidated Statutes of 1920, as subsequently amended; and notwithstanding that it purports to prescribe the punishment for a violation of any of the provisions of the chapter, it would seem that it does not apply to the new sections which have been inserted since the publication of the Consolidated Statutes. An inspection will disclose that in most, if not all, the new statutes, special provisions fixing the penalty for violation of the particular statute have been enacted.

Thus it will be seen that the application of this section has been greatly limited by the more recent enactments which supersede portions of the chapter as existing in the Consolidated Statutes and enact new penalties for violation. This section, then, applies in those cases only where the sections of the Consolidated Statutes of 1920 as subsequently amended have not been repealed or superseded. It may be that portions only of certain sections remain in force and that to such portions of such sections does this section apply.

To determine whether this section fixes the penalty in a given case it is necessary to ascertain if the statute violated is a new statute and if so, the section will probably not apply.

In addition to being liable to punishment under these statutes, it is possible for a person to be so negligent in the violation in disregarding the rights of others as to be guilty of other crimes at the same time. For example, although it is a misdemeanor to violate the statute regulating the law of the road as to speed under the motor vehicle law one may also be guilty of murder, manslaughter or assault and battery if he is so reckless in the violation that he runs down and kills or injures another if the elements essential to constitute such crimes are present in the violation. See State v. Gush, 177 N. C. 595, 99 S. E. 337; State v. McIver, 175 N. C. 761, 94 S. E. 682. And evidence of violation of this chapter is admissible upon such trials. State v. Suddeth, 184 N. C. 753, 114 S. E. 828.

Where a prior statute fixed the penalty at $50 fine or imprisonment not exceeding twenty days, or both, the justice's court had no jurisdiction to try a case thereunder because the words "or both" made the jurisdictional amount exceed the justice's jurisdiction as fixed by the Constitution. State v. McArden, 162 N. C. 575, 77 S. E. 298. Thus Article IV, § 27 of the Constitution, fixing the jurisdiction of justices' courts, does not deprive the justice of jurisdiction under this section.

The 1921 amendment added all the latter part of the section beginning with the semicolon.

§ 2600. Duty of officer; manner of enforcement.—For the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this chapter it is hereby made the duty of every police officer, every marshal, deputy marshal, or watchman of any incorporated city or village, and every sheriff, deputy sheriff, and all other lawful officers of any county, and every constable of any township, to arrest, within the limits of their jurisdiction, any person known personally to any such officer, or upon the sworn information of a credible witness, to have violated any of the provisions of this chapter, and to immediately bring such offender before any justice of the peace or officer having jurisdiction; and any such person so arrested shall have the right of immediate trial, and all other rights given to any person arrested for having committed a misdemeanor. Every officer herein named who shall neglect or refuse to carry out the duties imposed by this chapter shall be liable on his official bond for such neglect or refusal as provided by law in like cases. (1917, c. 140, s. 22.)

Cross References.—As to duty of peace officers to cooperate with the automobile inspector, see sec. 2621(h); as to report of stolen vehicles to peace officers, see sec. 2621(u); as to appointment of deputies to assist peace officers in enforcement, see sec. 2621(w); as to duty of peace officers to weigh loads and require removal of excessive portion, see secs. 2621(6) and (79).

As to power of local authorities under the Uniform Act, see secs. 2621(46), (63), and (73).

§ 2601. No municipal ordinance in conflict.—No governing board of any city or town shall pass or have in effect or in force any ordinance contrary to the provisions of this chapter. (1917, c. 140, s. 23.)

Section applied in State v. Freshwater, 183 N. C. 762, 111 S. E. 161.

§ 2601(a). Unlawful display of emblem or insignia.—It shall be unlawful for any person to display on his motor vehicle, or to allow to be displayed on his motor vehicle, any emblem or insignia of any organization, association, club, lodge, order, or fraternity, unless such person be a member of the organization, association, club, lodge, order, or fraternity, the emblem or insignia of which is so displayed.

Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to a fine not exceeding fifty dollars ($50) or imprisonment for a period not exceeding thirty days. (1924, c. 63.)

Editor's Note.—The effect of this act was summarized in 3 N. C. Law Rev. 25.

Art. 2. Registration of Vehicles

§ 2602. Application for registration.—Every owner of a motor vehicle which shall be operated or driven upon the public highways of this state either by himself, his chauffeur, or another by his authority, shall, for each motor vehicle owned, except as herein otherwise expressly provided, cause to be filed in the office of the secretary of state an application for registration on a blank to be furnished by the secretary of state for that purpose, containing a brief description of the motor vehicle to be registered, including the name, maker's or manufacturer's serial number, style of machine, and horsepower, the name and address of the owner, and such other information as the secretary of state may deem necessary. (1917, c. 140, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—As pointed out in the editor's note under sec. 2598, the Legislature at its 1927 session passed the Motor Vehicle Act, secs. 2621(1)-2621(42), to provide for a department of motor vehicles under the Commissioner of the Revenue, and prescribed new regulations concerning the registration of vehicles. Thus it will be seen that the Secretary of State is relieved of all the duties imposed upon him by this article such that every reference to him in the sections should be changed to the Commissioner of Vehicles. See sec. 7979(c) of this Code. Since the Motor Vehicle Act apparently covers the entire subject of registration, establishing new, and different regulations in many instances, it would seem that the purpose was to supersede all the prior law upon the subject for certainly the procedure prescribed by both laws was not intended to be followed. But the Legislature failed to state the purpose in this respect so that the matter is left to judicial interpretation and construction. It is possible that portions of the sections of this article, or even whole sections, may be held to be of force and not in conflict with or covered by the new act, and for this reason this article is not omitted. The editor's note under each section will point out the corresponding section in the new law.

The corresponding provisions of the Motor Vehicle Act which probably supersede this section are secs. 2621(6)-2621(8).

§ 2603. Registered by secretary of state.—Upon receipt of an application for registration of a motor vehicle as provided in this chapter, the secretary of state shall file such application in his office and register such motor vehicle, with the name and residence of the owner, together with the facts stated in such application, in a book or index to be kept for that purpose, under the distinctive number assigned to such motor vehicle by the secretary of state, which book or index shall be open to inspection during reasonable business hours. (1917, c. 140, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—This section is probably superseded by secs. 2621(2)-(5). See note to preceding section.

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2604. Repealed by Public Laws of 1921, c. 209.

§ 2605. Number and certificate given; expiration of certificate.—Upon the filing of such application and the payment of fees provided in this chapter, the secretary of state shall assign to such motor vehicle a distinctive number, and, without expense to the applicant, issue and deliver to the owner a certificate of registration in such form as the secretary of state may determine, and shall also furnish to such applicant one display number as hereinafter provided for. All certificates of registration shall expire on December thirty-first, following the date of issue. (1917, c. 140, ss. 4, 5; 1927, c. 27.)

Editor's Note.—With the exception of the reference to the expirations of registration, this section is superseded by secs. 2621(9) and (11). The portion of this section referring to the expiration of licenses is still applicable it would seem.

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

The 1927 amendment to this section and sec. 2612 take effect from and after December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven.

All licenses issued by the Department of Revenue on motor vehicles on and after June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, expire on December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, and the fee therefor is one-half the full annual fee, plus twenty-five cents.

The foregoing amendments, in no particular, affect or modify sec. 7979(c), transferring the duties herein imposed upon the Secretary of State to the Commissioner of the Revenue. Secs. 3, 4 and 5 of the Acts of 1927, ch. 27.

§ 2606. Dealers to report sales.—The secretary of state shall require from each wholesale and retail dealer in automobiles in the state once each month a list of all retail sales, and it shall be the duty of each of the aforesaid dealers to furnish this information to the secretary of state within the first ten days of each month of such sales made during the preceding month. (1917, c. 140, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—The corresponding section of the new law will be found under sec. 2621(18). See the editor's note under sec. 2602.

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2607. Cancellation and transfer of certificate.—Upon the sale of a motor vehicle registered under the provisions of this chapter, the registered owner shall within ten days from the date of such sale return to the secretary of state his certificate of registration furnished him as hereinbefore provided for, which certificate of registration shall be canceled: Provided, that such registered owner may, at the time of returning such certificate, upon proper application for transfer filed in the office of the secretary of state and the payment of a transfer fee of fifty cents, have a new certificate of registration issued to him, containing the original registration number, for a motor vehicle owned by him of not greater tax horsepower, such certificate to remain in force until June thirtieth following date of issue. In case the machine for which a transfer license is desired is of greater tax horsepower, the difference between the amount paid for the original license and the annual fee for the machine for which transfer license is desired shall be paid at the time such application for transfer is filed, but nothing herein contained shall be construed as authorizing the secretary of state to make a rebate in case the transfer license is issued for a machine of less tax horsepower than the one originally registered. A license cannot be transferred from one person to another. (1917, c. 140, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—The corresponding section of the new law will be found under sec. 2621(16). See the editor's note under sec. 2602.

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2608. Display numbers required.—In addition to the certificate of registration, the secretary of state shall furnish to each registered owner two display numbers, which shall at all times be conspicuously displayed by such owner, one on the front and one on the rear of the registered motor vehicle for which the display numbers are issued. The display numbers shall be rigidly fastened in a horizontal position, and the lower edges thereof shall be at least fifteen inches from the ground, and during the times when a motor vehicle is required to display lights the rear registered number shall be so illuminated as to be legible at a distance of fifty feet. In case of the loss or destruction of a display number, the secretary of state, upon proper proof thereof filed with him, and the payment of one dollar, shall secure for such owner a duplicate number, and the secretary of state may in his discretion authorize the applicant for duplicate number and to have prepared for use a temporary number until the duplicate can be made and furnished. It shall be deemed a violation of this chapter for any person to display a fictitious number or more than two display numbers on any motor vehicle operated on the highways of this state. From and after July 1, 1920, the secretary of state shall furnish but one display number with certificate of registration, and the one display number issued shall be conspicuously displayed on the rear of the registered motor vehicle for which it was issued. (1917, c. 140, s. 9; 1919, c. 258.)

Editor's Note.—Section 2621(14) is the section of the new law which seems to correspond to this section as to the furnishing of plates and section 2621(15) as to the display of them. See the editor's note under sec. 2602. As to the duplication of lost plates, the corresponding section of the new law is sec. 2621(26). See the editor's note under sec. 2602.

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2609. Nature of display numbers.—The display numbers shall be made of suitable metal, in such size and form as the secretary of state may prescribe, and shall be of a distinctive different color or shade each year. (1917, c. 140, s. 10.)

Editor's Note.—This section is superseded by sec. 2621(14) it would seem. See the editor's note to sec. 2602.

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2610. Special numbers to dealers.—Every person, firm, association or corporation manufacturing or dealing in motor vehicles may, instead of registering such motor vehicles so manufactured or dealt in, make application upon a blank to be furnished by the secretary of state for a general distinctive number for all motor vehicles owned or controlled for purposes of sale by such manufacturer or dealer, such application to contain such information as to name, style, and class of cars manufactured or dealt in by such person, firm, association or corporation as the secretary of state may require; and upon the payment of the registration fee hereinafter provided for, such person, firm, association, or corporation shall be assigned a distinctive number, together with a certificate of registration, made in such form and containing such information as the secretary of state shall determine; and every motor vehicle owned or controlled by such manufacturer or dealer, except as hereinafter provided, shall be regarded as registered under and having assigned to it such general distinguishing number until sold or otherwise disposed of. No manufacturer or dealer shall operate any motor vehicle so registered for any other purpose than the trial or adjustment of such motor vehicle or for its demonstration to a prospective buyer, or for some purpose incidental to the legitimate business of manufacturing, purchasing, exhibiting, selling or repairing motor vehicles by such manufacturer or dealer. No motor vehicle registered under the provisions of this section shall be rented for hire or used for the purpose of conveying passengers or freight for hire. No person other than a bona fide manufacturer or dealer shall obtain or use a registration certificate or the corresponding number plate issued by authority of the provisions of this section; and no person who shall have registered a motor vehicle under the provisions of this section shall loan his number plate to any person. No registration of any manufacturer or dealer shall be transferable. The secretary of state may at any time require that a manufacturer or dealer in motor vehicles shall prove that he is a bona fide manufacturer or dealer, and failure to so prove shall be sufficient cause for cancellation of the registration of such manufacturer or dealer, and the secretary of state shall take possession of and cancel the display numbers issued. No manufacturer or dealer, or any employee of such manufacturer or dealer, shall cause or permit the display or other use of any number plate or certificate of registration which may have been furnished to such manufacturer or dealer under the distinctive number herein provided for, except upon motor vehicles owned by such manufacturer or dealer within the meaning and intent of this section, and no person shall display or otherwise use or have in his possession for the purpose of using any registration certificate or display number, except such manufacturer or dealer, or his employees: Provided that if the secretary of state, upon receiving from any manufacturer or dealer an application for the issuance for the ensuing registration year of a certificate of registration and general distinguishing number provided for in this section, shall determine, upon due cause, that such manufacturer or dealer during the previous registration year has failed to comply with the requirements of this section respecting the use of numbers or filing of reports required by section 2606, the secretary of state may refuse such application. Any person violating any provision of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1917, c. 140, s. 11; 1919, c. 189, s. 6; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 97, s. 11.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to be superseded at least in part by sec. 2621(17). See the editor's note to sec. 2602.

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2611. Nonresident owners of vehicles.—Nonresident owners or operators of motor vehicles shall be subject to the same requirements and laws as resident owners or operators: Provided, that the nonresident owner of a motor vehicle which is properly registered under the laws of another state, district, or territory shall be exempt from the registration provisions of this chapter for the same period that a properly registered owner of this state is exempt from the registration provisions of the state in which such nonresident resides, not exceeding sixty days: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to exempt any motor vehicles used for hire by a nonresident. (1917, c. 140, s. 12.)

This section seems to be superseded by sec. 2621(19). See the editor's note to sec. 2602.

§ 2611(a). Display numbers property of state; seizure for improper use.—All display numbers issued by the secretary of state under this chapter shall be and remain the property of the state, and it shall be lawful for the secretary of state or his agent to summarily take possession of any number which he has reason to believe is being illegally used, and to keep in his possession such number pending investigation and legal disposition of the same. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 97, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to be superseded by sec. 2621(14). See note to sec. 2602.

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2611(b). Fraud in securing registration and misuse of number plates.—Any person who shall apply for the registration of a motor vehicle to the secretary of state, and who shall willfully give or cause to be given a worthless check in payment therefor, or a fictitious, incomplete, or assumed name on the application for registration; or shall make any statement in connection with the application for registration with the intent to defraud the state, or who shall knowingly give a wrong postoffice address or any other information for the purpose of willfully hindering identification, or who shall knowingly use or allow to be used unlawfully any license number plate issued by the secretary of state, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 97, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to be superseded by 2621(27). See editor's note to sec. 2602.

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2611(c). Preservation and cleaning of display number plates.—It shall be the duty of each and every registered owner of a motor vehicle to keep the display number plate assigned to such motor vehicle reasonably clean and free from dust and dirt, and such registered owner, or any person in his employ, or who operates such motor vehicle by his authority, shall, upon the request of any proper officer immediately clean such display plate so that the numbers thereon may be readily distinguished, and any person who shall neglect or refuse to so clean a display number plate, after having been requested to do so, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not exceeding fifty dollars or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 97, s. 7.)

§ 2611(d). Operating with false numbers.—Any person who shall willfully and with intent to defraud the state of registration fees due, operate a motor vehicle with a display number plate which has been repainted, or altered, or forged, or which was issued by the secretary of state for a motor vehicle other than the one on which used, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 97, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to be superseded by sec. 2621(27). See editor's note under sec. 2602.

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2611(e). Alteration, disguise, or concealment of numbers.—Any operator of a motor vehicle who shall willfully and with the intent to conceal the identity of such motor vehicle, or the identity of the registered owner thereof, mutilate, bend, twist, cover or cause to be covered or partially covered by any bumper, light, spare tire, tire-rack, strap, or other device, or who shall paint, enamel, emboss, stamp, print, perforate, or alter or add to or cut off any part or portion of a display number plate or the figures or letters thereon, or who shall place or deposit or cause to be placed or deposited any oil, grease, or other substance upon such display number plate for the purpose of making dust adhere thereto, or who shall deface, disfigure, change, or attempt to change any letter or figure thereon, or who shall display a number plate in other than a horizontal upright position, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 97, s. 9.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to be superseded by sec. 2621(27). See editor's note under sec. 2602.

§ 2611(f). Exchange of number plates. — Any registered owner of a motor vehicle who shall knowingly allow or permit the use of a display number plate issued to him to be taken from the motor vehicle for which it was issued and used on another motor vehicle by another person, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 97, s. 10.)

Editor's Note.—Very similar provisions to this section will be found in sec. 2621(27). See the editor's note under sec. 2602.

§ 2611(g). All vehicles to be registered; fees as to vehicles operated by public officials.—It shall be unlawful for any motor vehicle owned by the state of North Carolina or any department thereof, by any county, township, city or town, or by any board of education to be operated on the public highways of this state from and after June 30, 1922, without having first been duly registered in the office of the secretary of state as required by this chapter: Provided, that the secretary of state, upon proper proof being filed with him that any motor vehicle for which license is herein required is owned by the state or any department thereof, or by any county, township, city, or town, or by any board of education, may collect not exceeding one dollar for the registration and numbering of such motor vehicle: Provided further, that the term "owned" shall be construed to mean that such motor vehicle is the actual property of the state or some department thereof, or of the county, township, city, or town, or of the board of education, and no motor vehicle which is the property of any officer of employee of any department named herein shall be construed as being "owned" by such department. Any person operating a motor vehicle in violation of any provision of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than $50 or imprisoned not more than 30 days. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 97, s. 13.)

Editor's Note.—The portion of this section fixing the fees for official vehicles is probably superseded by sec. 2621(30). See note to sec. 2602.

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

Art. 3. License Fees

§ 2612. Amount of license fees.—The fees for the registration and licensing of vehicles as herein required shall be according to the following schedules:

Rates for Automobiles

24 h.p. or less	$12.50 per year
Over 24 h.p. and not more than 30 h.p.	20.00 per year
More than 30 h.p. and less than 35 h.p.	30.00 per year
35 h.p. or more	40.00 per year

Motor vehicles used for the transportation of passengers for hire shall pay fifty per cent more than the above rates.

Horsepower shall be computed according to the N. A. C. C. formula of rating for all motor vehicles equipped with internal combustion engines. On motor vehicles operated by steam or electricity the horsepower rating shall be computed according to the rating by the manufacturer of such vehicle.

Rates for Motor Trucks

Trucks with carrying capacity less than 1,000 pounds	$ 12.50
1,000 pounds and under one ton	15.00
One ton and under two tons	25.00
Two tons and under three tons	75.00
Three tons and under four tons	200.00
Four tons and over	300.00

On all trailers, $15 per ton carrying capacity.

Motorcycles

$5 on each motorcycle, and $5 for each motorcycle side-car.

Dealers in Motor Vehicles

Registration fee and first plate	$25.00
Each additional plate	1.00

The fiscal year for the collection of automobile licenses shall terminate December thirty-first. The fee for licenses issued after July first of each year, and before September thirtieth, for the quarter ending September thirtieth, shall be one-half the annual fee; the fee for licenses issued October first of each year and before December thirty-first, for the quarter ending December thirty-first, shall be one-fourth the annual fee.

The foregoing schedule of license fees on motor vehicles shall become effective July first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, and the present schedule of license fees shall remain in force until said date. The fiscal year for the payment of said license fees shall begin January first of each year. (1921, c. 2, s. 28; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 97, s. 12, 1927, c. 27; 1929, c. 18.)

Editor's Note.—The act of 1929 amended the next to the last paragraph of this section as to when less than full fee charged. It would seem that this section is superseded by § 2621(29) in so far as they are in conflict. See Editor's Note to § 2602.

1917 Provision Repealed.—Section 6, chapter 140, Laws 1917, was repealed by chapter 189, Laws of 1919. State v. Fink, 179 N. C. 712, 103 S. E. 16.

Editor's Note.—While the reference to the Secretary of State should be changed to the State Vehicle Commission, to conform to the more recent acts, sec. 2621(2) et seq.; it would seem that there are no provisions in the Motor Vehicle Act, corresponding to this section.

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

The effect of this act was summarized in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 298.

Validity of Section.—A statute permitting a municipal corporation to impose a tax on all express companies alike for delivering goods by trucks to consignees in a city, is uniform in its application, comes within the police powers of the State, and is not contrary to the Constitution in relation to either intrastate or interstate commerce, and the imposition of a tax therefor not to exceed $50 on each motor truck is reasonable. Southeastern Exp. Co. v. Charlotte, 186 N. C. 668, 120 S. E. 475.

Tax upon Privilege.—This section imposes a privilege tax for operating motor vehicles for the private use and for carrying passengers for hire, restricting the imposition of a privilege tax in excess of one dollar a year by a municipality upon each class alike. State v. Fink, 179 N. C. 712, 103 S. E. 16.

Repeals Local Law.—The particular intent expressed by this section forbidding counties, cities and towns from imposing a license tax in excess of one dollar a year on those running motor vehicles for hire, controls a general power conferred prior thereto in a municipal charter, to levy a franchise or license tax thereon. State v. Fink, 179 N. C. 712, 103 S. E. 16.

Since the passage of this section a city ordinance imposing a license tax of over one dollar a year for those running motor vehicles for hire, is void, though authorized by the city's charter, and where the person so operating them has complied with the statute, he may not be convicted of the offense imposed by the ordinance. State v. Fink, 179 N. C. 712, 103 S. E. 16.

Second and Third Provisos Construed.—The second proviso of this section refers to the privilege of operating a motor vehicle, and the third for regulating, licensing and controlling chauffeurs and drivers; and the words "any such car" in the third priviso do not restrict the drivers' license to the cars on which the privilege tax is laid; and an ordinance imposing a chauffeur's tax upon those driving cars within the corporate limits of the town is authorized by the statute. State v. Denson, 189 N. C. 173, 126 S. E. 517.

Fees Chargeable by City.—The fees for the registration and licensing of motor vehicles contemplated by this section include the cost of registration, permits, licenses, certificates, and plates, and exclude all other State and local taxes except an ad valorem tax and a license or registration fee of $1, which may be charged by a county, city, or town. But no county, city, or town shall charge or collect an additional fee under the guise of a chauffeur's license for the privilege of operating a motor vehicle, although the governing authorities may regulate, license, and control chauffeurs and drivers, and charge therefor a reasonable fee. State v. Jones, 191 N. C. 371, 131 S. E. 734, 735.

Effect of Revenue Act upon Section.—The tax imposed upon express companies by the provisions of secs. 79, 79a, chapter 34, of the Revenue Act of 1921, payable to the State upon a percentage of their mileage, and in certain sums of money to municipal corporations according to population, and also a privilege tax to the latter, prohibiting municipalities from collecting additional taxes thereon, did not include within its intent and meaning the tax imposed by this section in favor of municipal corporations for the privilege of operating a motor vehicle therein and in transporting property for hire. Southeastern Exp. Co. v. Charlotte, 186 N. C. 668, 120 S. E. 475.

Application to Express Company Truck.—Where an express company delivers goods to the consignee in cities, this service is in addition to that in smaller places, where deliveries are not so made, for which additional service compensation is included in its general express charges, and comes within the intent and meaning of this section, authorizing a tax of not exceeding $50 for each motor truck operated within the municipality. Southeastern Exp. Co. v. Charlotte, 186 N. C. 668, 120 S. E. 475.

Same—Judicial Knowledge of Damage to Streets.—The courts will take judicial notice that express companies do not deliver freight to the consignees in small places as they do in larger cities, and that in the latter the large express trucks employed in this service are damaging to the streets, which the municipality is obliged by statute to keep in proper repair for the benefit of its citizens. Southeastern Exp. Co. v. Charlotte, 186 N. C. 668, 120 S. E. 475.

§ 2612(b). Repeal of laws permitting county, etc., to levy license tax.—Any statute enacted at the 1923 session of the general assembly which permits any county, city or town to levy any license tax on any motor vehicle, other than that provided in section 2612(a), is hereby repealed in so far as it permits such excess tax. (1923, c. 241, s. 2.)

§ 2613. Application of funds by state highway commission.—All funds collected by the secretary of state under the provisions of this chapter, or amendments thereto, shall be paid to the state treasurer monthly, to be kept as a separate fund to be known as the "state highway fund," which shall be drawn upon and expended as directed by the state highway commission for the construction and maintenance of a system of state highways as authorized by article 1, entitled State Highway Commission and State Highway Fund, of the chapter Roads and Highways, or by this chapter. Nothing in this chapter shall prevent the state highway commission and the local road authorities to make agreements as to the method or the amount required for the maintenance of roads and bridges to be maintained under the provisions of this chapter. (1917, c. 140, s. 7; 1917, c. 141; 1913, c. 107, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to be superseded by sec. 2621(31). See the editor's note under sec. 2602.

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2613(a). Operation of vehicle without license a misdemeanor.—Any person, firm, or corporation that shall operate any motor vehicle upon any highway of the state, without license, as is required under this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1921, c. 2, s. 30.)

Editor's Note.—Similar provisions in the new act will be found in secs. 2621(6) and 2621(40).

§ 2613(b). State highway fund; payment out of upon vouchers.—For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this article the funds collected hereunder shall be kept by the state treasurer in a separate fund to be known and designated as "State Highway Fund," and all moneys directed to be paid out under this article shall be paid by the state treasurer upon voucher issued by the state highway commission, and charged to the state highway fund. (1921, c. 2, s. 31.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to be superseded by sec. 2621(31). See editor's note to sec. 2602.

§§ 2613(c) to 2613(i).—Superseded by §§ 2613(i1) et seq.

§ 2613(i1). Definitions; "motor fuels," "distributor". — The following words, terms, and phrases hereinafter used for the purpose of this act are defined as follows:

(a) "Motor Fuels" are such fuels known as gasoline, benzine, naptha, liberty fuel, benzol, and such other volatile and inflammable liquids produced and compounded for the purpose of operating internal combustion engines, except the product commonly known as kerosene oil.

(b) "Distributor" is any person, firm, association of persons, corporation, municipality, county, or other political subdivision or agency that has on hand or in his or its possession in this State, or that produces, refines, manufactures, or compounds such motor fuels in this State for sale, distribution, or use herein. (1927, c. 93, s. 1; 1931, c. 145, s. 24.)

Editor's Note.—Sections 2613(c)-(i) as passed in 1921 were repealed by the Act of 1927 and reenacted.

The Act of 1931 amended these sections as amended by the act of 1927 and Public Laws 1929, c. 40, to read as appearing in §§ 2613(i1)-2613(i15).

The term motor vehicle is defined by §§ 2598, 2621(1), and 2621(44).

A county purchasing gasoline for use by it in trucks and automobiles in the discharge of its governmental function of maintenance of its highways is not a "distributor" within the purview of this chapter, imposing an excise tax upon distributors of gasoline, since general statutes do not bind the sovereign unless the sovereign is expressly mentioned, and under the express language of the statute the Legislature could not have intended to include counties thereunder since counties could not be subject to the procedure for its enforcement nor liable for the penalty for its evasion. As to whether Article V, § 5, of the State Constitution prohibits the General Assembly from levying such a tax on a county, quare, but not decided, the question not being necessary to the determination of the case. O'Berry, State Treasurer v. Mecklenburg County, 198 N. C. 357, 151 S. E. 880.

§ 2613(i2). Purpose of article; double taxation not intended.—The purpose of this article is to provide for the payment and collection of a tax on the first sale of motor fuels when sold, or the use, when used, in this State; double taxation is not intended. Motor fuel manufactured, produced, or sold for exportation, and exported are not taxable and should not be included in the reports hereinafter required to be made by distributors. (1927, c. 93, s. 2; 1931, c. 145, s. 24.)

§ 2613(i4). Application for license as distributor.—Any distributor engaged in business when this article becomes effective shall, within thirty days thereafter, and any other distributor, prior to the commencement of doing business, file a duly acknowledged application for a license with the Commissioner of Revenue on a form prescribed and furnished by him setting forth the name under which such distributor transacts or intends to transact business within this State, the address of each place of business and a designation of the principal place of business. If such distributor is a firm or association, the application shall set forth the name and address of each person constituting the firm or association, and if a corporation, the names and addresses of the principal officers and such other information as the Commissioner of Revenue may require. Each distributor shall at the same time file a bond in such amount, not exceeding twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) in such form and with such surety or sureties as may be required by the Commissioner of Revenue, conditioned upon the rendition of the reports and the payment of the tax hereinafter provided for. Upon approval of the application and bond, the Commissioner of Revenue shall issue to the distributor a non-assignable license with a duplicate copy for each place of business of said distributor in this State, which shall be displayed in a conspicuous place at each such place of business and shall continue in force until surrendered or cancelled. No distributor shall, after thirty days from the effective date of this article, sell, offer for sale, or use any motor fuels within this State until such license has been issued; nor shall any distributor engaging in such business subsequent to the passage of this article commence said business without first procuring a license. Any distributor failing to comply with or violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00), nor more than five thousand dollars ($5,000.00), or imprisoned for not more than twenty-four months, or both. (1927, c. 93, s. 3; 1931, c. 145, s. 24.)

ied and imposed a tax of six cents per gallon on all motor fuels sold, distributed, or used within this State. The tax hereby imposed and levied shall be collected and paid by the distributor producing, refining, manufacturing, or compounding within this State, or holding in possession within this State motor fuels for the purpose of sale, distribution, or use within the State, and shall be paid by such distributor to the Commissioner of Revenue in the manner and at the times hereinafter specified. No county, city, or town, or political sub-division shall levy or collect any tax upon the sale or distribution of motor fuels herein defined. For the purpose of determining the amount of the tax, it shall be the duty of every distributor to transmit to the Commissioner of Revenue not later than the twentieth day of each month, upon forms prescribed and furnished by such commissioner, a report under oath or affirmation showing the quantity of motor fuel sold, distributed, or used by such distributor within this State during the preceding calendar month, and such other information as the said commissioner may require: Provided, that any distributor may, if he elects to do so, use as the measure of the tax levied and assessed against him by this section the gross quantity of motor fuel purchased, produced, refined, manufactured, and/or compounded by such distributor, plus the amount of motor fuel on hand at the beginning of the period when such method of computation is used, less a tare of one per cent (1%) in lieu of the quantity sold, distributed or used. (1927, c. 93, s. 4; 1929, c. 40, s. 1; 1931, c. 145, s. 24.)

Editor's Note.—This section was also amended by Public Laws of 1929, ch. 125, which added a proviso relating to Guilford County.

Our state gasoline tax is an excise and not a property tax. Stedman v. Winston-Salem, 204 N. C. 203, 167 S. E. 813.

And It May Be Levied on Municipality.—Under the provisions of our Constitution, Art. V, sec. 5, the General Assembly is prohibited from levying a property tax on property owned by municipal corporations, but the prohibition does not extend to excise taxes, and under the provisions of this section, a municipality is liable for the gasoline tax on gasoline bought by it in bulk and distributed by it to its various departments for use in its governmental functions. Stedman v. Winston-Salem, 204 N. C. 203, 167 S. E. 813.

§ 2613(i6). Payment of tax.—Every distributor, at the time of making the report required by section 2613(i5), shall pay to the Commissioner of Revenue, the amount of tax due for the month covered by such report. The tax so paid shall be transferred promptly by the said commissioner to the State Treasurer as other receipts of his office and the State Treasurer shall place the same to the credit of the "State Highway Fund." (1927, c. 93, s. 5; 1931, c. 145, s. 24.)

§ 2613(i7). Action by commissioner of revenue if distributor fail to report.—If any distributor shall wilfully fail, neglect or refuse to make the reports required by section 2613(i5) within the time therein provided, the Commissioner of Revenue shall immediately inform himself as best he may as to all matters and things required to be set forth in such reports, and from such information as he may be able to obtain, determine and fix the amount of the tax due the State from such delinquent distributor for the period covering the delinquency, adding to the tax so determined and as a part thereof, an amount equal to twenty-five per cent (25%) of the tax, to be collected and paid. The said Commissioner shall proceed immediately to collect the tax including the additional twenty-five per cent and transmit the same in the manner provided in section 2613(6) for the disposition of other taxes. (1927, c. 93, s. 6; 1931, c. 145, s. 24.)

§ 2613(i8). Record of transactions. — Every distributor of motor fuels shall keep a record of all such fuels purchased, received, sold, delivered or used by him, which shall include the number of gallons so purchased, received, sold, delivered, or used, and the dates of such purchases and sales, which records shall be preserved for a period of two years and shall at all times during the business hours of the day be subject to inspection by the Commissioner of Revenue or his deputies, or such other officers as may be duly authorized by said Commissioner. (1927, c. 93, s. 8; 1931, c. 145, s. 24.)

§ 2613(i9). Rebates for fuels sold to U. S. Government or for use in aircraft. — The Commissioner of Revenue is authorized under such rules and regulations as he may adopt for that purpose, to relieve any distributor from the payment of the tax herein levied for any motor fuels sold to the United States Government, and/or gasoline of such quality that it is not adapted for use in ordinary automotive vehicles, but is designed for and sold and used exclusively in aircraft motors, when it appears to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Revenue that the tax herein imposed has not been added to the sale price of such motor fuel, and the Commissioner of Revenue is likewise authorized to refund by warrant drawn upon the State Treasurer to the person paying the same, any tax paid under the provisions of this article which constitutes an unlawful burden upon interstate commerce, in conflict with the provisions of the Constitution of the United States: Provided, that any claims for such rebate which are not filed with the Commissioner of Revenue in accordance with forms to be provided by the Commissioner of Revenue within sixty days after the payment of said tax shall be deemed to have been waived. (1931, c. 145, s. 24.)

§ 2613(i10). Penalty for making false claim for rebate.—Any person who shall wilfully make any false or fraudulent report as the basis for claim for rebate or deduction under the provisions of this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1927, c. 93, s. 10; 1931, c. 145, s. 24.)

§ 2613(i11). Enumeration of acts constituting misdemeanor.—Any distributor who shall fail, neglect, or refuse to make the reports herein required or pay the taxes herein imposed, or who shall refuse to permit the Commissioner of Revenue or any agent appointed by him, to examine the books and records of such distributor pertaining to the motor fuels made taxable by this act or who shall make any false, or fraudulent report or statement hereunder, or who does, or attempts to do, anything whatsoever to avoid a full disclosure of the quantity of motor fuels sold, distributed or used within this State shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction, shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) and not more than five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) or, in the case of an individual or the officer or employee charged with the duty of making such report for a corporation, to be imprisoned not exceeding twenty-four months or both, and the license of such distributor may be revoked. (1927, c. 93, s. 11; 1931, c. 145, s. 24.)

§ 2613(i12). Actions for tax; double liability.—If any person, firm or corporation shall fail to pay the amount of tax levied in section 2613(i5) within the time specified in section 2613(i6) of this act, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of revenue to proceed at once to enforce the payment of said tax, and to this end the commissioner of revenue shall have and may exercise all the remedies provided in the revenue laws of the state for enforcing payment of other taxes, including the right of execution through the sheriffs of the several counties of the state upon any property of the delinquent taxpayer, and shall with the assistance of the attorney general whenever necessary bring appropriate action in the courts of the state for the recovery of such tax. If it shall be found as a fact that such failure to pay was willful on the part of such person, firm or corporation, judgment shall be rendered against such person, firm or corporation for double the amount of tax found to be due, together with interest, and the amount of taxes and penalties shall be paid into the state treasury to the credit of the state highway fund. All remedies which now or may hereafter be given by the laws of the state of North Carolina for the collection of taxes are expressly given herein for the collection of taxes levied in this article or of judgment recovered under authority of this article. It shall also be the duty of the commissioner of revenue to revoke the license of any licensed distributor who shall refuse, fail or neglect to pay the taxes levied in section 2613(i5) within the time specified in section 2613(i6), and whose account shall remain delinquent for any part of said tax for ten days thereafter: Provided, that in consideration of the reduction by thirty days of time previously allowed before enforcing payment of this tax the commissioner of revenue may find the correct amount of accrued tax liability for the last thirty days next preceding the effective date of this act, and may permit the said sum of delinquency to be divided into twelve equal monthly payments to be paid on the twentieth day of each succeeding twelve months, plus interest at the rate of six per cent per annum on deferred payments and upon failure of any distributor to meet any such deferred payment at the time specified or within ten days thereafter, together with the current monthly liability, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of revenue to revoke the license of any such distributor and to proceed to enforce payment of the whole amount that may be due by said distributor. (1927, c. 93, s. 12; 1931, c. 145, s. 24; 1933, c. 137, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 137, repealed this section as it formerly read and substituted the above in lieu thereof. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

§ 2613(i12)a. Auditing books of licensed distributors.—It shall be the duty of the commissioner of revenue, by competent auditors, to have the books and records of every licensed distributor in the state examined at least twice each year to determine if such distributor is keeping complete records as provided in section 2613(i8), and to determine if correct reports have been made to the state department of revenue by every such distributor covering the total amount of tax liability of such licensed distributor. It shall also be the duty of such auditors to check the records of each distributor with the records of shipment by railroad companies, or by boats or trucks, or other available sources of information, and also to check the records covering the receipt and distribution of any other liquid petroleum products handled by each distributor. (1933, c. 137, s. 1.)

§ 2613(i12)c. Boats and vehicles transporting motor fuels must register.—The owner or operator of any motor vehicle using the highways of this state, or the owner or operator of any boat using the waters of this state, transporting into, out of, or between points in this state, any gasoline or liquid motor fuel taxable in this state, or any liquid petroleum product that is, or may be hereafter made, subject to the inspection laws of this state, shall, as a prerequisite to the transportation of such products over the highways or waters of this state, register such intention with the commissioner of revenue in advance of such transportation, with notice of the kind and character of such products to be transported, and if by motor vehicle the license and motor number of each motor vehicle intended to be used in such transportation. Upon the filing of such information, together with an agreement to comply with the provisions of this article, the commissioner of revenue shall, without any charge therefor, issue a numbered certificate to such owner or operator for each motor vehicle intended to be used for such transportation, which numbered certificate shall be prominently displayed on the motor vehicle or boat used in transporting the products named in this section. Every person hauling, transporting, or conveying gasoline over any of the public highways of this state shall, during the entire time he is so engaged, have in his possession an invoice, or bill of sale, or other record evidence showing the true name and address of the person from whom he has received the gasoline, and the number of gallons so originally received by him from said person, and the true name and address of every person to whom he has made deliveries of said gasoline, or any part thereof, and the number of gallons so delivered to each of said persons. The person hauling, transporting or conveying such gasoline shall, at the request of any representative of the commissioner of revenue, produce and offer for inspection said invoice or bill of sale, or record evidence. If said person fails to produce the invoice or bill of sale, or record evidence, or if, when produced, it fails to clearly disclose said information, the same shall be prima facie evidence of a violation of this section. No person shall haul, transport or convey gasoline over any of the public highways of the state except in vehicles plainly and visibly marked on the rear thereof with the word "gasoline" or other name of the motor fuel being transported, in letters at least four inches high and of corresponding appropriate width, together with the name or trade mark of the owner of the vehicle in which such gasoline is contained displayed in a conspicuous place on the vehicle. Any person guilty of violating any of the provisions of this sub-section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1933, c. 137, s. 1.)

§ 2613(i15). Fuels purchased for farm tractors, motor boats and manufacturing processes entitled to rebates.—Any person, association, firm, or corporation, who shall buy in quantities of ten gallons or more at any one time any motor fuels as defined in this article for the purpose of use, and the same is actually used, for a purpose other than the operation of a motor vehicle designed for use upon the highways, on which motor fuels the tax imposed by this article shall have been paid, shall be reimbursed at the rate of five cents per gallon of the amount of such tax or taxes paid under this article, upon the following conditions and in the following manner:

(a) Before using such motor fuels the person, association, firm, or corporation proposing to use the same shall apply to the commissioner of revenue, upon blanks to be furnished by him, for a refund permit. Such application shall state the use for which the motor fuels for which taxes are to be refunded are to be used. If such motor fuels are to be used in a gasoline motor or engine, the application shall state the make and kind of such motor, the serial number thereof, and the purpose for which it is proposed to use the same. If such motor fuels are to be used for some purpose other than the operation of an engine, the application shall state the nature and kind of process in which such motor fuels are to be used, and the method and manner in which such motor fuels are to be used, stored and kept. In all cases such application shall state the approximate number of gallons of such motor fuels to be used per month, and shall give such other information as the commissioner of revenue shall require. In making application for refund permit, the person making application may combine one or more of the uses above specified in the same application. Dealers in motor fuel engaged in selling such fuel to motor boats owned by non-residents, and which boats are not documented in this state, may apply to the commissioner of revenue for a permit on forms to be prescribed by the commissioner of revenue, which permit shall entitle the said dealer to be furnished with blanks by the commissioner of revenue in such form as may be prescribed by him, for the use of such non-resident boat owners to file applications for refunds as provided in this article, and said non-resident boat owners shall not be required to secure permits. Such application for refund shall be filed in the name of the non-resident boat owner on blanks furnished by dealers holding permits. Said applications must be accompanied by an invoice of the dealer holding permit, showing the number of gallons of motor fuel delivered into the tanks of said boats and shall furnish such other information as the commissioner of revenue shall require. Applications must be sworn to before a notary public of this state and filed with the commissioner of revenue. Upon approval of said applications by the commissioner of revenue, said applications shall be paid as other applications for refund are paid: Provided, however, that such non-residents must file applications with the commissioner of revenue within thirty days from the date of purchase of said gasoline and that said applications may be paid immediately upon approval. The application shall be accompanied by a fee of one dollar, to be returned if the refund permit is not issued. Such fees, if retained, shall be paid by the commissioner of revenue to the state treasurer, to be credited by him to the state highway fund.

(b) If, upon the filing of such application, the commissioner of revenue shall be satisfied that the same is made in good faith and that the motor fuels upon which the said tax refund is requested are to be used exclusively for one of the purposes set forth above and specified in said application, he shall issue to said applicant a refund permit specifying the terms and conditions under which refunds on such motor fuels will be made, which refund permits will expire with the fiscal year in which it is issued. Refund permits issued under this article shall state the name of the person, association, firm, or corporation to whom and for whose benefit it is issued, the purposes for which the motor fuels upon which tax refunds are to be made under the provisions thereof are to be used and the approximate number of gallons expected to be used per month for such purposes, and the commissioner of revenue shall determine such amount. Such refund permits shall bear serial numbers and shall not be transferable, nor shall any right or claim for refund under the same be transferable: Provided, however, that the commissioner of revenue shall not be required to issue any refund permit for use of motor fuels unless and until the applicant therefor shall have satisfied the commissioner of revenue that provisions have been made for the storage of such motor fuels in a manner prescribed by the commissioner of revenue, so as to segregate the same from motor fuels for use in vehicles upon the highways.

(c) All claims for refunds for tax or taxes for motor fuels under the provisions of this article shall be filed with the commissioner of revenue on forms to be prescribed by him, between the first and the fifteenth day of January, April, July, and/or October of each year, and at such periods only, and shall cover only the motor fuels so used during the three months immediately preceding the filing of such application. Such application shall be accompanied by ticket, invoice, or other document from the retail dealer or distributor for motor fuels, issued at the time of purchase of such motor fuel and showing the purchase of the number of gallons of motor fuels on which said refund is requested, and upon which shall be written or stamped at the time of purchase appropriate words showing the purpose for which the said motor fuel is purchased and that refund will be requested. The application shall be sworn to before the clerk of the superior court or a notary public of the county in which the applicant resides or has his place of business, and such attesting officer is authorized to charge therefor a fee of not exceeding twenty-five cents.

(d) If the commissioner of revenue shall be satisfied that the motor fuels specified in such application for refund have been legitimately used for the purpose specified in the refund permit issued to such applicant, he shall issue to such applicant a warrant upon the state treasurer for the said taxes paid on such motor fuels under this article.

(e) No refund of tax or taxes shall be paid on motor fuels except under a refund permit and to the person, association, firm, or corporation named in said refund permit in the manner herein provided for.

(f) If the commissioner of revenue shall be satisfied that the holder of any refund permit issued under the provisions of this act has violated the conditions thereof, or has collected or sought to collect any refund of tax or taxes thereunder upon any motor fuels not used in strict accordance with said refund permit, he shall issue notice to the holder of such refund permit to show cause why the refund permit should not be cancelled, which notice shall state a time and place of hearing upon said notice. If upon such hearing the commissioner shall find as a fact that the permit holder has violated the terms of his permit, he shall cancel such refund permit and the holder thereof shall be required to repay all tax or taxes which have been refunded to him under such permit.

(g) Any applicant for a refund permit or any holder of a refund permit may appeal from the decision of the commissioner of revenue upon any matters arising under this section to the state board of assessment, who shall hear the matters presented on such appeal at a time and place to be fixed by said state board of assessment. Such state board of assessment shall have authority to cause the attendance of witnesses in behalf of such applicant or of the commissioner of revenue, and shall have authority to administer oaths and take testimony.

(h) The commissioner of revenue is hereby authorized and directed, if at any time in his opinion there is reason to doubt the accuracy of the facts set forth in any application for tax refund, to refer the matter to any agent of the department of revenue or to any member of the state highway patrol, and such person so designated shall make a careful investigation of all the facts and circumstances relating to said application in the use of the motor fuel therein referred to, and shall have a right to have access to the books and records of any retailer or distributor of motor fuel products for the purpose of obtaining the necessary information concerning such matters, and shall make due report thereof to the commissioner of revenue.

(i) If any court of last resort shall hold that the provisions for refund herein set out shall render the levying and collecting of the tax hereinbefore provided invalid, it is the intention of the general assembly that such provisions for refund shall be annulled and the tax shall be levied without any provisions for such refund and that this article shall be so construed.

Any person making a false return or affidavit for the purpose of securing a refund to which he is not entitled under the provisions of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500.00), or imprisoned not exceeding two years, in the discretion of the court. 1931, c. 145, s. 24, c. 304; 1933, c. 211, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 211, repealed this section as it formerly read and substituted the above in lieu thereof. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

§ 2613(i16). Reports of carriers.—Every person, firm or corporation engaged in the business of, or transporting motor fuel, whether common carrier or otherwise, and whether by rail, water, pipe line or over public highways, either in interstate or in intrastate commerce, to points within the state of North Carolina, and every person, firm or corporation transporting motor fuel by whatever manner to a point in the state of North Carolina from any point outside of said state shall be required to keep for a period of two years from the date of each delivery records on forms prescribed by, or satisfactory to, the commissioner of revenue of all receipts and deliveries of motor fuel so received or delivered to points within the state of North Carolina, including duplicate original copies of delivery tickets or invoices covering such receipts and deliveries, showing the date of the receipt or delivery, the name and address of the party to whom each delivery is made, and the amount of each delivery; and shall report, under oath, to the commissioner of revenue, on forms prescribed by said commissioner of revenue, all deliveries of motor fuel so made to points within the state of North Carolina. Such reports shall cover monthly periods, shall be submitted within the first ten days of each month covering all shipments transported and delivered for the previous month, shall show the name and address of the person to whom the deliveries of motor fuel have actually and in fact been made, the name and address of the originally named consignee if motor fuel has been delivered to any other than the originally named consignee, the point of origin, the point of delivery, the date of delivery, and the number and initials of each tank car, and the number of gallons contained therein if shipped by rail; the name of the boat, barge or vessel, and the number of gallons contained therein, and the consignor and consignee if shipped by water; the license number of each tank truck and the number of gallons contained therein, and the consignor and consignee if transported by motor truck; if delivered by other means the manner in which such delivery is made; and such other additional information relative to shipments of motor fuel as the commissioner of revenue may require: Provided, that the commissioner of revenue may modify or suspend the provisions of this section with regard to reports of interstate or intrastate shipments or deliveries upon application of any licensed distributor: Provided, also, that the commissioner of revenue shall have full power to require any distributor to make additional reports and to produce for examination duplicate originals of delivery tickets or invoices covering both receipts and deliveries of products as herein provided. The reports herein provided for shall cover specifically gasoline, kerosene, benzine, naphtha, crude oil, or any distillates from crude petroleum. Any person, firm or corporation refusing, failing or neglecting to make such report shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1929, c. 230, s. 1; 1933, c. 137, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1931, c. 145, s. 24, amended this article as amended by Public Laws 1927, c. 93 and Public Laws 1929, c. 40, to read as is set out in §§ 2613(i1)-2613(i15). However, the 1931 Act made no reference to Public Laws 1929, c. 230, which had amended the Act of 1927, and it is assumed that the legislature intended for it to remain in force.

Public Laws of 1933, c. 137, repealed this section as it formerly read and substituted the above in lieu thereof. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

§ 2613(i17). Forwarding of information to other states.—The commissioner of revenue of the state of North Carolina shall, upon request duly received from the officials to whom are intrusted the enforcement of the motor fuel tax laws of any other state, forward to such officials any information which he may have in his possession relative to the manufacture, receipt, sale, use, transportation or shipment by any person of motor fuel. (1933, c 137, s. 1.)

Art. 3B. Motor Busses

§ 2613(j). Definitions. — In all matters relating to the administration of this act, whenever and wherever the following terms are used they shall be construed and defined as follows:

(a) The term "act" means this act.

(b) The term "state" means the State of North Carolina.

(c) The term "person" means an individual, a firm or a co-partnership.

(d) The term "corporation" means a corporation, a company, an association or a joint-stock association.

(e) The term "commission" means the Corporation Commission of North Carolina.

(f) The term "certificate" means the franchise certificate, granting authority to a motor vehicle carrier to operate motor vehicle service over a specific route.

(g) The term "driver's permit" means the permit issued, after examination, authorizing a person to drive a motor vehicle operating under the act.

(h) The term "vehicle permit" means the card, or other marker, bearing the identification of the motor vehicle and the highway routing.

(i) The term "motor vehicles" means vehicles driven by gas, oil, electric or steam motors and not operated on rails.

(j) The term "trailer" means a vehicle without attached motor, designed for carrying property wholly on its own structure and for being drawn by a motor vehicle.

(k) The term "motor vehicle carrier" means every corporation or person, as the term "corporation" and the term "person" are hereinbefore defined, or their lessees, trustees or receivers owning, controlling, operating or managing any motor vehicle used in the business of transporting persons or property for compensation between cities, or between towns, or between cities and towns over the public highways of the State, as public highways are defined herein.

(l) The term "city" means any collection of people incorporated pursuant to the provisions of section four, article eight, of the Constitution of North Carolina.

(m) The term "town" means any unincorporated community, point, or collection of people having a geographical name by which it may be generally known and is so generally designated.

(n) The term "service" means that motor vehicle service which is held out to the public and of which the public may avail itself at will for transportation over the public highways between cities or between towns, or between cities and towns, irrespective of whether the service is upon regular schedule or otherwise.

(o) The term "public highway" means every street, road or highway in this State, whether within or without the corporate limits of any municipality.

(p) The term "between fixed termini or over a regular route" means the termini or route, respectively, between or over which any motor vehicle carrier usually or ordinarily operates any motor vehicle, even though there may be periodical or irregular departures from such termini or route.

(q) The term "casual trip" means a trip on call for the purpose of transporting passengers or property to a given destination and return, or either. (1925, c. 50, s. 1; 1927, c. 136, s. 1; 1929, c. 193, s. 1.)

amended, and re-enacted by the Act of 1927, as now appearing in this and the following sections.

The Act of 1929 amended subsection (q) of this section by striking out the words "under contract or" following the word "trip."

The Motor Vehicle Act, secs. 2621(1) et seq., does not apply to busses regulated under this article. See sec. 2621(39).

Several of the terms defined in this section are also defined in secs. 2598, 2621(1), and 2621(44).

For the regulation of motor vehicle carriers pursuant to this article, see 33 Rept. of Corp. Comm. (1925-6) pp. 21 et seq., pp. 59, 114.

Purpose of Article.—It was the intent of this statute, to regulate the public service of automobiles on the highways of the State between cities and towns through classifications of the Corporation Commission requiring a license therefor, and making a violation thereof indictable as a criminal offense. State v. Andrews, 191 N. C. 545, 132 S. E. 568.

Article Contemplates a Continuous Business.—This statute contemplates a continuous business. The "service" rendered in contemplation of this statute construed with the classifications made by the Corporation Commission, does not include within the intent and meaning thereof an occasional service rendered at the request of the passenger, and not constituting a regular business or practice of a public service between or at the termini of designated or fixed routes, and an indictment under it will not be upheld. State v. Andrews, 191 N. C. 545, 132 S. E. 568.

Report of Carriers Ordered.—The order, docket number 6376, of the commission of Jan. 2, 1926, requires that the report of the motor vehicle carriers shall report as of December the first each year its assets, liabilities and revenues, on forms furnished by the commission and that it must be filed in the office of the commission in Raleigh on or before March the fifteenth of each year. See Corp. Comm. Report for 1925-1926.

Regulations of Business.—For the regulations passed by the commission as to the size, etc., of vehicle used, and the regulation of the business, see the Biannual Rept. of the Corp. Comm. for 1925-1926.

Union Stations for Carriers.—Pursuant to the power vested in it by this section, the North Carolina Corporation Commission ordered that on or before Aug. 1, 1925, the motor vehicle carriers should erect union stations in the principal cities named in the order to and from which all carriers should operate. Regulation was also made for the management and control of such stations. See Biannual Rept. of Corp. Comm. for 1925-1926.

§ 2613(k). To whom applicable.—No corporation or person, their lessees, trustees, or receivers shall operate over the public highways in this State any motor vehicle or motor vehicle with trailer, as hereinbefore defined as a motor vehicle carrier, for the transportation of persons or property between cities, or between towns, or between cities and towns, for compensation, except in accordance with the provisions of this act, and said operation shall be subject to control, supervision, and regulation by the commission in the manner provided by this act: Provided, that where the corporate limits of two or more cities join, they shall be treated as one for purposes of administering this act: provided, further, that nothing in this act shall prohibit a motor vehicle carrier under this act, nor any motor vehicle on which the franchise tax has been paid as provided in the current revenue act from making casual trips on call over routes established hereunder; provided, that on said casual trips no one shall be allowed to pick up any passenger or property along the route, nor be permitted on the return trip to carry any passengers or property other than those or that included in the original trip; nor shall it apply to motor vehicles used exclusively for transporting school students from and to their homes; nor to motor vehicles used exclusively for transporting persons to or from religious services; nor to motor vehicles used exclusively in carrying the United States mail; nor to motor vehicles used exclusively in transporting farm and dairy products from the farm or dairy to warehouse, creamery or other original storage or market; nor to motor vehicles used exclusively in the distribution of newspapers from the publisher to subscribers or distributors; nor to motor vehicles used exclusively in the transportation of bona fide employees of an industrial plant to and from the places of their operator shall furnish such transportation facilities regular employment: Provided, that if a franchise to such mill or factory maintaining a residential unit of one thousand inhabitants or more, the foregoing exception shall not be operative: Provided, further, that this shall not repeal chapter three hundred and seventy-five, Public Laws, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one. (1925, c. 50, s. 2; 1927, c. 136, s. 2; 1929, cc. 193, s. 1, 254, s. 1; 1935, c. 111.)

Editor's Note.—This section was twice amended by Public Laws of 1929. Chapter 193 struck out the words "under contract or" following the word "trips" in line 20. Chapter 254 inserted in lines 17 to 19 the words "on which the franchise tax has been paid as provided in the current revenue act" in lieu of the words formerly appearing.

The amendment of 1935 adds the two provisos at the end of the section and the clause immediately preceding such provisos reading: "nor to motor vehicles used exclusively," etc.

The Act of 1931 referred to near the end of this section provided that Acts 1929, chapter 345, section 165, taxing motor vehicles for hire, should not apply to motor vehicles operated by the owner thereof who may use such motor vehicles only for private use and the transportation of fellow-workmen between their homes and places of regular employment.

A person transporting persons or property by motor vehicle for hire between cities and towns as a business, accepting all persons for the transportation who properly present themselves, must obtain the franchise required by this and the following section, unless he becomes within the exception specifically pointed out, regardless whether or not any other person or corporation holds a valid franchise covering that section of highway, while persons operating motor vehicles for hire without regard to fixed termini are required to obtain only the "for hire" license in § 7880(96). Winborne v. Mackey, 206 N. C. 554, 174 S. E. 577; Winborne v. Browning, 206 N. C. 557, 174 S. E. 579.

The requirement of a franchise under this and following section, for hire between fixed termini which are cities or towns, is not affected by the fact that no other person or corporation has a valid franchise covering the same section of highway, nor does the exception relating to U. S. mail apply unless the motor vehicle is used exclusively for carrying mail. Winborne v. Sutton, 206 N. C. 559, 174 S. E. 580.

Motor vehicles are not "used exclusively in carrying United States mail," where they also carry passengers and property for compensation, and such operation does not come within the exception relating to United States mail under this section. Winborne v. Browning, 206 N. C. 557, 559, 174 S. E. 579.

§ 2613(l). Application for franchise certificate.—Every corporation or person, their lessees, trustees, or receivers, before operating any motor vehicle upon the public highways of the State for the transportation of persons or property for compensation, within the purview of this act, shall apply to the commission and obtain a franchise certificate authorizing such operation, and such franchise certificate shall be secured in the manner following:

(a) Application for such certificate shall be made by such corporation or person, their lessees, trustees, or receivers, to the commission in the manner prescribed, and on forms furnished, by the commission.

(b) Upon the filing of said application, the commission may, in its discretion, fix a time and place for the hearing of said application. When the time and place for the hearing has been fixed, the applicant shall, at least ten days prior to said hearing, cause to be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the territory to be served a notice reciting the fact of the filing of said application together with a statement of the time and place for the hearing of said application.

(c) At the time specified in said notice, or at such time as may be fixed by the commission, a public hearing upon said application shall be held by said commission: Provided, that in passing upon applications for certificates, the commission may take into consideration the reliability of the applicant, his court record, and any other matters tending to qualify or disqualify him as a carrier. After such hearing, the commission may issue the license certificate, or refuse to issue it, or may issue it with modifications and upon such terms and conditions as in its judgment the public convenience and necessity may require.

(d) Before granting the franchise certificate to an applicant for operation of passenger or freight motor vehicles over the public highways of the State, the commission shall request and the Highway Commission of the State shall furnish to the commission its recommendations as to the size and weight of the motor vehicles and the type of tires with which said motor vehicles may be equipped, which may be safely operated over said highways and may be operated over the same without greatly damaging them, and such recommendations made by the Highway Commission shall in all cases be observed by the commission in granting franchise certificates to applicants for operation over said highways.

(e) No license certificates shall be issued for the operation on any highway in the State of any motor propelled vehicles of greater width than eighty-six (86) inches and greater loaded weight than fifteen thousand (15,000) pounds for passenger traffic, and greater width than eight-six (86) inches and greater loaded weight than nine (9) tons for freight traffic, and the commission shall have power at any time, when in its judgment the public convenience or safety requires, or upon request of the Highway Commission, to reduce the size and weight of motor vehicles operated upon the public highways under this act, whether upon hard-surfaced or other types of highway construction.

(f) The commission may refuse to grant any application for a franchise certificate where the granting of such application would duplicate, in whole or in part, a previously authorized similar class of service, unless it is shown to the satisfaction of the commission that the existing operations are not providing sufficient service to reasonably meet the public convenience and necessity and the existing operators, after thirty days' notice, fail to provide the service required by the commission: Provided, that where two or more highways intersect within less than twenty-five miles of any incorporated city and the business of such lines transacted at such intersection is insufficient to warrant the maintenance of a bus station, then the commission may in its discretion route all operators to the next city in which a bus station is established and maintained.

(g) All applications not acted upon by the commission within sixty days from date same were filed because of request of applicant shall become null and void.

(h) No license certificate shall be issued to two or more persons until such persons have executed a partnership agreement and registered the same in each county in which they propose to operate.

(i) Applications may be tentatively granted pending purchase of equipment and equipment specifications and insurance, or bond; but no franchise certificate shall be issued until equipment has been purchased and equipment specifications and insurance, or bond, have been filed and approved. (1925, c. 50, s. 3; c. 137; 1927, c. 136, s. 3; 1931, c. 182; 1933, c. 440, § 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added the proviso to subsection (f) of this section.

Prior to the 1933 amendment subsection (f) of this section provided that the commission could not refuse to grant the certificate because of the multiplicity of operators over the proposed route.

Quoted in Love v. Queen City Lines, 206 N. C. 575, 577, 174 S. E. 514.

§ 2613(m). Franchise certificate.—Upon granting a franchise under this act, the commission shall issue to such applicant a franchise certificate which shall expire automatically three years from the date thereof and shall contain the following matters:

(a) The name and post office address of the grantee.

(b) The public highway or highways over which, and the fixed termini between which, the grantee is permitted to operate.

(c) The kind of transportation, whether passenger or freight, in which the grantee is permitted to engage.

(d) Such additional matters as said commission may deem necessary or proper. (1927, c. 136, s. 4.)

§ 2613(n). Sale or other disposition of franchise.—No franchise certificate, issued under the provisions of this act, may be assigned or transferred, or pledged, or hypothecated in any way without the written consent of the commission. (1927, c. 136, s. 5.)

§ 2613(o). Insurance.—The commission shall in granting a franchise certificate, require the applicant to procure and file with the commission acceptable liability and property damage insurance in a company licensed to do business in the State; or, in lieu of such insurance may accept bond with solvent surety, on such motor vehicles to be used in such service, in such amount as the commission may determine, insuring passengers and the public receiving personal injury by reason of an act of negligence arising from the operation of any motor vehicle by the applicant upon the public highways of the State, and for damage to baggage in the custody of the assured and for loss of baggage when checked by the assured; and insuring the passengers and the public receiving personal injury by reason of any act of negligence arising from the operation of any motor vehicle by the applicant upon the route designated in the applicant's franchise certificate, whether such motor vehicle shall be specifically named, numbered or designated in the insurance policy or bond, or not, and whether such motor vehicle be in regular or temporary use by the applicant. Such policy, or bond, to contain such other conditions, provisions and limitations as the commission may prescribe, and shall be kept in full force and effect. Property carriers may, in the discretion of the commission, be required to secure and file acceptable cargo insurance, or bond, which shall cover damage to or loss of property only when listed on a duly prescribed and authorized bill of lading and receipted for by the assured or his agent. Before final judgment has been rendered by a competent court of jurisdiction, in any cause arising from the operation under any franchise certificate, no attachment shall lie against motor vehicles used in such operation by any motor vehicle carrier, who has filed with the commission such damage liability policy, or bond, so long as such policy or bond is in full force and effect. In any action in the courts arising out of damage to person or property, the assurer shall not be joined in the action against the assured; but upon final judgment against the assured, the assurer shall be liable within the limitations of the policy for the amount recovered and all court costs. (1927, c. 136, s. 6.)

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 101.

Purpose of Section.—It seems that the Legislature enacted this section to meet the decision in Harrison v. Transit Co., 192 N. C. 545, 135 S. E. 460; Williams v. Frederickson Motor Express Lines, 195 N. C. 682, 684, 143 S. E. 256; Brown v. Brevard Auto Service Co., 195 N. C. 647, 143 N. C. 258.

Joinder of Assurer Forbidden.—The provision of this section prohibiting the joinder of the assurer in an action against the assured, relates to the remedy, and its enforcement does not impair the obligations of a continuing contract of indemnity when the injury in suit occurs after the time the act went into effect. Williams v. Frederickson Motor Express Lines, 195 N. C. 682, 143 S. E. 256; Brown v. Brevard Auto Service Co., 195 N. C. 647, 143 S. E. 258.

And where an assurer was joined in such action the complaint was properly dismissed upon demurrer. Williams v. Frederickson Motor Express Lines, 195 N. C. 682, 143 S. E. 256.

§ 2613(p). Regulatory powers of commission; separation of races.—The commission is hereby vested with power and authority to supervise and regulate every motor vehicle carrier under this article; to make or approve the rates, fares, charges, classifications, rules and regulations for service and safety of operation and the checking of baggage of each such motor vehicle carrier; to supervise the operation of union passenger stations in any manner necessary to promote harmony among the operators and efficiency of service to the traveling public; to fix and prescribe the speed limit, which may be less but shall not be greater than that prescribed by law; to regulate the accounts and to require the filing of annual and other reports and of other data by such motor vehicle carriers; to require the increase of equipment capacity to meet public convenience and necessity; and to supervise and regulate motor vehicle carriers in all other matters affecting the relationship between such carriers and the traveling and shipping public. The commission shall have power and authority, by general order or otherwise, to prescribe rules and regulations applicable to any and all motor vehicle carriers, and the said commission is authorized, directed and empowered, whenever the public convenience and necessity may require, to increase, or decrease, or suspend temporarily the service upon any route for which a franchise certificate has been issued; and is hereby authorized, empowered, and directed to see that such rules and regulations and all, and singularly, the provisions of this article are enforced. The Commission shall require any motor vehicle carrier operating on a franchise granted by the Corporation Commission and coming within the provisions of this act, if engaged in the transportation of both white and colored passengers for hire, to provide separate but equal accommodations for the white and colored races at passenger stations or waiting rooms where the carrier receives passengers of both races and/or on all busses or motor vehicles operating on a route or routes over which such carrier transports passengers of both races. Such accommodations may be furnished either by separate motor vehicles or by equal accommodations in motor vehicles. Provided that any requirement as to separate accommodation for the races shall not apply to specially chartered motor vehicles or to negro servants and attendants on their employers, or to officers or guards transporting prisoners; and provided that operators of motor vehicles or bus lines or taxicabs engaged in the transportation of passengers of one race only shall not be required to provide any accommodations for the other race, and provided that an operator shall not be required to furnish any accommodations to the other race over a line or route where he has undertaken and is engaged in the transportation of passengers of only one race, and provided, further, that nothing contained in this act or the law amended hereby shall be construed to declare operators of busses and/or taxicabs common carriers. (1925, c. 50, s. 4; 1927, c. 136, s. 7; 1929, c. 216, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added all of this section beginning with the word "the" in line 34.

In Corporation Commission v. Interracial Commission, 198 N. C. 317, 151 S. E. 648 (1930), the Interracial Commission petitioned the Corporation Commission to make regulations to insure the negro traveling public separate but equal accommodations on the busses and in the passenger stations of the respondent bus companies. The petition was dismissed by the Corporation Commission on the ground that it had no power to interpret carriers by bus to be common carriers within the terms of the 1927 statute. On appeal to the Supreme Court it was held, (1) That bus lines operating within the state are common carriers, and (2) That the Corporation Commission has plenary power under the 1927 statute to require bus lines operating between points within the state in carrying passengers for hire to provide separate bus and station accommodations for white and negro passengers.

The legislature has authority to provide reasonable rules and regulations for the supervision of common carriers and to prevent unjust discriminations and preferences. This authority may be delegated to an administrative board or commission. The Corporation Commission is specifically vested by the 1927 statute with power to supervise and regulate motor vehicle carriers in matters affecting the relationship between such carriers and the traveling public. It seems clear from the language of this statute, without necessity of construction by the Corporation Commission, that the motor vehicle carriers provided for were common carriers. In accord with the policy of the state with regard to separation of races in public conveyances, the Commissoin should have issued orders for segregation upon the petition of the Interracial Commission.

Since the above litigation began, chapter 216, Public Laws of 1929 has gone into effect, but not being necessarily involved in the case was not thereby construed, although the Court discussed it. The statute provides that operators of motor vehicles or bus lines or taxicabs engaged in the transportation of passengers of one race only shall not be required to provide any accommodations for the other race. A state statute which requires the separation of the races, with equal accommodations, is not a denial of equal protection of the laws. But no one can be excluded by a common carrier on account of color, and a state law which authorizes race discrimination by a public carrier of passengers is unconstitutional. It is submitted therefore that the portion of the 1929 statute above set out is contrary to the equal protection clause of the fourteenth amendment.

The statute also provides that nothing contained in this act or the law amended hereby shall be construed to declare operators of busses and/or taxicabs common carriers. This provision appears to be superfluous. Whether a carrier is private or public depends upon the service it renders and not on legislation. Whether the service rendered is public or private depends on the facts, and the fourteenth amendment prevents the legislature from declaring a carrier private or public unless there is a reasonable basis of fact for so doing. 8 N. C. L. Rev. 455.

§ 2613(q). General powers of commission.— The commission may at any time, upon complaint or upon its own motion, that any motor vehicle carrier is violating the provisions of this act, or any of the rules or regulations prescribed by the commission, or is violating any of the laws of the State or any requirement of his franchise certificate, issue its order to the said motor vehicle carrier, notifying him to appear before the commission at a fixed time and place, at which time and place, the commission shall investigate the complaint made; and, if it shall be satisfied, after such hearing, that the said motor vehicle carrier holding a franchise certificate has wilfully violated or refused to observe the laws of this State touching motor vehicle carriers, or any of the terms of his certificate, or any of the commission's orders, rules or regulations, the said commission may suspend, revoke, alter, or amend any certificate issued under the provisions of this act; but the holder of such certificate shall have the right to appeal to the Superior Court as is now provided for appeals from orders of the commission: Provided, that in all cases of appeal from the decision of the commission, the commission may permit the certificate holder to operate pending such appeal if, in the judgment of the commission, the public convenience and necessity require such service; but no certificate holder may operate pending such appeal unless permitted to do so by the commission. (1927, c. 136, s. 8.)

§ 2613(r). Drivers' permits. — No person shall drive nor be permitted by any motor vehicle carrier to drive any motor vehicle operated for the transportation of persons or property as provided in this act, until such person has been granted a driver's permit by the commission. Any person desiring to drive any such motor vehicle, or to be employed by any carrier to drive such motor vehicle, shall make application to the commission in the manner prescribed, and on forms furnished, by the commission. Such application shall contain such information as will enable the commission to ascertain the applicant's moral character and physical and mental ability to operate safely such motor vehicle; and the applicant shall take such examinations and furnish such certificates from physicians as to eyesight or defects or diseases as the commission may require. If the result of the examination or investigation be unsatisfactory, the permit shall be refused. If the result be satisfactory and the permit be granted and issued, it shall be subject to cancellation for violation of any of the general rules and regulations which may be prescribed by the commission for the conduct of such drivers when operating such vehicles. Such permits shall be numbered serially and the commission shall keep a roster of the names of all persons to whom permits are granted and whose permits have been cancelled and publish the same from time to time for the information of the public. Each person to whom a permit is issued shall be given a badge bearing the same serial number as his permit, which shall be worn in a conspicuous place on the left breast of the outer garment at all times when driving or when on duty at a station or otherwise in charge of a motor vehicle authorized to be operated under the act. When in the interest of the public safety it becomes necessary to cancel any such permit, the badge and all certificates issued to such driver shall be returned to the commission. All such permits shall expire on June thirtieth following their date of issue and shall be renewable only upon the payment of the tax provided in the revenue act. All permits issued under chapter fifty, Public Laws, of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, and amendments thereto, shall expire at midnight June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, and drivers holding such driver's permits may, in the discretion of the commission, have the same renewed upon the payment of the fees provided in the revenue act without further examination.

Each driver shall keep posted on the inside front of each motor vehicle operated by him under the act a card bearing his photograph, name, and the number of his permit. Any person to whom a permit has not been issued, or any person to whom a permit has been issued, but which has been cancelled for cause, who wears or displays a driver's badge or displays a driver's permit or in any other manner attempts to, or does, deceive any person or persons or attempts to, or does, impersonate a properly certified driver, or who drives a motor vehicle operating under this act without first having obtained such permit, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punishable in the discretion of the court. (1927, c. 136, s. 9.)

Regulations for Examination.—Pursuant to the corresponding section of the Act of 1925, the commission passed in 1925 an order regulating the examination of drivers. A series of these orders and circulars pertaining thereto will be found in the Biannual Corp. Comm. Rept. for 1925-1926.

§ 2613(s). Cancellation of franchise certificates.

(a) That franchise certificates issued under this act shall become null and void for the following causes:

(1) For failure for thirty days to pay the franchise tax as provided by law.

(2) For abandonment of authorized operation for a period of thirty days without the written consent of the commission.

(3) For failure to begin operation within thirty days after the issuance of certificate.

(b) That such franchise certificates may be cancelled in the discretion of the commission after ten days' notice for the following causes:

(1) For failure to pay station rent where a station has been designated and the expense apportioned among the operators by the commission.

(2) For failure to provide tickets for sale at the several stations designated by the commission.

(3) For failure to check baggage as provided by this act and the commission's regulations.

(4) For failure to keep equipment in safe and sanitary condition.

(5) For operating a motor vehicle over a route established hereunder without first obtaining a motor vehicle permit therefor.

(6) For operating a motor vehicle over a route established hereunder without having insurance, or bond, as provided in section six, hereof, on file with the commission and in full force and effect at the time of the operation of such motor vehicle.

(7) For failure to observe and comply with schedules and tariffs made or approved by and on file with the commission.

(8) For removing a number plate from a motor vehicle designated by the commission for such motor vehicle, or for attaching or placing on a motor vehicle a number plate not authorized or designated therefor.

(9) For the violation of any other provision of this act, or the commission's regulations, or the wilful or negligent violation of any other statute of this State, relating to the use or operation of motor vehicles on the public highways.

(10) For the violation and conviction of the criminal laws of this State, or for such other acts or conduct that may, in the opinion of the commission, disqualify such operator for rendering the public service contemplated by this act.

Sufficient notice shall be deemed to have been given under this act when notice in writing shall have been addressed to an operator and posted by registered mail to the address contained in the certificate with return receipt requested, or when such written notice has been delivered by a duly authorized agent of the commission or by any officer authorized by law to serve process in this State. (1927, c. 136, s. 10.)

§ 2613(t). Depots and stations.—The commission shall designate the towns and cities in which stations shall be maintained by passenger carriers and shall prescribe the rules and regulations under which the expense shall be born by the respective carriers using such stations and may prescribe rules and regulations governing the maintenance and operation thereof. (1927, c. 136, s. 11.)

§ 2613(u). Baggage, express, loading, etc.—The amount of express or baggage that may be carried in any motor vehicle with passengers shall not be greater than can be safely and conveniently carried, without causing discomfort to the passengers; and that no motor vehicle shall be operated with any baggage, trunk, crate, or other article extending beyond the running board on the left side of such motor vehicle; doorways and aisles of passenger motor vehicles shall be kept clear of all obstruction, and the front seat of all motor vehicles of greater passenger capacity than seven shall be considered an emergency seat, and no passenger shall be allowed to occupy the same unless all other seats of such vehicle are fully occupied. (1927, c. 136, s. 12.)

§ 2613(v). Fares, charges, and free transportation.—No motor vehicle carrier shall charge, demand, collect, or receive a greater or less or different compensation for the transportation of persons or property, or for any service in connection therewith, than the rates, fares, and charges applicable to such carrier as specified in its tariffs filed with and approved by the commission and in effect at the time; nor shall any such carrier refund or remit in any manner or by any device any portion of the rates, fares, or charges so specified, or extend to any person, firm, copartnership, or corporation, or other organization, or association, privileges or facilities in the transportation of persons or property except such as are regularly and uniformly extended to all; and no such carrier shall, directly or indirectly, issue, give, tender, or honor any free fares except to its bona fide officers, agents, employees, and members of their immediate families, and such persons as the commission may designate in its employ for the inspection of equipment and supervision of traffic upon the highways of the State: Provided, that motor vehicle carriers under the act may exchange free transportation within the limits of this section. Provided, that any motor vehicle carrier may carry free any blind preacher within the State of North Carolina upon its busses or motor vehicles operating in the State of North Carolina, under the condition that said preacher shall carry or present to such motor vehicle carrier a certificate showing what church or sect he may represent and that he is in good and regular standing with that denomination or sect. (1927, c. 136, s. 13; 1929, c. 58, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The act of 1929 added the last proviso to this section.

§ 2613(x). Foreign and interstate commerce.—Neither this article nor any provisions thereof shall apply or be construed to apply to commerce with foreign nations, or commerce among the several states of this Union, or business conducted for the United States Government, except insofar as the same may be permitted under the Constitution of the United States and the acts of Congress, as construed by the United States Supreme Court. (1927, c. 136, s. 15.)

lates or fails to comply with, or who procures, aids or abets the violation of any provision of this act, or who fails to obey, observe or comply with any order, decision, rule or regulation, direction or requirement of the commission, made under the provisions of this act, or any part or provision thereof, or who operates any motor vehicle for the transportation of persons or property for compensation while under the influence of intoxicating liquors or drugs or in such a reckless manner or at such a rate of speed as would endanger the safety of the passengers or any other person along such highway, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punishable by fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisonment, in the discretion of the court, or both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. (1927, c. 136, s. 16.)

§ 2613(aa). Maintenance of actions.—The commission shall have the right and authority to enforce by injunction or other ancillary remedy the provisions of this act or the rules and regulations made under this article. (1927, c. 136, s. 18.)

§ 2613(bb). Inconsistent acts.—All acts or parts of acts in conflict with or inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed to the extent of said conflict or inconsistency; but nothing herein contained shall be construed to relieve any motor vehicle carrier, as herein defined, from any regulation otherwise imposed by law or lawful authority; neither shall this article be construed to affect any obligation arising under duty imposed by nor right of action accruing under chapter fifty, Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, and amendments thereto. (1927, c. 136, s. 20.)

§ 2613(cc). Enforcement employees.—The commission shall have authority to employ such persons as may be necessary to enforce the provisions of this article, and their compensation shall be fixed in the manner now provided by law. (1927, c. 136, s. 21.)

§ 2613(dd). Appropriation.—A sum not exceeding ten thousand dollars ($10,000) per annum is hereby appropriated to cover necessary expenses of the Corporation Commission in administering and enforcing the provisions of this article. (1925, c. 316.)

§ 2613(ee). Disposition of proceeds.—All funds collected under the provisions of this article shall be when collected paid to the State Treasurer and shall be credited by the State Treasurer to the general fund of the State and used as are other general funds of the State. (1925, c. 231, s. 1.)

Art. 4. Operation of Vehicles

§ 2614. By incompetent person; racing.—No person shall operate a motor vehicle upon the public highways of this state who is under the age of sixteen years and who is not competent physically and mentally, and no person shall operate a motor vehicle when intoxicated, or in a race, or on a bet or wager, or for the purpose of making a speed record: Provided, nothing herein contained shall prevent racing on private race courses or tracks. (1917, c. 140, s. 13.)

Editor's Note.—The Legislature at its 1927 session enacted the Uniform Act regulating the use and operation of motor vehicles, and it is here inserted as secs. 2621(43) et seq. In the main the regulations of the Uniform Act supersede and replace the present law, this article, but it would seem that any of the provisions of this article not covered by the Uniform Act, and not inconsistent with it, are still in force.

Thus, while the provisions of this section prohibiting the driving of a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor are covered by the Uniform Act, sec. 2621(44), there seems to be no provisions in the Uniform Act fixing the age limits of persons who may drive and such provisions seem to be unaffected by the Uniform Act. It is applicable to motor bus drivers, see 23 Rept. of Corp. Comm. for 1925-6, p. 25.

As to an assault and battery with an automobile, see 1 N. C. Law Rev. 235.

Violation of Age Limit as Negligence.—Where a person within the age prohibited by the statute runs an automobile upon and injures a pedestrian, the violation of the statute is negligence per se, and a charge by the court that it is a circumstance from which the jury could infer negligence is reversible error. Taylor v. Stewart, 172 N. C. 203, 90 S. E. 134.

Same—Liability for Injuries.—While it is negligence per se for one within the prohibited age to run an automobile, it is necessary that such negligence proximately cause the injury for damages to be recovered on that account, with the burden of proof on the plaintiff to show it by the preponderance of the evidence. Taylor v. Stewart, 172 N. C. 203, 90 S. E. 134.

Same—Jury Question.—It is for the jury to determine whether a competent and careful chauffeur of maturer years could have avoided the injury under the circumstances, or whether it was due to the fact that a lad within the prohibited age was running it at the time. Taylor v. Stewart, 172 N. C. 203, 204, 90 S. E. 134.

Same—Liability of Father.—While ordinarily a father is not held responsible in damages for the negligent acts of his minor son done without his knowledge and consent, such may be inferred, as where the father constantly permitted his 13 year-old son to run his automobile. Taylor v. Stewart, 172 N. C. 203, 204, 90 S. E. 134.

Liability of Owner for Torts of Driver.—See Cates v. Hall, 171 N. C. 360, 88 S. E. 524; Linville v. Nissen, 162 N. C. 95, 77 S. E. 1096; Williams v. May, 173 N. C. 78, 91 S. E. 604; Wilson v. Polk, 175 N. C. 490, 95 S. E. 849. Only a few of the cases are here cited. For a complete treatment, see 2 N. C. Law Rev. 181 et seq.

Same—Where Driver Is Son.—Clark v. Sweaney, 176 N. C. 529, 97 S. E. 474; Linville v. Nissen, 162 N. C. 95, 77 S. E. 1096. Only a few of the cases are here cited. For a complete treatment, see 2 N. C. Law Rev. 181 et seq.

Proof of Violation in Criminal Prosecutions.—Our statutes on the subject of regulating the care to be used by those driving motor vehicles upon the State's highways are to secure the reasonable safety of persons in and upon the highways of the State, and where death or great bodily harm results, evidence that the accused was, at the time charged, violating these provisions may be properly received upon a trial for murder or for manslaughter in appropriate instances, or as evidence of an assault where no serious injury has resulted. State v. Sudderth, 184 N. C. 753, 114 S. E. 828.

§ 2615. Brakes, horns, and lights required. — Every motor vehicle operated or driven upon the public highways of this state shall be provided with adequate brakes in good working order and sufficient to control such vehicle at all times, when same is in use, and a suitable and adequate bell, horn, or other device for signaling, and shall during the period from one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise, display at least two lighted lamps on the front, and shall also display a red light visible from the rear, which may be in combination with the light illuminating the display number on the rear, as heretofore provided in this chapter: Provided, that the lamps on such vehicle need not be lighted when the vehicle is standing under the rays of a light and can be plainly seen, and that one light displayed on the front of a motorcycle shall be deemed a compliance with this section. A motor vehicle of any kind operated on the public highways of the state shall not use any lighting device equipped with a reflector, unless the same shall be so designed, deflected, or arranged that no portion of the beam or reflected light, when measured seventy-five feet or more ahead of the lamps, shall rise above forty-two inches from the level surface on which the vehicle stands under all conditions of load. (1917, c. 140, ss. 14, 16; 1919, c. 292.)

Editor's Note.—The provisions of this section seem to be covered by the Uniform Act, secs. 2621(84), 2621(85) and 2621(89). See note to sec. 2621(14).

As to requirement of all vehicles to carry light, see sec. 3794(a). As to compliance by motor vehicle carriers, see 23 Rept. of Corp. Comm. 1926, 27, p. 26.

Effect of Violation in Civil Action.—Negligence in not having a light on the rear of a truck will not preclude recovery against one who drove his car into the truck, unless it contributed to the injury. Hughes v. Luther, 189 N. C. 841, 128 S. E. 145.

Cited in Davis v. Jeffreys, 197 N. C. 712, 150 S. E. 488; Lee v. Caveness Produce Co., 197 N. C. 714, 717, 150 S. E. 363; Cook v. Horne, 198 N. C. 739, 153 S. E. 315.

§ 2616. Driving regulations; frightened animals; crossings. — A person operating or driving a motor vehicle shall, on signal by raising the hand, from a person riding, leading, or driving a horse or horses or other draft animals, bring such motor vehicle immediately to a stop, and, if traveling in the opposite direction, remain stationary so long as may be reasonable to allow such horse or other animal to pass, and, if traveling in the same direction, use reasonable caution in thereafter passing such horse or other animal: Provided, that in case such horse or other animal appears badly frightened, and the person operating such motor vehicle is so signaled to do, such person shall cause the motor of the motor vehicle to cease running so long as shall be reasonably necessary to prevent accident and insure the safety of others; and it shall also be the duty of any male chauffeur or driver of any motor vehicle and other male occupants thereof over the age of sixteen years while passing any horse, horses or other draft animals which appear frightened, upon the request of the person in charge thereof and driving such horse or horses or other draft animals, to give such assistance as would be reasonable to insure the safety of all persons concerned and to prevent accident. In approaching or passing a car of a street railway which has been stopped to allow passengers to alight or embark, the operator of every motor vehicle shall slow down, and shall bring said vehicle to a full stop when going in the same direction as the street car. Upon approaching a pedestrian who is upon the traveled part of any highway, and not upon a sidewalk, and upon approaching an intersecting highway or a curve, or a corner in a highway where the operator's view is obstructed, every person operating a motor vehicle shall slow down and give a timely signal with his bell, horn, or other device for signaling. Upon approaching an intersecting highway, a bridge, dam, sharp curve, or deep descent, and also in traversing such intersecting highway, bridge, dam, curve, or descent, a person operating a motor vehicle shall have it under control and operate it at such speed, not to exceed ten miles an hour, having regard to the traffic then on such highway and the safety of the public. (1917, c. 140, s. 15.)

Cross Reference.—As to submitting evidence of violation of this and other sections to show reckless driving, in a prosecution for manslaughter, see § 2621 and the note thereto.

Editor's Note.—Provisions similar to a portion of the regulations of this section are found in the Uniform Act, and in such instances seem to be superseded thereby. Regulations for passing street cars, sec. 2621(64); intersecting highways, secs. 2621(63), 2621(52), 2621(60), 2621(61), and 2621(46); and pedestrians, sec. 2621(60). Otherwise the terms of this section do not seem to be covered by the Uniform Act.

As to compliance by motor vehicle carriers, see 23 Rept. of Corp. Comm. for 1926, 27, p. 26.

Passing Animals.—The laws with respect to passing animals with the exception of establishing a speed limit, are to a great extent an embodiment of general principles of law applicable to motor vehicles when operated on the highway and in places where their use is likely to be a source of danger to others. Gaskins v. Hancock, 156 N. C. 56, 72 S. E. 80; Tudor v. Bowen, 152 N. C. 441, 67 S. E. 1015, cited and applied; Curry v. Fleer, 157 N. C. 16, 72 S. E. 626.

When the law prescribed a maximum speed limit for the running of motor vehicles upon the highways in approaching animals it did not contemplate or intend that the specified limits were always permissible; for one driving a machine of this character was charged with notice of things which he observed or could have observed in the exercise of proper care, having regard to the nature of the vehicle he was operating and its tendency to frighten animals; and not infrequently it might have become his duty to move at a much slower speed, or stop altogether if conditions so require. Curry v. Fleer, 157 N. C. 16, 72 S. E. 626.

Intersecting Streets.—The word "intersecting" has been construed as synonymous with "joining" or "touching" or "entering into." Manly v. Abernathy, 167 N. C. 220, 83 S. E. 343; Fowler v. Underwood, 193 N. C. 402, 403, 137 S. E. 155.

The words "intersecting highways" include all space made by the junction of frequented streets of a town, though one of the streets enters the other without crossing or going beyond it. Manly v. Abernathy, 167 N. C. 220, 83 S. E. 343.

Same—Effect of Exercising Judgment Where Speed Exceeded.—Where one recklessly drives an automobile without signal or warning, in excess of the speed limit fixed by ordinance and the general statute, and thereby injures or kills another at a street intersection of the town, his violating the law in this manner makes him criminally liable for the injury without regard to the exercise of his judgment at the time in endeavoring to avoid the injury or contributory negligence on the part of the one injured or killed. State v. McIver, 175 N. C. 761, 94 S. E. 682.

Same—Criminal Liability.—A reckless approach and traverse of an intersection may render one criminally liable for the consequences of his acts in addition to liability under this section. State v. Gash, 177 N. C. 595, 597, 99 S. E. 337.

Same—Application to Railroads.—The prior law, similar in phraseology to this section, was held to include railroads within its provisions, and it was therefore a misdemeanor to run an automobile at a greater speed than permitted at intersections while approaching a railroad crossing in a town. Hinton v. Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 587, 90 S. E. 756.

Same—Effect of Violation upon Recovery from Railroad.—The mere fact that the speed of an automobile exceeded that allowed by law, at the time of collision with a railroad train at a public crossing, does not of itself prevent a recovery by the owner, where there is evidence of negligence on the part of the railroad, because it would, among other things, withdraw the question of proximate cause from the jury. Shepard v. Norfolk Southern Railroad, 169 N. C. 239, 84 S. E. 277.

Application to Approach from Private Drive.—In approaching a highway from a yard the driver of an automobile must have his car under control, and not exceed a speed of ten miles an hour, and also give timely signals of its approach, and evidence of his failure to do so causing an accident to another car being properly driven on the highway, is sufficient actionable negligence to take the case to the jury; and the fact that this negligence did not actually result in a collision of the two cars, but proximately caused the injury in the reasonable effort of the driver of the plaintiff's car to avoid it, does not vary the

Care as to Children.—The law under this section requires more than ordinary care in regard to children. Moore v. Powell, 205 N. C. 636, 172 S. E. 327.

Effect of Violation in Civil Suit for Damages.—There seems to have been a great contrasting of opinion upon the question as to what effect the violation of one of these statutes will have in a civil suit to recover damages for injury resulting from accidents. It is true that to recover in such cases negligence must be shown and there seems to have been some doubt in this State as to how much weight the violation should have in establishing negligence. However, they may be grouped into three general classes for discussion, viz., (1) those holding that a violation is negligence, per se, (2) those holding that it is only evidence of negligence, and (3) those holding that it is only some evidence of negligence.

Concerning this subject the Supreme Court has had the following to say:

"The negligence which affords the ground of a civil action includes two distinct elements—negligence and damage—both of which must concur in order to form the ground of an action, just as fraud and damage must concur to sustain an action on fraud. The two elements are, however, distinct; and the result of mingling them too closely has been to introduce that confusion of ideas under which the same courts at one time hold that a clear violation of law is negligence per se, and at another time that it is only 'evidence,' or even only 'some evidence,' of negligence. The truth is that every breach of duty to observe the degree of care required by law is negligence, and not merely evidence of it, but that damage caused to the plaintiff being an indispensable element in his cause of action, the clearest proof of negligence, standing by itself, is only 'some evidence' of his right to recover." Ledbetter v. English, 166 N. C. 125, 129, 81 S. E. 1066.

When this decision is taken in conjunction with the others upon the subject it is clearly evident that the proof, a mere violation, is insufficient to support a judgment for damages. However, proof of a violation together with a showing that the violation is the proximate cause of the injury complained of is sufficient to sustain such a judgment. In the words of the Supreme Court, "While the violation of a statute is negligence, yet to entitle the plaintiff seeking to recover damages for an injury sustained, he must show a causal connection between the injury received and the disregard of the statutory prohibition or mandate—that the injury was the proximate cause; and this requirement is fundamental in the law of negligence. Rich v. Ashville Elect. Co., 152 N. C. 689, 694, 68 S. E. 232; Ledbetter v. English, 166 N. C. 125, 129, 81 S. E. 1066. The latter case holding is to the negligence per se but laying down the same rule as to proximate cause.

And in a later case it was held that the breach of sec. 2617, in failing to turn to the right to allow passage of mules, is negligence entitling the owner of the mule to recover if it was the proximate cause of the injury thereto. Goodrich v. Matthews, 177 N. C. 198, 98 S. E. 529.

The court has also held that the violation of sec. 2618 is evidence of negligence per se, and sufficient to deny a motion as of nonsuit thereon. Fleming v. Holleman, 190 N. C. 449, 130 S. E. 171. See also Davis v. Long, 189 N. C. 129, 126 S. E. 321.

Duty to Charge Sections in Civil Actions.—It is the duty of the court to charge the duty of drivers to pedestrians, imposed by this and the following sections, in an action for damages for a violation of those dates, and this error is not cured by a general charge as to the use of necessary prudence, and is reversible in the absence of a prayer for more specific instructions. Bowen v. Schnibben, 184 N. C. 248, 114 S. E. 170.

Effect of Using Prudence after Violation.—A reckless violation which put a driver in such position that he could not avoid an injury though attempting to do so after the danger became apparent, is not excused by the subsequent attempt. State v. Gray, 180 N. C. 697, 104 S. E. 647.

§ 2617. Rule of the road in passing.—Whenever a person operating a motor vehicle shall meet on the public highway any other person riding or driving a horse or horses or other draft animals, or any other vehicle, the person so operating such motor vehicle and the person so riding or driving a horse, horses, or other draft animals, shall reasonably turn the same to the right of the center of such highway so as to pass without interference. Any person so operating a motor vehicle shall, on overtaking any such horse, draft animal, or other vehicle, pass on the left side thereof, and the rider or driver of such horse, draft animal, or other vehicle shall, as soon as practicable, turn to the right so as to allow free passage on the left. Any person so operating a motor vehicle shall, at the intersection of a public highway, keep to the right of the intersection of the center of such highway when turning to the right and pass to the right of such intersection when turning to the left, and shall signal with the outstretched hand the direction in which turn is to be made. a. All operators of motor vehicles on the public roads, in meeting a motor vehicle in operation, shall pass on the right of the road in such a manner that all of said vehicles, and the load thereof, shall be on the right of the center of the road. b. All operators of motor vehicles on the public roads shall permit all motor vehicles approaching from the rear to proceed, either by turning to the right so that every part of the said vehicle and load thereof shall be on the right of the center of the road, or by proceeding at a rate of speed not in excess of the legal limit, as will allow said following vehicle to proceed without hindrance or obstruction. c. Any person violating any provision of subsections a and b shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars ($50) or imprisoned not exceeding thirty days. (1917, c. 140, s. 6; 1924, c. 61.)

Editor's Note.—While the provisions of this section seem to be superseded by the more recent enactment, the Uniform Act., secs. 2621(53)-2621(59), the case law and editorial opinions concerning this section are here set out because there is much similarity between this and the more recent enactment.

An excellent discussion of the civil liability of the violators of these statutes will be found in 2 N. C. Law Rev. 178 et seq., where the North Carolina cases are analyzed.

Same—Case Law upon Subject.—A treatment of the subject matter covered by this section in his article in 5 N. C. Law Rev. 248 et seq., by J. C. Kesler is of sufficient merit to quote from it at length. "Although the statute [this section] deals with motor vehicles, the provisions are very general, requiring that only the approaching driver shall pass to the left and that the driver in front shall turn to the right. There is no provision for signals by the approaching driver, nor does it clearly provide when it becomes the duty of the driver ahead to turn to the right to allow those approaching from the rear to pass. Must he turn to the right when approaching from the rear? If so, it is his duty to know of the approach of vehicles from the rear. The court in deciding the principal case applied the statute only in a general way and used the principles of negligence as laid down by many jurisdictions to decide the specific phases.

"The law of the road is a set of rules for the protection of the rights of all who travel upon the highways, regardless of the nature of the vehicle or the speed at which they travel. Common law principles of negligence are used in framing statutes to regulate modern traffic, conditions, but since new situations are constantly developing, it is clear that statutory rules may be insufficient and that recourse to common law principles is necessary. There are two chief divisions of the rules of the road as laid down by statutes and judicial decisions: (1) rules which must be observed by drivers going in the same direction when it becomes necessary or desirable for one to pass the other, and (2) those which must be observed by drivers going in opposite direction to prevent collisions and obstructing of the highways.

"1. A driver who is traveling along the highway has the duty of due care in the use of the road, but does not have to maintain a look-out for traffic from the rear. (Strever v. Woodard, 160 Iowa 332, 141 N. W. 931; Delfs v. Dunshee, 143 Iowa 381, 122 N. W. 236.) When one driver approaches another from the rear he is required to use due care under the circumstances in an attempt to pass (Moore

v. Hart, 171 Ky. 725, 188 S. W. 861) and, where the driver ahead is not otherwise apprised of the desire to pass, the driver wishing to pass must give a signal indicating his desire. (Dunkelbeck v. Meyer, 140 Minn. 283, 167 N. W. 1034; Young v. Cowden, 98 Tenn. 577, 40 S. W. 1088.) Where such signal is given, the driver in front is not required to turn to the right if there is sufficient space on the left to permit the approaching driver to pass; (Savoy v. McLeod, 111 Me. 234, 88 Alt. 721) but where the road is wide enough to allow passage only by his turning to the right he is required to do so when he has heard the signal. (Dunkelbeck v. Meyer, 140 Minn. 283, 167 N. W. 1034). Before the rear driver attempts to pass he must by request, or 'equivalent notice,' acquaint the driver ahead of his intention to pass; and he must be reasonably assured that the driver ahead heard the request, and has accorded him right of way. (Lumber Co. v. Ollinger, 18 Ala. App. 518, 94 So. 177.) Where a driver upon request refuses to yield the road it is the duty of the driver approaching from the rear to bring his machine to full stop if necessary to avoid a collision. (Ware v. Saufley, 194 Ky. 53, 237 S. W. 1060.) Under exceptional circumstances it may become the duty of the forward driver to stop in order to permit the driver of a faster vehicle to pass from the rear (Mark v. Fritsch, 195 N. Y. 282, 88 N. E. 38), but under ordinary circumstances no such duty exists. The highway must be protected, and a driver who approaches from the rear must use due care. When by failure to do so he inflicts an injury upon another who was not guilty of contributory negligence he is liable for the damages caused by the breach of this common law duty. (Potter v. Glarsell, 146 La. 687, 83 So. 898.)

"2. Customs and statutes have made it a rule in all of the United States that persons traveling in opposite directions must pass on the right. Each is entitled to half the road under ordinary circumstances, but there may be conditions which may require a driver to yield more than half the road, or justify him in yielding less than half. The law of the road does not require a traveler to keep always to the right while using the road. He may use any part thereof that suits his convenience, [This has been changed in some instances by the Uniform Act, see sec. 2621(51)] but upon meeting and passing it is his duty to keep to the right, (Sims v. Eleager, 116 S. C. 41, 106 S. E. 854) and failure to turn to the right has been held negligence. (Goodrich v. Matthews, 177 N. C. 198, 98 S. E. 529.) The mere fact that a driver is driving to the right of the center of the highway does not relieve him of the duty of exercising due care to avoid collisions. (Walker v. Lee, 115 S. C. 495, 106 S. E. 682.)

"The driver of an automobile has the right to presume that an automobile coming from the opposite direction will keep to the right as required by the rules of the road (C. S. 2617. John v. Pierce, 172 Wis. 44, 178 N. W. 297), but there may be circumstances under which the exercise of due care to protect the life and property of others may require a driver to go to the left in order to avoid a collision. (King v. Holliday, 116 S. C. 463, 108 S. E. 18.) Where a driver reasonably believes that a collision can be avoided by his turning to the left he is required to do so, notwithstanding a statute requiring him to keep to the right. (Walker v. Lee, 115 S. C. 495, 106 S. E. 682.) Such situations have given rise to differences of opinion in several jurisdictions. For example: A, who was driving to the right of the center of the road, was approached by B, who was driving to the left of the center. A believed that by turning to the left a collision could be avoided. A turned to the left and at the same time B turned to the right to allow free passage on his left, and collided with A, who was on the left of the center of the road. What rights have the parties? Some jurisdictions hold that A as a reasonably prudent man was forced by the negligence of B to turn to the left, and, in so doing, he was not negligent and should be allowed to recover. (Hubbard v. Bartholomew, 163 Iowa 58, 144 N. W. 13; Molin v. Wark, 113 Minn. 190, 129 N. W. 383.) Other courts hold that the accident was caused by the mistaken belief of an excited driver that the approaching driver did not intend to yield the road, and that his act in turning across the road was negligent and he can not recover. (Lloyd v. Calhoun, 82 Wash. 35, 143 Pac. 458; Cupples Mfg. Co. v. Bow, 32 Idaho 774, 189 Pac. 48.)

"When a driver overtakes another on a hill and attempts to pass, and, in doing so, collides with an automobile coming from the opposite direction, the driver so attempting to pass is held liable on the theory that he should have made the attempt to pass only when it was safe for him to do so. He was negligent in attempting to pass when he could not see enough road clear for a safe passage. (183 App. Div. (N. Y.) 816.) The same principle is involved where a driver attempts to pass another on a curve. He must not place himself in such a position as to be unable to yield the road to one coming from the opposite direction.

"The following case presents an unusual situation: D was driving in front of P, who blew his horn as a signal that he intended to pass. D did not hear the signal, but pulled to the right preparatory to making a left turn at an intersection. P believed D had accorded him the right of way and attempted to pass. D suddenly turned to the left at the intersection and a collision occurred. The court held that neither party could recover, that D owed no duty to P to indicate that he intended to turn left when he had not heard P's signal, and that P was justified in acting upon the assumption that D had heard the signal and yielded the right of way. (Lumber Co. v. Ollinger, 18 Ala. App. 518, 94 So. 177.)"

Same Effect of Uniform Act.—A comparison of the law laid down in the preceding discussion and the law of this section with the regulations in the Uniform Act, secs. 2621(53)-2621(57), will indicate that the rules of many of the cases have been changed by the more recent enactment.

Effect of Violation in Fixing Liability for Damages.—See note under sec. 2616 where the cases are collected.

Degree of Care in Observing Traffic in Rear.—The driver of an auto-truck along a public highway is not held to the same degree of care in observing those who may wish to pass him coming from the rear, as in front, and is not required to turn to the right for such purpose, unless he is appraised by the one who wishes to pass, by proper signal, of his intention to do so. Dreher v. Divine, 192 N. C. 325, 135 S. E. 29.

Duty to Turn to Right.—The driver of an automobile upon the signal of a faster car approaching from the rear, must turn to the right so that the other may pass to his left, when the conditions existing there at the time are reasonably safe to permit the other to pass. Dreher v. Divine, 192 N. C. 325, 135 S. E. 29.

When Question One of Reasonable Prudence.—Where the driver of an automobile violates the statute by turning to the right to avoid a motorcycle traveling in the same direction upon a public road, and collides therewith, and action is brought to recover damages therefor, and the evidence is conflicting as to whether the motorcycle was unexpectedly turned out in the wrong direction, resulting in the injury, the question of proximate cause depends upon whether the driver of the automobile acted with reasonable prudence under the circumstances, to avoid the injury, or whether the collision was caused by the wrongful and unexpected act of the one on the motorcycle. Cooke v. Jerome, 172 N. C. 626, 90 S. E. 767.

Duty of Passer from Rear.—The driver of an automobile who wishes to pass another ahead of him, must keep his automobile under control, so as to avoid a collision if the driver ahead of him apparently does not hear his signals or is not aware of his intention to pass, or the condition of the road makes it unsafe not only to himself, but to those who are driving from the opposite direction. Dreher v. Divine, 192 N. C. 325, 135 S. E. 29.

Proof of Violation in Trial for Resulting Crime.—See note to sec. 2601. And see State v. Jessup, 183 N. C. 771, 111 S. E. 523; State v. Rountree, 181 N. C. 535, 106 S. E. 669, 676.

Same—Violation as Evidence of Intent to Assault.—Since the intentional driving of a motor vehicle on the wrong side of the road in disregard of the statute is malum prohibitum, not malum in se; the performance of this unlawful act is not evidence of a specific intent to commit an assault. State v. Rawlings, 191 N. C. 265, 267, 131 S. E. 632.

Act Must Have Been Likely to Cause Harm.—One who violated the provisions of this section or § 2618, not intentionally or recklessly, but merely through a failure to exercise due care and thereby proximately caused the death he would not be culpably negligent unless in the light of the attendant circumstances his negligent act was likely to result in death or bodily harm. State v. Stansell, 203 N. C. 69, 74, 164 S. E. 580.

Liability of Owner for Torts of Driver.—See note to sec. 2614.

Questions for Jury.—Where there was evidence that the plaintiff, desiring to pass a truck on the highway going in the same direction, blew his horn, and that the driver of the truck heard the signal, but instead of driving to the right of the center of the road to allow the plaintiff to pass on the left, drove to the left and stopped or came almost to a stop, that the plaintiff, thinking that the truck was going to stop, and having his car under control, attempted to pass on the right, when the truck suddenly turned to the right, forcing the plaintiff to turn to the right to avoid hitting the truck, causing the plaintiff's car to run off the embankment on the right of the road, resulting in the injury in suit: Held, the evidence should have been submitted to the jury upon issues of negligence, contributory negligence and damages. Stevens v. Rostan, 196 N. C. 314, 145 S. E. 555.

§ 2617(a). Full stop at highway crossing.—No person operating any motor vehicle upon any path, private or public road shall cross or attempt to cross, enter upon, or attempt to enter upon any hard-surfaced or improved highway intersecting the said path or road without first coming to a full stop; provided, that this shall not apply to any road entering upon or crossing such hard-surfaced or improved highway unless the road governing authority (whether State or county) controlling such highway shall erect on such road at a point one hundred or more feet from the point of entrance into said highway, a signboard not less than four feet from the ground on the right side of the road, twenty-four inches by twenty-four inches outside measurement, which shall be painted of yellow background with word "Stop" in black letters eight inches high, to insure warning of the proximity of the crossing and notice to stop said motor vehicle.

This section shall not interfere with the regulations prescribed by towns and cities.

No failure so to stop, shall be considered contributory negligence per se in any action for injury to person or property; but the facts relating to such failure to stop may be considered with other facts in determining negligence.

Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not more than ten dollars or imprisoned not more than ten days or both in the discretion of the court. (Acts 1927, c. 120.)

Applied in Jones v. Bagwell, 207 N. C. 378, 382, 177 S. E. 170.

§ 2618. Speed regulations; mufflers.—No person shall operate a motor vehicle upon the public highways of this state recklessly, or at a rate of speed greater than is reasonable and proper, having regard to the width, traffic, and use of the highway, or so as to endanger the property or the life or limb of any person: Provided, That no person shall operate a motor vehicle on any public highway, road or street of this State at a rate of speed in excess of:

(A) Twenty miles per hour in the built-up residential section of any village, town or city: Provided, that on any highway, road or street entering any city, town or village the built-up residential section shall be construed to begin at the first point, between which point and a point one thousand feet away on said street, road or highway there are as many as eight residences.

(B) Twelve miles per hour in the business portion of any town, or city.

(C) Fifteen miles per hour while passing any church or school when people are leaving or entering.

(D) Fifteen miles per hour in traversing an intersection of highways when the driver's view is obstructed. A driver's view shall be deemed to be obstructed when at any time during the last one hundred feet of his approach to such intersection he does not have a clear and uninterrupted view upon all of the highways entering such intersection for a distance of two hundred feet from such intersection.

(E) Fifteen miles per hour in traversing or going around corners of a highway or at apex or verticle curves when the driver's view is obstructed within a distance of three hundred feet along such highway in the direction of travel, and at places where the road is under repair or construction.

(F) Thirty-five miles per hour on all highways beyond the built-up residential section of incorporated cities or towns; except at points described in subsections C, D, and E of this section.

The governing body of every incorporated city or town shall have authority by ordinance to make reasonable street crossing regulations.

No person shall operate upon the public highways or streets a motor vehicle with muffler cut-out open, or with exhaust whistle or other objectionable signal devices. This section shall not be construed as repealing any Public-Local Law providing for a greater rate of speed than herein specified, or a different penalty for the violation thereof. (1917, c. 140, s. 17; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 98; 1925, c. 272.)

As to duty of motor vehicle carriers to obey, see 33 Rept. of Corp. Comm. (1925-6), p. 25.

Editor's Note.—This section is probably superseded by the provisions of the more recent Uniform Act, secs. 2621(46), 2621(88). However, the following annotations are inserted here because they are thought to be of value in interpreting the Uniform Act.

This section states several offenses each of which is a separate crime independently of the others. State v. Mills, 181 N. C. 530, 106 S. E. 677. See also State v. Rountree, 181 N. C. 535, 106 S. E. 669.

The limits fixed by the proviso does not exclude a conviction for violating the preceding provisions at a less speed. State v. Mills, supra.

Limitation upon Privilege of Driving at Maximum Rate.—The speed limit prescribed by statute at which an automobile driver may go at various places, does not alone excuse those who drive within that specified by the statute, and it is likewise required that they use proper care where other conditions require it within the limitations given. State v. Whaley, 191 N. C. 387, 132 S. E. 6.

Right of Civil Action for Violation.—This section gives a cumulative right of action to the common law remedy of damages and in itself can confer no right of action to recover of a master for a violation by the servant while in the scope of employment. The only remedy under this section is indictment. James v. Charlotte, 183 N. C. 630, 112 S. E. 423.

Effect of Violation in Fixing Liability for Damages.—See note to sec. 2616 where all the cases are collected.

Violation as Constituting Negligence.—It is negligence per se to drive an automobile upon a public highway at a speed greater than that permitted by statute, and where in an action to recover damages for the negligent killing of plaintiff's intestate, a voluntary passenger in the car thus driven, a motion as of nonsuit upon such evidence is properly denied. Albritton v. Hill, 190 N. C. 429, 130 S. E. 5. For a general treatment of this question of negligence, see note to sec. 2616.

As to the culpable negligence of one violating the provisions of this section, see annotations under § 2617.

When Negligence not Imputed to Passenger.—The negligent driving of the owner of the car or his agent, is not attributable to a passenger therein who has no authority over him or control over the car or the manner in which it was being driven at the time his injury was caused, the subject of his action for damages, nor will the principles of law applicable to those engaged in a common purpose apply from the fact that the injured party and the driver of the car were riding together to the same destination. Albritton v. Hill, 190 N. C. 429, 130 S. E. 5.

Liability of Owner for Torts of Driver.—See note to sec. 2614.

Criminal Liability for Violation.—The violation of this statute may render one criminally liable for the consequences of his acts in addition to liability under this section. State v. Gash, 177 N. C. 595, 597, 99 S. E. 337.

Same—Necessity for Criminal Negligence.—Under an indictment with three counts: assault with a deadly weapon, an automobile; operating a motor vehicle on a public highway while under the influence of intoxicating liquor; and recklessly, and in breach of this section, wherein it was admitted by the State that there was no evidence of intentional assault, and the jury having returned for their verdict that defendant "was guilty of an assault, but not with reckless driving," the admission and the verdict on the last two counts dispelled the element of criminal negligence and criminal intent, and a conviction on the first count will not be sustained. State v. Rawlings, 191 N. C. 265, 131 S. E. 632. See also State v. Rountree, 181 N. E. 535, 106 S. E. 669. It would seem that criminal negligence is submitted for criminal intent.—Ed. Note.

When Violation Amounts to Manslaughter.—Where one drives his automobile in violation of the statutory requirements, and thus directly, or without an independent intervening sole proximate cause, the death of another results, he is guilty of manslaughter, though the death was unintentionally caused by his act. State v. Whaley, 191 N. C. 387, 132 S. E. 6. But the violation also is insufficient unless it was the proximate cause of the death, and a charge disregarding the element of proximate cause is error. Ibid.

Ordinance Held in Conflict.—Where one is permitted by the State law to enter upon and go across an intersecting highway at a speed not exceeding ten miles an hour unless due regard to the traffic or to the safety of the public requires a reduction of the speed; but the ordinance in question deprives him of this right by prescribing an arbitrary rule that he shall always and under all circumstances stop his vehicle before entering certain streets, the ordinance is inconsistent with the statute and therefore not enforceable. State v. Stallings, 189 N. C. 104, 106, 126 S. E. 187.

Circumstantial Evidence May Be Sufficient.—Though the evidence on the part of plaintiff is not direct, but circumstantial, yet it may be sufficient evidence to be submitted to the jury that defendant was exceeding the speed limit contrary to the law of this section. Jones v. Bagwell, 207 N. C. 378, 382, 177 S. E. 170.

Proof of Residential District or Section.—Where there is no definite evidence as to the number of residences at the scene of the action so as to bring the place within the definition of "residential section," as provided by this section, or "residential district," as set out in § 2621(43), and no evidence that the speed of the car was a proximate cause of the accident in suit, the evidence is insufficient to be submitted to the jury on the question of defendant's negligence in exceeding the speed limit prescribed in residential districts, there being no evidence that defendant exceeded the speed limit prescribed for highway travel generally. Fox v. Barlow, 206 N. C. 66, 173 S. E. 43.

Cited in State v. Mickle, 194 N. C. 808, 140 S. E. 150; Burke v. Carolina Coach Co., 198 N. C. 8, 150 S. E. 636.

§ 2618(a). Steel tired vehicles with cleats prohibited.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to drive any motor vehicle upon the hard surface highways of the State, said motor vehicle having iron or steel tires with spikes or cleats in said tires, without first attaching some smooth surface on said tires so that the spikes or cleats will not damage said highway.

Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction fined not less than ten dollars or more than one hundred dollars, in the discretion of the court. (1925, c. 294, ss 1, 2.)

§ 2618(b). Duty of driver passing school bus.—No person operating any motor vehicle on the public roads shall pass, or attempt to pass, any public school bus, while the same is standing on the said public road taking on or putting off school children, without first bringing said motor vehicle to a full stop at a distance of not less than fifty feet from said school bus.

Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not to exceed fifty dollars, or imprisoned not to exceed thirty days. (1925, c. 265.)

§ 2618(c). Speed of school bus.—Any person operating a bus carrying school children to or from the schools in this State who shall travel at a greater rate of speed than twenty-five miles per hour along any public street or public highway in the State of North Carolina shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not in excess of the sum of fifty dollars. (1925, c 297, s. 1.)

§ 2619. Obstructions in road.—No person shall throw, place or deposit any glass or other sharp or cutting substance or any injurious obstruction in or upon any of the public highways of this state. (1917, c. 140, s. 18.)

Editor's Note.—There is no section in the Uniform Act, secs. 2621(1) et seq., corresponding to this section.

§ 2620. Stopping motors; standing near fire plug.—No person shall permit the motor of a motor vehicle to remain running when such motor vehicle is unoccupied on the public highways of this state for a longer period than five minutes: Provided, that no motor vehicle shall be left standing within fifteen feet of a fire plug upon the public highways of this state unless in charge of a person who can immediately move such vehicle in case of necessity. (1917, c. 140, s. 19.)

Editor's Note.—This section is probably superseded by the more recent Uniform Act, secs. 2621(67), 2621(68).

§ 2621. Use of vehicle without owner's consent.—No person shall use or operate any motor vehicle owned by another without the knowledge or consent, expressed or implied, of such owner, on any public highway or elsewhere in this state: Provided, this section shall not be construed to repeal or in any way affect any law making the unlawful taking of such vehicle for temporary use a criminal offense. (1917, c. 140, s. 20.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to be superseded by the more recent Uniform Act, sec. 2621(32).

As to duty of bus drivers to observe this section, see 33 Rept. Corp. Comm. (1925-6) p. 26.

Civil Liability of Owner for Injuries.—The owner is not liable for an injury caused by his automobile while it is operated by another without his consent. This applies to parent and child and where the father forbade his child from taking his car he is not liable. Linville v. Nissen, 162 N. C. 95, 77 S. E. 1096.

§ 2621(a). Maximum weight of motor vehicle or trailer.—No motor vehicle or trailer which has a greater rated weight of both vehicle and load exceeding seven and one-half (7½) tons shall go over or be operated upon any state highway. Any person, firm, or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1921, c. 2, s. 30.)

Editor's Note.—There is a section in the more recent Uniform Act, sec. 2621 (78), limiting the weight of vehicle and load to a maximum of 10 tons which seems to supersede this section. While that section does not mention trailers it would seem that in view of the definition of "vehicles" in sec. 2621 (43), it applies to trailers also.

§ 2621(b). Full stop at grade crossings.—No person operating any motor vehicle upon a public road shall cross or attempt to cross, any railroad or interurban track intersecting the road at grade, other than a crossing at which there is a gate or a watchman (except an electric railway track in a city, town, or village), without first bringing said motor vehicle to a full stop at a distance not exceeding fifty (50) feet from the nearest rail. No failure so to stop, however, shall be considered contributory negligence per se in any action against the railroad or interurban company for injury to person or property, but the facts relating to such failure to stop may be considered with the other facts in the case in determining whether the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence. (1923, c. 255, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to be superseded by sec. 2621(48), a more recent enactment covering the same subject-matter.

There is a section in the Uniform Act, sec. 2621(47), requiring an obedience to warning signals of approaching trains.

Necessity for Section.—Although a railroad is a highway (Hinton v. Southern R. Co., 172 N. C. 587, 90 S. E. 756), an amendment of the statute (Acts of 1923) was necessary in order to compel the operator of a motor vehicle to bring it to a full stop before crossing or attempting to cross a railroad track. State v. Stallings, 189 N. C. 104, 106, 126 S. E. 187.

Failure to Stop as Negligence Per Se.—The failure of a motorist to stop his automobile before crossing a railroad at a grade crossing on a public highway, as directed by this section, "at a distance not exceeding fifty feet from the nearest rail," does not constitute contributory negligence per se in his action against the railroad company to recover damages to his car caused by a collision with a train standing upon the track, and where the evidence tends only to show that the proximate cause of the plaintiff's injury was his own negligence in exceeding the speed he should have used under the circumstances, a judgment as of nonsuit thereon should be entered on defendant's motion therefor properly entered. Weston v. Southern R. Co., 194 N. C. 210.

Contributory Negligence.—The failure to stop an automobile at a grade crossing as directed by this section does not constitute contributory negligence per se in an action to recover damages to the car caused by a collision with a train standing upon the track, and where the evidence tends only to show that the proximate cause of the plaintiff's injury was his own negligence in exceeding the speed he should have used under the circumstances, a judgment as of nonsuit thereon should be entered on defendant's motion therefor properly entered. Weston v. Southern R. Co., 194 N. C. 210, 139 S. E. 237.

Editor's Note.—There is a section in the Uniform Act, sec. 2621(47), requiring an obedience to signals given by approaching trains.

§ 2621(d). Violation of two preceding sections a misdemeanor.—Any person violating the provisions of the two preceding sections shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be fined not more than ten dollars or imprisoned not more than ten days, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1923, c. 255, s. 3.)

Art. 5. Automobile Inspectors

§ 2621(e). Appointment, powers, and jurisdiction.—The secretary of state is authorized to appoint, in his discretion, one or more discreet persons who shall be known as "Automobile Inspectors," and who, when commissioned and qualified, shall have the same police power in cases of the violations of the automobile laws as are conferred on sheriffs, police, marshals, and other officers under this chapter, and such powers shall run in all counties within the state. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 97, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2621(g). Compensation of inspectors.—Such inspectors may serve without compensation, or may receive such compensation as the secretary of state may deem necessary, to be paid from the automobile fund provided for under chapter 2, Public Laws of 1921, by warrant of the auditor on the treasurer: Provided, said compensation shall be approved by the governor and council of state. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 97, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2621(h). County and municipal officers; cooperation and duties.—It shall be the duty of all sheriffs, police officers, deputy sheriffs, deputy police officers, and all other officers within the state to co-operate with and render all assistance in their power to the inspectors herein provided for, and nothing in this law shall be construed as relieving said sheriffs, police officers, deputy sheriffs, deputy police officers, and other officers of the duties imposed on them by this chapter. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 97, s. 4.)

As to the duty of peace officers in enforcing law, see sec. 2600.

Art. 6. Protection of Title of Motor Vehicles

§ 2621(i). Definitions.—The words and phrases used in this article shall be construed as follows, unless the context may otherwise require:

(a) The term "motor vehicles" shall include all vehicles propelled by power other than muscular power, except motorcycles operated by policemen or firemen when on official business, traction engines when not run on rubber tires, road rollers, fire wagons, fire engines, police patrol wagons, and also such vehicles that run only upon rails or tracks.

(b) The term "state," except where otherwise expressly provided, shall also include the territories and the federal districts of the United States.

(c) The term "owner" shall also include any person, firm, association or corporation renting a motor vehicle or having the exclusive use thereof, under a lease or otherwise, for a period greater than thirty days. As between contract vendor and contract vendee, the term "owner" shall refer to the contract vendee unless the contrary shall clearly appear from the context of this article.

(d) The term "manufacturer" shall include a person, firm, corporation or association engaged in the manufacture of new motor vehicles, as a regular business.

(e) The term "used vehicles" covers a motor vehicle which has been sold, bargained, exchanged, given away or title transferred from the persons who first took out title to it from the manufacturer or importer, and so used as to have become what is commonly known as "second hand" within the ordinary meaning thereof.

(f) The term "dealer" shall embrace any person, firm or corporation or association engaged in the purchase and sale of motor vehicles, or in the leasing of the same for a period of thirty or more successive days. (1923, c. 236, s. 1; 1925, c. 124, s. 1.)

See note under § 3312.

Editor's Note.—The sections appearing in this article were undoubtedly intended to supersede the provisions of the sections appearing under article two of this chapter. In turn it would seem that a large portion of this article was intended to be superseded by the more recent act appearing in article seven which provides a system of registration of titles and vehicles. However, that is such a variance between the two that it is very difficult to ascertain in every particular how much of the old law is superseded by the new. There are also provisions in each not common to the other. At best it is possible to point out under the various sections the corresponding sections in the other law, indicating where possible the probable effect.

For the definition of terms used in the more recent act, see sec. 2621(1).

Caption Broader Than Sections. — When the sections of this article are examined, they do not go as far as the caption of the act from which they were taken would indicate a purpose to go. The caption of the act cannot be considered in constraining the clear, unambiguous terms of the sections. Carolina Discount Corp. v. Landis Motor Co., 190 N. C. 157, 159, 129 S. E. 414.

§ 2621(j). Certificate of title for motor vehicles. — After October first, nineteen hundred and twenty-three, no certificate of the registration of any vehicle or number plates therefor, whether original issues or duplicates, shall be issued or furnished by the secretary of state, or any other officer with such duty, unless the applicant therefor shall at the same time make application for an official certificate of title of such motor vehicle, or shall present satisfactory evidence that such a certificate covering such motor vehicle has been previously issued to the applicant. Said application shall be upon a blank form to be furnished by the secretary of state and shall contain a full description of the motor vehicle, which said description shall contain the manufacturer's number, the motor number, and any distinguishing marks, together with a statement of the applicant's title and of any liens or encumbrances upon said motor vehicle and such other information as the secretary of state may require.

The secretary of state, if satisfied that the applicant is the owner of such motor vehicle, or otherwise entitled to have the same registered in his name, shall thereupon issue to the applicant an appropriate certificate of title over his signature, authenticated by a seal to be procured and used for such purpose. Said certificates shall be numbered consecutively, beginning with number one, and shall contain such description and other evidence of identification of said motor vehicle as the secretary of state may deem proper, together with a statement of any liens or encumbrances which the application may show to be thereon. The charge for each original certificate of title so issued shall be fifty cents, which charge shall be in addition to the charge for the registration of such motor vehicle. Said certificate shall be good for the life of the car so long as the same is owned or held by the original holder of such certificate, and need not be renewed annually, or at any other time except as herein provided. On or before September first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, it shall be the duty of the secretary of state to cause to be printed copies of this article and to mail to every person to whom the secretary of state, or other officer having the duty of registration of motor vehicles has issued a certificate of registration for the year nineteen hundred twenty-three, one of such printed copies, accompanied by a blank form of application for a certificate of title. The provision of this article shall apply to all dealers in motor vehicles as above defined upon receipt of such motor vehicles for sale in the State of North Carolina. They shall likewise apply to all motor vehicles owned and operated by municipalities or by the State or by any political subdivision thereof or by any State institution, subject, however, as to the latter class, to what is hereafter provided in this article. (1923, c. 236, s. 2; 1923, c. 124, s. 2.)

As to certificate being prerequisite to passing title, see note to sec 2621(k).

Editor's Note.—The section of the more recent law requiring a certificate of title and making certain exceptions will be found as sec. 2621(6). The provisions requiring an application and prescribing the form and contents thereof is sec. 2621(8). The provisions fixing the length of time for which a certificate is good will also be found in sec. 2621(8). A comparison of the corresponding provision will reveal that the evident intent of the Legislature was to substitute the more recent provisions for those of this section.

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

Purpose as Compared with Mortgage Registration Statute.—This statute is a police regulation to protect the general public from fraud, imposition and theft of motor vehicles. The registration statute, secs. 3311, 3312, specifically protects mortgagees. Carolina Discount Corp. v. Landis Mortor Co., 190 N. C. 157, 160, 129 S. E. 414.

Effect upon Mortgage Registration Statute.—The provisions of secs. 3311, 3312 are not affected or repealed by this article as amended. Carolina Discount Corp. v. Landis Motor Co., 190 N. C. 157, 160, 129 S. E. 414.

Necessity of Registering Conditional Sale Contracts. — All chattel mortgages and conditional-sale contracts on motor vehicles must be registered in the county in which the mortgagor resides, and in case the mortgagor resides out of the State, then in the county where the said motor vehicle is situated, in order to obtain immunity against the creditors and purchasers for value, from the mortgagor. The conditional-sale contract, purchased by the plaintiff, never having been registered, is invalid as against the defendant, a purchaser for full value. Carolina Discount Corp. v. Landis Motor Co., 190 N. C. 157, 160, 129 S. E. 414.

§ 2621(j) 1. Vehicles owned by state, state institutions and municipalities. — All motor vehicles owned and operated by municipalities or by the State or by any political subdivision thereof or by any State institution shall have certificates of title issued for them to said governmental agency free of any cost to such government or agency thereof. (1925, c. 124, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—It will be observed that formerly this article did not apply to vehicles owned by political subdivisions of the State. See the preceding section. This section was passed to change that rule. The more recent act contains a provision similar to this section as to registration but not as to title, except that a fee of one dollar is charged for the registration. See sec. 2621(30). It would seem that under the more recent law, secs. 2621(1) et seq., no exception is made as to such vehicles respecting titles.

§ 2621(k). New certificate required after sale or transfer. — In the event of the sale or other transfer in this state after October first, nineteen hundred twenty-three, of the ownership of a motor vehicle for which a certificate of title has been issued as aforesaid, the holder of such certificate shall indorse on the back of same an assignment thereof, with warranty of title, in form printed thereon, with a statement of all liens or encumbrances on said motor vehicle, and deliver the same to the purchaser or transferee at the time of the delivery to him of such motor vehicle. The purchaser or transferee shall within ten days thereafter present such certificate, assigned as aforesaid, to the secretary of state, accompanied by a fee of fifty cents, whereupon a new certificate of title shall be issued to the assignee. Said certificate, when so assigned and returned to the secretary of state, together with any subsequent assignments or reissues thereof, shall be retained by the secretary of state and appropriately filed and indexed, so that at all times it will be practicable to trace title to the motor vehicles designated therein. (1923, c. 236, s. 3.)

As to necesssity of registering conditional sale contract or mortgage under secs. 3311, 3312, see note to sec. 2621(j).

Editor's Note.—It would seem that this section is superseded by the more recent enactment, sec. 2621(16). See editor's note under sec. 2621(j).

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

Transfer of Certificate as Prerequisite to Passing of Title.—A careful perusal of this article fails to disclose any provision prohibiting a sale or transfer of the title of a motor vehicle without a transfer and delivery of a certificate of registration of title, and there is no provision that a sale so made is either fraudulent or void. Its provisions operate upon the parties who make a sale or a purchase without complying with its terms. Its penal provisions are clear. They are directed against those who violate after the sale, or transfer, has been made. Carolina Discount Corp. v. Landis Motor Co., 190 N. C. 157, 160, 129 S. E. 414.

Necessity for Writing to Pass Title.—"A sale of personal property is not required to be evidenced by any written instrument in order to be valid. This rule had been of such long standing prior to the enactment of the Motor Vehicle Registration Act, we cannot assume that the Legislature intended to change this rule, unless it says so." Carolina Discount Corp. v. Landis Motor Co., 190 N. C. 157, 160, 129 S. E. 414.

§ 2621(l). Certificate of title required to operate motor vehicles.—The owner or any person, without consent of the owner being first obtained, who shall operate a motor vehicle in this state under a registration number of this state after October first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, without first having made application for a certificate of title as in this article provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one thousand dollars; and from and after October first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, any person who sells a motor vehicle without complying with the requirements of section 2621(k) shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1923, c. 236, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—A very similar provision in a more recent enactment is found in sec. 2621(6). As to probable effect, see note to sec. 2621(i).

§ 2621(m). Certificates of registration for motor vehicles.—The secretary of state shall furnish with each number plate issued a receipt of registration, which shall contain upon the face thereof the following data: The name of the registered owner of the motorcycle or motor vehicle, the owner's postoffice address, the make of the vehicle, the registered horsepower, the registration or license number and date of issue of the receipt of registration. Such receipt of registration shall contain a blank space for the signature of the registered owner and shall be signed with ink by such owner immediately upon receipt. Said receipt of registration shall, at all times, while the motor vehicle for which it was issued is being operated within the state, be in the possession of the operator thereof, and shall be subject to inspection by any peace officer at any time. (1923, c. 236, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—A more recent statute makes much more specific regulation as to the issuance, etc., of certificates of registration and probably supersedes this section. See secs. 2621(6) et seq.

§ 2621(n). Old certificates to be returned to secretary of state.—Upon transfer of ownership of any motor vehicle or motorcycle registered under this article, the person in whose name such motor vehicle or motorcycle is registered shall forthwith deliver, or forward by registered mail, the receipt of registration to the secretary of state, with a statement of the name and postoffice address of the transferee, and the date of transfer. For failure to comply with this provision within ten days after the date of transfer, the transferee, upon conviction, shall be fined not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars. (1923, c. 236, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—This section is probably superseded at least in part by a more recent regulation of this subject. See sec. 2621(16).

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2621(o). Transfer of ownership file to be kept by secretary of state; transferee of title required to make application for new certificate.—Upon receipt of such old certificate it shall be the duty of the secretary of state to file such receipt of registration in a file to be known as "the transfer of ownership file." Unless the transferee, as shown by the indorsement on the back of the receipt of registration, applies by mail, or otherwise, within ten days after the date of transfer of the motor vehicle for certificate of registration and title, the secretary of state shall notify said transferee at once to do so. Unless said transferee then makes application within five days after receipt of such notice from the secretary of state for such certificate, he shall be considered to be driving a motor vehicle without registration, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars. (1923, c. 236, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to be superseded by the more recent provisions, secs. 2621(16) and 2621(9). See editor's note to sec. 2621(i).

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2621(p). Secretary of state may refuse to issue certificate, or revoke same if issued.—If the secretary of state shall determine at any time that an applicant for a certificate of title of a motor vehicle is not entitled thereto, he may refuse to issue such certificate or to register such vehicle, and may for a like reason, and after notice and hearing, revoke registration already acquired on any outstanding certificate of title. (1923, c. 236, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—There seems to be no exact provision in the more recent law, secs. 2621(l) et seq., sufficiently similar to this section to replace it in every particular. However it is modified to some extent by secs. 2621(25) and 2621(26), providing for a refusal to issue a certificate of title or registration, and the rescission of registration. No provision is made, it would seem, for the revocation of certificates of title in the new law.

§ 2621(q). Penalty for false statement in application, and possession of stolen motor vehicle, etc.—Any person who shall knowingly make any false statement of a material fact, either in his application for the certificate of title or in any assignment thereof, or who, with intent to procure or pass title to a motor vehicle which he knows or has reason to believe has been stolen, shall receive or transfer possession of the same from or to another, or who shall have in his possession any motor vehicle which he knows or has reason to believe has been stolen, and who is not an officer of the law engaged at the time in the performance of his duty as such officer, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars or by imprisonment in any penal institution within this state for not less than one year nor more than five years, or both, in the discretion of the court. This provision shall not be exclusive of any other penalties prescribed by any existing or future laws for the larceny or unauthorized taking of motor vehicles, but shall be deemed supplementary thereto. (1923, c. 236, s. 9.)

Editor's Note.—Several sections of the more recent statute seem to refer to portions of the subject-matter of this section. As to receiving or transferring stolen vehicles, see sec. 2621(33), violation of registration provisions, sec. 2621(27), and making false affidavits, sec. 2621(28). Quaere, as to whether this section is entirely superseded. See Editor's Note to sec. 2621(i).

§ 2621(r). Certificates for dealers and manufacturers.—In the case of dealers in motor vehicles, motorcycles, including manufacturers who sell to others than dealers, all of whom are intended to be covered by this and all other provisions of this law, a separate certificate of title, either of such dealer's immediate vendor or of the dealer himself, shall be required in the case of each motor vehicle in his possession, and the secretary of state shall determine the form in which application for such certificates of title and assignments thereof shall be made: Provided, however, that no such certificate shall be required in the case of new motor vehicles, sold by manufacturers to dealers as the term "dealers" is defined in section 2621(i). (1923, c. 236, s. 10.)

Editor's Note.—The provisions of this section seem to be covered by a more recent enactment, sec. 2621(17).

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2621(s). Duplicate certificates where original is lost.—In the case of lost certificates of title or registration, the loss of which is accounted for to the satisfaction of the secretary of state, duplicates may be issued, the charge therefor to be fifty cents each. (1923, c. 236, s. 11.)

Editor's Note.—The provisions of this section seem to be covered by a more recent enactment, sec. 2621(20). See editor's note to sec. 2621(i).

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2621(t). Alteration or forgery of certificate of title, and penalty thereof.—Any person who shall alter or forge, or cause to be altered or forged, any certificate of title issued by the secretary of state pursuant to the provisions of this law, or any assignment thereof, or who shall hold or use any such certificate or assignment knowing the same to have been altered or forged, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be liable to pay a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, or to imprisonment in any penal institution in this state for a period of not less than one year nor more than five years, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1923, c. 236, s. 12.)

Editor's Note.—The provisions of this section seem to be covered by a more recent enactment, sec. 2621(24).

§ 2621(u). Report of stolen and recovered motor vehicles.—It shall be the duty of the sheriff of every county of the state and of the chief of police or commissioner of police of every city having a population of more than ten thousand to make immediate report to the secretary of state of all motor vehicles reported to him as stolen or recovered, upon forms provided by the secretary of state. Upon receipt of such information the secretary of state shall file the same in an index to be known as the "stolen and recovered motor vehicle index." It shall also be the duty of the secretary of state to file reports of stolen and recovered motor vehicles reported to him from other states. The secretary of state shall publish once a month a list of all motor vehicles stolen or recovered during the previous month, and forward a copy of the same to every sheriff, and all police departments in cities with over ten thousand inhabitants. Such list shall also be forwarded to the secretary of state, or other proper official, in each state of the United States. Before issuing a certificate of title, as heretofore provided, the secretary of the state shall check the motor and serial number on the motor vehicle to be registered against the "stolen and recovered motor vehicle index." (1923, c. 236, s. 13.)

Editor's Note.—There is a section in a more recent enactment which seems to cover the terms of this section. See sec. 2621(37).

§ 2621(v). Licenses required of second-hand dealers.—After the first day of January, nineteen hundred twenty-four, it shall be unlawful for any person to carry on or conduct in this state the business of buying, selling or dealing in used vehicles, unless and until he shall have received a license from the secretary of state authorizing the carrying on or conducting of such business;

Provided, however, that any manufacturer or importer of vehicles or his subsidiaries or selling agents may buy or take in trade and sell any used vehicle of his own make without such license. Such license shall be furnished annually by the secretary of state and shall run from the first day of January, nineteen hundred and twenty-four, and annually thereafter for each year, beginning on the first day of January. The application for said license shall be in such form as may be prescribed by the said secretary of state and subject to such rules and regulations with respect thereto as may be so prescribed by him. Such application shall be verified by oath or affirmation and shall contain a full statement of the name or names of the person or persons applying therefor, the name of the firm or copartnership with the names and places of residence of all the members thereof, if such applicant be a firm or copartnership, the name and residence of the principal officers, if the applicant be a body corporate or other artificial body, the name of the state under whose laws the corporation is organized, the location of the place or places at which such business is to be carried on and conducted, and said application shall contain such other relevant information as may be required by the secretary of state. It shall be accompanied by a sworn statement of two reputable persons of the community in which the principal place of business is to be located, certifying to the good moral character of the person or persons applying for such license. Upon making such application the person applying therefor shall pay to the secretary of state a fee of five dollars ($5.00) in addition to any other fees now required by law. A license certificate shall be issued by the secretary of state in accordance with such application when the same shall be regular in form and in compliance with the provisions of this section, and such license, when so issued, shall entitle the licensee to carry on and conduct the business of buying and selling and dealing in used vehicles for a period of one year from the first day of January of the current year. The secretary of state shall have the power to make suitable rules and regulations for the issuance of such licenses to expire upon the first day of January of the succeeding year, when the application therefor shall be made during the current year, and upon payment of a license fee of three dollars ($3.00): Provided, application is made after July first of any year. Any person conducting the business of buying, selling or dealing in used vehicles and having received a license therefor, shall, before removing any one or more of his places of business, or shall, before opening any additional places of business, apply to the secretary of state for and obtain a supplemental license, for which no fee shall be charged. Every such licensee shall keep a book or record in such form as may be prescribed or approved by the secretary of state, in which he shall keep a record of the purchase, sale or exchange, or receipt for the purpose of sale, of any second-hand vehicle, a description of such vehicles, together with the name and address of the seller, or the purchaser, and of the alleged owner or other person from whom such vehicle was purchased or received, to whom it was sold or delivered, as the case may be. Such description shall also include the engine number, if any, the maker's number, if any, chassis number, if any, and such other numbers or identification marks as may be thereon, and shall also include a statement that a number has been obliterated, defaced or changed, if such is the fact. He shall also have in his possession a duly assigned certificate of title from the owner of said motor vehicle in accordance with the provisions of this article from the time when the motor vehicle is delivered to him until it has been disposed of by him. Any person guilty of violating any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a felony and shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars ($50.00) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00), or by imprisonment in any penal institution in this state for not less than six months nor more than three years, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1923, c. 236, s. 14.)

Editor's Note.—There seems to be no provisions in the more recent statute, secs. 2621(1) et seq., corresponding to this section.

§ 2621(w). Appointment of deputies, their duties, etc.—The secretary of state, with the approval in writing of the governor, is hereby given power to appoint all necessary deputies, in addition to the present officers of the law, to carry out the provisions of this article and to incur any additional expense in the enforcement of this article as may be first approved by the governor in writing, and the secretary of state, together with such deputies, employees and the existing officers of the law, are hereby given police power and authority throughout the state, to arrest without writ, rule, order or process, any person in the act of violating or attempting to violate in his presence any of the provisions of this article, and are hereby made peace officers of this state for that purpose. All deputies and inspectors heretofore or hereafter appointed and commissioned under chapter fifty-five, Consolidated Statutes, and laws supplemental thereto or amendatory thereof, are hereby expressly granted the police powers given in this section. With the permission and consent of the sheriff of any county, or the chief of police of any city, the secretary of state is hereby authorized to employ temporarily and deputize any deputy sheriff or police officer to investigate any auto theft matters or other violations of this article, and any such officer so employed or deputized shall have all the authority of peace officers as heretofore provided. Any officer, or deputy of the secretary of state, shall have the authority and is hereby required to use reasonable diligence in ascertaining whether the owners and operators of motor vehicles are complying with the provisions of this article. All expenditures under the provisions of this section shall be paid from the fund hereafter designated as the "auto theft fund." (1923, c. 236, s. 15.)

Editor's Note.—There is no provision in the more recent statute, secs. 2621(1) et seq., which corresponds to this section.

As to duty of peace officers with respect to the motor vehicle law, see sec. 2600; as to report of stolen vehicles to peace officer, see secs. 2621(u), 2621(37); as to duty of peace officers to weigh loads and remove excess, see secs. 2621(6), 2621(79).

Every reference to the Secretary of State in this section should be changed to the Commissioner of the Revenue. See sec. 7979(c).

§ 2621(x). Auto-theft fund, how used. — All moneys received by the Commissioner of Revenue under the provisions of this article shall be paid into the state treasury under the provisions of the Daily Deposit Act, and when so paid shall be placed by the state Treasurer to the credit of the State Highway Fund. (1923, c. 236, s. 16; 1927, c. 79, s. 23.)

Editor's Note.—There seems to be no similar provision in the more recent enactment, secs. 2621(1) et seq.

Prior to the 1927 amendment the money had to be paid in before the tenth of each month and was set aside as a separate fund to meet the expenses incurred under this article and in the enforcement of other vehicle laws.

§ 2621(y). False statements shall constitute perjury.—Any person who shall make any false affidavit, or shall knowingly swear or affirm falsely, to any matter or thing required by the terms of this article to be sworn or affirmed to, shall be guilty of perjury, and, upon conviction, shall be punishable by a fine and imprisonment as other persons committing perjury are punishable. (1923, c. 236, s. 17.)

Editor's Note.—The terms of this section seem to be covered by the more recent enactment, sec. 2621(28).

Strict Construction of Penal Provisions.—Inasmuch as this article contains provisions of a highly penal nature, and, although it is within the police power, the courts will not, by construction, extend its penal provisions unless the case comes within the letter of the law, and within its meaning and palpable design. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 553, 127 S. E. 629; Carolina Discount Corp. v. Landis Motor Co., 190 N. C. 157, 160, 129 S. E. 414.

§ 2621(z). Any part declared unconstitutional shall not render remainder of law invalid. —If any provision of this law shall be held by any court of competent jurisdiction to be unconstitutional, such provision so declared to be unconstitutional shall not affect the validity of the remainder of the law but shall only affect the clause or provision so held to be unconstitutional, and the remainder of the law shall be valid. (1923, c. 236, s. 18.)

Art. 7. The Motor Vehicle Act; Department of Motor Vehicles; Registration

§ 2621(1). Definitions. — The following words and phrases when used in this act shall for the purpose of this act have the meanings respectively ascribed to them in this section except in those instances where the context clearly indicates a different meaning:

(a) "Vehicle." Device in, upon or by which any person or property is or may be transported or drawn upon a public highway, excepting devices moved by human power or used exclusively upon stationary rails or tracks.

(b) "Motor Vehicles." Every vehicle, as herein defined, which is self-propelled.

(c) "Motorcycle." Every motor vehicle designed to travel on not more than three wheels in contact with the ground, except any such vehicle as may be included within the term "tractor" as herein defined.

(d) "Truck Tractor." Every motor vehicle designed and used primarily for drawing other vehicles and not so constructed as to carry a load other than a part of the weight of the vehicle and load so drawn.

(e) "Farm Tractor." Every motor vehicle designed and used primarily as a farm implement for drawing plows, mowing machines and other implements of husbandry.

(f) "Road Tractor." Every motor vehicle designed and used for drawing other vehicles and not so constructed as to carry any load thereon independently or any part of the weight of a vehicle or load so drawn.

(g) "Trailer." Every vehicle without motive power designed to carry property or passengers wholly on its own structure and to be drawn by a motor vehicle.

(h) "Semi-trailer." Every vehicle of the trailer type so designed and used in conjunction with a motor vehicle that some part of its own weight and that of its own load rests upon or is carried by another vehicle.

(i) "Specially constructed vehicle." Any vehicle which shall not have been originally constructed under a distinctive name, make, model or type by a generally recognized manufacturer of vehicles.

(j) "Essential parts." All integral parts and body parts, the removal, alteration or substitution of which will tend to conceal the identity or substantially alter the appearance of the vehicle.

(k) "Reconstructed vehicle." Any vehicle which shall have been assembled or constructed largely by means of essential parts, new or used, derived from other vehicles or makes of vehicles of various names, models and types, or which, if originally otherwise constructed, shall have been materially altered by the removal of essential parts or by the addition or substitution of essential parts, new or used, derived from other vehicles or makes of vehicles.

(l) "Foreign vehicle." Every motor vehicle, trailer or semi-trailer which shall be brought into this state otherwise than in the ordinary course of business by or through a manufacturer or dealer and which has not been registered in this State.

(m) "Pneumatic tires." All tires inflated with compressed air.

(n) "Solid rubber tire." Every tire made of rubber other than a pneumatic tire.

(o) "Metal tires." All tires the surface of which in contract with the highway are wholly or partly of metal or other hard, non-resilient material.

(p) "Motor vehicle fuels" are such fuels known as gasoline, benzine, naphtha, liberty fuel and such other volatile and inflammable liquids produced or compounded for the purpose of operating or propelling motor vehicles, except the product commonly known as kerosene oil.

(q) "Person." Every natural person, firm, copartnership, association or corporation.

(r) "Owner." A person who holds the legal title of a vehicle or in the event a vehicle is the subject of an agreement for the conditional sale or lease thereof with the right of purchase upon performance of the conditions stated in the agreement and with an immediate right of possession vested in the conditional vendee or lessee or in the event a mortgagor of a vehicle is entitled to possession, then such conditional vendee or lessee or mortgagor shall be deemed the owner for the purpose of this act.

(s) "Non-resident." Every person who is not a resident of this State.

(t) "Manufacturer." Every person engaged in business of manufacturing motor vehicles, trailers or semi-trailers.

(u) "Dealer." Every person engaged in the business of buying, selling, distributing or exchanging motor vehicles, trailers or semi-trailers in this State and having an established place of business in this State.

(v) The term of "dealer in motor vehicle fuels" is hereby defined as any person or corporation who has in his, its, or their possession, for sale to the consumer, any gasoline, benzine, naphtha, liberty fuel, and such other volatile or inflammable liquids produced or compounded for operating or propelling motor vehicles as herein defined for use, distribution or sale in the State.

(w) "Highway." Every way or place of whatever nature open to the use of the public as a matter of right for purposes of vehicular travel. The term "highway" shall not be deemed to include a roadway or driveway upon grounds owned by private persons, colleges, universities or other institutions.

(x) "Department." The vehicle department of this State acting directly or through its duly authorized officers and agents.

For similar definitions under other kindred acts, see secs. 2598, 2621(i) and 2621(43).

Editor's Note.—As stated in the editor's note under sec. 2621(i), this article in the main covers the subject-matter of article six and to such extent apparently supersedes it. However, as pointed out in the notes under the appropriate sections, some of the provisions of the preceding article are not covered by this article.

While this act is not a verbatim enactment, by any means, it is patterned after, and follows to a large extent, the Uniform Motor Vehicle Registration Act which was proposed by the Commissioners on Uniform Law at their 1925 meeting.

The commissioners also proposed an act for the protection of the titles of motor vehicles, and this act seems to have been combined with the Uniform Registration Act and adopted by the Legislature of this State. The principal variances between this act and the Uniform Act other than mentioned above will be noted under the appropriate sections. However, no attempt is made to point all of them out.

There is a section appearing in the Uniform Act between what is here secs. 2621(4) and 2621(5), providing for the publication and posting of a record of the licenses revoked, and of cars stolen and recovered. This was omitted in North Carolina.

While the sections appearing under article two of this chapter are probably superseded, the annotations thereunder will probably be of value in construing the corresponding sections of this article.

An "owner" under the law in force prior to this section or the Act of 1923, sec. 2621(i), was every person owning, renting, or having exclusive use by lease or otherwise of a motor vehicle. For a definition under the corresponding section of the Act of 1923, see sec. 2621(i).

"Motor vehicles" as defined in the prior law included all vehicles not propelled by muscular power, except traction engines, road rollers, fire wagons, police patrol wagons, ambulances, and such vehicles as run upon rails or tracks. For other definitions, see secs. 2621(i) and 2621(43).

The term "highway" is defined in the prior law (sec. 2598) as any way used by the public whether it be maintained by a state, county, or municipality. It included alleys, parks, drive or public place in any city or town. For other definitions, see secs. 2621(i) and 2621(43).

Vehicle Commissioner

§ 2621(2). The Commissioner of Revenue shall perform the duties of Vehicle Commissioner.—The Commissioner of Revenue is hereby designated as the Vehicle Commissioner of this State; and he shall have all powers and perform such duties as are herein imposed upon the Vehicle Commissioner. (1927, c. 122, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to 1925 [see sec. 7979(c)] the duties relative to the motor vehicle law devolved upon the Secretary of State.

§ 2621(3). Duties of department and vehicle commissioner.—(a) It shall be the duty of the department and all officers thereof to enforce the provisions of this act.

(b) The vehicle commissioner is hereby authorized to adopt and enforce such administrative rules and regulations and to designate and appoint such agents and deputies as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this act and such agents and deputies are hereby given police power and authority throughout the state, to arrest without writ, rule, order or process any person in the act of violating or attempting to violate in his presence any of the provisions of this act, and are hereby made peace officers of this state for that purpose. He shall also provide suitable forms for applications, certificates of title and registration cards, license number plates, certificate holders, and all other forms requisite for the purpose of this act, and shall prepay all transportation charges thereon. (1927, c. 122, s. 3; 1933, c. 214, s. 10; 1935, c. 324, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment of 1935 agents and deputies were limited to six in number and patrolmen to sixty-seven.

§ 2621(4). Office of department.—The Vehicle Commissioner shall maintain an office in Raleigh, North Carolina, and in such places in the State as he shall deem necessary properly to carry out the provisions of the act. (1927, c. 122, s. 4.)

§ 2621(5). Accident statistics and reports.—(a) The Department shall prepare and may supply to police and sheriff's offices and other suitable agencies forms for accident report calling for sufficiently detailed information to disclose with reference to a highway accident the cause, conditions then existing and the persons and vehicles involved. (b) The department shall receive accident reports required to be made by law and shall tabulate and analyze such reports. (1927, c. 122, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—The Uniform Act contained a provision as subsection (b) requiring the posting of information about accidents and a subsection (c) requiring reports of accidents by the persons involved.

As to the duty of peace officers generally, see sec. 2600 and sections referred to thereunder.

Registration and Certificates of Titles of Motor Vehicles, Trailers and Semi-Trailers.

§ 2621(6). Owners to secure registration and certificate of title.—Every owner of a motor vehicle, intended to be operated upon any highway in this State, shall, before the same is so operated, apply to the Department for and obtain the registration thereof a certificate of title therefor, except as otherwise provided in this section and except the owner of any vehicle which is exempted by section seven and excepting also when an owner is permitted to operate a vehicle under the registration provisions relating to manufacturers, dealers and non-residents contained in sections sixteen and eighteen of this act.

Provided, that nothing herein contained shall require the application for or the issuance of a certificate of title for a trailer or semi-trailer, though before operating a trailer or semi-trailer upon the highways of the State, the owner thereof must obtain the registration thereof and pay the registration fees as now provided by article five, section twenty-eight of this act. (1927, c. 122, s. 6; 1929, c. 272, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The act of 1929 struck out the former section and inserted the above in lieu thereof.

As to provision in earlier law requiring certificate as prerequisite to operation, see sec. 2621(l). For prior law requiring registration, see secs. 2602 and 2621(j), which was probably superseded by this section.

§ 2621(7). Exempt from registration.— Farm tractors, road rollers and road machinery temporarily operated or moved upon the highways need not be registered under this act. (1927, c. 122, s. 7.)

§ 2621(8). Application for registration and certificate of title.—(a) An owner shall make application upon the appropriate forms furnished or approved by the department for registration, also for a certificate of title, except that upon annual renewal of registration by an owner in possession of a certificate of title previously issued to him for such vehicle, no application need be made for a renewal of such certificate of title. The owner shall verify every application for a certificate of title before a person authorized to administer oath, and officers and employees of the department designated by the commissioner are hereby authorized to administer oaths and it is their duty to do so without fee, for the purpose of this act.

(b) Every application for a certificate of title shall contain a statement of the applicant's title and of all liens or encumbrances upon said vehicle and the names and addresses of all persons having any interest therein and the nature of every such interest, and shall include the name and address of the person to whom the certificate of title shall be delivered by the department.

(c) Every application for registration or for a certificate of title shall obtain a brief description of the vehicle to be registered, including the name of the maker, the engine and serial number, whether new or used, and the last license number, if known and state issuing same, and upon the registration of a new vehicle the date of sales by the manufacturer or dealer to the person first operating such vehicle. The application shall contain such other information as may be required by the department.

(d) In the event that the vehicle for which registration or a certificate of title is applied is a specially constructed, re-constructed or foreign vehicle, such fact shall be stated in the application, and with reference to every foreign vehicle which has been registered theretofore outside of this State, the owner shall surrender to the department the certificate of title and registration card or other evidence of such former registration as may be in the applicant's possession or control or such other evidence as will satisfy the department that the applicant is the lawful owner or possessor of the vehicle. (1927, c. 122, s. 8.)

As to necessity of registering mortgage or constitutional sale in county of mortgager's, etc., residence, see note to sec. 2621(k).

Editor's Note.—The prior law which is probably superseded by this section will be found under secs. 2621(j), 2602.

§ 2621(9). Register of applicants to be kept by department.—The department shall file each application received, and when satisfied as to the genuineness and regularity thereof, and that the applicant is entitled thereto, shall register the vehicle therein described and the owner thereof in suitable books or on index cards as follows:

1. Under the distinctive registration number assigned to the vehicle and to the owner thereof hereinafter referred to as the registration number.

2. Alphabetically under the name of the owner.

3. Numerically and alphabetically under the engine and serial number and name of the vehicle. (1927, c. 122, s. 9.)

For similar provisions in the prior law, see sec. 2603. See sec. 2621(o) for a somewhat similar provision in an earlier law.

§ 2621(10). Records to be kept for three years.—The Commissioner of Revenue is hereby required to keep for three years and no longer all records pertaining to licenses issued for motor vehicles so that the same may be accessible for inspection at any time within three years from the issuance of same. (1927, c. 198, s. 1.)

§ 2621(11). Registration cards and certificates of title.—(a) The department upon registering a vehicle and receiving an application for a certificate of title therefor shall issue to the owner a registration card and a certificate of title therefor as separate documents, but shall deliver the certificate of title to the person designated for that purpose in the application. An owner upon receiving a registration card shall sign the usual signature or name of such owner with pen and ink in the space provided upon the face of such card.

(b) The certificate of title shall contain upon the face thereof the date issued, the registration number assigned to the owner and to the vehicle, the name and address of the owner, also a description of the registered vehicle, including with reference to every new vehicle hereafter sold in this State the date of sale by the manufacturer or dealer to the person first operating such vehicle and such other statement of facts as may be determined by the department.

(c) The registration card shall contain upon the face thereof the date issued, the registration number assigned to the owner and to the vehicle, the name and address of the owner, also a description of the registered vehicle, and upon the reverse side a form for endorsement of notice to the department upon transfer of the vehicle.

(d) The certificate of title shall contain a statement of the owner's title and of all liens or encumbrances upon the vehicle therein described and whether possession is held by the owner under a lease, contract of conditional sale or other like agreement. The certificate of title shall also contain upon the reverse side forms of assignment of title or interest and warranty thereof with space for notation of liens and encumbrances upon such vehicle at the time of a transfer. The charge for each certificate of title so issued shall be fifty cents.

(e) Every certificate of title issued hereunder shall be valid for the life of the vehicle so long as the owner to whom the same issued shall retain legal title or right of possession of or to such vehicle, and such certificate need not be renewed annually or at any other time except upon a transfer of title or interest of the owner. (1927, c. 122, s. 10.)

Editor's Note.—This section probably supersedes the corresponding provision of secs. 2621(j), 2621(l) and 2605.

§ 2621(12). Release of lien or encumbrance shown on certificate of title.—An owner securing the release of any lien or encumbrance upon vehicle and shown upon the certificate of title issued therefor may exhibit the documents, evidencing such release and the certificate of title to the department, and the latter, when satisfied as to the genuineness and regularity thereof, shall issue to such owner either a new certificate of title in proper form or certify upon the face of the outstanding certificate of title as to the release of such lien or encumbrance. (1927, c. 122, s. 11.)

Editor's Note.—There was no corresponding section in the prior law.

§ 2621(13). Registration cards.—The Commissioner of Motor Vehicles shall furnish with each number plate a registration card, which shall contain upon its face the following data: The name of the registered owner of the motorcycle, the motor vehicle, the trailer or semi-trailer, the owner's postoffice address, the make of the vehicle, the registered horsepower, the registration or license number and title number and date of issue of the registration card. Such registration card shall contain a blank space for the signature of the registered owner and shall be signed with ink by such owner immediately upon receipt of same. Said registration card shall, at all times, while the motor vehicle, motorcycle, trailer or semi-trailer, for which it was issued, is being operated within the State, be in possession of the operator thereof and shall be subject to inspection by any peace officer at any time. (1927, c. 122, s. 12; 1929, c. 272, § 2.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 repealed the former section and inserted the above in lieu thereof.

§ 2621(14). Number plates to be furnished by department.—(a) The department shall also furnish to every owner whose vehicle shall be registered one number plate for motorcycle or semi-trailer and two number plates for every other motor vehicle and trailer. The number plates so furnished shall be the property of the State of North Carolina and the commissioner shall have authority to require the return to the department of all number plates upon termination of the local use thereof by the owner under this act.

(b) Every number plate shall have displayed upon it the registration number assigned to the vehicle and to the owner thereof, also the name of this State, which may be abbreviated, and the year number for which it is issued. Such plate and the required letters and numerals thereon, except the year number for which issued, shall be of sufficient size to be plainly readable from a distance of one hundred feet during daylight.

(c) A number plate when issued shall not be transferred from one vehicle to another and shall not be used by any person or upon any motor vehicle other than the motor vehicle to which it is assigned, and any use of said number plate by any person or persons in any manner not provided for in this act shall be a violation of the provisions of this act: Provided, however, that where a motor vehicle has been duly registered in the office of the commissioner, and the number plate assigned to said motor vehicle for the year, the owner of said motor vehicle to which said number plate has been assigned may, upon the sale or exchange of said motor vehicle, transfer and assign the number plate assigned to said motor vehicle to the purchaser of said machine by registering such transfer in the office of the commissioner and by the payment of one ($1.00) dollar which shall accompany said transfer of registration and upon said transfer the assignee of said number plate shall stand in the position of the original person in whose name such number plates were recorded. Provided, therefore, that motor vehicles owned and operated by the State or any department thereof, or by any county, city or town, school district, or other political sub-division of the State, and duly licensed by the department and by such owner and operator transferred, the number plate issued to such owner shall not be thereby assigned or transferred to the transferee of such car, but shall be retained by the original owner and may be used by such owner upon another vehicle; provided, that the holder of such registration number shall make application to the Department for certificate of title to the car upon which he desires to place said registration number and upon the payment of the transfer fee as is now provided for a new certificate of registration issued to such owner containing the original registration number.

Provided, however, that motor vehicles licensed to operate for hire shall be subject to the same transfer provision of motor vehicles owned by the State or any department thereof, as above set forth. (1927, c. 122, s. 13; 1929, cc. 240, s. 1, 272, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—This section supersedes sec. 2608, the prior law, as to the furnishing of plates, sec. 2609 as to the nature of the plates, and sec. 2611(a) as to the ownership of plates in the state.

This section was twice amended by Public Laws of 1929. Chapter 240 increased the number plates in line five to two. Chapter 272 added the last two provisos.

§ 2621(15). Display of plates.—(a) Number plates assigned to a trailer and to a motor vehicle other than a motorcycle shall be attached thereto, one in front and the other in the rear. The number plate assigned to motorcycle or semi-trailer shall be attached to the rear thereof. Number plates shall be so displayed during the current registration year to determine whether plate belongs to car.

(b) Every number plate shall at all times be securely fastened to the vehicle to which it is assigned so as to prevent the plate from swinging and at a height not less than twelve inches from the ground, measuring from the bottom of such plate, in a place and position to be clearly visible, and shall be maintained free from foreign material and in a condition to be clearly legible. (1927, c. 122, s. 14; 1929, c. 240, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—This section supersedes sec. 2608 as to the display of plates.

The Act of 1929 amended this section to provide that one number plate be placed in front of a motor vehicle other than a motorcycle.

§ 2621(16). Transfer of title or interest.—(a) The owner of a vehicle registered under the foregoing provisions of this act, transferring or assigning his title or interest thereto, shall endorse an assignment and warranty of title in form approved by the department upon the reverse side of the certificate of title or execute an assignment and warranty of title of such vehicle with a statement of all liens or encumbrances thereon, which statement shall be verified under oath by the owner, who shall deliver the certificate of title to the purchaser or transferee at the time of delivering the vehicle, except that where a deed of trust, mortgage, conditional sale or title retaining contract is obtained from purchaser or transferee in payment of purchase price, or otherwise, the lien holder shall forward such certificate of title papers with said deed of trust, mortgage, conditional sale or title retaining contract, to the department within ten days: Provided, that the said commissioner of revenue shall, upon and after inspection of said chattel mortgages, notes, deeds of trust, etc., return same to the owner or owners thereof, within ten days after such inspection.

(b) The transferee shall thereupon write his name and address with pen and ink upon the certificate of title or assignment, and except as provided in the next subdivision of this section shall forward such certificate and assignment to the department with an application for the registration of such vehicle and for a certificate of title within ten days after the date of purchase.

(c) When the transferee of a vehicle is a dealer who holds the same for resale and operates the same only for purposes of demonstration under a dealer's number plates, such transferee shall not be required to register such vehicle nor forward the certificate of title to the department as provided in the preceding paragraph, but such transferee upon transferring his title or interest to another person shall give notice of such transfer to the department and shall execute and acknowledge an assignment and warranty of title in form approved by the department and deliver the same to the person to whom such transfer is made.

(d) The department, upon receipt of a certificate of title properly assigned and acknowledged, accompanied by an application for registration and necessary fees, shall register the vehicle, therein described and shall issue to the person entitled thereto by reason of such transfer, a new registration card and certificate of title in the manner and form hereinbefore provided for original registration, except that where there is a lien upon such vehicle, the certificate of title when issued shall be mailed to the lien holder.

(e) Whenever the applicant for the registration of a vehicle or a new certificate of title thereto is unable to present a certificate of title thereto by reason of the same being lost or unlawfully detained by one in possession, or the same is otherwise not available, the department is hereby authorized to receive such application and to examine into the circumstances of the case and may require the filing of affidavits or other information, and when the department is satisfied that the applicant is entitled thereto, is hereby authorized to register such vehicle and issue a new registration card number plate or plates and certificate of title to the person entitled thereto.

(f) In the event of the transfer by operation of law of the title or interest of an owner in and to a vehicle registered under the provisions of this act, order in bankruptcy or insolvency, execution sale, repossession upon default in performing the terms of a lease or executory sales contract or otherwise than by the voluntary act of the person whose title or interest is so transferred, the transferee or his legal representative shall make application to the department for a certificate of title therefor, giving the name and address of the person entitled thereto, and accompanying such application with the registration card and certificate of title previously issued for the vehicle, if available, together with such instruments or documents of authority, or certified copies thereof, as may be required by law to evidence or effect a transfer of title or interest in or to chattels in such case, together with the number plate originally issued. The department, when satisfied of the genuineness and regularity of such transfer, shall cancel the registration and license of such vehicle and issue a new certificate of title and license therefor to the person entitled thereto, upon payment of necessary fees. The transferee may also apply for and obtain the registration of such vehicle. In the event of transfer, as upon inheritance, devise or bequest, the department shall, upon receipt of a certified copy of a will, letters of administration and/or a certificate from the clerk of the superior court showing that the motor vehicle registered in the name of the decedent owner has been assigned to his widow as a part of her year's support, transfer both title and license as provided in sub-section (d). (1927, c. 122, s. 15; 1929, c. 72, s. 4, c. 272, s. 5; 1933, c. 344.)

As to transfer of certificate of title being prerequisite to passing title to motor vehicle under prior law, see secs. 2621(j), (k)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede sec. 2607, at least in part, and also the corresponding provisions of secs. 2621(k), 2621(n), and 2621(o).

The Act of 1929 added the last line to subsection (b) of this section, amended subsection (d) by striking out the words "holder therefor and" after the word "card" in line 7, and struck out the words "and holder therefor" after the word "card" in line 13 of subsection (e).

Public Laws 1933, c. 344, inserted the last sentence of this section relating to transfer to heirs, legatees, or devisees.

The law, as amended in 1933, transfers the title of the decedent to the new owner and obviates the latter's purchase of a new license plate. See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 263.

§ 2621(17). Registration by manufacturers and dealers.—(a) A manufacturer of or dealer in motor vehicles, trailers or semi-trailers, owning or operating any such vehicle or any vehicle known as a wrecker and owned by a dealer upon any highway in lieu of registering each such vehicle may obtain from the department upon application therefore upon the proper official form and payment of the fees required by law and attach to each such vehicle one number plate, which plate shall each bear thereon a distinctive number, also the name of this state, which may be abbreviated, and the year for which issued, together with the word "dealer" or a distinguishing symbol indicating that such plate or plates are issued to a manufacturer or dealer, and any such plates so issued may, during the calendar year for which issued, be transferred from one such vehicle to another owned and operated by such manufacturer or dealer.

(b) Every manufacturer of or dealer in motor vehicles, trailers or semi-trailers shall obtain and have in possession a certificate of title issued by the department to such manufacturer or dealer, or to the immediate vendor of such manufacturer or dealer for each motor vehicle, trailer and semi-trailer owned and operated upon the highways by such manufacturer or dealer, except that a certificate of title shall not be required for any new vehicle to be sold as such by a manufacturer or dealer, prior to the sale of such vehicle by the manufacturer or dealer; except that any dealer or any employee of any dealer may operate any motor vehicle, trailer or semi-trailer the property of the dealer for the purpose of furthering the business interest of the dealer in the sale, demonstration and servicing of motor vehicles, trailers and semi-trailers, of collecting accounts, contracting prospective customers and generally carrying on routine business necessary for conducting a general motor vehicle sales business: Provided, that no use shall be made of dealer's demonstration plates on vehicles operated in any other business dealers may be engaged in; Provided, further, that dealers may allow the operation of motor vehicles owned by dealers and displaying dealer's demonstration plates in the personal use of persons other than those employed in the dealer's business: Provided, that said person shall at all times while operating a motor vehicle under the provisions of this section have in their possession a certificate on such form as approved by the commissioner from the dealer, which shall be valid for not more than forty-eight (48) hours. And, provided, further, that motor vehicles, trailers and semi-trailers sold by dealers may be operated for a period not exceeding ten (10) days from the date of sale by the purchaser thereof with dealer's demonstration plates, provided, the purchasers have in their possession receipts from the dealers upon which the dealer has certified that the necessary amount of money to pay for titles and licenses has been paid by the purchasers to the dealers to be forwarded to the motor vehicle bureau, either direct or through one of its branch offices on such form as approved by the commissioner.

(c) No manufacturer of or dealer in motor vehicles, trailers or semi-trailers shall cause or permit any such vehicle owned by such person to be operated or moved upon a public highway without there being displayed upon such vehicle a number plate or plates issued to such person, either under section thirteen or under this section.

(d) No manufacturer of or dealer in motor vehicles, trailers or semi-trailers shall cause or permit any such vehicle owned by such person or by any person in his employ which is in the personal use of such person or employee to be operated or moved upon a public highway with a "dealer" plate attached to such vehicle. (1927, c. 122, s. 16; 1933, c. 360; 1935, c. 183.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to cover the provisions of the similar former enactments, secs. 2621(r) and 2610 at least in part.

Public Laws 1933, c. 360, inserted, near the beginning of this section, the word "or any vehicle known as a wrecker and owned by a dealer."

The amendment of 1935 adds to subsection (b), all of that subsection beginning with the words "except that any dealer or employer of any dealer may operate," etc., and including all of the provisos.

§ 2621(18). Manufacturer to give notice of sale or transfer.—Every manufacturer or dealer, upon transferring a motor vehicle, trailer or semi-trailer, whether by sale, lease or otherwise to any person other than the manufacturer or dealer shall, on or before the tenth of each month, give written report of all such transfers made during the preceding calendar month to the department upon the official form provided by the department. Every such report shall contain the date of such transfer, the names and addresses of the transferer and transferee and such description of the vehicle as may be called for in such official form. Every manufacturer or dealer shall keep a record of all vehicles received or sold containing such information regarding same as the department may require. (1927, c. 122, s. 17.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede sec. 2606.

§ 2621(19). Registration by non-resident.—(a) Non-residents of this State, except as otherwise provided in this act, will be exempt from the provisions of this act, as to the registration of motor vehicles for the same time and to the same extent as like exemptions are granted residents of this State under laws of another state, district or territory: Provided, that they shall have complied with the provisions of the law of the State, district or territory of their residence relative to the registration and equipment of their motor vehicles, and shall conspicuously display the registration plates, as required thereby, and have in their possession the registration certificate issued for such motor vehicles, and that nothing herein contained shall be construed to exempt any motor vehicle used for hire by a non-resident, or to permit a bona fide resident of this State to use any registration plate or plates from a foreign State, district or territory, under the provisions of this section.

Every non-resident, including any foreign corporation carrying on business within this State and owning and regularly operating in such business any motor vehicle, trailer or semi-trailer within this State, shall be required to register each such vehicle and pay the same fees therefor as is required with reference to like vehicles owned by residents of this State.

(b) The State Highway Commission shall determine what exemptions the non-resident automobile operators of the several States, districts, or territories, are entitled to under the provisions of this act, and ordain and publish rules and regulations for making effective the provisions of this act, which rules and regulations shall be observed and enforced by all the officers of this State whose duties require the enforcement of the automobile registration laws, and any violation of such rules and regulations shall constitute a misdemeanor. (1927, c. 122, s. 18; 1929, c. 258, s. 1; 1931, cc. 300, 439.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 struck out the first two paragraphs of the former section as taken from the Act of 1927, and inserted the first paragraph above in lieu thereof. The first 1931 amendment added subsection (b) to this section, and the other struck out a proviso formerly appearing at the end of the first paragraph of subsection (a) which provided that all persons operating cars in the State of North Carolina with foreign license tags thereon, whose respective States do not grant the reciprocity, shall be required to register said automobiles and obtain licenses within sixty days from the time of entering this State, and shall pay the fee prescribed therefor.

This section seems to supersede § 2611.

§ 2621(20). Lost certificates or number plates; duplicates to be obtained.—In the event that any certificate of title is lost, erased, mutilated or shall become illegible, the person who is entitled thereto shall make application for and obtain a duplicate therefor upon furnishing information of such fact satisfactory to the department and upon payment of a fee of fifty cents.

In the event that any number plate shall be lost, mutilated, stolen or become illegible, the person who is entitled thereto shall make immediate application for and obtain a replacement therefor upon furnishing information of such fact satisfactory to the department and upon the payment of a fee of one dollar. (1927, c. 122, s. 19; 1929, c. 272, s. 6; 1931, c. 148.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to cover the provisions of older enactments, sec. 2621(s) and the portion of sec. 2608 pertaining to the same subject-matter. By the Act of 1927 the fee for all duplicates was one dollar. This was changed to two by the Act of 1929. The Act of 1931 fixed the fees as now stated in this section.

§ 2621(21). Department authorized to assign new engine number.—The owner of a motor vehicle upon which the engine number or serial number has become illegible or has been removed or obliterated shall immediately make application to the department for a new engine or serial number for such motor vehicle. The department, when satisfied that the applicant is the lawful owner or possessor of the vehicle referred to in such application, is hereby authorized to assign a new engine or serial number thereto and shall require that such number, together with the name of this State or a symbol indicating this State, and the date of such assignment be stamped upon the engine or in the event such number is a serial number then upon such portion of the motor vehicle as shall be designated by the department. Whenever a new engine or serial number has been assigned to and stamped upon a motor vehicle as provided in this section the department shall insert such number upon the registration card and certificate of title issued for such motor vehicle. (1927, c. 122, s. 20.)

Editor's Note.—This provision seems to be new with this section.

§ 2621(22). Department to be notified when another engine is installed.—Whenever a motor vehicle registered hereunder is altered by the installation of another engine in place of an engine, the number of which is shown in the registration records, the owner of such motor vehicle shall immediately give notice to the department in writing on a form prepared by it, which shall state the number of the former engine and the number of the newly installed engine, the registration number of the motor vehicle, the name of the owner, and any other information which the department may require. Whenever another engine has been substituted as provided in this section and the notice given as required hereunder, the department shall insert the number of the newly installed engine upon the registration card and certificate of title issued for such motor vehicle. (1927, c. 122, s. 21.)

Editor's Note.—This provision seems to be new with this section.

§ 2621(23). Department to suspend registration upon notice of theft or embezzlement. — Whenever the owner of any motor vehicle, trailer or semi-trailer which is stolen or embezzled files an affidavit alleging either said fact with the department it shall immediately suspend the registration of such vehicle until such time as it shall be notified that the owner has recovered such vehicle, but notices given as heretofore provided shall be effective only during the current registration year in which given, but if during such year such vehicle is not recovered, a new affidavit may be filed with like effect during the ensuing year. Every owner who has filed an affidavit of theft or embezzlement must immediately notify the department of the recovery of such vehicle. (1927, c. 122, s. 22.)

Editor's Note.—This provision seems to be new with this section.

§ 2621(24). Altering or forging certificates of title a felony.—Any person who shall alter with fraudulent intent any certificate of title or registration card issued by the department, or forge or counterfeit any certificate of title or registration card purporting to have been issued by the department under the provisions of this act or who shall alter or falsify with fraudulent intent or forge any assignment thereof, or who shall hold or use any such certificate, registration card or assignment knowing the same to have been altered, forged or falsified, shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished as provided in section forty of this act. (1927, c. 122, s. 23.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to cover the provisions of a former enactment, see sec. 2621(t).

Refusal or Cancellation of Registration and Certificates of Title and Violations of Provisions Relating Thereto.

§ 2621(25). When registration or certificate of title shall be refused.—The department shall not grant an application for the registration of a vehicle or a certificate of title therefor in any of the following events:

(a) When the applicant therefor is not entitled thereto under the provisions of this act.

(b) When the applicant has neglected or refused to furnish the department with the information required in the appropriate official form or reasonable additional information required by the department.

(c) When the fees required therefor by law have not been paid. (1927, c. 122, s. 24.)

Editor's Note. — While this section supersedes sec. 2621(p), at least in part, it would seem that it fails to cover the entire subject-matter of that section. A provision is there found for a revocation of a certificate of title but this section makes no such provision.

§ 2621(26). When registration shall be rescinded. — (a) The department shall rescind and cancel the registration of any vehicle which the department shall determine is unsafe or unfit to be operated or is not equipped as required by law.

(b) The department shall rescind and cancel the registration of any vehicle whenever the person to whom the registration card or registration number plates therefor have been issued shall make or permit to be made any unlawful use of the same or permit the use thereof by a person not entitled thereto.

(c) The department shall rescind and cancel the license of any dealer to whom such license has been issued when such dealer allows his registration number plates to be used for other than demonstration purposes, fails to carry out the provisions of section 2621(17) subsection (b) and section 2621(18), or is convicted of a felony. (1927, c. 122, s. 25.)

Editor's Note.—While this section seems to supersede sec. 2621(p) as to the rescission of registration, it does not affect that section as to the revocation of the certificate of title.

§ 2621(27). Violations of registration provisions.—It shall be unlawful for any person to commit any of the following acts:

First. To operate or for the owner thereof knowingly to permit the operation upon a highway of any motor vehicle, trailer, or semi-trailer which is not registered or for which a certificate of title has not been issued, or which does not have attached thereto and displayed thereon the registration card in an unmutilated condition in the holder or container herein provided for, and the number plate or plates assigned thereto by the department for the current registration year, subject to the exemption mentioned in section sixteen of this act.

Second. To display or cause or permit to be displayed or to have in possession any registration card, certificate of title or registration number plate knowing the same to be fictitious or to have been canceled, revoked, suspended or altered.

Third. To lend or knowingly permit the use by one not entitled thereto any registration card or registration number plate issued to the person so lending or permitting the use thereof.

Fourth. To fail or refuse to surrender to the department, upon demand, any registration card or registration number plate which has been suspended, cancelled or revoked as in this act provided.

Fifth. To use a false or fictitious name or address in any application for the registration of any vehicle or for a certificate of title or for any renewal or duplicate thereof, or knowingly to make a false statement or knowingly to conceal a material fact or otherwise commit a fraud in any such application. (1927, c. 122, s. 26; 1929, c. 272, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The act of 1929 struck out the words "or holder therefor" formerly appearing after the word "card" in the second and fourth subsections of this section. This section seems to cover a part of the subject matter of § 2621(q).

§ 2621(28). Making false affidavit perjury. — Any person who shall knowingly make any false affidavit or shall knowingly swear or affirm falsely to any matter or thing required by the terms of this act to be sworn or affirmed or shall be guilty of perjury and upon conviction shall be punishable by a fine and imprisoned as other persons committing perjury are punishable. (1927, c. 122, s. 27.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to cover a part of the subject-matter of an older enactment, see sec. 2621(q).

§ 2621(29). Registration fees.—It shall be unlawful to operate upon the public highways of this state any motor vehicles, except the same shall be duly licensed according to the following schedules and classifications:

(a) Passenger Vehicles

There shall be paid to the department of revenue annually, as of the first day of January, for the registration and licensing of passenger vehicles, fees according to the following classifications and schedules:

(1) Franchise Bus Carriers. — Passenger motor vehicles operating under a franchise certificate issued by the corporation commission under chapter fifty of the public laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, and amendments thereto, for operation on the public highways of this state between fixed termini or over a regular route for the transportation of persons or property for compensation shall be classified as "franchise bus carriers."

(2) "U-Drive-It" Passenger Vehicles. — Passenger motor vehicles used for the purpose of rent or lease to be operated by the lessee shall be classified as "'u-drive-it' passenger vehicles."

(3) "For Hire" Passenger Vehicles.—Passenger motor vehicles engaged in the business of transporting passengers for compensation shall be classified as "'for hire' passenger vehicles"; but this classification shall not include motor vehicles of seven-passenger capacity or less operated by the owner where the cost of operation is shared by a neighbor fellow-workman between their homes and the place of regular daily employment.

(4) Excursion Passenger Vehicles. — Passenger vehicles kept and used for the purpose of transporting persons on sightseeing or travel tours shall be classified as "excursion passenger vehicles."

(5) Private Passenger Vehicles. — All other passenger vehicles not included in the above definitions shall be classified as "private passenger vehicles."

Schedule of Rates

(6) Franchise Bus Carriers. — Franchise bus carriers shall pay an annual license tax of ninety cents per hundred pounds weight of each vehicle unit, and in addition thereto six per cent of the gross revenue derived from such operation: Provided, said additional six per cent shall not be collectible unless and until and only to the extent that such amount exceeds the license tax of ninety cents per hundred pounds; and provided further, that franchise bus carriers operated between point or points within this state and point or points without this state shall be required to account as compensation for the use of the highways of this state and the special privileges extended such carriers by this state, in computing the six per cent tax, only on that proportion of the gross earnings which correspond to the proportion of mileage in this state as compared with the total mileage, but in no event shall the tax paid by such franchise bus carriers be less than ninety cents per hundred pounds weight for each vehicle. In computing said gross earnings, revenue derived from transportation of United States mail, or other United States Government services, shall not be included, and amounts expended for tolls in using toll bridges shall be deducted from gross revenues. All revenue, except as hereinbefore provided, collected by such franchise bus carriers, whether on fixed schedule routes or by special trips, shall be included in the gross income upon which said tax is based.

(7) "U-Drive-It" Passenger Vehicles. — "U-Drive-It" passenger vehicles shall pay the following tax:

Motorcycles:

1 passenger capacity	$12.00
2 passenger capacity	15.00
3 passenger capacity	18.00

Automobiles:

One dollar and ninety cents per hundred pounds weight of each such vehicle.

(8) "For Hire" Passenger Vehicles.—"For hire" passenger vehicles shall be taxed at a rate of one dollar and ninety cents per hundred pounds of weight.

(9) Excursion Passenger Vehicles. — Excursion passenger vehicles shall be taxed at the rate of eight dollars per passenger capacity, with a minimum charge of twenty-five dollars.

(10) Private Passenger Vehicles.—Private passenger vehicles shall be taxed at forty cents per hundred pounds of weight or major fraction thereof, according to the manufacturer's shipping weight: Provided, that no fee for any private passenger vehice shall be less than eight dollars. Private passenger motorcycles shall pay for each motorcycle five dollars, and for each side-car five dollars.

(11) Motor Vehicle Dealers.—Dealers in motor vehicles for demonstration tags shall pay as a registration fee and for one set of plates, twenty-five dollars, and for each additional set of plates one dollar.

(12) Licensees Protected.—No person, partnership, association or corporation shall maintain an office or place of business in which or through which persons desiring transportation for themselves or their baggage are brought into contact by advertisement or otherwise with persons owning or operating motor vehicles and willing to transport other persons, or baggage, for compensation, or on a division of expense basis, unless the owner or operator of such motor vehicle furnishing the transportation has qualified under the tax provisions of this act for the class of service he holds himself out to perform.

(b) Property Hauling Vehicles

There shall be paid to the department of revenue annually, as of the first day of January, for the registration and licensing of trucks, truck-tractors, trailers, and semi-trailers, fees according to the following classifications and schedules:

The term "for hire" as used in these classifications shall include every arrangement by which the owner of a motor vehicle for compensation permits such vehicle to be used for the transportation of the property of another: Provided, it shall not be construed to include an arrangement by which two or more farmers share in the cost of transporting their farm produce or livestock from the farm to the first or primary market, whether the truck be jointly or severally owned.

(1) Contract Hauler Vehicles. — Motor vehicles used for the transportation of property for hire, but not licensed as common carriers under the provisions of chapter one hundred thirty-six of the public laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, and amendments thereof, shall be classified as "contract hauler vehicles": Provided, this classification shall not include persons distributing goods of another on consignment, on conditional sale, or on commission basis.

(2) Franchise Hauler Vehicles. — Motor vehicles used for the transportation of property on specified routes between fixed termini, with the right to make occasional trips off said route, as provided in chapter one hundred and thirty-six of the public laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, and amendments thereof, shall be classified as "franchise hauler vehicles"; Provided, only such vehicles shall be so classified as the corporation commission shall determine to be reasonably necessary for the proper handling of the business on the said route, and the determination so arrived at duly certified by the corporation commission to the motor vehicle department.

(3) Private Hauler Vehicles. — All motor vehicles used for the transportation of property not falling within the above defined classification shall be classified as "private hauler vehicles."

(4) Determination of Weight. — For the purpose of licensing, the weight of the several classes of motor vehicles used for transportation of property shall be gross weight and load, to be determined by the manufacturer's gross weight capacity as shown in an authorized national publication, such as commercial car journal or the statistical issue of automotive industries, all such weights subject to verification by the commissioner of revenue or his authorized deputy, and if no such gross weight on any vehicle is available in such publication, then the gross weight shall be determined by the commissioner of revenue or his authorized agent, but such calculation shall be made only in units of one thousand pounds or major fractions thereof, weights of less than five hundred pounds being disregarded and weights of five hundred pounds or over being counted as one thousand. Semi-trailers, licensed for use in connection with a truck-tractor, shall in no case be licensed for less gross weight capacity than the truck-tractor with which it is to be operated.

Schedule of Rates

(5) Rate Per Hundred Pounds Gross Weight:

	Private Hauler	Contract Hauler	Franchise Hauler (Deposit)
Gross weight under 8,000 pounds	$ .40	$ .85	$ .60
8,000 pounds to 12,500, inclusive	.50	1.00	.60
Over 12,500 pounds to 16,000, inclusive	.60	1.15	.60
Over 16,000 pounds	.70	1.30	.60

The minimum rate for any vehicle licensed under this section shall be fifteen dollars.

The rate on trucks wholly or partially equipped with solid tires shall be double the above schedule.

(6) Franchise Haulers. — Franchise haulers shall pay an annual license tax as per the above schedule of weight of each vehicle unit (except on trucks licensed for inter-state routes and used exclusively for inter-state business, where more than fifty per cent of the designated route lies outside of the state of North Carolina, the required deposit may be reduced by the commissioner of revenue to fifty per cent of the schedule rate), and in addition thereto six per cent of the gross revenue derived from such operation: Provided, said additional six per cent shall not be collectible unless and until and only to the extent that such amount exceeds the license tax per the above schedule; and provided further, that franchise haulers operated between point or points within this state and point or points without this state shall be required to account as compensation for the use of the highways of this state and the special privileges extended such carriers by this state in computing the six percent tax only on that proportion of the gross earnings which correspond to the proportion of the mileage in this state as compared with the total mileage, but in no event shall the tax paid by such franchise haulers be less than the license tax shown on the above schedule. In computing said gross earnings, revenue derived from transportation of United States mail, or other United States government services, shall not be included. All revenue, except as hereinbefore provided, collected by such franchise haulers, whether on fixed schedule routes or by special trips, shall be included in the gross income upon which said tax is based. All motor vehicles licensed as contract hauler vehicles, and franchise hauler vehicles, shall have printed on the side thereof in letters not less than three inches in height the name and home address of the owner. Before issuing any license plates to a franchise hauler, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of revenue to either satisfy himself of the financial responsibility of such licensee or to require a bond or deposit in such amount as he may deem necessary to insure the collection of the tax imposed by this section.

(7) Identification of Trailers. — The application for license for any trailer or semi-trailer shall show the manufacturer's serial number; and if such vehicle has no identifying serial number, the commissioner of revenue shall assign to such vehicle a distinguishing serial number, which number shall be permanently affixed to such vehicle in a manner to be prescribed by rules and regulations issued by the commissioner of revenue, and it shall be unlawful to use the license issued for such vehicle upon any other vehicle.

(8) Partial Payments. — In the purchase of licenses, where the gross amount of the license to any one owner amounts to more than four hundred dollars, half of such payment may be deferred until April first in any calendar year upon the execution to the commissioner of revenue of a draft upon any bank or trust company upon forms to be provided by the commissioner of revenue in an amount equivalent to one-half of such tax, plus a carrying charge of two per cent; Provided, that any person using any tag so purchased after the first day of April in any such year, without having first provided for the payment of such draft, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any such drafts being dishonored and not paid shall be immediately turned over by the commissioner of revenue to his duly authorized agents and/or the state highway patrol, to the end that this provision may be enforced.

(9) Overloading. — The commissioner of revenue, or his authorized agent, may allow any owner of a motor vehicle for transportation of property to overload said vehicle by paying the fee at the rate per hundred pounds which would be assessed against such vehicle if its rated capacity provided for such load; but such calculation shall be made only in units of one thousand pounds or major fractions thereof, excessive weights of less than five hundred pounds being disregarded and weights of five hundred pounds or over being counted as one thousand.

(10) Foreign Vehicles. — Motor vehicles engaged in the transportation of persons or property and duly licensed in any other state or territory, desiring to make occasional trips into or through the state of North Carolina, may be permitted the same use and privileges of the highways of this state as provided for similar vehicles regularly licensed in this state by procuring from the commissioner of revenue trip licenses upon forms and under rules and regulations to be adopted by the commissioner of revenue, good for use for a period of thirty days, upon the payment of a fee in compensation for said privileges equivalent to one-tenth of the annual fee which would be chargeable against said vehicle if regularly licensed in this state: Provided, however, that nothing in this provision shall prevent the extension of the privileges of the use of the roads of this state to vehicles of other states under the reciprocity provisions now provided by law; and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the owners of vehicles from other states from licensing such vehicles in the state of North Carolina under the same terms and the same fees as like vehicles are licensed by owners resident in this state. (1927, c. 122, s. 28; 1929, c. 272, s. 7; 1931, cc. 336, 362; 1933, c. 375, s. 1, c. 533; 1935, c. 403.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede sec. 2612.

For another provision requiring peace officers to weigh and remove excessive loads, see sec. 2621(79).

Public Laws of 1933, c. 375, repealed this section as it formerly read and substituted the above in lieu thereof. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

Under (a) Passenger Vehicles, subsection (10) Private Passenger Vehicles, the amendment of 1935 reduced the tax from fifty-five cents per hundred weight to forty cents per hundred weight, and reduced the minimum fee from twelve dollars and fifty cents to eight dollars.

§ 2621(29)a. License fee for semi-trailers towed by passenger cars.—No fee for any truck, or truck-tractor shall be less than fifteen dollars ($15.00): Provided, the license fee for a semi-trailer with gross weight of vehicle and load not exceeding 1,500 pounds and towed by a passenger car shall be two dollars ($2.00) for any part of the license year for which said license is issued, and the license fee for a semi-trailer with the gross weight for vehicle and load of more than 1,500 pounds but not more than 2,500 pounds and towed by a passenger car shall be ten dollars ($10.00) for the entire year, subject to the provision for quarterly license as provided for other vehicles. (1933, c. 73, s. 1; 1935, c. 405.)

Editor's Note.—The proviso relating to license fees for semi-trailers was changed by the 1935 amendment.

Quoted in Love v. Queen City Lines, 206 N. C. 575, 578, 174 S. E. 514.

§ 2621(30). Exempt from registration fees.—The department, upon proper proof being filed with it that any motor vehicle for which license is herein required is owned by the state or any department thereof, or by any county, township, city or town, or by any board of education, or by any orphanage, shall collect one dollar for the registration and numbering of such motor vehicles: Provided, that the term "owned" shall be construed to mean that such motor vehicle is the actual property of the state or some department thereof, or of the county, township, city or town, or of the board of education, or orphanage, and no motor vehicle which is the property of any officer or employee of any department or orphanage named herein shall be construed as being "owned" by such department or orphanage. Provided, that the above exemption from registration fees shall also apply to a church-owned bus used exclusively for transporting children and parents to Sunday school and church services and for no other purpose.

The word "orphanage" shall be construed to mean only those institutions that are recognized by the state board of charities and public welfare as charitable institutions for the care of children. (1927, c. 122, s. 29; 1929, c. 209, s. 1; 1933, c. 221, s. 1, c. 375, s. 1; 1935, c. 425.

Editor's Note.—For a corresponding provision in former law, see sec. 2621(j) 1.

This section seems to supersede sec. 2611(g) as to exemptions, etc.

Public Laws 1933, c. 375, repealed this section as it formerly read and substituted the above in lieu thereof. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes. Public Laws 1933, c. 221, amended the former section by inserting the words "or orphanages."

The amendment of 1935 struck out the word "orphanages" in the sixth line of the sentence and substituted "by any orphanage." It also changed "orphanages" to "orphanage" as that word appears subsequently in the section. And, finally, it added the words "for the care of children" at the end of the section in place of the words "child caring" which formerly preceded the word "institutions."

§ 2621(31). Collection of delinquent taxes by duress.—Whenever any tax imposed by this act shall be in default for a period of ten days, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of revenue to certify the same to the sheriff of any county of this state in which such delinquent motor vehicle operator is operating, which said certificate to said sheriff shall have all the force and effect of a judgment and execution, and the said sheriff is hereby authorized and directed to levy upon any property in said county owned by the said delinquent motor vehicle operator, and to sell the same for the payment of said tax as other property is sold in the state for the non-payment of taxes; and for such services the sheriff shall be allowed the fees now prescribed by law for sales under execution, and the cost in such cases shall be paid by the delinquent taxpayer or out of the proceeds of the said property; and upon the filing of said certificate with the sheriff, in the event the delinquent taxpayer shall be the operator of any franchise bus carrier or franchise hauler vehicle, the franchise certificate issued to such operator shall become null and void and shall be canceled by the corporation commission, and it shall be unlawful for any such franchise bus carrier or the operator of any franchise hauler vehicle to continue the operation under said franchise. (1927, c. 122, s. 30; 1929, c. 272, s. 8; 1933, c. 375, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede § 2613(b). Public Laws 1933, c. 375, repealed this section as it formerly read and substituted the above in lieu thereof. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

§ 2621(31)a. Transfer of license.—Upon the legal transfer of the title of any vehicle licensed under the provisions of this act by foreclosure sale under chattel mortgage or retained title contract, the purchaser of said vehicle at such sale shall acquire the right to operate such vehicle for the remainder of the license period under the license plates issued for said vehicle, upon complying with the provisions of law with reference to the transfer of title; but this provision, insofar as it may relate to franchise bus carriers or franchise hauler vehicles, is subject to the regulations now in effect or hereafter established by the corporation commission with respect to the regulation of such vehicles. Upon satisfactory proof to the commissioner of revenue that any motor vehicle, duly licensed, has been completely destroyed by fire or collision, the owner of such vehicle may be allowed on the purchase of a new license for another vehicle a credit equivalent to the unexpired proportion of the cost of the original license, dating from the first day of the next month after the date of such destruction. (1933, c. 375, s. 1.)

§ 2621(31)b. Quarterly payments.—Licenses issued on or after April first of each year and before July first shall be three-fourths of the annual fee, licenses issued on or after July first and before October first shall be one-half of the annual fee; and licenses issued on or after October first shall be one-fourth of the annual fee. (1933, c. 375, s. 1.)

§ 2621(31)c. Taxes compensatory.—All taxes levied under the provisions of this act are intended as compensatory taxes for the use and privileges of the public highways of this state, and shall be paid by the commissioner of revenue to the state treasurer, to be credited by him to the state highway fund; and no county or municipality shall levy any license or privilege tax upon the use of any motor vehicle licensed by the state of North Carolina, except that cities and towns may levy not more than one dollar per year upon any such vehicle resident therein. (1933, c. 375, s. 1.)

§ 2621(31)d. No other state license taxes imposed.—No additional franchise tax, license tax, or other fee shall be imposed by the state against any franchised motor vehicle carrier taxed under this act, nor shall any county, city or town impose a franchise tax, or other fee upon them. (1933, c. 375, s. 1.)

§ 2621(31)e. Effect on existing law; current license unaffected.—This act [§§ 2621(29), 2621(30), 2621(31) of this Code Supplement] is intended to take the place of and be a substitute for sections one hundred and sixty-five and two hundred and nine of the revenue act one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one [§§ 7880(96) and 7880(117) of the Code of 1931]. Nothing in this act shall be construed to repeal or amend the act of 1933, c. 73, herein codified as section 2621(29)a. This act shall be in full force and effect from and after July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three, but it shall not have the effect of cancelling or annulling any motor vehicle license for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three which shall have been issued and paid for prior to that date. (1933, c. 375, ss. 2, 3, 5.)

Unlawful Taking, Transfer of or Injury to Vehicle

§ 2621(32). Driving vehicle without owner's consent.—Any person who shall drive a vehicle not his own, without the consent of the owner thereof and in the absence of the owner, and with intent to temporarily deprive the owner thereof of his possession of such vehicle, without intent to steal the same, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The consent of the owner of a vehicle to its taking or driving shall not in any case be presumed or implied because of such owner's consent on a previous occasion to the taking or driving of such vehicle by the same or a different person. Any person who assists in, or is a party or accessory to, or an accomplice in, any such unauthorized taking or driving, shall also be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1927, c. 122, s. 31.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to replace sec. 2621 of the prior law.

An indictment charging larceny and receiving does not include a charge of driving a motor vehicle without the knowledge or consent of the owner, and a defendant charged in the indictment only with larceny and receiving may not be convicted under this section. State v. Stinnett, 203 N. C. 829, 167 S. E. 63.

§ 2621(33). Receiving or transferring stolen vehicle.—Any person who with intent to procure or pass title to a motor vehicle which he knows or has reason to believe has been stolen shall receive or transfer possession of the same from or to another, or who shall have in his possession any motor vehicle which he knows or has reason to believe has been stolen, and who is not an officer of the law engaged at the time in the performance of his duty as such officer, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction shall be punished as provided in section fifty of this act. (1927, c. 122, s. 32.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede sec. 2621(q) as to the transfer of stolen motor vehicles.

§ 2621(34). Injuring vehicle.—Any person who shall individually, or in association with one or more others, wilfully break, injure, tamper with or remove any part or parts of any vehicle for the purpose of injuring, defacing or destroying such vehicle, or temporarily or permanently preventing its useful operation, or for any purpose against the will or without the consent of the owner of such vehicle, or who shall in any other manner wilfully or maliciously interfere with or prevent the running or operation of such vehicle, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1927, c. 122, s. 33.)

Editor's Note.—This provision seems to be new with this section.

§ 2621(35). Removal of serial number.—Every person within this State is hereby prohibited from knowingly buying, selling, receiving, disposing of or concealing any automobile, motor car, or motor vehicle from which the manufacturer's serial number or any other distinguishing number or identification mark has been removed, defaced, covered, altered, or destroyed, for the purpose of concealing or misrepresenting the identity of said automobile, motor car, or motor vehicle. Every person within this State is hereby prohibited from mutilating or removing manufacturer's serial number or other distinguishing number or identification mark for the purpose of concealing or misrepresenting the identity of said automobile, motor car or motor vehicle. Any person violating the provisions of this section, and any person who shall knowingly buy, sell, receive, dispose of, or conceal any automobile, motor car, or motor vehicle from which the manufacturer's serial number or any other distinguishing number or identification mark has been removed, defaced, covered, altered, or destroyed, for the purpose of concealment or misrepresenting the identity of said automobile, motor car, or motor vehicle, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section shall not apply to automobiles in the possession of innocent purchaser who acquired title or possession prior to March fourth, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen. (1927, c. 122, s. 34.)

Editor's Note.—This provision seems to be new with this section.

§ 2621(36). Tampering with vehicle. — Any person who shall without the consent of the owner or person in charge of a vehicle climb into or upon such vehicle with the intent to commit any crime, malicious mischief, or injury thereto, or who while a vehicle is at rest and unattended shall attempt to manipulate any of the levers, starting crank or other starting device, brakes or other mechanism thereof, or to set said vehicle in motion, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, except that the foregoing provisions shall not apply when any such act is done in an emergency in furtherance of public safety or convenience or by or under the direction of officer in the regulation of traffic or performance of any other official duty. (1927, c. 122, s. 35.)

Editor's Note.—This provision seems to be new with this enactment.

§ 2621(37). Report of stolen and recovered motor vehicles.—It shall be the duty of the sheriff of every county of the State and of the chief of police or commissioner of police of every city or incorporated town to make immediate report to the commissioner of all motor vehicles reported to him as stolen or recovered upon forms provided by the commissioner. Upon receipt of such information the commissioner shall file the same in an index to be known as the "stolen and recovered motor vehicle index." It shall also be the duty of the commissioner to file reports of stolen and recovered motor vehicles reported to him from other states. The commissioner shall publish once a month a list of all motor vehicles stolen or recovered during the previous month, and forward a copy of the same to every sheriff, and all police departments in cities with over ten thousand inhabitants. Such list shall also be forwarded to the commissioner or other proper official in each state of the United States. Before issuing a certificate of title, as heretofore provided, the commissioner shall check the motor and serial number on the motor vehicle to be registered against the "stolen and recovered motor vehicle index." It shall also be the duty of every Sheriff of every county of the State and of every police or peace officer of the State to make immediate report to the Commissioner of all motor vehicles reported to him as abandoned or that are seized by him for being used for illegal transportation of intoxicating liquors or other unlawful purposes, and no motor vehicle shall be sold by any Sheriff, police or peace officer, or by any person, firm or corporation claiming a mechanic's or storage lien, or under judicial proceedings, until notice shall have been given the Commissioner at least thirty days before the date of such sale.

No person, firm or corporation, except the registered owner, as herein defined, shall dissemble any motor vehicle without first giving due notice to the Department of such intention to dissemble, said notice setting out in detail a full description of vehicle to be dissembled, including all identifying numbers and source of said vehicle. (1927, c. 122, s. 36; 1929, c. 272, s. 9.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to cover the terms of a prior enactment and supersedes it. See sec. 2621(u). The Act of 1929 added the last two sentences to this section.

§ 2621(38). Used as evidence. — The registry or duly certified copy of any deed of trust, mortgage, conditional sale or title retaining contract on any motor vehicle when recorded as herein provided for may be given as evidence in any court of this State. (1927, c. 122, s. 37.)

Editor's Note.—This provision was new with this enactment.

Exemption of Busses from Operation of Motor Vehicle Act

§ 2621(39). Exemption. — This act shall in no way apply to automobiles, trucks or buses operated under and by virtue of a license certificate granted by the Corporation Commission of North Carolina under authority of chapter fifty, Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, and amendments thereto. (1927, c. 122, s. 38.)

Penalties

§ 2621(40). Penalty for misdemeanor.—(a) It shall be unlawful and constitute a misdemeanor for any person to violate any of the provisions of this act unless such violation is by this act or other law of this State declared to be a felony.

(b) Unless another penalty is in this act or by the laws of this State provided, every person convicted of a misdemeanor for the violation of any provision of this act shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the county or municipal jail for not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Provided, that upon conviction for the following offenses: Operating motor vehicles without displaying a number plate issued therefor, or who shall make or permit to be made any unlawful use of the same, or permit the use thereof to a person not entitled thereto, the punishment therefor shall be a fine not to exceed fifty dollars ($50.00) and not less than ten dollars ($10.00) or imprisonment not to exceed thirty days for each offense. (1927, c. 122, s. 39; 1929, c. 272, s. 10.)

Editor's Note.—This and the following section seem to supersede, at least in part, section 2599.

The Act of 1929 added the proviso to this section.

§ 2621(41). Penalty for felony. — Any person who shall be convicted of a violation of any of the provisions of this article herein or by the laws of this State declared to constitute a felony shall, unless a different penalty is prescribed herein or by the laws of this state, be punished by imprisonment in the State prison for a term not less than one year nor more than five years, or by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment. (1927, c. 122, s. 40.)

§ 2621(42). Short title. — This article may be cited as the Motor Vehicle Act. (1927, c. 122, s. 41.)

Art. 8. Uniform Act Regulating Operation of Vehicles on Highways

§ 2621(43). Definitions.—The following words and phrases when used in this article shall for the purpose of this act have the meanings respectively ascribed to them in this section, except in those instances where the context clearly indicates a different meaning:

(a) "Vehicle." Every device in, upon or by which any person or property is or may be transported or drawn upon a public highway, excepting devices moved by human power or used exclusively upon stationary rails, or tracks; provided, that for the purpose of this act, a bicycle or a ridden animal shall be deemed a vehicle.

(b) "Motor Vehicle." Every vehicle, as herein defined, which is self-propelled, and every vehicle which is propelled by electric power obtained from trolley wires but not not operated upon rails.

(c) "Motorcycle." Every motor vehicle designed to travel on not more than three wheels in contact with the ground except any such vehicle as may be included within the term "tractor" as herein defined.

(d) "Truck Tractor." Every motor vehicle designed and used primarily for drawing other vehicles and not so constructed as to carry a load other than a part of the weight of the vehicle and load so drawn.

(e) "Farm Tractor." Every motor vehicle designed and used primarily as a farm implement for drawing plows, mowing machines and other implements of husbandry.

(f) "Road Tractor." Every motor vehicle designed and used for drawing other vehicles and not so constructed as to carry any load thereon either independently of any part of the weight of a vehicle or load so drawn.

(g) "Trailer." Every vehicle without motive power designed for carrying property or passengers wholly on its own structure and for being drawn by a motor vehicle.

(h) "Semi-trailer." Every vehicle of the trailer type so designed and used in conjunction with a motor vehicle that some part of its own weight or that of its own load rests upon or is carried by another vehicle.

(i) "Pneumatic Tires." All tires inflated with compressed air.

(j) "Solid Rubber Tire." Every tire made of rubber other than pneumatic tire.

(k) "Metal Tires." All tires the surface of which in contact with the highway is wholly or partly of metal or other hard, non-resilient material.

(l) "Person." Every natural person, firm, copartnership, association or corporation.

(m) "Owner." A person who holds the legal title of a vehicle or in the event a vehicle is the subject of an agreement for the conditional sale or lease thereof with the right of purchase upon performance of the conditions stated in the agreement and with an immediate right of possession vested in the conditional vendee or lessee, or in the event of mortgagor of a vehicle is entitled to possession, then such conditional vendee or lessee or mortgagor shall be deemed the owner for the purpose of this act.

(n) "Street or Highway." The entire width between property lines of every way or place of whatever nature, when any part thereof is open to the use of the public as a matter of right for the purposes of vehicular traffic.

(o) "Private Road or Driveway." Every road or driveway not open to the use of the public for purposes of vehicular travel.

(p) "Intersection." The area embraced within the prolongation of the lateral curb lines or, if none, then the lateral boundary lines of two or more highways which join one another at an angle, whether or not one such highway crosses the other.

(q) "Safety Zone." The area or space officially set aside within a highway for the exclusive use of pedestrians and which is so plainly marked or indicated by proper signs as to be plainly visible at all times while set apart as a safety zone.

(r) "Right of Way." The privilege of the immediate use of the highway.

(s) "Business District." The territory contiguous to a highway when fifty per cent or more of frontage thereon for a distance of three hundred feet or more is occupied by buildings in use for business.

(t) "Residence District." The territory contiguous to a highway not comprising a business district when the frontage on such highway for a distance of three hundred feet or more is mainly occupied by dwellings or by dwellings and buildings in use for business.

(u) "Commission." The State Highway Commission of this State acting directly or through its duly authorized officers and agents.

(v) "Commissioner." The Chairman of the State Highway Commission of this State.

(w) "Local Authorities." Every county, municipal and other local board or body having authority to adopt local police regulations under the constitution and laws of this State.

(x) "Explosives." Any chemical compound or mechanical mixture that is commonly used or intended for the purpose of producing an explosion and which contains any oxidizing and combustive units or other ingredients in such proportions, quantities, or packing that an ignition by fire, by friction, by concussion, by percussion, or by a detonator of any part of the compound or mixture may cause such a sudden generation of highly heated gases that the resultant gaseous pressures are capable of producing destructible effects on contiguous objects or of destroying life or limb.

(y) "Flammable liquid." Any liquid which has a flash point of seventy degrees Fahrenheit, or less, as determined by a tabliabue or equivalent closed cuptest device. (1927, c. 148, s. 1; 1935, c. 311, s. 1.)

For the definitions of terms, many of which are here defined, used in the other acts regulating the use, etc., of motor vehicles, see section 2598, 2613(i), 2613(j), 2621(i) and 2621(1).

See annotations to § 2618(a).

Editor's Note.—The act codified under this article is the Uniform Act proposed by the Commissioners on Uniform State Laws appointed by the American Bar Association. The Act was proposed in 1925, North Carolina being one of the first States to adopt it.

Although the Uniform Act has been adopted with modifications and the changes made will be pointed out under the appropriate sections. It is to be presumed that this act was intended to supersede the prior law, article four of this chapter, sections 2614-2621. However, the Legislature did not express this purpose and it will probably be held to supersede it only to the extent that they conflict or the Uniform Act makes specific regulations which would exclude the operation of the old law. The probable effect of each section will be pointed out in the editor's notes thereunder. Although the statutes are in most, if not all instances superseded, the cases construing them have been inserted in the notes thereunder, because, since the new law generally follows the old such cases will be of value in construing this act.

The Uniform Act contains two sections, the first requiring a report of the accident by the driver of any vehicle involved in accident resulting in injury or death to any person or property damage to the extent of $10 within 24 hours to certain designated officials, and the second requiring garage keepers or repair shops, to report any motor vehicle which shows evidence of accident or of having been struct by a bullet. Neither section was incorporated in this act. They are placed in the Uniform Acts between sections here appearing as sections 2621 (17)-2621 (72).

It also contains a section which appears between what is here sections 2621 (92), 2621 (93) a provision requiring the testing and approval of lights and provided the method. This section is omitted from the law of this State and the section in the Uniform Act on appearances upon arrest for misdemeanors was also omitted. It would appear between sections 2621 (104)-(105) if inserted.

The amendment of 1935 added the clause to subsection (b) reading "and every vehicle propelled by electric power," etc. It struck out subsection (n) which defined "highway" and substituted the present (n) defining "street or highway," and finally it added subsections (x) and (y).

Motorcycle. — Statutory definition cited in Anderson v. Life, etc., Ins. Co., 197 N. C. 72, 76, 147 S. E. 693, holding that the expression "motor driven car" in an insurance policy excludes a motorcycle.

Intersection.—Under this section where one public highway joins another but does not cross it, the point where they join is an intersection of public highways. Goss v. Williams, 196 N. C. 213, 145 S. E. 169, citing Vartanian, Law of Automobiles, Part II, chapter 1, p. 414, note.

Operation of Vehicles; and Rules of the Road

§ 2621(44). Persons under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drugs.—It shall be unlawful and punishable as provided in section 2621(101) of this act for any person whether licensed or not who is an habitual user of narcotic drugs or any person who is under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drugs to drive any vehicle upon the highway within this state. (1927, c. 148, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—Substantially the same prohibition as contained in this section appears in the law of a great majority of the United States. The similar provision in the former law of this State is to be found in section 2614, although under that section the prohibition was against driving while intoxicated and not merely under the influence of intoxicating liquors. There was no specific provision against driving under the influence of narcotic drugs.

See the annotation under section 2614.

Death caused by a violation of this section may be manslaughter but a condition precedent to conviction is that the violation of the law in this respect must have caused the wreck and the death of deceased. State v. Dills, 204 N. C. 33, 167 S. E. 459.

One who drives his automobile, in violation of § 2621(43) or this section, and runs into another car and thereby proximately causes the death of one of the occupants, is guilty of manslaughter at least. State v. Stansell, 203 N. C. 69, 74, 164 S. E. 580.

Circumstantial Evidence May Suffice.—Though the evidence on the part of the State as to violation of this and the following section is circumstantial, it may be sufficient to be submitted to a jury. State v. Newton, 207 N. C. 323, 326, 177 S. E. 184.

Cited in State v. Palmer, 197 N. C. 135, 147 S. E. 817.

§ 2621(45). Reckless driving.—Any person who drives any vehicle upon a highway carelessly and heedlessly in wilful or wanton disregard of the rights or safety of others, or without due caution and circumspection and at a speed or in a manner so as to endanger or be likely to endanger any person or property, shall be guilty of reckless driving and upon conviction shall be punished as provided in section 2621(102). (1927, c. 148, s. 3.)

See the note to § 2621(44).

Editor's Note.—Prior to this enactment there was no specific provision similar to this section, except there was a general reference in section 2618.

It was pointed out by the commissioners that the statutes of the various states define reckless driving according to two theories; (1) Wilfully and wantonly driving a vehicle in a reckless manner so as to endanger the life, limb or property of others. Such provisions carry severe minimum and maximum punishments. (2) Reckless driving has been defined by the other class of statutes to include simple negligence and practically every violation of the law of the road. Thus defined a charge of reckless driving is made in most all violation of traffic laws which do not involve actual danger to life, limb or property. Such statutes carry mild penalties.

It will be observed that this section classifies under (1) above and does not refer to the violations mentioned under (2).

See the annotations under section 2614.

As to general powers of local authorities with respect to regulation, see section 2621(73), 2621(63) and 2601.

Surrounding Circumstances Govern Case.—Driving an automobile with tires which are known to be worn out and slick, on a highway which is wet and slippery, at a rate of speed not ordinarily unlawful, under this section may be unlawful under all the circumstances shown by the evidence. Waller v. Hipp, 208 N. C. 117, 120, 179 S. E. 428.

Care Required in Emergency.—While the operator of a public automobile is obligated to exercise a high degree of care, he is not charged with the necessity, either of possessing superhuman powers of anticipation or of exercising such powers in a threatened emergency. Love v. Queen City Lines, 206 N. C. 575, 579, 174 S. E. 514.

Violation of Traffic Ordinance.—Under this definition, the simple violation of a traffic regulation, which does not involve actual danger to life, limb or property, while importing civil liability if damage or injury ensue, would not perforce constitute the criminal offense of reckless driving. State v. Cope, 204 N. C. 28, 31, 167 S. E. 456.

Proximate Cause is Question for Jury.—The violation of this and succeeding sections enacted for the safety of those driving upon the highway is negligence per se, and when such violation is admitted or established the question of proximate cause is ordinarily for the jury. King v. Pope, 202 N. C. 554, 163 S. E. 447; Godfrey v. Queen City Coach Co., 201 N. C. 264, 267, 159 S. E. 412.

Sufficiency of Evidence for Jury. — Evidence that the individual defendant drove his car in a negligent manner in violation of this section and §§ 2621(51), (54), (55), and (71a) and that such negligence proximately caused injury to the plaintiff is held sufficient to have been submitted to the jury. Puckett v. Dyer, 203 N. C. 684, 167 S. E. 43.

The better rule under this and the following section is that except where the evidence is so conclusive that there could be, in the minds of reasonable men, no doubt as to the plaintiff's negligence contributing to the injury, the question should be left to the jury. Morris v. Sells-Floto Circus, 65 F. (2d) 782, 784.

§ 2621(46). Speed Restrictions.—

(a) No person shall drive a vehicle on a highway at a speed greater than is reasonable and prudent under the conditions then existing.

(b) Where no special hazard exists the following speeds shall be lawful, but any speed in excess of said limits shall be prima facie evidence that the speed is not reasonable or prudent and that it is unlawful:

1. Twenty miles per hour in any business district;

2. Twenty-five miles per hour in any residence district;

3. Thirty-five miles per hour for motor vehicle designed, equipped for, or engaged in transporting property; and thirty miles per hour for such motor vehicle to which a trailer is attached;

4. Forty-five miles per hour under other conditions.

(c) The fact that the speed of a vehicle is lower than the foregoing prima facie limits shall not relieve the driver from the duty to decrease speed when approaching and crossing an intersection, when approaching and going around a curve, when approaching a hill crest, when traveling upon any narrow or winding roadway, or when special hazard exists with respect to pedestrians or other traffic or by reason of weather or highway conditions, and speed shall be decreased as may be necessary to avoid colliding with any person, vehicle, or other conveyance on or entering the highway in compliance with legal requirements and the duty of all persons to use due care.

(d) Whenever the state highway and public works commission shall determine upon the basis of an engineering and traffic investigation that any prima facie speed hereinbefore set forth is greater than is reasonable or safe under the conditions found to exist at any intersection or other place or upon any part of a highway, said commission shall determine and declare a reasonable and safe prima facie speed limit thereat which shall be effective when appropriate signs giving notice thereof are erected at such intersection or other place or part of the highway.

(e) The foregoing provisions of this section shall not be construed to relieve the plaintiff in any civil action from the burden of proving negligence upon the part of the defendant as the proximate cause of an accident.

(f) Whenever local authorities within their respective jurisdictions determine upon the basis of an engineering and traffic investigation that the prima facie speed permitted under this section at any intersection is greater than is reasonable or safe under the conditions found to exist at such intersection, such local authority shall determine and declare a reasonable and safe prima facie speed limit thereat, which shall be effective when appropriate signs giving notice thereof are erected at such intersection or upon the approaches thereto.

(g) Local authorities in their respective jurisdictions may in their discretion authorize by ordinance higher prima facie speeds than those stated in subsection (b) herein upon through highways or upon highways or portions thereof where there are no intersections or between widely spaced intersections, provided signs are erected giving notice of the authorized speed, but local authorities shall not have authority to modify or alter the basic rule set forth in subsection (a) herein or in any event to authorize by ordinance a speed in excess of forty-five miles per hour.

(h) No person shall drive a motor vehicle at such a slow speed as to impede or block the normal and reasonable movement of traffic except when reduced speed is necessary for safe operation or in compliance with law. Police officers are hereby authorized to enforce this provision by directions to drivers, and in the event of apparent wilful disobedience to this provision and refusal to comply with direction of an officer in accordance herewith the continued slow operation by a driver shall be a misdemeanor. (1927, c. 148, s. 4; 1935, c. 311, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—This section supersedes sections 2616 and 2618 as to regulation of speed.

See the annotations under section 2617.

The amendment of 1935 changed this section so radically that a comparison is necessary to determine the full extent.

For a law amending a former section applicable only in the city of Wilmington, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 432.

This section applies to criminal actions only and not to civil actions for damages. Piner v. Richter, 202 N. C. 573, 163 S. E. 561.

The violation of the statutory speed limit under this section, is negligence per se, and an instruction that it is only evidence of negligence entitles defendant to a new trial on its exception based upon plaintiff's contributory negligence in exceeding the speed limit, but such violation must be a proximate cause of the injury in suit in order to constitute a defense to the action. James v. Carolina Coach Co., 207 N. C. 742, 178 S. E. 607.

Regulation of Speed at Night.—The motorist upon a public highway on a dark, misty and foggy night, is required to regulate the speed of his car with a view to his own safety according to the distance the light from his headlights is thrown in front of him upon the highway, and to observe the rule of the ordinary prudent man. Weston v. Southern R. Co., 194 N. C. 210.

Under §§ 2616, 2618, it is negligence per se for one to drive his automobile more than fifteen miles per hour in traversing an intersection of highways when the driver's view is obstructed for one hundred feet therefrom, and damages may be recovered for its violation when the proximate cause of the injury. The amendment by this section, reducing the distance from 100 feet to 50 feet has no retroactive effect. Goss v. Williams, 196 N. C. 213, 145 S. E. 169. This case was decided prior to the 1935 amendment to this section and must be read in the light of the old law.—Ed. Note.

Contributory Negligence at Crossing. — Failure of a driver to keep his car under such control as will enable him to observe the restrictions imposed by this section as to grade crossings is contributory negligence sufficient to bar recovery against the railroad. Hinnant v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 202 N. C. 489, 163 S. E. 555.

Charge as to Speed in Entering Intersection.—Evidence that driver's view was obstructed by a four-foot hedge on top of a three-foot embankment is sufficient to support an instruction that if the jury should find from the greater weight of the evidence that defendant operated his car in the intersection when his view was obstructed, as defined by the court, at a speed in excess of 15 miles an hour he would be guilty of negligence, under this section. Gaffney v. Phelps, 207 N. C. 553, 554, 178 S. E. 231. This case was decided under the law as it existed prior to the 1935 amendment and must be read in the light of the old law.—Ed. Note.

Proximate Cause Is for Jury.—Where there is evidence that defendant was driving his automobile on the highway at a speed of sixty-five miles per hour and that the injury in suit was proximately caused by such excessive speed, it is sufficient to be submitted to the jury on the issue of actionable negligence, since such speed, being in violation of this section, is negligence per se, regardless of the condition of the road, the weather or traffic. Norfleet v. Hall, 204 N. C. 573, 169 S. E. 143.

Cited in State v. Palmer, 197 N. C. 135, 147 S. E. 817; Rudd v. Holmes, 198 N. C. 640, 152 S. E. 894; Lancaster v. B. & H. Coach Line, 198 N. C. 107, 109, 150 S. E. 716; Burke v. Carolina Coach Co., 198 N. C. 8, 12, 150 S. E. 636; Jones v. Bagwell, 207 N. C. 378, 382, 177 S. E. 170.

§ 2621(46a). Restrictions on speed of trucks.—No motor vehicle designed, equipped for, or engaged in transporting property shall be operated over the highways of the State at a greater rate of speed than thirty-five (35) miles an hour, and no such motor vehicle to which a trailer is attached shall be operated over such highways at a greater rate of speed than thirty (30) miles an hour. (1931, c. 235, s. 2.)

See annotations to § 2621(45).

§ 2621(47). Railroad warning signals must be obeyed.—Whenever any person driving a vehicle approaches a highway and interurban or steam railway grade crossing and a clearly visible and positive signal gives warning of the immediate approach of a railway train or car, it shall be unlawful for the driver of the vehicle to fail to bring the vehicle to a complete stop before traversing such grade crossing. (1927, c. 148, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—Section 2621(c) requires warning signs of certain dimensions, and inscriptions to be constructed one hundred feet from railroads.

§ 2621(48). Vehicles must stop at certain railway grade crossings.—The road governing body (whether State or county) is hereby authorized to designate grade crossings of steam or interurban railways by State and county highways, at which vehicles are required to stop, respectively, and such railways are required to erect signs thereat notifying drivers of vehicles upon any such highway to come to a complete stop before crossing such railway tracks, and whenever any such crossing is so designated and signposted it shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle to fail to stop within fifty feet but not closer than ten feet from such railway tracks, before traversing such crossing. That no failure so to stop, however, shall be considered contributory negligence per se in any action against the railroad or interurban company for injury to person or property; but the facts relating to such failure to stop may be considered with the other facts in the case in determining whether the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence. Provided, that all school trucks and all other trucks engaged in transporting gas and kerosene or other inflammables and passenger busses be required to come to a complete stop at all railroad crossings. (1927, c. 148, s. 6; 1929, c. 222, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede section 2621(b), a similar statute which was in force at the time this statute was adopted.

As to whether a failure to stop is negligence per se, see the note under section 2621(b).

The Act of 1929 inserted the words "and all trucks engaged in transporting gas and kerosene or other inflammables" in the proviso of this section.

Duty to Stop May Be Mixed Question of Law and Fact.—A driver of an automobile is not required by this section under all circumstances to stop before driving upon a railroad grade crossing, and whether he is required to do so under the particular circumstances disclosed by the evidence is ordinarily a mixed question of law and fact to be submitted to the jury upon proper instruction from the court. Keller v. Southern R. Co., 205 N. C. 269, 171 S. E. 73.

§ 2621(49). Special speed limitation on bridges.—It shall be unlawful to drive any vehicle upon any public bridge, causeway or viaduct at a speed which is greater than the maximum speed which can with safety to such structure be maintained thereon, when such structure is signposted as provided in this section.

(a) The State Highway Commission upon request from any local authorities shall, or upon its own initiative may conduct an investigation of any public bridge, causeway or viaduct, and if it shall thereupon find that such structure cannot with safety to itself withstand vehicles traveling at the speed otherwise permissible under this article the Commission shall determine and declare the maximum speed of vehicles which such structure can withstand and shall cause or permit suitable signs stating such maximum speed to be erected and maintained at a distance of one hundred feet beyond each end of such structure. The findings and determination of the Commission shall be conclusive evidence of the maximum speed which can with safety to any such structure be maintained thereon. (1927, c. 148, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—There was no corresponding section in the prior law except as found in section 2616.

§ 2621(49a). Signs showing safe speed and carrying capacity of bridges.—The State Highway Commission, or other governmental agency having control over any bridge constituting a part of the highways of the State, may, by suitable signs or markers at each end of such bridge, post the safe speed and carrying capacity for such bridge, and no motor vehicle or trailer shall be operated over such bridge at a greater speed or with a total gross weight of vehicle and load greater than posted speed or carrying capacity. (1931, c. 235, s. 2.)

§ 2621(50). When speed limit not applicable.—The speed limitations set forth in this act shall not apply to vehicles when operated with due regard for safety under the direction of the police in the chase or apprehension of violators of the law or of persons charged with or suspected of any such violation, nor to fire department or fire patrol vehicles when traveling in response to a fire alarm, nor to public or private ambulances when traveling in emergencies. This exemption shall not however protect the driver of any such vehicle from the consequence of a reckless disregard of the safety of others. (1927, c. 148, s. 8.)

§ 2621(51). Drive on right side of highway.—Upon all highways of sufficient width, except upon one way streets, the driver of a vehicle shall drive the same upon the right half of the highway and shall drive a slow moving vehicle as closely as possible to the right-hand edge or curb of such highway, unless it is impracticable to travel on such side of the highway and except when overtaking and passing another vehicle subject to the limitation applicable in overtaking and passing set forth in sections 2621(54) and 2621(55). (1927, c. 148, s. 9.)

Editor's Note.—There was no corresponding provision in the prior law.

Charging Section on Trial for Manslaughter.—This section went into effect 1 July, 1927, and upon a trial for manslaughter for the negligent killing of a pedestrian occurring prior to that time, it is reversible error for the judge to instruct the jury as to this requirement for their consideration in reaching a verdict under evidence tending to show the defendant's violation thereof. State v. Toler, 195 N. C. 481, 142 S. E. 715.

Proximate Cause.—A violation of this section is negligence per se, but such negligence is not actionable unless there is a causal relation between the breach and the injury. Grimes v. Carolina Coach Co., 203 N. C. 605, 608, 166 S. E. 599.

Question for Jury.—Evidence tending to show violations of this section and §§ 2616, 2621(46) is sufficient evidence that the defendant was driving unlawfully in several respects in violation of our statutes and in disregard of the safety of others who might then be upon the highway, and is properly submitted to the jury in a prosecution for manslaughter. State v. Durham, 201 N. C. 724, 725, 161 S. E. 398.

Quoted in State v. Newton, 207 N. C. 323, 325, 177 S. E. 184.

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede the corresponding provisions of section 2616.

§ 2621(53). Meeting of vehicles.—Drivers of vehicles proceeding in opposite directions shall pass each other to the right, each giving to the other at least one-half of the main traveled portion of the roadway as nearly as possible. (1927, c. 148, s. 11.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede the corresponding provisions of section 2616.

See annotations under section 2616.

Assumption that Vehicle Will Turn to Right. — When the driver of one of the automobiles is not observing the rule, of this section, as the automobiles approach each other, the other may assume that before the automobiles meet, the driver of the approaching automobile will turn to his right, so that the two automobiles may pass each other in safety. Shirley v. Ayers, 201 N. C. 51, 53, 158 S. E. 840. See also James v. Carolina Coach Co., 207 N. C. 742, 178 S. E. 607.

§ 2621(54). Overtaking a vehicle.

(a) The driver of any such vehicle overtaking another vehicle proceeding in the same direction shall pass at least two feet to the left thereof, and shall not again drive to the right side of the highway until safely clear of such overtaken vehicle.

(b) The driver of an overtaking motor vehicle not within a business or residence district as herein defined shall give audible warning with his horn or other warning device before passing or attempting to pass a vehicle proceeding in the same direction. (1927, c. 148, s. 12.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede the corresponding provisions of section 2617.

See annotations under section 2616.

Purpose of Section.—This section was enacted for the protection of the public upon the roads and highways of the State, and its violation is negligence per se entitling the person injured to his damages when there is a causal connection between the negligent act and the injury complained of. Wolfe v. Independent Coach Line, 198 N. C. 140, 150 S. E. 876.

Cited in Hobbs v. Mann, 199 N. C. 532, 155 S. E. 163.

§ 2621(55). Limitations on privilege of overtaking and passing.

(a) The driver of a vehicle shall not drive to the left side of the center of a highway in overtaking and passing another vehicle proceeding in the same direction unless such left side is clearly visible and is free of oncoming traffic for a sufficient distance ahead to permit such overtaking and passing to be made in safety.

(b) The driver of a vehicle shall not overtake and pass another vehicle proceeding in the same direction upon the crest of a grade or upon a curve in the highway where the driver's view along the highway is obstructed within a distance of five hundred feet.

(c) The driver of a vehicle shall not overtake and pass any other vehicle proceeding in the same direction at any steam or electric railway grade crossing nor at any intersection of highways unless permitted so to do by a traffic or police officer.

(d) The driver of a vehicle shall not drive to the left side of the center line of a highway upon the crest of a grade or upon a curve in the highway where such center line has been placed upon such highway by the State Highway Commission, and is visible. (1927, c. 148, s. 13.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede the corresponding provisions of section 2617.

Cited in State v. Palmer, 197 N. C. 135, 147 S. E. 817; Cook v. Horne, 198 N. C. 739, 153 S. E. 315.

§ 2621(56). Driver to give way to overtaking vehicle.—The driver of a vehicle upon a highway about to be overtaken and passed by another vehicle approaching from the rear shall give way to the right in favor of the overtaking vehicle on suitable and audible signal being given by the driver of the overtaking vehicle, and shall not increase the speed of his vehicle until completely passed by the overtaking vehicle. (1927, c. 148, s. 14.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede the corresponding provisions of section 2617.

§ 2621(57). Following too closely.

(a) The driver of a motor vehicle shall not follow another vehicle more closely than is reasonable and prudent with regard for the safety of others and due regard to the speed of such vehicles and the traffic upon and condition of the highway.

(b) The driver of any motor truck when traveling upon a highway outside of a business or residence district shall not follow another motor truck within one hundred feet, but this shall not be construed to prevent one motor truck overtaking and passing another. (1927, c. 148, s. 15.)

Editor's Note.—The purpose of this section is to prevent truck trains from following each other so closely as to make it difficult for faster moving cars to pass with safety in the face of oncoming traffic.

There seems to be no similar provision in the prior law except as to overtaking and passing other vehicles which prior law will be found in section 2617.

Charge to Jury.—Where the court, in its charge on contributory negligence, does not call attention to this section, an exception to the charge will not be sustained in the absence of a special request for such instructions. Alexander v. Southern Public Utilities Co., 207 N. C. 438, 441, 177 S. E. 427.

§ 2621(58). Turning at intersections.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, the driver of a vehicle intending to turn to the right at an intersection shall approach such intersection in the lane for traffic nearest to the right-hand side of the highway, and in turning shall keep as closely as practicable to the right-hand curb or edge of the highway, and when intending to turn to the left shall approach such intersection in the lane for traffic to the right of and nearest to the center of the highway, and in turning shall pass beyond the center of the intersection, passing as closely as practicable to the right thereof before turning such vehicle to the left.

For the purpose of this section, the center of the intersection shall mean the meeting point of the medial lines of the highways intersecting one another.

(b) Local authorities in their respective jurisdictions may modify the foregoing method of turning at intersections by clearly indicating by button markers or other direction signs within an intersection the course to be followed by vehicles turning thereat, and it shall be unlawful for any driver to fail to turn in a manner as so directed when such direction signs are authorized by local authorities. (1927, c. 148, s. 16.)

Editor's Note.—This section supersedes the corresponding provisions of section 2617.

See the annotations under section 2616.

§ 2621(59). Signals on starting, stopping or turning.

(a) The driver of any vehicle upon a highway before starting, stopping or turning from a direct line shall first see that such movement can be made in safety and if any pedestrian may be affected by such movement shall give a clearly audible signal by sounding the horn, and whenever the operation of any other vehicle may be affected by such movement shall give a signal as required in this section plainly visible to the driver of such other vehicle of the intention to make such movement.

(b) The signal herein required shall be given by means of the hand and arm in the manner herein specified, "or by any approved mechanical or electrical signal device except that when a vehicle is so constructed or loaded as to prevent the hand and arm signal from being visible both to the front and rear the signal shall be given by a device of a type which has been approved by the department.

Whenever the signal is given the driver shall indicate his intention to start, stop, or turn by extending the hand and arm from and beyond the left side of the vehicle as hereinafter set forth.

Left turn—hand and arm horizontal forefinger pointing.

Right turn—hand and arm pointed upward.

Stop—hand and arm pointed downward.

All signals to be given from left side of vehicles during last fifty feet traveled. (1927, c. 148, s. 17; 1931, c. 337.)

Editor's Note.—The prior law which is superseded by this section, section 2617, required an indication by the hand of the direction the vehicle was turning. The Uniform Act provides for the outstretched hand regardless of the direction of turn thus having a single signal for all. But the three way hand and arm signal has been adopted by California, Idaho, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Oregon, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and probably other states, notwithstanding the difficulty of remembering these signals. North Carolina followed this rather than the recommendation of the commission of a single signal for all.

The Act of 1931 added all of the first sentence of subsection (b) after the comma.

In General.—One driving an automobile upon a public highway is required by provision of this section to give specific signals before stopping or turning thereon, and the failure of one so driving to give the signal required by statute is negligence, and when the proximate cause of injury, damages may be recovered therefor by the one injured. Murphy v. Ashville-Knoxville Coach Co., 200 N. C. 92, 93, 156 S. E. 550.

§ 2621(60). Right of way.

(a) When two vehicles approach or enter an intersection at approximately the same time, the driver of the vehicle on the left shall yield the right of way to the vehicle on the right except as otherwise provided in section 2621(61). The driver of any vehicle traveling at an unlawful speed shall forfeit any right of way which he might otherwise have hereunder.

(c) The driver of any vehicle upon a highway within a business or residence district shall yield the right of way to a pedestrian crossing such highway within any clearly marked crosswalk or any regular pedestrian crossing included in the prolongation of the lateral boundary lines of the adjacent sidewalk at the end of a block, except at intersections where the movement of traffic is being regulated by traffic officers or traffic direction devices. (1927, c. 148, s. 18.)

See the annotations under sections 2616, 2617.

Instruction.—Under this section where damages are sought for defendant's negligent driving at a street intersection and there is evidence tending to show that the defendant was approaching the intersection at an unlawful rate of speed and did not slow up before the happening of the collision with another car; an instruction correctly charging the rule of the right of way if both cars approached the intersection simultaneously and the rule that if one of the cars was already in the intersection it was the duty of the driver of the other car to slow down and permit it to pass will not be held for error. Piner v. Richter, 202 N. C. 573, 163 S. E. 561.

§ 2621(61). Exceptions to the right of way rule.

(a) The driver of a vehicle entering a public highway from a private road or drive shall yield the right of way to all vehicles approaching on such public highway.

(b) The driver of a vehicle upon a highway shall yield the right of way to police and fire department vehicles and public and private ambulances when the latter are operated upon official business and the drivers thereof sound audible signal by bell, siren or exhaust whistle. This provision shall not operate to relieve the driver of a police or fire department vehicle or public or private ambulance from the duty to drive with due regard for the safety of all persons using the highway nor shall it protect the driver of any such vehicle from the consequence of any arbitrary exercise of such right of way. (1927, c. 148, s. 19.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede the corresponding provisions of section 2616.

§ 2621(62). What to do on approach of police or fire department vehicles.

(a) Upon the approach of any police or fire department vehicle giving audible signal by bell, siren or exhaust whistle, the driver of every other vehicle shall immediately drive the same to a position as near as possible and parallel to the right hand edge or curb, clear of any intersection of highways, and shall stop and remain in such position unless otherwise directed by a police or traffic officer until the police or fire department vehicle shall have passed.

(b) It shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle other than one on official business to follow any fire apparatus traveling in response to a fire alarm closer than one block or to drive into or park such vehicle within the block where fire apparatus has stopped in answer to a fire alarm. (1927, c. 148, s. 20.)

Editor's Note.—There seems to be no corresponding provision in the prior law.

§ 2621(63). Vehicles must stop at certain through highways.—The State Highway Commission with reference to State highways and local authorities with reference to highways under their jurisdictions are hereby authorized to designate main traveled or through highways by erecting at the entrances thereto from intersecting highways signs notifying drivers of vehicles to come to a full stop before entering or crossing such designated highway, and whenever any such signs have been so erected it shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle to fail to stop in obedience thereto. That no failure so to stop, however, shall be considered contributory negligence per se in any action at law for injury to person or property; but the facts relating to such failure to stop may be considered with the other facts in the case in determining whether the plaintiff in such action was guilty of contributory negligence. (1927, c. 148, s. 21.)

As to general powers of local authorities with respect to regulations, see sections 2621(73), 2621(46) and 2601.

See annotations to sections 2616, 2617, 2618.

Proximate Cause Must Be Shown Beyond a Mere Chance.—Where a conviction of involuntary manslaughter is sought for the failure to observe a positive duty imposed by statute with reference to the driving of automobiles upon the State highways, the question of proximate cause must be shown beyond a mere chance or casualty. State v. Satterfield, 198 N. C. 682, 153 S. E. 155.

The manifest object of this section is to protect the public by requiring the driver of an automobile upon the public highways of the State to stop and ascertain the circumstances and conditions at highway intersections particularly with reference to traffic, with a view of determining whether in the exercise of due care he may go upon the intersecting highway with reasonable safety to himself and others, and where the defendant in a prosecution for manslaughter fails to stop, but has knowledge of the conditions and has an unobstructed view of the highway for a long distance, and there is no evidence tending to show that he had violated any other statute or that he was negligent in any other respect, the evidence alone that he had violated the statute in the respect stated is insufficient to take the case to the jury, there being no evidence that the violation of the statute was a proximate cause of the death or in causal relation thereto, and defendant's motion as of nonsuit, made in apt time, should have been granted. State v. Satterfield, 198 N. C. 682, 153 S. E. 155.

(a) The driver of a vehicle shall not overtake and pass upon the left any street car proceeding in the same direction, whether actually in motion or temporarily at rest, when a travelable portion of the highway exists to the right of such street car.

(b) The driver of a vehicle overtaking any railway, interurban or street car stopped or about to stop for the purpose of receiving or discharging any passenger shall bring such vehicle to a full stop not closer than ten feet to the nearest exit of such street car and remain standing until any such passenger has boarded such car or reached the adjacent sidewalk except that where a safety zone has been established, then a vehicle may be driven past any such railway, interurban or street car at a speed not greater than ten miles per hour and with due caution for the safety of pedestrians. (1927, c. 148, s. 22.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede the corresponding provisions of section 2616.

§ 2621(65.) Driving through saftey zone prohibited.—The driver of a vehicle shall not at any time drive through or over a safety zone as defined in section 2621(43). (1927, c. 148, s. 23.)

§ 2621(66). Stopping on highway.

(a) No person shall park or leave standing any vehicle, whether attended or unattended, upon the paved or improved or main traveled portion of any highway, outside of a business or residence district, when it is practicable to park or leave such vehicle standing off the paved or improved or main traveled portion of such highway: Provided, in no event shall any person park or leave standing any vehicle, whether attended or unattended, upon any highway unless a clear and unobstructed width of not less than fifteen feet upon the main traveled portion of said highway opposite such standing vehicle shall be left for free passage of other vehicles thereon, nor unless a clear view of such vehicle may be obtained from a distance of two hundred (200) feet in both directions upon such highway: Provided, further, that in no event shall any person park or leave standing any vehicle whether attended or unattended upon any highway bridge.

(b) Whenever any peace officer shall find a vehicle standing upon a highway in violation of the provisions of this section, he is hereby authorized to move such vehicle or require the driver or person in charge of such vehicle to move such vehicle to a position permitted under this section.

(c) The provisions of this section shall not apply to the driver of any vehicle which is disabled while on the paved or improved or main traveled portion of a highway in such manner and to such extent that it is impossible to avoid stopping and temporarily leaving such vehicle in such position. (1927, c. 148, s. 24.)

Editor's Note.—There was no section corresponding to this in the prior law, but see section 2618 as to leaving motor running.

The word "park" means the permitting of such vehicles to remain standing on a public highway or street, while not in use. Archer-Daniels-Midland Co. v. Southern Paint, etc., Co., 205 N. C. 763, 172 S. E. 359.

To Be Actionable Negligence Must Be Proximate Cause of Injury.—Negligence in parking an automobile on a public highway in violation of this section, to be actionable, must be a proximate cause of the injury in suit, and where the plaintiff fails to show by his evidence that such violation was a proximate cause of his injury, a judgment as of nonsuit is properly allowed. Burke v. Carolina Coach Company, 198 N. C. 8, 150 S. E. 636.

The parking of a car on the hard surface of a highway at night without a tail light in violation of this section and §§ 2621(89), (94), is sufficient to sustain the jury's affirmative answer upon the issue of actionable negligence, and the question of contributory negligence in failing to see the parked car under the circumstances in time to have avoided the collision, is also properly submitted to the jury. Lambert v. Caronna, 206 N. C. 616, 175 S. E. 303.

Exception in Subsection (c) Is Question for Jury. — Where there is evidence tending to show that the defendant had parked his truck upon the hard surface of a highway in violation of this section, resulting in injury to the plaintiff, and the defendant claims that under the facts it came within the exception, subsection (c); under the statute and the facts disclosed by the record the matter should have been submitted to the jury under proper instructions, and the granting of defendant's motion as of non-suit was error. Smithwick v. Colonial Pine Co., 200 N. C. 519, 157 S. E. 612.

Charge to Jury.—The charge of the court as to subsection (a) of this section, will not be held for error for the failure to instruct the jury upon the provision in subsection (c), where the defendant's only evidence in excuse of parking was that he had a flat tire, such evidence being insufficient to bring defendant within the exception. Lambert v. Caronna, 206 N. C. 616, 175 S. E. 303.

§ 2621(67). Parking in front of fire hydrant, fire station or private driveway.—No person shall park a vehicle or permit it to stand, whether attended or unattended, upon a highway in front of a private driveway or within fifteen feet in either direction of a fire hydrant or the entrance to a fire station nor within twenty-five feet from the intersection of curb lines or if none then within fifteen feet of the intersection of property lines at an intersection of highways. (1927, c. 148, s. 25.)

Editor's Note.—The corresponding section of the prior law is section 2620, the corresponding provisions of which are repealed.

§ 2621(68). Motor vehicle left unattended; brakes to be set and engine stopped.—No person having control or charge of a motor vehicle shall allow such vehicle to stand on any highway unattended without first effectively setting the brakes thereon and stopping the motor of said vehicle and when standing upon any grade without turning the front wheels of such vehicle to the curb or side of the highway. (1927, c. 148, s. 26.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede the corresponding provisions of section 2620.

§ 2621(69). Driving on mountain highways.—The driver of a motor vehicle traversing defiles, canyons or mountain highways shall hold such motor vehicle under control and as near the right hand side of the highway as reasonably possible and upon approaching any curve where the view is obstructed within a distance of two hundred feet along the highway shall give audible warning with a horn or other warning device. (1927, c. 148, s. 27.)

§ 2621(70). Coasting prohibited.—The driver of a motor vehicle when traveling upon a down grade upon any highway shall not coast with the gears of such vehicle in neutral. (1927, c. 148, s. 28.)

§ 2621(71). Duty to stop in event of accident.

(a) The driver of any vehicle involved in an accident resulting in injury or death to any person shall immediately stop such vehicle at the scene of such accident and any person violating this provision shall upon conviction be punished as provided in section 2621(103).

(b) The driver of any vehicle involved in an accident resulting in damage to property shall immediately stop such vehicle at the scene of such accident and any person violating this provision shall upon conviction be punished as provided in section 2621(100).

(c) The driver of any vehicle involved in any accident resulting in injury or death to any person or damage to property shall also give his name, address, operator's or chauffeur's license number and the registration number of his vehicle to the person struck or the driver or occupants of any vehicle collided with and shall render to any person injured in such accident reasonable assistance including the carrying of such person to a physician or surgeon for medical or surgical treatment if it is apparent that such treatment is necessary or is requested by the injured person and it shall be unlawful for any person to violate this provision. (1927, c. 148, s. 29.)

Editor's Note.—There was no corresponding provision in the prior law.

Stated in State v. Newton, 207 N. C. 323, 325, 177 S. E. 184.

§ 2621(71)a. Vehicles transporting explosives. — Any person operating any vehicle transporting any explosive as a cargo or part of a cargo upon a highway shall at all times comply with the provisions of this section.

(a) Said vehicle shall be marked or placarded on each side and the rear with the word "explosives" in letters not less than eight inches high, or there shall be displayed on the rear of such vehicle a red flag not less than twenty-four inches square marked with the word "danger" in white letters six inches high.

(b) Every said vehicle shall be equipped with not less than two fire extinguishers, filled and ready for immediate use, and placed at a convenient point on the vehicle so used.

(c) The commissioner is hereby authorized and directed to promulgate such additional regulations governing the transportation of explosives and other dangerous articles by vehicles upon the highways as he shall deem advisable for the protection of the public. (1935, c. 311, s. 5.)

§ 2621(72). Drivers of State, county and city vehicles subject to provisions of the act.—The provisions of this act applicable to the drivers of vehicles upon the highways shall apply to the drivers of all vehicles owned or operated by this State or any political subdivisions thereof or of any city, town or district, except persons, teams, motor vehicles and other equipment while actually engaged in work on the surface of the road, but not when traveling to or from such work. (1927, c. 148, s. 30)

Editor's Note.—In the Uniform Act this provision in paragraph (b) was included under (a) and the penalty the same as (a).

These are similar to provisions found in most all statutes which prescribe heavy penalty.

Cited in Babbs v. Eury, 206 N. C. 679, 682, 175 S. E. 100.

§ 2621(73). Powers of local authorities.—Local authorities except as expressly authorized by sections 2621(46) (c) and 2621(63) shall have no power or authority to alter any speed limitations declared in this act or to enact or enforce any rule or regulations contrary to the provisions of this act, except that local authorities shall have power to provide by ordinances for the regulation of traffic by means of traffic or semaphores or other signalling devices on any portion of the highway where traffic is heavy or continuous and may prohibit other than one-way traffic upon certain highways and may regulate the use of the highways by processions or assemblages and except that local authorities shall have the power to regulate the speed of vehicles on highways in public parks, but signs shall be erected giving notices of such special limits and regulations. (1927, c. 148, s. 31.)

As to power of local authorities under prior law, see section 2601.

§ 2621(74). This act not to interfere with rights of owners of real property with reference thereto. —Nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the owner of real property used by the public for purpose of vehicular travel by permission of the owner and not as matter of right from prohibiting such use nor from requiring other or different or additional conditions than those specified in this article or otherwise regulating such use as may seem best to such owner. (1927, c. 148, s. 32.)

The Size, Weight, Construction and Equipment of Vehicles

§ 2621(75). Scope and effect of regulations in this title.—It shall be unlawful and constitute a misdemeanor for any person to drive or move or for the owner to cause or knowingly permit to be driven or moved on any highway any vehicle or vehicles of a size or weight exceeding the limitations stated in this title or any vehicle or vehicles which are not so constructed or equipped as required in this title or the rules and regulations of the Commission adopted pursuant thereto and the maximum size and weight of vehicles herein specified shall be lawful throughout this State, and local authorities shall have no power or authority to alter said limitations except as express authority may be granted in this act. (1927, c. 148, s. 33.)

§ 2621(76). Size of vehicles and loads.—(a) The total outside width of any vehicle or the load thereon shall not exceed ninety-six inches, except as otherwise provided in this section.

(b) No passenger-type vehicle shall be operated on any highway with any load carried thereon extending beyond the line of the fenders on the left side of such vehicle nor extending more than six inches beyond the line of the fenders on the right side thereof.

(c) No vehicle unladen or with load shall exceed a height of twelve feet, six inches.

(d) No vehicle shall exceed a length of thirty-five feet extreme over-all dimension, inclusive of front and rear bumpers. A truck tractor and semi-trailer shall be regarded as two vehicles for the purpose of determining lawful length and license taxes.

(e) No combination of vehicles coupled together shall consist of more than two units and no such combination of vehicles shall exceed a total length of forty-five feet exclusive of front and rear bumpers, subject to the following exceptions: Said length limitation shall not apply to vehicles operated in the day time when transporting poles, pipe, machinery or other objects of a structural nature which cannot readily be dismembered, nor to such vehicles transporting such objects operated at night time by a public utility when required for emergency repair of public service facilities or properties, but in respect to such night transportation every such vehicle and the load thereon shall be equipped with a sufficient number of clearance lamps on both sides and marker lamps upon the extreme ends of any projecting load to clearly mark the dimensions of such load: Provided, the reduction in total length of combination of vehicles provided for in this section shall not operate to make unlawful any vehicle now lawfully licensed in North Carolina prior to December thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six: Provided, that the state highway and public works commission shall have authority to designate any highways upon the State system as light-traffic roads, when, in the opinion of the commission, such roads are inadequate to carry and will be injuriously affected by the maximum load, size, and/or width of trucks or busses, using such roads, as herein provided for; and all such roads so designated shall be conspicuously posted as light-traffic roads and the maximum load, size and/or width authorized shall be displayed on proper signs erected thereon. The operation of any vehicle whose gross load, size and/or width exceeds the maximum shown on such signs over the roads thus posted shall constitute a misdemeanor: Provided further, that no standard concrete highway, or other highway built of material of equivalent durability, and not less than eighteen feet in width, shall be designated as a light-traffic road: Provided further, that the limitations placed on any road shall not be less than eighty per cent of the standard weight unless there shall be available an alternate improved route of not more than twenty per cent increase in the distance.

(f) The load upon any vehicle operated alone, or the load upon the front vehicle of a combination of vehicles, shall not extend more than three feet beyond the front wheels of such vehicle or the front bumper of such vehicle, if it is equipped with such a bumper.

(g) No vehicle shall be driven or moved on any highway unless such vehicle is so constructed or loaded as to prevent any of its load from dropping, sifting, leaking or otherwise escaping therefrom, except that sand may be dropped for the purpose of securing traction, or water or other substance may be sprinkled on a roadway in cleaning or maintaining such roadway. (1927, c. 148, 34; 1931, c. 235; 1935, c. 311, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—The Uniform Act fixes the width at 8 feet, except that farm tractors of 9 feet width might be moved over the roads. The height allowed in the Uniform Act is fourteen feet and six inches. The length of a single vehicle is 33 feet or a combination of vehicles of a length of eighty five feet is permitted under the Uniform Act.

This section was so changed by the amendment of 1935 that a comparison is necessary to determine the full extent.

§ 2621(77). Flag or light at end of load.—Whenever the load on any vehicle shall extend more than four feet beyond the rear of the bed or body thereof, there shall be displayed at the end of such load in such position as to be clearly visible at all times from the rear of such load a red flag not less than twenty inches both in length and width, except that between one-half hour after sunset and one-half hour before sunrise there shall be displayed at the end of any such load a red light plainly visible under normal atmospheric conditions at least two hundred feet from the rear of such vehicle. (1927, c. 148, s. 35.)

Violation Is Negligence Per Se.—The parking of a truck on a public highway at night without lights in violation of this section and § 2691(94) is negligence per se, and the question of proximate cause is for the determination of the jury. Barrier v. Thomas, etc., Co., 205 N. C. 425, 171 S. E. 626.

Cited in Williams v. Frederickson Motor Express Lines, 198 N. C. 193, 151 S. E. 197.

§ 2621(78). Weight of vehicles and loads. — No vehicle or combination of vehicles shall be moved or operated on any highway or bridge when the gross weight thereof exceeds the limits specified below:

(a) When the wheel is equipped with high-pressure pneumatic, solid rubber or cushion tire, eight thousand pounds.

(b) When the wheel is equipped with low-pressure pneumatic tire, nine thousand pounds.

(c) The gross weight on any one axle of the vehicle when the wheels attached to said axle are equipped with high-pressure solid rubber or cushion tires, sixteen thousand pounds.

(d) When the wheels attached to said axle are equipped with low-pressure pneumatic tires, eighteen thousand pounds.

(e) For the purposes of this section an axle load shall be defined as the total load on all wheels whose centers are included within two parallel transverse vertical planes not more than forty inches apart.

(f) For purposes of this section every pneumatic tire designed for use and used when inflated with air to less than one hundred pounds pressure shall be deemed a low-pressure pneumatic tire, and every pneumatic tire inflated to one hundred pounds pressure or more shall be deemed a high-pressure pneumatic tire.

(g) No vehicle shall be operated on any highway the weight of which, resting on the surface of such highway, exceeds six hundred pounds upon any inch of tire roller or other support.

(h) Subject to the foregoing limitations, the gross weight of any vehicle having two axles shall not exceed twenty thousand pounds.

(i) Subject to the foregoing limitations, the gross weight of any vehicle or combination of vehicles having three or more axles shall not exceed forty thousand pounds. For the purpose of determining gross weight, no axle shall be considered unless the wheels thereof are equipped with adequate brakes. (1927, c. 148, s. 36; 1931, c. 235; 1935, c. 311, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede section 2621(a) which is an older provision applying to the same subject-matter.

This section was so changed by the amendment of 1935 that a comparison is necessary to determine the full extent.

§ 2621(79). Peace officer may weigh vehicle and require removal of excess load.—Any peace officer having reason to believe that the weight of a vehicle and load is unlawful is authorized to weigh the same either by means of portable or stationary scales, and may require that such vehicle be driven to the nearest scales in the event such scales are within two miles. The officer may then require the driver to unload immediately such portion of the load as may be necessary to decrease the gross weight of such vehicle to the maximum therefor specified in this act. (1927, c. 148, s. 37.)

Editor's Note.—A similar provision is found in section 2621(29), fixing the rates of taxes for vehicles.

§ 2621(80). Permits for excessive size and weight.—The State Highway Commission, may, in their discretion, upon application in writing and good cause being shown therefor, issue a special permit in writing authorizing the applicant for seasonal operations to operate or move a vehicle of a size or weight exceeding the maximum specified in this act, upon any highway under the jurisdiction and for the maintenance of which the body granting the permit is responsible. Every such permit shall be carried in the vehicle to which it refers and shall be open to inspection by any peace officer; and it shall be a misdemeanor for any person to violate any of the terms or conditions of such special permit: Provided, the authorities in any incorporated city or town may grant permits in writing and for good cause shown, authorizing the applicant to move a vehicle over the streets of such city or town, the size or width exceeding the maximum expressed in this act. (1927, c. 148, s. 38; 1931, c. 235.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added the proviso to this section.

§ 2621(81). When authorities may restrict right to use highways. — The State Highway Commission or local authorities may prohibit the operation of vehicles upon or impose restrictions as to the weight thereof, for a total period not to exceed ninety days in any one calendar year, when operated upon any highway under the jurisdiction of and for the maintenance of which the body adopting the ordinance is responsible whenever any said highway by reason of deterioration, rain, snow or other climatic conditions will be damaged unless the use of vehicles thereon is prohibited or the permissible weights thereof reduced. The local authority enacting any such ordinance shall erect or cause to be erected and maintained, signs designating the provisions of the ordinance at each end of that portion of any highway to which the ordinance is applicable and the ordinance shall not be effective until or unless such signs are erected and maintained. (1927, c. 148, s. 39.)

§ 2621(82). Restriction as to tire equipment.

(a) Every solid rubber tire on a vehicle moved on any highway shall have rubber on its entire traction surface at least one and a half inches thick above the edge of the flange of the entire periphery.

(b) No tire on a vehicle moved on a highway shall have on its periphery any block, stud, flange, cleat or spike or any other protuberance of any material other than rubber which projects beyond the tread of the traction surface of the tire except that it shall be permissible to use farm machinery with tires having protuberances which will not injure the highway and except also that it shall be permissible to use tire chains of reasonable proportions upon any vehicle when required for safety because of snow, ice or other conditions tending to cause a vehicle to slide or skid.

(c) The State Highway Commission or local authorities in their respective jurisdiction may, in their discretion, issue special permits authorizing the operation upon a highway of traction engines or tractors having movable tracks with traverse corrugations upon the periphery of such movable tracks or farm tractors or other farm machinery. (1927, c. 148, s. 40.)

Editor's Note.—One inch of rubber above the flange of the entire periphery is all that is required by the Uniform Act.

§ 2621(83). Trailers and towed vehicles.

(a) No motor vehicle shall be driven upon any highway drawing and having attached thereto more than one trailer or semi-trailer.

(b) No trailer or semi-trailer shall be operated over the highways of the state unless such trailer or semi-trailer be firmly attached to the rear of the motor vehicle drawing same, and unless so equipped that it will not snake, but will travel in the path of the wheels of the vehicle drawing such trailer or semi-trailer, which equipped shall at all times be kept in good condition. (1927, c. 148, s. 41; 1931, cc. 235, 322; 1933, c. 484.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1933, c. 484, changed the word "or" to "and" in the second line of the section, and changed the word "and" to "or", in the third line of the section.

§ 2621(84). Brakes.—Every motor vehicle when operated upon a highway shall be equipped with brakes adequate to control the movement of and stop and to hold such vehicle, including two separate means of applying the brakes each of which means shall be effective to apply the brakes to at least two wheels and so constructed that no part which is liable to failure shall be common to the two, except that motorcycles need be equipped with only one brake. All such brakes shall be maintained in good working order and shall conform to regulations not inconsistent with this section to be promulgated by the Commissioner. (1927, c. 148, s. 42.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede the corresponding provisions of section 2615.

§ 2621(84a). Brakes on trailers.—Every trailer or semi-trailer of two tons or over shall be equipped with adequate brakes, that can be effectively operated while the trailer is in motion: Provided, that until January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-two, this section shall not apply to trailers or semi-trailers licensed or in use on the highways of the State at the time of the passage of this act. (1931, c. 235, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The act from which this section was taken was ratified on April 2, 1931.

§ 2621(85). Horns and warning devices.

(a) Every motor vehicle when operated upon a highway shall be equipped with a horn in good working order capable of emitting sound audible under normal conditions from a distance of not less than two hundred feet, and it shall be unlawful, except as otherwise provided in this section, for any vehicle to be equipped with or for any person to use upon a vehicle any siren, compression or spark plug whistle or for any person at any time to use a horn otherwise than as a reasonable warning or to make any unnecessary or unreasonable loud or harsh sound by means of a horn or other warning device.

(b) Every police and fire department and fire patrol vehicle and every ambulance used for emergency calls shall be equipped with a bell, siren or exhaust whistle of a type approved by the Commissioner. (1927, c. 148, s. 43.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede the corresponding provisions of section 2615.

§ 2621(86). Mirrors.— No person shall drive a motor vehicle on a highway which motor vehicle is so constructed or loaded as to prevent the driver from obtaining a view of the highway to the rear by looking backward from the driver's position, unless such vehicle is equipped with a mirror so located as to reflect to the driver a view of the highway for a distance of at least two hundred feet to the rear of such vehicle. (1927, c. 148, s. 44.)

Editor's Note.—There seems to be no corresponding provision in the prior law.

§ 2621(87). Windshields must be unobstructed.

(a) It shall be unlawful for any person to drive any vehicle upon a highway with any sign, poster or other non-transparent material upon the front windshield, side wings, side or rear windows of such motor vehicle other than a certificate or other paper required to be so displayed by law. (1927, c. 148, s. 45.)

Editor's Note.—The Uniform Act contains a paragraph (b) requiring windshield wipers which may be operated by driver.

§ 2621(88). Prevention of noise, smoke, etc., muffler cut-outs regulated.

(a) No person shall drive a motor vehicle on a highway unless such motor vehicle is equipped with a muffler in good working order and in constant operation to prevent excessive or unusual noise, annoying smoke and smoke screens.

(b) It shall be unlawful to use a "muffler cut-out" or any motor vehicle upon a highway.

(c) No vehicle shall be driven or moved on any highway unless such vehicle is so constructed or loaded as to prevent its contents from dropping, sifting, leaking, or otherwise escaping therefrom (1927, c. 148, s. 46.)

For prior provisions, see section 2618.

§ 2621(89). Required lighting equipment of vehicles.

(a) When vehicles must be equipped.

Every vehicle upon a highway within this State during the period from a half hour after sunset to a half hour before sunrise and at any other time when there is not sufficient light to render clearly discernible any person on the highway at a distance of two hundred feet ahead, shall be equipped with lighted front and rear lamps as in this section respectively required for different classes of vehicles and subject to exemption with reference to lights on parked vehicles as declared in section 2621(94).

(b) Head lamps on motor vehicles.

Every motor vehicle other than a motorcycle, road-roller, road machinery, or farm tractor shall be equipped with two head lamps, no more and no less, at the front of and on opposite sides of the motor vehicle, which head lamps shall comply with the requirements and limitations set forth in section 2621(91) and section 2621(92).

(c) Head lamps on motorcycles.

Every motorcycle shall be equipped with at least one and not more than two head lamps which shall comply with the requirements and limitations set forth in section 2621(91) or section 2621(92).

(d) Rear lamps.

Every motor vehicle and every trailer or semi-trailer which is being drawn at the end of a train of vehicles shall carry at the rear a lamp of a type which has been approved by the Commissioner and which exhibits a red light plainly visible under normal atmospheric conditions from a distance of five hundred feet to the rear of such vehicle and so constructed and placed that the number plate carried on the rear of such vehicle shall under like conditions be so illuminated by a white light as to be read from a distance of fifty feet to the rear of such vehicle, and every trailer or semi-trailer shall carry at the rear in addition to a rear lamp as above specified a red reflector of a type which has been approved by the Commissioner and which is so designed, located as to height and maintained as to be visible for at least five hundred (500) feet when opposed by a motor vehicle displaying lawful undimmed headlights at night on an unlighted highway. Such reflector shall be placed at the extreme end of the load.

(e) Clearance lamps.

Every motor vehicle having a width at any part in excess of eighty inches shall carry two clearance lamps on the left side of such vehicle, one located at the front and displaying a white light visible under normal atmospheric conditions from a distance of five hundred feet to the front of the vehicle, and the other located at the rear of the vehicle and displaying a red light visible under like conditions from a distance of five hundred feet to the rear of the vehicle.

(f) Lamps on bicycles.

Every bicycle shall be equipped with a lighted lamp on the front thereof visible under normal atmospheric conditions from a distance of at least three hundred feet in front of such bicycle and shall also be equipped with a reflex mirror or lamp on the rear exhibiting a red light visible under like conditions from a distance of at least two hundred feet to the rear of such bicycle.

(g) Lights on other vehicles.

All vehicles not heretofore in this section required to be equipped with specified lighted lamps shall carry on the left side one or more lighted lamps or lanterns projecting a white light, visible under normal atmospheric conditions from a distance of not less than five hundred feet to the front of such vehicle and visible under like conditions from a distance of not less than five hundred feet to the rear of such vehicle, or in lieu of said lights shall be equipped with reflectors of a type which is approved by the State Highway Commission. (1927, c. 148, s. 47.)

See annotations to § 2621(66).

Editor's Note.—This section of the Uniform Act contains a provision in paragraph (b) permitting acetylene lamps to be regulated by the commission. This provision will be found in section 2621(92). It also required that lamps be twenty-four inches from the ground.

Subdivision (g) of the Uniform Act permits either yellow or red lights in the rear but does not expressly permit reflex mirrors.

There is a paragraph in the Uniform Act regulating signal lamps which may be substituted for giving signals with the hand.

This section supersedes the corresponding provisions of section 2615.

As to requirement that all vehicles carry lights, see section 3794 (a).

Whether Obstruction Should Have Been Seen Is Jury Question.—Generally speaking, where the statutes, as this section, or the decisions of the courts require red lights as a warning of danger on any object in the highway and such lights are not present, it is a question for the jury to determine whether the driver at night should have seen the obstruction, notwithstanding the absence of red lights. Morris v. Sells-Floto Circus, 65 F. (2d) 783, 785.

§ 2621(90). Additional permissible lights on vehicles.

(a) Spot lamps.

Any motor vehicle may be equipped with not to exceed two spot lamps, except that a motorcycle shall not be equipped with more than one spot lamp, and every lighted spot lamp shall be so aimed and used upon approaching another vehicle that no part of the beam will be directed to the left of the center of the highway nor more than one hundred feet ahead of the vehicle. No spot lamp shall be used on the rear of any vehicles.

(b) Auxiliary driving lamps.

Any motor vehicle may be equipped with not to exceed two auxiliary driving lamps mounted on the front, and every such auxiliary driving lamp or lamps shall meet the requirements and limitations set forth in section 2621(91) (c).

(c) Restrictions on lamps.

Any device, other than head lamps, spot lamps or auxiliary driving lamps, which projects a beam of light of an intensity greater than twenty-five candle power, shall be so directed that no part of the beam will strike the level of the surface on which the vehicle stands at a distance of more than fifty feet from the vehicle. (1927, c. 148, s. 48.)

Editor's Note.—This section seems to supersede the corresponding provisions of section 2615.

§ 2621(91). Requirements as to head lamps and auxiliary driving lamps.

(a) The head lamps or motor vehicles shall be so constructed, arranged, and adjusted that, except as provided in subsection (c) of this section, they will at all times mentioned in section 2621(89) and under normal atmospheric conditions and on a level road produce a driving light sufficient to render clearly discernible a person two hundred feet ahead, but shall not project a glaring or dazzling light to persons in front of such head lamp.

(b) Head lamps shall be deemed to comply with the foregoing provisions prohibiting glaring and dazzling lights if none of the main bright portion of the head lamp beams rises above a horizontal plane passing through the lamp centers parallel to the level road upon which the loaded vehicle stands and in no case higher than forty-two inches, seventy-five feet ahead of the vehicle.

(c) Whenever a motor vehicle is being operated upon a highway, or a portion thereof, which is sufficiently lighted to reveal a person on the highway at a distance of two hundred feet ahead of the vehicle, it shall be permissible to dim the head lamps or to tilt the beams downward or to substitute therefor the light from an auxiliary driving lamp or pair of such lamps, subject to the restrictions as to tilted beams and auxiliary driving lamps set forth in this subsection.

(d) Whenever a motor vehicle meets another vehicle on any highway it shall be permissible to tilt the beams of the head lamps downward or to substitute therefor the light from an auxiliary driving lamp or pair of such lamps subject to the requirement that the tilted head lamps or auxiliary lamp or lamps shall give sufficient illumination under normal atmospheric conditions and on a level road to render clearly discernible a person seventy-five feet ahead, but shall not project a glaring or dazzling light to persons in front of the vehicle, provided that at all times required in section 2621(89) at least two lights shall be displayed on the front of and on opposite sides of every motor vehicle other than a motorcycle, road roller, road machinery, or farm tractor.

(e) No city or town shall enact an ordinance in conflict with this section. (1927, c. 148, s. 49.)

Editor's Note.—Subsection (e) does not appear in the Uniform Act.

§ 2621(92). Acetylene lights. — Motor vehicles may be equipped with two acetylene head lamps of approximately equal candle power when equipped with clear plane glass fronts, bright six-inch speherical mirrors and standard acetylene five-eights foot burners not more and not less and which do not project a glaring or dazzling light into the eyes of approaching drivers. (1927, c. 148, s. 50.)

§ 2621(93). Enforcement of provisions.

(a) The Commissioner is authorized to designate, furnish instructions to and to supervise official stations for adjusting head lamps and auxiliary driving lamps to conform with the provisions of section 2621(89). When head lamps and auxiliary driving lamps have been adjusted in conformity with the instructions issued by the Commissioner a certificate of adjustment shall be issued to the driver of the motor vehicle on forms issued in duplicate by the Commissioner and showing date of issue, registration number of the motor vehicle, owner's name, make of vehicle and official designation of the adjusting station.

(b) The driver of any motor vehicle equipped with approved head lamps, auxiliary driving lamps, rear lamps or signal lamps, who is arrested upon a charge that such lamps are improperly adjusted or are equipped with bulbs of a candlepower not approved for use therewith, shall be allowed forty-eight hours within which to bring such lamps into conformance with the requirements of this article. It shall be a defense to any such charge that the person arrested produce in court or submit to the prosecuting attorney a certificate from an official adjusting station showing that within forty-eight hours after such arrest such lamps have been made to conform with the requirements of this article. (1927, c. 148, s. 51.)

§ 2621(94). Lights on parked vehicles.—Whenever a vehicle is parked or stopped upon a highway whether attended or unattended during the times mentioned in section 2621(89) there shall be displayed upon such vehicle one or more lamps projecting a white light visible under normal atmospheric conditions from a distance of five hundred feet to the front of such vehicle and projecting a red light visible under like conditions from a distance of five hundred feet to the rear, except that local authorities may provide by ordinance that no lights need be displayed upon any such vehicles when parked in accordance with local ordinances upon a highway where there is sufficient light to reveal any person within a distance of two hundred feet upon such highways. (1927, c. 148, s. 52.)

See note to § 2621(66), and § 2621(77).

Cited in Williams v. Frederickson Motor Express Lines, 198 N. C. 193, 151 S. E. 197.

§ 2621(95). Red or green light visible from in front of vehicle prohibited.—It shall be unlawful for any person to drive or move any vehicle upon highway with any red or green light thereon visible from directly in front thereof. This section shall not apply to police or fire department or fire patrol vehicles. (1927, c. 148, s. 53.)

Highway Traffic Signs

§ 2621(96). Uniform marking of and erection of signs on highways.—The State Highway Commission is hereby authorized to classify, designate and mark both intrastate and interstate highways lying within the boundaries of this State and to provide a system of marking and signing such highways under the jurisdiction of this State, and such system of marking and signing shall correlate with and so far as possible conform to the system adopted in other States. (1927, c. 148, s. 54.)

§ 2621(97). Local traffic signs.—Local authorities in their respective jurisdictions shall cause appropriate signs to be erected and maintained, designating residence and business districts, highway and steam or interurban railway grade crossings and such other signs as may be deemed necessary to carry out the provisions of this article. Local authorities shall erect appropriate signs giving notice of special local parking and other regulations. (1927, c. 148, s. 55.)

§ 2621(98). Other than official signs prohibited.—No unauthorized person shall erect or maintain upon any highway any warning or direction sign, marker, signal or light in imitation of any official sign, marker, signal or light erected under the provisions of this article, and no person shall erect or maintain upon any highway any traffic or highway sign or signal bearing thereon any commercial advertising, provided nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit the erection or maintenance of signs, markers, or signals bearing thereon the name of an organization authorized to erect the same by the State Highway Commission or by any local authority as defined in this article. (1927, c. 148, s. 56.)

§ 2621(99). Injuring signs. — Any person who shall deface, injure, knock down or remove any sign posted as provided in this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1927, c. 148, s. 57.)

Offenses, Penalties and Enforcement
Pedestrians' Rights and Duties.

§ 2621(99a). Pedestrians subject to traffic control signals.—Pedestrians shall be subject to traffic control signals at intersections as heretofore declared in this article, but at all other places pedestrians shall be accorded the privileges and shall be subject to the restrictions stated in this article. (1935, c. 311, s. 6.)

§ 2621(99b). Pedestrians' right-of-way at crosswalks.—(a) Where traffic control signals are not in place or in operation the driver of a vehicle shall yield the right-of-way, slowing down or stopping if need be to so yield, to a pedestrian crossing the roadway within any marked crosswalk or within any unmarked crosswalk at an intersection, except as otherwise provided in this article.

(b) Whenever any vehicle is stopped at a marked crosswalk or at any unmarked crosswalk at an intersection to permit a pedestrian to cross the roadway, the driver of any other vehicle approaching from the rear shall not overtake and pass such stopped vehicle. (1935, c. 311, s. 6.)

§ 2621(99c). Crossing at other than crosswalks.—(a) Every pedestrian crossing a roadway at any point other than within a marked crosswalk or within an unmarked crosswalk at an intersection shall yield the right-of-way to all vehicles upon the roadway.

(b) Any pedestrian crossing a roadway at a point where a pedestrian tunnel or overhead pedestrian crossing has been provided shall yield the right-of-way to all vehicles upon the roadway.

(c) Between adjacent intersections at which traffic control signals are in operation pedestrians shall not cross at any place except in a marked crosswalk.

(d) It shall be unlawful for pedestrians to walk along the traveled portion of any highway except on the extreme left hand side thereof, and such pedestrians shall yield the right-of-way to approaching traffic.

(e) Notwithstanding the provisions of this section every driver of a vehicle shall exercise due care to avoid colliding with any pedestrian upon any roadway and shall give warning by sounding the horn when necessary and shall exercise proper precaution upon observing any child or any confused or incapacitated person upon a roadway. (1935, c. 311, s. 6.)

§ 2621(99e). Pedestrians soliciting rides. — No person shall stand in the travel portion of the highway for the purpose of soliciting a ride from the driver of any private vehicle. (1935, c. 311, s. 6.)

§ 2621(99f). Violation of statute a misdemeanor. — Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed to be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished by fine or imprisonment in the discretion of the court as for other misdemeanors. Each violation shall be deemed a separate offense. (1931, c. 235, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The act from which this section was taken amended the Act of 1927, constituting this article, by adding this and §§ 2621(46a), 2621(49a), 2621(84a) and 2621(104a). As to provisions where offense declared a felony, see §§ 2621(100) and 2621(104).

§ 2621(100). Penalties for misdemeanors.

(a) It shall be unlawful and constitute a misdemeanor for any person to violate any of the provisions of this article unless such violation is by this article or other law of this State declared to be a felony.

(b) Every person convicted of a misdemeanor for a violation of any of the provisions of this article for which another penalty is not provided shall for a first conviction thereof within one year be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the county or municipal jail for not more than ten days; for a second such conviction within one year such person shall be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the county or municipal jail for not more than twenty days or by both such fine and imprisonment; upon a third or subsequent conviction within one year such person shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the county or municipal jail for not more than six months or by both such fine and imprisonment. (1927, c. 148, s. 58.)

See § 2621(99f) and note.

§ 2621(101). Penalty for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drugs.—Every person who is convicted of a violation of section 2621(44) relating to habitual users of narcotic drugs and driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drugs shall be punished by imprisonment in the county or municipal jail for not less than thirty days nor more than one year or by fine of not less then one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars or by both such fine and imprisonment. On a second or subsequent conviction for the same offense he shall be punished by imprisonment for not less than ninety days nor more than one year, and, in the discretion of the court, a fine of not more than one thousand dollars. In the case of a first or subsequent conviction the court shall have no power to suspend judgment upon payment of cost. (1927, c. 148, s. 59.)

§ 2621(102). Penalty for reckless driving.—Every person convicted of reckless driving under section 2621(45) shall be punished by imprisonment in the county or municipal jail for a period of not less than five days nor more than ninety days or by fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than five hundred dollars or by both such fine and imprisonment, and on a second or subsequent offense shall be punished by imprisonment for not less than ten days nor more than six months or by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment. In no case shall the court have power to suspend judgment upon payment of cost. (1927, c. 148, s. 60.)

§ 2621(103). Penalty for failure to stop in event of accident involving injury or death to a person.—Every person convicted of violating section 2621(71) (a) of this article relative to the duty to stop in the event of certain accidents shall be punished by imprisonment in the county or municipal jail for not less than thirty days nor more than one year or in the State prison for not less than one nor more than five years or by fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars or by both such fine and imprisonment. The Commissioner shall revoke the operator's or chauffeur's license of the person so convicted. In no case shall the court have power to suspend judgment upon payment of costs. (1927, c. 148, s. 61.)

§ 2621(104). Penalty for felony.—Any person who shall be convicted of a violation of any of the provisions of this act herein or by the laws of this State declared to constitute a felony shall, unless a different penalty is prescribed herein or by the laws of this State, be punished by imprisonment in the State prison for a term not less than one year nor more than five years, or by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment. (1927, c. 148, s. 62.)

§ 2621(104a). Enforcement. — It shall be the duty of the law enforcement officers of the State and of each county, city, or other municipality to see that the provisions of this article are enforced within their respective jurisdictions, and any such officer shall have the power to arrest on sight or upon warrant any person found violating the provisions of this article. Such officers within their respective jurisdictions shall have the power to stop any motor vehicle upon the highways of the State, for the purpose of determining whether the same is being operated in violation of any of the provisions of this article. (1931, c. 235, s. 2.)

Procedure upon Arrest, Reports, Disposition of Fines and Forfeitures

§ 2621(105). Report of convictions to be sent to commission.

(a) Every justice of the peace or police judge or clerk of a court of record in this State shall keep a full record of every case in which a person is charged with violation of any provision of this article, and in the event that such person is convicted or that his bail is forfeited, an abstract of such record shall be sent forthwith by the justice of the peace or police judge or court of record to the commission but this requirement shall not be deemed to make such court a court of record. For such abstract the clerk shall receive a fee of fifty cents to be taxed as costs against such person so convicted.

(b) Abstracts required by this section shall be made up on forms prepared by the Commission and shall include all necessary information as to the parties to the case, the nature of the offense, the date of hearing, the plea, the judgment, the amount of the fine or forfeiture, as the case may be, and every such abstract shall be certified by the justice of the peace, police judge or clerk of such police court as a true abstract of the record of the court.

(c) Each clerk of any court of record of this State shall also, within ten days after any final judgment of conviction of any violation of any of the provisions of this act, send to the commission a certified copy of such judgment of conviction. Certified copies of the judgment shall also be forwarded to the commission upon conviction of any person of manslaughter or other felony in the commission of which a vehicle was used. The said commission shall keep such records in its office, and they shall be open to the inspection of any person during reasonable business hours. For such certified copy of the judgment the clerk shall receive a fee of fifty cents to be taxed as costs against the convicted person. (1927, c. 148, s. 63.)

§ 2621(106). Fines and forfeitures.—All fines or forfeitures collected upon conviction or upon forfeiture of bail of any person charged with a violation of any of the provisions of this act constituting a misdemeanor, shall be disposed of as now required by law. (1927, c. 148, s. 64.)

§ 2621(106a). Refund to counties of costs of prosecuting theft cases.—Whenever the Motor Vehicle Department of the State has caused to be instituted criminal prosecutions in the Superior Court of any county of the State for violation of the automobile theft laws, and the county wherein such case was tried has incurred court costs incident thereto, upon certificate of the Clerk of the Superior Court of said county showing an itemized statement thereof, and that the same has been paid, upon the approval of the Commissioner of Revenue and the Attorney General, the sum or sums so paid shall be refunded to said county, the same to be paid from the highway maintenance fund from receipts from the motor vehicle registration title fees.

This section shall apply to costs incurred in the prosecution of automobile theft cases only. (1929, c. 275, s. 1.)

Title of Article

§ 2621(107). Short title.—This article may be cited as the Uniform Act Regulating the Operation of Vehicles on Highways. (1927, c. 148, s. 65.)

Art. 8A. Safety Glass

§ 2621(107a). Safety glass required on motor vehicles; exception.—On and after January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six, and except as hereinafter otherwise provided, it shall be unlawful to operate knowingly on any public highway or street in this State any motor vehicle which is registered in the State of North Carolina and which shall have been manufactured or assembled on or after January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six, unless such motor vehicle be equipped with safety glass wherever glass is used in doors, windows, windshields, wings or partitions; or for a dealer to sell a motor vehicle manufactured or assembled on or after January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six, for operation upon the said highways or streets unless it be so equipped. The provisions of this article shall not apply to any motor vehicle if such motor vehicle shall have been registered previously in another state by the owner while the owner was a bona fide resident of said other state. (1935, c. 394, s. 1.)

§ 2621(107b). "Safety glass" defined. — The term "safety glass," as used in this article, shall be construed as meaning glass so treated or combined with other materials as to reduce, in comparison with ordinary sheet glass or plate glass, the likelihood of injury to persons by glass when the glass is cracked or broken. (1935, c. 394, s. 2.)

§ 2621(107c). Motor vehicle bureau to approve types of glass.—The motor vehicle bureau of the revenue department shall approve and maintain a list of the approved types of glass, conforming to the specifications and requirements for safety glass as set forth in this article and in accordance with standards recognized by the United States bureau of standards, and shall not issue a license for or relicense any motor vehicle subject to the provisions of this article, unless such motor vehicle be equipped as herein provided with such approved type of glass. (1935, c. 394, s. 3.)

§ 2621(107d). Certificate of kind of glass used required.—All bills of sale or certification of title for motor vehicles subject to the provisions of this article shall contain a certification as to the kind of glass in doors, windows, windshields, wings and partitions. Provided that the failure to make such certification shall not have the effect to invalidate such sale or contract. (1935, c. 394, s. 4.)

§ 2621(107e). Violation made misdemeanor. — The owner of any motor vehicle which is operated knowingly or any dealer who sells a motor vehicle in violation of the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than twenty-five dollars ($25.00) or be imprisoned not more than thirty days, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1935, c. 394, s. 5.)

Art. 9. Giving Publicity to Highway Traffic Laws through the Public Schools

§ 2621(108). State highway commission to prepare digest. — The State Highway Commission shall cause to be prepared a digest of the traffic of the State suitable for use in the public schools of the State and have the same published in pamphlet form and delivered on or before the first day of August, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, a sufficient number of said pamphlets to supply at least one copy each to all of the public high school teachers of the State. (1927, c. 242, s. 1.)

§ 2621(109). State superintendent of public instruction to distribute pamphlet. — The State Superintendent of Public Instruction shall cause to be delivered to the superintendents or principals of the various high schools of the State sufficient number of said pamphlets to supply one to each of the teachers engaged for said schools. (1927, c. 242, s. 2.)

§ 2621(110). Pamphlets brought to attention of children. — The superintendents or principals, or other persons in charge of the public high schools of the State shall cause the contents of said pamphlets to be brought to the attention of all the children in attendance upon the said high schools in the form of lessons of at least one each week until the entire contents of said pamphlet have been read and explained. (1927, c. 242, s. 3.)

§ 2621(111). Practice to be continued; highway commission to supply additional copies yearly.—This practice shall be continued during each school year and the State Highway Commission is directed annually on or before the first Monday of August, to supply, as hereinbefore provided, such additional copies of the said pamphlet, having the same revised from time to time to meet any amendments of the traffic laws of the State, as the State Superintendent of Public Instruction may ascertain and report to the State

Highway Commission to be necessary. (1927, c. 242, s. 4.)

Art. 10. Enforcement of Collection of Judgments against Irresponsible Drivers of Motor Vehicles

§ 2621(112). Suspension of driver's license and registration certificates for failure to pay tort judgment. — In the event of the failure of any person, firm or corporation, to satisfy any judgment which shall have hereafter become final, by expiration, without appeal, of the time within which appeal might have been perfected, or by final affirmance, on appeal, rendered against him, by a court of competent jurisdiction in this State, within thirty days thereafter for damages on account of personal injuries, or deaths, or damage to property in excess of one hundred dollars ($100.00) resulting from the ownership, maintenance, use or operation of a motor vehicle, the said operator's license and all of the registration certificates of the said person, firm or corporation shall be forthwith suspended by the Commissioner of Revenue of North Carolina, upon receiving a certified copy or transcript of such final judgment, from the court in which the same was rendered, showing such judgment or judgments to have been still unsatisfied more than thirty days after the same became final, as aforesaid, and shall remain so suspended and shall not be renewed, nor shall any motor vehicle be thereafter registered in the name of the said person, firm or corporation while any such judgment remains unstayed, unsatisfied and subsisting and until every such judgment is satisfied or discharged, or until the said person gives proof of his ability to respond in damages, as hereinafter required, for future accidents. It shall be the duty of the Clerk of the Superior Court in any county in which any such judgment is rendered, to forward immediately after the expiration of said thirty days, as aforesaid, to the Commissioner of Revenue, a certified copy of such judgment or a transcript thereof as aforesaid. (1931, c. 116, s. 1.)

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 223.

§ 2621(113). Proof of ability to respond in damages; surety bond; withdrawal of license to operate automobile.—The proof of the ability of any person, firm or corporation to respond in damages for any liability incurred may be established by the execution of a bond of a surety company, duly authorized to transact business within this State or a bond, with at least two individual sureties, each owning real estate within this State, which real estate shall be scheduled in the bond and which bond shall be approved by a Clerk of the Superior Court. The said bond to be conditioned for any liability thereafter incurred resulting from the ownership, maintenance, use or operation thereafter of a motor vehicle for personal injury to or death of any one person in the amount of at least five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) and, subject to the aforesaid limit for any one person injured or killed, of at least ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) for personal injury to or the death of two or more persons in any one accident, and for damages to property in the amount of at least one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) resulting from any one accident. Additional evidence of ability to respond in damages, as required by this act, shall be furnished the Commissioner of Revenue at any time upon his demand.

Provided, however, anything in this act to be contrary notwithstanding, that

(1) When five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) has been credited upon any judgment or judgments rendered in excess of that amount for personal injury to or the death of one person as the result of any one accident; or

(2) When, subject to the limit of five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) for any one person so injured or killed, the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) has been credited upon any judgment or judgments rendered in excess of that amount for personal injury to or the death of more than one person as the result of any one accident; or

(3) When one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) has been credited upon any judgment or judgments rendered in excess of that amount for damage to property as the result of any one accident; resulting from the ownership, maintenance, use or operation of a motor vehicle, then and in such event, such payment or payments shall be deemed a satisfaction of such judgment or judgments for the purpose of this act only.

If any such motor vehicle owner or operator shall not be a resident of this State, the privilege of operating any motor vehicle in this State and the privilege of operation within the State of any motor vehicle owned by him shall be withdrawn while any final judgment against him as aforesaid, shall be unstayed, unsatisfied and subsisting for more than thirty (30) days, as aforesaid, and shall not be renewed, nor shall any operator's or chauffeur's license be issued to him or any motor vehicle registered in his name until every such judgment shall be stayed, satisfied or discharged as herein provided, and until such person shall have given proof of his ability to respond in damages for future accidents. (1931, c. 116, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The discrimination against non-residents provided for in the last paragraph of this section presents a constitutional problem which will undoubtedly come before the courts, but much authority would sustain it. See La Tourette v. McMaster, 248 U. S. 465, 39 S. Ct. 160, 63 L. Ed. 362, upholding discrimination between residents and non-residents in granting licenses to act as insurance brokers. The practical difficulty is to understand what the non-resident would be doing with a North Carolina automobile license unless he sojourned in the state for some substantial part of each year. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 385.

Individual Sureties May Be Given.—The provision made in this section for the bond of a surety company, "or a bond with at least two individual sureties," etc., indicates the legislative intent as to giving individual sureties in certain cases. State v. Sasseen, 206 N. C. 644, 648, 175 S. E. 142.

§ 2621(114). Proof of ability by insurance carrier's certificate.—Proof of ability to respond in damages, when required by this act, may be evidenced by the written certificate or certificates of any insurance carriers duly authorized to do business within the State, that it has issued to or for the benefit of the person named therein a motor vehicle liability policy or policies in the form hereinafter prescribed, which, at the date of the certificate or certificates, is or are in full force and effect, and designating therein by explicit description or by other adequate reference, all motor vehicles to which the policy or policies apply. The Commissioner of Revenue shall not accept any certificate or certificates unless the same shall cover all motor vehicles then registered in this State in the name of the person furnishing such proof. Additional certificates, as aforesaid, shall be required as a condition precedent to the registration of any additional motor vehicle or motor vehicles in the name of such person required to furnish proof as aforesaid. Said certificate or certificates shall certify that the motor vehicle liability policies therein cited shall not be cancelled or expire except as hereinafter provided. If such person be a non-resident, a certificate, as aforesaid, of an insurance carrier authorized to transact business in the State in which the motor vehicle or motor vehicles described in such certificate is registered, or if none be described, then in the State in which the insured resides, shall be excepted if such carrier shall (a) execute a power of attorney authorizing the Commissioner of Revenue to accept service of notice or process in any action arising out of a motor vehicle accident in this State, and (b) its governing executive authority shall duly adopt a resolution providing that its policies shall be deemed to be varied to comply with the law of this State relating to the terms of motor vehicle liability policies issued therein, and (c) agree to accept as final and binding any final judgment duly rendered in any action arising out of a motor vehicle accident in any court of competent jurisdiction in this State: Provided, however, that the provisions of this section shall be operative as to such insurance carriers (organized and existing under the laws of such State and not licensed to transact business in this State) only to the extent and under the same terms and conditions that under the laws of such State where such motor vehicle is registered or in which the insured resides, like recognition, if a law of like effect is in force and effect, is granted to certificates of insurance carriers, organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of this State. If, under the laws of such State, in which a law of like effect is in force and effect, certificates of insurance carriers organized and existing under or by virtue of the laws of this State are not accepted, the certificates of insurance carriers of such State shall not be accepted under the provisions of this act.

The Commissioner of Revenue shall be notified by the insurance carrier or sureties of the cancellation or expiration of any motor vehicle liability policy or bond certified under the provisions of the act at least ten (10) days before the effective date of such cancellation or expiration and until such notice is duly given, such policy shall continue in full force and effect.

The Commissioner of Revenue shall require proof of ability to respond in damages, within the limits herein specified, from and after the effective date of this bill, of all taxicab, jitney and for-hire operators not covered or embraced within the provisions of the present law or such laws as may be enacted at this session of the General Assembly affecting other motor vehicle operators transporting passengers or property upon the highways for compensation. (1931, c. 116, s. 3.)

§ 2621(115). Bond to satisfy execution. — A bond, filed by or on behalf of any person under the provisions of this act shall be held by the Commissioner of Revenue to satisfy, in accordance with the provisions of this act, any execution issued against such person on a judgment for damages, as aforesaid, arising out of the ownership, maintenance, use or operation of a motor vehicle, as aforesaid. If such a judgment rendered against the principal on the surety company bond or real estate individual bond, given under the provisions of this act, shall not be satisfied within thirty (30) days after it has become final as hereinbefore provided, the judgment creditor may, for his own use and benefit and at his sole expense, bring an action or actions in the name of the State against the company or persons executing such bond. (1931, c. 116, s. 4.)

§ 2621(116). Abstracts of operating record furnished on request.—The Commissioner of Revenue shall upon request furnish any insurance carrier, person, or surety a certified abstract of the operating record of any person subject to the provisions of this act, which abstract shall fully designate the motor vehicles (if any), registered in the name of such person, and if there shall be no record of any conviction of such person of a violation of any provision of any statute relating to the operating of a motor vehicle or of any injury or damage caused by such person as herein provided, the Commissioner of Revenue shall so certify. The Commissioner of Revenue shall collect for each such certificate the sum of one dollar. (1931, c. 116, s. 5.)

§ 2621(117). Commissioner to furnish other information on request.—The Commissioner of Revenue shall furnish any person who may have been injured in person or property by any motor vehicle, upon written request, with all information of record in his office pertaining to the evidence of the ability of any operator or owner of any motor vehicle to respond in damages. (1931, c. 116, s. 6.)

§ 2621(118). Return by operator of licenses, number plates upon request of Commissioner. — Any operator or any owner, whose operator's license or certificate of registration shall have been suspended as herein provided, or whose policy of insurance or surety bond shall have been cancelled or terminated, or who shall neglect to furnish additional evidence of ability to respond in damages upon request of the Commissioner of Revenue shall immediately return to the Commissioner of Revenue his operator's license, certificate of registration and the number plates issued thereunder. If any person shall wilfully fail to return to the Commissioner of Revenue the operator's license, certificate or certificates of registration and the number plates issued thereunder as provided herein, the Commissioner of Revenue shall forthwith direct any State policeman or other police officer to secure possession thereof and to return the same to the office of the Commissioner of Revenue. Any person wilfully failing to return such operator's license or such certificate or certificates and number plates shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) and such penalty shall be in addition to any penalty imposed for any violation of the Motor Vehicle Laws of North Carolina. (1931, c. 116, s. 7.)

§ 2621(119). Cancellation or return of bond by Commissioner.—The Commissioner of Revenue shall cancel such bond or return such proof of insurance to the person furnishing the same at any time after three years shall have elapsed since the filing of such bond or proof or the making of such deposit: Provided, that no suit or judgment against him for damages as aforesaid arising from the ownership, maintenance, use or operation hereafter of a motor vehicle shall then be pending or outstanding and unstayed or unsatisfied, as aforesaid; and the affidavit of such person, showing fulfillment of these requirements shall be sufficient proof thereof in the absence of evidence to the contrary before the Commissioner. (1931, c. 116, s. 8.)

§ 2621(120). Fraudulent transfer of registration certificate. — If any owner's certificate of registration has been suspended under the provisions of this act, such certificate shall not be transferred nor the motor vehicle in respect of which such certificate was issued, registered in another name, where the Commissioner of Revenue has reasonable grounds to believe that such transfer or registration is proposed for the purpose or will have the effect of defeating the purpose of this act. Provided, however, that such transfer of registration shall be permitted upon the furnishing of proof of financial responsibility to the Commissioner of Revenue by such transferee whenever the Commissioner shall deem it necessary in furtherance of the purpose of this section. (1931, c. 116, s. 9.)

§ 2621(121). Present policies of automobile insurance unaffected.—Nothing in this act contained shall be held to apply to or affect policies of automobile insurance against liability which may now or hereafter be required by special act, and such policies, if endorsed to conform to the requirements of this act, shall be accepted as proof of financial responsibility when required under this act; nor shall anything in this act contained be held to apply to or affect policies insuring solely the insured named in the policy against liability resulting from the maintenance, operation or use by other persons in the insured's employ or in his behalf of motor vehicles not owned by the insured. (1931, c. 116, s. 10.)

§ 2621(122). Fraudulent proof of ability to respond in damages.—Any person who shall forge, or without authority, sign any evidence of ability to respond in damages as required by the Commissioner of Revenue in the administration of this act and any non-resident who shall operate a motor vehicle in this State from whom the privilege of operating any motor vehicle has been withdrawn as provided in section two hereof, shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) or imprisoned not more than thirty days, or both. (1931, c. 116, s. 11.)

§ 2621(123). Motor vehicle liability policy. — "Motor vehicle liability policy," as used in this act, shall be taken to mean a policy of liability insurance issued by an insurance carrier authorized to transact business in this State or issued by an insurance carrier authorized to transact business in the State in which the motor vehicle or motor vehicles therein described is registered, or if none be described, then in the State in which the insured resides to the person therein named as insured, which policy shall either (1) designate, by explicit description or other adequate reference, all motor vehicles with respect to which coverage is intended to be granted by said policy, and shall insure the insured named therein and any other person using or responsible for the use of any such motor vehicle with the consent, express or implied, of such insured against loss from the liability imposed by law upon such insured or upon such other person for injury to or death of any person, other than such insured and such person or persons as may be covered, as respects such injury or death by any workmen's compensation law, and/or for damage to property, except property of others in charge of the insured or of his employees or other agents growing out of the ownership, maintenance, use or operation of any such motor vehicle within the continental limits of the United States of America; or which policy shall, in the alternative, (2) insure the person therein named as insured against loss from the liability imposed by law upon such insured for injury to or death of any person, other than such insured and such person or persons as may be covered as respects such injury or death by any workmen's compensation law, and/or for damage to property, except property of others in charge of the insured or of his employees or other agents growing out of the maintenance, operation or use by such insured of any motor vehicle, except a motor vehicle registered in the name of such insured, and occurring while such insured is personally in control, as driver or occupant, of such motor vehicle within the continental limits of the United States of America to the amount or limit of five thousand dollars ($5,000.00), exclusive of interest and costs, on account of injury to or death of any one person, and, subject to the same limit as respects injury to or death of any one person, of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00), exclusive of interest and costs, on account of any one accident resulting in injury to or death of more than one person; and of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) for damage to property of others, as herein provided, resulting from any one accident; or a binder pending the issuance of any such policy, or an endorsement to an existing policy both as hereinafter provided: Provided, however, that this section shall not be construed as preventing an insurance carrier from granting in a "motor vehicle liability policy" any lawful coverage in excess of or in addition to the coverage herein provided for or from embodying in such policy and agreements, provisions or stipulations not contrary to the provisions of this act and not otherwise contrary to law. And: Provided, further, that separate concurrent policies, whether issued by one or several carriers, covering, respectively, (a) personal injury or death, as aforesaid, and (b) property damage, as aforesaid, shall be termed "a motor vehicle liability policy," within the meaning of this act.

Except as in section 2621(121) provided, no motor vehicle liability policy shall be issued or delivered in this State until a copy of the form of policy shall have been on file with the Commissioner of Insurance for at least thirty (30) days, unless sooner approved in writing by such Commissioner, nor if within said period of thirty (30) days such Commissioner shall have notified the carrier in writing that in his opinion, specifying the reasons therefor, the form of policy does not comply with the provisions of this act. The Commissioner of Insurance shall approve any form of policy which specifies the name, address and business, if any, of the insured, the coverage afforded by the policy, the premium charged therefor, the policy period, and the limits of liability, and contains an agreement that the insurance thereunder is provided in accordance with the coverage defined in this section, as respects personal injury and death or property damage or both, and is subject to all the provisions of this act.

Every such motor vehicle liability policy shall be subject to the following provisions, whether or not contained therein:

(a) The liability of the insurance carrier under a motor vehicle liability policy shall become absolute whenever loss or damage covered by such policy occurs, and the satisfaction by the assured of a final judgment for such loss or damage shall not be a condition precedent to the right or obligation of the carrier to make payment on account of such loss or damage. No such policy shall be cancelled or annulled as respects any loss or damage, by any agreement between the carrier and the insured after the said insured has become responsible for such loss or damage, and any such cancellation or annulment shall be void.

The policy may provide that the insured, or any other person covered by the policy, shall reimburse the insurance carrier for payments made on account of any loss or damage claim or suit involving a breach of the terms, provisions or conditions of the policy; and further, if the policy shall provide for limits in excess of the limits specified in this section, the insurance carrier may plead against any plaintiff, with respect to the amount of such excess limits of liability, and defenses which it may be entitled to plead against the insured, and any such policy may further provide for the prorating of the insurance thereunder with other applicable valid and collectible insurance.

(b) The policy, the written application therefor, if any, and any rider or endorsement which shall not conflict with the provisions of this act shall constitute the entire contract between the parties.

(c) The insurance carrier shall, upon the request of the insured, deliver to the insured for filing, or at the request of the insured shall file direct, with the Commissioner of Revenue an appropriate certificate in conformity with the provisions of section three, of this act.

(d) Any carrier authorized to issue motor vehicle liability policies may, pending the issue of such a policy, execute an agreement, to be known as a "binder;" or may, in lieu of such a policy, issue an endorsement to an existing policy. Every such binder or endorsement shall be subject to the provisions of this section and shall be construed to provide indemnity or insurance in like manner and to the same extent as a motor vehicle liability policy. (1931, c. 116, s. 12.)

§ 2621(124). Certain words defined.—The following words, as used in this act, shall have the following meanings:

(a) The singular shall include the plural; the masculine shall include the feminine and neuter, as requisite.

(b) "Person" shall include individuals, partnerships, corporations, receivers, referees, trustees, executors and administrators; and shall also include the owner of any motor vehicle as requisite; but shall not include the State or any political subdivisions thereof.

(c) "Motor Vehicle" shall include trailers, motorcycles and tractors. (1931, c. 116, s. 13.)

§ 2621(125). Rules and regulations.—The commissioner of Revenue shall make rules and regulations necessary for the administration of this act. (1931, c. 116, s. 14.)

§ 2621(126). Reliance on other security unaffected. — Nothing herein shall be construed as preventing the plaintiff in any action at law from relying for security upon the other processes provided by law. (1931, c. 116, s. 15.)

Art. 11. Consolidation of Activities under the Motor Vehicle Bureau

§ 2621(127). Motor vehicle bureau set up in department of revenue; deputy commissioner.—The commissioner of revenue shall set up in the department of revenue a motor vehicle bureau and appoint as administrative head of said bureau a deputy motor vehicle commissioner, which deputy motor vehicle commissioner shall at all times be under the authority and control of the commissioner of revenue. There shall be transferred and organized under the motor vehicle bureau all such activities as are now provided by law in the department of revenue for the registration and licensing of motor vehicles, for the collection of gasoline taxes, and likewise all duties and authority now conferred by law upon the department of agriculture with respect to the inspection and analysis of kerosene, gasoline, and lubricating oils; and likewise all duties and authority now conferred by law upon the state highway commission with respect to the enforcement of the motor vehicle laws and control and direction of the state highway patrol; and such other additional duties as are hereinafter provided for. (1933, c. 544, s. 1.)

§ 2621(128). Motor vehicle and inspection board created.—In order to more fully carry out the purposes of this act, there is hereby created a motor vehicle and inspection board, to be composed of the governor, or such person as he may designate to serve in his stead, the commissioner of revenue, and the chairman of the state highway commission, who shall serve without additional compensation. (1933, c. 544, s. 2.)

§ 2621(129). Minimum standards for articles inspected.—It shall be the duty of the motor vehicle and inspection board, after public notice and provision for the hearing of all interested parties within sixty days after the ratification of this act, to adopt minimum standards for each of the articles for which inspection is provided in consolidated statutes, section four thousand eight hundred and fifty-two, and to cause such standards to be published throughout the state and made available for all dealers in such products. After the adoption and publication of said standards, it shall be unlawful to sell or offer or expose for sale or exchange or to use in this state any of such products which fail to comply with the standards so adopted. The said motor vehicle and inspection board shall from time to time, after a public hearing, have a right to amend, alter, or change said standards. (1933, c. 544, s. 3.)

§ 2621(130). Adulteration of articles prohibited.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation or association who has purchased gasoline or other liquid motor fuel upon which a road tax has been paid, or which has been designated gasoline of legal standard, to in any wise adulterate or lower the standard of same by the addition thereto of kerosene, or any other liquid or substance, and sell or offer for sale the same. (1933, c. 544, s. 4.)

§ 2621(131). Board to sample articles to be inspected.—For the purpose of protecting the state's revenues, and for the purpose of preventing frauds, substitutions, adulterations, and other reprehensible practices, sections four thousand eight hundred fifty and four thousand eight hundred and fifty-one of the consolidated statutes be, and the same are hereby so amended as to authorize and empower said department, or its agents, to examine, investigate, inspect and take samples of all kerosene, gasoline, benzine, naphtha, petroleum solvents, distillates, gas oil, furnace or fuel oil, and all other volatile and inflammable liquids by whatever name known or sold and produced, manufactured, refined, prepared, distilled, compounded or blended for the purpose of generating power in motor vehicles for the propulsion thereof by means of internal combustion, or which are sold or used for such purposes, and any and all substances or liquids or commodities which, in themselves, or by reasonable combinations with others, might be used for, or as substitutes for, motor fuels. But, it is not the purpose of this statute to impose any inspection tax upon commodities except kerosene oil, gasoline, and other products of petroleum used as motor fuels, as provided in section four thousand eight hundred fifty-six of the consolidated statutes. The inspection tax shall be due and payable upon the total quantity of kerosene, gasoline, or other motor fuels sold or used as required by the laws imposing tax under the gasoline road tax; and payment of same shall be made concurrent therewith, unless the commissioner of revenue shall by rule and regulation prescribe other methods for the collection of such tax; and the said commissioner is hereby expressly given authority to make and provide for the enforcement of such rules and regulations as the said commissioner may find necessary to secure the inspection of all gasoline and kerosene, and to collect the inspection fee therefor. To this end the laws requiring transportation agencies to report to the department of revenue the delivery in this state of gasoline and/or kerosene are hereby amended so as to authorize the said commissioner of revenue to require said transportation agencies to likewise report any of the other articles mentioned in this section which, in the opinion of the commissioner, may be necessary or useful in preventing the adulteration of gasoline or kerosene. (1933, c. 544, § 5.)

§ 2621(132). Laboratory analysis.—The commissioner of revenue be authorized to provide for laboratory analysis of samples of the inspected articles by continuing said work in the department of agriculture as heretofore, upon such arrangements as may be mutually agreed upon between the commissioner of revenue and the commissioner of agriculture, or by transferring said laboratory analysis to the division of laboratory and tests in the department of the state highway commission, as he may find most advantageous and economical. (1933, c. 544, s. 6.)

§ 2621(133). Analysis certificate admissible in evidence.—A certified copy of the official test of the analysis of any petroleum product made under the provisions of this article, under the seal of the commissioner of revenue, shall be admissible as evidence of the fact therein stated in any of the courts of this state on the trial of any issue involving the qualities of said product. (1933, c. 544, s. 7.)

§ 2621(134). Inspection duties of highway patrol.—In addition to the duties now imposed by law upon the state highway patrol, the deputy motor vehicle commissioner shall direct the members of the state highway patrol to perform the duties now imposed by law upon the inspectors as authorized by consolidated statutes, section four thousand eight hundred fifty-four, and they shall be invested with all the authority of such inspectors. The deputy motor vehicle commissioner may likewise direct any employee of the motor vehicle bureau to collect samples of the articles to be inspected, and they shall, upon such designation, have all the authority now conferred by law upon inspectors for this purpose. (1933, c. 544, s. 8.)

§ 2621(135). Samples taken of bulk shipments and from retail distributors.—The deputy motor vehicle commissioner shall cause samples to be taken not only of bulk shipments and in original packages, but likewise at the various retail distributing points throughout the state, to the end that the public may be protected in the quality of petroleum products purchased, and that the mixing and blending of other products with gasoline to avoid the tax thereon may be prevented. (1933, c. 544, s. 9.)

quired by law, or shall fail or refuse or neglect to file any report required by law, or to pay the full amount of the tax as required by law, the commissioner of revenue may forthwith cancel the license of such licensee and notify such licensee in writing of such cancellation by registered mail to the last known address of such licensee appearing in the files of the commissioner of revenue. In the event that the license of any licensee shall be cancelled by the commissioner of revenue as hereinbefore provided in this section, and in the event such licensee shall have paid to the state of North Carolina all the taxes due and payable by it under this article, together with any and all penalties accruing under any of the provisions of this article, then the commissioner of revenue shall cancel and surrender the bond theretofore filed by said licensee. (1933, c. 544, s. 10.)

§ 2621(137). Penalty for failure to report or to pay taxes promptly.—When any licensee shall fail to file reports with the commissioner of revenue, as required by this article, or shall fail to pay to the commissioner of revenue the amount of inspection tax due to the state of North Carolina when the same shall be payable, a penalty of one hundred per cent (100%) shall be added to the amount of the tax due, and said penalty of one hundred per cent (100%) shall immediately accrue, and thereafter said tax and penalty shall bear interest at the rate of one per cent (1%) per month until the same is paid. (1933, c. 544, s. 11.)

§ 2621(138). The commissioner of revenue may estimate motor fuel received.—Whenever any licensee shall neglect or refuse to make and file any report as required by this article, or shall file an incorrect or fraudulent report, the commissioner of revenue shall determine after an investigation the number of gallons of kerosene oil and motor fuel with respect to which the licensee has incurred liability under the tax laws of the state of North Carolina, and shall fix the amount of the taxes and penalties payable by the licensee under this article accordingly. In any action or proceeding for the collection of the inspection tax for kerosene oil or motor fuel and/or any penalties or interest imposed in connection therewith, an assessment by the commissioner of revenue of the amount of tax due, and/or interest and/or penalties due to the state, shall constitute prima facie evidence of the claim of the state; and the burden of proof shall be upon the licensee to show that the assessment was incorrect and contrary to law; and the commissioner of revenue may institute action therefor in the superior court of Wake county, regardless of the residence of such licensee or the place where the default occurred. (1933, c. 544, s. 12.)

§ 2621(139). "Licensee" defined.—The word "licensee" as used in this article is hereby defined and declared to include and embrace not only the person, firm or corporation to which the license is issued, but all its agents, servants, and employees. (1933, c. 544, s. 13.)

§ 2621(140). Measuring equipment to be inspected.—The agents of the deputy motor vehicle commissioner shall be required to investigate and inspect the equipment for measuring gasoline, lubricating oil, and illuminating oil, and other petroleum products, and make report of such inspection to the deputy motor vehicle commissioner. In all cases where it is found, after inspection, that the measuring equipment used in connection with the distribution of such products is inaccurate, and if the owner, within five days after the notice of such inaccuracy, fails to correct the same and continues to use it, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and the deputy motor vehicle commissioner is authorized to condemn and confiscate such equipment: Provided, that the owner of any such equipment, before the same is confiscated, shall have a right to a hearing before the motor vehicle and inspection board hereinbefore provided. (1933, c. 544, s. 14.)

§ 2621(141). Field force limited.—In addition to the members of the state highway patrol, the deputy motor vehicle commissioner shall not be allowed a field force of more than six men, other than the auditors provided in house bill number three hundred and eighty (380), providing for the auditing of the accounts of gasoline distributors. (1933, c. 544, s. 15.)

§ 2621(142). Vehicles for hire regulated.—The commissioner of revenue shall have authority and it shall be his duty to pass reasonable rules and regulations to require all operators of motor vehicles for hire to have such vehicles properly equipped with brakes and lights, in accordance with the requirements of law, and to require satisfactory evidence of liability insurance where same is required by law, prior to the issuance of annual license therefor, and to have the same inspected periodically during the period of said license; and the commissioner of revenue is authorized and directed to take all necessary steps to enforce such rules and regulations. (1933, c. 544, s. 16.)

§ 2621(143). Compensation of members of new department.—The salary of the deputy motor vehicle commissioner and the number and salaries of the various clerks and assistants assigned to him by the commissioner of revenue shall be fixed by the budget bureau, and all appropriations made under the several departments for the various activities here consolidated, or so much thereof as may be necessary, shall, with the approval of the budget bureau, be made available for carrying out the purposes of this article. (1933, c. 544, s. 17.)

be utilized under the provisions of this act, and for any other services necessary to be performed in carrying out the provisions of this article, there shall from time to time be allotted by the budget bureau from the inspection fees collected under authority of the inspection laws of this state such sums as the budget bureau may find to be necessary for the efficient administration of the inspection laws. (1933, c. 544, s. 18.)

§ 2621(145). Laws amended.—All laws relating to the subject matter of this article are hereby amended to such extent as may be necessary to make them conform to this article, and as thus amended continued in full force and effect; and all laws or clauses of laws inconsistent with the provisions of this article, to the extent of such inconsistency and conflict, but no further, are hereby repealed. (1933, c. 544, s. 19.)

Art. 12. Regulation of Automobile Liability Insurance Rates.

§ 2621(146). Approval by insurance commissioner of automobile liability insurance rates.—Every person, association or corporation authorized to transact automobile liability and/or property damage and/or collision insurance business within this state shall file with the insurance commissioner on or before their effective date, the classification of risks, rules, rates, and rating plans, for writing such insurance, approved or made by such insurer or by any rating organization of which it is a member, none of which shall become effective until approved by the insurance commissioner. The insurance commissioner shall within fifteen days after the filing of each classification of risks, rules, rates and rating plans indicate in writing his approval or disapproval thereof with his reasons therefor. Such filing may be made on behalf of an insurer by the rating organization of which it is a member. Any bureau organized in this state for making and/or administering automobile rates and rating plans shall provide for equal representation of stock and non-stock insurers upon its governing and all other committees and shall admit to membership any insurer applying therefor. (1933, c. 283, s. 1.)

The most important feature of this legislation is the authorization of rate regulation by the Insurance Commissioner. Insurance premium rate regulation has been generally upheld as an exercise of the police power, since insurance is a business affected with a public interest. See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 233.

§ 2621(147). Compliance with fixed rates mandatory.—Every person, association, or corporation authorized to transact the aforesaid insurance business within this state shall comply with the rates and rules affecting such rates of the rating organization in which it has membership or whose rates it adopts as its standard, or with the rates and rules which such insurer has filed with the insurance commissioner. (1933, c. 283, s. 2.)

§ 2621(148). Adjustment of unreasonable rates.—It shall be the duty of the insurance commissioner, after due notice and a hearing before him, to order an adjustment of rates on any such risks or classes of risks whenever it shall be found by him that such rates are excessive or unreasonable or that any insurer is discriminating unfairly between its policyholders whose risks are of essentially the same hazard. The findings, determinations and orders of the insurance commissioner shall be subject to review on their merits by appeal to the superior court of Wake county. (1933, c. 283, s. 3.)

§ 2621(149). Refunds by mutuals and exchanges unaffected.—Nothing in this article shall be construed to limit the method of determining rates, or plan of operation of any mutual insurance company or inter-insurance exchange in this state, or prevent refund to all policyholders of the same class any portion of the annual premium not required to defray the expenses of such insurance. (1933, c. 283, s. 4.)

Art. 13. Licensing of Motor Vehicle Operators and Chauffeurs.

§ 2621(150). Definitions.—Terms used in this article shall be construed as follows, unless another meaning is clearly apparent from the language or context or unless such construction is inconsistent with the manifest intention of the legislature.

"Highway" shall include any trunk line highway, state aid road or other public highway, road, street, avenue, alley, driveway, parkway, or place, under the control of the state or any political subdivision thereof, dedicated, appropriated or opened to public travel or other use.

"Motor vehicle" shall mean any rubber-tired vehicle propelled or drawn by any power other than muscular, except aircraft, road rollers, street sprinklers, ambulances owned by municipalities, baggage trucks, and tractors used about railroad stations and yards, agricultural tractors, industrial tractors used in and around warehouses and yards, and such vehicles as run only upon rails or tracks.

"Non-resident" shall mean any person whose legal residence is in some state other than North Carolina or in a foreign country.

"Operator" shall mean any person other than a "chauffeur" who shall operate a motor vehicle or who shall be in the driver's seat of a motor vehicle when the engine is running or who shall steer or direct the course of a motor vehicle which is being towed or pushed by another motor vehicle.

"Chauffeur" shall mean every person who is employed for the principle purpose of operating a passenger motor vehicle, except school busses, and every person who drives any motor vehicle while in use as a public or common carrier for persons or property, and this shall apply to city delivery motor vehicles.

"Person" shall include any individual, corporation, association, co-partnership, company, firm or other aggregation of individuals.

"Vehicle" shall include any device suitable for use on the highways for the conveyance, drawing or other transportation of persons or property, except those propelled or drawn by muscular power or those used exclusively upon tracks.

"Department" shall mean the same agency that may by law have control of the state highway patrol of this State acting directly or through its duly authorized officers and agents. (1935, c. 52, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Section 35 of chapter 52 of Public Laws of 1935, from whence the above section was codified provides: "This act shall take effect from and after the first day of November, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, but the operators' and chauffeurs' licenses shall be made available ninety (90) days after its ratification."

§ 2621(151). Operators and chauffeurs must be licensed.—(a) No person except those expressly exempted under section 2621(152) shall operate a motor vehicle upon any highway in this State unless such person upon application has been licensed as an operator or chauffeur by the department under the provisions of this article. Provided, that any person over sixteen (16) years of age who has not been refused such license or who has not had such license suspended or revoked may, for a period not exceeding thirty days, operate a motor vehicle, during daylight hours, while under the instruction of and accompanied by a licensed operator or chauffeur, who shall have full controll of and responsibility for the motor vehicle as provided by law.

(b) Every application for an operator's or chauffeur's license shall be made upon the approved form furnished by the department and shall be verified by the applicant before a person authorized to administer oaths. All members of the state highway patrol are hereby authorized and directed to administer oaths in the administration of this article, and no fee shall be charged by them for such service.

(c) Before granting an operator's or chauffeur's license to any applicant who has not had previous experience in the operation of a motor vehicle, the department shall require such applicant to demonstrate personally in such manner and to such person or persons as the department may direct, that such applicant is a proper person to operate a motor vehicle, has sufficient knowledge of the mechanism of motor vehicles to insure their safe operation by him, and a satisfactory knowledge of the laws concerning motor vehicles and the rules of the road pertaining to same. Provided that when such applicant shall have held a license from a state where a similar examination is required, the department may waive part or all of such examination, in its discretion. Provided, further, that until November first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, one year's driving experience and freedom from conviction of traffic violations during such year shall be considered prima facie qualification for license as operator.

(d) When the department is satisfied as to the ability and competency of any applicant, it shall issue to him a license, either unlimited or containing such limitations as the department shall deem advisable. If any applicant shall suffer from physical defect or from disease which might affect the operation by him of a motor vehicle, the department may require a certificate of such applicant's condition signed by medical authority designated by the department, which certificate shall in all cases be treated as confidential. A license containing such limitations as the department shall deem advisable may be issued in any case, but nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the department from refusing a license, either limited or unlimited, to any person deemed to be incapable of operating a motor vehicle with safety to himself and to the public. Provided nothing herein shall prohibit deaf persons from operating a motor vehicle who in every other way meet the requirements.

(e) Every operator's or chauffeur's license issued by the department shall bear thereon the distinguishing number assigned to the licensee and shall contain the name, age, residence address and a brief description of the licensee, who, for the purpose of identification and as a condition precedent to the validity of the license, immediately upon receipt thereof, shall endorse his or her regular signature in ink upon the same in the space provided for that purpose. Such license shall be carried by the licensee at all times while engaged in the operation of a motor vehicle. However no person charged with failing to so carry such license shall be convicted, if he produces in court an operator's or chauffeur's license theretofore issued to him and valid at the time of his arrest.

(f) Every chauffeur before operating a motor vehicle as a public or common carrier of persons or property shall apply for and receive from the department a chauffeur's badge and at all times, while so operating a motor vehicle, shall display the same upon his person where it will be plainly visible. Such badges shall be furnished by the department, each bearing thereon the distinguishing number assigned to the licensee.

(g) Any person operating a motor vehicle in violation of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished as provided in this article. (1935, c. 52, s. 2.)

§ 2621(152). Persons exempt from license.—The following are exempt from license hereunder:

(a) Any person while operating a motor vehicle the property of, and in the service of the Army, Navy or Marine Corps of the United States. This shall not be construed to exempt any chauffeurs or operators of the United States Civilian Conservation Corps motor vehicles;

(b) Any person while driving or operating any road machine, farm tractor, or implement of husbandry temporarily operated or moved on a highway;

(c) A non-resident who is at least sixteen (16) years of age and who has in his immediate possession a valid operator's license issued to him in his home state or country, may operate a motor vehicle in this state only as an operator;

(d) A non-resident who is at least eighteen (18) years of age and who has in his immediate possession of valid chauffeur's license issued to him in his home state or country may operate a motor vehicle in this state either as an operator or chauffeur except any such person must be licensed as a chauffeur hereunder before accepting employment as a chauffeur from a resident of this state;

(e) Any non-resident who is at least eighteen (18) years of age, whose home state or country does not require the licensing of operators may operate a motor vehicle as an operator only, for a period of not more than ninety (90) days in any calendar year if the motor vehicle so operated is duly registered in the home state or country of such non-resident;

(f) Any non-resident who is at least eighteen (18) years of age, whose home state or country does not require the licensing of chauffeurs may operate a motor vehicle as a chauffeur for a period of not more than ten days in any calendar year if the motor vehicle so operated is duly registered in the home state or country of such non-resident. (1935, c. 52, s. 3.)

§ 2621(153). What persons shall not be licensed. —(a) An operator's license shall not be issued to any person under the age of sixteen (16) years, and no chauffeur's license shall be issued to any person under the age of eighteen (18) years.

(b) The department shall not issue an operator's or chauffeur's license to any person whose license, either as operator or chauffeur, has been suspended, during the period for which license was suspended; nor to any person whose license, either as operator or chauffeur, has been revoked under the provisions of this article, until the expiration of one year after such license was revoked.

(c) The department shall not issue an operator's or chauffeur's license to any person whom it has determined is an habitual drunkard or is addicted to the use of narcotic drugs.

(d) No operator's or chauffeur's license shall be issued to any applicant who has been previously adjudged insane or an idiot, imbecile, grand mal epileptic, or feeble-minded, and who has not at the time of such application been restored to competency by judicial decree or released from a hospital for the insane or feeble-minded upon a certificate of the superintendent that such person is competent, nor then unless the department is satisfied that such person is competent to operate a motor vehicle with safety to persons and property.

(e) The department shall not issue an operator's or chauffeur's license to any person when in the opinion of the department such person is afflicted with or suffering from such physical or mental disability or disease as will serve to prevent such person from exercising reasonable and ordinary control over a motor vehicle while operating the same upon the highways, nor shall a license be issued to any person who is unable to understand highway warnings or direction signs. (1935, c. 52, s. 4.)

§ 2621(154). Age limits for drivers of public passenger-carrying vehicles.—It shall be unlawful for any person, whether licensed under this article or not, who is under the age of twenty-one years to drive a motor vehicle while in use as a public passenger-carrying vehicle. (1935, c. 52, s. 5.)

§ 2621(155). Application of minor.—The department shall not grant the application of any minor between the ages of sixteen (16) and eighteen (18) years for an operator's license unless such application is signed by the father of the applicant, if the father is living and has custody of the applicant, otherwise by the mother or guardian having the custody of such minor, or in the event a minor under the age of eighteen years has no mother, father, or guardian, then the operator's license shall not be granted to the minor unless his application therefor is signed by his employer. (1935, c. 52, s. 6.)

§ 2621(156). Instruction.—Any licensed operator or chauffeur may instruct a person who is sixteen or more years of age, during daylight hours, in the operation of a motor vehicle. Any person so instructing another shall be seated as to be within reach of the controls of the motor vehicle and shall be responsible for the operation thereof. (1935, c. 52, s. 7.)

§ 2621(157). Expiration of license. — (a) Every operator's license issued hereunder shall be valid until suspended or revoked as provided in this article except that the department shall hereafter, but not more often than once every three years and after public notice, cancel all outstanding operators' licenses and issue in lieu thereof new operators' licenses to persons applying therefor and entitled thereto under the provision of this article. Such licenses shall be issued without fee and without examination except in those instances when the department has reason to believe that the applicant may not be qualified to hold an operator's license under this article.

(b) Every chauffeur's license shall expire June thirtieth each year and shall be renewed annually upon application and payment of fees required by law, provided that the department may in its discretion waive the examination of any such applicant previously licensed as a chauffeur under this article. (1935, c. 52, s. 8.)

§ 2621(158). Duplicate certificates and chauffeurs' badges.—In the event that an operator's or chauffeur's license or badge issued under the provisions of this article is lost or destroyed, the person to whom the same was issued may, upon payment of a fee of fifty cents ($.50), obtain a duplicate, or substitute thereof, upon furnishing proof satisfactory to the department that such license or badge has been lost or destroyed. (1935, c. 52, s. 9.)

§ 2621(159). Authority of department to cancel license.—(a) The department shall have authorty to cancel any operator's or chauffeur's license upon determining that the licensee was not entitled to the issuance thereof hereunder, or that said licensee failed to give the required or correct information in his application, or committed fraud in making such application.

(b) Upon such cancellation, the licensee must surrender the license so cancelled, together with chauffeur's badge, if any, to the department. (1935, c. 52, s. 10.

§ 2621(160). Authority of department to suspend license.—(a) The department shall have authority to suspend the license of any operator or chauffeur without preliminary hearing upon a showing by its records or other satisfactory evidence that the licensee:

1. Has committed an offense for which mandatory revocation of license is required upon conviction;

2. Has been involved as a driver in any accident resultng in the death or personal injury of another or serious property damage, which accident is obviously the result of the negligence of such driver;

3. Is an habitually reckless or negligent driver of a motor vehicle;

4. Is incompetent to drive a motor vehicle;

5. Is an habitual violator of the traffic laws;

6. Has permitted an unlawful or fraudulent use of such license;

7. Has committed an offense in another state, which if committed in this state would be grounds for suspension or revocation; or

8. Has been convicted of illegal transportation of intoxicating liquors.

(b) Upon suspending the license of any person as hereinbefore in this section authorized, the department shall immediately notify the licensee in writing and upon his request shall afford him an opportunity for a hearing as early as practical within not to exceed twenty (20) days after receipt of such request in the county wherein the licensee resides unless the department and the licensee agree that such hearing may be held in some other county. Upon such hearing the duly authorized agents of the department may administer oaths and may issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and the production of relevant books and papers and may require a re-examination of the licensee. Upon such hearing the department shall either rescind its order of suspension, or good cause appearing therefor, may extend the suspension of such license or revoke such license. (1935, c. 52, s. 11.)

§ 2621(161). Mandatory revocation of license by department. — (a) The department shall forthwith revoke the license of any operator or chauffeur upon receiving a record of such operator's or chauffeur's conviction for any of the following offenses when such conviction has become final:

1. Manslaughter (or negligent homicide) resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle.

2. Driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or a narcotic drug.

3. Any felony in the commission of which a motor vehicle is used.

4. Failure to stop and render aid as required under the laws of this State in the event of a motor vehicle accident.

5. Perjury or the making of a false affidavit or statement under oath to the department under this article or under any other law relating to the ownership of motor vehicles.

6. Conviction, or forfeiture of bail not vacated, upon two charges of reckless driving committed within a period of twelve months.

7. Conviction, or forfeiture of bail not vacated, upon one charge of reckless driving while engaged in the illegal transportation of intoxicants for the purpose of sale.

(b) The department, upon receiving a record of the conviction of any person upon a charge of operating a motor vehicle while the license of such person is suspended or revoked, shall immediately extend the period of such first suspension or revocation for an additional like period. (1935, c. 52, s. 12.)

§ 2621(162). Period of suspension or revocation. —The department shall not suspend a license for a period of more than one year and upon revoking a license shall not in any event grant application for a new license until the expiration of one year. (1935, c. 52, s. 13.)

§ 2621(163). Surrender and return of license and badge.—The department upon suspending or revoking a license shall require that such license and the badge of any chauffeur whose license is suspended or revoked shall be surrendered to and be retained by the department except that at the end of a period of suspension such license and any chauffeur's badge so surrendered shall be returned to the licensee. (1935, c. 52, s. 14.)

§ 2621(164). No operation under foreign license during suspension or revocation in this state. — Any resident or non-resident whose operator's or chauffeur's license or right or privilege to operate a motor vehicle in this State has been suspended or revoked as provided in this article shall not operate a motor vehicle in this State under a license, permit or registration issued by another jurisdiction or otherwise during such suspension, or after such revocation until a new license is obtained when and as permitted under this article. (1935, c. 52, s. 15.)

§ 2621(165). Suspending privileges of non-residents and reporting convictions.—(a) The privilege of driving a motor vehicle on the highways of this State given to a non-resident hereunder shall be subject to suspension or revocation by the department in like manner and for like cause as an operator's or chauffeur's license issued hereunder may be suspended or revoked.

(b) The department is further authorized, upon receiving a record of the conviction in this State of a non-resident driver of a motor vehicle of any offense under the motor vehicle laws of this State, to forward a certified copy of such record to the motor vehicle administrator in the state wherein the person so convicted is a resident. (1935, c. 52, s. 16.)

§ 2621(166). Suspending resident's license upon conviction in another state.—The department is authorized to suspend or revoke the license of any resident of this State upon receiving notice of the conviction of such person in another state of any offense therein which, if committed in this State, would be grounds for the suspension or revocation of the license of an operator or chauffeur. (1935, c. 52, s. 17.)

§ 2621(167). When court to forward license to department and record convictions.—(a) Whenever any person is convicted of any violation of the motor vehicle laws of this State, a notation of such conviction shall be entered by the court upon the license of the person so convicted. Whenever any person is convicted of any offense for which this article makes mandatory the revocation of the operator's or chauffeur's license of such person by the department, the court in which such conviction is had shall require the surrender to it of all operator's and chauffeur's licenses then held by the person so convicted and the court shall thereupon forward the same, together with a record of such conviction, to the department.

(b) Every court having jurisdiction over offenses committed under this article, or any other law of this State regulating the operation of motor vehicles on highways, shall forward to the department a record of the conviction of any person in said court for a violation of any said laws, and may recommend the suspension of the operator's or chauffeur's license of the person so convicted.

(c) For the purpose of this article the term "conviction" shall mean a final conviction. Also, for the purposes of this article a forfeiture of bail or collateral deposited to secure a defendant's appearance in court, which forfeiture has not been vacated, shall be equivalent to a conviction.

(d) Pending an appeal, the court from which the appeal is taken shall make such recommendation to the department relative to suspension of license until the appeal shall have been finally determined, as to it may seem just and proper under the circumstances.

(e) That after the effective date of this article, no operator's or chauffeur's license shall be suspended or revoked except in accordance with the provisions of this article. (1935, c. 52, s. 18.)

§ 2621(168). Right of appeal to court.—Any person denied a license or whose license has been cancelled, suspended or revoked by the department, except where such cancellation is mandatory under the provisions of this article, shall have a right to file a petition within thirty (30) days thereafter for a hearing in the matter in the superior court of the county wherein such person shall reside, or to the resident judge of the district or judge holding the court of that district, or special or emergency judge holding a court in such district in which the violation was committed, and such court or judge is hereby vested with jurisdiction and it shall be its or his duty to set the matter for hearing upon thirty (30) days written notice to the department, and thereupon to take testimony and examine into the facts of the case, and to determine whether the petitioner is entitled to a license or is subject to suspension, cancellation or revocation of license under the provisions of this article. (1935, c. 52, s. 19.)

§ 2621(169). Records.—The department shall keep a record of proceedings and orders pertaining to all licenses granted, refused, suspended or revoked by the department. It shall furnish without charge, for official use only, certified copies of certificates and licenses and documents relating thereto, to officials of the State, counties and municipalities or to any court in this State. A charge not to exceed one dollar ($1.00) shall be made by the department for copies furnished for other than official use. (1935, c. 52, s. 20.)

§ 2621(170). Availability of records.—All records of the department pertaining to application and to operator's and chauffeur's license, except the confidential medical report referred to in section 2621(151), of the current or previous five years shall be open to public inspection at any reasonable time during office hours. (1935, c. 52, s. 21.)

§ 2621(171). Unlawful to drive while license suspended or revoked.—Any person whose operator's or chauffeur's license has been suspended or revoked, as provided in this article, and who shall drive any motor vehicle upon the highways of this State while such license is suspended or revoked, may be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than six months, and there may be imposed in addition thereto a fine of not more than five hundred dollars. (1935, c. 52, s. 22.)

§ 2621(172). Surrender of license.—Any person operating or in charge of a motor vehicle, when requested by an officer in uniform, or, in the event of accident in which the vehicle which he is operating or in charge of shall be involved, when requested by any other person, who shall refuse to write his name for the purpose of identification or to give his name and address and the name and address of the owner of such vehicle, or who shall give a false name or address, or who shall refuse, on demand of such officer or such other person, to produce his license and exhibit same to such officer or such other person for the purpose of examination, or who shall refuse to surrender his license on demand of the department, or fail to produce same when requested by a court of this State, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished as provided in this article. (1935, c. 52, s. 23.)

§ 2621(173). Violations of license provisions. — It shall be unlawful for any person to commit any of the following acts:

(a) To display or cause to be displayed or to have in possession of any operator's or chauffeur's license, knowing the same to be fictitious or to have been cancelled, revoked, suspended or altered.

(b) To counterfeit, sell, lend to, or knowingly permit the use of, by one not entitled thereto, any operator's or chauffeur's license.

(c) To display or to represent as one's own a license not issued to the person so displaying same.

(d) To fail or refuse to surrender to the department upon demand any license or the badge of any chauffeur whose license has been suspended, cancelled or revoked as provided by law.

(e) To use a false or fictitious name or give a false or fictitious address in any application for an operator's or chauffeur's license, or any renewal or duplicate thereof, or knowingly to make a false statement or knowingly conceal a material fact or otherwise commit a fraud in any such application. Any license procured as aforesaid shall be void from the issuance thereof, and any monies paid therefor shall be forfeited to the State. (1935, c. 52, s. 24.)

§ 2621(174). Making false affidavits perjury. — Any person who shall make any false affidavit, or shall knowingly swear or affirm falsely, to any matter or thing required by the terms of this article to be sworn to or affirmed shall be guilty of perjury and upon conviction shall be punished by fine or imprisonment as other persons committing perjury are punishable under the laws of this State. (1935, c. 52, s. 25.)

§ 2621(175). Unlawful to permit unlicensed minor to drive motor vehicle.—It shall be unlawful for any person to cause or knowingly permit any minor over sixteen and under the age of eighteen years to drive a motor vehicle upon a highway as an operator, unless such minor shall have first obtained a license to so drive a motor vehicle under the provisions of this article. (1935, c. 52, s. 26.)

§ 2621(176). Unlawful to employ unlicensed chauffeur.—No person shall employ any chauffeur to operate a motor vehicle who is not licensed as provided by this article. (1935, c. 52, s. 27.)

§ 2621(177). Unlawful to permit violations of this article.—No person shall authorize or knowingly permit a motor vehicle owned by him or under his control to be driven by any person who has no legal right to do so or in violation of any of the provisions of this article. (1935, c. 52, s. 28.)

§ 2621(178). Penalties for misdemeanor. — (a) It shall be a misdemeanor to violate any of the proivsions of this article unless such violation is by this article or other law of this State declared to be a felony.

(b) Unless another penalty is in this article or by the laws of this State provided, every person convicted of a misdemeanor for the violation of any provision of this article shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred ($500.00) dollars or by imprisonment for not more than six (6) months. (1935, c. 52, s. 29.)

§ 2621(179), Fees.—(a) The fees charged for the licenses herein provided for shall be as follows:

For an operator's license the sum of one ($1.00) dollar, which shall continue the license in effect until revoked or cancelled; chauffeur's license two ($2.00) dollars annually, or until revoked: Provided, that no charge shall be made for any private operator's license which shall be applied for prior to November first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five.

(b) All fees collected under the provisions of this article shall be paid by the commissioner of revenue to the state treasurer to be credited by him to the state highway fund. (1935, c. 52, s. 30.)

§ 2621(180). Title of article.—This article may be cited as the Uniform Driver's License Act. (1935, c. 52, s. 31.)

§ 2621(181). Limitations on issuance of licenses. —There shall be no operator's or chauffeur's license issued within this State other than that provided for in this article, nor shall there be any other examination required. (1935, c. 52, s. 34.)

Art. 14. License Plates for Officers of National Guard

§ 2621(182). Distinctive automobile license plates provided for officers of national guard. — The commissioner of revenue shall cause to be made each year a sufficient number of automobile license plates to furnish each officer of the North Carolina National Guard with a set thereof, said license plates to be in the same form and character as other license plates now or hereafter authorized by law to be used upon private passenger vehicles registered in this State, except that such license plates shall bear on the face thereof the following words, "National Guard." The said letters forming the words "National Guard" shall be arranged in vertical lines, one word on each side of said license plates. (1935, c. 218, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Section 5 of chapter 218, Public Laws of 1935, from whence the above law was codified provides: "The provisions of this Act shall not apply to the issuance of license plates for the calendar year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five."

§ 2621(183). Issuance restricted; fees for.—The said license plates shall be issued only to officers of the North Carolina National Guard, and for which license plates the commissioner of revenue shall collect fees in an amount equal to the fees collected for the licensing and registering of private vehicles. (1935, c. 218, s. 2.)

§ 2621(184). Furnishing commissioner of revenue list of officers of national guard; numbering of plates.—The adjutant general of North Carolina shall furnish to the commissioner of revenue each year prior to the date that licenses are issued a list of the officers of the North Carolina National Guard, which said list shall contain the rank of each officer listed in the order of his seniority in the service, and the said license plates shall be numbered, beginning with the number of two hundred and one (201) and in numerical sequence thereafter up to and including the number five hundred (500), according to seniority, the number officer being issued the license bearing the numerals two hundred and one. (1935, c. 218, s. 3.)

§ 2621(185). Cancellation where officer's car is transferred; reissuance to officer.—Upon transfer of the ownership of a private passenger vehicle upon which there is a license plate bearing the words National Guard, said plates shall be removed and the authority to use the same shall thereby be cancelled, however, upon application to the commissioner of revenue, he shall reissue the said plates to the officer of the National Guard, to whom the same were originally issued, and upon said re-issue the commissioner of revenue shall collect fees in an amount equal to the fees collected for the original licensing and registering of said private passenger vehicle as is now or may be prescribed by law. (1935, c. 218, s. 4.)

MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS

SUBCHAPTER I. REGULATIONS INDEPENDENT OF ACT OF 1917

Art. 1. General Powers

§ 2622. Body politic.—Every incorporated city or town is a body politic and corporate, and shall have the powers prescribed by statute, and those necessarily implied by law, and no other. (Rev., s. 2915; Code, s. 702.)

Cross Reference.—For full treatment of Municipal Corporations, see 9 N. C. Dig. 376, 628. As to power to make ordinances, see section 2673 et seq.

§ 2623. Corporate powers.—A city or town is authorized:

1. To sue and be sued in its corporate name.

Cross Reference.—As to liability for injuries because of defective streets, see section 2675. As to liability for injuries from police, see section 2642. In general see 9 N. C. Enc. Dig. Pg. 624-628. As to right of citizen to recover from delinquent officer, see section 3206.

In General.—A town must be sued by its corporate name and not in the name of its officers. Young v. Barden, 90 N. C. 424.

How Served with Summons.—A summons against a city may be served on the mayor and on the secretary of the board of aldermen. Loughran v. Hickory, 129 N. C. 281, 40 S. E. 46.

Form of Action. — As a general rule, whenever a good cause of action exists against a municipal corporation, it may be prosecuted by an action in whatever form would be appropriate against an individual. The creditor is not limited to an action by mandamus. Winslow v. Commissioners, 64 N. C. 218.

Venue in County Where Municipality Located.—Cities and towns must be sued in the county in which they are located, and if suit is brought in another county, they have the right to have it removed. Jones v. Statesville, 97 N. C. 86, 2 S. E. 346, cited in note in 25 L. R. A., N. S., 711. See section 464 and the notes thereto.

Action in Name of all the Citizens against a City.—In an action against a municipal corporation to enjoin the collection of an illegal tax, it is not error to allow all citizens other than the original plaintiff to be made parties plaintiff. Cobb v. Elizabeth City, 75 N. C. 1.

2. Out of any funds on hand, and without creating any debt, to purchase and hold real estate for the use of its inhabitants.

Cross Reference.—As to power to dispose of property, see 9 N. C. Enc. Dig. pp. 427-430, sections 2688-2690. As to power to establish markets, see sections 2674, 2794. As to power to acquire property, see sections 2791-2792.

Erection of a Public Building.—The erection by a city of a public building with funds for the purpose on hand, for governmental offices, academy of music, public meetings, etc., if for a governmental purpose, and within the exercise of the discretionary powers conferred upon the governing body of the municipality, and where no further expense may be incurred such as to pledge the credit of the city, or therein impose an obligation upon it, there is no violation of our Constitution, Art. VII, sec. 7. Adams v. Durham, 189 N. C. 232, 126 S. E. 611.

3. To purchase and hold land, within or without its limits, not exceeding fifty acres (in cities or towns having a population of more than twenty thousand the number of acres shall be in the discretion of said city), for the purpose of a cemetery, and to prohibit burial of persons at any other place in town, and to regulate the manner of burial in such cemetery. All municipal corporations purchasing real property at any trustee's, mortgagee's, or commissioner's sale or execution or tax sale shall be entitled to a conveyance therefor from the trustee, mortgagee or other person or officer conducting such sale, and deeds to such municipal corporations or their assigns shall have the same force and effect as conveyances to private purchasers. The provisions of this subsection shall apply to such sales and conveyances as may have been heretofore made by the persons and officers herein mentioned.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment of 1927 there was no provision for towns or cities having over twenty thousand inhabitants. The limit of fifty acres applied to all.

City's Power Over Interment.—The ownership of a lot in a cemetery, or license to inter therein, is subject to the police power of the state, and interments may be forbidden, and bodies already interred removed, by ordinance of the city, if authorized by act of the legislature. Humphrey v. Board, 109 N. C. 132, 13 S. E. 793, cited in note in 38 L. R. A. 329. See the titles Cemeteries, vol. 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 918; Dead Bodies, vol. 4, N. C. Enc. Dig. 393; post sec. 4322.

Relief to Taxpayers when Section Violated.—Where the proper authorities of a city have purchased lands for a Negro cemetery in excess of the fifty acres allowed by this section, in good faith, to meet a necessary need therefor, and at a reasonable price, and have paid therefor and accepted a deed from the owners, injunctive relief at the suit of the taxpayers will be denied. Harrison v. New Bern, 193 N. C. 555, 137 S. E. 582.

The title of the purchaser at a tax foreclosure sale may not be challenged by the listed owner upon the purchaser's motion for a writ of assistance, and such purchaser may be a municipality where it does not appear of record that the purchase of the land was ultra vires, a municipality having the power to purchase land for certain purposes under this section. Wake County v. Johnson, 206 N. C. 478, 174 S. E. 303.

4. To make such contracts, and purchase and hold such personal property as may be necessary to the exercise of its powers.

Cross Reference.—As to power to establish a public library, see section 2694 et seq. As to sewerage, see sections 2805-2806. As to water and lights, see sections 2807-2809.

5. To make such orders for the disposition or use of its property as the interest of the town requires.

As to sale at public out-cry, see section 2688. As to private sale, see following sub-section and note.

Power to Cede Away, or Control Public Affairs. — Municipal corporations may make authorized contracts, but they have no power under this section to make contracts or pass by-laws which shall cede away, control, or embarrass their legislative or governmental powers, or which shall disable them from performing their public duties. The receipt of $600 from a citizen in consideration of locating certain public buildings near his property so as to enhance the value is such a contract. Edwards v. Goldsboro, 141 N. C. 60, 64, 53 S. E. 652.

6. To grant upon reasonable terms franchises for public utilities, such grants not to exceed the period of sixty years, unless renewed at the end of the period granted; also to sell or lease, upon such conditions and with such terms of payment as the city or town may prescribe, any water-works, lighting plants, gas or electric, or any other public utility which may be owned by any city or town: Provided, that in the event of such sale or lease it shall be approved by a majority of the qualified voters of such city or town; and also to make contracts, for a period not exceeding thirty years, for the supply of light, water or other public commodity.

Editor's Note.—By amendment. Ex. Sess. 1921, the provision for conditions and terms was inserted.

The provision of section 2688 in regard to sale at public out-cry is not applicable to sales under this section, and when the approval of the voters is had there may be a private sale of such property as is included in the provision of this section. Section 2688 is not applicable to property held in trust, Church v. Dula, 148 N. C. 262, 266, 61 S. E. 639, and it was for a sale of such property that this section was especially intended. See Allen v. Reidsville, 178 N. C. 513, 101 S. E. 267.

Public Laws 1933, c. 69, omitted a provision that the section should not apply to Cumberland county.

In General.—Although the Utilities Commission is the principal agency for regulation of electricity rates in North Carolina, the municipalities still can, if they will, play an important part in view of this section. See 12 N. C. Law Rev., 294.

Franchises for Use of Streets Must Be Expressly Conferred.—"The law is well settled that the title either of the fee in the soil or an easement is vested in the municipality, in trust for the use of the people as and for a public highway, and that it cannot, without legislative authority, divert them from this use." Therefore a grant by a city of a franchise allowing gas pipes to be laid in its streets is void unless allowed by express legislation. Elizabeth City v. Banks, 150 N. C. 407, 64 S. E. 189.

Duty Imposed with Franchise to Water Company.—The acceptance of a municipal franchise by a water company carries with it the duty of supplying water to all persons along the lines of its mains without discrimination and at uniform rates. Griffin v. Goldsboro Water Co., 122 N. C. 206, 30 S. E. 319.

Same—Power to Repudiate.—A water company operating under a franchise-contract from a city or town, and receiving the benefits and advantages arising thereunder, may not repudiate the duty of supplying water free to public schools, etc., which it had expressly contracted to do in accepting the franchise containing such provision, and collect for water it had furnished them upon a quantum meruit or otherwise. Henderson Water Co. v. Trustees, 151 N. C. 171, 65 S. E. 927.

Franchise Does not Abridge Rights of Abutting Owners.—As against the rights of abutting owners the municipal authorities have no power to grant to a railroad company an easement to lay its track upon and operate its trains over the streets of a town, even though the title to the streets be in the town. Staton v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 147 N. C. 428, 61 S. E. 455.

Exclusive Privilege Unconstitutional. — Those provisions of an ordinance granting the exclusive privilege to construct and maintain water-works within the corporate limits of a town, and the exclusive use of its streets, alleys, sidewalks, public grounds, streams and bridges, come within the confirmation of sec. 31, of Art. I, of the Constitution of this State, which declares that "perpetuities and monopolies are contrary to the genius of a free State and ought not to be allowed." Thrift v. Elizabeth City, 122 N. C. 31, 35, 30 S. E. 349.

License Not a Permanent Easement.—A license granted by a city to a railroad company to lay a track upon and to that extent use the streets, in the absence of an express power in the charter to do so, such license cannot be construed into a grant of a permanent easement. State v. Atlantic & N. C. R. Co., 141 N. C. 736, 53 S. E. 290.

Power to Annul a License to a Street Railroad.—After a city, by ordinance, has granted a street railroad a right to construct its line over certain streets it cannot by subsequent ordinance arbitrarily annul such license. Ry. Co. v. Asheville, 109 N. C. 688, 14 S. E. 316.

7. To provide for the municipal government of its inhabitants in the manner required by law.

Cited in State v. Vanhook, 182 N. C. 831, 833, 109 S. E. 65.

8. To levy and collect such taxes as are authorized by law.

As to taxation, see sections 2677-2687. As to general powers under Act of 1917, see section 2787.

9. To do and perform all other duties and powers authorized by law. (Rev., s. 2916; Code, ss. 704, 3817; 1901, c. 283; 1905, c. 526; 1907, c. 978; P. L. 1917, c. 223; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 58; 1927, c. 14; 1933, c. 69.)

For full treatment of powers and duties, see 9 N. C. Enc. Dig. 376, 628.

Can Only Exercise Conferred Power. — A municipality has no inherent police powers, but can exercise only those conferred by the state, and any reasonable doubt concerning such powers is resolved against it. State v. Dannenberg, 150 N. C. 799, 63 S. E 946.

§ 2624. How corporate powers exercised.—The corporate powers can be exercised only by the board of commissioners, or in pursuance of resolutions adopted by them, unless otherwise specially provided by law. (Rev., s. 2917; Code, ss. 703.)

As to removal of officers, see section 2885; As to exercise of power under Act of 1917, see sections 2820-2839.

Majority of Those Present Validate an Ordinance.—If an act is to be done by an incorporated body, the law, resolution or ordinance authorizing it to be done is valid if passed by a majority of those present at a legal meeting. Cleveland Cotton Mills v. Commissioners, 108 N. C. 678, 13 S. E. 271; LeRoy v. Elizabeth City, 166 N. C. 93, 81 S. E. 1072.

§ 2625. Application and meaning of terms.—This subchapter shall apply to all incorporated cities and towns where the same shall not be inconsistent with special acts of incorporation, or special laws in reference thereto, and the word "commissioners" shall also be construed to mean "aldermen," or other governing municipal authorities. The sections relating to municipal or town elections shall apply to all cities and towns not expressly excepted by law. (Rev., s. 2918; Code, s. 3827; R. C., c. 111, s. 23.)

As to change made by Act of 1917, see sections 2778-2786.

What General Law Applies to.—A general law applies to all towns and cities in the state if it is not inconsistent with some special law or the charter of a town or city. State v. Smith, 103 N. C. 403, 407, 9 S. E. 435.

Inconsistent Laws—Which Prevails. — The general law holds in the absence of special laws. In case of special laws the general law is repealed only to the extent of a conflict. If there is no conflict the two may be construed in pari materia. Raleigh v. Peace, 110 N. C. 32, 45, 14 S. E. 521.

General Law Covers Poll Tax.—In the absence of power especially conferred upon a town to levy taxes for its purposes on polls, the statutory provision extended to and embraced it. State v. Atkinson, 107 N. C. 317, 320, 12 S. E. 202.

Cited in dissenting opinion in Redmond v. Commissioners, 106 N. C. 122, 151, 10 S. E. 845.

Art. 2. Municipal Officers

Part 1. Commissioners

§ 2626. Number and election.—The board of commissioners of each town shall consist of not less than three nor more than seven commissioners, who shall be biennially elected by the qualified voters of the town, at the time and in the manner prescribed by law. (Rev., ss. 2917, 2919; Code, s. 3787; R. C., c. 111, s. 1.)

As to number of commissioners under the different plans, of Act of 1917, see sections 2782, 2861, 2868, 2889.

§ 2627. Number may be changed.—After the first election the voters of any town may, whenever and as often as they choose, at the time of electing commissioners, and after due notice given thereof by the commissioners then in authority, by a majority of all the votes cast, alter the number of commissioners, so that the number be not more than seven nor less than three; and thenceforth the number of commissioners agreed on shall be chosen. (Rev., s. 2922; Code, s. 3791; R. C., c. 111, s. 7.)

§ 2628. Oath of office.—The commissioners shall take and subscribe an oath before some person authorized by law to administer oaths that they will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of their office, and such oaths shall be filed with the mayor of such town and entered in a book kept for that purpose. (Rev., s. 2920; Code, s. 3799, R. C., c. 111, s. 12.)

§ 2629. Vacancies filled.—In case of a vacancy after election in the office of commissioner the others may fill it until the next election. (Rev., s. 2921; Code, s. 3793; R. C., c. 111, s. 9.)

§ 2630. Commissioners appoint other officers and fix salaries.—The board of commissioners may appoint a town constable, and such other officers and agents as may be necessary to enforce their ordinances and regulations, keep their records, and conduct their affairs; may determine the amount of their salaries or compensation; and also the compensation or salary of the mayor; may impose oaths of office upon them, and require bonds from them payable to the state, in proper penalties for the faithful discharge of their duties. (Rev., s. 2925; Code, s. 3800; R. C., c. 111, s. 13; 1862, c. 51.)

As to health officer, see § 7076 et seq.

Power to Appoint a Special Tax Collector.—Whenever the authorities of a town shall be commanded to levy and collect taxes they may appoint a special tax-collector to collect the same. But this power to appoint such a collector is additional, and does not abridge their right to require the collection to be made by the regular officer appointed for that purpose. Webb v. Beaufort, 88 N. C. 496.

Compensation When no Salary Specified.—Where a municipal corporation engages a commissioner of its sinking fund under the provisions of its charter, by which the incumbent was employed for a term of years continuously, his employment is that of a public officer, which precludes compensation based upon a quantum meruit, and he may not recover for his services in the absence of express statutory provision. Borden v. Goldsboro, 173 N. C. 661, 92 S. E. 694.

Applied in Wadesboro v. Atkinson, 107 N. C. 317, 12 S. E. 202.

Part 2. Mayor

§ 2631. How elected; vacancy.—At the same time when commissioners are elected, the voters may by ballot, under the inspection of the same persons and under the same rules and regulations, elect a mayor of the town; and the person having the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. In case of vacancy in the office, the commissioners may fill the same. (Rev., s. 2931; Code, s. 3794; R. C., c. 111, s. 10).

As to registration of voters, see section 2654. As to mayor pro tem, see section 2633.

In General.—"The word 'mayor' first occurs in English history in 1189, when Richard I, substituted a mayor for the two bailiffs of London. The Romans styled such officer 'prefectus urbi,' and originally the English title for such officer was either 'bailiff' or 'portreeve,' just as the sheriff (who had, however, far greater functions than our officer of that title) was 'shirereeve,' i. e., sheriff. In 5 Words and Phrases, 4450, it is said that the word mayor comes from an old English word 'maier,' which means 'power,' 'authority,' and not from the Latin 'major'—granter. He represents the power and authority of the town, and the duty of presiding at meetings of the town commissioners is only one of the duties he exercises. While the power and duties of the mayor may vary according to the charter of the town or the laws of the state, it is probably without any exception his duty to execute the laws and local regulations of his city and to supervise the discharge of their duties by the subordinate officers of the city government. Such an office could not be left vacant, without public inconvenience, during the illness or absence of the incumbent, and hence our statute provides a mode of selecting a substitute a pro tem. mayor, who shall 'exercise his duties'—meaning all his duties (for there is no restriction) and as fully as he could have done." State v. Thomas, 141 N. C. 791, 793, 53 S. E. 522.

§ 2632. Oath of office.—The mayor, before some justice of the peace, or other person authorized by law to administer oaths, shall take and subscribe the oaths prescribed for public officers, and an oath that he will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties imposed upon him by law, which said oath shall be filed with the records of the town and be entered on the same book with the oaths of the commissioners. (Rev., s. 2932; Code, s. 3798; R. C., c. 111, s. 11.)

Cross Reference.—As tho veto power of mayor under the plans as provided for by the Act of 1917, see sections 2865, 2872. As to mayors in general, see 9 N. C. Enc. Dig. 419.

Mayor's Power to Vote.—Ordinarily the office of mayor is of an executive or administrative character, and he is not permitted to vote except in cases where it is especially provided. Markham v. Simpson, 175 N. C. 135, 95 S. E. 106.

Powers of Mayor Pro Tem.—The appointment of a mayor pro tem vests him with all the powers of the mayor, including that of issuing warrants in criminal actions. State v. Thomas, 141 N. C. 791, 53 S. E. 522.

§ 2634. Mayor's jurisdiction as a court.—The mayor of every city or incorporated town is hereby constituted an inferior court, and as such court such mayor shall be a magistrate and conservator of the peace, and within the corporate limits of his city or town shall have the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace in all criminal matters arising under the laws of the state, or under the ordinances of such city or town. The rules of law regulating proceedings before a justice of the peace shall be applicable to proceedings before such mayor, and he shall be entitled to the same fees which are allowed to justices of the peace. (Rev., s. 2934; Code, s. 3818; 1871-2, c. 195; 1876-7, c. 243.)

Jurisdiction of Mayor.—The legislature has power to grant to the chief officers of cities and towns all the jurisdiction which it could grant to judges of special courts under the constitution. State v. Pender, 66 N. C. 314.

"The duties of a mayor are to cause the laws of the city to be enforced, and to superintend inferior officers." State v. Thomas, 141 N. C. 791, 792, 53 S. E. 522.

The mayors of towns and cities have jurisdiction of the offense of violating town or city ordinances. State v. Wilson, 106 N. C. 718, 11 S. E. 254. They also have the same criminal jurisdiction within the corporate limits as a justice of the peace. Greensboro v. Shields, 78 N. C. 417. They occasionally have concurrent jurisdiction in such matters. State v. Cainan, 94 N. C. 880.

Jurisdiction as to Establishing Streets. — The Mayor's Court has jurisdiction of a case in which the controversy is whether or not a public street has been established, and whether or not a certain party obstructed it in violation of an ordinance. Such a controversy is not as to title to the land for if the street is established title is not material. Henderson v. Davis, 106 N. C. 88, 11 S. E. 573.

Proceedings in Mayor's Court Not a Bar to Prosecution in Higher Courts. — A conviction of violating a city ordinance punishing the disturbance of the good order and quiet of the own by fighting is not a bar to a prosecution by the State for an assault. State v. Taylor, 133 N. C. 755, 46 S. E. 5.

Statute Must Be Set Out.—In a trial before a mayor the statute or ordinance that the accused is prosecuted under, must be set out, and the one he is prosecuted under conformed to, a failure to do this will not warrant a conviction. Greensboro v. Shields, 78 N. C. 417.

Punishment for Contempt.—In In re Deaton, 105 N. C. 59, 11 S. E. 244, (on page 65) it is decided that the power given justices of the peace by sec. 983, is extended to mayors by this section. But, in fact, the power to punish for contempt is inherent in all courts and essential to their existence. State v. Aiken, 113 N. C. 651, 652, 18 S. E. 690.

Every court inherently possesses power to fine for contempt. As the Mayor's Courts is "an inferior court" it possesses this power. In re Denton, 105 N. C. 59, 11 S. E. 244.

Warrant Must Set Forth Ordinance.—A warrant for violating a town ordinance, held bad for omitting to set forth the act of assembly by virtue of which the ordinance was passed, may be amended after verdict on payment of costs. Commissioners v. Frank, 46 N. C. 436, cited in notes in 35 L. R. A. 594; 39 L. R. A. 673.

Right of Removal.—One prosecuted before a mayor for violating a town ordinance is not entitled to a removal under section 1498, for that section is applicable only to Justice of the Peace. Although the two officers exercise concurrent jurisdiction in some matters, they are distinct. State v. Joyner, 127 N. C. 541, 37 S. E. 201.

Applied in State v. Peters, 107 N. C. 876, 12 S. E. 74; State v. Cainan, 94 N. C. 879, 882; State v. Smith, 103 N. C. 403, 9 S. E. 435.

Cited in Paul v. Washington, 134 N. C. 363, 47 S. E. 793; Board v. Henderson, 126 N. C. 689, 36 S. E. 158; School Directors v. Asheville, 137 N. C. 503, 509, 50 S. E. 279; Barnes v. Cherry, 190 N. C. 772, 130 S. E. 611.

§ 2635. Enforce ordinances and penalties.—As such court the mayor shall have authority to hear and determine all cases that may arise upon the ordinances of the city or town; to enforce penalties by issuing execution upon any adjudged violation thereof, and to execute the laws and rules that may be made and provided by the board of commissioners of the city or town for the government and regulation of the city or town; but in all cases any person dissatisfied with the judgment of the mayor may appeal to the superior court as in case of a judgment rendered by a justice of the peace. (Rev., s. 2935; Code, s. 3819; 1876-7, c. 243, s. 2.)

Cross Reference.—As to power to make ordinances, see section 2673, and see notes to preceding section. As to punishment for violation of ordinance, see section 4174.

Superior Court's Jurisdiction Over Ordinances. — An offense against a city must be punished under the ordinances of the city, and the superior court has no jurisdiction. State v. White, 76 N. C. 15; State v. Threadgill, 76 N. C. 17. Provided the city ordinance does not conflict with the general law. When there is a conflict the general law prevails, and the superior court has jurisdiction. Washington v. Hammond, 76 N. C. 33. The right of appeal to the superior court preserves the constitutional rights of one convicted in a mayor's court. State v. Brittain, 143 N. C. 668.

Cited in Guano Co. v. Tarboro, 126 N. C. 68, 70, 35 S. E. 231.

§ 2636. May sentence to work on streets.—In all cases where judgments may be entered up against any person for fines, according to the laws and ordinances of any incorporated town, and the person against whom the same is so adjudged refuses or is unable to pay such judgment, the mayor before whom such judgment is entered may order and require such person, so convicted, to work on the streets or other public works until, at fair rates of wages, such person shall have worked out the full amount of the judgment and costs of the prosecution; and all sums received for such fines shall be paid into the treasury. No woman shall be worked on the streets. (Rev., s. 2937; Code, s. 3806; 1897, c. 270; 1899, c. 128; 1866-7, c. 13.)

A Fine is Treated as a Debt.—A fine or penalty imposed by a municipal ordinance is treated as a debt, and, under Art. 1, sec. 16, of the Constitution, a person from whom it is attempted to be collected is exempt from arrest, but he may be indicted and punished for the criminal offense of violation of the ordinance for which it is imposed, under the statute. State v. Earnhardt, 107 N. C. 789, 12 S. E. 426.

§ 2637. Mayor certifies ordinances on appeal.—In all cases of appeal from a mayor's court to the superior or other court of appeal, when the offense charged is the violation of a town ordinance the mayor shall send with the papers in the case a true copy of the ordinance alleged to have been violated, and shall certify under his hand and seal that said ordinance was in force at the time of the alleged violation of the same. (Rev., s. 2936; 1899, c. 277.)

In General.—This section is construed with section 1750 and a certificate or affidavit stating that the attached paper is a copy of the ordinance is sufficient to admit it in evidence, although it is not certified that it was in force at the time of the alleged violation. But anything other than strict compliance with this section is not commended. State v. Abernethy, 190 N. C. 768, 130 S. E. 619.

Place of Signature.—"The failure of the mayor to sign the certificate at the bottom does not render it invalid, for the place of the signature is not material. It may be at the top, or in the body, of the instrument, as well as at the foot. Burriss v. Starr, 165 N. C. 657, 81 S. E. 929. 'It is well settled in this State that when a signature is essential to the validity of an instrument, it is not necessary that the signature appear at the end, unless the statute uses the word "subscribe." Richards v. Lumber Co., 158 N. C. 54, 56, 73 S. E. 485; Devereux v. McMahon, 108 N. C. 134, 12 S. E. 902; Boger v. Lumber Co., 165 N. C. 557, 81 S. E. 784.'" State v. Abernethy, 190 N. C. 768, 770, 130 S. E. 619.

Records Kept by Clerk Evidence of Ordinance.—The records of the proceedings of the Board of Aldermen, kept by the town clerk, is competent evidence of town ordinances. State v. Irvin, 126 N. C. 89, 35 S. E. 430.

Part 3. Constable and Policeman

§ 2638. Constable to take oath of office.—The town constable shall, before some person authorized to administer oaths, take and subscribe to the oaths prescribed for public officers, and an oath that he will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of his office according to law, which said oath shall be filed with the mayor and entered in a book with the oaths of the commissioners. (Rev., s. 2938; Code, s. 3808; R. C., c. 111, s. 20.)

As to special constables, see section 974.

Applied in Wadesboro v. Atkinson, 107 N. C. 317, 320, 12 S. E. 202.

Cited in Paul v. Washington, 134 N. C. 363, 47 S. E. 793.

§ 2639. Power and duties of constable.—As a peace officer, the constable shall have within the town all the powers of a constable in the county; and as a ministerial officer, he shall have power to serve all civil and criminal process that may be directed to him by any court within his county, under the same regulations and penalties as prescribed by law in the case of other constables, and to enforce the ordinances and regulations of the board of commissioners as the board may direct. Whenever any process or other notice is so directed as to authorize a township constable to execute the same a town constable in that county may execute the same without any more specific direction: Provided, such town constable shall be required to give bond for performance of his duties such as is required of township constables who execute civil process. (Rev., s. 2939; Code, ss. 3808, 3810; R. C., c. 111, s. 20; 1879, c. 266; 1897, c. 519; 1899, c. 168; 1907, c. 52, s. 1.)

Cross References.—As to police officers, see section 2642. As to powers and duties of constable in general, see section 976. As to service of notice, see sections 914, 977. As to powers conferred by ordinance, see section 2673 and note.

Process Must Be Directed to Constable.—The Court held in Davis v. Sanderlin, 119 N. C. 84, 25 S. E. 815, that process could not be served by a constable outside of his town or city, where the process was directed to "any constable or other lawful officer of said county," and that to enable a constable of a city or town to serve court process, such process must be directed (addressed) to him, as required, not necessarily by name, but officially as the constable of his city or town. And the law is the same if a constable undertakes to execute process within the limits of the town or city. In all cases where constables undertake to execute process under this section they can do so only in those cases where the process is directed (addressed) to them as constables of such city or town. Forte v. Boone, 114 N. C. 176, 19 S. E. 632; Baker v. Brem, 126 N. C. 367, 370, 35 S. E. 630; Upper Appomattox Co. v. Buffalo, 121 N. C. 37, 27 S. E. 999.

Authority to Serve for Superior Court.—A constable has no authority to serve any paper for the superior court that is not process. Forte v. Boone, 114 N. C. 176, 19 S. E. 632.

Power to Arrest Restricted.—The powers conferred upon city and town constables are limited, in respect to arrests without warrant, to the territory embraced within the corporate boundaries; but when the constable is acting under a valid warrant from duly authorized officer, he may make arrests at any place within the county in which such city or town is situated. State v. Sigman, 106 N. C. 728, 11 S. E. 520.

Same—Failure to Carry Prisoner before Magistrate for Investigation.—A town constable who fails to carry a drunk arrested without warrant before magistrate for investigation of charge but instead releases him from "lockup" upon his becoming sober is guilty of assault and battery. State v. Parker, 75 N. C. 249.

§ 2640. Constable as tax collector.—The constable shall have the same power to collect the taxes imposed by the commissioners as sheriffs have to collect the taxes imposed by the county commissioners, and he may be required by the commissioners to give bond, with sufficient surety, payable to the state of North Carolina, in such sum as the commissioners may prescribe, to account for the same; upon which suit may be brought by the commissioners as upon the bonds of other officers. The bond of the constable shall be duly proved, before the mayor and commissioners, and registered in the office of the register of deeds. (Rev., s. 2940; Code, s. 3809; R. C., c. 111, s. 21).

Special Tax Collector Does not Effect Duty of Constable.—An act providing for the appointment of a special tax collector to collect taxes to pay a judgment against a town does not abridge the authority of the city to require the constable to collect the taxes, but only affords increased facilities for fulfilling the orders of the court without overtaxing existing collecting officers. Webb v. Beaufort, 88 N. C. 496.

Liable for Failure to Perform Duty.—A constable of a town appointed to collect taxes is liable for his failure to perform his duty. He cannot take advantage of any irregularity of form to avoid liability. Wadesboro v. Atkinson, 107 N. C. 317, 12 S. E. 202.

§ 2641. Policemen appointed.—The board of commissioners may appoint town watch or police, to be regulated by such rules as the board may prescribe. (Rev., s. 2926; Code, s. 3803; R. C., c. 111, s. 16.)

As to action of quo warranto to try title of office of chief of police, see section 870.

§ 2642. Policemen execute criminal process.—A policeman shall have the same authority to make arrests and to execute criminal process, within the town limits, as is vested by law in a sheriff. (Rev., s. 2927; Code, s. 3811.)

As to powers of constables to exercise criminal process, see section 2639 and note. As to arrest in general, see section 4542-4548.

In General.—Where a town charter provides for the appointment of a chief of police or marshal and declares that, in the execution of process, he shall have the same power, etc., which sheriffs and constables have, the service by such officer of a summons directed to "the sheriff of W. county or town constable of W. town" is valid. Lowe v. Harris, 121 N. C. 287, 28 S. E. 535.

Power to Arrest Limited.—The power of a police to arrest without a warrant is restricted to the corporate limits of the city, and an arrest out of the limits without a warrant for the breach of an ordinance is an assault. Sossamon v. Cruse, 133 N. C. 470, 45 S. E. 757.

Arrests without a Warrant.—A police officer may arrest without warrant for violation of municipal ordinances, committed in his presence; but the offender must be taken before the mayor as soon as practicable, a warrant obtained and trial had. State v. Freeman, 86 N. C. 683, but to make an arrest out of the town limits he must do so under a warrant or by virtue of sections 4543, 4544. Martin v. Houck, 141 N. C. 317, 54 S. E. 291, otherwise the arrest will be an assault. Sossamon v. Cruse, 133 N. C. 470.

Force Allowed in Making Arrests.—If an officer is resisted in making an arrest, he may use that degree of force which is necessary to the proper performance of his duty; and, after an accused person is arrested, the officer is justified in the use of such force as may be necessary, even to taking life, to prevent his escape, whether the offense charged is a felony or misdemeanor. He may take such precautions as handcuffing or tying the prisoner. State v. Sigman, 106 N. C. 728, 11 S. E. 520.

Authority Does Not Give Right to Kill or Injure One Charged of Misdemeanor.—When a person charged with a misdemeanor is fleeing and an officer shoots him, such officer is guilty of assault. If death results the officer is guilty of murder if he intended to kill; manslaughter is unintentional. Sossamon v. Cruse, 133 N. C. 470, 45 S. E. 757; State v. Sigman, 106 N. C. 728, 732, 11 S. E. 520.

Cited in Paul v. Washington, 134 N. C. 363, 47 S. E. 793.

Part 4. Planning Boards

§ 2643. Creation and duties.—Every city and town in the state is authorized to create a board to be known as the Planning Board, whose duty it shall be to make careful study of the resources, possibilities and needs of the city or town, particularly with respect to the conditions which may be injurious to the public welfare or otherwise injurious, and to make plans for the development of the municipality. The governing body of such city or town desiring to establish such local planning board shall appoint not less than three nor more than five on said board. (1919, c. 23, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—In North Carolina, the beginning of municipal zoning is seen in the statute of 1919 authorizing cities and towns to create planning boards. This was followed in 1923 by the general zoning law. Pub. Laws, 1923, ch. 250; § 2776, r-aa of this Code. See 5 N. C. Law Rev. 240.

§ 2644. Board to make reports.—The board shall make a report at least annually to the governing body of the city or town, giving information regarding the condition of the city or town, and any plans or proposals for the development of the city or town and estimates of the cost thereof. (1919, c. 23, s. 2.)

§ 2645. Expenses provided for.—The governing body of such city or town may appropriate to such local planning board such amount as they may deem necessary to carry out the purposes of its creation, and for the improvement of the municipality, and shall provide what sums, if any, shall be paid to said board as compensation. (1919, c. 23, s. 3.)

Part 5. General Qualification of Officers

§ 2646. Must be voters in town or city.—No person shall be mayor, commissioner, intendant of police, alderman or other chief officer of any city or town unless he shall be a qualified voter therein. (Rev., s. 2941; Code, s. 3796; 1870-1, c. 24, s. 3.)

Cross Reference.—As to recall of officers, see section 2885. As to removal by mayor, see sections 2864, 2970. As to removal by quo warranto, see section 870.

Effect of Statute after Election.—"Since the case of Rex v. Richardson, 1 Burr., 539, decided by Lord Mansfield and followed by numerous others, there has been no precedent for depriving a member of his place by the action of a municipal body of which he is a member for any pre-existing impediment affecting his capacity to hold the office." Ellison v. Raleigh, 89 N. C. 125, 127.

Applied in Foard v. Hall, 111 N. C. 369, 16 S. E. 420.

§ 2647. Refusal to qualify and act.—Every person elected or appointed commissioner, mayor, or town constable, who, after being duly notified, shall neglect or refuse to qualify and perform the duties of his office or appointment, shall pay twenty-five dollars, one-half to the use of the town and the other half to the use of any person who will sue for the same. (Rev., s. 2942; Code, s. 3812; R. C., c. 111, s. 22.)

Constitutionality.—The provisions of this section are not in conflict with Art. 1, sec. 17, of the Constitution. London v. Headen, 76 N. C. 72.

§ 2648. Hold office until successor qualified.—Whenever the day of election shall be altered, the officers of the corporation elected or appointed before that day shall hold their places till the day of election, and until other officers shall be elected or appointed and qualified. And they shall hold their offices in like manner when there is any failure to make the annual election. (Rev., s. 2943; Code, s. 3792; R. C., c. 111, s. 8.)

Part 6. Reduction of Salaries

§ 2648(a). Of officers and employees notwithstanding legislative enactment. — Whenever the salary of any officer or employee of any county, city, town, or other municipality has been fixed by legislative enactment, the governing body of such county, city, town, or other municipality may reduce such salary by an amount not to exceed ten per cent of the salary as so fixed: Provided, this section shall not apply to salaries of teachers or other officers in the public schools. (1931, c. 429, s. 21.)

Art. 3. Elections Regulated

§ 2649. Application of law, and exceptions.—All elections held in any city or town shall be held under the following rules and regulations, except in the cities of Charlotte, Fayetteville and Greensboro, and in the town of Graham, and in the towns in the counties of Bertie, Cabarrus, Caldwell, Catawba, Chowan, Davidson, Edgecombe, Gaston, Lenoir, Nash, Pitt, Robeson, Stokes, Surry, Vance, Wayne and Wilson. (Rev., s. 2944; 1901, c. 750, ss. 1, 21; 1903, cc. 184, 218, 626, 769, 777; 1907, c. 165; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 63; 1909, c. 365; 1931, c. 369; 1933, c. 102; 1935, c. 215, s. 1, c. 353.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 struck out Columbus County formerly appearing in this section.

Public Laws 1933, c. 102, omitted the town of Shelby, from the list of excepted places.

Public Laws of 1935, chapter 215, omitted "Mitchell" from the list of counties. Chapter 253 added the town of "Graham" to the excepted list.

For a provision relating to elections held in the town of Belmont, Gaston county, see Public Laws 1935, chapter 161.

Cited in Hendersonville v. Jordan, 150 N. C. 35, 63 S. E. 167.

§ 2650. When election held.—In all cities and towns an election shall be held on Tuesday after the first Monday of May, one thousand nine hundred and five, and biennally thereafter: Provided, that the provisions of this section shall not be construed so as to change, alter or amend any clause or provision in any charter of any town or city in Harnett county providing for an annual election of the officers of such town or city. Provided further that the provisions of this section shall apply to the town of Dunn, in Harnett county. (Rev., s. 2945; 1901, c. 750, s. 19; 1907, c. 165; 1925, c. 67.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment of 1925 the last sentence to this section was added.

For a provision applicable to an election in the town of Spruce Pine in Mitchell County, see Public Laws 1935, chapter 215.

Applied in Hendersonville v. Jordan, 150 N. C. 35, 63 S. E. 167.

§ 2651. Polling places. — There shall be at least one polling place in each ward in the town or city, if the said town or city is divided into wards; and if not divided into wards, then there shall be as many polling places as may be established by the governing body of said town or city. (Rev., s. 2946; 1901, c. 750, s. 2.)

In General.—The general law clearly contemplates that the polling place should be fixed by the governing authorities of the city or town; and these places are, as a rule, of the substance (McCrary on Elections, sec. 141) and should be established and fully advertised. Hendersonville v. Jordan, 150 N. C. 35, 38, 63 S. E. 167.

§ 2652. Registrars appointed.—The board of commissioners shall select, at least thirty days before any city or town election, one person for each election precinct, who shall act as registrar of voters for such precinct; and shall make publication of the names of the persons so selected, and of the time of election, at the town or city hall, or at the usual place of holding the mayor's court, immediately after such appointment, and shall cause a notice to be served upon the registrars by the sheriff of the county or the township constable. If any registrar shall die or neglect to perform his duties, said governing body may appoint another in his place. (Rev., s. 2947; 1901, c. 750, s. 5; 1903, c. 613.)

Editor's Note. — For a provision substituting "county board of elections" for "board of commissioners" applicable only in the town of Graham in Alamance county, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 353.

§ 2653. Registrars take oath of office.—Before entering upon the duties of his office each registrar shall take an oath before some person authorized by law to administer oaths to faithfully perform the duties of his office as registrar. (Rev., s. 2948; 1901, c. 750, s. 6.)

In General. — Even if no oath is administered to the elector or the registrar, the registration must be accepted as the act of a public officer. State v. Nicholson, 102 N. C. 465, 9 S. E. 545.

Freeholders Not Required.—The registrars are not required to be freeholders. Hendersonville v. Jordan, 150 N. C. 35, 63 S. E. 167.

§ 2654. Registration of voters.—It shall be the duty of the board of commissioners of every city and town to cause a registration to be made of all the qualified voters residing therein, under the rules and regulations prescribed for the registration of voters for general elections. And where there has been a registration of voters, the board of commissioners may, in its discretion, order a new registration of voters; and unless such new registration shall be ordered, the election shall be held under the existing registration, with such revision as is herein provided. (Rev., s. 2949; Code, s. 3795; 1901, c. 750, s. 3.)

As to qualification and registration of voters, see Art. VI, sections 2 and 3 of the Constitution and notes thereto.

Editor's Note.—A "qualified voter" is one duly registered. Southerland v. Goldsboro, 96 N. C. 49, 1 S. E. 760.

When a town charter provides for registration biennially, one registering as required by the charter answers the requirement, and should be allowed to vote in all city elections. In case a registration is called for by the corporate authorities notice must be given as provided by the preceding section and failure to give such notice will not give the city authorities power to deprive one of the right to vote under his regular registration. Smith v. Wilmington, 98 N. C. 343, 4 S. E. 489.

For a provision substituting "county board of elections" for "board of commissioners" applicable only in the town of Graham in Alamance county, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 353.

In General.—The words "general elections" refer not to an election purely local, but to one held throughout the State, when the books are required to be kept open for twenty days. If it was intended to refer to municipal elections, the Legislature would not have used the word "general," but the word "regular," the former word being chosen as having a definite and well understood meaning and as contradistinguished from "local" or "municipal." Hardee v. Henderson, 170 N. C. 572, 574, 87 S. E. 498.

Under this statute voters at municipal elections must have the same qualifications as are required in general elections, i. e., in elections for state and county. State v. Viele, 164 N. C. 122, 124, 80 S. E. 408.

How Notice Given.—"In the case of Lawson v. Ry. Co., 30 Wis., 597, it was held: 'Under a statute requiring the notice of election to be given by the board of supervisors of a town, it may be given by order of the board signed only by the clerk.'" Briggs v. Raleigh, 166 N. C. 149, 154, 81 S. E. 1084.

Cited in Gower v. Carter, 195 N. C. 697, 143 S. E. 513.

§ 2655. Notice of new registration.—In the event a new registration is ordered the board of commissioners shall give thirty days notice thereof by advertisement in some newspaper, if there be one published in the town or city, and if there be none so published, then in three public places in the city or town. (Rev., s. 2950; 1901, c. 750, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—For a provision substituting "county board of elections" for "board of commissioners" applicable only in the town of Graham in Alamance county, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 353.

§ 2656. Registration books revised.—Each registrar shall be furnished with registration books, and it shall be his duty to revise the registration book of his precinct in such manner that said books shall show an accurate list of the electors previously registered in such ward or precinct and still residing therein, without requiring such electors to be registered anew. (Rev., s. 2951; 1901, c. 750, s. 6.)

§ 2657. Time for registration.—Each registrar shall, between the hours of nine o'clock a. m. and five o'clock p. m. on each day (Sunday excepted) for seven days preceding the day for closing the registration books, as hereinafter provided, keep open said books for the registration of any new electors residing in the precinct, and entitled to register, whose names have never before been registered in such precinct, or do not appear in the revised list. Such books shall be open until nine o'clock p. m. of each Saturday during such registration period and shall be closed for registration on the second Saturday before each election. (Rev., s. 2952; 1901, c. 750, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—This section was intended for the registration of new voters and not for the registration of all the voters. Section 5947 provides for registration of all the voters. Hardee v. Henderson, 170 N. C. 572, 87 S. E. 498.

Section Only Directory.—"The fact that the registration book was not kept open during the whole prescribed period, on the Saturday before the election, cannot be allowed to render the election void, when it was kept open for inspection up to 2 p. m., and no one was denied the opportunity of examining it or sought it afterwards. This does not vitiate the election." State v. Nicholson, 102 N. C. 465, 476, 9 S. E. 545.

The two propositions settled by Hill v. Skinner, 169 N. C. 405, 86 S. E. 351, were these:

1. While the law providing for notices of election and the registration of voters is mandatory as to the officers required to give such notice, it is only directory where a fair election has been held and voters were not deprived of their right of suffrage, in which case the failure to give notice is not ground for disturbing the election where the result could not have been otherwise.

2. Though registration books which by law should have been kept open twenty days were kept open only for eight days, the election will not be set aside where there was an extremely large registration and it did not appear that any voters were deprived of their rights or that a longer period of registration would in any way have affected the result. Hardee v. Henderson, 170 N. C. 572, 574, 87 S. E. 498.

§ 2658. Registration on election day.—No registration shall be allowed on the day of election, but if any person shall give satisfactory evidence to the registrar and judges of election that he has become of the age of twenty-one years or otherwise has become qualified to register and vote since the registration books were closed for registration, he shall be allowed to register and vote. (Rev., s. 2953; 1901, c. 750, s. 8.)

§ 2660. Practice in challenges.—When a person is challenged the registrar shall enter upon his books opposite the name of the person objected to the word "Challenged," and the registrar shall appoint a time and place, on or before the Monday immediately preceding election day, when he, together with the judges of election, shall hear and decide the objection, giving personal notice to the voter so objected to; and if for any cause personal notice cannot be given, then it shall be sufficient to leave a copy thereof at his residence. If any person challenged shall be found not duly qualified, the registrar shall erase his name from the books. They shall hear and determine the cause of challenge under the rules and regulations prescribed by the general law regulating elections for members of the general assembly. (Rev., s. 2956; 1901, c. 750, ss. 7, 9.)

§ 2661. Judges of election.—The board of commissioners shall appoint, at least thirty days before any city or town election, two judges of election, who shall be of different political parties where possible, and shall be men of good character, able to read and write, at each place of holding election in said city or town, who, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, shall take an oath, before some person authorized by law to administer oaths, to conduct the election fairly and impartially, according to the constitution and laws of the state. (Rev., s. 2958; 1901, c. 750, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—For a provision substituting "county board of elections" for "board of commissioners" applicable only in the town of Graham in Alamance county, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 353.

Applied in Hendersonville v. Jordan, 150 N. C. 35, 63 S. E. 167.

§ 2662. Vacancies on election day.—If any vacancy shall occur on the day of election, in the office of registrar, the same shall be filled by the judges of election, and if any vacancy shall occur on that day in the office of judge the same shall be filled by the registrar; vacancies occurring at any other time shall be filled by the board of commissioners. (Rev., s. 2954; 1901, c. 750, s. 20.)

§ 2663. Judges superintend election. — The judges of election shall open the polls and superintend the same until the close of election; they shall keep poll books in which shall be entered the name of every person who shall vote, and at the close of the election they shall certify the same over their proper signatures and deposit them with the board of commissioners. (Rev., s. 2959; 1901, c. 750, s. 7.)

§ 2664. When polls open and close.—The polls shall be open on the day of election from eight o'clock a. m. till sunset, and no longer; and each person whose name may be registered shall be entitled to vote. (Rev., s. 2960; 1901, c. 750, s. 10.)

§ 2665. Who may vote.—All qualified electors, who shall have resided for four months immediately preceding an election within the limits of any voting precinct of a city or town, and not otherwise, shall have the right to vote in such precinct for mayor and other city or town officers. (Rev., s. 2961; 1901, c. 750, s. 9.)

See notes to section 2654; Art VI, sections 2, 3, of the Constitution, and notes thereunder.

§ 2666. Ballots and ballot boxes.—All ballots shall be printed or written upon white paper and shall be of the same size, without device, mutilation or ornamentation, the size of ballots to be fixed by board of commissioners at the same meeting the registrar is appointed. The governing body of the city or town shall provide for each election precinct in their respective cities or towns necessary ballot boxes in which to deposit the ballots; each of such boxes shall have an opening through the lid to admit a single folded ballot, and no more. The ballot boxes shall be kept by the judges of election for the use of the election precincts respectively; and the registrar and judges of election, before the voting begins, shall carefully examine the ballot boxes and see that there is nothing in them, and they shall be sealed or securely fastened and not be opened until the polls are closed. (Rev., s. 2962; 1901, c. 750, s. 12; 1903, c. 613, s. 2.)

§ 2668. Registration books, where deposited.—Immediately after any election the registrars shall deposit the registration books for the respective precincts with the board of commissioners. (Rev., s. 2957; 1901, c. 750, s. 11.)

§ 2669. Board of canvassers. — The registrar and judges of election in each voting precinct shall appoint one of their number to attend the meeting of the board of canvassers as a member thereof, and shall deliver to the member who shall have been so appointed the original returns of the result of the election in such precinct; and the members of the board of canvassers who shall have been so appointed shall attend the meeting of the board of canvassers, and shall constitute the board of town canvassers for such election, and a majority of them shall constitute a quorum. In towns where there is only one voting precinct, the registrar and judges of election shall, at the close of the election, declare the result thereof. (Rev., s. 2964; 1901, c. 750, ss. 13, 14.)

§ 2670. Meeting of board of canvassers.—The board of canvassers shall meet on the next day after the election at twelve o'clock m., at the mayors office, and they shall each take the oath prescribed in the general law governing elections for members of the board of county canvassers. (Rev., s. 2965; 1901, c. 750, s. 15.)

§ 2671. Board determines result; tie vote.—The board of canvassers shall, at their meeting, in the presence of such electors as choose to attend, open, canvass and judicially determine the result, and shall make abstracts, stating the number of legal ballots cast in each precinct for each office, the name of each person voted for and the number of votes given to each person for each different office, and shall sign the same. It shall have power and authority to pass upon judicially all the votes relative to the election and judicially determine and declare the result of the same, and shall have power and authority to send for papers and persons and examine the latter upon oath; and in case of a tie between two opposing candidates, the result shall be determined by lot. In all other respects all elections held in any town or city shall be conducted as prescribed for the election of members of the general assembly. (Rev., s. 2966; 1901, c. 750, ss. 16, 17.)

As to county elections. see section 5991.

In General.—In an action in quo warranto to try title to an office the burden of proof is on the plaintiff to show that the holder of the office has not been duly elected by qualified voters. This is not shown when after rejecting certain votes there is a tie. See State v. Carter, 194 N. C. 293.

§ 2672. Notice of special election.—No special election shall be held for any purpose in any county, township, city or town unless at least thirty days notice shall have been given of the same by advertisement in some newspaper published in said county, city or town, or by advertisement posted at the courthouse of the county and four other public places in such county, city or town. (Rev., s. 2967; 1901, c. 750, s. 24.)

In General.—Where the election for the issue of bonds by a township for road purposes has been held in all respects in accordance with the provisions of a statute, at the usual polling places, etc., they will not be declared invalid at the instance of a purchaser, on the ground that the full period of the thirty-day notice of the time and place of the election had not been advertised as set out in this section when there is no suggestion of fraud and full publicity had been given by newspapers of large local circulation, the election had been broadly discussed beforehand, and it does not appear that any voter is objecting to the bonds or has been deprived of his right to vote. Board v. Malone, 179 N. C. 10, 101 S. E. 500.

Art. 4. Ordinances and Regulations

§ 2673. General power to make ordinances.—The board of commissioners shall have power to make ordinances, rules and regulations for the better government of the town, not inconsistent with this chapter and the law of the land, as they may deem necessary; and may enforce them by imposing penalties on such as violate them; and may compel the performance of the duties imposed upon others, by suitable penalties. (Rev., s. 2923; Code, ss. 3799, 3804; R. C., c. 111, ss. 12, 17.)

Cross References.—As to reasonableness of ordinances, see 9 N. C. Enc. Dig. 405, 415. As to powers under act of 1917, see section 2787. As to enforcement, see §§ 2634, 2635, 2639 and 2642.

Editor's Note.—To exhaust all the illustrations of the general application of the principle of this section which are found in the reports would be too extensive for a work of this kind, but many and varied illustrations are given in this note with no attempt to exhaust them. Reference should be had to digest citations for complete treatment.

In General.—"In construing this and similar legislation elsewhere, the courts have very generally held that the established municipal authorities may enact such ordinances as are promotive of the peace and good order of the town, the limitation being that the regulations may not be unreasonable or unduly discriminative nor manifestly oppressive and in 'derogation of common right.'" State v. Burbage, 172 N. C. 876, 878, 89 S. E. 795.

It is not necessary now to aver an authority to pass the ordinance conferred by a general and public law, as it was when that authority was derived under a special act of incorporation. State v. Merritt, 83 N. C. 677, 679.

Construction against City.—A doubt as to whether an ordinance is invalid, as conflicting with individual rights, should be resolved against the city. Slaughter v. O'Berry, 126 N. C. 181, 35 S. E. 241, 48 L. R. A. 442.

Courts Slow to Question Discretion of Ordinance. — By this section discretionary power is vested in the city authorities, and the courts will be slow to interfere when the ordinance is not contrary to laws of the state and no fraud, dishonesty or oppression is charged. State v. Austin, 114 N. C. 855, 19 S. E. 919. Or unless their action is so clearly unreasonable as to amount to oppression and manifest abuse of their discretion, and then the power of the court will be exercised with great caution and only in a clear case. Jones v. North Wilkesboro, 150 N. C. 646, 64 S. E. 866.

Ordinances Operative until Repealed.—Succeeding boards of commissioners are deemed to act subject to the provisions of ordinances passed by their predecessors in authority, until they see fit to repeal them. Hutchins v. Durham, 118 N. C. 457, 24 S. E. 723.

General Laws Prevail over Ordinances. — "The true principle is that municipal by-laws and ordinances must be in harmony with the general laws of the State, and whenever they come in conflict with the general laws the by-laws and ordinances must give way." Washington v. Hammond, 76 N. C. 33, 36; State v. Stevens, 114 N. C. 873, 19 S. E. 861.

Classification of Occupations. — The general question of the right of classification was very fully considered by the Supreme Court in State v. Davis, 157 N. C. 648, 73 S. E. 130, and Smith v. Wilkins, 164 N. C. 135, 80 S. E. 168, and the doctrine was approved that the General Assembly or municipal corporation has the power to classify the different occupations, provided the classification is not unreasonable and oppressive, and that usually the extent to which the power will be exercised is for the General Assembly or the governing body of the municipality. State v. Davis, 171 N. C. 809, 813, 89 S. E. 40.

An ordinance of a town, authorized by statute, imposing a fine of $25 upon drug stores for selling cigars, etc., on Sunday, and a fine of $5 for the same offense upon restaurants, cafés, and lunch stands, declaring the same to be a misdemeanor, relates to distinct and easily several occupations, and in the absence of any finding that those engaged in them come in competition with each other, the ordinance will not be declared unconstitutional and invalid upon the ground that it is discriminatory against the owners of drug stores. State v. Davis, 171 N. C. 809, 89 S. E. 40.

Closing Business on Sundays.—"It is against the public policy of the State that one should pursue his ordinary business calling on Sunday, and, where this is the case, it is very generally understood not only that ordinary business pursuits may be regulated, but altogether prohibited on Sunday." S. v. Medlin, 170 N. C. 682, 86 S. E. 597; State v. Burbage, 172 N. C. 876, 878, 89 S. E. 795.

An ordinance of a town may, under the provisions of this section prohibit the opening of all places of business on Sunday, except drug stores; and it is not an unreasonable regulation, under the police power of the town, inasmuch as drug stores are open all day Sunday, for the governing authorities to further provide that they may sell articles of common use which are quasi necessities to many, such as mineral waters, soft drinks, cigars and tobacco only, between certain hours of that day. State v. Medlin, 170 N. C. 682, 86 S. E. 597.

Power to Close Business at Certain Hours.—The right of a city to restrict hours of business is restricted to cases when it is for the protection and benefit of the public. It has no power to require a merchant to close his store at an early hour because other merchants so desire to close all stores at a regular early hour. State v. Ray, 131 N. C. 814, 42 S. E. 960.

A city has power to restrict the use of property in so far as it may injure others, but it has no power to provide against a person sitting in his place of business after a time prescribed for closing it. State v. Thomas, 118 N. C. 1221, 24 S. E. 535.

Regulation of Gasoline Stations.—That the regulation of gasoline filling or gasoline storage stations comes within the police power of the State is freely conceded; and that such power is specifically conferred upon the plaintiff is likewise conceded. Wake Forest v. Medlin, 199 N. C. 83, 85, 154 S. E. 29.

Power that May Be Conferred on Constable.—An ordinance could not constitutionally confer, upon a constable, a ministerial officer, the power to arrest and imprison for a penalty incurred or for any other violation of law, except it may be for safe custody. Men may not be arrested, imprisoned and released upon the judgment or at the discretion of a constable or any one else. State v. Parker, 75 N. C. 249, 250.

Insulting an Officer.—The commissioners of a town have no authority to make it unlawful for one to insult an officer or police while in the discharge of his duty, nor to provide a fine for one convicted of such offense. State v. Clay, 118 N. C. 1234, 24 S. E. 492.

Ordinance against Hogs at Large. — A town ordinance declaring that "all hogs, etc., found running at large within the town" shall be taken up or impounded, is valid, whether the owner resides within the corporate limits of such town or not. Rose v. Hardie, 98 N. C. 44, 4 S. E. 41. See sec. 1850 and notes.

Scope of Power to "Regulate" Vehicles for Hire.—Neither the authority "to license and regulate all vehicles operated for hire," as provided by § 2787, nor the "power to make . . . regulations for the better government" conferred by this section, can justly be construed as intended by the Legislature to authorize the adoption of an ordinance requiring operators of vehicles for hire to furnish personal injury and property damage insurance or bond with solvent surety. To place such a construction upon these provisions would be to give to the words "regulate" and "regulations" a far more extended and unrestricted scope than we apprehend the Legislature ever had in contemplation. State v. Gulledge, 208 N. C. 204, 208, 179 S. E. 883.

Applied in State v. Stevens, 114 N. C. 873, 876, 19 S. E. 861.

§ 2674. Power to establish and regulate markets.—The board of commissioners may establish and regulate their markets, and prescribe at what place, within the corporation, shall be sold marketable things; in what manner, whether by weight or measure, may be sold grain, meal or flour (if flour be not packed in barrels), fodder, hay, or oats in straw; may erect scales for the purpose of weighing the same, appoint a weigher, fix his fees, and direct by whom they shall be paid. But it shall not be lawful for the commissioners or other authorities of any town to impose any tax whatever on wagons or carts selling farm products, garden truck, fish and oysters on the public streets thereof. (Rev., s. 2928; Code, s. 3801; R. C., c. 111, s. 14; 1879, c. 176.)

As to markets and slaughter places under act of 1917, see section 2794.

Section Liberally Construed.—"The courts have been disposed to construe much more liberally grants to municipalities of authority to exercise a limited control over the markets by prescribing reasonable regulations either for the protection of the health or the comfort or convenience of its people, than laws that purport to invest such corporations with more extraordinary powers." State v. Summerfield, 107 N. C. 895, 898, 12 S. E. 114.

Contract for Erection of Market.—A contract between a city and individuals for the erection by the individuals of a market house, which shall be under the control of the city, and which provides for a maximum rental for stalls therein, and which declares that the city shall pay a rental equal to the taxes on the property, until the enterprise is on a paying basis, and which permits the city, at its option, to purchase the property, is not in conflict with the Constitution, and does not violate any principle of public policy. State v. Perry, 151 N. C. 661, 65 S. E. 915.

Lease of Building for Market Purposes.—If a municipal corporation has power under its charter to build a market house, it has power also to lease a building for market purposes. Wade v. New Bern, 77 N. C. 460.

Prohibiting Sale of Merchandise outside of Market.—A town or city having the power under its charter to regulate its markets, and prescribe at what places and in what manner in the town market things shall be sold, may prohibit by an ordinance the sale of fresh meats within the corporate limits outside of the market house, and may impose a penalty for a violation of the ordinance. State v. Pendergrass, 106 N. C. 664, 10 S. E. 1002, cited in notes in 24 L. R. A. 586; 38 L. R. A. 312; Angels v. Winston-Salem, 193 N. C. 207, 136 S. E. 489.

Extent of Control over Market when Leased.—The occupant of a market stall, under a license subject to revocation under the provision of the city ordinances, acquires no right in the soil, as under a lease, and no additional right of possession, from the fact that he has been allowed to hold over because there was no annual renting of stalls on the day prescribed by the ordinance; but he is an occupant at the absolute pleasure and discretion of the licensor. Hutchins v. Durham, 118 N. C. 457, 24 S. E. 273, 32 L. R. A. 706.

Power to Require Weighing of Oats. — An ordinance adopted by the intendant and commissioners of the city of Raleigh, requiring oats to be weighed by the public weighmaster before being offered for sale, and imposing a penalty for its violation, is not unconstitutional, but valid. Raleigh v. Sorrell, 46 N. C. 49.

Requirement that Cotton Be Weighed—Fee.—A town ordinance providing that the commissioners shall elect a cotton-weigher who shall receive eight cents compensation for every bale weighed by him, one-half to be paid by the buyer and the other by the seller, and prescribing a penalty for buying or selling in the corporate limits without having it weighed by such cotton-weigher, is a valid and reasonable regulation. State v. Tyson, 111 N. C. 687, 16 S. E. 238.

Cited in State v. Austin, 114 N. C. 855, 864, 19 S. E. 919 by Avery, J., dissenting.

§ 2675. Repair streets and bridges.—The board of commissioners shall provide for keeping in proper repair the streets and bridges in the town, in the manner and to the extent they may deem best; may cause such improvements in the town to be made as may be necessary, and may apportion the same equally among the inhabitants, by assessments of labor or otherwise, and the citizens shall not be liable to work on the public roads without the limits of the town. When they determine to repair or improve by labor, they may appoint an overseer and compel such persons as are liable to perform duty on the public roads to work on the streets, in the manner and under the penalties provided in the general law for the reparation of the public roads. (Rev., s. 2930; Code, s. 3803; R. C., c. 111, s. 16.)

I. EDITOR'S NOTE.

This section is so general and the subject so vast that it would be impracticable to include within the annotations all the decisions that might fairly be said to be general applications. However, a considerable number of the illustrative cases are included, and reference should be had to the digest citations for a complete and comprehensive treatment of all the cases.

II. USE, REPAIR AND IMPROVEMENT.

A. Use.

Use for Other Purposes.—"While it is the duty of a municipal corporation to use reasonable care to keep its streets in a safe condition to drive upon, it has the right to devote the sides of the streets to other useful public purposes, provided it leaves an unobstructed driveway of ample width for the passage of teams. It may construct sidewalks of a higher grade and gutters of a lower grade than the driveway, place curbing on the line of the gutters, erect hydrants and authorize the erection of hitching posts and stepping stones as well as poles to support the wires of telegraph and telephone lines." Daugherty v. Horseheads, 159 N. Y. 154: Rollins v. Winston-Salem, 176 N. C. 411, 413, 97 S. E. 211.

B. Duty to Repair.

For a complete digest treatment, see 9 Enc. Dig. [section 91] 433.

Rule Stated.—The duty of keeping the streets repaired devolves upon the city functioning through the proper officials.

In Bunch v. Edenton, 90 N. C. 531, the court said that it is the positive duty of the corporate authorities of a town to keep the streets, including the sidewalks, in 'proper repair," that is, in such condition as that the people passing and repassing over them might at all times do so with reasonable ease, speed and safety. And proper repair implies also that all bridges, dangerous pits, embankments, dangerous walls, and the like perilous things very near and adjoining the streets, shall be guarded against by proper railings and barriers. Positive nuisances on or near the streets should be forbidden under proper penalties, and, when they exist, should be abated. Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140 N. C. 110, 112, 52 S. E. 309.

Thus the rights, powers, and liability of the municipality extend equally to the sidewalk as to the roadway, for both are parts of the street (Tate v. Greensboro, 114 N. C. 392, 19 S. E. 767); and towns and cities are held to the same degree of liability for failure to repair sidewalks as to repair the other part of the street. Bunch v. Edenton, 90 N. C. 431; Russell v. Monroe, 116 N. C. 720, 726, 21 S. E. 550; Neal v. Marion, 129 N. C. 345, 40 S. E. 116; Wolfe v. Pearson, 114 N. C. 621, 19 S. E. 264; Hester v. Traction Co., 138 N. C. 288, 291, 50 S. E. 711.

This duty extends to streets dedicated and excepted by the city but not to streets or portions of streets not accepted by the city although dedicated by some individual. Hughes v. Clark, 134 N. C. 457, 46 S. E. 956, 47 S. E. 462.

Persons by Whom Made.—This section does not impose on the commissioners the duty to personally work the streets but it does impose on them a duty to keep them in repair. Although the power allows discretion, the commissioners are subject to indictment for neglecting to keep public streets in repair. State v. Dickson, 124 N. C. 871, 32 S. E. 961.

Citizens Required to Work.—All towns, by virtue of this section can require its inhabitants to work the streets unless specially provided otherwise by its charter. State v. Smith, 103 N. C. 403, 9 S. E. 435.

Contracts with and Duties of Public Service Companies to Repair.—A city may by contract with a street railroad provide for the repair of the street between the tracks, as a consideration for the franchise, and the railroad will be required to repair and keep its part in the same condition as the rest of the street. New Bern v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 159 N. C. 542, 75 S. E. 807.

Pipes, conduits, rails, and structures erected or constructed in the city streets under a general grant of authority to use the streets therefor are subject to the paramount power and duty of the city to repair, alter, and improve the streets, as the city, in its discretion, may deem proper, and to construct therein sewers and other improvements for the public benefit. Raleigh v. Carolina Power Co., 180 N. C. 234, 236, 104 S. E. 462.

Assessments on Property to Pay for Repairs.—See section 2720 and note. Cities and towns can levy assessments with which to pay for the repair and improvements of streets. But to do this they must have direct authority from the Legislature. Thus it has been held that local assessment for street improvement must be allowed by direct statute, and that statute must be strictly complied with. Greensboro v. McAdoo, 112 N. C. 362, 17 S. E. 178. This does not limit the authority so as to exclude necessary incidents to the principal power, provided such power is clearly conferred. Raleigh v. Pearce, 110 N. C. 32, 33, 14 S. E. 521.

Assessments for street improvements do not come under the head of eminent domain, but are taxes in a general sense, and for that reason authority to levy them must be derived from the Legislature. They are not taxes falling in the restraints imposed by the Constitution Art. V, section 3. Although the principle of uniformity governs both. Raleigh v. Pearce, 110 N. C. 32, 33, 14 S. E. 521.

In case of assessments against abutting land for street improvements the assessment must be against the land and cannot be in the form of a personal judgment against the owner. Raleigh v. Pearce, 110 N. C. 32, 14 S. E. 521.

Meaning of Apportionment.—The provision for apportionment by assessment is construed to mean apportionment and assessment according to benefits. Therefore in the case of paving the assessments should be against abutting owners on a footage basis, and when so made are valid. Raleigh v. Pearce, 110 N. C. 32, 14 S. E. 521.

C. Liability for Damage to Property.

For complete digest treatment, see 9 Enc. Dig. [sections 111-121] 441-446.

General Rule.—The question was first considered by the Supreme Court in 1848 and exhaustively discussed by Judge Pearson, and the conclusion reached that where a municipal corporation has authority to grade its streets it is not liable for consequential damage, unless the work was done in an unskillful and incautious manner. Meares v. Wilmington, 31 N. C. 73. This case has been approved and followed in many adjudications of this court in more recent years. Salisbury v. Western North Carolina Railroad, 91 N. C. 490; Wolfe v. Pearson, 114 N. C. 621, 628, 19 S. E. 264; Wright v. Wilmington, 92 N. C. 160; Tate v. Greensboro, 114 N. C. 392, 397, 19 S. E. 767; Frown v. Electric Co., 138 N. C. 533, 537, 51 S. E. 62; Jones v. Henderson, 60 S. E. 894; Ward v. Commissioners, 146 N. C. 534, 538, 60 S. E. 418; Small v. Edenton, 146 N. C. 527, 60 S. E. 413. In Thomason v. Seaboard, etc., R. Co., 142 N. C. 300, 307, 55 S. E. 198, the subject is referred to as "the settled doctrine of this State." Dorsey v. Henderson, 148 N. C. 423, 425, 62 S. E. 547.

A discretionary power is conferred by this section and will not be interferred with unless abused. "In numerous and repeated decisions the principle has been announced and sustained that the courts may not interfere with discretionary powers conferred on these local administrative boards for the public welfare unless their action is so clearly unreasonable as to amount to an oppressive and manifest abuse of discretion." Munday v. Newton, 167 N. C. 656, 658, 83 S. E. 695.

Right of Abutting Owner to Remove Nuisance.—When a street is repaired or changed by a city so as to damage an owner of the fee in the street or to cause a nuisance the owner has no right to change the condition of the street so as to remove the nuisance or lesson the damage, and such act will subject him to indictment. State v. Wilson, 107 N. C. 865, 12 S. E. 320.

However, it may be pointed out incidentally that when an unauthorized person does an act of repair to streets that might have been done by a city, a ratification by the city will relieve him of any liability as a trespasser. Wolfe v. Pearson, 114 N. C. 621, 628, 19 S. E. 264.

Shade Trees Cut While Grading.—The discretionary power of repairing and maintaining a street is vested in the commissioners of a city, and an action for damages caused by cutting of trees in the street, by them, will not lie in favor of an abutting property owner, in the absence of negligence, malice or wantonness. Tate v. Greensboro, 114 N. C. 392, 19 S. E. 767.

Incidental Damage to Land Not Abutting on Street.—No provision is made in the general road laws, or in railroad charters or in acts incorporating towns, as a rule, for compensating landowners who are not owners of the fee simple title to any part of the highway, railroad or street, or whose lands do not abut immediately on them, because of injuries inflicted incidentally on land other than that appropriated or contiguous to it, the corporation can not, ordinarily, be made to answer in damages. State v. Wilson, 107 N. C. 865, 871, 12 S. E. 320.

III. GRADE CROSSINGS, VIADUCTS, ETC.

Power to Regulate.—The right of the city government, both under its police powers and the several statutes applicable to require railroads to construct bridges or viaducts, along streets running over their tracks, is fully established in this jurisdiction and is recognized in well-considered cases elsewhere. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Goldsboro, 155 N. C. 356, 71 S. E. 514; S. v. City of Minneapolis, 98 Mich., 380; Cleveland v. Augusta, 102 Ga. 233, 29 S. E. 584; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Minnesota, 208 U. S. 583, 28 S. Ct. 341. Powell v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 178 N. C. 243, 245, 100 S. E. 424.

In fact it is apparent that municipalities through the power delegated to them by the State may make such regulations respecting railroad crossings as in their discretion may be necessary so long as they proceed in accordance with the law, and this discretion will not be interferred with unless manifestly abused.

It was held by the court in Durham v. Southern R. Co., 185 N. C. 240, 117 S. E. 17, that a city has both inherent power and authority by general statute over its streets for the protection of its citizens, which is not taken from it by section 1048, conferring like powers upon the Corporation Commission. Durham v. Southern R. Co., 185 N. C. 240, 117 S. E. 17.

The exercise by the State of its power to provide for the safety of its citizens with respect to grade crossings of its streets by a railroad company is within its police powers, and may be exercised by municipal corporations under authority conferred on them, and not being delegated to the National Government, it is not affected by Federal legislation upon Interstate Commerce or the Federal Transportation Act. Durham v. Southern R. Co., 185 N. C. 240, 117 S. E. 17.

This holding was affirmed in 266 U. S. 178, 45 S. Ct. 51.

A city charter giving a city specific authority to erect gates at a railroad crossing, or to require the railroad company to place a flagman there to warn pedestrains, with provision that such authority shall not be exclusive, does not limit the authority of the city therein, or take from it the inherent and statutory right to require that the railroad company construct an underpass for the protection of the public. Durham v. Southern R. Co., 185 N. C. 240, 117 S. E. 17.

In 2 N. C. Law Rev. 104, referring to the case immediately preceding it was said: "The result of the decision, so far as the question of substantive law is concerned, is that a municipal corporation may, under its charter or by general law, by proper ordinance, require a railroad company to construct, at its own expense, such crossings for the streets as will best promote the public safety in the use of the streets; that the nature of the crossing to be constructed is within the reasonable discretion of the municipal authorities, and that the presumption is in favor of the validity of the city ordinance."

Same—Not Effected by Prior Regulations.—"The question is one of considerable public importance, not only for the cities where the congestion of traffic increases the danger, but also upon the highways in the State where travel has greatly increased by reason of the use of automobiles. This has been avoided to a certain extent by the regulation which requires drivers of automobiles to "stop, look and listen" at a crossing, thus necessarily giving the right of way to the railway train by reason of its greater size and speed and its inflexible line. The railroads have made some changes by relocating their lines, and the State highway commission has done much to eliminate this danger in the construction of the State highways by relocating the roads so as to avoid the crossings. This has been done at the public expense, which is compensated for by the greater safety and convenience. But this does not settle the right of railroads to maintain grade crossings nor how such crossings may be generally regulated." 2 N. C. Law Rev. 104.

IV. LIABILITY FOR DEFECTS OR OBSTRUCTIONS CAUSING INJURY.

For full treatment of notice of defects, see 9 N. C. Enc. Dig. 532 et seq.

Warranty of Condition of Streets.—While it is the duty of the city to keep its streets in such repair that they are reasonably safe for public travel, it is not an insurer of such condition nor warrants that they shall at all times be absolutely safe. A city is only responsible for a negligent breach of duty. Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140 N. C. 110, 113, 5 S. E. 309.

This liability does not exist merely because of the defect but because the defect which was the result of the negligent performance of duty cause an injury to a person, or his property, to whom the city owed the duty of repair. Ed. Note.

Necessity for Notice of Defect.—Since the liability depends upon the negligence of the city, it is evident that before such negligence can exist the city must have had notice of the defect or with the exercise of reasonable diligence would have had notice of it. Jones v. Greensboro, 124 N. C. 310, 32 S. E. 675.

Plaintiff Must Prove Notice.—So in order to establish responsibility, it is not sufficient to show that a defect existed and an injury has been caused thereby. It must be further shown that the officers of the town "knew, or by ordinary diligence might have discovered, the defect, and the character of the defect was such that injuries to travelers therefrom might reasonably be anticipated." Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140 N. C. 110, 113, 52 S. E. 309; Jones v. Greensboro, 124 N. C. 310, 32 S. E. 675.

Implied Notice.—When observable defects in a highway have existed for a time so long that they ought to have been observed, notice of them is implied. Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140 N. C. 110, 113, 52 S. E. 309.

Same—Question for Jury.—On the question of notice implied from the continued existence of a defect, no definite or fixed rule can be laid down as to the time required and it is usually a question for the jury on the facts and circumstances of each particular case. Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140 N. C. 110, 114, 52 S. E. 309.

Notice of Latent Defects.—Notice of latent defects should not be so readily presumed from their continuance as open and obvious defects. Fitzgerald v. Concord, 140 N. C. 110, 113, 52 S. E. 309.

Obstructions.—A city does not have discretionary power to put obstructions in its streets, and it is liable for its negligence in puting or leaving obstructions in the street to one injured by such obstruction. Graham v. Charlotte, 186 N. C. 649, 120 S. E. 466.

Same—Bridges Must Be as Wide as Street.—A city under the authority of this section in building and repairing streets has no right in building a bridge to obstruct the street with concrete pilasters, and for injuries caused by such obstruction it is liable. Graham v. Charlotte, 186 N. C. 649, 120 S. E. 466.

Same—Joint Liability with Private Individual.—If any person shall unlawfully erect an obstruction or nuisance in the streets of a city, and the town authorities shall permit it to remain an unreasonable length of time, the town and the tort-feasor are jointly and severally liable to the traveler for an injury resulting therefrom, without any fault on his part. The question of primary and secondary liability is for the offending parties to adjust between themselves. Dillon v. Raleigh, 124 N. C. 184, 187, 32 S. E. 548.

Independent Contributory Cause.—When two causes combine to produce an injury to a traveler on a highway, both of which are in their nature proximate—the one being a culpable defect in the highway, and the other some occurrence for which neither party is responsible—the municipality is liable, provided the injury would not have been sustained but for such defect. Ring v. Cohoes, 77 N. Y. 83; Dillon v. Raleigh, 124 N. C. 184, 188, 32 S. E. 548.

Contributory Negligence.—It follows from what has been said under the preceding analysis line that the city cannot be held liable when the injury resulted solely from the negligence of the injured, for the city is held liable solely for its own negligence. However there is a class of cases where the injury is the direct result of the city's negligence but the negligence of the injured was a contributing cause. In such cases the amount of damages is diminished in proportion to the contribution made by the negligence of the injured, and this is a jury question. The burden of proving contributory negligence is upon the city. Russell v. Monroe, 116 N. C. 720, 21 S. E. 550; Mason v. Richmond, etc., Railroad, 111 N. C. 482, 16 S. E. 698; Emry v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 109 N. C. 589, 14 S. E. 352; McAdoo v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 105 N. C. 140, 11 S. E. 316.

§ 2676. May abate nuisances.—The board of commissioners may pass laws for abating or preventing nuisances of any kind, and for preserving the health of the citizens. (Rev., s. 2929; Code, s. 3802; R. C., c. 111, s. 15.)

For full treatment of powers see 9 N. C. Enc. Dig. 466, 479. As to zoning laws, see sections 2776 (r) et seq. As to water protection, see sections 7116 et seq. As to privies, see sections 7129 et seq.

Liberal Construction of Authority.—Authority to abate nuisances is liberally construed by the courts for the benefit of the citizens. State v. Beacham, 125 N. C. 652, 654, 34 S. E. 447.

Encroachment on Street by Buildings.—Any permanent structure or purpresture which materially encroaches upon a public street and impedes travel is a nuisance per se, and may be abated, notwithstanding space is left for the passage of the public, and a failure on the part of a city to abate it in a reasonable time will make it liable as a joint tortfeasor. Graham v. Charlotte, 186 N. C. 649, 663, 120 S. E. 466.

Health Ordinances.—A city has power to require that a dealer in second-hand clothing turn them over to the city to be disinfected and the exercise of the power can not be considered as a restriction of an owner over his property, but is only the proper and lawful use of authority to protect the health of its citizens from diseases. Rosenbaum v. New Bern, 118 N. C. 83, 24 S. E. 1.

Hog Pens.—"The Board of Town Commissioners could forbid the keeping of hog pens in the town to such an extent as they might deem necessary to prevent nuisances to the public, and, indeed, they could have done so without the express authority. 2 Kent. Com., 340; 1 Dillon Mun. Corp. (4 Ed.), sec. 369." State v. Hord, 122 N. C. 1092, 1094, 29 S. E. 952.

Indecent Language or Cursing.—An ordinance which forbids the use of "abusive or indecent language, cursing, swearing or any loud or boisterous talking, hollowing or any other disorderly conduct within the corporate limits of a town, and imposes a fine of twenty-five dollars for a violation of it, may be enacted by its proper authorities under the powers granted, to them in the general law, especially under this section and such an ordinance is reasonable. State v. Cainan, 94 N. C. 880, 883; State v. McNinch, 87 N. C. 567; State v. Merritt, 83 N. C. 677." State v. Earnhardt, 107 N. C. 789, 790, 12 S. E. 426.

Liability for Failure to Abate.—In Hull v. Roxboro, 142 N. C. 453, 55 S. E. 351, it was held: "A municipal corporation is not civilly liable for the failure to pass ordinances to preserve the public health or otherwise promote the public good nor for any omission to enforce the ordinances enacted under the legislative powers granted in its charter, or to see that they are properly observed by its citizens, or those who may be resident within the corporate limits." Harrington v. Greenville, 159 N. C. 632, 635, 75 S. E. 849; Bunch v. Edenton, 90 N. C. 431.

But a city is liable in damages for failure to abate in a reasonable time a nuisance that amounts to an obstruction in a street. Dillon v. Raleigh, 124 N. C. 184, 32 S. E. 548.

Art. 5. Municipal Taxation

§ 2677. Commissioners may levy taxes.—The board of commissioners may annually levy and cause to be collected for municipal purposes a tax not exceeding fifty cents on the hundred dollars, and one dollar and fifty cents on each poll, on all persons and property within the corporation, which may be liable to taxation for state and county purposes; and may annually lay a tax on all trades, professions and franchises carried on or enjoyed within the city, unless otherwise provided by law; and may lay a tax on all such shows and exhibitions for reward as are taxed by the general assembly; and on all dogs, and on swine, horses and cattle, running at large within the town. (Rev., s. 2924; Code, s. 3800; R. C., c. 111, s. 13; 1862, c. 51.)

Cross References.—For full treatment of municipal taxes, see 9 N. C. Enc. Dig. 608, 622. As to dog tax, see section 2683. As to impounding stock, see sections 1850 et seq. As to taxes not for necessary expenses, see section 2691.

See 12 N. C. Law Rev., 23.

Application Where Charter Indefinite.—Since this section is applicable to all cities and towns except where their charters otherwise provide, a town whose powers to tax as other cities and towns is indefinite will be presumed to have the power under this section. Wadesboro v. Atkinson, 107 N. C. 317, 12 S. E. 202.

Same—When Only Restrictive.—Where a town charter is not passed in accordance with Art. II, section 14 of the Constitution the charter is valid but such town cannot levy any tax under said charter, although the charter may contain restrictions on the power to tax that are valid, under Art. VII, section 4 of the Constitution. The town may for necessary expense levy taxes under this section subject to the restrictions of the charter. Cotton Mills v. Waxhaw, 130 N. C. 293, 41 S. E. 488.

When There Is No Special Statute.—When there is no provision for taxes in the charter of a town taxes necessary to the expenses of the town may be levied under this section. If there is a provision in the charter for levying taxes, all taxes levied will be presumed to conform to the law and the constitution Art. VII, section 7. State v. Irvin, 126 N. C. 989, 35 S. E. 430.

Taxes on Traders and Professions.—Since the enactment of this section taxes laid upon trades and professions under the name of privilege taxes have been laid expressly for revenue, and such taxes are authorized by this section. State v. Irvin, 126 N. C. 989, 994, 35 S. E. 430.

The power to levy a tax on all trades includes "any employment or business embarked into for gain or profit. Lenoir Drug Co. v. Lenior, 160 N. C. 571, 76 S. E. 480.

Unless inconsistent with a special law or charter of a city a tax may be levied under this section, on a person engaging in any trade within the city. Guano Co. v. Tarboro, 126 N. C. 68, 35 S. E. 231.

A manufacturer of fertilizers maintaining its sales department in another State from which sales are exclusively made for fertilizer stored for distribution only, in a city in this State, is liable under an ordinance of the city levying a tax upon callings and professions, naming among others "fertilizer manufacturers' agents or dealers," the tax being for the protection afforded by the city in the exercise of such occupation, and the profits derived therefrom. Guano Co. v. New Bern, 158 N. C. 354, 74 S. E. 2.

Same—Classification.—The law of uniformity does not prohibit the classification of the municipality of dealers in a particular kind of merchandise separately from those whose business it is to sell other articles falling within the same generic term. Rosenbaum v. New Bern, 118 N. C. 83, 92, 24 S. E. 1.

But an ordinance requiring a license of livery men, and providing that it shall include any persons making contract for hire in town, "or carry any person with a vehicle out of town for hire," is void as being unreasonable, and is unlawful as well. Plymouth v. Cooper, 135 N. C. 1, 47 S. E. 129.

Money and Choses in Action Subject to Tax.—Article VII, section 9, of the Constitution was not intended to apply the rules of uniformity and equality to the subjects alone selected by the Legislature for taxation in granting a municipality charter, but requires that all property in the municipality shall be taxed, and taxed uniformly and equally. The word "property," includes moneys, credits, investments and other choses in action. Redmond v. Commissioners, 106 N. C. 122, 10 S. E. 845.

Taxes on Lottery Applied Strictly.—A city having power to levy a heavy tax on "gift enterprises" must restrict this tax to enterprises that are of a lottery nature. A dealer in trading stamps cannot be taxed, for the tax cannot be applied to a business merely because of its peculiarity. Winston v. Beeson, 135 N. C. 271, 47 S. E. 457.

Tax on Firm Outside City.—Construing the charter of a city in pari materia with this section, the city is given power to tax a firm outside the city, but which delivers products inside the city to customers procured by its salesman, and collects for its goods upon delivery, such trade being "carried on or enjoyed within the city." Hilton v. Harris, 207 N. C. 465, 177 S. E. 411.

The charter of a city giving it certain powers in respect to the levying of franchise taxes on trades and professions, etc., and this section will be construed together in determinating the legislative grant of power to the municipality to levy taxes of this class. Id.

Cited in dissenting opinion of Clark, J., in Mayo v. Commissioners, 122 N. C. 5, 29 S. E. 343. The dissenting opinion was followed when this case was overruled in Fawcett v. Mt. Airy, 125, 134 N. C. 130, 45 S. E. 1029; Love v. Raleigh, 116 N. C. 296, 309, 21 S. E. 503.

§ 2678. Taxes must be uniform and ad valorem.—All taxes levied by any county, city, town, or township, shall be uniform and ad valorem upon all property in the same, except property exempted by the constitution. (Rev., s. 2968; Const. Art. VII, s. 9.)

See note to preceding section and Art. VII, section 9 of the Constitution.

§ 2679. Poll tax limitation.—The equation of taxation described in the constitution applying only to taxation levied for the ordinary purposes of the state and county, no poll tax shall be levied or collected by any city or town, except as hereinafter provided, in excess of two dollars for any or all purposes combined, and all acts levying or authorizing the levy of taxes for special purposes which contain authority to levy a poll tax in excess of two dollars in the aggregate for all purposes are hereby repealed or modified so as to restrict and provide that the poll tax for general purposes and special taxes combined shall never exceed two dollars: Provided, this section shall not be construed to affect and shall not affect the district or other special school taxes and road taxes on the poll where they are now required to be levied by law: Provided further, that this section shall not affect any special act for the sale of bonds by municipalities where said bonds have been sold or voted for or authorized on or prior to the eleventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and seven. This section shall not apply to the counties of Halifax, Beaufort, Cleveland, New Hanover, Burke, Catawba, Union, Randolph, Orange, Edgecombe, Pasquotank, and Rowan. (1907, c. 935.)

§ 2680. Tax lists taken.—The mayor, or other suitable person, shall, by order of the commissioners, take the list of taxables in the town, in such manner and at such time as the commissioners shall prescribe. If any person fail to list his taxables within the time prescribed by the commissioners, he shall be liable to a double tax. (Rev., s. 2969; Code, s. 3807; R. C., c. 111, s. 19.)

As to entering property escaping tax, see sec. 7924. As to where list must be filed, see sec. 7903. As to listing property of a ward of a deceased person, see sec. 7909.

List Made up by Agent.—A tax list made up by one who is not a member of the taxing body, but who acts under its direction and as its agent, is not thereby made invalid. Covington v. Rockingham, 93 N. C. 134.

How Valuation Made.—It is decided in Carolina Central R. Co. v. Wilmington, 72 N. C. 73, that any provision in the charter of a town, whereby the town officers are authorized to value the property in the town for taxation, is superseded by the provision in the constitution that the township trustees shall value all the property of the township, subject to the revision of the county commissioners. Cobb v. Elizabeth City, 75 N. C. 1, 7.

§ 2681. Tax lists corrected.—All tax lists, either county or municipal, which may be placed in the hands of any sheriff or tax collector, shall be at all times under the control of the authorities imposing the tax, and subject to be corrected or altered by them, and shall be open for inspection by the public, and upon demand by the authorities imposing the tax, or their successors in office, shall be surrendered to the lawful authorities for such inspection or correction. (Rev., s. 2970; Code s. 3823; 1870-1, c. 177, s. 2.)

In General.—The settlement of a tax list is always more or less a summary proceeding, and ought to be subject to correction upon proper application, and the Legislature, having an eye to this necessity, has wisely provided by this section the largest reasonable opportunity for correcting errors in it, even after it has passed into the hands of the collecting officer but where one does not pursue his remedy as provided for here he cannot avoid the taxes by injunction or any other means. Wilson v. Green, 135 N. C. 343, 352, 47 S. E. 469.

§ 2682. Taxation of municipal bonds. — All laws and clauses of laws heretofore passed exempting bonds issued by any municipal corporation of the state of North Carolina from state, county or municipal taxation are hereby repealed: Provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent a municipality from exempting its bonds from its own taxation. (Rev., s. 2976; 1905, c. 532.)

In General.—In 1 N. C. Law Rev. 185 in speaking of tax exemption it is said: "The term municipal corporation is here used in a broad sense to include counties, townships, school districts, etc., as well as cities and towns, though the property of counties, etc., might also be exempt as agencies of the state. Drainage districts are, in a sense, agencies of the government, and have been called quasi-municipal corporations, Sanderlin v. Luken, 152 N. C. 738, 68 S. E. 225; Newby v. Drainage Dist., 163 N. C. 24, 79 S. E. 266; but they are more properly quasi-public corporations, like railroads, and their property and bonds are not exempt from taxation. Comrs. v. Webb, 160 N. C. 594, 76 S. E. 552. Where a private corporation has been created within certain governmental powers conferred upon it, such as are usually exercised by municipal corporations, it does not thereby become a municipal corporation, so as to have its property exempt from taxation. So. Assembly v. Palmer, 166 N. C. 75, 82 S. E. 18."

§ 2683. Dog tax.—If any person residing in a town shall have therein any dog, and shall not return it for taxation, and shall fail to pay the tax according to law, the commissioners, at their option, may collect from the person so failing double the tax, or may treat such dog as a nuisance, and order its destruction. (Rev., s. 2971; Code, s. 3815; R. C., c. 111, s. 24.)

As to general dog tax, see sec. 1673.

In General.—Although a dog is property, a dog tax is not directory on the dog as property but is upon the privilege of keeping a dog. If the tax is not paid the dog may be declared a nuisance and killed. Mowery v. Salisbury, 82 N. C. 175.

§ 2684. Monthly settlements by tax collector.—Each town and city constable, or any other officer authorized by any town or city to collect taxes, fines or penalties, shall make a monthly settlement of all moneys coming into his hands, with the town treasurer or other officer authorized to receive the same. (Rev., s. 2972; Code, s. 3813; 1879, c. 194.)

As to rights to deny validity of tax collected, see sec. 2640 and notes.

§ 2685. Punishment for failing to pay over taxes monthly.—If any constable or collector of taxes for any town or city, or any other officer, shall fail to make settlement and full return of all moneys, penalties and fines coming into his hands each month with the town or city treasurer, or other officer authorized to receive the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3609; Code, s. 3814; 1879, c. 194, s. 2; 1881, c. 37.)

§ 2686. Annual statement of taxes.—The commissioners shall annually publish an accurate statement of the taxes, levied and collected in the town, together with a statement of the amount expended by them, and for what purpose. And any board of commissioners failing to comply with this section shall forfeit and pay one hundred dollars to any person who will sue for the same. (Rev., s. 2973; Code, s. 3816; R. C., c. 111, s. 25.)

Bonds Must Give Account of Acts.—The plain meaning of the statute is that each governing board of towns and cities shall give an account of its own stewardship and they will not be relieved of liability by their successors supplying the omission. Roberts v. Southern Pines, 125 N. C. 172, 174, 34 S. E. 268.

Right to Penalty.—The person suing for the penalty prescribed by this section has no vested right until judgment. See Dyer v. Ellington, 126 N. C. 941, 36 S. E. 177.

§ 2687. Publication of receipts and disbursements.—Statements showing the receipts and disbursements of public money by municipal corporations, quasi-municipal corporations, and administrative boards of limited territorial jurisdiction, under grant of power from the state, shall be regularly published, as follows:

1. The board of aldermen or other governing body of incorporated cities and towns having a population of three thousand or over shall cause to be published monthly or quarterly statements of all municipal receipts and disbursements, which shall be itemized and show from what source received and to whom and on what account paid, and shall likewise cause to be published annually, at the end of each fiscal year, condensed and classified statements of such municipal receipts and disbursements, showing the source from which received and the account on which expended.

2. The boards of commissioners of all incorporated towns having a population of less than three thousand; boards of graded school trustees and other governing and administrative bodies of public school districts created by special act of the general assembly; county boards of education; boards of road commissioners and fence commissioners charged with the supervision, maintenance and repair of public roads and fences; the governing bodies of all other quasi-municipal corporations; all other administrative boards of limited territorial jurisdiction under grant of power from the state, charged with the receipt and disbursement of public money, and for the publication of whose receipts and disbursements no other provision is made by law, shall cause to be published annually, at the end of each fiscal year, statements of all receipts and disbursements of public money collected and expended. The statements shall be itemized in the manner provided for itemizing the monthly and quarterly statements of municipal receipts and disbursements, and shall further contain a classified summary of such receipts and disbursements, showing the source from which received and the amount on which expended.

3. The statements above provided for shall be published in some newspaper having its place of publication, or which is of general circulation, in the city or town in which such public moneys are collected and expended. The cost of such publication shall not exceed one-half of one cent per word; but if no newspaper, as herein provided, will publish the statements at the rate named, the board of commissioners or other governing body shall, in their discretion, publish the statements by posting as notices at the courthouse door in the county and two other public places in the city, town, or district in which the money is collected and expended. (1911, c. 123; 1919, c. 112.)

Art. 6. Sale of Municipal Property

As to when sale at public outcry not necessary, see sec. 2623 par. 6.

As to power to lease property, and corporate powers generally, see § 2787 and the note thereto.

What Real Estate May Be Sold.—In Southport v. Stanly, 125 N. C. 464, 34 S. E. 641, the Supreme Court, construing this section says: "The reasonable construction of the statute must be that the town or city authorities can sell any personal property, or sell or lease any real estate which belongs to a town or city, as the surplus of the original acreage ceded for the town or city cite, or such land as may have been subsequently acquired or purchased. But in no case can the power be extended to the sale or lease of any real estate which . . . is to be held in trust for the use of the town, or any real estate . . . which is devoted to the purpose of government. To enable the town to sell such real estate there must be a special act of the General Assembly authorizing such sale or lease." Brockenbrough v. Board, 134 N. C. 1, 22, 46 S. E. 28.

In Moose v. Carson, 104 N. C. 431, 10 S. E. 689 it was held that when a city conveys land bounded by an established street, and the grantee enters upon and improves the land, a subsequent conveyance by the corporation of the land covered by the street, whereby the easement of the appurtenant owner is interfered with, is void. But where there have been no improvements made on a dedicated street and the dedicated land has never been used as a street, a city by an act of the Legislature conferring authority may sell and convey the land so dedicated to it for street purposes. Church v. Dula, 148 N. C. 262, 61 S. E. 639.

§ 2689. Sale by county commissioners.—In any town where there is no mayor or commissioners, the board of county commissioners shall have the power given in the preceding section. (Rev., s. 2979; Code, s. 3825; 1872-3, c. 112, s. 2.)

§ 2690. Title made by mayor.—The mayor of any town, or the chairman of any board of commissioners of any town or county, is fully authorized to make title to the purchaser of any property sold under this chapter. (Rev., s. 2980; Code, s. 3826; 1872-3, c. 112, s. 3.)

Art. 7. General Municipal Debts

§ 2691. Popular vote required, except for necessary expense.—No county, city, town, or other municipal corporation shall contract any debt, pledge its faith, or loan its credit, nor shall any tax be levied, or collected by any officer of the same, except for the necessary expenses thereof, unless by a vote of the majority of the qualified voters therein. (Rev., s. 2974; Const. Art. VII, s. 7.)

For cases under this section, see Article VII, section 7 of the Constitution, as it is the same as this section. See also Article 2, section 14, in general.

§ 2692. Debts paid out of tax funds.—Debts contracted by a municipal corporation in pursuance of authority vested in it shall not be levied out of any property belonging to such corporation and used by it in the discharge and execution of its corporate duties and trusts, nor out of the property or estate of any individual who may be a member of such corporation or may have property within the limits thereof. But all such debts shall be paid alone by taxation upon subjects properly taxable by such corporation: Provided, that whenever any individual, by his contract, shall become bound for such debt, or any person may become liable therefor by reason of fraud, such person may be subjected to pay said debt. (Rev., s. 2975; Code, s. 3821; 1870-1, c. 90.)

Applied in Faucett v. Mt. Airy, 134 N. C. 125, 45 S. E. 1029.

§ 2693. Debts limited to ten per cent of assessed values.—It shall be unlawful for any city or town to contract any debt, pledge its faith or loan its credit for the construction of railroads, the support or maintenance of internal improvements or for any special purpose whatsoever, to an extent exceeding in the aggregate ten per cent of the assessed valuation of the real and personal property situated in such city or town. And the levy of any tax to pay any such indebtedness in excess of this limitation shall be void and of no effect. (Rev., s. 2977; 1889, c. 486.)

Constitutional.—This section is constitutional, not being in conflict with Art. VII, sec. 7 of the Constitution. Wharton v. Greensboro, 146 N. C. 356, 59 S. E. 1043.

May Be Repealed in Part or in Toto.—This limitation is statutory and not a constitutional one therefore the legislature may repeal it in toto or only in its application to certain cities and towns. The fact that a bond issue was in excess of the limitation will not invalidate it if it is later ratified by state legislature. Wharton v. Greensboro, 149 N. C. 62, 62 S. E. 740.

Only Applicable to Special Purposes.—This section does not apply to indebtedness for necessary expenses nor to bonds to pay debts contracted for necessary expenses, but applies to "special purposes" which are construed to mean enterprises not necessary to the city government. Wharton v. Greensboro, 146 N. C. 356, 59 S. E. 1043; Underwood v. Asheville, 152 N. C. 641, 68 S. E. 147; Charlotte v. Trust Co., 159 N. C. 388, 74 S. E. 1054.

Art. 8. Public Libraries

§ 2694. Libraries established upon petition and popular vote.—The governing body of any incorporated city or county, upon the petition of ten per cent of the registered voters thereof, shall submit the question of the establishment and/or support of a free public library to the voters at the next municipal election, the next general election, or at a special election. If a majority of the qualified votes cast on said question be in the affirmative, the board of aldermen or town commissioners or board of county commissioners shall establish the library or reading room and levy and cause to be collected as other general taxes are collected a special tax of not more than ten cents or not less than three cents on the hundred dollars of the assessed value of the taxable property of such city, town or county. The fund so derived shall constitute the library fund, and shall be kept separate from the other funds of the city, town or county to be expended exclusively upon such library. In lieu of establishing a library by vote of the people as above provided, the governing body of any city, town or county may establish such a library upon petition as above provided and maintain the same by a special tax not less than that provided in this section. When such library has been established by either method as above provided, it may be abolished only by a vote of the people. (1911, c. 83, s. 1; 1927, c. 31, s. 91; 1933, c. 365, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1933, c. 365, repealed the former section and enacted the above in lieu thereof.

Editor's Note.—By amendment of 1927, ch. 31, sec. 2 a provision was passed for an insertion in section 2694 between "town" and "chosen," of the words, "or county"; it was evidently intended to apply to this section as it fits here and there is no place in sec. 2694 where it can apply.

§ 2696. Powers and duties of trustees.—Immediately after appointment, such board of trustees shall organize by election one of its members as president and one as secretary-treasurer, and such other officers as it may deem necessary. The secretary-treasurer before entering upon his duties shall give bond to the municipality in an amount fixed by the board of trustees, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his official duties. The board shall adopt such by-laws, rules and regulations for its own guidance and for the government of the library as may be expedient and conformable to law. It shall have exclusive control of the expenditure of all moneys collected for or placed to the credit of the library fund, and of the supervision, care, and custody of the rooms or buildings constructed, leased, or set apart for library purposes. But all money received for such library shall be paid into the city treasury or county treasury, be credited to the library fund, be kept separate from other moneys, and be paid out to the secretary-treasurer upon the authenticated requisition of the board of trustees through its proper officers. With the consent of the governing body of the city or town or county, it may lease and occupy, or purchase, or erect upon ground secured through gift or purchase, an appropriate building: Provided, that of the income for any one year not more than one-half may be employed for the purpose of making such lease or purchase or for erecting such building. It may appoint a librarian, assistants, and other employees, and prescribe rules for their conduct, and fix their compensation, and shall also have power to remove such appointees: Provided, that after the ratification of this section no vacancies existing or occurring in the position of head librarian in such libraries shall be filled by appointment or designation of any person who is not in possession of a library certificate issued under the authority of this article. It may also extend the privileges and use of such library to nonresidents upon such terms and conditions as it may prescribe. (1911, c. 83, s. 3; 1927, c. 31, s. 3; 1933, c. 365, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1933, c. 365, inserted the proviso in the next to the last sentence of this section.

§ 2696(a). Library certification board. — The secretary of the North Carolina library commission, the librarian of the University of North Carolina, the president of the North Carolina library association and one librarian appointed by the executive board of the North Carolina library association shall constitute a library certification board who shall serve without pay and who shall issue librarian's certificates under reasonable rules and regulations to be promulgated by the board and a complete record of the transactions of said board shall be kept at all times. (1933, c. 365, s. 3.)

§ 2696(b). Librarians now acting—temporary certificates.—The provisions of this article shall not be construed to affect any librarian at this time in his or her position. Such librarians as are now acting shall be entitled to receive a certificate in accordance with positions now held.

Upon the submission of satisfactory evidence that no qualified librarian is available for appointment, a temporary certificate, valid for one year, may be issued upon written application of the library board. Such certificate shall not be renewed or extended and shall not be valid beyond the date for which it is issued. (1933, c. 365, s. 3.)

§ 2697. Annual report of trustees.—The board of trustees shall make an annual report to the governing body of the city, town or county, stating the condition of their trust, the various sums of money received from the library fund and all other sources, and how much money has been expended; the number of books and periodicals on hand, the number added during the year, the number lost or missing, the number of books loaned out, and the general character of such books, the number of registered users of such library, with such other statistics, information and suggestions as it may deem of general interest. (1911, c. 83, s. 7; 1927, c. 31, s. 4; 1933, c. 365, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—The above section was substituted for the former reading by Public Laws 1933, c. 365. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

§ 2698. Power to take property by gift or devise.—With the consent of the governing body of the city or town or county, expressed by ordinance or resolution, and within the limitations of this article as to the rate of taxation, the library board may accept any gift, grant, devise, or bequest made or offered by any person for library purposes, and may carry out the conditions of such donations. And the city or town or county, in all such cases is authorized to acquire a site, levy a tax, and pledge itself by ordinance or resolution to a perpetual compliance with all the terms and conditions of the gift, grant, devise, or bequest so accepted. (1911, c. 83, s. 5; 1927, c. 31, s. 5.)

§ 2699. Title to property vested in the city, town or county.—All property given, granted, or conveyed, donated, devised or bequeathed to, or otherwise acquired by any city, town or county for a library shall vest in and be held in the name of such city, town or county and any conveyance, grant, donation, devise, bequest or gift to or in the name of any public library board shall be deemed to have been made directly to such city, town or county. (1911, c. 83, s. 4; 1917, c. 31, s. 6; 1933, c. 365, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—The above section was substituted for the former reading by Public Laws 1933, c. 365. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

§ 2700. Library free.—Every library established under this article shall be forever free to the use of the inhabitants of the city or town, subject to such reasonable regulations as the board of trustees may adopt. (1911, c. 83, s. 6.)

§ 2701. Ordinances for protection of library.—The governing body of such city or town or county shall have power to pass ordinances imposing suitable penalties for the punishment of persons committing injury upon such library or the grounds or other property thereof, or for any injury to or for failure to return any book, plate, picture, engraving, map, magazine, pamphlet, or manuscript belonging to such library. (1911, c. 83, s. 8; 1927, c. 31, s. 7.)

§ 2702. Contract with existing libraries.—The governing body of any city, town or county, when deemed best for the interest of the city, town or county, may in lieu of supporting and maintaining a public library, enter into a contract with and make annual appropriations of money to such library, associations or corporations as shall maintain a library or libraries, whose books shall be available without charge to the residents of such city, town or county, under such rules and regulations of said library, associations or corporations, as shall be approved by the governing body of such city, town or county. All money paid to such society or corporation under such contract shall be expended solely for the maintenance of such library, and for no other purpose. For the governing body of such library when contract has been made between city and county, the trustees shall be appointed proportionately to the funds provided for its support.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to abolish or abridge any power or duty conferred upon any public library established by virtue of any city or town charter or other special act, or to affect any existing local laws allowing or providing municipal aid to libraries. (1911, c. 83, ss. 9, 10; 1917, c. 215; 1927, c. 31, s. 8; 1933, c. 365, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The above section was substituted for the former reading by Public Laws 1933, c. 365. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

Editor's Note.—The 1925 amendment changed the punishment from that given in the discretion of the court.

It was also provided in the amending act that this section shall not affect the liability of any person to punishment who has before its enactment but since March fourth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, offended against chapter one hundred and eighteen of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight ("twenty-one" was probably intended).

§ 2702(b). Combined counties.—Where found to be more practicable, two or more adjacent counties may join for the purpose of establishing and maintaining a free public library under the terms and provisions herein above set forth for the establishment and maintenance of a free county library. In such cases the combined counties shall have the same powers and be subject to the same liabilities as a single county under the provisions of this article. The board of county commissioners of the counties which have combined for the establishment and maintenance of a free library shall operate jointly in the same manner as herein provided for the commissioners of a single county. Should any county at any time desire to withdraw from such combination, the said county shall be entitled to such proportion of the property as may have been agreed upon in the terms of combination at the time such joint action was taken. (1933, c. 365, s. 7.)

Art. 9. Local Improvements

§ 2703. Explanation of terms.—In this article the term "municipality" means any city or town in the state of North Carolina now or hereafter incorporated.

"Governing body" includes the board of aldermen, board of commissioners, council, or other chief legislative body of a municipality.

"Street improvement" includes the grading, regrading, paving, repaving, macadamizing and remacadamizing of public streets and alleys, and the construction, reconstruction and altering of curbs, gutters and drains in public streets and alleys.

"Sidewalk improvement" includes the grading, construction, reconstruction and altering of sidewalks in public streets or alleys, and may include curbing and gutters.

"Local improvement" means any work undertaken under the provisions of this article, the cost of which is to be specially assessed, in whole or in part, upon property abutting directly on the work.

"Frontage" when used in reference to a lot or parcel of land abutting directly on a local improvement, means that side or limit of the lot or parcel of land which abuts directly on the improvement. (1915, c. 56, s. 1.)

As to frontage, see sec. 2710 par. 10 and notes. As to effect of Act of 1917 on this article, see sec. 2966.

Ownership of Street Prerequisite to Levy Assessment for Improvement.—The ownership by the city of a street is a prerequisite to the power of the city to levy an assessment for street improvements against abutting owners thereon. Efird v. Winston-Salem, 199 N. C. 33, 153 S. E. 632.

Cited in Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. Ahoskie, 192 N. C. 258, 134 S. E. 653; Jones v. Durham, 197 N. C. 127, 147 S. E. 824; Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Ahoskie, 207 N. C. 154, 176 S. E. 264; Farmville v. Paylor, 208 N. C. 106, 107, 179 S. E. 459.

§ 2704. Application and effect.—This article shall apply to all municipalities. It shall not, however, repeal any special or local law or affect any proceedings under any special or local law for the making of street, sidewalk or other improvements hereby authorized, or for the raising of funds therefor, but shall be deemed to be additional and independent legislation for such purposes and to provide an alternative method of procedure for such purposes, and to be a complete act, not subject to any limitation or restriction contained in any other public or private law or laws, except as herein otherwise provided. (1915, c. 56, s. 2.)

As to street improvements, see secs. 2675, 2793, 2710.

Cited in Wake Forest v. Holding, 206 N. C. 524, 426, 174 S. E. 296.

Laws Construed Separately.—The general statutes authorizing cities and towns to issue bonds and assess abutting lands for improving and paving streets, and not requiring that the questions be submitted to the voters, are additional and independent of special or local laws, and where the latter required the question to be first submitted to the voters for their approval, and these requirements have been fully met, under the private act, the transactions thereunder complete and their validity unquestioned, a railroad company may not resist an assessment made under the general law, upon the ground that the provisions of the private acts, requiring the approval of the voters, control the question of the validity of the assessments. Kinston v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 183 N. C. 14, 110 S. E. 645.

In case a special or local law is invalid, this article may be followed in making local improvements. But its provisions must be complied with. Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173 N. C. 138, 91 S. E. 827.

Special Act Prevails.—When a special or local law is passed that is inconsistent with this article the special or local law will prevail, although there is no reference to this section, or repealing clause. Bramham v. Durham, 171 N. C. 196, 88 S. E. 347.

§ 2705. Publication of resolution or notice. — Every resolution passed pursuant to this article shall be passed in the manner prescribed by other laws for the passage of resolutions. Whenever a resolution or notice is required by this article to be published, it shall be published at least once in a newspaper published in the municipality concerned, or if there be no such newspaper, such resolution or notice shall be posted in three public places in the municipality for at least five days. (1915, c. 56, s. 3.)

Cited in Jones v. Durham, 197 N. C. 127, 147 S. E. 824.

§ 2706. When petition required.—Every municipality shall have power, by resolution of its governing body, upon petition made as provided in the next succeeding section, to cause local improvements to be made and to defray the expense of such improvements by local asssessment, by general taxation, and by borrowing, as herein provided. No petition shall be necessary, however, for the ordering or making of private water, sewer and gas connections as hereinafter provided. Nor shall a petition be necessary for the making of sidewalk improvements in those municipalities in which by other law or laws sidewalk improvements are authorized to be made without petition. (1915, c. 56, s. 4.)

Absence of Petition Cured by Legislation.—When improvements are made under an assessment, and there has been no petition as required by this section the assessments are invalid. However this defect may be cured by a validating act of the Legislature although the act is retrospective. Holton v. Mockville, 189 N. C. 144, 126 S. E. 326; Gallimore v. Thomasville, 191 N. C. 648, 650, 132 S. E. 657.

Validation of Proceedings for Improvements Made without Petition.—The General Assembly having the power to confer upon the authorities of a municipal corporation power to improve its streets and sidewalks and to assess the owners of abutting property with a part of the cost of such improvements without a petition, as indicated by this section, has the power to validate proceedings for the improvement of streets and sidewalks which were begun and which have been concluded without an initial petition. Crutchfield v. Thomasville, 205 N. C. 709, 715, 172 S. E. 366.

Cited in Jones v. Durham, 197 N. C. 127, 147 S. E. 824.

§ 2707. What petition shall contain.—The petition for a local improvement shall be signed by at least a majority in number of the owners, who must represent at least a majority of all the lineal feet of frontage of the lands (a majority in interest of owners of undivided interests in any piece of property to be deemed and treated as one person for the purpose of the petition) abutting upon the street or streets or part of a street or streets proposed to be improved. The petition shall cite this article and shall designate by a general description the local improvement to be undertaken and the street or streets or part thereof whereon the work is to be effected. The petition shall be lodged with the clerk of the municipality, who shall investigate the sufficiency thereof, submit the petition to the governing body, and certify the result of his investigation. The determination of the governing body, upon the sufficiency of the petition shall be final and conclusive. (1915, c. 56, s. 5.)

As to number of owners that must sign when assessment is more than 50 per cent, see sec. 2792(b).

Applicable When City Owns Part of Abutting Land.—A town is subject to assessment on its abutting property, and the rule of a majority of lineal feet and number of owners will apply just the same when a city owns a part of the abutting land as any other time. And if the city fails to sign when its signature is necessary to have a majority of lineal feet, the assessment is a nullity. Tarboro v. Forbes, 185 N. C. 59, 116 S. E. 81.

Actual Contact with Abutting Property Not Necessary.—An objection by the owner of land abutting on the street to an assessment by the front foot rule for special benefit, upon the ground that his property does not come in actual contact with the part of the street for which the city has paid as a general benefit, is untenable under this section. Anderson v. Albemarle, 182 N. C. 434, 109 S. E. 262.

Petition Necessary.—Under this section an assessment for widening a street under contract with the Highway Commission without petition of a majority of the owners is invalid. Sechriest v. Thomasville, 202 N. C. 108, 162 S. E. 212.

How Sufficiency of Petition Determined.—In Tarboro v. Forbes, 185 N. C. 59, 116 S. E. 81, the Supreme Court held that where it appears upon the face of the petition, as a matter of law, that the signers of the petition do not represent a majority of the lineal feet of the total frontage on the street, proposed to be improved, the determination of the governing body as to the sufficiency of the petition is not final or conclusive. In so far as the sufficiency of the petition, authorized to be filed under this section, involves only questions of fact, the determination of the governing body, in the absence of fraud, and when acting in good faith, is final and conclusive. Gallimore v. Town of Thomasville, 191 N. C. 648, 650, 132 S. E. 657.

Where levies are made without a petition the assessments are invalid but not void, and the Legislature has the power to validate the assessments by subsequent legislative act, the Legislature having the power to authorize the assessments in the first instance. Crutchfield v. Thomasville, 205 N. C. 709, 172 S. E. 366.

Procedure Must Fulfill Essential Requirements.—While a slight informality of procedure under this section or a failure to observe a provision which is merely directory, will not generally affect the validity of an assessment, it is nevertheless true that any substantial and material departure from the essential requirements of the law under which the improvement is made will render an assessment therefor invalid. Tarboro v. Forbes, 185 N. C. 59, 65, 116 S. E. 81.

Lineal Feet of Frontage—Signing by Railroad Company.—The right of way of a railroad company abutting on a street proposed to be improved by a city properly included in the lineal feet in the petition for improvement under the provisions of this section. Jones v. City of Durham, 197 N. C. 127, 147 S. E. 824, 826.

Abutting Owners.—See note under § 2710.

Improvement of Only One Side of Street.—Under this section, an assessment levied for street improvements on abutting property owner, is not void on the ground that the assessment was for improving only one side of a street. Waxhaw v. S. A. L. Ry. Co., 195 N. C. 550, 142 S. E. 761.

Approval of Petition Final.—Where the municipal authorities have approved the petition of owners of land abutting upon a street proposed to be improved in accordance with the provisions of statute, their approval and order for the improvements to be made is final, except where it appears from the face of the petition, as a matter of law, that the signers do not represent a majority of the owners or of the lineal feet required by statute. Jones v. Durham, 197 N. C. 127, 147 S. E. 824.

§ 2708. What resolution shall contain:

1. Designate improvements. The preliminary resolution determining to make a local improvement shall, after its passage, be published. Such resolution shall designate by a general description the improvement to be made, and the street or streets or part or parts thereof whereon the work is to be effected, and the proportion of the cost thereof to be assessed upon abutting property and the terms and manner of the payment.

2. Sidewalk improvements. If such resolution shall provide for a sidewalk improvement, it may, in those municipalities in which the owners of the abutting property are required to make payment of the entire cost thereof, without petition direct that the owners of the property abutting on the improvement shall make such sidewalk improvement, and that unless the same shall be made by such owners on or before a day specified in the resolution, the governing body may cause such sidewalk improvement to be made.

3. Affecting railroads. If the resolution shall provide for a street improvement, it shall direct that any street railway company or other railroad company having tracks on the street or streets or part thereof to be improved shall make such street improvement, with such material and of such a character as may be approved by the governing body, in that part of such street or streets or part thereof which the governing body may prescribe, not to exceed, however, the space between the tracks, the rails of the tracks, and eighteen inches in width outside of the tracks of such company, and that unless such improvement shall be made on or before a day specified in such resolution, the governing body will cause such improvement to be made: Provided, however, that where any such company shall occupy such street or streets under a franchise or contract which otherwise provided, such franchise or contract shall not be affected by this section, except in so far as may be consistent with the provisions of such franchise or contract.

4. Water, gas, and sewer connections. If the resolution shall provide for a street or sidewalk improvement, it may, but need not, direct that the owners of all property abutting on the improvement shall connect their several premises with water mains, gas and sewer pipes located in the street adjacent to their several premises in the manner prescribed in such resolution, and that unless such owners shall cause connection to be made on or before a day specified in such resolution, the governing body will cause the same to be made. (1915, c. 56, s. 6.)

Construction of Former Franchise to a Railroad.—A city ordinance granting a franchise to a street railway to operate upon its streets, requiring that it do certain grading and other things enumerated in its construction at its own expense, and further states in direct and continuous connection with this subject that "nothing herein contained shall be construed to require said company to pave its road," is held to apply only to conditions then existing, and will not be construed to exempt the corporation from paying its part of future assessments that may be levied upon abutting owners for the paving and improvements of the streets. Durham v. Durham Public Service Co., 182 N. C. 333, 109 S. E. 40.

Extent of Railroads Liability.—This section specifying that the burden imposed upon a street railway company in assessing its property for street improvements shall not exceed "the space between the tracks, the rails of the track, and eighteen inches in width outside of the tracks," is not violated if including the length of the cross-ties, the statutory limitation of the width had not been exceeded. Durham v. Durham Public Service Co., 182 N. C. 333, 109 S. E. 40.

Railroad Property.—A town, to widen its streets, agreed with a railroad company to condemn land and give it to the company if it would remove its tracks thereto at its own expense. After this arrangement has been carried out, the town assessed the lands of the railroad company for street paving, under a resolution which contains no requirement that the company should improve the land occupied by its tracks as specified by subsection 3 of this section. It was held that the railroad was not liable for the assessment as the property being a part of the street was not "adjoining" within the provisions of this article. Lenoir v. Carolina, etc., Ry. Co., 194 N. C. 710, 140 S. E. 618.

Cited in Jones v. Durham, 197 N. C. 127, 133, 147 S. E. 824.

§ 2709. Character of work and material.— The governing body shall have power to determine character and type of construction and of material to be used in making a local improvement, and whether the work, where not done by owners of abutting property or by a street or other railroad company, shall be done by the forces of the municipality or by contract: Provided, that for the purposes of securing uniformity in the work the governing body shall always have the power to have all street paving done by the forces of the municipality or by contract under the provisions of this article. (1915, c. 56, s. 7.)

Cited in Jones v. Durham, 197 N. C. 127, 147 S. E. 824.

§ 2710. Assessments levied:

1. One-half on abutting property. One-half of the total cost of a street or sidewalk improvement made by a municipality, exclusive of so much of the cost as is incurred at street intersections and the share of railroads or street railways, shall be specially assessed upon the lots and parcels of land abutting directly on the improvements, according to the extent of their respective frontage thereon, by an equal rate per foot of such frontage, unless the petition for such street or sidewalk improvement shall request that a larger proportion of such cost, specified in the petition, be so assessed, in which case such larger proportion shall be so assessed, and the remainder of such cost shall be borne by the municipality at large; but no assessment for streets and sidewalks shall be made against abutting property on any such street or sidewalk until said street or sidewalk has been definitely laid out and the boundaries of the same definitely fixed.

2. Upon railroads. The cost of that part of a street improvement required to be borne by a railroad or street railway company, and made by the municipality after default by a railroad or street railway company in making the same as hereinbefore provided, shall be assessed against such company, and shall be collected in the same manner as assessments are collected from abutting property owners, and such assessment shall be a lien on all of the franchises and property of such railroad or street railway company.

3. For sidewalks. The entire cost of a sidewalk improvement required to be made by owners of property abutting thereon, and made by the municipality after default by such property owners in making the same, as hereinbefore provided, shall be assessed against the lots and parcels of land abutting on that side of the street upon which the improvement is made and directly on the improvement, according to their respective frontages thereon, by an equal rate per foot of such frontage.

4. Water, gas and sewer connections. The entire cost of each water, gas and sewer connection, required to be made by the owner of the property for or in connection with which such connection was made, but made by the municipality after default by such property owner in making the same, as hereinbefore provided, shall be specially assessed against the particular lot or parcel of land for or in connection with which it was made. No lands in the municipality shall be exempt from local assessment. (1915, c. 56, s. 8; 1919, c. 86.)

As to other powers to assess and repair streets, see sec. 2675. See also note under § 2715.

In General.—The clear interpretation of this section means what its language says—that one-half of the total cost of the street improvements shall be assessed upon the parcel of land abutting directly on the improvement, according to the extent of the respective frontage thereon. Carpenter v. Maiden, 204 N. C. 114, 116, 167 S. E. 490.

Abutting Property.—The power to impose assessments upon owners whose lands abut upon the streets of a city to be improved, comes within the sovereign right of taxation, and no license, permit, or franchise from the Legislature or a municipal board will be construed to establish an exemption from the proper exercise of this power by future Legislatures, or in derogation of it, unless these bodies are acting clearly within their authority, and the grant itself is in terms so clear and explicit as to be free from substantial doubt. Durham v. Durham Public Service Co., 182 N. C. 333, 109 S. E. 40.

In Anderson v. Albemarle, 182 N. C. 434, 436, 109 S. E. 262, it was said: "The words 'abutting on the improvement' mean abutting on the street that is improved, and that this does not require that the pavement shall extend the entire width of the street when this would be an unnecessary cost, and would greatly enhance the burden of which the plaintiff in this case complains. By the term 'abutting property' is meant that between which and the improvement there is no intervening land."

Abutting property cannot exist in the street itself, but, in the nature of things, must be property outside of the street, touching or bordering upon the street or improvement. So a railroad is not an abutting owner by virtue of the fact that its tracks are laid in a public street. Town of Lenior v. Carolina & N. W. Ry. Co., 194 N. C. 710, 140 S. E. 618, 619.

Same—Public Park.—In the absence of constitutional or statutory provision to the contrary, the public property of a municipality, such as park, etc., is subject to assessment for local improvements of its streets, and when there is no provision exempting them, a public park of a city is included within the intent and meaning of Laws 1915, ch. 56, providing that lands abutting on a street to be paved or improved should be assessed for such improvements to the extent of the respective frontage of the lots thereon, in a certain proportionate part of the cost, by the "front foot" rule. Tarboro v. Forbes, 185 N. C. 59, 116 S. E. 81.

Same—Interference by Courts.—Where an act allows assessments to be made by a city on property abutting on a street for pavements or improvements thereon, the legislative declaration on the subject is conclusive as to the necessity and benefit of the proposed improvements, and in applying the principle and estimating the amount as against the owners, individual or corporate, the court may interfere only in case of palpable and gross abuse. City of Kinston v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 183 N. C. 14, 110 S. E. 645.

Same—Application of Constitution and Sections 7768, 7901.—While local assessments against lands along the streets of a city for paving and improving the streets may be regarded as a species of tax, and the authority therefor is generally referred to the taxing power, they are not levied and collected as a contribution to the maintenance of the general government, but more particularly confer advantages or improvements on the lands assessed, and do not fall within the intent and meaning of the State Constitution, Art. V, sec. 5, or sections 7768, 7901; and the city, in assessing private owners, must take into consideration any city property that abuts on the street improved. Tarboro v. Forbes, 185 N. C. 59, 116 S. E. 81.

Subsection 2—Railroads.—Where railroad property in a city lies along an unimproved street, but abuts upon an improved street that runs through the unimproved one, the owner is ordinarily liable to an assessment of one-half of the costs of the improvement on the abutting and improved street, and the exception in the statute as to street intersections is inapplicable. Mount Olive v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 188 N. C. 332, 335, 124 S. E. 559.

Same—Assessed as Private Owners. — The property of railroad companies abutting upon the streets of a city is liable to assessments for the paving and improvements thereon to the same extent as that of private owners, in proper instances, and where proper legislative authority is therefor shown. Kinston v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 183 N. C. 14, 110 S. E. 645.

Street Railroad Treated as Abutting Owner.—The property and franchise of street railways laid along a given street or designated locality within the effects and benefits of the proposed improvements, may lawfully be considered abutting owners. Durham v. Durham, Pub. Service Co., 182 N. C. 333, 109 S. E. 40.

A city ordinance granting a franchise to a street railway to operate upon its streets, requiring that it do certain grading and other things enumerated in its construction at its own expense, and further states in direct and continuous connection with this subject that "nothing herein contained shall be construed to require said company to pave its road," is held to apply only to conditions then existing, and will not be construed to exempt the corporation from paying its part of future assessments that may be levied upon abutting owners for the paving and improvements of the street. Durham v. Durham Pub. Service Co., 182 N. C. 333, 109 S. E. 40.

Same—How Estimate Made.—In making an assessment on the property of a street railway company as an abutting owner on the street improved, not only the value of its tangible property, such as tracks, etc., should be considered, but, also, the estimated value of the company's franchise under which it is operating, and which by fair apportionment should be included in the estimate. Durham v. Durham Public Service Co., 182 N. C. 333, 109 S. E. 40.

Section Additional to Local Laws.—These general statutes are additional and independent of special or local laws, and where the latter require the question to be first submitted to the voters for their approval, and these requirements have been fully met, under the private act, the transactions thereunder complete and their validity unquestioned, a railroad company may not resist an assessment made under the general law, this section, upon the ground that the provisions of the private acts, requiring the approval of the voters, control the question of the validity of the assessments. Kinston v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 183 N. C. 14, 110 S. E. 645.

Where a city or town has proceeded under private acts to issue bonds and assess the lands of abutting owners for street paving and improvements and for insufficiency of funds thus expended find it necessary to assess the lands of a railroad company abutting on streets so improved under this section, a later act ratifying the private acts, evidently for the purpose of curing apprehended defects and to make the bonds a more safe and desirable investment, cannot affect the validity of the proceedings under the general laws. Kinston v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 183 N. C. 14, 110 S. E. 745.

Subsection 4—Assessment for Drains.—For constructing drains it is not necessary that the assessments be the same, for cost will be different because of difference in location and slope of the several lots. Gallimore v. Thomasville, 191 N. C. 648, 132 S. E. 657.

Cited in Jones v. Durham, 197 N. C. 127, 133, 147 S. E. 824.

§ 2711. Amount of assessment ascertained.—Upon the completion of any local improvement the governing body shall compute and ascertain the total cost thereof. In the total cost shall be included the interest paid or to be paid on notes or certificates of indebtedness issued by the municipality to pay the expense of such improvement pursuant to the provisions of this article and incident to the improvement and assessment therefor. The governing body must thereupon make an assessment of such total cost pursuant to the provisions of the preceding section, and for that purpose must make out an assessment roll in which must be entered the names of the persons assessed as far as they can ascertain the same, and the amount assessed against them, respectively, with a brief description of the lots or parcels of land assessed. (1915, c. 56, s. 9.)

As to assessments for street repair, see sec. 2675.

In General.—Where a city or town has regularly and sufficiently proceeded to assess the lands of abutting property owners under the provisions of this statute, and have published the notice thereof as sec. 2712 requires, and such owners have been afforded ample opportunity to be heard by the commissioners of the municipality, sec. 2713, their failure to appear and resist the assessment thus laid on their property under the proceedings prescribed will bar their right to impeach the ordinance. Vester v. Nashville, 190 N. C. 265, 129 S. E. 593.

Insufficiency of Description of Land.—The assessments made upon the lands of an owner adjoining a street improved by the authorities of a city or town, will not be declared invalid on the ground of the insufficiency of description in the assessment roll at the suit of such property owners, when in substantial compliance with this and the next section. Vester v. Nashville, 190 N. C. 265, 129 S. E. 593.

Map Sufficient Description.—A map made by the city engineer duly approved by the city commissioners is sufficient compliance with the requirements of this statute. Holton v. Mockville, 189 N. C. 144, 126 S. E. 326.

Cited in Jones v. Durham, 197 N. C. 127, 133, 147 S. E. 824.

§ 2712. Assessment roll filed; notice of hearing.—Immediately after such assessment roll has been completed, the governing body shall cause it to be deposited in the office of the clerk of the municipality for inspection by parties interested, and shall cause to be published a notice of the completion of the assessment roll, setting forth a description in general terms of the local improvement, and the time fixed for the meeting of the governing body for the hearing of allegations and objections in respect of the special assessment, such meeting not to be earlier than ten days from the first publication or posting of said notice. Any number of assessment rolls may be included in one notice. (1915, c. 56, s. 9.)

This section gives notice that the assessment roll has been filed and is open to inspection. Wake Forest v. Holding, 206 N. C. 425, 428, 174 S. E. 296.

It Does Not Confer Power to Condemn Property.—The governing body of a town has no jurisdiction in proceeding under this section and § 2713, to condemn land for street purposes, under the power of eminent domain. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Ahoskie, 207 N. C. 154, 176 S. E. 264.

Cited in Jones v. Durham, 197 N. C. 127, 133, 147 S. E. 824.

§ 2713. Hearing and confirmation; assessment lien.—At the time appointed for that purpose, or at some other time to which it may adjourn, the governing body, or a committee thereof, must hear the allegations and objections of all persons interested, who appear and may make proof in relation thereto. The governing body may thereupon correct such assessment roll, and either confirm the same or may set it aside, and provide for a new assessment. Whenever the governing body shall confirm an assessment for a local improvement, the clerk of the municipality shall enter on the minutes of the governing body the date, hour, and minute of such confirmation, and from the time of such confirmation the assessments embraced in the assessment roll shall be a lien on the real property against which the same are assessed, superior to all other liens and encumbrances. After the roll is confirmed a copy of the same must be delivered to the tax collector or other officer charged with the duty of collecting taxes. (1915, c. 56, s. 9.)

See the foregoing section and the note thereto.

Lien. — Assessments made upon the property of the owner for street and side-walk improvements by a town, and in all respects under the authority conferred on the municipality by statute, extending in partial payments over a designated period of time, are to be regarded in the nature of a statutory mortgage when due and payable, and constitute liens on the property within the warranty clause against encumbrances contained in a deed, and recoverable in the grantee's action against the grantor to the extent he has been required to pay them. Coble v. Dick, 194 N. C. 732, 140 S. E. 745.

The lien against property for street improvements is a lien in rem against the land itself, but it is not strictly a tax lien and is based upon the theory of special benefit to the property itself, and therefore does not come within the provisions of Art. VII, sec. 9, and a lien for street assessments, while superior to the liens of mortgages or deeds of trust, by this section, is subject to the lien of the city and county for taxes for general revenue. Saluda v. Polk County, 207 N. C. 180, 176 S. E. 298.

When Lien Attaches.—By provision of this section the lien for street assessments does not attach to land until confirmation of the assessments, and where such assessments are not confirmed by the governing body of the town until after the execution of a deed to the property, the subsequently attaching lien for the assessments does not violate the warranty and covenant in the deed, in the usual language, against encumbrances. Oliver v. Hecht, 207 N. C. 481, 177 S. E. 399.

Sufficiency of Compliance.—Where the property owner signs the petition and has notice that improvements are to be made, and notice that the assessment roll giving the amount of the assessment against his property, has been filed in the office of the city clerk, as required by § 2712, and accepts the benefits and pays installments of the assessments without objection, as provided by § 2714, he ratifies same and this section is sufficiently complied with. Wake Forest v. Holding, 206 N. C. 425, 174 S. E. 296.

Priority of Lien.—The amount of an assessment on the owner of land lying along a street for street improvements, is by this statute, creating a lien, superior to all other liens and encumbrances and continuing, until paid, against the title of successive owners thereof. Merchants Bank, etc., Co. v. Watson, 187 N. C. 107, 121 S. E. 181.

The provision of this section in regard to liens does not exclusively refer to subsequent liens; and the reference to the date of confirmation is only to fix the time when the lien is conclusively established, and when so established it takes precedence over all liens then existent or otherwise. Kinston v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 183 N. C. 14, 110 S. E. 645.

An assessment made upon adjoining land for a street improvement by a town is a charge upon the land constituting a lien superior to all others and not enforceable against the personalty or other lands of the owner, and when the owner of land has been thus assessed, payable in installments, and he subsequently dies, it is not a debt of the deceased payable by his personal representative, but a charge against the land itself. The provisions of § 93, as to the order of payment of debts of the deceased, has no application. Carawan v. Barnett, 197 N. C. 511, 149 S. E. 740. See also High Point v. Brown, 206 N. C. 664, 666, 175 S. E. 169.

Statute of Limitations.—The assessment against abutting lands for street improvements is made a lien on the land superior to all other liens and encumbrances under this section, and the ten-year statute of limitation is applicable thereto and not the three-year statute. High Point v. Clinard, 204 N. C. 149, 167 S. E. 690.

Cited in Jones v. Durham, 197 N. C. 127, 133, 147 S. E. 824; Statesville v. Jenkins, 199 N. C. 159, 154 S. E. 15.

§ 2714. Appeal to the superior court. — If a person assessed is dissatisfied with the amount of the charge, he may give notice within ten days after such confirmation that he takes an appeal to the next term of the superior court of the county in which the municipality is located, and shall within five days thereafter serve a statement of facts upon which he bases his appeal, but the appeal shall not delay or stop the improvements. The appeal shall be tried at the term of court as other actions at law. (1915, c. 56, s. 9.)

Constitutionality.—The right of appeal to the courts being provided in case of dissatisfaction by an owner of land abutting on a street assessed by the governing body of a municipality for street improvement, the objection that the owner's property is taken for a public use in contravention of the due process clause of the Constitution is untenable. Lake v. Wadesboro, 186 N. C. 683, 121 S. E. 12.

Jurisdiction of Court Is Derivative.—The jurisdiction of the Superior Court upon appeal from a levy of assessments for street improvements by the governing body of a town as provided by this section, is entirely derivative, and where a town has no jurisdiction to condemn land the Superior Court on appeal likewise has no jurisdiction to do so. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Ahoskie, 207 N. C. 154, 176 S. E. 264.

No Other Remedy.—The owner of land abutting on a street the municipality proposes to improve has his remedy in objecting to the local assessment on his property because of the insufficiency of the petition, and he may not enjoin the issuance of bonds for this necessary expense on that ground when he has failed to pursue his statutory remedy. Brown v. Hillsboro, 185 N. C. 368, 117 S. E. 41.

Injunctive Relief.—The remedy of abutting owners assessed for street improvements is given by this section providing the right of appeal and when no appeal has been taken and the work has been completed, injunctive relief against the collection of the assessments by the city will not lie. Jones v. Durham, 197 N. C. 127, 147 S. E. 824.

Existence of Street May Be the Issue.—Under the provisions of this statute, it is necessary that there be an existing street in order for a valid assessment for improvements to be laid on the property of abutting owners, and this may be made an issue in an appeal under this section, and the adjoining owner may introduce his evidence to show to the contrary. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Ahoskie, 192 N. C. 258, 134 S. E. 653.

§ 2715. Power to adjust assessments.—The governing body may correct, cancel or remit any assessment for a local improvement, and may remit, cancel or adjust the interest or penalties on any such assessment. The governing body has the power, when in its judgment there is any irregularity, omission, error or lack of jurisdiction in any of the proceedings relating thereto, to set aside the whole of the local assessment made by it, and thereupon to make a reassessment. In such case there shall be included, as a part of the costs of the public improvement involved, all interest paid or accrued on notes or certificates of indebtedness, or assessment bonds issued by the municipality to pay the expenses of such improvement. The proceeding shall be in all respects as in case of local assessments, and the reassessment shall have the same force as if it had originally been properly made. (1915, c. 56, s. 9.)

Section Not Applicable.—Where in accordance with the provisions of 2710(1), the board of aldermen grant a petition for street improvements requesting the assessment of a larger proportion of the cost of the improvements against the lots of land abutting directly thereon than is otherwise required by statute, after the confirmation of the assessment roll a subsequent board of aldermen is without power to grant a petition of the abutting landowners for a reduction of the assessment upon the ground alone that the amount of the assessments exceeded that which they had originally anticipated, and a suit by other taxpayers of the town to enjoin the granting of such petition is proper. This section and § 2806(f), have no application. McClester v. China Grove, 196 N. C. 301, 145 S. E. 562.

Cited in Gallimore v. Thomasville, 191 N. C. 648, 652, 132 S. E. 657; Jones v. Durham, 197 N. C. 127, 133, 147 S. E. 824.

§ 2716. Payment of assessment in cash or by installments.—The property owner or railroad or street railway company hereinbefore mentioned shall have the option and privilege of paying for the improvements hereinbefore provided for in cash, or if they should so elect and give notice of the fact in writing to the municipality within thirty days after the notice mentioned in next succeeding section, they shall have the option and privilege of paying the assessments in not less than five nor more than ten equal annual installments as may have been determined by the governing body in the original resolution authorizing such improvement. Such installments shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date of the confirmation of the assessment roll, and in case of the failure or neglect of any property owner or railroad or street railway company to pay any installment when the same shall become due and payable, then and in that event all of the installments remaining unpaid shall at once become due and payable and such property and franchises shall be sold by the municipality under the same rules, regulations, rights of redemption and savings as are now prescribed by law for the sale of land for unpaid taxes. The whole assessment may be paid at the time of paying any installment by payment of the principal and all interest accrued to that date. (1915, c. 56, s. 10.)

See notes to the following section.

Right to Declare All Installments Due.—The provision of this section, that upon failure to pay any installment when due, all installments remaining unpaid should at once become due and payable, gives the municipality the optional right to declare all installments due and payable upon default, and in the absence of its declaration to invoke the acceleration provision the statute of limitations will not begin to run against unpaid installments not then due. Farmville v. Paylor, 208 N. C. 106, 179 S. E. 459.

Cited in Coble v. Dick, 194 N. C. 732, 733, 140 S. E. 745; Statesville v. Jenkins, 199 N. C. 159, 154 S. E. 15; High Point v. Brown, 206 N. C. 664, 667, 175 S. E. 169; Saluda v. Polk County, 207 N. C. 180, 184, 176 S. E. 298.

§ 2717. Payment of assessment enforced.—After the expiration of twenty days from the confirmation of an assessment roll the tax collector or such other officer of the municipality as the governing body may direct so to do shall cause to be published in a newspaper published in the municipality, or if there be no such newspaper, shall cause to be posted in at least three public places therein, a notice that any assessment contained in the assessment roll, naming and describing it, may be paid to him at any time before the expiration of thirty days from the first publication of the notice without any addition. In the event the assessment be not paid within such time the same shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from the date of the computation and ascertainment by the governing body after the completion of the local improvement of the total cost thereof: Provided, that this shall not apply to improvements made under an ordinance prior to February 26, 1923, and shall become due and payable on the date on which taxes are payable: Provided, that where an assessment is divided into installments one installment shall become due and payable each year on the date on which taxes are due and payable. If any assessment or installment thereof is not paid when due, it shall be subject to the same penalties as are now prescribed for unpaid taxes, in addition to the interest herein provided for. After default in the payment of any installment, the governing body may, on the payment of all installments in arrears, together with interest due thereon and on reimbursement of any expenses incurred in attempting to obtain payment, reinstate the remaining unpaid installments of such assessment so that they shall become due in the same manner as they would have if there had been no default, and such extension may be granted at any time prior to the institution of an action to foreclose. (1915, c. 56, s. 11; 1923, c. 87; 1929, c. 331, s. 1.)

As to enforcement of lien within statutory period, see sec. 441 and notes.

Editor's Note.—By the amendment of 1923 the date when interest begins to run was changed from the time of the "confirmation of the assessment roll" to "after the completion of the local improvement." But it was not retroactive.

The Act of 1929 added the last sentence to this section.

The lien given under this section, when properly established, amounts to a statutory mortgage, having preference over any and all liens and encumbrances existent or other, and to be enforced by decree of sale of the property and franchise. Saluda v. Polk County, 207 N. C. 180, 183, 176 S. E. 298.

Lien Superior to All Others.—The lien created by this section is superior to all other liens and encumbrances, and may be enforced by decree of sale. Kinston v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 183 N. C. 14, 110 S. E. 645.

Judgments for Installments.—Where the abutting owner of land on the streets has refused to pay the assessments lawfully made on him for street improvements, a judgment allowing him to pay by installments may be entered. Durham v. Durham Public Service Co., 182 N. C. 333, 109 S. E. 40.

Cited in Coble v. Dick, 194 N. C. 732, 140 S. E. 745.

§ 2717(a). Sale or foreclosure for unpaid assessments barred in ten years; no penalties.—No statute of limitation, whether fixed by law especially referred to in this chapter or otherwise, shall bar the right of the municipality to enforce any remedy provided by law for the collection of unpaid assessments, whether for paving or other benefits, and whether such assessment is made under this chapter or under other general or specific acts, save from and after ten years from default in the payment thereof, or if payable in installments, ten years from the default in the payment of any installments. No penalties prescribed for failure to pay taxes shall apply to special assessments, but they shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum only. In any action to foreclose a special assessment the costs shall be taxed as in any other civil action, and shall include an allowance for the commissioner appointed to make the sale, which shall not be more than five per cent of the amount for which the land is sold, and one reasonable attorney's fee for the plaintiff. This section shall apply to all special assessments heretofore or hereafter levied, but shall not apply to any special assessment for the collection of which an action or proceeding has heretofore been instituted. (1929, c. 331, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—For an act applicable only in Durham county, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 224.

§ 2717(b). Extension of time for payment of special assessments.—At any time or times prior to July the first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six, the governing body of any city or town may adopt a resolution granting an extension of the time for the payment of any instalment or instalments of any special assessment, including accrued interest thereon and costs accrued in any action to foreclose under the lien thereon, by arranging such instalment or instalments, interest and costs into a new series of ten equal instalments so that one of said instalments shall fall due on the first Monday in October after the expiration of one year after adoption of the aforesaid resolution and one of said instalments on the first Monday in October of each year thereafter. Accrued interest on any instalment or instalments of any special assessment extended under the provisions of this section shall be computed to the first Monday in October following the adoption of the aforesaid resolution: Provided, however, that such extension shall not prevent the payment of any assessment or interest at any time: Provided further, no such extension shall in any way discriminate in favor of or against any property assessed by virtue of said assessment roll: Provided further, that any instalment or instalments, together with accrued interest and costs extended in accordance with the provisions of this section shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from the first Monday in October following the adoption of the aforesaid resolution. (1931, c. 249; 1933, c. 410; 1935, c. 126.)

Editor's Note.—The above section was substituted for the former reading by Public Laws 1935, c. 126. A comparison of the two sections is necessary to determine the changes.

§ 2718. Assessments in case of tenant for life or years.—Whenever any real estate is in the possession or enjoyment of a tenant for life, or a tenant for a term of years, and an assessment is laid or levied on said property by any city, town, county, township, municipal district, or the state, to cover the cost of permanent improvements ordered put thereon by the law or the ordinances of such city or town, township, or municipal district, such as paving streets and sidewalks, laying sewer and water lines, draining lowlands, and permanent improvements of a like character, which constitute a lien upon such property, the amount so assessed for such purposes shall be paid by the tenant for life or for years, and the remaindermen after the life estate, or the owner in fee after the expiration of tenancy for a term of years, pro rata their respective interests in said real estate. (1911, c. 7, s. 1.)

§ 2720. Lien of party making payment. — If the assessment, after same shall be laid or levied, shall all be paid by either the tenant for life or the tenant for a term of years, or by the remainderman, or the owner in fee, the party paying more than his pro rata share of the same shall have the right to maintain an action in the nature of a suit for contribution against the delinquent party to recover from him his pro rata share of such assessment, with interest thereon from the date of such payment, and be subrogated to the right of the city, town, township, municipal district, county, or the state, to a lien on such property for the same. (1911, c. 7, s. 3.)

§ 2720(1). Lien in favor of co-tenant or joint owner paying special assessments.—Any one of several tenants in common, or joint tenants, or co-partners, shall have the right to pay the whole or any part of the special assessments assessed or due upon the real estate held jointly or in common, and all sums by him so paid in excess of his share of such special assessments, interest, costs and amounts required for redemption, shall constitute a lien upon the shares of his co-tenant or associates, payment whereof, with interest and costs, he may enforce in proceedings for partition, actual or by sale, or in any other appropriate judicial proceeding: Provided, the lien herein provided for shall not be effective against an innocent purchaser for value unless and until notice thereof is filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court in the county in which the land lies and indexed and docketed in the same manner as other liens required by law to be filed in such clerk's office. (1935, c. 174.)

§ 2721. Money borrowed to be paid out of assessment.—At any time before the cost of any local improvement shall be computed and ascertained as provided in this article, the governing body may from time to time by resolution authorize the treasurer to borrow money to the extent required to pay the cost of any such improvement or to repay any money borrowed under this section with interest thereon. The resolution authorizing any such loan or loans may provide for the issue of notes or certificates of indebtedness of the municipality, or both, payable either on demand or at a fixed time, not more than six months from the date thereof, and bearing interest not exceeding six per centum per annum. Said notes or certificates may be sold at public or private sale, or pledged as security for temporary loans, as the governing body may by such resolution direct. Any temporary indebtedness incurred under the authority of this section, with the interest thereon, may be paid out of moneys raised by the issue and sale of "local improvement bonds" or "assessment bonds," or both, to be issued and sold as hereinafter provided, or may be included in the annual tax levy. (1915, c. 56, s. 12.)

§ 2722. Assessment books prepared.—After the governing body of the municipality has levied the assessment against the property abutting upon the street or streets, the city clerk or person designated shall prepare from such assessment roll and deliver to the tax collector or person designated a well bound book styled Special Assessment Book, which shall be so ruled as to conveniently show:

1. Name of owner of such property.
2. The number of lot or part of lot and the plan thereof if there be a plan.
3. The frontage of said lot.
4. The amount that has been assessed against such lot.
5. The amount of such installments and the day on which installments shall become due.

Such book shall be indexed according to the names of the owners of the property, and entries of all payments or partial payments shall be immediately entered upon said book when made, and said book shall be open to the inspection of any citizen of the municipality. (1915, c. 56, s. 13.)

Necessity of Special Book.—As between the abutting landowners upon the street improved by a city or town and the proper municipal authorities acting thereon, the failure of the latter to keep the special assessment book is not fatal to the validity of the assessments, if the original assessment roll or book is accessible, sufficient to give all necessary information of the property assessed, and available upon the statutory notice given. Vester v. Nashville, 190 N. C. 265, 129 S. E. 593.

§ 2722(a). Apportionment of Assessments.—In any case where one or more special assessments shall have been made against any property for any improvement or improvements authorized by this chapter, and said property has been or is about to be subdivided and it is therefore desirable that said assessment or assessments be apportioned among the subdivisions of such property, the governing body may, with the consent of the owner or owners of said property, apportion said assessment or assessments, or the total thereof, fairly among said subdivisions, as same are benefited by the improvement and release such subdivisions, if any, as in the opinion of the governing body are not benefited by the improvement. Thereafter, each of said subdivisions shall be relieved of any part of such original assessment or assessments except the part thereof apportioned to said subdivisions, and the part of said original assessment or assessments apportioned to any such subdivision shall be of the same force and effect as the original assessment or assessments. At the time of making such apportionments, the governing body shall cause to be entered upon its minutes an entry to the effect that such apportionment is made with the consent of the owner or owners of the property affected, and such entry shall be conclusive of the truth thereof in the absence of fraud. Such re-assessments may include past due installments of principal, interest and penalty, if any, as well as assessments not then due, and the remaining installments shall fall due at the same dates as they did under the original assessment. (1929, c. 331, s. 1; 1935, c. 125.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment of 1935 the last sentence of this section prohibited reassessment before payment of past due installments.

§ 2723. Local improvement bonds issued.—Whenever an assessment for any local improvement has been confirmed, the governing body may by resolution direct that the amount and proportion of the expense of such improvement which shall be borne by the municipality at large shall be raised by the issuance of bonds of the municipality to be known as "local improvement bonds." Such bonds shall be payable at such time or times, not exceeding thirty years from their date, as the governing body shall determine. There shall be raised annually by tax upon all the taxable property of the municipality, after the issuance of any such bonds, a sum sufficient to meet and pay the interest thereon as the same becomes due, and a sum to be paid into a sinking fund which will, together with the accumulations thereof, provide a fund sufficient to meet and pay the principal of said bonds at maturity: Provided, however, that if such bonds be made payable in annual installments substantially equal in amount, the first of which installments shall be payable within two years from the date of such bonds and the last within twenty years of such date, the governing body authorizing such bonds, in lieu of providing for a sinking fund to meet the principal of such bonds, shall cause to be raised by taxation in each year in which an installment of principal shall be payable, or in the next preceding year, an amount sufficient to meet said installment, in addition to the annual tax during the life of the bonds to provide for the payment of the interest accruing thereon. The municipality's share of two or more improvements may be included in a single issue of local improvement bonds. (1915, c. 56, s. 14.)

As to improvements under the Municipal Finance Act, see secs. 2939 et seq.

§ 2724. Assessment bonds issued.—Whenever an assessment for any local improvement has been confirmed, and twenty days have elapsed since the first publication of notice of such confirmation, the governing body may by resolution direct that the amount and proportion of the expense of such improvement which has been assessed upon the abutting property, or any part of such expense, shall be raised by the municipality by the issuance of its bonds, to be known as "assessment bonds." Such bonds shall be made payable in not less than five and not more than ten substantially equal annual installments, the last of which shall become due not less than five nor more than ten years after the issuance of the bonds. All moneys derived from the collection of assessments upon which assessment bonds are predicated, collected after the passage of the resolution authorizing such bonds, shall be placed in a special fund, to be used only for the payment of the principal and interest of assessment bonds issued under this section, and if at the time of the annual tax levy for any year in such municipality it shall appear that such fund will be for any cause insufficient to meet the principal and interest of such bonds maturing in such year, the amount of the deficiency shall be included in such tax levy. The amount of the assessments for two or more improvements may be included in a single issue of assessment bonds. (1915, c. 56, s. 15.)

As to other provisions, see secs. 2939 et seq.

§ 2725. Form of bonds; sale.—Bonds authorized to be issued by this article shall be of such denomination, bear such rate of interest, not exceeding six per centum per annum, and be payable at such places, and be in such form as the governing body may by resolution provide. Such bonds shall be signed by the mayor or other chief executive officer, and the clerk of the municipality issuing them, and shall bear the seal of such municipality. Coupons attached to such bonds shall bear the facsimile signature of one or more of said officers. Such bonds may be either coupon bonds or registered bonds, or coupon bonds with the privilege of registration as to principal only, or of conversion into bonds registered as to both principal and interest. They may be sold at public or private sale, but for not less than their par value. They shall recite that they are issued pursuant to the authority of this article and of the resolution authorizing the issuance thereof, which shall be conclusive evidence of their validity and of the regularity of their issuance. (1915, c. 56, s. 16.)

As to transfer of bonds, see sec. 2954; sale, sec. 2955.

As to taxes for payment, see sec. 2959.
Cited in Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173 N. C. 138, 147, 91 S. E. 827.

§ 2727. Bonds issued without popular vote validated.—All bonds heretofore issued or proceedings taken by any city or town in substantial compliance with the provisions of this article are hereby validated, notwithstanding that the question of issuing bonds was not submitted to the voters of such city or town, and every such city or town is authorized to continue such proceedings to issue bonds or other obligations, as provided in this article, without submitting to the voters or taxpayers of such city or town the question of issuing such bonds. (1917, c. 71; 1917, c. 113, ss. 1, 2.)

As to bonds issued, see sec. 2691 and notes.

§ 2728. Popular vote not required in certain cases. — Notwithstanting anything contained in any law heretofore enacted, whether general, special, private, or local, it shall be lawful for any city or town to borrow money, contract debts, and issue bonds or other evidence of indebtedness for necessary expenses without the assent of the voters or taxpayers of such city or town, in all cases where the whole or at least one-fourth of the cost of the improvements or properties for which the money is borrowed, debt incurred, or bonds or other evidences of indebtedness issued, has heretofore been or is hereafter to be specially assessed upon abutting property or other property deemed benefitted by the making of such improvement or the acquisition of such properties. (1917, c. 113, s. 3.)

For general notes, see notes to sec. 2691 which will be found under Art. VII, Sec. 7 of the Constitution.

§ 2728(a). Improvements on streets abutting railroads.—Municipalities desiring to make street and sidewalk improvements on property owned and/or leased by railroad companies, are hereby authorized to make such improvements on any such street used as a public street, subject to the rights of any such railroad company to use and occupy the same for railroad purposes: Provided, however, that the petition or petitions contemplated and required by the provisions of this article, need not be signed by such railroad company or companies, nor shall any part of the railroad right of way be considered as abutting property, but the said petition shall be signed by at least a majority in number of the owners of property other than the railroad right of way, who must represent at least a majority of all the lineal feet frontage of the lands, other than said railroad right of way (a majority in interest of owners of undivided interest in any piece of property to be deemed and treated as one person for the purpose of the petition), abutting upon such streets or streets proposed to be improved: Provided, further, that not more than one-half of the total cost of the street or sidewalk improvement made by such municipality, exclusive of so much of the cost as is incurred at street intersections, shall be specially assessed upon the lots or parcels of land abutting directly on the improvement, other than the property included in the railroad right of way, according to the extent of their respective frontage thereon, by an equal rate per foot of such frontage. (1931, c. 222, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Since a municipality may proceed to make street improvements without petition of the owners of abutting property (Shute v. City of Monroe, 187 N. C. 676, 123 S. E. 71), it is clear that where a railroad, owning half of the abutting property, could hold up the improvement by refusal to sign the petition, that the state may authorize the municipality to proceed without the railroad's consent. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 362.

Any additional expense which the railroad may incur in removing or altering any pavement or other improvements made under and by virtue of the provisions of section 2728(a), which interfere with the railroad's use of its right of way, shall be borne by the municipality affected: Provided, such section shall not affect in any way existing contracts between municipalities and railroads for rights of way through streets, and shall not affect existing contracts between municipalities and railroads for upkeep and improvements of streets. (1931, c. 222, s. 1½.)

Art. 10. Inspection of Meters

§ 2729. Inspectors appointed. — In every city or town in the state of North Carolina where is furnished, for pay, electricity, gas or water by meter measure, the governing body of the city or town may appoint some competent person to act as inspector of meters, whose duty it shall be to inspect and test such meters and to carry out the provisions of this article as herein provided. (1909, c. 150, s. 1.)

§ 2730. Time of appointment; oath, bond, and compensation. — Such appointment, if made, shall be made at the first meeting in May of each year of such governing body, subject to the power of such city or town authorities to remove such appointee in the manner provided for the removal of its other appointees and to fill the vacancy caused by such removal. The compensation of such inspector shall be fixed and shall be paid by the city or town so appointing him, and such inspector shall upon his appointment take oath before the mayor of said city or town that he will faithfully perform the duties herein imposed upon him, and the governing body of the city or town may require the inspector to give bond in such sum as they may fix for the faithful discharge of his duties. (1909, c. 150, s. 2.)

§ 2731. Apparatus for testing meters provided. —Every person, firm, corporation or municipality furnishing for pay electricity, gas or water by meter measure in any city or town having appointed an inspector of meters, as aforesaid, shall provide and keep a suitable and proper apparatus for testing and proving the accuracy of the meters to be so furnished for use, by which apparatus all such meters shall be tested at their rated capacity. (1909, c. 150, s. 3.)

§ 2733. Inspection made upon complaint. — When any consumer, by meter, of electricity, gas or water in any city or town having appointed an inspector of meters, as aforesaid, doubts the accuracy of such meter and desires to have the same tested, such consumer may file with the inspector of meters a written complaint of the meter and request that the same be tested, and shall at the same time deposit with the furnisher the sum of one dollar to cover the expense of taking out and replacing such meter, and thereupon it shall be the duty of such inspector as soon as practicable to accurately test said meter in the presence of and jointly with the authorized agent of the furnisher, and also in the presence of the complainant, if he so desires, and shall give to both the complainant and to the furnisher a written report of such test and the result thereof. (1909, c. 150, s. 5.)

§ 2734. Repayment of deposit. — If upon such test the meter is found to be incorrect, in that it registers more than two and one-half per cent too fast—that is, more than two and one-half per cent more electricity, gas or water than it should, then and in that event the furnisher shall return to the complainant the one dollar deposit and shall promptly properly adjust and repair the meter or furnish a correctly adjusted meter; but if upon such test the meter shall not register more than two and one-half per cent too fast—that is, more than two and one-half per cent more than it ought to—the one dollar deposit shall be retained by the furnisher to cover the expense of taking out and replacing the meter. (1909, c. 150, s. 6.)

§ 2735. Adjustment of charges. — If upon such test the meter shall register more than two and one-half per cent too fast, as above defined, the furnisher shall reimburse the complainant at the rate at which the meter registers too fast for a period of one month back; but if upon such test the meter shall be found to be incorrect, in that it registers more than two and one-half per cent too slow—that is, more than two and one-half per cent less electricity, gas or water than it should—then and in that event the complainant shall, in addition to the amount already charged him, pay at once to the furnisher at the rate at which the meter is too slow for a period of one month back, and the furnisher shall have the same rights for collecting such additional sum as is provided for the collecting of the past due and unpaid bills for electricity, gas or water, as the case may be. (1909, c. 150, s. 7.)

§ 2736. Standard of accuracy. — Any such meter having been tested and found to be not more than two and one-half per cent too slow nor more than two and one-half per cent too fast, as above defined, shall be considered correct, and such inspector shall so mark or stamp such meter and report the same to the governing body of the city or town. (1909, c. 150, s. 8.)

§ 2737. Free access to meters. — Nothing in this article shall be so construed as to prevent any furnisher of electricity, gas or water from having free access to the meters. (1909, c. 150, s. 9.)

Art. 11. Regulation of Buildings

§ 2738. Chief of fire department. — There is hereby created in the incorporated cities and towns of the state, where not already established by their charters, the office of chief of fire department. (Rev. s. 4815; 1901, c. 677, s. 1.)

§ 2739. Election and compensation. — The governing body of every incorporated city and town, when no provision is made in their charters for such office, shall elect a chief of fire department, fix his term of office, prescribe his duties and obligations, and see that he is reasonably remunerated by the city or town for the services required of him by law. They may change his duties and compensation from time to time, not inconsistent with the duties prescribed in this article. Where the governing body fails or neglects to perform such duty, the insurance commissioner shall call it to their attention and if necessary bring the matter before the proper court. Nothing herein may prevent any person elected hereunder from holding some other position in the government of the city or town. (Rev., ss. 2981, 4816; 1901, c. 677, s. 2; 1905, c. 506, s. 4; 1915, c. 192, s. 1.)

Power Governmental.—The power to regulate and prevent fire is governmental, and a failure to exercise this power does not subject a city to action for negligence which causes loss by fire. Harrington v. Greenville, 159 N. C. 632, 75 S. E. 849.

§ 2740. Duties of chief of fire department. — The chief of the fire department shall perform the duties required of him by this article; where such duties are not prescribed by the charters or governing body of incorporated cities and towns, it shall be his duty to preserve and care for the fire apparatus, have charge of the fighting and putting out of all fires, make annual reports to the city municipal governments, seek out and have corrected all places and conditions dangerous to the safety of the municipality from fire, look after buildings being erected with a view to their safety from fires, and do and perform the other duties prescribed by the governing boards of the several municipalities. (Rev., ss. 4815, 4817; 1901, c. 677, ss. 1, 3.)

§ 2741. Local inspector of buildings. — The chiefs of fire departments hereinbefore provided for shall also be local inspectors of buildings for the cities or towns for which they are appointed and shall perform the duties required herein and shall make all reports required by the insurance commissioner, and shall make all inspections and perform such duties as may be required by the state law or city or town ordinance or by the said insurance commissioner: Provided, however, that any city or town may appoint and reasonably remunerate a local inspector of buildings, in which case the chief of fire department shall be relieved of the duties herein imposed. (Rev., s. 2982; 1905, c. 506, s. 6; 1915, c. 192, s. 2.)

§ 2742. Town aldermen failing to appoint inspectors. — If the aldermen or commissioners of any city or town shall fail or refuse to appoint a chief of the fire department, or shall fail or refuse to reasonably remunerate him, they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section shall not apply to the aldermen or commissioners of any city or town, where such city or town is by law exempt from the law regulating and controlling the erection and inspection of buildings. (Rev., s. 3607; 1905, c. 506, s. 4.)

§ 2743. Town officers; inspection of buildings. —If any chief of any fire department or local inspector of buildings shall fail to perform the duties required of him by law or shall give a certificate of inspection without first making the inspection required by law, or shall improperly give a certificate of inspection, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3610; 1905, c. 506, s. 5; 1915, c. 192, s. 17.)

§ 2744. Electrical inspectors. — The governing body of any incorporated city or town may in their discretion appoint an electrical inspector in addition to the building inspector, and when said electrical inspector is so appointed he shall do and perform all things herein set out for the building inspector to do and perform in regard to electrical wiring and certificates for same, and in such cases the building inspector shall be relieved of such duties. (Rev., s. 2983; 1905, c. 506, s. 33.)

§ 2745. Deputy inspectors. — All duties imposed by this article upon the building inspector may be performed by a deputy appointed by such inspector. (Rev., s. 2984; 1905, c. 506, s. 32.)

§ 2746. Fire limits established. — The governing body of all incorporated cities and towns shall pass ordinances establishing and defining fire limits, which shall include the principal business portion of the cities and towns. (Rev., s. 2985; 1905, c. 506, s. 7.)

Power Discretionary.—The courts will not pass upon the reasonableness of fire limits established by an incorporated town under authority conferred by the Legislature, at least where the limits established appear to be reasonable, and without palpable oppression or injustice done. State v. Lawing, 164 N. C. 492, 80 S. E. 69.

Reasonableness of Ordinances.—While it might be unreasonable to prohibit even the slightest repairs to wooden buildings standing within the fire limits prior to the passage of a statute of ordinance establishing such limits, the power to prevent repairs is delegated and presumably exercised for the protection of property, and where a wooden structure within the bounds is partially destroyed by fire already it is not unreasonable to require a new roof to be made of material less liable to conbustion, or to forbid the repairs altogether when the damage to the building is serious, and to that end to compel the owners to give notice to the town authorities of their purpose to repair, and of the character of the contemplated work. Lewisville v. Webster, 108 Ill. 414; State v. Johnson, 114 N. C. 846, 849, 19 S. E. 599.

Cited in 5 N. C. Law Rev. 241.

§ 2747. Punishment for failing to establish fire limits. — If the aldermen or commissioners of any city or town shall fail or refuse to establish and define the fire limits for such town according to law, they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section shall not apply to aldermen or commissioners of those towns which are exempt from the law governing the inspection of buildings. (Rev., s. 3608; 1905, c. 506, s. 7.)

§ 2748. Building permits. — Before a building is begun the owner of the property shall apply to the inspector for a permit to build. This permit shall be given in writing and shall contain a provision that the building shall be constructed according to the requirements of the building law, a copy of which shall accompany the permit. As the building progresses the inspector shall make as many inspections as may be necessary to satisfy him that the building is being constructed according to the provisions of this law. As soon as the building is completed the owner shall notify the inspector, who shall proceed at once to inspect the said building and determine whether or not the flues and the building are properly constructed in accordance with the building law. If the building meets the requirements of the building law the inspector shall then issue to the owner of the building a certificate which shall state that he has complied with the requirements of the building law as to that particular building, giving description and locality and street number if numbered. The inspector shall keep his record so that it will show readily by reference all such buildings as are approved. The inspector shall report to the insurance commissioner every person neglecting to secure such permit and certificate, and also bring the matter before the mayor, recorder or municipal court for their attention and action. (Rev., s. 2986; 1905, c. 506, s. 26; 1915, c. 192, s. 3.)

Contrary Ordinance Void.—By this section a permit from the inspector is all that is required before an owner may repair his buildings, an ordinance requiring that a permit be gotten from the board of aldermen is contrary to this statute and void. State v. Eubanks, 154 N. C. 628, 70 S. E. 466.

Rule Must Be Uniform.—The ordinance of a city providing that no person shall erect within the city limits any house or building of any kind, or add to, improve or change any building without having first obtained permission from the Board of Aldermen, is void, for the reason that it does not prescribe a uniform rule of action for governing the exercises of the discretion of the Aldermen, but on the contrary, leaves the rights of property subject to their arbitrary discretion. State v. Tenant, 110 N. C. 609, 14 S. E. 387.

Permit by Mandamus.—Where a city, under an ordinance, with legislative authority in such matters, has issued a permit to build an additional room to a residence, and thereafter has recalled the permit pending the settlement of a dispute as to whether it would be situate upon an alley claimed to have been widened, and upon the finding by the jury that the alley had not been widened and that the room would not be thereon, a mandamus is the proper remedy, though the form of the issue was incorrect. Clinard v. Winston-Salem, 173 N. C. 356, 91 S. E. 1039.

§ 2749. Material used in construction of walls.—The walls of all buildings in cities or towns where this article applies, other than frame or wooden buildings, shall be constructed of brick, iron or other hard, incombustible material. All rules, regulations and requirements contained in the building law, or set out in this article in regard to the erection of buildings, or any part thereof, shall apply also where any building or walls, or any part thereof, is proposed to be raised, altered, repaired or added to, in order that the objects of the law may be accomplished and deficiencies and menaces to the safety of the city or town may not be made or perpetuated. (Rev., s. 2987; 1905, c. 506, s. 9; 1915, c. 192, s. 4.)

§ 2750. Frame buildings within fire limits.—Within the fire limits of cities and towns where this article applies, as established and defined, no frame or wooden building shall be hereafter erected, altered, repaired, or moved except upon the permit of the building inspector, approved by the insurance commissioner. (Rev., s. 2988; 1905, c. 506, s. 8; 1915, c. 192, s. 5.)

As to permit, see sec. 2748.

Cited in 5 N. C. Law Rev. 241.

§ 2751. Thickness of walls.—The walls of warehouses, stores, factories, liverystables, hotels or other brick or stone buildings for business purposes in cities or towns where this article applies, except fireproof buildings where the framework is of steel, shall conform to the following schedules:

Height of Building	Minimum Thickness in Inches of Wall
	1st	2d	3d	4th	5th
One-story building	13	..	..	..	..
Two-story building	17	13	..	..	..
Three-story building	17	17	13	..	..
Four-story building	22	17	17	13	..
Five-story building	26	22	17	17	13

The walls of all brick or stone buildings over five stories high shall be thirteen inches thick for the top story and increasing four inches in thickness for each story below to the ground, the increased thickness of each story to be utilized for beam and girder ledges. All top story walls must extend through and eighteen inches above the roof in parapets not less than thirteen inches thick and coped with terra-cotta, stone, cast-iron or cement. Upon written application approved by the building inspector the insurance commissioner may, where he deems it advisable, allow decreased thickness in walls of concrete, or in brick walls where such thickness is compensated for by pilasters. The roofs of all buildings named in this section shall be of metal, slate or tile or gravel or other standard fireproof roofing. (Rev., s. 2989; 1905, c. 506, s. 10; 1915, c. 192, s. 6.)

Public Laws 1933, c. 254, provides for the construction of parapet walls but applies in Durham county only.

§ 2752. Foundation of walls; openings and doors protected.—In all buildings mentioned in the preceding section there shall be prepared a proper and substantial foundation, and no foundation shall be less than one foot below the exposed surface of the ground, and no foundation shall rest on any filling or made ground, and the breadth of the foundation of the several parts of any building shall be proportioned so that as near as practicable the pressure shall be equal on each square foot of the foundation, and cement mortar shall be used in the masonry of all foundations exposed to dampness. No opening or doorway shall be cut through a party or fire wall of a brick or stone building without a permit from the inspector, and every such door or opening shall have top, bottom and sides of stone, brick or iron, shall be closed by two sets of standard metal-covered doors (separated by the thickness of the wall) hung to rabbeted iron frames or to iron hinges in brick or stone rabbets, shall not exceed ten feet in height by eight feet in width, and every opening other than a doorway shall be protected in a manner satisfactory to the inspector. (Rev., s. 2990; 1905, c. 506, s. 11.)

§ 2753. Metallic stand-pipes required.—All business buildings being more than fifty-six feet high, covering an area of more than five thousand superficial feet, also all buildings exceeding eighty feet in height, shall have a four-inch or larger metallic stand-pipe within or near the front wall extending above the roof and arranged so that engine hose can be attached from the street, such riser to have two and one-half inch hose coupling on each floor. The building inspector may, with the approval of the insurance commissioner, allow two or more stand-pipes of smaller size and proper hose coupling, provided they are of such sizes and number as to be at least equivalent in service to the large stand-pipes required. All hose coupling shall conform to the size and pattern adopted by the fire department. (Rev., s. 2991; 1905, c. 506, s. 12; 1915, c. 192, s. 7.)

§ 2754. Construction of joists.—The ends of joists or beams entering a brick wall shall be cut not less than three-inch bevel so as not to disturb the brickwork by any deflection or breaking of the joists or beams. All such joists or timbers entering a party or division wall from opposite sides shall have at least four inches of solid brickwork between the ends of such timbers or joists. (Rev., s. 2992; 1905, c. 506, s. 13.)

§ 2755. Chimneys and flues.—All fireplaces and chimneys in stone or brick walls in any building hereafter erected and any chimneys or flues hereafter altered or repaired shall have the joints struck smooth on the inside, and the firebacks of all fireplaces hereafter erected shall not be less than eight inches in thickness of solid masonry, the chimney walls to be not less than four inches thick, the top of the chimney to extend not less than five feet above the roof for flat roofs and two feet above the ridge of any pitched roof. No woodwork or timber shall be placed under any fireplace or under the brickwork of any chimney. All floor beams, joists and headers shall be kept at least two inches clear of any wall enclosing a fire flue or chimney breast. (Rev., s. 2993; 1905, c. 506, s. 14.)

§ 2756. Chimneys not built on wood.—No chimney shall be started or built upon a beam of wood or floor, the brickwork in all cases to start from the ground with proper foundation. In no case shall a chimney be corbeled out more than three inches from the wall, and in all cases corbeling shall consist of at least five courses of brick, the corbeling to start at least three feet below the bottom of the flue. (Rev., s. 2994; 1905, c. 506, s. 16.)

§ 2757. Construction of flues.—All flues shall extend at least three feet above the roof and always above the comb of the roof, and shall be coped with well-burnt terra-cotta, stone, cast-iron or cement. In all buildings hereafter erected the stone or brickwork of all flues and the chimney shafts of all furnaces, boilers, bakers' ovens, large cooking ranges, and laundry stoves, and all flues used for similar purposes shall be at least eight inches in thickness, with the exception of smoke flues, which are lined with fire-clay lining or cast iron. These may be four inches in thickness, but this shall not apply to metal stacks of boiler-houses where properly constructed and arranged at a safe distance from wood or other inflammable material. All buildings hereafter erected shall have smoke flues constructed either in walls of eight inches thickness or with smoke flues lined with cast-iron or fire-clay lining, the walls of which may be four inches in thickness, the lining to commence at the bottom of the flue or at the throat of the fireplace and be carried up continuously the entire height of the flue. All joints shall be closely fitted and the lining shall be built in as the flue or flues are carried up. All chimneys which shall be dangerous in any manner whatever shall be repaired and made safe or taken down. (Rev., s. 2995; 1905, c. 506, s. 17.)

§ 2758. Hanging flues.—Hanging flues (that is, for the reception of stovepipes built otherwise than from the ground) shall be allowed only when built according to the following specifications: The flue shall be built four inches thick of the best hard brick, laid on flat side, never on edge, extending at least three feet above the roof and always above the comb of the roof, lined on the inside with cast-iron or fire-clay flue lining from the bottom of the flue to the extreme height of the flue, and ends of all such lining pipes being made to fit close together and the lining pipe being built in as the flue is carried up. If the flue starts at the ceiling and receives the stovepipe vertically it shall be hung on iron stirrups, bent to come flush with the bottom of ceiling joints. All flues shall have a proper and sufficient support at their base, and in no case shall they be supported even partially by contact in passing through partitions, ceilings, or roofs. Flues not lined as above shall be built from the ground eight inches thick of the best hard brick with the joints struck smooth on the inside. (Rev., s. 2996; 1905, c. 506, s. 18; 1915, c. 192, s. 8.)

§ 2759. Flues cleaned on completion of building.—The flues of every building shall be properly cleaned and all rubbish removed and the flues left smooth on the inside upon the completion of the building. (Rev., s. 2997; 1905, c. 506, s. 19.)

§ 2760. Construction of stovepipes.—No stovepipe shall pass through any roof, window or weatherboarding, and no stovepipe in any building with wood or combustible floors, ceiling or partitions shall enter any flue unless such pipe shall be at least twelve inches from such floors, ceiling or partitions, unless same is properly protected by metal shield, in which case the distance shall not be less than six inches. In all cases where stovepipes pass through wooden partitions of any kind or other woodwork they shall be guarded by either a double collar of metal with at least three inches air space and holes for ventilation or by a soapstone or burnt-clay ring not less than one inch in thickness extending through the partition or other woodwork. If any chimney, flue or heating apparatus on any premises shall, in the opinion of the inspector, endanger the premises, the inspector shall at once notify in writing the owner or agent of said premises. If such owner or agent fails for a period of forty-eight hours after the service of said notice upon him to make such chimney, flue or heating apparatus safe he shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each day that the condition remains uncorrected. (Rev., s. 2998; 1905, c. 506, s. 20; 1915, c. 192, s. 9.)

§ 2761. Height of foundry chimneys. — Iron cupola or other chimneys of foundries shall extend at least ten feet above the highest point of any roof within a radius of fifty feet of such cupola or chimney. (Rev., s. 2999; 1905, c. 506, s. 22.)

§ 2762. Steam pipes, how placed. — No steam pipes shall be placed within two inches of any timber or woodwork unless the timber or woodwork is protected by a metal shield; then the distance shall not be less than one inch. All steam pipes passing through floors and ceilings or laths and plastered partitions shall be protected by a metal tube one inch larger in diameter than the pipe, and the space shall be filled in with mineral wool, asbestos or other incombustible material. (Rev., s. 3000; 1905, c. 506, s. 21.)

§ 2763. Electric wiring of houses. — The electric wiring of houses or buildings for lighting or for other purposes shall conform to the regulations prescribed by the organization known as National Board of Fire Underwriters. In order to protect the property of citizens from the dangers incident to defective electric wiring of buildings, it shall be unlawful for any firm or corporation to allow any electric current for the purpose of illuminating any building belonging to any person, firm or corporation to be turned on without first having had an inspection made of the wiring by the building inspector and having received from the inspector a certificate approving the wiring of such building. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation engaged in the business of selling electricity to furnish any electric current for use for illuminating purposes in any building or buildings of any person, firm or corporation, unless the said building or buildings have been first inspected by the inspector of buildings and a certificate given as above provided. The fee that shall be allowed said inspector of buildings for the work of such inspection of electrical wiring shall be one dollar for each building inspected, to be paid by the person applying for the inspection. (Rev., s. 3001; 1905, c. 506, s. 23.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1931, c. 49, as amended by c. 133, applicable only to Moore County and to the city of Burlington, amended this section by striking out the last sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "The fee that shall be allowed said inspector of buildings for the work of such inspection of electric wiring shall be fixed by the governing body of the town or city, and shall be paid by the person applying for the inspection."

Great Care Required.—There is nothing by which the user of an electrical appliance can detect the presence of an unusual high voltage or deadliness of current before touching the wire or coming in contact with it, and the greatest degree of care is required of those furnishing this deadly instrumentality to guard against the danger of its ordinary use as the circumstances may require. McAllister v Pryor, 187 N. C. 832, 123 S. E. 92.

Liability for Injuries.—Where the furnisher of electricity for a building was, under its contract with the owner, required to furnish a low voltage of electricity for lighting and various domestic uses, and there is evidence tending to show that in attempting to iron clothes within the building with an electric iron the plaintiff touched the ironer and received a severe shock of electricity, to her injury, which should not and would not ordinarily have occurred by such use had the defendant supplied the current it had contracted to do, the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur applies, and the issue of actionable negligence should be submitted to the jury, denying defendant's motion as of nonsuit thereon. McAllister v. Pryor, 187 N. C. 832, 123 S. E. 92.

§ 2764. Quarterly inspection of buildings. — Once in every three months the local inspector of buildings shall make a personal inspection of every building within the fire limits, and shall especially inspect the basement and garret, and he shall make such other inspections as may be required by the insurance commissioner and shall report to the insurance commissioner all defects found by him in any building upon a blank furnished him by the insurance commissioner. The building inspector shall notify the owner or occupant of buildings of any defects, and notify them to correct the same within a reasonable time. (Rev., s. 3002; 1905, c. 506, s. 25; 1915, c. 192, s. 10.)

Cited in McAllister v. Pryor, 187 N. C. 832, 836, 123 S. E. 92.

§ 2765. Annual inspection of buildings. — At least once in each year the local inspector shall make a general inspection of all buildings in the corporate limits and ascertain if the provisions of this article are complied with, and the local inspector alone or with the insurance commissioner or his deputy shall at all times have the right to enter any dwelling, store or other building and premises to inspect same without molestation from any one. It shall be the duty of the local building inspector to notify the occupant and owner of all premises of any defects found in this general inspection, and see that they are properly corrected. (Rev., s. 3003; 1905, c. 506, s. 29; 1915, c. 192, s. 11.)

Cited in McAllister v. Pryor, 187 N. C. 832, 836, 123 S. E. 92.

§ 2766. Record of inspections. — The local inspector shall keep the following record: A book indexed and kept so that it will show readily by reference all such buildings as are approved; that is, name and residence of owner, location of building, how it is to be occupied, date of inspection, what defects found and when remedied and date of building certificate; also a record which shall show the date of every general inspection, defects discovered and when remedied; also a record which shall show the date, circumstances and origin of every fire that occurs, name of owner and occupant of the building in which fire originates, the kind and value of property destroyed or damaged; also a record of inspection of electrical wiring and certificate issued. (Rev., s. 3004; 1905, c. 506, s. 30.)

Cited in McAllister, v. Pryor, 187 N. C. 832, 836, 123 S. E. 92.

§ 2767. Reports of local inspectors. — The local inspector shall report before the fifteenth of February of each year the number and dates of general and quarterly inspections during the year ending the thirty-first day of December upon blanks furnished by the insurance commissioner, and furnish such other information and make such other reports as shall be called for by the insurance commissioner. (Rev., s. 3005; 1905, c. 506, s. 31; 1915, c. 192, s. 12.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1931, c. 49, as amended by c. 133, applicable only to Moore County and the city of Burlington, amended this section by striking out the first sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "For the inspection of every new building or old building repaired or altered, the local inspector shall charge and collect, before issuing the building certificate, inspection fees which shall be fixed by the governing body of the city or town, and which shall be paid by the owner of such new building, or old building which has been repaired or altered."

For an act providing that no fees shall be charged in Lenoir county if the amount involved is less than one hundred dollars, see Public Laws 1933, c. 294.

§ 2769. Care of ashes, waste, etc. — Ashes shall be removed in metal vessels and unless moved by city drays shall be stowed in brick, stone or metal receptacles or removed by owner to a place not less than fifteen feet from any wooden building or fence. Oily rags and waste shall be kept in closed metal vessels and shall be removed from building daily. Unslaked lime shall not be left exposed to the weather in or near a building. Stoves or ranges shall not be nearer to unprotected woodwork than two feet and the floors under them shall be protected by metal or sand box. (Rev., s. 3007; 1905, c. 506, s. 24.)

§ 2770. Ordinances to enforce the law. — No provision of this article shall be held to repeal the power of any incorporated city or town to make and enforce any further rules and regulations under the powers granted in their several charters, and said cities and towns may pass ordinances for the enforcement of any provision of this article. (Rev., s. 3008; 1905, c. 506, s. 34.)

§ 2771. Defects in buildings corrected. — Whenever the local inspector finds any defects in any new building, or finds that said building is not being constructed or has not been constructed in accordance with the provisions of this law, or that an old building because of its condition is dangerous and likely to cause a fire, it shall be his duty to notify the owner of the building of the defects or the failure to comply with this law, and the owner or builder shall immediately remedy the defect and make the building comply with the law. The owner or builder may appeal from the decision of the local inspector to the insurance commissioner. (Rev., s. 3009, 1905, c. 506, s. 28; 1915, c. 192, s. 14.)

§ 2772. Owner of building failing to comply with law. — If the owner or builder erecting any new building, upon notice from the local inspector, shall fail or refuse to comply with the terms of the notice by correcting the defects pointed out in such notice, so as to make such building comply with the law as regards new buildings, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding fifty dollars. Every week during which any defect in the building is willfully allowed to remain after notice from the inspector shall constitute a separate and distinct offense. (Rev., s. 3798; 1905, c. 506, s. 28; 1915, c. 192, s. 18.)

§ 2773. Unsafe buildings condemned.—Every building which shall appear to the inspector to be especially dangerous to life because of its liability to fire or in case of fire by reason of bad condition of walls, overloaded floors, defective construction, decay or other causes shall be held to be unsafe, and the inspector shall affix a notice of the dangerous character of the structure to a conspicuous place on the exterior wall of said building. No building now or hereafter built shall be altered, repaired or moved, until it has been examined and approved by the inspector as being in a good and safe condition to be altered as proposed, and the alteration, repair or change so made shall conform to the provisions of the law. (Rev., s. 3010; 1905, c. 506, s. 15; 1915, c. 192, s. 15; 1929, c. 199, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added the words "to life" in the third line of this section.

§ 2774. Punishment for allowing unsafe building to stand.—If the owner of any building which has been condemned as unsafe and dangerous to life by any local inspector, after being notified by the inspector in writing of the unsafe and dangerous character of such building, shall permit the same to stand or continue in that condition, he shall forfeit and pay a fine of not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars for each day such building continues after such notice. (Rev., s. 3802; 1905, c. 506, s. 15; 1915, c. 192, s. 19; 1929, c. 199, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added the words "to life" in line four of this section.

§ 2775. Removing notice from condemned buildings.—If any person shall remove any notice which has been affixed to any building by the local inspector of any city or town, which notice shall state the dangerous character of the building, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars for each offense. (Rev., s. 3799; 1905, c. 506, s. 15.)

§ 2776. To what towns applied.—This article shall apply only to incorporated cities and towns of over one thousand inhabitants according to the last United States census, and such other cities and towns in the state as shall by a vote of their board of aldermen or governing body adopt this article. (Rev., s. 3011; 1905, c. 506, s. 35; 1915, c. 192, s. 16.)

Art. 11(A). Recreation Systems and Playgrounds

§ 2776(a). Application of article; "municipality" defined.—This article shall apply to cities, to towns, to townships, to school districts and to counties. The term "municipality" as used in this article includes any city, town, township, school district, and any county. (1923, c. 83, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This article is summarized in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 271.

§ 2776(b). Power to dedicate property already owned; power to acquire property. — The city council or governing body of any city or town, or the county commissioners or governing body of any county, or the board of trustees or governing body of any school district may dedicate and set apart for use as playgrounds, recreation centers and other recreational purposes, any lands or buildings, or both, owned or leased by such municipality and not dedicated or devoted to another and inconsistent public use; and such municipality may, in such manner as may now or hereafter be authorized or provided by law for the acquisition of lands or buildings for public purposes, acquire or lease lands or buildings, or both, for said recreational purposes; or if there be no law authorizing such acquisition or leasing of such lands or buildings, the governing body of any such municipality is empowered to acquire lands or buildings, or both, for such purposes by gift, purchase, condemnation or lease. (1923, c. 83, s. 2.)

§ 2776(c). System of supervised recreation. Appropriation; delegation of powers.—The governing body of any municipality as defined in section 2776(a) shall have the power to provide, establish, maintain and conduct a system of supervised recreation, including playgrounds, recreation centers, and other recreational activities and facilities, and may appropriate funds for the same; and the authority to provide, establish, maintain and conduct such supervised recreation system and facilities may be vested by the said governing body in the school board, park board or recreation commission, as the governing body of such municipality may determine. Any such board, body or commission in which shall be vested by appropriate action of the said governing body the authority aforesaid may for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this article employ play leaders, playground directors, supervisors, recreation superintendents, or such other officers or employees as they deem proper. (1923, c. 83, s. 3.)

§ 2776(d). Powers; components of recreation board; terms of office; compensation; vacancies.—If the governing body of any municipality shall determine that the power to provide, establish, conduct and maintain a supervised recreation system and facilities, and to acquire by gift, purchase, eminent domain or lease, lands and buildings for such purposes, shall be exercised by a recreation board or commission or the school board, or park board, such governing body shall by resolution or ordinance vest such powers in such body, and the body to which such powers and duties shall be thus delegated shall have the same powers which the said governing body would have had to effectually carry out the purposes of this article: Provided, however, that if there is not a recreation board or commission in existence and it is the desire of the governing body to vest the said powers, duties and responsibilities in a recreation board or commission, then the said governing body shall have the power to create such board or commission, which shall consist of five persons, at least two of whom may be members of the school board, to be appointed by the mayor or presiding officer of such governing body, to serve for terms of five years or until their successors are appointed, except that the members of such board or commission first appointed shall be appointed for such terms that the term of one member shall expire annually thereafter. The members of such board or commission shall serve without pay. Vacancies in such board or commission occuring otherwise than by expiration of term shall be filled only for the unexpired term and such appointment shall be filled by the mayor or presiding officer of the governing body. (1923, c. 83, s. 4.)

§ 2776(e). Co-operation.—Any two or more municipalities may jointly provide, establish, maintain and conduct a supervised recreation system and acquire property for and establish and maintain playgrounds, recreation centers, and other recreational facilities and activities. (1923, c. 83, s. 5.)

§ 2776(f). Gifts; deposits of funds; payments from funds.—A recreation board or commission or other authority in which this article vests the power to provide, establish, maintain and conduct such supervised recreation system may accept any grant or devise of real estate or any gift or bequest of money or other personal property or any donation to be applied, principal or income, for either temporary or permanent use, for playgrounds or recreation purposes, but if the acceptance thereof for such purpose will subject the municipality to additional expense for improvement, maintenance, or renewal, the acceptance of any grant or devise of real estate shall be subject to the approval of the governing body of such municipality. Money received for such purpose, unless otherwise provided by the term of the gift or bequest, shall be deposited with the treasurer of the municipality to the account of the recreation board or commission or other body having charge of such work, and the same may be withdrawn and paid out in the same manner as money appropriated for recreation purposes. (1923, c. 83, s. 6.)

§ 2776(g). Bond issues.—The governing body of any municipality may, pursuant to law, provide that the bonds of such municipality may be issued in the manner provided by law for the issuance of bonds for other purposes, for the purpose of acquiring lands or buildings for playgrounds, recreation centers and other recreational purposes, and for the equipment thereof. (1923, c. 83, s. 7.)

§ 2776(h). Petition for establishment of system and levy of tax; election.—Whenever a petition signed by at least twenty-five per cent of the qualified and registered voters in any municipality shall be filed in the office of the clerk of such municipality, requesting the governing body of such municipality to provide, establish, maintain and conduct a supervised recreation system and to levy an annual tax for the conduct and maintenance thereof of not less than.....mills nor more than.....mills on each dollar of assessed valuation of all taxable property within the corporate limits of such municipality, said petition setting forth definitely the maximum and minimum rate of said proposed tax, it shall be the duty of the governing body of such municipality to cause the question of the establishment, maintenance and conduct of such supervised recreation system as in the judgment of the governing body it may be advisable and practicable to provide, conduct and maintain out of the tax funds thus provided, to be submitted to the voters at a special election to be held as now provided by law for special elections for municipal corporations. Except the board ordering said election may fix the date thereof: Provided, the petition shall have been filed at least thirty days prior to the date of such election: Provided further, there shall be no new registration under this article. (1923, c. 83, s. 8.)

§ 2776(i). Resolution for establishment, maintenance, and conduct of system; appointment of recreation commission.—Upon the adoption of the proposition provided for in the preceding section at the election therein provided for the governing body of the municipality shall by appropriate resolution provided for the establishment, maintenance and conduct of such supervised recreation system as they may deem advisable and practicable to provide and maintain out of the tax money thus voted. And the said governing body may designate, by appropriate resolution or ordinance, the body or commission to be vested with the powers, duties and obligations necessary for the establishment, maintenance and conduct of such recreation system as provided in this article. (1923, c. 83, s. 9.)

§ 2776(j). Playground and recreation tax.—The governing body of any municipality adopting the provisions of this article at an election shall thereafter annually levy and collect a tax of not less than the minimum nor more than the maximum amount set out in the said petition for such election, which tax shall be designated as the "playground and recreation tax" and shall be levied and collected in like manner as the general tax of the municipality, but the same shall be in addition to and exclusive of all other taxes such municipality may levy or collect, nor shall such tax be scaled down under any existing law. (1923, c. 83, s. 10.)

§ 2776(k). Advice and counsel of state director of physical education.—The state board of education may, upon request of such municipality, give to any municipality adopting or considering the adoption of, the provisions of this article the benefit of the expert advice and counsel of the state director of physical education provided for in section 5401 and may from time to time make and issue for the benefit of municipalities general suggestions furthering the purposes of this article. (1923, c. 83, s. 11.)

§ 2776(l). Laws not repealed or impaired.—This article does not repeal nor impair any power now vested by law in any municipality or park or recreation board or commission. (1923, c. 83, s. 12.)

Art. 11(B). Market Houses

§ 2776(m). Municipality and counties authorized to act jointly; location of house, etc.—The governing body of any city or town of over five thousand inhabitants and the county commissioners of the county in which such city or town is situated shall have the right, and they are fully authorized and empowered to jointly establish, own, maintain and operate a market house or market houses within the corporate limits of such city or town. For the purposes aforesaid such city or town and county may lease, purchase or otherwise acquire, and own and hold as tenants in common of equal interest, land necessary as a site for such market house or houses, and build and erect thereon such market house or houses, the cost thereof to be borne and paid equally by such city or town and county: Provided, however, that the cost of any such building or buildings shall not be less than two thousand five hundred dollars ($2,500.00) nor more than one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000.00). In connection with and as a part of such market house or houses, the governing body of such city or town and the commissioners of such county may also provide, establish, maintain and operate open-air market places, slaughter places or abattoirs, a cold storage plant and a canning plant for the purpose of preserving and canning such fruits, vegetables and other produce as may be left unsold from day to day or may be in excess of present market requirements, or which may be bought, and to establish, maintain and operate places, scales, and equipment for the weighing, measuring and grading of corn, grain, fodder, vegetables, fruits and other like farm products, and for such purposes to appoint an official weigher, fix his fees and make reasonable rules, regulations and charges covering such services. (1923, c. 158, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This act is summarized in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 272.

§ 2776(n). Control and management; regulations; leasing space; inspection; keeper.—Such market house or houses and appurtenances shall be under the joint control and management of such city or town and such county, and they shall make all necessary rules and regulations covering the maintenance and operation thereof not inconsistent with this article; they may provide for the leasing or letting of stalls or space therein to persons, firms or corporations, and fix the rental thereof, and may prescribe the time, place and manner of sale of fish, meats, fruits, vegetables and other produce therein, and provide for the inspection of all foodstuffs offered for sale therein and the condemnation of such as may be unfit for sale and consumption; they may elect or employ a keeper of such market house or houses and fix his compensation: Provided, the term of office of such keeper shall not exceed two years. (1923, c. 158, s. 2.)

§ 2776(o). Directors; organization of board; powers; accounts.—The entire direct management and operation of such market house or houses established under this article shall be vested in a board of directors to consist of six members, and the mayor of the city and the chairman of the commissioners of the county in which such market house or houses are located shall be ex officio members of said board; or the other four members of said board, two, one of whom shall be a man and one a woman, shall be elected and appointed by the governing body of the city immediately following the time of the regular biennial May election of city officials, by said governing body, and the other two members, one of whom shall be a man and one a woman, shall be elected and appointed by the county commissioners at their regular meeting in May of the same year, and the four members so elected shall serve for terms of two years, and until their successors shall have been elected and qualified: Provided, that the first board of directors may be elected at any time after establishment of such market house or market houses, to serve until the time of the next regular municipal election. The said board shall organize and elect a chairman, secretary and treasurer from among its membership, may adopt by-laws for its own government and exercise the usual powers inherent in such bodies; they shall keep accurate minutes of their transactions and meetings, and keep or have kept accurate accounts of all moneys and property coming into their hands. Said board shall make and promulgate such rules and regulations for the operation, management and use of such market house or houses as it may deem advisable, not inconsistent with this article and not inconsistent with such rules and regulations as may be adopted from time to time by the governing bodies of such city or town and county, and employ such help as may be necessary in the operation thereof. (1923, c. 158, s. 3.)

§ 2776(p). Special tax; specific appropriation. —To assist in and provide funds for the carrying out of the provisions and purposes of this article, the county commissioners of the county and the governing body of the city in which any market house or houses may be established under this article may each levy annually, as a part of their general levy for general purposes and not as a specially authorized tax, a tax of not exceeding two cents on each one hundred dollars ($100.00) value of real and personal property within their respective jurisdictions, which shall be collected as other taxes, kept in a separate fund and be used exclusively for the purposes contemplated and set forth in this article: Provided, however, that nothing in this section contained shall be held or construed to authorize or allow any city, town or county to levy any tax in excess of the amount now or hereafter limited by any general law or special charter. (1923, c. 158, s. 4.)

§ 2776(q). Repeal of inconsistent laws; effect. —This article shall in no way affect any laws now in force in reference to market house or houses now in existence or the establishment or maintenance of market house or houses in towns of less than five thousand inhabitants under the laws now in force. (1923, c. 158, s. 5.)

Art. 11(C). Zoning Regulations

§ 2776(r). Grant of power. — For the purpose of promoting health, safety, morals or the general welfare of the community, the legislative body of cities and incorporated towns is hereby empowered to regulate and restrict the height, number of stories and size of buildings and other structures, the percentage of lot that may be occupied, the size of yards, courts and other open spaces, the density of population, and the location and use of buildings, structures and land for trade, industry, residence or other purposes. Such regulations may provide that a board of adjustment may determine and vary their application in harmony with their general purpose and intent and in accordance with general or specific rules therein contained. (1923, c. 250, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Volume five of the North Carolina Law Review contains a comprehensive article on the validity of zoning statutes generally. This article is considered of such merit as to justify quoting therefrom at length under this section.

Purpose of Article.—This article is comprehensive; it contains a grant of powers not contained in other acts. For the purpose of promoting health, safety, morals, and the general welfare, the General Assembly delegated the powers prescribed to the legislative body of cities and towns. Harden v. Raleigh, 192 N. C. 395, 396, 135 S. E. 151.

Origin and Necessity for Law.—"Building zone laws are of modern origin. They began in this country about twenty-five years ago. Until recent years, urban life was comparatively simple; but with the great increase and concentration of population, problems have developed, and constantly are developing, which require, and will continue to require, additional restrictions in respect of the use and occupation of private lands in urban communities. Regulations, the wisdom, necessity and validity of which, as applied to existing conditions, are so apparent that they are now uniformly sustained, a century ago, or even half a century ago, probably would have been rejected as arbitrary and oppressive. Such regulations are sustained, under the complex conditions of our day, for reasons analogous to those which justify traffic regulations, which, before the advent of automobiles and rapid transit street railways, would have been condemned as fatally arbitrary and unreasonable. And in this there is no inconsistency, for while the meaning of constitutional guaranties never varies, the scope of their application must expand or contract to meet the new and different conditions which are constantly coming within the field of their operation. In a changing world, it is impossible that it should be otherwise. But although a degree of elasticity is thus imparted, not to the meaning, but to the application of constitutional principles, statutes and ordinances, which, after giving due weight to the new conditions, are found clearly not to conform to the Constitution, of course, must fall." Euclid v. Ambler Realty Co., 272 U. S. 365, 386.

"A regulatory zoning ordinance, which would be clearly valid as applied to the great cities, might be clearly invalid as applied to rural communities." Euclid v. Ambler Realty Co., 272 U. S. 365, 387.

Validity.—"This [statute] is a new departure in municipal legislation in this state, and an attempt to put it into operation, according to its expressed intent, may give rise to some interesting questions in municipal control. City planning and zoning regulations are not new, however, but have been tried and discussed in various ways in England and in the United States. In this country, when the question has come before the courts, the decisions have not been uniform." 1 N. C. Law Review, 277.

"Although several North Carolina cities have adopted general zoning ordinances, the Supreme Court has not yet passed on their validity. However, there are a number of cases involving municipal regulations of the use of private property which may give us some light on the larger question. The establishment of fire limits by a city or town is justified under the general welfare clause and is authorized specifically by statute 2746, 2802. Within such fire limits, it shall be unlawful to erect, alter and repair wooden buildings or structures or additions thereto. C. S. 2750, 2802." 5 N. C. Law Review, 241.

In the recent case of Harden v. Raleigh, 192 N. C. 395, 135 S. E. 151, the lower court held that the general zoning ordinance of Raleigh was constitutional. But it was found that the plaintiff's property was located in the neighborhood-business zone and therefore that the plaintiff was entitled to erect a gasoline station on her property. Hence, the appeal by the City of Raleigh from this finding did not raise the question of constitutionality. 5 N. C. Law Review, 243.

In a recent United States case it was said: "This question involves the validity of what is really the crux of the more recent zoning legislation, namely, the creation and maintenance of residential districts, from which business and trade of every sort, including hotels and apartment houses, are excluded. Upon that question this Court has not thus far spoken. The decisions of the state courts are numerous and conflicting; but those which broadly sustain the power greatly outnumber those which deny altogether or narrowly limit it; and it is very apparent that there is a constantly increasing tendency in the direction of the broader view." Euclid v. Ambler Realty Co., 272 U. S. 365, 390.

"As evidence of the decided trend toward the broader view, it is significant that in some instances the state courts in later decisions have reversed their former decisions holding the other way." Euclid v. Ambler Realty Co., 272 U. S. 365, 391.

"The reasons are sufficiently cogent to preclude us from saying, as it must be said before the ordinance can be declared unconstitutional, that such provisions are clearly arbitrary and unreasonable, having no substantial relation to the public health, safety, morals, or general welfare. Cusack Co. v. City of Chicago, supra, pp. 530-531; Jacobson v. Massachusetts, 197 U. S. 11, 30-31, 49 L. Ed. 643, 25 S. Ct. 358." Euclid v. Amber Realty Co., 272 U. S. 365, 395.

"It seems likely that the North Carolina Supreme Court would uphold a general zoning ordinance in line with the more numerous and better reasoned state decisions and the recent holding of the United States Supreme Court. In any case which may arise, the fundamental problem will be whether the particular zoning regulation is a reasonable exercise of the police power." 5 N. C. Law Review, 244.

Same—Under Power to Abate Nuisances.—"Incorporated cities and towns are authorized to pass laws for preventing and abating nuisances. Perhaps this is the earliest form of zoning. Certainly there is a relation between the validity of a zoning ordinance restricting property to certain uses and the power to regulate nuisance. Whether the use of property may be abated as a nuisance or restricted under a zoning regulation is largely determined in view of surrounding conditions." 5 N. C. Law Rev. 241.

"While there is a good deal of talk in the United States Supreme Court decision about nuisances, still it seems clear that there is no desire to limit zoning regulations to the prohibition and regulation of nuisances, unless we are willing to extend our conception of nuisances. The police power is broader, extending to all the great public needs." 5 N. C. Law Rev. 243.

"A nuisance may be merely a right thing in the wrong place—like a pig in the parlor instead of the barnyard. If the validity of the legislative classification for zoning purposes be fairly debatable, the legislative judgment must be allowed to control. Radice v. New York, 264 U. S. 292, 294;" Euclid v. Ambler Realty Co., 272 U. S. 365, 388.

"In the light of these considerations, we are not prepared to say that the end in view was not sufficient to justify the general rule of the ordinance, although some industries of an innocent character might fall within the prescribed class. It can not be said that the ordinance in this respect 'passes the bounds of reason and assumes the character of a merely arbitrary fiat.' Purity Extract, etc., Co. v. Lynch, 226 U. S. 192, 204, 57 L. Ed. 184, 33 S. Ct. 44." Euclid v. Ambler Co., 272 U. S. 365, 389.

Validity of Ordinance.—An ordinance passed under this statute following its provisions and carrying it into effect in the city passing it, prescribing uniform regulations for each zone or district and giving an inspector certain judicial functions with respect to the kind or class of buildings under a board of adjustment and review, and providing for certiorari is a valid exercise of power and not repugnant to the organic law prohibiting discriminations. Harden v. Raleigh, 192 N. C. 395, 135 S. E. 151.

Cited in State v. Roberson, 198 N. C. 70, 150 S. E. 674.

§ 2776(s). Districts. — For any or all said purposes it may divide the municipality into districts of such number, shape and area as may be deemed best suited to carry out the purposes of this article; and within such districts it may regulate and restrict the erection, construction, reconstruction, alteration, repair or use of buildings, structures or land. All such regulations shall be uniform for each class or kind of building throughout each district, but the regulations in one district may differ from those in other districts. Provided, however, that when at any intersection of streets in the corporate limits of any city or town the said legislative body of the said city or town promulgates any certain regulations and/or restrictions for the erection, construction, reconstruction, alteration, repair or use of buildings, structures or land on two or more of said corners at said intersection, it shall be the duty of such legislative body upon written application from the owner of the other corners of said intersection to redistrict, restrict and regulate the remaining said corners of said intersecting streets in the same manner as is prescribed for the erection, construction, reconstruction, alteration, repair or use of buildings, structure or land of the other said corners for a distance not to exceed one hundred and fifty feet from the property line of said intersecting additional corners: Provided, further, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to the cities, towns or municipalities in the following counties: Rowan, Durham, Rockingham, Perquimans, Guilford, Cleveland, Wayne and Forsyth. (1923, c. 250, s. 2; 1931, c. 176, s. 1; 1933, c. 7.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added all of this section beginning with the first proviso.

Public Laws 1933, c. 7, added "Forsyth" to the list of counties in which the section does not apply. For an act relating to zoning for filling stations and garages in Elizabeth city and Pasquotank county, see Public Laws 1933, c. 263.

Nature of Uniformity of Law.—In one part of a district a filling station may be noxious or offensive to the public within the purview of the ordinance, and in another part it may not be; at one place it may menace the public safety and at another it may not. Conditions and probable results must be taken into account. This is the principle on which the board of adjustment has acted; it passes on individual cases, of course; but each case is determined in the contemplation of the statute and the ordinance by a uniform rule. Harden v. Raleigh, 192 N. C. 395, 397, 135 S. E. 151.

Application Where Ordinance Invalid.—Under the provisions of this Statute that the regulations prescribed shall be uniform for each class or kind of building throughout each district, and the regulations of one district may differ from those of the others, and can have no application to the question of the rights of the governmental body of the city refusing to issue a permit for a gasoline filling station, in denial of the right of an applicant for such license under an invalid ordinance. Bizzell v. Board, 192 N. C. 364, 135 S. E. 58.

§ 2776(t). Purposes in view. — Such regulations shall be made in accordance with a comprehensive plan and designed to lessen congestion in the streets; to secure safety from fire, panic and other dangers; to promote health and the general welfare; to provide adequate light and air; to prevent the overcrowding of land; to avoid undue concentration of population; to facilitate the adequate provision of transportation, water, sewerage, schools, parks and other public requirements. Such regulations shall be made with reasonable consideration, among other things, as to the character of the district and its peculiar suitability for particular uses, and with a view to conserving the value of buildings and encouraging the most appropriate use of land throughout such municipality. (1923, c. 250, s. 3.)

§ 2776(u). Method of procedure. — The legislative body of such municipality shall provide for the manner is which such regulations and restrictions and the boundaries of such districts shall be determined, established and enforced, and from time to time amended, supplemented or changed. However, no such regulation, restriction or boundary shall become effective until after a public hearing in relation thereto, at which parties in interest and citizens shall have an opportunity to be heard. A notice of such public hearing shall be given once a week for two successive calendar weeks in a newspaper published in such municipality, or, if there be no newspaper published in the municipality, by posting such notice at four public places in the municipality, said notice to be published the first time or posted not less than fifteen days prior to the date fixed for said hearing. (1923, c. 250, s. 4; 1927, c. 90.)

Editor's Note.—The 1927 amendment revised the last sentence of this section. Prior thereto the sentence read, "at least fifteen days notice of the time and place of such hearing shall be published in an official paper or a paper of general circulation in such municipality."

§ 2776(v). Changes. — Such regulations, restrictions and boundaries may from time to time be amended, supplemented, changed, modified or repealed. In case, however, of a protest against such change signed by the owners of twenty per cent or more either of the area of the lots included in such proposed change or of those immediately adjacent in the rear thereof extending one hundred feet therefrom, or of those directly opposite thereto extending one hundred feet from the street frontage of such opposite lots, such amendment shall not become effective except by the favorable vote of three-fourths of all the members of the legislative body of such municipality. The provisions of the previous section relative to public hearings and official notice shall apply equally to all changes or amendments. (1923, c. 250, s. 5.)

§ 2776(w). Zoning commission. — In order to avail itself of the powers conferred by this article, such legislative body shall appoint a commission to be known as the zoning commission to recommend the boundaries of the various original districts and appropriate regulations to be enforced therein. Such commission shall make a preliminary report and hold public hearings thereon before submitting its final report, and such legislative body shall not hold its public hearings or take action until it has received the final report of such commission. Where a city plan commission already exists, it may be appointed as the zoning commission. (1923, c. 250, s. 6.)

§ 2776(x). Board of adjustment.—Such legislative body may provide for the appointment of a board of adjustment consisting of five members, each to be appointed for three years; provided, that such legislative body in the appointment of the original members of such board, or in the filling of vacancies caused by the expiration of the terms of the existing members of any such board, may make appointments of certain members for less than three years to the end that thereafter the terms of all members shall not expire at the same time. Such board of adjustment shall hear and decide appeals from and review any order, requirement, decision or determination made by an administrative official charged with the enforcement of any ordinance adopted pursuant to this act. It shall also hear and decide all matters referred to it or upon which it is required to pass under any such ordinance. The concurring vote of four members of the board shall be necessary to reverse any order, requirement, decision or determination of any such administrative official, or to decide in favor of the applicant any matter upon which it is required to pass under such ordinance or to effect any variation in such ordinance. Every decision of such board shall, however, be subject to review by proceedings in the nature of certiorari. Such appeal may be taken by any person aggrieved or by an officer, department, board or bureau of the municipality. Such appeal shall be taken within such time as shall be prescribed by the board of adjustment by general rule, by filing with the officer from whom the appeal is taken and with the board of adjustment a notice of appeal, specifying the grounds thereof. The officer from whom the appeal is taken shall forthwith transmit to the board all the papers constituting the record upon which the action appealed from was taken. An appeal stays all proceedings in furtherance of the action appealed from, unless the officer from whom the appeal is taken certifies to the board of adjustment, after the notice of appeal shall have been filed with him, that by reason of facts stated in the certificate a stay would, in his opinion, cause imminent peril to life or property, in which case proceedings shall not be stayed otherwise than by a restraining order, which may be granted by the board of adjustment or by a court of record on application, on notice to the officer from whom the appeal is taken and on due cause shown. The board of adjustment shall fix a reasonable time for the hearing of the appeal and give due notice thereof to the parties, and decide the same within a reasonable time. Upon the hearing, any party may appear in person or by agent or by attorney. The board of adjustment may reverse or affirm, wholly or partly or may modify the order, requirement, decision or determination appealed from, and shall make such order, requirement, decision or determination as in its opinion ought to be made in the premises, and to that end shall have all the powers of the officer from whom the appeal is taken. Where there are practical difficulties or unnecessary hardships in the way of carrying out the strict letter of such ordinance, the board of adjustment shall have the power, in passing upon appeals, to vary or modify any of the regulations or provisions of such ordinance relating to the use, construction or alteration of buildings or structures or the use of land, so that the spirit of the ordinance shall be observed, public safety and welfare secured and substantial justice done. (1923, c. 250, s. 7; 1929, c. 94, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The provisions of this section relating to the stay of proceedings thereon seem to be patterned after the general law of appeals. See sec. 655 where many constructions of the language here used will be found in the annotations.

The Act of 1929 added the proviso in the first sentence of this section.

Nature of Power.—The board of adjustment is clothed, if not with judicial, at least with quasi-judicial power, it being its duty to investigate facts and from its investigation to draw conclusions as a basis of official action and to exercise discretion of a judicial nature. These are not mere ministerial duties. Harden v. Raleigh, 192 N. C. 395, 397, 135 S. E. 151.

Within the class of quasi-judicial acts fall the board's conclusions as to whether the proposed building would be noxious or offensive or detrimental to the public safety or welfare by reason of its situation or the surrounding conditions; also in this class is the legal discretion to be exercised by the board upon the conclusions reached. Harden v. Raleigh, 192 N. C. 395, 397, 135 S. E. 151.

Same—Extent to Which Reviewable.—Quasi-judicial functions, when exercised, not arbitrarily, but in subordination to a uniform rule prescribed by statute ordinarily are not subject to judicial control. It is only in extreme cases, those which are arbitrary, oppressive, or attended with manifest abuse, that the courts will interfere. In Rosenthal v. Goldsboro, 149 N. C. 128, 62 S. E. 905, it is said: "It may now be considered as established with us, that our courts will always be most reluctant to interfere with these municipal governments in the exercise of discretionary powers, conferred upon them for the public weal, and will never do so unless their action should be so clearly unreasonable as to amount to an oppressive and manifest abuse of their discretion. This position is, we think, supported by the better reason, and is in accord with the decided weight of authority." Harden v. Raleigh, 192 N. C. 395, 397, 135 S. E. 151.

Cited in State v. Roberson, 198 N. C. 70, 150 S. E. 674.

§ 2776(y). Remedies. — In case any building or structure is erected, constructed, reconstructed, altered, repaired, converted, or maintained, or any building, structure or land is used in violation of this article or of any ordinance or other regulation made under authority conferred thereby, the proper local authorities of the municipality, in addition to other remedies, may institute any appropriate action or proceedings to prevent such unlawful erection, construction, reconstruction, alteration, repair, conversion, maintenance or use, to restrain, correct or abate such violation, to prevent the occupancy of said building, structure or land, or to prevent any illegal act, conduct, business or use in or about such premises. (1923, c. 250, s. 8.)

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 235.

§ 2776(z). Conflict with other laws. —Wherever the regulations made under authority of this article require a greater width or size of yards or courts, or require a lower height of building or less number of stories, or require a greater percentage of lot to be left unoccupied, or impose other higher standards than are required in any other statute or local ordinance or regulation, the provisions of the regulations made under authority of this act shall govern. Wherever the provisions of any other statute or local ordinance or regulation require a greater width or size of yards or courts, or require a lower height of building or a less number of stories, or require a greater percentage of lot to be left unoccupied, or impose other high standards than are required by the regulations made under authority of this article, the provisions of such statute or local ordinance or regulation shall govern. (1923, c. 250, s. 9.)

§ 2776(aa). Other statutes not repealed. — This article shall not have the effect of repealing any zoning act or city planning act, local or general, now in force, except as to such provisions thereof as are repugnant to or inconsistent herewith; but it shall be construed to be in enlargement of the duties, powers and authority contained in such statutes and all other laws authorizing the appointment and proper functioning of city planning commissions or zoning commissions by any city or town in the state of North Carolina. (1923, c. 250, s. 11.)

SUBCHAPTER II. MUNICIPAL CORPORATION ACT OF 1917.

Art. 12. Operation of Act

§ 2777. Explanation of terms. — The following words and phrases as used in this act shall, unless a contrary intention clearly appears, have the following meanings, respectively: The phrase "regular municipal election" shall mean the biennial election of municipal officers for which provision is made in this act. The phrase "qualified voter" shall mean any registered qualified voter. The words "office" and "officers," when used without further qualification or description, shall mean any person or persons holding any office in the city or in charge of any department or division of the city. The said words when used in contrast with a board or members of a board, or with division heads, shall mean any of the persons in sole charge of a department of the city. The word "ordinance" shall mean an order of the governing body entitled "ordinance," and designed for the regulation of any matter within the jurisdiction of the governing body as laid down in this act. The word "city" shall mean any city, town, or incorporated village. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 15, s. 1.)

Cited by Clark, C. J. dissenting in Kornegay v. Goldsboro, 180 N. C. 441, 456, 105 S. E. 187.

§ 2778. Effect upon prior laws. — Nothing in this act shall operate to repeal any local or special act of the general assembly of North Carolina relating to cities, towns, and incorporated villages, but all such acts shall continue in full force and effect and in concurrence herewith, unless hereafter repealed or amended in manner provided for in this act. The provisions of this act shall not be construed to repeal the provisions as to cities and towns contained in subchapter I of this chapter, except in case they are inconsistent with this act. The provisions of this act, so far as they are the same as those of existing general laws, are intended as a continuation of said laws and not as new enactments, and so far as they give general powers to cities are supplementary to and additional to the special charters of cities which have not such powers, unless inconsistent with or repugnant thereto, and a repetition of such powers if already possessed by cities by virtue of special charters. The provisions of this act shall not affect any act heretofore done, liability incurred, or right accrued or vested, or affect any suit or prosecution now pending or to be instituted to enforce any right or penalty or punish any offense. Subject to the foregoing provisions hereof, all laws or parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby to the extent of such conflict repealed. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 1, s. 1.)

Effect upon Existing Charters.—In case of a conflict between this act and a city charter the charter must prevail as this article is intended only to add to already existing powers, and not to repeal them. Clinton v. Johnson, 174 N. C. 286, 93 S. E. 776; Kendall v. Stafford, 178 N. C. 461, 101 S. E. 15.

Art. 13. Organization under Act

§ 2779. Municipal board of control; changing name of municipality. — The municipal board of control shall be composed of the secretary of state, the attorney general, and the public utilities commissioner. The attorney general shall be chairman and the secretary of state shall be secretary of such board. The said municipal board of control shall have the power and privilege of changing the name of any said town or municipal corporation within the bounds of the State of North Carolina; and the procedure for changing the name of any municipal corporation shall be the same as prescribed by sections two thousand seven hundred and eighty-one and two thousand seven hundred and eighty-two of Consolidated Statutes. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 2, s. 4; 1935, c. 440.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 substituted the "public utilities commissioner" for the "chairman of the corporation commission." It also added the last sentence relative to changing the name of a municipality.

§ 2780. Number of persons and area included. —Any number of persons, not less than fifty, at least twenty-five of whom shall be freeholders or homesteaders, and twenty-five qualified voters living in the area proposed to be incorporated, which area shall have an assessed valuation of real property of at least twenty-five thousand dollars according to the last preceding assessment for taxes, and shall not be a part of the area included in the limits of any city, town, or incorporated village already or hereafter existing, may be organized into a town upon compliance with the method herein set forth. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 2, s. 1.)

An act of the legislature expressly validating and confirming a municipality as established cures all objections under this section. Starmount Co. v. Ohio Sav. Bank, etc., Co., 55 F. (2d) 649.

§ 2781. Petition filed. — 1. What petition must show. A petition signed by a majority of the resident qualified electors and a majority of the resident freeholders or homesteaders of the territory proposed to be so organized shall be presented to the secretary of state of North Carolina, accurately describing such territory, with map attached, containing the names of all qualified voters therein, the assessed valuation of such territory, and the proposed name of the new town. The petition shall further be signed by at least twenty-five resident freeholders or homesteaders of the age of twenty-one years or over, at least twenty of whom are qualified voters; and further, the petition shall show the valuation of the real property of the proposed town to be at least twenty-five thousand dollars, according to the last preceding tax assessment; and the petition shall be verified by at least three of the signers who are qualified voters.

2. Order and notice for hearing. The secretary of state shall thereupon make an order prescribing the time and place for the hearing of said petition before the municipal board of control. At least thirty days before the hearing, notice of such hearing shall be published once a week for four weeks in a newspaper published in the county where such territory is situate, designated as most likely to give notice to the people of the territory proposed to be so organized or incorporated into a town; or, if no newspaper is so published, then in some newspaper of general circulation in such proposed city, town, or incorporated village; and such notice shall also be posted at the county courthouse door of such county for a like period. Such notice shall be signed by at least three of the freeholders signing the petition for the organization of the town. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 2, s. 2.)

§ 2782. Hearing of petition and order made:

1. Manner of hearing. Any qualified voter or taxpayer of such territory proposed to be incorporated into a town may appear at the hearing of such petition, and the matter shall be tried as an issue of fact by the municipal board of control, and no formal answer to the petition need be filed. The board may adjourn the hearing from time to time, in its discretion.

2. Order creating corporation. The municipal board of control shall file its findings of fact at the close of such hearing, and if it shall appear that the allegations of the petition are true, and that all the requirements in this article have been substantially complied with, and that the organization of such city, town, or incorporated village will better subserve the interests of said persons and the public, the board shall enter an order creating such territory into a town, giving it the name proposed in the petition.

3. Election of officers provided for. The board of control shall provide for the place of holding the first election for mayor and commissioners; and shall designate how many commissioners shall serve, as set forth in subchapter I of this chapter, naming the number of commissioners, not less than three nor more than seven. The election of mayor and commissioners shall be under the same laws as now govern the election of mayor and commissioners in subchapter I of this chapter.

4. Filing papers; fees. All the papers in reference to the organization of any town under this article shall be filed and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, and certified copies thereof shall be filed and recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the town organized is situated. The fees shall be the same as are now provided for the organization of private corporations and shall be paid out of the treasury of the city, town, or incorporated village.

5. When organization complete. Upon the approval of the board of control and the recording of the papers in the offices above mentioned, the said town shall become a municipal corporation with all the powers and subject to all the laws governing towns as set forth in subchapter I of this chapter and as in this act set forth. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 2, s. 3.)

Art. 14. Power Vested in Utilities Commission

§ 2783. To fix rates for public utilities furnished. —The corporation commission shall have full power and authority to fix and establish any and all rates which any public-service or quasi public-service corporation other than railroads using steam as a motive power shall charge or exact from any person, firm or corporation in any city for the services rendered or commodity furnished. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 3, s. 1.)

See 12 N. C. Law Rev., 293.

Editor's Note.—The authority conferred by this article is now vested in the utilities commissioner. See sec. 1112(b). And see editor's notes to sec. 1035 and 1112(1).

City's Charter Subject to State Powers.—"The power conferred by its charter upon the city of Henderson 'to provide water and lights and to contract for same, provide for cleaning and repairing the streets, regulate the market, take proper means to prevent and extinguish fires,' is subject to the police power of the State, with respect to rates to be charged under such contracts as the city may make under its charter by a public-service corporation." Corporation Comm. v. Henderson Water Co., 190 N. C. 70, 73, 128 S. E. 465.

Contract Rate May Be Changed.—Although the rate to be charged is fixed by contract this may be changed by the Commission if it appears that the rate contracted for is too low, and the one fixed is just. The burden of proof is on the one alleging that the rate fixed by the Commissioners is unreasonable. Corporation Comm. v. Henderson Water Co., 190 N. C. 70, 128 S. E. 465.

Same—Rights of Party Relieved.—A public service corporation, having a contract with a city, applying to the corporation commission for the increase of the rate contracted for with the city, and obtaining partial relief will not be granted an injunction by the Federal Court against the Commission on the grounds that the rate is confiscatory for such increase as is allowed by the Commission is that much more than could have been received under the contract with the city had the Commission refused to act. Henderson Water Co. v. Corporation Com's, 269 U. S. 278, 46 Sup. Ct. 112.

§ 2784. Manner of enforcing regulations.—The North Carolina corporation commission shall have the power to require such improvements and extensions to the service of public service corporations as it may deem necessary after the investigation of any complaint of any person, corporation, or municipality as to the inadequacy of such service. Upon application being made, the corporation commission shall proceed to hear, pass on, and determine, in the manner prescribed by law, a just or reasonable rate or charge for the service or other commodity rendered or furnished; the hearing before the corporation commission shall be governed by the law as to the commission relating to the fixing of rates and rules and orders of the commission as to the enforcement thereof by the commission. The corporation commission shall have the same power and authority in hearing and passing on any matter or case under this act, enforcing or fixing of rates, supervising and regulating said corporation or otherwise under this act, as they now have under the chapter entitled Corporation Commission, in addition to such power and authority as they now have under the general law. The failure or refusal to conform to or obey any decision, rule, regulation, or order made in such cases by the corporation commission shall subject said public-utility corporation or quasi public-utility corporation refusing or failing to comply herewith to the penalties provided in chapter, Corporation Commission, article 7. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 3, s. 2.)

See note under sec. 2783.

§ 2785. Not to affect existing power.—Nothing contained in this article shall be construed to deprive the corporation commission of the authority and power which it now has under the laws of North Carolina to supervise and regulate and fix the rates for public-utility corporations or quasi public-utility corporations operating or doing business in such city. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 3, s. 3.)

See note under sec. 2783.

Art. 15. Powers of Municipal Corporations

Part 1. General Powers Enumerated

§ 2786. Powers applicable to all cities and towns.—All the provisions of this article, conferring powers upon cities and towns, shall apply to all cities and towns, whether they have adopted a plan of government under this act or not. And the powers herein granted are in addition to and not in substitution for existing powers of cities and towns. (1919, c. 296.)

§ 2787. Corporate powers. — In addition to and coordinate with the power granted to cities in subchapter I of this chapter, and any acts affecting such cities, all cities shall have the following powers:

1. To acquire property in fee simple or a lesser interest or estate therein by purchase, gift, devise, bequest, appropriation, lease, or lease with privilege to purchase.

2. To sell, lease, hold, manage, and control such property and make all rules and regulations by ordinance or resolution which may be required to carry out fully the provisions of any conveyance, deed, or will in relation to any gift or bequest, or the provisions of any lease by which the city may acquire property.

3. To purchase, conduct, own, lease, and acquire public utilities.

4. To appropriate the money of the city for all lawful purposes.

5. To create, provide for, construct, regulate, and maintain all things in the nature of public works, buildings, and improvements.

6. To supervise, regulate, or suppress, in the interest of public morals, public recreations, amusements and entertainments, and to define, prohibit, abate, or suppress all things detrimental to the health, morals, comfort, safety, convenience, and welfare of the people, and all nuisances and causes thereof.

7. To pass such ordinances as are expedient for maintaining and promoting the peace, good government, and welfare of the city, and the morals and happiness of its citizens, and for the performance of all municipal functions.

8. To provide for the destruction of noxious weeds, and for payment of the expense thereof by assessment or otherwise.

9. To regulate the erection of fences, billboards, signs, and other structures, and provide for the removal or repair of insecure billboards, signs, and other structures.

10. To make and enforce local police, sanitary, and other regulations.

11. To open new streets, change, widen, extend, and close any street or alley that is now or may hereafter be opened, to purchase any land that may be necessary for the closing of such street or alley, and adopt such ordinances for the regulation and use of the streets, squares, and parks, and other public property belonging to the city, as it may deem best for the public welfare of the citizens of the city.

12. To acquire, lay out, establish, and regulate parks within or without the corporate limits of the city for the use of the inhabitants of the same.

13. To erect, repair, and alter all public buildings.

14. To regulate, restrain, and prohibit the running or going at large of horses, mules, cattle, sheep, swine, goats, chickens, and all other animals and fowl of whatsoever description, and to authorize the distraining and impounding and sale of the same for the costs of the proceedings and the penalty incurred and to order their destruction when they cannot be sold, and to impose penalties on the owners or keepers thereof for the violation of any ordinance or regulation of said governing body, and to prevent, regulate, and control the driving of cattle, horses, and all other animals into or through the streets of the city.

15. To regulate and control plumbers and plumbing work, and to enforce efficiency in the same by examination of such plumbers and inspection of such plumbing work.

16. To regulate, control, and prohibit the keeping and management of houses or any building for the storage of gunpowder and other combustible, explosive, or dangerous materials within the city, and to regulate the keeping and conveying of the same, and to authorize and regulate the laying of pipes and the location and construction of houses, tanks, reservoirs, and pumping stations for the storage of oil and gas.

17. To regulate, control, restrict, and prohibit the use and explosion of dynamite, firecrackers, or other explosives or fireworks of any and every kind, whether included in the above enumeration or not, and the sale of same, and all noises, amusements, or other practices or performances tending to annoy or frighten persons or teams, and the collection of persons on the streets or sidewalks or other public places in the city, whether for purposes of amusement, business, curiosity, or otherwise.

18. To direct, control, and prohibit the laying of railroad and street railway tracks, turnouts, and switches in the streets, avenues, and alleys of the city unless the same shall have been authorized by ordinance, and to require that all railroads, street railways, turnouts and switches shall be so constructed as not to interfere with the drainage of the city and with the ordinary travel and use of the streets, avenues, and alleys in the city, and to construct and keep in repair suitable crossings at the intersection of streets, avenues, and alleys and ditches, sewer and culverts, where the governing body shall deem it necessary, and to direct the use and regulate the speed of locomotive engines, trains, and cars within the city.

19. To make all suitable and proper regulations in regard to the use of the streets for street cars, and to regulate the speed, running, and operation of the same so as to prevent injury or inconvenience to the public.

20. To make such rules and regulations in relation to butchers as may be necessary and proper; to establish and erect market houses, and designate, control, and regulate market places and privileges.

21. To prohibit and punish the abuse of animals.

22. To acquire, establish, and maintain cemeteries and to regulate the burial of the dead and the registration of deaths, marriages, and births.

23. To prohibit prize-fighting, cock and dog fighting.

24. To regulate, restrict, and prohibit theaters, carnivals, circuses, shows, parades, exhibitions of showmen, and shows of any kind, and the exhibition of natural or artificial curiosities, caravans, menageries, musical and hypnotic exhibitions and performances.

25. To create and administer a special fund for the relief of indigent and helpless members of the police and fire departments who have become superannuated, disabled, or injured in such service, and receive donations and bequests in aid of such fund and provide for its permanence and increase, and to prescribe and regulate the conditions under which, and the extent to which, the same shall be used for the purpose of such relief. Also, to insure policemen, firemen, or any class of city employees against death or disability, or both, during the terms of their employment under forms of insurance known as group insurance; the amount of benefit on the life of any one person not to exceed the sum of two thousand dollars, and premiums on such insurance to be payable out of the current funds of the municipality.

26. To prevent and abate nuisances, whether on public or private property.

27. To regulate and prohibit the carrying on of any business which may be dangerous or detrimental to health.

28. To condemn and remove any and all buildings in the city limits, or cause them to be removed, at the expense of the owner or owners, when dangerous to life, health, or other property, under such just rules and regulations as it may by ordinance establish; and likewise to suppress any and all other nuisances maintained in the city.

29. To provide for all inspections which may be expedient, proper, or necessary, for the welfare, safety, and health of the city and its citizens, and regulate the fees for such inspection.

30. To require any or all articles of commerce or traffic to be gauged. inspected, measured, weighed, or metered, and to require every merchant, retail trader or dealer in merchandise of property of any description which is sold by weight or measure to have such weights and measures sealed and to be subject to inspection.

31. To provide for the regulation, diversion, and limitation of pedestrains and vehicular traffic upon public streets, highways, and sidewalks of the city.

32. To require the examination of all drivers of motor vehicles upon the streets and highways of the city, to prescribe fees for such examinations, and to prevent the use of such vehicles by all persons who shall not satisfactorily pass such examination.

33. To regulate the emission of smoke within the city.

34. To license, prohibit, and regulate pool and billiard rooms and dance halls, and in the interest of public morals provide for the revocation of such licenses.

35. To regulate and control electricans and electrical work and to enforce efficiency in the same by examination of such electricans and inspection of such electrical work.

36. To license and regulate all vehicles operated for hire in the city. To require that the operator of every jitney bus or taxicab and of every other motor vehicle, (other than jitney buses and taxicabs, operated under the jurisdiction of the utilities commission of North Carolina), engaged in the business of transporting passengers for hire over the public streets of such city or town shall furnish and keep in effect for each such jitney bus, taxicab or other such motor vehicle so operated a policy of insurance or surety bond with sureties whose solvency shall at all times be subject to the approval of the governing body of such city or town, said policy of insurance or surety bond to be in such amount as may be fixed by the governing body of such city or town, not to exceed the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00), and to be conditioned on such operator responding in damages for any liability incurred on account of any injury to persons or damage to property resulting from the operation of any such jitney bus, taxicab or other such motor vehicle, and to be filed with the governing body of such city or town as a condition precedent to the operation of any such jitney bus, taxicab or other such motor vehicle over the streets of such city or town.

37. To acquire property in fee simple and to use the lands now owned in fee simple or otherwise for the purpose of establishing and maintaining new cemeteries. To abandon any cemetery which has not been used for interment purposes within ten years, and to remove or consolidate such cemetery, so abandoned, and the monuments, tombstones, fenses, walls and enclosures, and the contents of any graves therein, or any part of either, at its own expense, to or with any established cemetery maintained for interment purposes; to take possession of, convey or utilize the lands in such abandoned cemetery, or any part thereof, as may best subserve the interests of the city or town.

38. In cities or towns having a population of not less than twenty thousand inhabitants, the governing bodies may, in their discretion, create and establish a civil service with reference to any and all of the employees of such municipalities, and prescribe rules and regulations for the conduct and government of such civil service.

39. Every incorporated city or town in the state, in addition to the other powers granted unto it by this chapter, shall have the following enumerated powers:

Whenever there shall be in any incorporated city or town a lot or lots owned by one or more persons, upon which water shall collect, either by falling upon the said lot or lots or collected thereon by drainage or otherwise from the adjacent lots, no edaquate drainage from which is provided by natural means, the governing body of any such city or town, upon being advised by the health officer of the said city or town, or the health officer of the county in which the town is located, that the conditions so existing are, or are liable to become, a nuisance, and to that end may proceed to abate in the following manner:

Such city or town shall cause a survey to be made by a competent engineer to ascertain the means and methods and costs of providing an adequate drainage from such lot or lots and such engineer shall prepare plans and specifications to provide such drainage, with the estimated cost thereof and in making such survey he shall include therein the area of adjoining and adjacent lots which will be drained by such system or drainage. He shall also include in such survey the area of all adjoining and adjacent lots from which water flows and is gathered upon the lot or lots which are to be drained. The city or town shall thereupon cause notice to be published once in a newspaper published in the municipality, or if no newspaper is published in the municipality, then in a newspaper published in the county and of general circulation in the municipality, or if no newspaper is published in the county, said notice shall be posted in three public places in the municipality, which notice shall state in general and briefly the fact that a nuisance has been created and so declared, and that it is the purpose of the city or town to abate the same by causing a system of drainage to be put in, and that the cost thereof is to be paid or assessed in one of the ways hereinafter provided, that the report of the engineer is on file and subject to inspection, and that on a date to be named in the notice a hearing will be had before the board as to whether the plan shall be adopted and the assessment made, at which hearing the persons affected may be present and present such objections as they may have to the adoption of the report of the engineer and the doing of the work. Said notice shall also contain the names of the owners of the property affected in so far as the same can be ascertained on reasonable inquiry. Said notice shall be published or posted at least ten days before the hearing.

At the hearing provided for, if the governing body of the city or town shall determine that the work shall be done, and that the plans and specifications of the engineer are proper, it may adopt the said plans and specifications, and have the work done, either by letting a contract therefor or otherwise, and in the event a contract is let, shall be advertised as is provided for in either cases of municipal work.

At the hearing above provided for, the governing body shall also determine the manner in which the cost of said work shall be paid or assessed, which shall be in either of the following ways: (a) Each and every lot affected by the plan or system shall be assessed with the cost thereof upon the following basis: that is to say, such proportion of the total cost of the survey and construction as the area of said lot bears to the total area as shown by the plans of the engineer when adopted by the governing body, which sum shall be due in such annual installments as the governing body may determine, which shall not exceed five in number, and such installments shall bear interest; (b) The cost of the survey and the construction of the main drains shall be borne by the municipality, and the cost of the construction of tributary drains assessed against the lots on which such tributary drains are constructed so that each lot shall bear the expense of tributary drains constructed on it. Said assessments shall be due in such annual installments as the governing body may determine, which shall not exceed five in number, and such installments shall bear interest.

The area which shall be included within and drained by the plans and specifications as herein provided for is hereby declared to be a "special improvement district."

For the purpose of enabling the governing body of the city or town to obtain money with which to pay for the improvement herein authorized to be made, such governing body is hereby authorized and empowered to execute the notes of such city or town, payable in installments as are the assessments, and the assessments made shall be pledged for the payment of the said notes; such notes shall bear a rate of interest not exceeding six per cent and may be sold publicly or privately at not less than par and accrued interest, and shall be due in not more than five years, and at such time and in such installments as the assessments made shall be due: Provided, the due date of the notes may be made sixty days after the due date of any of the assessments. Provided further, that if the cost of drainage is to be paid as provided in subdivision (b) of the second preceding paragraph, the governing body is authorized and directed to levy annually a tax which, with the assessments, will be sufficient to pay the principal and interest of said notes or installments as the same become due.

The full faith and credit of such city and town shall be pledged for the payment of the said notes and interest when due.

The powers herein contained and hereby conferred are additional to any other powers conferred by any other law or laws, and are not affected by any limitations imposed by any other law.

The assessments, when made, shall be a lien upon the property benefited, and shall be collectible by the same means and methods as are other assessments for local or special improvements as is provided for in article nine of this chapter.

All acts or proceedings done or taken under this subdivision of this section prior to February 17, 1923, shall be valid. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 5, s. 1; 1919, cc. 136, 237; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 21; 1923, c. 102; 1925, c. 200; 1935, c. 279, s. 1.)

As to powers to pass ordinances prior to this section, see section 2623, sec. 2673 et seq.

See annotations to § 2675.

Editor's Note.—By Public Laws, Ex. Sess. 1921, subsection 39 was added. By the amendment of 1923 notice to owners as provided was changed from notice by service to notice by publication; an alternative was given as to how charges were to be assessed, the original act of 1921 providing only for the proportionate assessment on the total cost. The alternative was for the city to pay for the main drain if so determined by its governing body. Provision was made for a tax assessment in case the city bore the expense of the main drain, see 1 N. C. Law Rev. 274.

By Public Laws of 1925 subsection 11 was amended so as to apply to alleys, and provision was also made for purchase of land necessary for closing the streets or alleys.

Chapter 20 amends Public Laws, 1923, subs. 25, by adding thereto authority in the municipality to take out group insurance for policemen, firemen, or any class of city employees, such insurance to be either against death or disability or both, and the amount for the life of any one person not to exceed $2000. See 1 N. C. Law Rev. 277.

The amendment of 1935 adds all of subsection 36 except the first sentence thereof.

Sale of Coco-Cola on Sunday.—An ordinance regulating the sale of merchandise, drinks, etc., on Sunday is a valid exercise of the police powers of an incorporated city or town; and while the service of meals within the town at restaurants, etc., is a necessity, permitting the sale of coffee, tea, etc., the sale of coco-cola as a part of the meals is not included, and a sale thereof as a part of the meal may be prohibited by ordinance. Secs. 2787 (6), (10), (27). State v. Weddington, 188 N. C. 643, 125 S. E. 257.

Regulation of Streets.—A city ordinance in pursuance of subsec. 11 of this section requiring a license to be issued by the municipal authorities to beg upon the city streets or to solicit contributions for charitable or religious purposes, in accordance with whether the person or purpose is ascertained by such authorities as worthy or whether the moneys solicited will be properly applied, is a valid and undiscriminating exercise of a police power, and not unlawful as an interference with the religious liberties of our people, or an obstruction to the lawful pursuit of their business. State v. Hundley, 195 N. C. 377, 142 S. E. 330.

An abutting owner may not recover from a city damages resulting to his property by reason of the fact that the abutting sidewalk has been narrowed in order to widen the street under orders of the city commissioners, the width of the street and sidewalk being within the sound discretion of the commissioners. See also §§ 2703, 2787. Ham v. Durham, 205 N. C. 107, 170 S. E. 137.

Regulation of Parking of Vehicles. — A city ordinance prohibiting parking of automobiles on one side of a street on certain blocks where, because of the narrowness of the street, there is insufficient room for cars to pass between parked cars and a street-car track in the street, is valid in the light of this section, subsec. (17), (31). State v. Carter, 205 N. C. 761, 172 S. E. 415.

Vehicles for Hire.—The express authority to regulate, as provided by subsec. 36 of this section, extends to the physical operation of vehicles rather than to the imposition of conditions precedent to their operation hitherto unknown in the general legislation of the State. See § 2673. State v. Gulledge, 208 N. C. 204, 179 S. E. 883.

Regulation of Dance Halls. — Cities have power, among other things, to license, prohibit, and regulate dance halls, by express provisions of this section, and in the interest of public morals provide for the revocation of such licenses, as valid exercise of the State's inherent police power, made applicable to cities and towns generally. See sec. 2786.

An ordinance requiring the consent of the board of directors of the city before keeping a dance hall therein is not objectionable as an arbitrary exercise of power, or as being at the pleasure of the board, but comes within its limited legal discretion, which the courts will not permit it to abuse, or will disturb in the absence of its abusive use. State v. Vanhook, 182 N. C. 831, 109 S. E. 65.

Power to Acquire Parks.—Under the provision of our general statutes, a city or town is given authority to acquire and maintain parks for the use of its citizens beyond its corporate limits, and to provide suitable streets or ways of access thereto for the purpose. Berry v. Durham, 186 N. C. 421, 119 S. E. 748.

Power to Regulate Markets.—A city in the exercise of statutory authority may enact a valid penal ordinance as affecting the health of its citizens, and under its police power, require that meats, fish, oysters and perishable matter be sold at a sanitary market building containing refrigeration and other sanitary methods, under proper inspection, where adequate accommodation may be obtained at a reasonable rental, not for profit, and may exclude such business within a prescribed territory therefrom, the location of the market-house being reasonably suitable to the business or trades specified. Angelo v. Winston-Salem, 193 N. C. 207, 136 S. E. 489.

A city has authority under this section to lease an auditorium in its municipal building which was equipped at the time the building was erected with a ticket booth and a moving picture projecting equipment, it appearing that the lease does not involve property held in trust for the use of the city, or property devoted to governmental purposes, although administrative offices of the city are located elsewhere in the building. Cline v. Hickory, 207 N. C. 125, 176 S. E. 250.

License Tax on Automobiles.—Section 2612(a) provides for a city automobile license of one dollar, and a license for more than that amount is invalid, if levied on ownership alone, for this section is not contrary to that one and they must be construed together. State v. Jones, 191 N. C. 371, 131 S. E. 734.

Forbidding Lumber Yards in Certain Sections.—In Turner v. New Bern, 187 N. C. 541, 122 S. E. 469, the principle was laid down: "Under the provision of this section and under the provision of its charter authorizing a city to pass needful ordinances for its government not inconsistent with the law to secure the health, quiet, safety—general welfare clause—within its limits, etc., it is within the valid discretionary exercise of the police powers of the municipality to pass an ordinance forbidding the erection of lumber yards within a long established, exclusively residential portion, and when this discretionary power has not been abused the courts will not interfere." Angelo v. Winston-Salem, 193 N. C. 207, 215, 136 S. E. 489.

Ordinances against Keeping Cows.—An ordinance forbidding the keeping of cows within a certain portion of the city is valid. State v. Stowe, 190 N. C. 79, 128 S. E. 481.

Clarkson, J. dissented, saying: "But section two of the city ordinance prohibits absolutely the keeping of a cow in the zigzag district. There is no authority in the Constitution or law of this land, in my opinion, for such unreasonable, arbitrary, discriminatory, and autocratic power, and the ordinance, section 2, is unconstitutional and void. In this age drifting towards 'nervous particularity' we are forgetting the fundamental rights of a citizen. The evidence in the record is that one man drew the ordinance. All the evidence is that defendant kept his place clean. His neighbors testified that he kept the stables clean, and there was no complaint; nothing offensive. The health officer had no complaint; nothing offensive."

Recovery of Excess Tax.—In order to recover money paid a municipality as a license tax in excess of the amount the town was lawfully authorized to collect, and in the absence of statutory regulations, or under the common law, it is necessary that the one so paying should have done so under protest at the time or under circumstances of duress or such as would endanger his person or property; and where the payment has been voluntarily made, the action may not be successfully maintained. Blackwell v. Gastonia, 181 N. C. 378, 107 S. E. 218.

Disposition of Garbage.—An incinerator operated by a city for the burning of its garbage comes within the authority conferred upon it by statute and, its operation being a purely governmental function, exercised as a local agency of State government, the city is not liable for an injury caused by defect therein to an employee, in the absence of statutory provision to the contrary. Scales v. Winston-Salem, 189 N. C. 469, 127 S. E. 543.

Cited in regard to city's control over grade crossings in 2 N. C. Law Rev. 102. Cited also in Mewborn v. Kinston, 199 N. C. 72, 81, 154 S. E. 76.

§ 2788. Salary of mayor and other officers. — The governing body of any city may by ordinance fix the salary of the mayor of such city or heads of departments or other officers. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 5, s. 6.)

§ 2789. Enumeration of powers not exclusive.— The enumeration of particular powers by this act shall not be held or deemed to be exclusive; but in addition to the powers enumerated or implied therein, or appropriate to the exercise thereof, the city shall have and may exercise all other powers which under the constitution and laws of North Carolina now are or hereafter may be granted to cities. Powers proper to be exercised, and not specially enumerated herein, shall be exercised and enforced in the manner prescribed by this act; or when not prescribed herein, in such manner as shall be provided by ordinance or resolution of the governing body. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 5, s. 3.)

§ 2790. Police power extended to outside territory.—All ordinances, rules, and regulations of the city now in force, or that may hereafter be enacted by the governing body in the exercise of the police powers given to it for sanitary purposes, or for the protection of the property of the city, unless otherwise provided by the governing body, shall, in addition to applying to the territory within the city limits, apply with equal force to the territory outside of the city limits within one mile in all directions of same, and to the rights of way of all water, sewer, and electric light lines of the city without the corporate limits, and to the rights of way without the city limits, of any street railway company, or extention thereof, operating under a franchise granted by the city, and upon all property and rights of way of the city outside the corporate limits and the above mentioned territorial limits, wheresoever the same may be located. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 5, s. 2.)

Part 2. Power to Acquire Property

§ 2791. Acquisition by purchase. — When in the opinion of the governing body of any city, or other board, commission, or department of the government of such city having and exercising or desiring to have and exercise the management and control of the streets, water, electric light, power, gas, sewerage or drainage systems, or other public utilities, parks, playgrounds, cemeteries, wharves, or markets, open-air or enclosed, which are or may by law be owned and operated or hereafter acquired by such city or by a separate association, corporation, or other organization on behalf and for the benefit of such city, any land, right of way, water right, privilege, or easement, either within or outside the city, shall be necessary for the purpose of opening, establishing, building, widening, extending, enlarging, maintaining, or operating any such streets, parks, playgrounds, cemetery, water, electric light, power, gas, sewerage or drainage systems, wharves, or other public utility so owned, operated, and maintained by or on behalf of any such city, such governing body, board, commission, or department of government of such city may purchase such land, right of way, water right, privilege, or easement from the owner or owners thereof and pay such compensation therefor as may be agreed upon. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 4, s. 1; 1919, c. 262.)

Cross Reference.—As to power of railroads to acquire property for side tracks, see sec. 1044 and notes; as to general powers, see sec. 2623; as to power to regulate railroads, see note to sec. 2675.

Editor's Note.—"The peculiar feature of this proceeding is the combination of a condemnation under eminent domain and special assessments for improvements in assessment districts. It is not intended to supplant any powers given in special charters, but gives an alternative method of procedure. Another plan for making such improvements is contained in the local improvement statutes, § 2703-2728 in which the assessment plan is used but only for part of the expense, and the amount of the assessments are determined through the governing body instead of by a special proceeding in court; and the condemnation of property would be a separate proceeding under the law of eminent domain. § 1706, 1716." 1 N. C. Law Rev. 275.

Power Discretionary—See note to following section. Where it appears that the governing authorities of a town have taken lands to widen a street intersecting with other streets so as to lessen the danger to traffic thereon, and it is made to appear that doing so was a reasonable exercise of the discretion vested in them, the findings that such course was unnecessary is not binding on the Supreme Court, the question being, primarily, whether the administrative authorities of the town have so grossly and manifestly abused the exercise of their discretionary powers as to render their action ineffectual. Lee v. Waynesville, 184 N. C. 565, 115 S. E. 51.

Parks out of City.—The general statutes giving power to cities and towns to acquire parks for its citizens outside of the corporate limits, and provide access for the public thereto, prevail whenever and to the extent there is no irreconcilable repugnancy with special charter provisions on the same subject. Berry v. Durham, 186 N. C. 421, 119 S. E. 748.

Cited in Durham v. Sou. R. Co., 185 N. C. 240, 243, 117 S. E. 17; Winston-Salem v. Ashley, 194 N. C. 388, 139 S. E. 764.

§ 2792. By condemnation.—If such governing body, board, commission or department of the government of such city are unable to agree with the owners thereof for the purchase of such land, right of way, privilege, or easement, for the purposes mentioned in the preceding section, or for a site for city hall purposes, condemnation of the same for such public use may be made in the same manner and under the same procedure as is provided in chapter Eminent Domain, article 2; and the determination of the governing body, board, commission, or department of government of such city of the land necessary for such purposes shall be conclusive. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 4, s. 1; 1919, c. 262; 1923, c. 181.)

As to powers and duties of commissioners when condemning, see sec. 1721; as to Eminent Domain, see sec. 1721.

Editor's Note.—"C. 181 Public Laws 1923 amends s. 2792, by empowering municipalities to condemn land for a site for a city hall, as well as for the various purposes mentioned in s. 2791." 1 N. C. Law Rev. 277.

Constitutionality.—The acquisition of land to be used to connect a railroad in which the State and counties own an interest with the city's public wharves and docks for water commerce, and necessary to continue or develop the industries of its citizens, is for a public use, and not subject to the exception that the city, in taking the right of way by condemnation from the owner, according to the provisions of its charter and the general statutes, were acting in violation of the Constitution in taking private property for a public use; and the private statutes specifically authorizing the proceedings are constitutional and valid. Hartsfield v. New Bern, 186 N. C. 136, 119 S. E. 15.

The question as to the constitutionality of this section does not invalidate an ordinance or arise in its construction, referring to the voters the question of amending its charter by creating a board of education and authorizing the raising of a minimum tax levy for the maintenance of its schools, or affect it. Taylor v. Greensboro, 175 N. C. 423, 95 S. E. 771.

Construed with Section 2791.—Under the provision of this section before a city may take lands by condemnation to widen its streets it is necessary for it to allege and prove that it has first attempted to acquire them by purchase as provided by section 2791. Winston-Salem v. Ashby, 194 N. C. 388.

City Charter Inconsistent with Section.—The right of eminent domain of a municipality can be exercised only in the mode pointed out in the statute conferring it; and where the method prescribed for the city or town in its character is inconsistent with or repugnant to this section by the express terms the proceedings given under the municipal charter will have to be followed in condemnation of lands for the use of its streets. Clinton v. Johnson, 174 N. C. 286, 93 S. E. 776.

Improvements No Bar to Condemnation.—The governing authorities of a town are not estopped to condemn land for the widening or improving of its streets by reason of an owner having put extensive improvements on his land a long time prior to the time it was condemned for that purpose, the power of condemnation, in cases of this character, being a continuing one to be exercised when and to the extent that the public good may require it. Lee v. Waynesville, 184 N. C. 565, 115 S. E. 51.

Property of Persons under Disability.—Under this section an attempt by a city to acquire lands of owners before proceeding to condemn the lands is a preliminary jurisdictional fact. But the statute does not contemplate the useless formality of attempting to acquire the property of persons under disability, such as minors. City of Winston-Salem v. Ashby, 194 N. C. 388, 139 S. E. 764.

Acquiring Land and Assessment for Improvements in Same Action.—Under the provisions of this section a city may in the same action proceed to acquire land for a street by condemnation and to have the assessment made for street improvements on the lands of the abutting owner. Efird v. Winston-Salem, 199 N. C. 33, 34, 153 S. E. 632.

§ 2792(a). Powers in addition and supplementary to powers in charters.—It is the intention of this law that the powers herein granted to cities for the purpose of improving their streets and improving their drainage and sewer conditions shall be in addition and supplementary to those powers granted in their charters, and in any case in which the provisions of this law are in conflict with the provisions of any local statute or charter, then the governing body of any such municipality may in its discretion proceed in accordance with the provisions of such local statute or charter, or, as an alternative method of procedure, in accordance with the provisions of this law. (1923, c. 220, s. 1.)

Cited in Greensboro v. Bishop, 197 N. C. 748, 150 S. E. 495.

§ 2792(b). Order for condemnation of land; assessment districts; maps and surveys; hearing.—When it is proposed by any municipal corporation to condemn any land, rights, privileges or easements for the purpose of opening, extending, widening, altering or improving any street or alley, or changing or improving the channel of any branch or watercourse, for the purpose of improving the drainage conditions, or the laying and construction of sanitary, storm or trunk sewer lines in such municipality, an order or resolution of the governing body of the municipality at a regular or special meeting shall be made stating generally, or as nearly as may be, the nature of the proposed improvement for which the land is required, and shall lay out, constitute and create an assessment district extending in every direction to the limits of the area or zone of damage or special benefits to property resulting from said improvement, in the best judgment of said governing body. Said governing body shall cause such maps and surveys to be made showing the area of such assessment district and improvements proposed to be made, and of all the lands located in said assessment district, as it may deem necessary. The governing body shall appoint a time and place for its final determination thereof, and cause notice of such time and a brief description of such proposed improvement to be published in some newspaper published in said municipality for not less than ten days prior to said meeting. At said time and place said governing body shall hear such reasons as shall be given for or against the making of such proposed improvement, and it may adjourn such hearing to a subsequent time: Provided, however, that no district shall be declared as an assessment district by the governing body of any municipality, where the purpose of the proposed improvements contemplates the opening of a new or the widening of an existing street and the destruction or removal of buildings abutting thereon and where as much or more than fifty per cent of the costs of such proposed improvement is to be charged against the property within such district, unless and until a petition therefor signed by the owners of a majority of the street frontage to be assessed within said district shall be filed with the governing body of the municipality: Provided, further, that for the purpose of this section the word "owners" shall be considered to mean the owners of a life estate or estate by the entirety or the estate of inheritance, and shall not include mortgages, trustees of a naked trust, trustees under deeds of trust to secure the payment of money, lienholders, or persons having inchoate rights of curtesy or dower, and that the owners of undivided interests in any land shall be deemed and treated as one person, and such land shall be sufficiently signed for when the petition is signed by the owner or owners of a majority in amount of such undivided interest: Provided, further, that the owner of a leasehold estate of ninety-nine years or longer shall be deemed to be the owner within the meaning of this section: Provided, further, that the governing bodies of municipality and the officers, trustees, or boards of all incorporated or unincorporated bodies in whom is vested the right to hold and dispose of real property shall have the right by authority duly given to sign such petition. The determination of the governing body upon the sufficiency of the petition shall be final and conclusive. (1923, c. 220, s. 2; 1924, c. 107; 1927, c. 115.)

As to rule prior to this section, see sec. 2707.

Construed with Other Sections.—This section should be construed in pari materia with the other sections relating to this subject so as to reasonably harmonize them, and when so construed it is in harmony with section 2792. Winston-Salem v. Ashby, 194 N. C. 388.

Who Must Sign Petition.—Where the abutting owners along a street of a city proposed to be widened by a municipality are to pay more than 50 per cent of its costs, the petition required by the statute to be filed with the municipality must show that it was signed by a majority of the owners along the street, including those who have the beneficial interest and each tenant in common when any of the lots are held in common, and the majority of such persons must own a majority of the frontage of the lots along the street. Winston-Salem v. Coble, 192 N. C. 776, 136 S. E. 123.

Manner of Determining Equality.—The fact that the commissioners adopted a so-called "frontage rule" in fixing the value of the benefits or advantages to the different lots within the assessment district, is not sufficient to upset the apportionment made, without an additional finding that the application of such a rule resulted in hardship or injustice to the property owners in the particular case. It is only such practical equality as is reasonably attainable under the circumstances, and not absolute mathematical accuracy, that is to be expected in a matter of this kind. Durham v. Proctor, 191 N. C. 119, 121, 131 S. E. 276.

§ 2792(c). Final order; petition for appointment of commissioners.—Whenever a final order shall be made by such governing body creating such assessment district and directing the laying out, opening, extending, altering, straightening or widening any street or alley, or the changing or otherwise improving any channel or watercourse for the purpose of improving the drainage conditions, or the building and construction of any sanitary, storm or trunk sewer lines in any such municipality, also its determination to condemn land, rights, privileges or easements for the purpose of making such proposed improvement, it shall determine what proportion of the estimated cost thereof, if any, shall be assessed against the city at large. After the adoption of such final order, as aforesaid, the governing body of such municipality shall file with the clerk of the superior court its petition, praying for the appointment of three commissioners to estimate and assess the expenses of the proposed improvement and to appraise and value the real property, rights, privileges or easements proposed to be taken or condemned for public use, also to appraise the value of the benefits accruing from such improvement to all property as shown and described on the maps or surveys of such assessment district. The petition shall set forth and describe the particular property, rights, privileges or easements proposed to be taken or condemned for the purposes, as aforesaid, also all other property situated and located in said assessment district, as shown on the maps or surveys of same, a copy or copies of which maps or surveys shall be filed with such petition, and such petition shall state the names and addresses of the owner or owners who have any interest in the lands therein which may be affected by the said condemnation or the said assessment of benefits, and whether any of the said owners are minors or without guardians. (1923, c. 220, s. 3.)

§ 2792(d). Summons; return day; conduct of proceedings.—Upon the filing of said petition the clerk of the superior court shall issue a summons to the parties interested in the lands, rights, privileges or easements sought to be taken for public use and benefits proposed to be assessed, described in such petition, requiring them to appear at his office in the courthouse of said county on a day at least ten and not more than twenty days after the service of said summons, and answer or otherwise plead to the petition, or show cause why such condemnation, improvement and assessment of benefits should not be made. The said proceeding shall be conducted in all respects as are other special proceedings, and the clerk may issue process and make publication for parties and appoint guardians in like manner as is provided by law in the case of special proceedings. (1923, c. 220, s. 4.)

§ 2792(e). Hearing; appointment of commissioners; damages and benefits.—The clerk of the superior court shall hear the proofs and allegations of the parties, and if no sufficient cause is shown against granting the prayer of the petition, he shall make and order appointing three disinterested competent freeholders of the county as such commissioners. The clerk shall issue a notice of their appointment to the said freeholders, to be served upon them by the sheriff of the county, and when so notified, they shall, within five days after being sworn to perform the duties which shall devolve upon them, go upon the premises and ascertain the value of the land, rights, privileges or easements to be taken for public use, determine by a majority vote the amount of damages, if any, to be paid for the same. Said commissioners shall also go upon the lots or lands described in the petition and shown on such map or survey of such assessment district, including the land condemned or any remainder thereof, and ascertain and determine by a majority vote the value of the benefits or advantages to such lots or lands accruing from the opening, extending, widening or improving said street or alley, or the changing or improving the channel of any branch or watercourse, or the building and construction of such sanitary, storm or trunk line sewers, both such benefits or advantages as are special to such lots and the benefits or advantages in common with other lots located in said assessment district: Provided, that if, in the judgment of the commissioners, any portion of the benefits accrue to the city at large, then a part of the estimated cost of such improvement, not exceeding the proportion fixed by said governing body in its final order or resolution, shall be assessed upon the city at large. Before making the reports hereinafter referred to the commissioners may take the evidence of witnesses as to the estimated cost of such improvement, the damage to such land or lands so condemned for public use, and the amount that should be paid therefor, and the benefits accruing to all other lands within such assessment district, either special or in common with others, as shown on such map or survey. In making the valuation and assessments aforesaid, the commissioners shall consider the loss or damage that may accrue to the owner or owners of the land condemned by reason of the surrender of the land or easement, and also any benefit or advantage such owner or owners may receive by reason of the making of such improvements, special to his land or in common with other lots located in said assessment district. (1923, c. 220, s. 5.)

§ 2792(f). Written reports; land acquired on deposit of award.—The said commissioners shall make a separate written report of their findings to the clerk of the superior court within ten days after notice of their appointment, relative to the land, rights, privileges or easements so condemned, together with the amount to be paid each owner thereof, and upon deposit with the said clerk of the amount determined by said commissioners to be due said owners by such municipality, such land, rights, privileges or easements shall be deemed to be acquired for public use. (1923, c. 220, s. 6.)

§ 2792(g). Report of benefits and advantages; assessment; hearing, confirmation; lien. — The said commissioners shall make a separate written report of their findings to the clerk of the superior court within ten days after notice of their appointment, relative to the benefits or advantages so appraised against said lands located in said assessment district, if any, giving the names of the owners thereof and the amount so appraised against each, with a brief description of the lots or parcels of land so appraised. The clerk shall thereupon deliver to the said governing body of such municipality a certified copy of such appraisal of benefits, which certified copy of appraisal of benefits, upon such receipt by said governing body, shall thereupon become an assessment roll, which the governing body shall cause to be deposited in the office of the clerk of the municipality for inspection by parties interested, and shall cause to be published a notice of the completion of such assessment roll, setting forth a description in general terms of the local improvement, and the time fixed for the meeting of the governing body for the hearing of allegations and objections relative to the adoption of such assessment roll, such meeting not to be earlier than ten days from the first publication of such notice, which publication shall be made in a newspaper published in such municipality. At the time appointed for the purpose, or to some other time to which it may adjourn, the governing body, or a committee thereof, must hear the allegations and objections of all persons interested who appear and make proof in relation thereto. The governing body may thereupon correct such assessment roll and either confirm the same or may set it aside and provide for a new appraisal of benefits in such proceeding pending before the clerk of the superior court. Whenever the governing body may confirm an assessment for such improvement the clerk of the municipality shall enter on the minutes of the governing body the date, hour and minute of such confirmation, and from the time of such confirmation the assessments embraced in the assessment roll shall be a lien on the real property against which the same are assessed, superior to all other liens and encumberances. Such governing body shall have the power and authority to provide either in proceedings already completed or in others hereafter instituted, that such assessment shall be paid in cash or not less than five nor more than ten equal annual installments. (1923, c. 220, s. 7; 1927, c. 241.)

§ 2792(h). Appeal; correction, etc., of assessment; interest; collection.— If a person assessed is dissatisfied with the amount of the charge, he may give notice of appeal in said proceeding pending before the clerk of superior court as hereinafter provided for. The governing body may correct, cancel or remit any assessment in connection with such improvement. After the assessment roll is confirmed a copy of the same must be delivered to the tax collector or other officer charged with the duty of collecting taxes, and such assessments shall be due and payable on the date on which taxes are payable and shall be collected like other taxes. In the event the governing body authorizes the payment of any assessment by installment, such installments shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum from the date of the confirmation of the assessment roll, and in case of the failure or neglect of any person to pay any such installments when the same shall became due and payable, then and in that event all of the installments remaining unpaid shall at once become due and payable. (1923, c. 220, s. 8.)

§ 2792(i). Limit of assessments; exceptions; transfer to court for trial; appeal to supreme court.—The total value of the benefits assessed against the lots or land situated and located in said assessment district shall not exceed the total net amount of damages to be paid by the municipality to the owner or owners of the land or right condemned, together with the cost of such improvement as estimated by said commissioners. If any party to the proceedings shall be dissatisfied with the report of the commissioners, or the assessment levied by the said governing body [on either benefits or damages] he may file exceptions thereto with the clerk of the superior court within ten days after the filing of said report with said clerk, or in the event the appeal be from the levying of the assessment by said governing body, within ten days after the confirmation of such assessment roll by such governing body, and the issues of fact and law raised before the clerk in the said proceedings and upon the said exceptions shall be transferred to the superior court for trial [before a jury on issues of fact relating either to damages or to benefits] in like manner as provided in the case of other special proceedings pending before the clerk; and the said issues shall be tried at the first term after they are transferred, unless for a good cause shown a trial or hearing of the matter may be continued by the court. From the judgment of the superior court rendered in said proceeding any of the parties may appeal to the supreme court, as in other cases pending in the superior court: Provided, that if such municipality, at the time of the appraisal, shall pay into the court the sum appraised by the commissioners as being due any person for land so condemned and taken for public use, then and in that event such municipality may enter, take possession of and hold said lands notwithstanding the pendency of any appeal, and no appeal either to the superior court or to the supreme court shall hinder or delay such municipality in proceeding with such proposed improvement. (1923, c. 220, s. 9.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1931, c. 258, inapplicable to accrued actions or pending litigation, amended this section by inserting the words in brackets. This act provided that it should not apply to the City of Greensboro, or to any city, town or municipality in the counties of Stanly, Mitchell, Moore, Davidson, Hertford, Haywood, Madison, Rutherford, Halifax, Pender, Transylvania, Wake, Cleveland, Pitt, Rockingham, Buncombe, Harnett, Lincoln, Cabarrus, Watauga, Forsyth, Alexander and Nash.

§ 2792(j). Power of courts; practice and procedure.—In all cases of appraisal under this law, whether the mode or manner of procedure is not expressly or sufficiently provided for herein, the court before which such proceedings may be pending shall have the power to make all necessary orders and give proper directions to carry into effect the object and intent of this law, and the practice and procedure in such cases shall conform as nearly as may be to the ordinary practice and procedure in such court. (1923, c. 220, s. 10.)

§ 2792(k). Change of ownership or transfer of property, effect.—When any proceedings for appraisal of property of rights under this law shall have been instituted, no change of ownership or transfer of the real estate, or any interest therein, or of the subject-matter of the appraisal, or any part thereof, shall in any manner affect such proceedings, but the same may be carried on and perfected as if no such conveyance or transfer had been made, or attempted to be made. (1923, c. 220, s. 11.)

§ 2792(l). Proceedings to perfect title; possession by municipality; parties. — If at any time after proceedings under this law shall have been instituted it shall be found that the title to any property or right proposed to be condemned, or which has been acquired or condemned, is defective, said municipality may proceed anew to acquire or perfect such title in the same manner as if no appraisal had been made, and at any stage of the new proceeding the court may authorize the municipality, if in possession of said property or rights, to continue in possession of the same, and if not in possession, to take possession and use such property of rights during the pendency and until the final conclusion of such new proceedings, and may stay all actions or proceedings against the municipality on account thereof, and in every case any party interested may conduct the proceedings to a conclusion if the municipality delays or omits to prosecute the same. (1923, c. 220, s. 12.)

§ 2792(m). Recovery by municipality if title defective; limit of recovery.— If the title to any property, rights, privileges or easements condemned in any proceedings instituted under this law shall prove to be defective, such municipality may by action recover of the person or persons who have received compensation for the property or rights so condemned any loss or damage the city may have sustained by reason of said defect of title, not exceeding the amount paid as compensation for the taking of said property or rights. (1923, c. 220, s. 13.)

§ 2792(n). Notice served on nonresidents. — Where any notice is required to be given in said proceeding before the court and the person to be notified is a nonresident of the county in which said proceedings are pending, the notice may be served by the sheriff or other lawful officer of any county in which the said person may be, and if the said person is a nonresident of the state, the notice may be served by the publication thereof once a week for four weeks in a newspaper published in such municipality, and the affidavit of the publisher, proprietor or foreman of said newspaper that said notice was so published shall be sufficient prima facie evidence or proof of such publication, and the time of notice shall be counted from the last day on which the notice was inserted in said newspaper. (1923, c. 220, s. 14.)

§ 2792(o). Registration of final judgment; evidence; certificate under seal.— A copy of the final judgment of the court, duly certified by its clerk, may be registered in the office of the register of deeds for said county, and said copy so certified, or a copy of the registry of such judgment duly certified by the register of deeds, shall be received as evidence in all courts of the state, and where the said copy is offered is evidence in any court not held in the county in which the judgment is rendered, the certificate shall have affixed the official seal of the certifying officer. (1923, c. 220, s. 15.)

§ 2792(p). Pay of appraisal commissioners; taxation as costs.—The commissioners appointed by the clerk of the superior court to make the appraisals provided for herein shall receive compensation at the rate of five dollars ($5.00) per day each, which compensation shall be taxed in the court costs of such proceedings. (1923, c. 220, s. 16.)

Part 3. Streets and Sidewalks

§ 2793. Power to make, improve and control.— The governing body of the city shall have power to control, grade, macadamize, cleanse, and pave and repair the streets and sidewalks of the city and make such improvements thereon as it may deem best for the public good, and may provide for and regulate the lighting of the public parks, and regulate, control, license, prohibit, and prevent digging in said streets and sidewalks, or placing therein of pipes, poles, wires, fixtures, and appliances of every kind, whether on, above, or below the surface thereof, and regulate and control the use thereof by persons, animals and vehicles; to prevent, abate and remove obstructions, encroachments, pollution or litter therein, and shall have under its government, management, and control all parks and squares within or without the city limits established by the governing body for the use of the city except as otherwise provided. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 10, s. 1.)

As to Parks, see sec. 2787 and notes.

§ 2793(a). Increasing width of streets. — Any incorporated city or town in North Carolina where the State Highway Commission or governing body of any city, town or county has constructed a road or street, or any part of any road or street through such city or town in North Carolina, and the governing body of said city or town desires to increase the width of said road or street or either, or both sides of same, so as to make such road or street conform to such width as the said governing body of said city or town may determine, the governing body of such city or town may increase the width of such road or street, on either side of same, such number of feet as may be necessary and may be determined by the governing body of such city or town: Provided, however, that the expense and cost of such increase in width to such road or street shall be borne by the city or town through which such road or street may run and without any expense or obligation, in any way, to the State Highway Commission. (1925, c. 71, s. 1.)

§ 2793(b). Right of eminent domain.—Whenever the governing body of any city or town in North Carolina deems it necessary to extend the width of any road or street in such city or town, and it becomes necessary for such governing body of such city or town to exercise the right of eminent domain, such governing body of such city or town shall have the power to exercise the right of eminent domain to the extent that the same is given such city or town, or governing body of such city or town, in the charter and amendments to the charter of such city or town or under the general law pertaining to such matters. (1925, c. 71, s. 2.)

§ 2793(c). Interference with highway commission. — Nothing in sections 2793(a) and 2793(b) shall authorize the governing body of any city or town to interfere with the rights and privileges of the State Highway Commission when such city or town undertakes to exercise any of the privileges by such sections. (1925, c. 71, s. 3.)

§ 2793(d). Whitakers excepted. — Sections 2793(a) to 2793(c) shall not apply to the town of Whitakers. (1925, c. 71, s. 4.)

§ 2793(f). Maps to be recorded; effect of laying out of streets and sidewalks without approval.—Should any lands, lying within a distance of one mile of the corporate limits of any town or city in North Carolina, be subdivided and streets and sidewalks laid out, without the approval of the governing body of the town and city as provided in section one of this article, upon the incorporation of such sub-division into the limits of such town and city, the said town or city shall have the right to extend its streets and sidewalks into and through said sub-division in conformity with the general plan of the town or city; and there shall be no damage recovered against the said town or city for so extending its streets and sidewalks except for purchase or condemnation value of lands so taken without regard to improvements or betterments placed thereon in contravention of this act: Provided, that this act shall not apply to any sub-divisions which have been laid out or are now in the process of being laid out. (1929, c. 186, s. 2.)

Part 4. Markets

§ 2794. Establish and control markets.—The governing body of the city shall have power to provide for the establishment, maintenance, and regulation of open-air or enclosed markets and slaughter places; may prescribe the time and place of sale of fresh meats, fish, and other marketable products therein; may rent the stalls in such manner and at such prices as it may deem best; may appoint a keeper of the market or other persons, who may summarily condemn all unsound products offered for sale in the city for food, and cause the same to be removed at the expense of the person offering it for sale. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 12, s. 1.)

See notes to sec. 2674.

Part 5. Protection of Public Health

§ 2795. Ordinances for protection of health; contracts for medical treatment and hospitalization of poor.—The governing body of cities is hereby given, within the city limits, all the power and authority that is now or may hereafter be given by law to the county health officer or county physician, and such further powers and authority as will best preserve the health of the citizens. The governing body is hereby given power to make such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the state, for the preservation of the health of the inhabitants of the city, as to them may seem right and proper.

The governing body of any city or town, when deemed for the best interest of the city or town, is hereby given authority to contract for periods not to exceed thirty years with public or private hospitals or institutions within or without the city or town for the medical treatment and hospitalization of the sick and afflicted poor of the city or town upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed, provided that the annual payments required under such contract shall not be in excess of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00). The full faith and credit of each city or town shall be deemed to be pledged for the payment of the amounts due under said contracts. The contracts provided for in this paragraph and the appropriations and taxes therefor are hereby declared to be for necessary expenses within the meaning of the Constitution of North Carolina and shall be valid and binding without a vote of the majority of the qualified voters of each city and town and are hereby expressly exempted from any limitation, restriction or provisions contained in the County Fiscal Control Act and acts amendatory thereof as it may be applicable to cities or towns by virtue of section 2969(n). No limitation, restriction or provision contained in any general, special, private or public-local law or charter of any city or town relating to the execution of contracts and the appropriation of money and levying of taxes therefor shall apply to the contracts authorized and executed under this paragraph: Provided, that the town of Lincolnton shall not enter into any such contract except after a public hearing at the county court house in Lincoln county, notice of which hearing shall be published for two successive weeks in a newspaper published in the county. The provisions of this paragraph shall not apply to the municipalities of Salisbury, Spencer, East Spencer, Rocky Mount, Reidsville, Leaksville, Madison, Asheville, Charlotte, Edenton, Gibsonville, Greensboro, Hamlet, High Point, Jamestown, Rockingham, Tarboro and Wilmington. This paragraph shall not apply to the city of High Point in Guilford county; to the city of Elizabeth City in Pasquotank county; nor to the counties of Beaufort, Camden and Lee or any city or town therein; nor to any city or town in the counties of Ashe, Avery, Columbus, Davidson, Durham, Gates, Jackson, Martin and Rockingham; nor to the counties of Ashe, Alexander, Brunswick, Clay, Cumberland, Forsyth, Haywood, Henderson, Jones, Macon, Montgomery, Moore, Pasquotank, Robeson, Sampson, Transylvania, Wilkes, Catawba, Lincoln, Surry, Washington, Rowan, Warren, Vance, Johnson, Edgecombe, Halifax, Cumberland, Davie, Forsyth, Gaston, Harnett, Iredell, Pitt, Stanly Union and Yadkin. Before this paragraph shall apply to any city or town in Catawba county it must be submitted to a vote of the people of said Catawba county. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 5, s. 4; 1935, c. 64.)

As to subject in general, see sec. 7064 through sec. 7077.

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 added the last paragraph of this section.

§ 2796. Establish hospitals, pesthouses, quarantine, etc.—The governing body may acquire, establish, and maintain a hospital or hospitals, or pesthouses, slaughter-houses, rendering plants, incinerators and crematories in the city limits or within three miles thereof; may stop, detain, examine, or keep in a pesthouse or house of detention persons having or suspected of having any infectious, contagious, or other communicable disease; may quarantine the city or any part thereof; may cause all persons in the city limits to be vaccinated; may, without incurring liabilities to the owner, remove, fumigate, or destroy furniture, bedding, clothing, or other property which may be found to be tainted or infected with any contagious or infectious disease, and may do all other proper and reasonable things to prevent or stamp out any contagious or infectious disease, and to preserve better the health of the citizens. All expenses incurred by the city in disinfecting or caring for any person or persons, by authority of this section, may be recovered by it from the person, or persons, or property cared for; and when expense is incurred in caring for property, the same shall become a lien on such property. Any person who shall attempt by force, or by threat of violence, to prevent his removal or that of any other persons to the pesthouse, house of detention, or hospital, or who shall in any way interfere with any officer while performing any of the duties allowed by this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 5, s. 4.)

As to the validity of bonds issued by municipality to erect and maintain a hospital, see § 2937 and the note thereto.

§ 2797. Elect health officer.—The governing body of any city may elect a health officer and create such other offices and employments as to them may seem right and proper, and fill the same and fix their compensation. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 5, s. 4.)

§ 2798. Regulate the management of hospitals.—The governing body is hereby empowered to make rules and regulations for the management and conduct of all hospitals and sanatoriums which may have for treatment any patient afflicted with any infectious, contagious, or other communicable disease, and prescribe penalties for any violation of same. Any person violating any rule or regulation of the governing body shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction, except as herein otherwise provided, shall be fined not more than fifty dollars or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 5, s. 5.)

§ 2799. Provide for removal of garbage.—The governing body may by ordinance provide for the removal, by wagon or carts, of all garbage, slops, and trash from the city; and when the same is not removed by the private individual in obedience to such ordinance, may require the wagons or carts to visit the houses used as residences, stores, and other places of habitation in the city, and also may require all owners or occupants of such houses who fail to remove such garbage or trash from their premises to have the garbage, slops, and trash ready and in convenient places and receptacles, and may charge for such removal the actual expense thereof. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 7, s. 3.)

Liability Growing from Power.—A city in exercising the governmental duty passed in accordance with this section is not liable in a civil action to one injured by the negligence of its drivers of the carts or wagons when so engaged, there being no provision of law conferring such right.

The fact that the city is permitted to charge the cost of such service does not change its act from a governmental function to a business for profit, or affect its liability for the negligent acts of its agents or employees therein. James v. Charlotte, 183 N. C. 630, 112 S. E. 423.

§ 2800. Abate or remedy menaces to health.—The governing body, or officer or officers who may be designated for this purpose by the governing body, shall have power summarily to remove, abate, or remedy, or cause to be removed, abated, or remedied, everything in the city limits, or within a mile of such limits, which is dangerous or prejudicial to the public health; and the expense of such action shall be paid by the person in default, and, if not paid, shall be a lien upon the land or premises where the trouble arose, and shall be collected as unpaid taxes. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 7, s. 4.)

As to abating nuisance, see sec. 2676.

Part 6. Fire Protection

§ 2801. Establish and maintain fire department.—The governing body shall have power to provide for the organization, equipment, maintenance and government of fire companies and a fire department; and, in its discretion, may provide for a paid fire department, and for this purpose may create any offices and employments and fix their compensation as to the governing body may seem right and proper. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 8, s. 1.)

As to hearing on subject, see note to sec. 2807.

Liability for Failure to Furnish.—The maintenance of a fire department for extinguishing fire without cost to the property owner, is a governmental function, and there is no liability for failure to provide adequate pressure or service in extinguishing a fire. Howland v. Ashville, 174 N. C. 749, 94 S. E. 524.

Liability for Injuries to Firemen.—A city is not liable to firemen for injuries sustained in the performance of their duties, although the appliances used were defective, and known to be defective, by the city, for the maintenance of a fine department is a governmental function. Peterson v. Wilmington, 130 N. C. 76, 40 S. E. 853.

§ 2802. Establish fire limits.—The governing body may establish and maintain fire limits in the city, in which it shall be unlawful to erect, alter, and repair wooden buildings or structures or addition thereto; it may also prohibit the removal of wooden buildings or structures of any kind into such limits, or from one place to another within the limits, and make such other regulations as may be deemed best for the prevention and extinguishment of fires. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 8, s. 2.)

§ 2803. Regulate buildings. — The governing body may make rules and regulations governing the erection and construction of buildings in the city so as to make them as safe as possible from fire. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 8, s. 3.)

§ 2804. Fire protection for property outside city limits.—The governing body may provide, install, and maintain water mains, pipes, hydrants, and buildings and equipment, either inside or outside of the city limits, for protection against fire of property outside of the city limits, and within such area as the governing body may determine, not exceeding a boundary of two miles from the city limits, under such terms and conditions as the governing body may prescribe. (1919, c. 244.)

Part 7. Sewerage

§ 2805. Establish and maintain sewerage system.—The governing body shall have power to acquire, provide, construct, establish, maintain and operate a system of sewerage for the city, and protect and regulate the same by adequate rules and regulations; and if it shall be necessary in obtaining proper outlets to such system to extend the same beyond the corporate limits, the governing body may condemn a right of way or rights of way to and for such outlets, and the proceedings for such condemnation shall be as herein provided for opening new streets and other purposes. It is the intention of this law that the powers herein granted to municipalities shall not repeal any special or local law or affect any proceedings under any special or local law relative to providing, constructing, establishing, maintaining or operating any system of sewerage in any municipality, or for the raising of funds therefor, but shall be deemed to be additional and independent legislation for such purposes and to provide an alternative method of procedure for such purposes, and supplementary to those powers granted municipalities in their charters. In any case in which the provisions of this law are in conflict with the provision of any local statute or charter, then the governing body of any such municipality may, in its discretion, proceed in accordance with the provisions of such local statute or charter, or as an alternative method of procedure in accordance with the provisions of this law. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 7, s. 1; 1923, c. 166, s. 1.)

As to power to establish, see 9 N. C. Enc. Dig. 409; as to liability for injury from, see 9 N. C. Enc. Dig. 562.

Editor's Note.—All of this section except the first sentence was added by Public Laws of 1923.

"These sections provide in a general way for the construction of a sewerage system in cities and towns, and the amending statute adds an alternative method of procedure to this general law and to any similar provision in special charters. The plan devised in the amending statute is for ascertaining the actual expense of constructing a sewerage system and assessing the same against the abutting property according to the front-foot rule.

"The method of procedure is given in detail, as to the ordinance or resolution by the governing body, publication of notice, assessment against property and a hearing thereon with right of appeal, and how the assessments are to be collected. The plan is somewhat similar to that contained in the local improvements statutes, sec. 2703 et seq., except that this contemplates the payment of the whole expense by assessments instead of only a part thereof, as in case of local improvements. The plan is only alternative and supplementary, and is not intended to change any other method now provided for in general laws or special charters." 1 N. C. Law Rev. 274.

Effect on Prior Rights.—The fact that the General Assembly has authorized an alternative method of financing an installation of sewerage does not in any wise militate against the plan the town may adopt. This section, while giving towns the privilege of adopting a different system, does not deprive them of the power to proceed in the manner which its authorities see fit to adopt. Indeed, the act is careful to provide that it shall not repeal any other method or proceeding that has been authorized or adopted for providing sewerage. McNeill v. Whiteville, 186 N. C. 163, 164, 119 S. E. 6.

Liable for Maintenance of Nuisance.—In one case it was held that the maintenance of a free public sewer system by a city is an exercise of its police power for the public benefit, so that a city would not be liable for the death of a citizen from illness caused by the pollution of a stream by the sewer which emptied into it. Metz v. Asheville, 150 N. C. 784, 64 S. E. 881, 22 L. R. A., N. S., 940, cited in note in 47 L. R. A., N. S., 138.

But this case seems to be contrary to the weight of authority both in North Carolina and elsewhere, and the rule sustained by the greater number of cases is that a municipal corporation, empowered to construct and maintain a sewerage system, may not exercise its power in such a way as to create a private nuisance without making compensation for the injury inflicted or being liable in damages therefor or to equitable restraint in a proper case, and it is a nuisance to pollute a stream by emptying sewerage therein. Moser v. Burlington, 162 N. C. 141, 78 S. E. 74, cited in note in 47 L. R. A., N. S., 138.

§ 2806. Require connections to be made.—The governing body may require all owners of improved property which may be located upon or near any line of such system of sewerage to connect with such sewerage all water-closets, bathtubs, lavatories, sinks, or drains upon their respective properties or premises, so that their contents may be made to empty into such sewer, and fix charges for such connections. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 7, s. 2.)

§ 2806(a). Order for construction or extension of system; assessment of cost; payment of assessment.—When it is proposed by any municipality to provide, construct and establish a system of sewerage, or to provide for the extension of any such system, an order or resolution of the governing body of such municipality at a regular or special meeting shall be made stating generally, or as nearly as may be, the nature of the proposed improvement. In such order or resolution such governing body may provide that the actual cost of the establishment and construction of such sewerage system, or any extension thereof, shall be assessed upon the lots and parcels of land abutting directly on the lateral mains of such sewerage system, or extension thereof, according to the extent of the respective frontage thereon, by an equal rate per foot of such frontage. Such governing body may provide in such order or resolution that the assessments to be levied in connection with such work may be paid in equal installments covering a period of not exceeding five years. Such order or resolutions shall designate by a general description the improvement to be made, and the street or streets, or part or parts thereof, whereon the work is to be affected and the cost thereof to be assessed upon all abutting property and the terms and manner of payment. Such order or resolution after its passage shall be published in a newspaper published in such municipality, or if there be no such newspaper, such order or resolution shall be posted in three public places in such municipality for at least five days. (1923, c. 166, s. 2.)

§ 2806(b). Ascertainment of cost; assessment.—Upon the completion of the construction and establishment of any such sewerage system, or of any such extension, the governing body shall compute and ascertain the total cost thereof. The governing body shall thereupon make an assessment of such total cost, and for that purpose shall make out an assessment roll, in which must be entered the names of persons assessed as far as can be ascertained, and the amount assessed against them respectively, with a brief description of the lots or parcels of land assessed. (1923, c. 166, s. 3.)

§ 2806(c). Deposit for inspection; publication of completion; time for hearing objections.—Immediately after such assessment roll has been completed, the governing body shall cause it to be deposited in the office of the clerk of the municipality for inspection by parties interested, and shall cause to be published in the same manner as the order or resolution authorizing such work, a notice of the completion of the assessment roll, setting forth a description in general terms of the improvement, and the time fixed for the meeting of the governing body for a hearing of allegations and objections in respect of the special assessment, such meeting not to be earlier than ten days from the first publication or posting of said notice. (1923, c. 166, s. 4.)

§ 2806(d). Hearing on objections; action; entry of confirmation; lien of assessment; copy of roll to tax collector.—At the time appointed for that purpose, or at some other time to which it may adjourn, the governing body, or a committee thereof, must hear the allegations and objections of all persons interested, who appear and make proof in relation thereto. The governing body may thereupon correct such assessment roll, either confirm the same or may set it aside, and provide for a new assessment. Whenever the governing body shall confirm an assessment for such a local improvement, the clerk of the municipality shall enter on the minutes of the governing body the date, hour and minute of such confirmation, and from the time of such confirmation the assessments embraced in the assessment roll shall be a lien on the real property against which the same are assessed, superior to all other liens and encumbrances. After the assessment roll is confirmed a copy of the same must be delivered to the tax collector, or other officer charged with the duty of collecting taxes. (1923, c. 166, s. 5.)

§ 2806(e). Notice of appeal; service of statement; stay of work; trial of appeal.—If a person assessed is dissatisfied with the amount of the charge, he may give notice within ten days after such confirmation that he takes an appeal to the next term of the superior court of the county in which the municipality is located, and shall within five days thereafter serve a statement of facts upon which he bases his appeal; but the appeal shall not delay or stop the improvements. The appeal shall be tried at the term of court as other actions at law. (1923, c. 166, s. 6.)

See note under § 2715.

§ 2806(g). Cash payment; installment payments; rate of interest; sale of property.—In the event such governing body of such municipality shall provide that said assessment may be paid in equal annual installments, then and in that event the property owner shall have the option and privilege of paying for the improvement as hereinbefore provided for, in cash, or if they should elect and give notice of the fact in writing to the municipality within thirty days after the notice mentioned in the next succeeding section, they shall have the option and privilege of paying the assessment in not less than the number of equal annual installments as may have been determined by the governing body in the original order or resolution authorizing the improvement. Such installments shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from the date of the confirmation of the assessment roll, and in case of the failure or neglect of any property owner to pay any installment when the same shall become due and payable, then and in that event all of the installments remaining unpaid shall at once become due and payable, and such property shall be sold by the municipality under the same rules, regulations, rights of redemption and savings as are now prescribed by law for the sale of land for unpaid taxes. The whole assessment may be paid at the time of paying any installment by the payment of the principal and the interest accrued to that date. (1923, c. 166, s. 8.)

§ 2806(h). Notice for payment of assessment; interest for nonpayment; maturity of installments; penalties.—After the expiration of twenty days from the confirmation of an assessment roll the tax collector, or such other officer of the municipality as the governing body may direct so to do, shall cause to be published in a newspaper, or, if there is no such newspaper, shall cause to be posted in at least three public places therein a notice that any assessment contained in the assessment roll, naming and describing it, may be paid to him at any time before the expiration of thirty days from the first publication of the notice, without any addition. In the event the assessment be not paid within such time the same shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from the date of the confirmation of the assessment roll and shall become due and payable on the date on which taxes are payable: Provided, that when an assessment is divided into installments, one installment shall become due and payable each year on the date on which taxes are due and payable. If any assessment or installment thereof is not paid when due, it shall be subject to the same penalties as are now prescribed for unpaid taxes, in addition to the interest herein provided for. (1923, c. 166, s. 9.)

§ 2806(i). Authority to fix sewerage charges; lien thereof.—The governing body of any municipality, maintaining and operating a system of sewerage, including sewerage treatment works, if any, is hereby authorized to charge for sewerage service, to determine and fix a schedule of charges to be made for such service, to fix the time and manner in which such sewerage service charges shall be due and payable and to fix a penalty for the non-payment of the same when due. In no cases shall the charges, rents or penalties be a lien upon the property served and in cases where the service is rendered to a tenant and the tenant removes from the premises, the municipality shall not charge against the owner thereof the service charges or penalties for said service: Provided, that this act shall not apply to the counties of Transylvania, Mecklenburg, and Davie: Provided, however, that for sewerage service supplied outside of the corporate limits of the city, the governing body, board or body having such sewerage system in charge may fix a different schedule of rates from that fixed for such service rendered within the corporate limits, with the same exemption from liability by city or town as is contained in section two thousand eight hundred and seven. (1933, c. 322, s. 1.)

Part 8. Water and Lights

§ 2807. Establish and maintain water and light plants.—The city may own and maintain its own light and waterworks system to furnish water for fire and other purposes, and light to the city and its citizens and to any person, firm or corporation desiring the same outside the corporate limits, where the service is available, but shall in no case be liable for damages for a failure to furnish a sufficient supply of either water or light. And the governing body shall have power to acquire and hold rights of way, water rights, and other property, within and without the city limits. (1917, c. 136, sub-c. 11, ss. 1, 2; 1929, c. 285, s. 1.)

As to establishment and maintenance of a fire department see sec. 2801 and note.

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 96; 12 N. C. Law Rev., 324.

Editor's Note.—The act of 1929 inserted in this section the words: "And to any person, firm or corporation desiring the same outside the corporate limits, where the service is available."

In Mabe v. Winston-Salem, 190 N. C. 486, 130 S. E. 169 the question of a city's liability for loss by fire arose. The plaintiff contended that the city was liable as the position of the curb which kept the trucks from the hydrant was the proximate cause of the loss and that the loss was occasioned directly by the negligence of the city in repairing the streets.

The Court says in discussing the case: It is conceded that a city, which owns a municipal light and waterworks system, and operates the same in its governmental capacity, cannot be held liable in damages for a failure to furnish a sufficient supply of either water or light. Howland v. Asheville, 174 N. C. 749, 94 S. E. 524; Harrington v. Greenville, 159 N. C. 632, 75 S. E. 849. "It is also conceded that the defendant, in the absence of statutory provision to the contrary, is not liable for any damage occasioned by the negligence of its fire department. Mack v. City Water Works, 181 N. C. 383, 107 S. E. 244; Peterson v. Wilmington, 130 N. C. 76, 40 S. E. 853; note, 9 A. L. R. 143." "The extinguishment of fires is a function which a municipal corporation undertakes in its governmental capacity, and in connection with which, in the absence of statutory provision to the contrary, it incurs no civil liability, either for inadequacy in equipment or for the negligence of its employees. 19 R. C. L., 1116; Seales v. Winston-Salem, 189 N. C. 469, 127 S. E. 543, and cases there cited."

In a discussion of the case in N. C. Law Rev. it is said: "The court refuses to agree with the plaintiff's theory of the case that the negligence of the street department was the proximate cause of the loss, but holds that the proximate cause of the loss was the failure of the fire department to put out the fire. The court concedes that it is the duty of the city in the exercise of proper care, to keep and maintain its streets in a reasonably safe condition for public travel, but that this refers to street uses, the traffic of vehicles and pedestrians, and is not meant to include a case where the plaintiff is not using the street at all. But, granting for the sake of argument, that the negligence of the street department was the proximate cause of the plaintiff's loss, yet the court said that this was also the negligence of the city and that the statute provides that in no case shall the city be liable for failure to furnish a sufficient supply of water." 4 N. C. Law Rev. 137.

"Viewed from the practical standpoint of ordinary fairness, there is no valid reason why the municipality which has been guilty of an act for which a private corporation would be liable, should not be required to compensate the injured party. The risk of loss now falls on those least able to bear it. That there has been a tendency to broaden the scope of municipal liability is evidenced by recent decisions. But, if the old doctrines have become too strongly intrenched in our law for a change to take place through judicial legislation, the problem will have to be given over to the legislature for satisfactory solution." 4 N. C. Law Rev. 140.

In Munick v. Durham, 181 N. C., 188, 106 S. E. 665 opinion by the Chief Justice, a recovery against the city was sustained, but that was a suit growing out of the settlement of claimant's water bill, and involving only the business relations between the individual and the city as vendor of water for profit, and not a matter concerning the water supply for general fire protection. Mack v. City Water-Works, 181 N. C. 383, 385, 107 S. E. 244.

Power to Sell Electricity within Three-Mile Zone.—A municipality has the power to purchase electricity for its own use and the use of its citizens, and where it is authorized by general and special statutes to purchase current from a power company and to resell and distribute it at a profit to its citizens and to those within a three-mile zone therefrom, the grant of power to do so is effective in law under the authority of the Legislature to grant municipal corporations any powers which promote the welfare of the public and the communities in which they are established unless prohibited by the organic law. Holmes v. Fayetteville, 197 N. C. 740, 741, 150 S. E. 624.

§ 2808. Fix and enforce rates.—The governing body, or such board or body which has the management and control of the waterworks system in charge, may fix such uniform rents or rates for water or water service as will provide for the payment of the annual interest on existing bonded debt for such waterworks system, for the payment of the annual installment necessary to be raised for the amortization of the debt, and the necessary allowance for repairs, maintenance, and operation, and when the city shall own and maintain both waterworks and sewerage systems, including sewerage disposal plants, if any, the governing body shall have the right to operate such system as a combined and consolidated system, and when so operated to include in the rates adopted for the waterworks a sufficient amount to provide for the payment of the annual interest on the existing bonded debt for such sewerage system or systems, for the payment of the annual installment necessary to be raised for the amortization of such debt, and the necessary allowance for repairs, maintenance and operation. Such body shall fix the times when the water rents shall become due and payable, and in case such rent is not paid within ten days after it becomes due and payable, the same may at any time thereafter be collected either by suit in the name of the city or by the collector of taxes for the city. Upon the failure of the owner of property for which water is furnished under the rules and regulations of such body to pay the water rents when due, then the body, or its agents or employees, may cut off the water from such property; and when so cut off it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation, other than the body or its agents or employees, to turn on the water to such property, or to use the same in connection with the property, without first having paid the water rent and obtained permission to turn on the water: Provided, however, that for service supplied outside the corporate limits of the city, the governing body, board or body having such waterworks or lighting system in charge, may fix a different rate from that charged within the corporate limits, with the same exemption from liability by city or town as is contained in section two thousand eight hundred seven: Provided further, that where the water may be cut off under the provision of this section for the failure of the occupant of the premises to pay his water bill, and such occupant is not the owner of the premises but occupies said premises as a tenant, it shall not be lawful for the board in charge or management of the waterworks to require the payment of such delinquent bill before turning on the water at the instance of a new and different tenant or occupant of said premises. This proviso shall not apply in cases where the premises are occupied by two or more tenants serviced by the same water meter. Nor shall this proviso apply in Caldwell county. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 11, s. 3; 1929, c. 285, s. 2; 1933, cc. 140, 353, 368.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added the first proviso to this section.

Prior to the amendment by Public Laws 1933, c. 353, the first sentence of this section merely provided that the governing board should fix "such uniform rates for water as is deemed best." Public Laws of 1933, c. 140 added the last proviso of the section. By the terms of the act the amendment of 1933, c. 353, does not apply in Haywood, Ashe, Transylvania and Mecklenburg counties.

§ 2809. Separate accounts for water system.—It shall be the duty of the governing body to keep a separate statement and account of the money received by the city from the waterworks system, and it shall be the duty of the said body to give preference to the waterworks system over the other departments of the city in such funds, and to provide for the proper upkeep of the waterworks system and an amount necessary for the enlargement of the water works system before turning over to the other departments the money so received. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 11, s. 4.)

Part 9. Care of Cemeteries

§ 2810. Care fund established.—The governing body is authorized to create a fund to be known as the perpetual care fund for the cemeteries, for the purpose of perpetually caring for and beautifying the cemeteries, and such fund shall be kept by the city as is provided for bequests and gifts for cemetery purposes; and the governing body may make contracts with lot or space owners in the cemeteries, obligating the city to keep up and maintain said lots or spaces in perpetuity upon payment of such sum as may be fixed by the governing body; and the governing body is further authorized and empowered to accept gifts and bequests for such purposes, or upon such other trusts as the donors may prescribe; and the governing body is authorized to set aside for such perpetual care fund such portion of the proceeds of sales of cemetery lots as the governing body may deem advisable. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 9, s. 1; 1927, c. 254.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment, Public Laws 1927, c. 254 changed the amount to be set aside from "an amount not exceeding twenty-five per cent" to "such portions as the governing body may deem advisable."

§ 2811. Application of fund.—The principal of the funds appropriated by the governing body for caring for the cemeteries shall be held by the governing body for caring for and beautifying the cemeteries and improving the same. The income from the fund heretofore or hereafter made shall be used for the purpose of carrying out contracts with the individual or space owners for the perpetual care of individual plats and spaces. Any gifts heretofore or hereafter made to and received by the city or any of its officers shall be held and used as a sacred trust fund for the purposes and upon the conditions named in such gifts or bequests, and all such funds shall be kept and invested separately and shall not be used for any other purpose, or by the city in its affairs. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 9, s. 1.)

§ 2812. Separate accounts kept.—The city treasurer shall keep a separate account of the cemetery funds, and a still further separate account of all special gifts or bequests made by persons for and in connection with the cemeteries and particular lots therein. The governing body has the power to make rules and regulations and adopt ordinances for the carrying out of the duties imposed by this and the two preceding sections in regard to the care of cemeteries. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 9, s. 1.)

Part 10. Municipal Taxes

§ 2813. Provide for listing and collecting taxes.—The governing body shall provide by an ordinance or otherwise means for the collection of taxes in the city and shall cause property to be listed for taxation which has not otherwise been listed as required by law. The governing body of cities and towns are in all respects vested with the same powers and authority as is now, or may hereafter be, vested in the board of county commissioners of the county in which such city or town is located, with respect to the allowance of discounts and charging penalties in the collection of taxes. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 6, s. 2; 1925, c. 183.)

See notes to secs. 2677 et seq.

Editor's Note.—By amendment, Public Laws 1925, the last sentence to this section was added.

§ 2814. Unlisted taxables entered.—The officer who has charge of the collection of taxes in any city shall, after the most diligent inquiry, and by comparing his book with the county tax books, make out a list of all persons liable for poll tax, or for taxes on property, who have failed to return a list in the manner and in the time prescribed, together with the estimated value of all the property not listed, and shall enter such persons in a separate part of his book. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 6, s. 4.)

As to county taxes, see secs. 7923 et seq.

§ 2815. Lien of taxes.— The lien for taxes levied for any and all purposes in each year shall attach to all the real estate of the taxpayers within the city on the first day of May annually, and shall continue until such taxes, with any penalty and costs which shall accrue thereon, shall be paid. But there shall be no lien for taxes on the personal property of the taxpayer but from a levy thereon. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 6, s. 5; 1919, c. 126.)

As to tax liens in general, see secs. 7986 et seq.

When Lien Attaches.—The lien for the payment of taxes assessed against personal property attaches only from the date of levy thereon, subject to certain exceptions specified in Const., Art. V, secs. 3 and 5. Carstarphen v. Plymouth, 186 N. C. 90, 118 S. E. 905.

There is no lien upon the personal property for taxes except from the date of levy thereon. Reichland Shale Products Co. v. Southern Steel, etc., Co., 200 N. C. 226, 156 S. E. 777.

Where Assessment of Property for Taxes Has Not Been Made at Time of Foreclosure.—Construing this section with § 7980, requiring the one selling lands under foreclosure sale of a mortgage or deed of trust to pay all taxes then assessed against the property out of the proceeds, it is held that where the taxes have not been assessed nor the tax rate ascertained under the provisions of the County Fiscal Control Act until after the foreclosure sale has been made, the proceeds or surplus from the foreclosure sale are not subject to the payment of the taxes, and the lien of a judgment creditor of the mortgagor is payable out of the surplus from the sale without deducting the amount of the taxes, and the taxes later assessed attach to the land in the hands of the purchaser at the foreclosure sale, although they attach to the land as of the first of May. American Agricultural Chemical Co. v. Brock, 198 N. C. 342, 151 S. E. 869.

§ 2816. Power and duties of tax collector.—The officer who has charge of the collection of taxes in any city shall, in the collection of taxes, be vested with the same power and authority as is given by the state to sheriffs for like purpose, and shall be subject to the same fines and penalties on failure or neglect of duty.

It shall be his duty to collect all taxes levied by the governing body, and he shall be charged with the sums appearing on the tax list as due for city taxes. He shall at no time retain in his hands over three hundred dollars for a longer time than seven days, under a penalty of ten per cent per month to be paid to the city upon all sums so unlawfully retained. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 6, s. 1.)

As to collections by sheriff, see secs. 7992 et seq.

§ 2817. Settlement with tax collector.—In settlement with the city tax collector shall be credited with all poll taxes and taxes on personal property which the governing body shall declare to be insolvent and uncollectible, and with such amounts as may be involved in suit by appeal from the ruling of the board, and he shall be charged with and shall pay over all other sums appearing on the tax list. After the accounts of the tax collector shall be audited and settled, the same shall be reported to the governing body, and when approved by it the same shall be recorded in the minute book of such body, and shall be prima facie evidence of correctness, and impeachable only for fraud or specified error. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 6, s. 1.)

§ 2818. Bond of tax collector and other officers.—The governing body of the city shall require of the tax collector of the city, and any and all officers and employees, such bonds as it may deem necessary, and may pay the expenses of providing such bonds, including the bond of the mayor. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 6, s. 3.)

§ 2819. License to plumbers and electricians.—The governing body may regulate and license plumbers and those engaged in the electrical wiring of buildings for light, power, or heat, and before issuing a license may require the applicant to be examined and to give bond in such sum and upon such conditions as the governing body may determine, and with such sureties as it may approve; and such body may, for incompetency on the part of such licensees or for refusal to comply with the ordinances relating to such business, or for any other good cause, revoke any license issued hereunder. No person, firm, or corporation shall do any kind of plumbing or electrical wiring of buildings without first having obtained a license from the governing body. No license issued hereunder by the governing body shall be for more than one year, and the same shall not be transferable or assignable except by the permission of the governing body. And no license shall be issued, as herein provided, before the license tax shall have been paid. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 6, ss. 6, 7, 8, 9.)

Art. 16. Exercise of Powers by Governing Body

Part 1. Municipal Meetings

§ 2820. Legislative powers, how exercised.—Except as otherwise specially provided, the legislative powers of the governing body may be exercised as provided by ordinance or rule adopted by it. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 1.)

§ 2821. Quorum and vote required.—Every member of the governing body shall have the right to vote on any question coming before it. A majority shall constitute a quorum, and a majority vote of all members present shall be necessary to adopt any motion, resolution or ordinance. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 1.)

§ 2822. Meetings regulated, and journal kept.—The city governing body shall from time to time establish rules for its proceedings. Regular and special meetings shall be held at a time and place fixed by ordinance. All legislative sessions shall be open to the public, and every matter shall be put to a vote, the result of which shall be duly recorded. The governing body shall not by executive session or otherwise consider or vote on any question in private session. A full and accurate journal of the proceedings shall be kept, and shall be open to the inspection of any qualified registered voter of the city. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 1.)

Part 2. Ordinances

§ 2823. How adopted.—No ordinance shall be passed finally on the date on which it is introduced, unless by two-thirds vote of those present. No ordinance making a grant, renewal, or extension, whatever its kind or nature, of any franchise or special privilege shall be passed until voted on at two regular meetings, and no such grant, renewal, or extension shall be made otherwise than by ordinance. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 3.)

§ 2824. Ordinances amended or repealed.—No ordinance or part thereof shall be amended or annulled except by an ordinance adopted in accordance with the provisions of this act. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 4.)

§ 2825. How ordinance pleaded and approved.—In all judicial proceedings it shall be sufficient to plead any ordinance of any city by caption, or by number of the section thereof and the caption, and it shall not be necessary to plead the entire ordinance or section. All printed ordinances or codes or ordinances published in book form by authority of the governing body of any city shall be admitted in evidence in all courts, and shall have the same force and effect as would the original ordinance. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 14.)

As to mayor certifying, see sec. 2637; as to prima facie evidence, see sec. 1750.

In General.—The introduction of an ordinance of a town regulating the speed of trains backing upon the track, and properly proven, under this section requiring a signal light to be displayed, will not be regarded as error on appeal, when it is proved that upon the evidence in the case the jury has found, upon a trial without legal error, the negligence of the defendant's employees proximately caused the personal injury for which damages were sought in the action. Parker v. Seaboard, etc., Railway, 181 N. C. 95, 106 S E. 755.

Part 3. Officers

§ 2826. City clerk elected; powers and duties.—The governing body shall, by a majority vote, elect a city clerk to hold office for the term of two years and until his successor is elected and qualified. He shall have such powers and perform such duties as the governing body may from time to time prescribe in addition to such duties as may be prescribed by law. He shall keep the records of the meetings. The person holding the office of city clerk at the time when any of the plans set forth in this act shall be adopted by such city shall continue to hold office for the term for which he was elected, and until his successor is elected and qualified. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 1.)

§ 2827. Vacancies filled; mayor pro tem.— If a vacancy occurs in the office of the mayor or governing body, the vacancy shall be filled by the governing body of the city. If the mayor is absent or unable from any cause temporarily to perform his duties, they shall be performed by one elected by the governing body of the city for that purpose, who shall be called "mayor pro tem.," and he shall possess the powers of mayor only in matters not admitting delay, but shall have no power to make permanent appointments. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 6.)

As to powers of mayor pro tem, see sec. 2633, 2634; as to commissioner filling vacancy, see sec. 2631.

§ 2828. Bonds required.—Every official, employee, or agent of any city who handles or has custody of more than one hundred dollars of such city's funds at any time shall, before assuming his duties as such, be required to enter into bond with good sureties, in an amount sufficient to protect such city, payable to such city, and conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties and a true accounting for all funds of the city which may come into his hands, custody, or control, which bond shall be approved by the mayor and board of aldermen or other governing body and deposited with the city. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s, 15.)

§ 2829. Information requested from mayor.—The governing body at any time may request from the mayor specific information on any municipal matter within its jurisdiction, and may request him to be present to answer written questions relating thereto at a meeting to be held not earlier than one week from the date of the receipt by the mayor of such questions. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 2.)

Part 4. Contracts Regulated

§ 2830. Contracts awarded on public advertisement.—No contract for construction work on for the purchase of apparatus, supplies, or materials, whether the same shall be for repairs or original construction, the estimated cost of which amounts to or exceeds one thousand dollars, except in cases of special emergency involving the health or safety of the people or their property, shall be awarded unless proposals for the same shall have been invited by advertisement once in at least one newspaper of general circulation in the city, the publication to be at least one week before the time specified for the opening of said proposals. Such advertisement shall state the time and place where plans and specifications of proposed work or supplies may be had and the time and place for opening the proposal in answer to such advertisements, and shall reserve to the city the right to reject any or all such proposals. All such proposals shall be opened in public. No bill or contract shall be divided for the purpose of evading any provision of this act. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 7.)

As to sale at public outcry, see sec. 2688; as to granting franchises, see § 2623, par. 6. As to subsequent similar statute relating to counties, cities, etc., see § 1361(a).

See note, 13 N. C. Law Rev., 248.

Effect of Failure to Comply with Section.—Where the verdict of the jury establishes that the contract for construction was in violation of this section, and that the corporate defendant conspired with the other defendants to obtain the contract in violation of the statute, the corporate defendant doing the work is entitled to the reasonable value of the work as determined by the jury on the issue of quantum meruit, and it is liable to the city for the amount by which the price paid exceeds the reasonable value of the work performed. Moore v. Lambeth, 207 N. C. 23, 175 S. E. 714.

Relief to Taxpayers When Violated.—Injunctive relief against a municipality will be available to a citizen thereof and taxpayer therein, when in a suit in behalf of himself and others so situated, he alleges that the municipal authorities accepted a bid for street paving higher than that submitted by another responsible bidder, induced thereto by personal favor. Murphy v. Greensboro, 190 N. C. 268, 129 S. E. 614.

Liability of City Officers.—Where municipal officers wrongfully, wilfully and knowingly disburse municipal funds in payment for municipal construction under a contract let without advertising for bids, as required by this section, and it appears that the contract price was excessive and exorbitant, and was let by such officers with intent to evade the law, such officers may be held liable in a suit by taxpayers of the city to recover the loss for the city for the amount by which the contract price exceeds the reasonable worth of work performed thereunder, even though they did not act corruptly and of malice. Moore v. Lambeth, 207 N. C. 23, 175 S. E. 714.

Appointment of Subcommittees.—The municipal authorities in passing upon bids for street improvements, are acting in a quasi-judicial capacity, and may not delegate this power to a subcommittee under an agreement to accept the report of the committee thereon as their own act, and give it validity. Murphy v. Greensboro, 190 N. C. 268, 129 S. E. 614.

Plea of Ultra Vires in Action for Consideration.—Where a contract with a corporation has been fully performed by both parties and nothing remains to be done but the payment of the consideration by the corporation, the plea of ultra vires is not available to the corporation; and where a contractor for the construction of certain municipal improvements has given a surety bond to insure his faithful performance, etc., and has completed the work under the contract, he may not, in an action by the surety to recover the premium due on the surety bond, set up the plea that the contract with the city was void for failure to comply with this section with regard to the advertisement for bids. Union Indemnity Co. v. Perry, 198 N. C. 286, 287, 151 S. E. 629.

Cited in Abbott Realty Co. v. Charlotte, 198 N. C. 564, 152 S. E. 686.

§ 2831. Certain contracts in writing and secured.—All contracts made by any department, board, or commission in which the amount involved is two hundred dollars or more shall be in writing, and no such contract shall be deemed to have been made or executed until signed by the officer authorized by law to sign such contract, approved by the governing body. Any contract made as aforesaid may be required to be accompanied by a bond with sureties, or by a deposit of money, certified check, or other security for the faithful performance thereof, satisfactory to the board or official having the matter in charge, and such bonds or other securities shall be deposited with the city treasurer until the contract has been carried out in all respects; and no such contract shall be altered except by a written agreement of the contractor, the sureties on his bond, and the officer, department, or board making the contract, with the approval of the governing body. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 8.)

Cited in Abbott Realty Co. v. Charlotte, 198 N. C. 564, 152 S. E. 686.

§ 2831(a). Separate specifications for contracts; responsible contractors.—Every officer, board, department, commission or commissions charged with the duty of preparing specifications or awarding or entering into contract for the erection, construction or alteration of buildings in any county or city, when the entire cost of such work shall exceed ten thousand dollars, must have prepared separate specifications for each of the following branches of work to be performed: 1. Heating and ventilating. 2. Plumbing and gas fitting. All such specifications must be so drawn as to permit separate and independent bidding upon each of the classes of work enumerated in the above subdivisions. All contracts hereafter awarded by any county, or city, or a department, board, commission, or commissioner, or officer thereof, for the erection, construction or alteration of buildings or any part thereof, must award respective work specified in the above subdivisions separately to responsible persons, firms or corporations regularly engaged in their respective line of work. (1925, c. 141, s. 1; 1929, c. 339, s. 1; 1931, c. 46.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 which substituted "may" for the words "must" and "shall" in lines nine, thirteen and twenty was repealed by the Act of 1931.

§ 2831(b). Validating certain conveyances.—All deeds heretofore made, executed, and delivered, for a good and valuable consideration, by incorporated cities and towns conveying lands used for park purposes, without authority to make and deliver such deed having been first granted by the General Assembly, are hereby in all respects validated, ratified, and confirmed as fully and completely as if said cities and towns had been granted authority of the General Assembly to make and deliver said deeds, and said deeds are hereby declared to be valid conveyances of the land and premises therein described. (1924, c. 95.)

Part 5. Control of Public Utilities

§ 2832. Power to establish and control public utilities.—Any city shall have the right to acquire, establish, and operate waterworks, electric lighting systems, gas systems, schools, libraries, cemeteries, market houses, wharves, play or recreation grounds, athletic grounds, parks, abattoirs, slaughter-houses, sewer systems, garbage and sewage disposal plants, auditoriums or places of amusement or entertainment, and armories. The city shall have the further right to make a civic survey of the city, establish hospitals, clinics, or dispensaries for the poor, and dispense milk for babies; shall have the power to establish a system of public charities and benevolence for the aid of the poor and destitute of the city; for the welfare of visitors from the country and elsewhere, to establish rest rooms, public water-closets and urinals, open sales places for the sale of produce, places for hitching and caring for animals and parking automobiles; and all reasonable appropriations made for the purposes above mentioned shall be binding obligations upon the city, subject to the provisions of the constitution of the state. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 11.)

See 12 N. C. Law Rev., 324.

Granting Exclusive Franchises.—No grant of franchise by a city is deemed exclusive unless so expressed by the grant, and by granting a franchise to a Light and Sewerage Company the city does not deprive itself of its rights under this section, except as set out in the grant. Hill v. Elizabeth City, 291 Fed. 194, 209.

Schools.—The power given by this section to acquire, establish and operate schools applies to any city whether or not it has adopted a plan of government under this chapter. And the grant of the power is by implication the grant of such power as is necessary to exercise the power expressly granted. Hailey v. Winston-Salem, 196 N. C. 17, 23, 144 S. E. 377.

§ 2833. How control exercised:

1. Control over departments. The waterworks department, electric or gas light system, sewerage system, library system, park or park and tree commission system, or playground system, or any other public service owned, operated, or conducted by any city under separate organization or as a separate corporation under the control of any city in the state, which has been heretofore under the separate management and control of separate boards or corporations, may henceforth be under the management and control of the governing body of such city in the state.

2. Departments may be abolished. In all cities except those which have adopted Plan C or Plan D, hereafter set forth, before the governing body shall have control or management of the waterworks, electric light, sewerage system, library system, park or park and tree commission system, or playground system, or any other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city under separate organization or corporation, the governing body of the city, by two-thirds vote taken at two separate regular meetings of such governing body, shall pass an ordinance to the effect that the waterworks, electric or gas light system, sewerage system, library, park or park and tree commission system, or playground system, or any other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city under separate organization or corporation, or either of them, shall be abolished and the control and management shall be under the governing body of the city.

3. Property vested in the city. Upon the passage by the governing body of any city of such ordinance, the waterworks, electric or gas light system, sewerage system, the library system, and the park or park and tree commission system, and any other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city under separate organization or corporation then in existence either under separate organization or under separate management or control or under separate corporation, shall immediately become the property of the city, and all land, real estate, rights, easements, franchises, choses, and property of every kind, whether real or personal, tangible or intangible, the title of which is vested in such separate corporation or board, shall be and become vested in such city, and the boards of water commissioners, electric light commissioners, sewerage commissioners, library boards, park boards, or park and tree commission boards, or the board or commission of any other public service owned, operated, or conducted by or on behalf of such city under separate organization or corporation shall cease to exist as a corporation; and all indebtedness, bonds, or other contracts and obligations of any nature incurred by, for, or on account of the waterworks, electric or gas light system, sewerage system, library system, park or park and tree commission system, or other public utility in the name of or by such corporation, or by such city in its behalf, or by the corporation and such city jointly, shall be and become the sole obligation of such city.

4. Same procedure in other cases. There shall be the same procedure with reference to the library system, park or park and tree commission system, or playground system by the governing body of all cities which shall have adopted Plan C or Plan D before such control and title shall become vested as hereinbefore stated.

5. Popular vote required. In all cities, except those which have adopted Plan C or Plan D, hereafter set forth, before the foregoing provisions of this section shall become effective, such changes in the control and management of the waterworks, electric light, sewerage, etc., shall first be approved by a majority of the qualified voters of such municipality at any regular or special election held under the provisions of this act. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 9.)

§ 2834. Ordinances to regulate management. — The governing body of any city in the exercise of its control and management of the waterworks, electric light, sewerage system, library system, park or park and tree commission system, or any other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city, shall have power to make rules, regulations, and ordinances in connection with the management thereof as they may deem necessary, and shall have power to enforce such rules, regulations, and ordinances. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 10.)

§ 2835. Additional property acquired. — The governing body of any city shall have power to acquire such additional property as it may deem necessary for a better system of waterworks, electric light, sewerage, library, park or parks, or other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city. Upon the adoption by the governing body of any city of any one of the plans of government provided for in this act, the laws now in force in reference to the waterworks, electric light, sewerage, parks, libraries, or other public service owned, operated, or conducted by such city, shall not be repealed by this act, but shall be construed with this act and only repealed in so far as they are inconsistent with the provisions of this act. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 10.)

Part 6. Effect Upon Existing Regulations

§ 2836. Existing rights and obligations not affected. — All official bonds, recognizances, obligations, contracts, and all other instruments entered into or executed by or to the city before this act takes effect in any city, and all taxes, special assessments, fines, penalties, forfeitures incurred or imposed, due or owing to the city, shall be en forced and collected, and all writs, prosecutions actions and causes of action, except as herein otherwise provided, shall continue without abatement and remain unaffected by this act; and no legal act done by or in favor of the city shall be rendered invalid by its adoption of any plan of government provided for by this act. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 5.)

§ 2837. Existing ordinances remain in force.— All valid ordinances and resolutions of any city in force at the date of the ratifications and not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, and all rules of procedure adopted by the governing body of any city, shall be and remain in full force and effect until repealed, annulled, or amended under the provisions of this act, or under the provisions of the charter of such city, and all laws relative to any city, not in conflict with the provisions of this act shall be and remain in full force and effect. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 5.)

§ 2838. Existing election laws remain in force. —This act shall not repeal or impair any general, special, or local election laws now in force in any city, but such general, special, or local laws shall be and continue in full force and effect except where clearly inconsistent with and repugnant to the provisions of this act; and the municipal elections of such city shall continue to be held under and subject to the provisions of such special election laws except as herein otherwise provided: Provided, however, that in every case the governing body of any city shall have the right and power in its discretion and by an ordinance adopted by a two-thirds vote of the members of the entire governing body, to order a new registration of the voters of such city for any general, regular, or special municipal election held in such city for any purpose, unless excepted in this act. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 12.)

§ 2839. General laws apply. — All questions arising in the administration of the government of any city, and not provided for in this act, shall be governed by the laws of the state in such cases made and provided. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 13, s. 13.)

Art. 17. Accounting System

§ 2840. Nature of accounting system. — Accounting systems shall be devised and maintained which shall exhibit the condition of the city's assets and liabilities, the value of its several properties, and state of its several funds. Such systems shall be adequate to record in detail all transactions affecting the acquisition, custodianship, and disposition of values, including cash receipts and disbursements. The recorded facts shall be presented periodically to officials and to the public in such summaries and analytical schedule as shall be necessary to show the full effect of such transactions for each fiscal year upon the finances of the city and in relation to each department of the city government; and there shall be included distinct summaries and schedules for each public utility owned and operated by the city. In all respects, as far as the nature of the city's business permits, the accounting systems maintained shall conform to those employed by progressive business concerns and approved by the best usage. The governing body shall have power to employ accountants to assist in devising such accounting systems. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 14, s. 1.)

§ 2841. Co-operation through board of control. —The board of municipal control shall investigate what amount of cost will be required to employ expert accountants to devise proper uniform accounting systems for municipalities, and shall submit to each city a statement of the cost thereof and attempt to obtain coöperation among as many of the cities of the state as possible in the payment of the cost of such systems; and in case a satisfactory arrangement can be made by such cities for the payment of such costs, then the board of municipal control shall employ such expert accountants for such purpose, and the governing body of each of the cities in the state shall have power to pay its proportion of the cost thereof and install such system. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 14, s. 2.)

Art. 18. Adoption of City Charters

Part 1. Effect of Adoption

§ 2842. Continues corporation with powers according to plan.—Any city which shall adopt, in the manner hereinafter prescribed, one of the plans of government provided in this act shall thereafter be governed by the provisions thereof: and the inhabitants of such city shall continue to be a municipal corporation under the name existing at the time of such adoption, and shall have, exercise, and enjoy all the rights, immunities, powers, and privileges, and shall be subject to all the duties, liabilities, and obligations provided for herein or otherwise pertaining to or incumbent upon such city as a municipal corporation. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 1.)

§ 2845. Mayor and aldermen to hold no other offices.—The mayor or any member of the board of aldermen shall not hold any other office or position of profit, trust, or honor, or perform any other duties or functions than mayor or aldermen under the city government unless it shall be submitted to and approved by a majority of the qualified voters of the city at a regular or special election. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 4.)

§ 2846. Wards regulated.—The territory of any city adopting any one of the plans of government provided for in this act shall continue to be divided into the same number of wards existing at the time of such adoption, which wards shall retain their boundaries until same shall be changed under the provisions of this act: Provided, that if the plan so adopted provides for a different number and arrangement of wards from that existing at the time of such adoption, then in such event the wards of such city shall be so changed and arranged as to conform to the provisions of the plan so adopted. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 5.)

Part. 2. Manner of Adoption

§ 2847. Petition filed.—A petition addressed to the board of elections of the county in which the city is situated, in the form and signed and certified as provided in the next section, may be filed with the county board of elections. The petition shall be signed by qualified voters of the city to a number equal to at least twenty-five per cent of the qualified voters at the last election next preceding the filing of the petition. In cities having a population of eighty thousand (80,000), as shown by the last census, in which it is proposed to adopt plan "B," the petition shall be signed by ten per cent of the qualified voters of said city. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 6; 1933, c. 80, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 80, added the last sentence relating to cities having a population of 80,000.

§ 2848. Form of petition.—The petition shall be in substantially the following form:

To the County Board of Elections of .....
.....County:

We, the undersigned qualified voters of the city, respectfully petition your honorable body to cause to be submitted to a vote of the voters of the city of ..... the following question: "Shall the city of ..... adopt the form of government defined as Plan (A, B, C, or D), as it is desired by petitioners and consisting of (describe plan briefly, as government by a mayor and councilors elected at large, or government by a mayor and councilors elected partly at large and partly from wards or districts, or government by three commissioners, one of whom shall be the mayor, or government by a mayor and four councilors with a city manager), according to the provisions of the chapter, Municipal Corporations, in the Consolidated Statutes, articles nineteen to twenty-three, inclusive.

Or, in case it shall be desired by such petitioners that two of such plans shall be submitted, then the question may be stated as follows:

Shall the city of ..... adopt the form of government defined as Plan ..... or ..... (naming two of such plans as stated above), or remain under the present form of government?

The petition may be in the form of separate sheets, each sheet containing at the top thereof the heading above set forth, and when attached together and offered for filing the several papers shall be deemed to constitute one petition, and there shall be endorsed thereon the name and address of the person presenting the same for filing. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 7.)

§ 2849. Election held.—Within five days after the petition has been filed with the county board of elections, if the petition shall contain twenty-five per cent of the qualified voters as before set forth, the board of elections shall call an election in accordance with such petition. The board of elections shall cause notice of such election to be given at least once a week for four weeks in some newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the election is to be held, or at the courthouse door of the county in which the city is situated or at the door of the city or town hall, and the date of such election shall be fixed by the board not later than forty days from the receipt of such petition. The notice shall be signed by the chairman of the county board of elections, and the cost of publication thereof paid by the city. The election shall be held under, and governed and controlled by, the laws in force at the time of such election governing regular elections of such city. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 8.)

§ 2850. Petitions for more than one plan.—Separate petitions for the submission of more than one of such plans may be filed in the form and manner hereinbefore provided, but if petitions for the submission of more than two of such plans shall be submitted at such election, those two plans shall be submitted at the election, petitions for which shall be first filed with the county board of elections. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 9.)

§ 2851. What the ballots shall contain.—All ballots used in elections held upon the adoption of the plans of government herein set forth shall contain the name of the plan submitted, as Plan A, B, C, or D, or any two of such plans submitted, as the case may be, with a brief description of each plan submitted, as described in the petition, and shall also contain the existing form of government under the name "present form of government." The names of the plans and forms shall be so printed that in appropriate squares the voter may designate by a cross (X) mark only the plan or form of government for which he casts his vote; if there shall be only one plan submitted, the letter and description of such plan and the "present form of government" only shall appear, and the voter shall express his preference between such plan and the "present form of government." If there shall be two plans submitted, then each of the plans shall be denominated and described on the ballot as herein set forth, and the "present form of government" shall also appear upon the ballot, and the ballot shall be so printed that in appropriate squares the voter may designate by a cross (X) mark only the plan or form of his first choice and the plan and form of his second choice. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 10.)

§ 2852. Form of ballots. — Except that the crosses here shown shall be omitted, the ballots shall be printed substantially as follows:

(Form of ballot when only one plan is submitted:)

Special Municipal Election

Plan ..... (with brief description). ☒
Present Form of Government. ☐

(Form of ballot when two plans are submitted:)

Special Municipal Election

To vote for any plan or form of government, make a cross in the appropriate square to the right of the name of such plan or form.

Note your first choice in the first column.

Note your second choice in the second column.

Names of plans or forms	First Choice.	Second Choice.
Plan—(with brief description).	X
Plan—(with brief description).		X
Present Form of Government.

(1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 11.)

§ 2853. Series of ballots.—The plans and forms on all ballots shall be printed in rotation as follows: The ballots shall be printed in as many series as there are plans or forms. The whole number of ballots to be printed shall be divided by number of series and the quotient so obtained shall be the number of ballots in each series. In printing the first series of ballots the names of each plan or form shall be arranged in the alphabetical order of the letters of the plans submitted, followed by the "present form of government." After printing the first series, the first plan or form shall be placed last and the next series printed, and the process shall be so repeated until each plan shall have been printed first an equal number of times. The ballot so printed shall be then combined in tablets or packages so as to have the fewest possible ballots having the same order of plans or forms printed thereon together in the same tablet or package. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 12.)

§ 2854. How choice determined:

1. One plan submitted. If only one of the plans herein set forth and the "present form of government" are submitted, the plan or form of government receiving a majority of the votes cast shall be declared the plan or form selected.

2. More than one plan submitted. If two of the plans herein set forth and the "present form of government" are submitted, the plan or form receiving a majority of first choice votes equal to a majority of all the ballots cast shall be declared the plan or form selected. If no plan or form shall receive such a majority, then the second choice votes received for each plan or form shall be added to its first choice votes, and the plan or form receiving the highest total of first and second choice votes equal to a majority of all ballots cast shall be declared the plan or form selected.

3. How ballots are counted. In counting the ballots, if two plans and the "present form of government" are submitted, the precinct officers shall enter the total number of ballots on a tally-sheet printed therefor. They shall also carefully enter on such sheet the number of first choice and second choice votes for each plan or form of government. Only one vote shall be counted for any one plan or form on any one ballot. If two votes are cast for the same plan or form, the higher choice only shall be counted. If but one choice is voted on a ballot, it shall be counted as a first choice. If more than one cross appears in the same choice column on any ballot, they shall be counted as choices with priority as between each other in the order in which they appear in the choice column. Ballots marked with more than two crosses shall be declared void. A tie between two or more plans or forms shall be decided in favor of the one having the largest number of first choice votes. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, ss. 13, 14.)

Part 3. Result of Adoption

§ 2855. Plan to continue for two years.—Should any one of the plans of government provided for in this act be adopted, the plan shall continue in force for the period of at least two years after beginning of the term of office of the officials elected thereunder; and no petition proposing a different plan shall be filed during the period of one year and six months after such adoption. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 15.)

§ 2856. City officers to carry out plan.—It shall be the duty of the mayor, the governing body, and the city clerk and other city officials, in office, and all boards of election and all election officials, when any plan of government set forth in this act has been adopted by the qualified voters of any city or is proposed for adoption, to comply with all requirements of this act relating to such proposed adoption and to the election of the officers specified in such plan, to the end that all things may be done which are necessary for the nomination and election of the officers first to be elected under the provisions of this act and of the plan so adopted. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 16).

§ 2857. First election of officers.—The first election next succeeding the adoption of any of the plans provided for by this act shall take place on Tuesday after the first Monday in May next succeeding such adoption, and thereafter the city election shall take place biennially on the Tuesday next following the first Monday in May, and the municipal year shall begin and end at ten o'clock in the morning following the day of election. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 17.)

§ 2858. Time for officers to qualify.—On Wednesday after the first Monday in May following the adoption of any of the plans herein provided for, and biennially thereafter, the mayor elect and the councilors-elect or commissioners shall meet and be sworn to the faithful discharge of their duties. The oath may be administered by the city clerk or by any justice of the peace, and a certificate that such oath has been taken shall be entered on the journal of the city council. At any meeting thereafter the oath may be administered in the presence of the city council to the mayor, or to any councilor or commissioner absent from the meeting on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in May. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, s. 18.)

Art. 19. Different Forms of Municipal Government

Part 1. Plan "A." Mayor and City Council Elected at Large

§ 2859. How it becomes operative. — The method of city government herein provided for shall be known as Plan A. Upon the adoption of Plan A by a city in the manner prescribed by this act, such plan shall become operative, and its powers of government shall be exercised, as prescribed herein and in article eighteen of this chapter. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part II, Plan A, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 2860. Mayor's election and term of office. — There shall be a mayor, elected by and from the qualified voters of the city, who shall be the chief executive officer of the city. He shall hold office for the term of two years from Wednesday after the first Monday in May following his election and until his successor is elected and qualified. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part II, Plan A, s. 3.)

As to election prior to this section, see sec. 2631.

§ 2861. Number and election of city council.—The legislative powers of the city shall be vested in a city council. In cities of five thousand inhabitants and under the city council shall consist of three; in cities of five thousand to ten thousand the city council shall consist of five; in cities of ten thousand to twenty thousand inhabitants, the city council shall consist of seven; and in all over twenty thousand inhabitants the city council shall consist of nine. The councilmen shall be elected at large and from the qualified voters of the city. One of its members shall be elected by the council biennially as mayor pro tem. At the first election held in a city after its adoption of Plan A, the councilors shall be elected to serve for two years from Wednesday after the Monday in May following their election and until their successors are elected and qualified, and at each biennial city election thereafter the councilors elected to fill vacancies caused by the expiration of the terms of councilors shall be elected to serve for two years. The number of inhabitants shall be determined by the last United States government census or estimate. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part II, Plan A, s. 4.)

§ 2862. Salaries of mayor and councilmen. — The mayor shall receive for his services such salary as the city council shall by ordinance determine: Provided, however, that the salary of the mayor shall be within the following limits: In cities of five thousand inhabitants and under, not less than three hundred nor more than one thousand dollars. In cities of five thousand to ten thousand inhabitants, not less than five hundred dollars nor more than fifteen hundred dollars. In cities of ten thousand to twenty-five thousand inhabitants, not less than one thousand nor more than three thousand dollars. In cities of over twenty-five thousand inhabitants, not less than two thousand nor more than thirty-five hundred dollars. The number of inhabitants shall be determined by the last United States government census or estimate. The mayor shall receive no other compensation from the city, and his salary shall not be increased or diminished during the term for which he is elected: Provided, however, that the council first elected under this plan shall fix by ordinance the salary within the above limits of the mayor first elected hereunder and shall six months prior to the time of the expiration of its term fix by ordinance the salary within the above limits of the mayor who shall succeed the first mayor under this plan, and each council shall thereafter fix by ordinance the salary of succeeding mayors, but such ordinance shall not be binding in case another plan shall be adopted during the term of office of such council. The council may by a two-thirds vote of all its members, taken by call of the "yeas" and "nays," establish a salary for its members not exceeding two hundred dollars each year. Such salary may be reduced, but no increase therein shall be made to take effect during the year in which the increase is voted. (1917, c. 136; sub-ch. 16, Part II, Plan A, s. 5.)

§ 2863. Officers elected by city council.—All heads of departments and members of municipal board, as their present terms of office expire, shall be elected by the city council: Provided, that the city council may by two-thirds vote at any time abolish, alter, or establish such departments and boards as it may by ordinance determine. A city attorney shall be elected by the city council, and the council may also elect a city solicitor. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part II. Plan A, s. 5.)

As to election by Commissioners, see sec. 2630.

§ 2864. Power of removal in mayor. — The mayor may, with the approval of a majority of the members of the city council, remove any head of a department or member of a board, other than governing board, before the expiration of his term of office. The person so removed shall receive a copy of the reasons for his removal, and he may, if he desires, contest the same before the city council. He shall have the right to be represented by counsel at such hearing. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part II, Plan A, s. 7.)

§ 2865. Veto power of mayor.—Every order, ordinance, resolution, and vote relative to the affairs of the city, adopted or passed by the city council, shall be presented to the mayor for his approval. If he approves it, he shall sign it; if he disapproves it, he shall return it, with his objections in writing, to the city council, which shall enter the objections at large on its records, and again consider it. If the city council, notwithstanding such disapproval of the mayor, shall again pass such order, ordinance, resolution, or vote by a two-thirds vote of all the members of the city council, it shall then be in force; but such vote shall not be taken for seven days after its return to the city council. Every such order, ordinance, resolution, and vote shall be in force if it is not returned by the mayor within ten days after it has been presented to him. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part II, Plan A, s. 8.)

Part 2. Plan "B." Mayor and Council Elected by Districts and at Large

§ 2866. How it becomes operative. — The method of city government herein provided for shall be known as Plan B. Upon the adoption of Plan B by a city in the manner prescribed by this act, such plan shall become operative, and its powers of government shall be exercised, as is prescribed herein and in article eighteen of this chapter. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part III, Plan B, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 2867. Mayor's election and term of office.— There shall be a mayor elected by and from the qualified voters of the city, who shall be the chief executive officer of the city. He shall hold office for the term of two years from Wednesday after first Monday in May following his election and until his successor is elected and qualified, and at each biennial city election thereafter the mayor shall be elected to serve for two years. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part III, Plan B, s. 3.)

As to election prior to this section, see sec. 2631.

§ 2868. City council, election and term of office. —The legislative powers of the city shall be vested in a city council. One of its members shall be elected biennially as its mayor pro tem. In cities over eighty thousand (80,000) population, as shown by the last census, the city council or aldermen shall consist of twelve members, one shall be elected from each ward by and from the qualified voters of that ward. That on or before March 1, 1933, the governing body of each city of over eighty thousand (80,000) inhabitants shall, and it is made mandatory on them to divide the said city into twelve wards as nearly equal as possible as to population. In cities having more than seven wards the city council shall be composed of twelve members, of whom one shall be elected from each ward by and from the qualified voters of that ward, and the remaining members shall be elected by and from the qualified voters of the city. In cities having seven wards or less, the city council shall be composed of eleven members, of whom one shall be elected from each ward by and from the qualified voters of that ward, and the remaining members shall be elected by and from the qualified voters of the city. At the first election held in a city after its adoption of Plan B, the councilors elected from each ward shall be elected to serve for two years from Wednesday after first Monday in May following their election and until their successors are elected and qualified; and at each biennial city election thereafter the councilors elected to fill vacancies caused by the expiration of the terms of councilors shall be elected to serve for two years. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part III, Plan B, s. 4; 1933, c. 80, s. 1.)

As to election of Commissioners, see sec. 2626.

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1933, c. 80, added the third and fourth sentences relating to cities of over 80,000.

§ 2869. Officers elected by city council.—All heads of departments and members of municipal boards, as their terms of office expire, shall be elected by the city council: Provided, that the city council may by two-thirds vote at any time abolish, alter, or establish such departments and boards as it may by ordinance determine. A city attorney shall be elected by the city council, and the council may also elect a city solicitor. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part III, Plan B, s. 5.)

As to election by commissioners, see section 2630.

§ 2870. Power of removal in mayor.—The mayor may, with the approval of a majority of the members of the city council, remove any head of a department or member of a board before the expiration of his term of office. The person so removed shall receive a copy of the reasons for his removal, and he may, if he desires, contest the same before the city council. He shall have the right to be represented by counsel at such hearing. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part III, Plan B, s. 6.)

§ 2871. Salaries of mayor and council. — The mayor shall receive for his services such salary as the city council shall by ordinance determine: Provided, however, that the salary of the mayor shall be within the following limits: In cities of five thousand inhabitants and under, not less than three hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars. In cities of five thousand to ten thousand inhabitants, not less than five hundred nor more than fifteen hundred dollars. In cities of ten thousand to twenty-five thousand inhabitants, not less than one thousand nor more than three thousand dollars. In cities of over twenty-five thousand inhabitants, not less than two thousand nor more than five thousand dollars, and it shall be mandatory that the mayor shall give his entire time and attention to the affairs of the city. The number of inhabitants shall be determined by the last United States government census or estimate. The mayor shall receive no other compensation from the city, and his salary shall not be increased or diminished during the term for which he is elected: Provided, however, that the council first elected under this plan shall fix by ordinance the salary within the above limits of the mayor first elected hereunder, and shall six months prior to the time of the expiration of its term fix by ordinance the salary, within the above limits, of the mayor who shall succeed the first mayor under this plan, and each council shall thereafter fix by ordinance the salary of the succeeding mayors; but such ordinance shall not be binding as to succeeding mayors in case another plan shall be adopted during the term of office of such council. The council may by two-thirds vote of all its members, taken by call of the "yeas" and "nays," establish a salary for its members not exceeding one hundred dollars each per year. Such salary may be reduced, but no increase therein shall be made to take effect during the year in which the increase is voted. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part III, Plan B, s. 7; 1933, c. 80, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1933, c. 80, increased the salaries in cities of over 25,000 inhabitants from $3,500 to $5,000, and made it mandatory that the mayor should devote his entire time to city affairs.

§ 2871(a). Supervisory power of mayor. — All heads of departments after their election by the city council or aldermen, as provided for by section 2869 of the consolidated statutes, shall be under the direction, control and supervision of the mayor during their tenure of office and until discharged by law. (1933, c. 80, s. 3.)

§ 2871(b). Approval of contracts.—No contract or obligation of whatever nature shall be binding upon the city until first approved by the majority of the city council or aldermen, and approved and counter-signed by the mayor. (1933, c. 80, s. 4.)

§ 2872. Veto power in mayor.—Every order, ordinance, resolution, and vote relative to the affairs of the city, adopted or passed by the city council, shall be presented to the mayor for his approval. If he approves it, he shall sign it; if he disapproves it, he shall return it, with his objections in writing, to the city council, which shall enter his objections at large on its records, and again consider it. If the city council, notwithstanding such disapproval of the mayor, shall again pass such order, ordinance, resolution, or vote by a majority vote of all the members of the city council, it shall be in force; but such vote shall not be taken for seven days after its return to the city council. Every such order, ordinance, resolution, or vote shall be in force if it is not returned by the mayor within ten days after it has been presented to him. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part III, Plan B, s. 8.)

Part 3. Plan "C." Commission Form of Government

§ 2873. How it becomes operative.—The method of city government herein provided for shall be known as Plan C. Upon the adoption of Plan C by any city in the manner prescribed by this act, such plan shall become operative, and its powers of government, shall be exercised, as is prescribed herein and in article eighteen of this chapter. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part IV, Plan C, c. 1, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 2874. Board of commissioners governing body.—The government of the city and the general management and control of all of its affairs shall be vested in a board of commissioners, which shall be elected and shall exercise its powers in the manner hereinafter set forth; and such board shall have full power and authority to enact laws and ordinances for the government and management of the city and all its departments. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part IV, Plan C, c. 1, s. 3.)

Cited in Abbott Realty Co. v. Charlotte, 198 N. C. 564, 567, 152 S. E. 686.

§ 2875. Number, power and duties of commissioners.—The board of commissioners shall consist of three members, one of whom shall be mayor, and all of whom shall be elected by a vote of the people as hereinafter provided. One of the commissioners shall be elected and known as commissioner of public works; one of the commissioners shall be elected and known as commissioner of public safety; and the mayor shall be known as commissioner of administration and finance. And the commissioners are hereby empowered to appoint, elect, employ, suspend, and discharge all other officers and employees necessary for the operation and management of the city government and its various departments and activities, and to make all necessary rules and regulations for their government; and full power and authority is hereby granted the board of commissioners to enact all laws and ordinances for the proper government of the city. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part IV, Plan C, c. 2, s. 4.)

Cited in Abbott Realty Co. v. Charlotte, 198 N. C. 564, 567, 152 S. E. 686.

§ 2876. Power and duties of mayor.—The mayor shall be the chief executive officer of the city, and, subject to the supervision of the board of commissioners, shall perform all duties pertaining to such office. He shall do and perform all duties provided or prescribed by law or by the ordinances of the city not expressly delegated to any other person. He shall have general supervision and oversight over the departments and offices of the city government, and shall be the chief representative of the city, and shall report to the board any failure on the part of any of the officers of his or any other department to perform their duties, and shall preside at all meetings of the board of commissioners. He shall sign all contracts on behalf of the city unless otherwise provided by law, ordinance or resolution of the board of commissioners; he shall have charge of and cause to be prepared and published all statements and reports required by law or ordinance or by resolution of the board of commissioners. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part IV, Plan C, c. 2, s. 5.)

§ 2877. Commissioner of administration and finance:

1. Purchasing Agent.—The commissioner of administration and finance (who is also mayor) shall be the purchasing agent of the board of commissioners of the city, and all property, supplies, and material of every kind whatsoever shall, upon the order of the board of commissioners, be purchased by him; and when so purchased by him, the bills therefor shall be submitted to and approved by the board of commissioners before warrants are issued therefor. When such warrants are issued, they shall be signed by the commissioners and countersigned by some other person designated by the board of commissioners.

2. Collector of Taxes and Other Dues.—He shall collect all taxes, water rents, license fees, franchise taxes, rentals, and all other moneys which may be due or become due to the city; he shall issue license or permits as provided by law, ordinance, or resolution adopted by the board of commissioners; he shall report the failure on the part of any person, firm or corporation to pay money due the city; and he shall report to the board of commissioners any failure on the part of any person, firm, or corporation to make such reports as are required by law, ordinance, or order of the board of commissioners to be made, and he shall make such recommendations with reference thereto as he may deem proper.

3. Supervision of Accounts.—He shall have charge of and supervision over all accounts and records of the city, and accounts of all officers, agents, and departments required by law or by the board of commissioners to be kept or made He shall regularly, at least once in three months, inspect or superintend inspection of all records or accounts required to be kept in any of the offices or departments of the city, and shall cause proper accounts and records to be kept, and proper reports to be made. He shall recommend to the board methods of modern bookkeeping for all departments, employees, and agents of the city, and shall, acting for the board of commissioners, audit or cause to be audited by an expert accountant, quarterly, the accounts of every officer or employee who does or may receive or disburse money, and shall publish or cause to be published quarterly statements showing the financial condition of the city. He shall examine or cause to be examined all accounts, payrolls, and claims before they are acted on or allowed, unless otherwise provided by law or by order of the board of commissioners.

4. Control of Employees.—He shall have control of all employees of his department, and of all other officers and employees not by law, ordinance, or resolution of the board of commissioners apportioned or assigned to some other department. The assessor, auditor, city clerk, city attorney, and their respective offices or departments, and all employees therein, and all bookkeepers and accountants are apportioned and assigned to the department of administration and finance, and shall be under the direction and supervision of the commissioner thereof.

5. General Duties.—In the absence or inability of any commissioner to act, he shall exercise temporary supervision over the department assigned to such commissioner, subject, however, to the power of the board to substitute some one else temporarily to perform any of such duties. He shall do and perform any and all other services ordered by the board and not herein expressly conferred upon some other department. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part IV, Plan C, c. 2, s. 8.)

§ 2878. Commissioner of public works:

1. Construction of Public Works.—The commissioner of public works shall have authority and charge over all the public works not herein expressly given to some other department; the construction, cleansing, sprinkling, and repair of the streets and public places, the erection of buildings for the city, and making and construction of all other improvements, paving, curbing, sidewalks, bridges, viaducts, and the repair thereof. He shall approve all estimates of the city engineer of the cost of public works, and recommend to the board of commissioners the acceptance of the work done or improvement made, when completed according to contract, and perform such other duties with reference to such other matters as may be required by law, ordinance, or order of the board of commissioners.

2. Control of Streets and Public Places.—The commissioner shall have supervision and control, and it shall be his duty to keep in good condition the streets, cemeteries, and public parks in the city or belonging to the city, subject to the supervision and control of the board of commissioners; he shall have control, management and direction of all public grounds, bridges, viaducts, subways, and buildings not otherwise assigned herein to some other department; he shall have supervision of the enforcement of the provisions of law and the ordinances relating to streets, public squares and places, cemeteries, and the control of the placing of billboards and street waste-paper receptacles.

3. Control over Public Utilities.—He shall have supervision over the public-service utilities not otherwise assigned to some other department, and all persons, firms, or corporations rendering service in the city under any franchise, contracts, or grant made by the city or state, not otherwise assigned to some other department. He shall have control of the location of street-car tracks, telephone and telegraph wires, and other things placed by public-service corporations in, along, under, or over the streets, and shall report to the board of commissioners or city officers, as may be appointed by them to receive his reports, any failure of such person or corporation to render proper service under a franchise granted by the city or state, and shall report any failure on the part of such person, firm, or corporation to observe the requirements or conditions of such franchise, contract, or grant.

4. Control of Water System.—He shall have charge of the watersheds from which the city takes its supply of water, pumping stations, pipe lines, filtering apparatus, and all other things connected with or incident to the proper supply of water for the city; it shall be his duty to act for the city, subject to the control of the board of commissioners, in securing all rights of way and easements connected with and necessary to the supply of water for the city; he shall have supervision and control of all buildings, grounds, and apparatus connected therewith and incident to the furnishing of water for the city; he shall superintend the erection of water tanks and laying of water lines and the operation thereof.

5. Control of Departments.—The department of the city engineer, and all employees therein, the departments of streets, parks, cemeteries, buildings, and all employees in said departments, shall be under the supervision and control of the commissioner of public works; and he shall do and perform all other services ordered by the board, or that may be ordered by the board, not herein expressly conferred upon some other department. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part IV, Plan C, c. 2, s. 7.)

§ 2879. Commissioner of public safety:

1. Charge of Police Force.—The commissioner of public safety shall have charge of the police force, subject to the supervision and control of the board of commissioners, and shall have power temporarily to supplant the chief of police and take charge of the department, and shall at all times have power to give directions to the officers and all employees in the police department, and his directions shall be binding upon all such officers and employees, subject only to the control of the board of commissioners. He shall have charge of the police stations, jails, and property and apparatus connected therewith, including city ambulance and patrol wagons used in connection with his department.

2. Control of Fire Department.—He shall have the supervision and control, subject to the control of the board of commissioners, of the fire department, of all firemen, officers, and employees therein or connected therewith, and of all fire stations, property and apparatus connected therewith; he shall have power to supersede temporarily the chief of the fire department, and his orders to such department and all employees therein shall be binding upon the department.

3. Traffic Regulations.—He shall be charged with the duty of enforcing all ordinances and resolutions relating to traffic on the public streets, alleys, and public ways, on and across railway lines and through and over the cemeteryways, public parks, and other public places.

4. Health Regulations.—He shall, subject to the supervisions of the board of commissioners, have control of the laws, ordinances, and orders relating to the public health and sanitation, and all health officers, employees of the city, connected with and under his department; and it shall be the duty of the board of commissioners to pass such ordinances and prescribe such rules and regulations and employ such persons as will be necessary to protect and preserve public health. He shall have control and supervision, through the health officer under his department, over public dumping grounds and dumps and city scavengers; he shall be charged, through his department, with the enforcement of all quarantine regulations, of keeping clean all streets, alleys, and public places, and with suppressing and removing conditions on private property within the city that are a menace to health or public safety. He shall be authorized to enter upon private premises for the purpose of discharging the duties imposed upon him, and he shall cause to be abated all nuisances which may endanger or affect the health of the city, and generally do all things, subject to the control of the board of commissioners, that may be necessary and expedient for the promotion of health and suppression of disease.

5. Sewer and Light Systems.—He shall have control and supervision over the sewer system, and shall have charge and control over the sewer inspector and all other officers and employees connected with the department of lights and sewers. He shall have supervision and control over the lighting system of the city, and the management and direction of the lighting of the streets, alleys, and all other public places and grounds and all other places where city lights are placed; he shall be charged with the duty of seeing that all persons, firms, and corporations charged with the duty of supplying lights or waterpower perform the obligation imposed upon them by law, ordinance, or order of the board of commissioners.

6. Control over Officers.—He shall have charge of the electrical inspector, plumbing inspector, building inspector, market house and the employees connected therewith and of all apparatus and property used therein; he shall have charge, supervision and direction of all officers and employees of the city connected with and under his department. He shall perform all other services ordered by the board of commissioners, or that may be ordered by the board of commissioners, not herein expressly conferred upon some other department. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part IV, Plan C, c. 2, s. 8.)

§ 2880. Recommendations as to purchases.—It shall be the duty of each commissioner to recommend to the city purchasing agent the purchase of goods and the contract for all things necessary to be contracted for in his department, and these recommendations shall be submitted to the board of commissioners for its orders with respect thereto. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part IV, Plan C, c. 2, s. 9.)

§ 2881. General powers of board of commissioners.—The board of commissioners shall exercise all legislative powers, functions, and duties conferred upon the city or its officers. It shall make all orders for the doing of work or the making or construction of any improvements, bridges, or buildings. It shall levy all taxes, apportion and appropriate all funds, audit and allow all bills and accounts, payrolls, and claims, and order payment thereof. It shall make all assessments for the cost of street improvements, sidewalks, sewers, and other work, improvements, or repairs which may be specially assessed. It shall make or authorize the making of all contracts, and no contracts shall bind or be obligatory upon the city unless either made by ordinance or resolution adopted by the board of commissioners or reduced to writing and approved by the board or expressly authorized by ordinance or resolution adopted by the board. All contracts and all ordinances and resolutions making contracts or authorizing the making of contracts shall be drawn by the city attorney, or submitted to such officer before the same are made or passed. All heads of departments, agents, and employees are the agents of the board of commissioners only, and all their acts shall be subject to review and to approval or revocation by the board of commissioners. Every head of department, superintendent, agent, employee, or officer shall from time to time, as required by law or ordinance, or when requested by the board of commissioners, or whenever he shall deem necessary for the good of the public service, report to the board of commissioners in writing respecting the business of his department, office, or employment, all matters connected therewith. The board of commissioners may by ordinance or resolution assign to a head of a department, a superintendent, officer, agent, or employee, duties in respect to the business of any other department, office, or employment, and such service shall be rendered without additional compensation. The board of commissioners shall elect and have authority over the city clerk, who shall be the clerk of the board of commissioners. The board of commissioners shall have charge of all matters pertaining to public health, and shall perform all duties belonging thereto. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part IV, Plan C, c. 2, ss. 10, 11.)

Cited in Abbott Realty Co. v. Charlotte, 198 N. C. 564, 152 S. E. 686.

§ 2882. Commissioners' service exclusive. — Each member of the board of commissioners shall devote his time and attention to the performance of the public duties to the exclusion of all other occupations, professions, or callings. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part IV, Plan C, c. 2, s. 12.)

§ 2883. The initiative and referendum:

1. Ordinances Submitted by Petition.—Any proposed ordinance may be submitted to the board of commissioners by petition signed by electors of the city equal to the number provided herein for recall of any official. The signatures, verifications, authentications, inspections, certification, amendments, and submission of such petition shall be the same as provided for the removal of officials.

2. Duty of the Board.—If the petition accompanying the proposed ordinance be signed by the requisite number of electors, and contains a request that the ordinance be passed, or submitted to a vote of the people if not passed by the board of commissioners, such board shall either:

a. Pass such ordinance without alteration within twenty days after attachment of the clerk's certificate to the accompanying petition, or

b. After the clerk shall attach to the petition accompanying such ordinance his certificate of sufficiency, the board of commissioners shall forthwith submit the question to the qualified voters at a special election called for that purpose, or to a general election occurring within ninety days after the date of the clerk's certificate. If the petition is signed by not less than ten and less than twenty-five per cent of the electors as above defined, then the board of commissioners shall within twenty days pass such ordinance without change or submit the same at the next general city election.

3. Popular Vote Taken.—The ballots used when voting upon such ordinance shall contain these words: "For the Ordinance" (stating the nature of the proposed ordinance) and "Against the Ordinance" (stating the nature of the proposed ordinance.) If the majority of the qualified electors voting on the proposed ordinance shall vote in favor thereof, such ordinance shall thereupon become a valid and binding ordinance of the city; and any ordinance proposed by petition, or which shall be adopted by a vote of the people, cannot be repealed or amended except by a vote of the people. Any number of proposed ordinances may be voted upon at the same election, but in accordance with the provisions of this section, but there shall not be more than one special election in any period of six months for such purpose.

4. Proposition for Repeal.— The board of commissioners may submit a proposition for the repeal of any such ordinance, or for amendments thereto, to be voted upon at any succeeding general election; and should any such proposition so submitted receive a majority of the votes cast thereon at such election, such ordinance shall thereby be repealed or amended accordingly.

5. Publication.—Whenever any ordinance or proposition is required by this act to be submitted to the voters of the city at any election, the city shall cause such ordinance or proposition to be published once in a newspaper of general circulation in the city, such publication to be not more than twenty nor less than five days before the submission of such proposition or ordinance to be voted on.

6. When Ordinance Takes Effect.— No ordinance passed by the board of commissioners, unless otherwise expressly provided, except an ordinance for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, which contains a statement of its urgency and is passed by a two-thirds vote of the board of commissioners, shall go into effect before twenty days from the time of its final passage and publication, as herein provided.

7. Action upon Protest Filed.— If during the twenty days a petition, signed by electors of the city equal to the number prescribed herein to be signed to a petition for the recall of any official, protesting against the passage of such ordinance, be presented to the board of commissioners, the operation of such ordinance shall thereupon be suspended, and it shall be the duty of the board of commissioners to consider such ordinance, and if the same is not entirely repealed, the board of commissioners shall submit to the qualified voters the question of the repeal of such ordinance at an election to be held for that purpose in the manner and under the conditions herein provided for reference to voters of the question of recall of an official. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part IV, Plan C, c. 3, s. 1.)

§ 2884. Nomination of candidates:

1. Nomination by Primaries.—All candidates to be voted for at all general municipal elections, at which time a mayor, commissioners, or any other elective officers are to be elected under the provisions of this act, shall be nominated by a primary election, and no other names shall be placed upon the general ballot except those nominated in such primary in the manner hereinafter prescribed.

2. How Primaries Held.—The primary election for such nominations shall be held on the second Monday preceding all general municipal elections. The judges and other officers of election appointed for the general municipal election shall, whenever practicable, be the judges of the primary election, and it shall be held at the same place and in the same manner and under the same rules and regulations and subject to the same conditions, and the polls to be opened and closed at the same hours, as are required for the general election.

3. Notice of Candidacy.—Any person desiring to become a candidate for nomination by the primary for the office of mayor or commissioner of either of the other two departments or any other elective office shall, at least ten days prior to the primary election, file with the clerk a statement of such candidacy in substantially the following form:

State of North Carolina—County of .....

I, ..., hereby give notice that I reside at ..... street, city of ..... county of ....., State of North Carolina; that I am a candidate for nomination to the office of (mayor, or commissioner of a particular department, or other office) to be voted upon at the primary election to be held on the ..... Monday of ....., 19.., and I hereby request that my name be printed upon the official ballot for the nomination by such primary election for such office.

(Signed) .....

And he shall at the same time pay to the clerk, to be turned over to the city treasurer, the sum of five dollars.

4. Publication of Names.—Immediately upon the expiration of the time for filing the petition of candidates, the city clerk shall cause to be published for three successive days in a daily newspaper of general circulation in the city, in proper form, the names of the persons as they are to appear upon the primary ballots.

5. Ballots Prepared.—The clerk shall thereupon cause the primary ballots to be printed, authenticated with a facsimile of his signature. Upon the ballot the names of the candidates for mayor, arranged alphabetically, shall be placed, with a square at the left of each name, and immediately below the words, "vote for one." Following the names, likewise arranged in alphabetical order, shall appear the names of the candidates for the commissioners of the two other departments, respectively, with a square at the left of each name, and below the names of such candidates for each of the departments shall appear the words, "vote for one." Like provision shall be made for the names of candidates for each other elective office provided by law. The ballots shall be printed upon plain, substantial white paper, and shall be headed: "Candidates for nomination for mayor and commissioners of two other offices (naming them), of the city of ....., North Carolina, at the primary election," but shall have no party designation or mark whatever.

6. Form of Ballots.—The ballots shall be in substantially the following form:

(Place a cross in the square preceding the names of parties you favor as candidates for the respective positions.)

Official primary ballot. Candidates for nomination for mayor and commissioners and other offices (naming them) of the city of ..... North Carolina, at the primary election.

For Mayor (naming candidates.) (Vote for one.)

For Commissioner of the Department of Public Safety (names of candidates.) (Vote for one.)

For Commissioner of the Department of Public Works (names of candidates.) (Vote for one.)

Official ballot. Attest:

(Signature) ..... City Clerk.

7. Distribution of Ballots. — Having caused ballots to be printed, the city clerk shall cause to be delivered at each polling place a number of ballots equal to twice the number of votes cast in such polling precinct at the last general municipal election for mayor.

8. Who Entitled to Vote.—The persons who are qualified to vote at the succeeding municipal election shall be qualified to vote at such primary election, and shall be subject to challenge made by any resident of the city, under such rules as may be prescribed by the board of commissioners, and such challenge shall be passed upon by the judge of election and registrars: Provided, however, that the law applicable to challenge at a general municipal election shall be applicable to challenge made at such primary election.

9. Ballots Counted.—Judges of election shall, immediately upon the closing of the polls, count the ballots and ascertain the number of votes cast in such precincts for each of the candidates, and make return thereof to the city clerk, upon blanks to be furnished by the clerk, within six hours of the closing of the polls.

10. Returns Canvassed.—On the day following the primary election the city clerk, under the supervision and direction of the mayor, shall canvass such returns so received from all the polling precincts, and shall make and publish in some newspaper of general circulation in the city, at least once, the result thereof. The canvass by the city clerk chall be publicly made.

11. Who to Be Candidates. — The two candidates receiving the highest number of votes for mayor, and the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes for commissioners for each of the respective departments, and the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes for any other elective office, shall be the candidates, and the only candidates whose names shall be placed upon the ballot for mayor, commissioners, and other elective offices at the next succeeding general municipal election. Provided, however, if any candidate for Mayor receives a majority of all the votes cast for the office of Mayor, or if any candidate for Commissioner receives a majority of all the votes cast for the office of Commissioner of the Department for which such person is a candidate, then only the name of the candidate receiving a majority of all the votes cast for such position shall be placed upon the ballot for Mayor or Commissioner of such Department at the next succeeding general municipal election. (1917, c. 136, sub-c. 16, Part 4, Plan, c. 4; 1929, c. 32, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added the proviso to subsection 11 of this section.

§ 2885. Recall of officials by the people:

1. Who may be Removed.—The holder of any elective office may be removed at any time by the electors qualified to vote for a successor of such incumbent.

2. Petition Filed and Verified.—The procedure to effect the removal of an incumbent of an elective office shall be as follows: A petition signed by electors entitled to vote for a successor to the incumbent sought to be removed, equal in number to at least twenty-five per centum of the entire vote for all candidates for the office of mayor cast at the last preceding general municipal election, demanding an election of a successor of the person sought to be removed, shall be filed with the clerk, which petition shall contain a general statement of the ground for which the removal is sought. The signatures to the petition need not all be appended to one paper, but each signer shall add to his signature his place of residence, giving the street and number. One of the signers of each such paper shall make oath before an officer competent to administer oaths that the statements therein made are true, as he believes, and that each signature to the paper appended is the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be.

3. Clerk to Examine and Certify Sufficiency.—Within ten days from the date of filing such petition the city clerk shall examine and from the voters' register ascertain whether or not the petition is signed by the requisite number of qualified electors, and he shall attach to the petition his certificate, showing the result of such examination. If by the clerk's certificate the petition is shown to be insufficient, it may be amended within ten days from the date of the certificate. The clerk shall, within ten days after such amendment, make like examination of the amended petition, and if his certificate shall show the same to be insufficient, it shall be returned to the person filing the same; without prejudice, however, to the filing of a new petition to the same effect. If the petition shall be deemed to be sufficient, the clerk shall submit the same to the board of commissioners without delay.

4. Board to Order Primary.—If the petition shall be found to be sufficient, the board of commissioners shall order and fix a date for holding a primary, as provided in cases preceding regular elections, the primary to be held not less than ten days or more than twenty days from the date of the clerk's certificate to the board of commissioners that a sufficient petition is filed. If in the primary election any candidate receives a majority of all the votes cast, he shall be declared to be elected to fill out the remainder of the term of the officer who is sought to be recalled. If there be more than two candidates in such primary and no one received a majority of all the votes cast therein, then there shall be an election held within twenty days from the date of the primary, at which election the two candidates receiving the highest vote in the primary shall be voted for. Candidates' names shall be placed on the ticket in the primary and election held, and the results canvassed, under the same rules, conditions, and regulations as are prescribed for the primaries preceding regular elections. The board of commissioners shall make or cause to be made publication for ten days of notice and all arrangements for holding such election, and the same shall be conducted, returned, and the results thereof declared in all respects as other city elections.

5. Candidate Elected Succeeds to Office. — The successor of any officer so removed shall hold office during the unexpired term of his predecessor. Any person sought to be removed may be a candidate to succeed himself, and unless he requests otherwise in writing, the clerk shall place his name on the official ballot without nomination. At such election, if some other person than the incumbent is elected, the incumbent shall thereupon be deemed removed from the office upon qualification of his successor.

6. Vacancy Filled.—In case the party elected should fail to qualify within ten days after receiving notification of election, the office shall be deemed vacant, and in that event the unexpired term shall be filled by election by the board, but the commissioner removed shall not be eligible to election by the board, and the person so elected by the board shall be subject to recall as other commissioners. If the incumbent receives a majority of votes in the primary election he shall continue his office.

7. Application of Method of Removal.—Such method of removal shall be cumulative and additional to any other method provided by law. In the event any officer is recalled and any person is elected as his successor, the right of recall of such successor so elected shall be as in case of an officer originally elected. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part IV, Plan C, c. 5.)

Power to Remove Officers.—"In 1 Dillon Mun. Corp. (4th Ed.), sec. 240, it is said: 'The power to remove a corporate officer from his office for reasonable and just cause is one of the common-law incidents of all corporations.' This doctrine, though declared before, has been considered settled ever since Lord Mansfield's judgment in the well known case of The King v. Richardson, 1 Burrows, 517. It is there denied that there can be no power of a motion unless given by charter or prescription, and the contrary doctrine is asserted, 'that from the reason of the thing, from the nature of corporations, and for the sake of order and government, the power is incidental.'" State v. Jenkins, 148 N. C. 25, 27, 61 S. E. 608.

§ 2886. Salaries of officers. — The mayor and commissioners shall have offices at the city hall. The compensation of the mayor and commissioners shall be as follows: In cities of five thousand inhabitants and under, the mayor shall receive one thousand dollars and the commissioners each seven hundred and fifty dollars. In cities of five to ten thousand inhabitants the mayor shall receive fifteen hundred dollars and the commissioners each one thousand dollars. In cities of ten to fifteen thousand inhabitants the mayor shall receive two thousand dollars and the commissioners each fifteen hundred dollars. In cities of fifteen to twenty-five thousand inhabitants the mayor shall receive twenty-six hundred dollars and the commissioners each twenty-four hundred dollars. In cities of twenty-five to forty thousand inhabitants the mayor shall receive three thousand five hundred dollars ($3,500.00), and the commissioners each three thousand two hundred and fifty dollars ($3,250.00). In cities over forty thousand inhabitants the mayor shall receive six thousand dollars ($6,000.00), and the commissioners each five thousand dollars ($5,000.00). The number of inhabitants shall be determined by the last United States government census or estimate. Every other officer, agent, employee, and assistant of the city government shall receive such salary or compensation as the board of commissioners shall by ordinance provide, payable in equal monthly installments, unless the board shall order payments to be made at nonpayment intervals. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part IV. Plan C, c. 6; 1923, c. 203; 1927, c. 243.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment of 1923 the salaries of officers in all cities over 25,000 was the same as is now provided for cities from 25,000 to 40,000 inhabitants. By the amendment of 1923 the salaries of officers in cities over 40,000 inhabitants was raised; the mayor to receive $4,500, and the commissioners each $4,250. By amendment of 1927 salaries of officers in cities having more than 40,000 inhabitants were raised again; the mayor to receive $6,000 and the commissioners each, $5,500.

Part 4. Plan "D." Mayor, City Council, and City Manager

§ 2887. How it becomes operative.—The method of city government herein provided for shall be known as Plan D. Upon the adoption of Plan D by a city in the manner prescribed by article eighteen of this act, such plans shall become operative, and the powers of government of such city shall be exercised, as provided herein and in article eighteen. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part V, Plan D, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 2888. Governing body.—The government of the city and the general management and control of all its affairs shall be vested in a city council, which shall be elected and shall exercise its powers in the manner herein and in article eighteen set forth, except that the city manager shall have the authority hereinafter specified. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part V, Plan D, s. 3.)

§ 2889. Number and election of city councils.—The city council shall consist of five members, who shall be elected at large by and from the qualified voters of the city for a term of two years and until their successors are elected and qualified. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part V, Plan D, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—For acts applicable only to the city of Charlotte, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 94.

§ 2890. Power and organization of city council.—All the legislative powers of the city shall be vested in the city council. The city council elected as aforesaid shall meet at ten o'clock in the forenoon on Wednesday after the first Monday of May in each year, and the members of the city council whose terms of office then begin shall severally make oath before the city clerk or justice of the peace to perform faithfully the duties of their respective offices. The city council shall thereupon be organized by the choice from its members of a mayor, who shall hold his office during the term for which he was elected a member of the city council, and a mayor pro tem., who shall hold his office during the pleasure of the city council. The organization of the city council shall take place as aforesaid, notwithstanding the absence, death, refusal to serve, or nonelection of one or more of the members: Provided, that at least three of the persons entitled to be members of the city council are present and make oath as aforesaid. Any member entitled to make the aforesaid oath, who was not present at the time fixed therefor, may make oath at any time thereafter. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part V, Plan D, s. 5; 1919, c. 270, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—For acts applicable only to the city of Charlotte, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 94.

§ 2891. Meetings regulated.—The city council shall fix suitable times for its regular meetings. The mayor, the mayor pro tem. of the city council, or any two members thereof, may at any time call a special meeting by causing a written notice, stating the time of holding such meeting and signed by a person or persons calling the same, to be delivered in hand to each member or left at his usual dwelling place at least six hours before the time of such meeting. Meetings of the city council may also be held at any time when all the members of the council are present and consent thereto. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part V, Plan D, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—For acts applicable only to the city of Charlotte, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 94.

§ 2892. Quorum and conduct of business.—A majority of the members of the city council shall constitute a quorum. Its meetings shall be public, and the mayor, who shall be the official head of the city, shall, if present, preside and shall have the same power as the other members of the council to vote upon all measures coming before it, but shall have no power of veto. In the absence of the mayor, the mayor pro tem. of the city council shall preside, and in the absence of both, a chairman pro tempore shall be chosen. The city clerk shall be ex officio clerk of the city council, and shall keep records of its proceedings; but in case of his temporary absence, or in case of a vacancy in the office, the city council may elect by ballot a temporary clerk, who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of his duties, and may act as clerk of the city council until a city clerk is chosen and qualified. All final votes of the city council involving the expenditure of fifty dollars or over shall be by yeas and nays and shall be entered on the records. On request of one member, the vote shall be by yeas and nays, and shall be entered upon the records. Three affirmative votes at least shall be necessary for the passage of any order, ordinance, resolution, or vote. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part V, Plan D, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—For acts applicable only to the city of Charlotte, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 94.

§ 2893. Vacancies in council.—Vacancies in the city council shall be filled by the council for the remainder of the unexpired terms. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part V, Plan D, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—For acts applicable only to the city of Charlotte, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 94.

§ 2894. Election of mayor.—The mayor shall be elected by the city council from among its own members, and shall hold office during the term for which he has been elected to the council. In case of a vacancy in the office of mayor, the remaining members of the council shall choose from their own number his successor for the unexpired term. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part V, Plan D, s. 9; 1919, c. 60, s. 1, c. 270, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—For acts applicable only to the city of Charlotte, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 94.

§ 2895. Salaries of mayor and council.—The mayor shall receive for his services such salary as the city council shall by ordinance determine, not exceeding seven hundred dollars a year, and he shall receive no other compensation from the city. His salary shall not be increased or diminished during the term for which he is elected. The council may, by a vote of not less than three members, taken by call of the yeas and nays, establish a salary for its members not exceeding two hundred dollars a year for each. Such salary may be reduced, but no increase therein shall be made to take effect during the year in which the increase is voted. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part V, Plan D, s. 10.)

Editor's Note.—For acts applicable only to the city of Charlotte, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 94.

§ 2895(a). Election of treasurer; salary.—The mayor and council may elect from their membership a treasurer by the method outlined above, and in addition to the salary allowed as a member of the council, such treasurer may be paid for his services as treasurer not exceeding three hundred dollars per annum. (1935, c. 180.)

§ 2896. City manager appointed. — The city council shall appoint a city manager, who shall be the administrative head of the city government, and shall be responsible for the administration of all departments. He shall be appointed with regard to merit only, and he need not be a resident of the city when appointed. He shall hold office during the pleasure of the city council, and shall receive such compensation as it shall fix by ordinance. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part V, Plan D, s. 11.)

See note under § 2897.

§ 2897. Power and duties of manager.—The city manager shall (1) be the administrative head of the city government; (2) see that within the city the laws of the state and the ordinances, resolutions, and regulations of the council are faithfully executed; (3) attend all meetings of the council, and recommend for adoption such measures as he shall deem expedient; (4) make reports to the council from time to time upon the affairs of the city, keep the council fully advised of the city's financial condition and its future financial needs; (5) appoint and remove all heads of departments, superintendents, and other employees of the city. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part V, Plan D, s. 12.)

Conceding that the city manager is an officer in the meaning of the Constitution, Art. XIV, § 7, yet the duties of his office in the cases set forth in this section for the time being can be performed ex officio by one of the council "as mere auxiliary duties." State v. Holmes, 207 N. C. 293, 298, 176 S. E. 746.

§ 2898. Appointment and removal of officers.—Such city officers and employees as the council shall determine are necessary for the proper administration of the city shall be appointed by the city manager, and any such officer or employee may be removed by him; but the city manager shall report every such appointment and removal to the council at the next meeting thereof following any such appointment or removal. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part V, Plan D, s. 13.)

§ 2899. Control of officers and employees.—The officers and employees of the city shall perform such duties as may be required of them by the city manager, under general regulations of the city council. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part V, Plan D, s. 14.)

§ 2900. School system controlled.—The public school system may be placed by the council under the management and control of a board of education of not less than three and not more than seven members, to be appointed by the council under such rules and regulations and with such powers and duties as the council may from time to time prescribe: Provided, however, that if any city adopting this form of government shall have, at the time of such adoption, a board of education acting under powers and regulations given it by a vote of the voters of such city, such board of education shall remain in existence and the powers and duties given it by a vote of the people shall be and remain in full force and effect, except that the appointment of the members of such board of education shall vest in the council: Provided further, that in all cases wherein the said board of education is now elected by the people, such board shall continue to be elected by the electors of the municipality at the same time and in the same manner as the city council is elected, as herein provided: Provided further, that the duties and powers of the city manager, prescribed herein in Plan D, shall not be construed as applying in any manner to the public schools, their financial management and operation. The words "board of education" shall be construed to mean and include board, school commissioners, or other similar educational board. (1919, c. 60, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The act of the Legislature, chapter 142, Private Laws of 1929, amending chapter 78, Private Laws of 1923, providing for the election and appointment of the school commissioners of a certain city has the effect of modifying this section and the board of school commissioners should be elected or appointed, in case of vacancy, according to the provisions of chapter 78, Private Laws of 1923, as amended by the act of 1929. Goode v. Brenizer, 198 N. C. 217, 151 S. E. 254.

Part 5. Plans "A" and "D," with Initiative, Referendum and Recall

§ 2901. How submitted, and effect of adoption.—There may be submitted as an addition to Plans A or D "The Initiative and Referendum" and "Recall of Officials by the People," as set forth in Plan C, in which case all references to the board of commissioners shall apply to the mayor and council, and the petition for election and the ballots shall contain the name of the plan as "Plan A, with Initiative, Referendum, and Recall"; "Plan D, with Initiative, Referendum and Recall," and such plans shall be submitted with such additions as provided in this act for the submission of such plans. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VI.)

Art. 20. Amendment and Repeal of Charter

§ 2902. "Home rule" or "Local self-government."—Within the limitations prescribed by the constitution and now existing or hereafter enacted general laws, any municipality may amend or repeal its charter or any part thereof or adopt a new charter. The proposal to amend, repeal, or adopt may be initiated: (a) By the governing body of such municipality; (b) By any number of the qualified electors of such municipality not less than twenty-five per centum of qualified electors entitled to vote at the next preceding regular municipal election in such municipality. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 1.)

§ 2903. Ordinances to amend or repeal charter: 1. How Adopted. If any amendment, repeal, or adoption be initiated by the governing body of any municipality, the governing body shall at one of its regular meetings, and not less than six days after the introduction thereof, adopt by not less than a two-thirds vote of all its members an ordinance in which shall be recited in full the amendment, repeal, or adoption proposed; such ordinance shall also recite that such amendment, repeal, or adoption is, in the opinion of the governing body, for the best interest of the municipality.

2. Publication Made. It shall direct publication over the name of the mayor or other chief officer of the municipality of a notice in substantially the following form (the blank spaces to be properly filled in):

Notice of Amendment to Charter of

.....

(here insert name of municipality.)

The governing body of (here insert name of municipality) at a regular meeting held on the .... day of ....., 19.., adopted a resolution as follows (here copy verbatim the resolution).

Dated this .... day of ....., 19....

....., Mayor.

3. Submitted to Vote. The governing body shall in its resolution provide that the amendment, repeal, or adoption therein proposed shall not become effective until submitted to and approved by a majority of the votes cast at a regular municipal election or a special election called for that purpose, and such amendment, repeal or adoption shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the city at an election called and held for such purpose, or at a regular municipal election. Thereupon, if such amendment, repeal, or adoption shall have been approved by a majority of the votes cast as hereinbefore provided, such amendment, repeal, or adoption shall become effective.

4. Manner of Publication. The notice required shall be published once a week for four successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the municipality. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, ss. 2, 8.)

§ 2904. Officers to be voted for.—The governing body of the town, if it submits the question of amending the charter of the town at a regular election so as to provide for a different number of members constituting the governing body of the town from that number provided for in the old charter, may also order an election to be held at said regular municipal election for the commissioners or members of the governing body provided for in the proposed amended charter, and at said election commissioners shall also be voted for as provided for under the old charter. If the proposed amendment is adopted, then the commissioners or members of the governing body elected under the proposed amendment shall constitute the governing body of the town for the ensuing term. If the proposed amendment is not adopted, the commissioners or the members of the governing body of said town elected under the provisions of the old charter shall constitute the governing body of the town for the ensuing term. (1919, c. 334.)

§ 2905. Petition for amendment or repeal of charter:

1. Nature of Petition.—If any amendment, repeal, or adoption be initiated by the qualified electors of such municipality the same shall be by a petition signed by not less than twenty-five per centum of the qualified electors entitled to vote at the next preceding regular election in such municipality. The petition shall be appropriately entitled and shall be addressed to the governing board of such municipality, and shall state in exact language the amendment, repeal, or adoption proposed; the petition need not be all on one sheet, and if on one or more than one sheet shall be verified by a freeholder in such municipality who is also a signer of such petition. The petition shall contain a request to the governing body of the municipality to submit to the qualified electors thereof the amendment, repeal, or adoption as therein stated, either at a regular election or at a special election to be called for that purpose. It shall thereupon be the duty of the clerk of such municipality to examine the petition for the purpose of ascertaining whether the same has been signed by the required number of qualified electors of the municipality, and the clerk shall certify to the governing body the result of his investigation.

2. Submitted to Vote.—Upon such certificate, it shall be the duty of the governing body to provide for submission to a vote of the amendment, repeal, or adoption proposed in the petition, either at a regular election or at a special election to be called for that purpose, and if the amendment, repeal, or adoption shall be approved by a majority of the votes cast, as hereinbefore provided, such amendment, repeal, or adoption shall become effective. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 3.)

§ 2906. Nature of verification.—Whenever verification of any petition is provided or required to be made by this article, such verification shall consist of a written oath signed by the person making the same, which shall state in substance that the persons whose names appear signed to such petition were so signed by such persons respectively in the presence of the person making oath, and that, to the best of the knowledge and belief of the person making the oath, each of such persons is a qualified elector entitled to vote at the next preceding regular election in the municipality. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 4.)

§ 2907. Laws controlling elections.—Whenever any election, either regular or special, is provided or required to be held under this article, such election shall be held under such laws, either general or special, as are at the time of the holding of such election in force and effect with reference to such municipality. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 5.)

§ 2908. Several propositions voted on.—Any number of amendments or repeals may be initiated by one and the same resolution or petition, and whenever under this article an election is provided or required to be held, any number of such amendments or repeals may be submitted and voted upon at one and the same election. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 6.)

§ 2909. Limitations as to holding special elections.—No special election provided or required by this article shall, except as otherwise provided in this article, be held within two months of the time of holding any regular municipal election in any municipality; not more than two special elections may be held under this article in any municipality within any one year. The elections, subject to the other provisions of this section, shall be held within three months from the date of the filing of the petition. Any election heretofore called within three months from the date of filing any petition under this section and related sections is hereby validated. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 7; 1921, c. 56.)

Editor's Note.—By amendment of 1921 the last sentence to this section was added, and the words "within three months" in the next to the last sentence were substituted for "not less than three months."

§ 2910. Adoption or change certified and recorded.—Upon the amendment, repeal, or adoption of a charter of any municipality as provided in this article, the governing body shall cause to be certified to the secretary of the municipal board of control a copy of such amendment, repeal, or adoption duly certified by its clerk and under the seal of such municipality; the copy so certified shall be recorded in the office of the secretary of state, and a copy shall be so certified by the secretary of state to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such municipality is situated and recorded in the office of the clerk; the record therein provided for, either in the office of the secretary of state or in the office of the clerk of the superior court, shall be evidence in all the courts of this state. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 9.)

§ 2911. Adoption or change ratified by vote.—Whenever any amendment, repeal, or adoption of a charter of any municipality is submitted under the provisions of this article to the qualified electors of such municipality, such amendment, repeal, or adoption shall not become effective unless and until the same shall have been approved by a majority of the votes cast at the election and the result of the election thereon canvassed, determined, and declared as provided by law. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 10.)

§ 2912. Plan not changed for two years.—When any municipality shall, as provided in this act, adopt any one of the plans as set forth in this act, no amendment, repeal, or adoption of such plans shall be made until and after the expiration of two years from the date of the adoption of such plan. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 3.)

Art. 21. Elections Regulated

§ 2913. Laws governing elections.—All elections called and held by any city for any purpose under the provisions of this act shall be held under, governed and controlled by the laws in force at the time of such election governing and controlling regular and special municipal elections of such city in so far as they are applicable and not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, and where not otherwise provided by law. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VIII, s. 1.)

§ 2914. Publication of notice.—Except as otherwise provided in this act, notice of every special election held in any city shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation in such city at least once a week for four weeks preceding the date of such election, and posted for thirty days at the door of the building in which the governing body holds its meetings and three other public places in the city. Such notice shall set forth the date and hours of such elections, the proposition to be voted on thereat, the location of the polling places, and, in the event a new registration is ordered for such election, shall so state and set forth the dates of opening and closing the registration books and the names and addresses of the several registrars in charge thereof. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VIII, s. 1.)

§ 2915. Time for holding elections.—If any city shall adopt any one of the plans of government provided for in this act during the year nineteen hundred and seventeen, the election of city officers under such plan shall be held on Tuesday after the first Monday in May following the adoption of such plan, and the regular municipal elections of such city shall take place biennially thereafter. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VIII, s. 1.)

Art. 22. General Effect of Act

§ 2916. Not to repeal Municipal Finance Act.—Nothing in this act contained shall be construed to amend or repeal any provisions of the "Municipal Finance Act," and wherever this act and the "Municipal Finance Act" conflict, the "Municipal Finance Act" shall control. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 16, Part VII, s. 4.)

§ 2917. Effect of unconstitutionality in part.—If any part of this act shall be declared unconstitutional, it shall not affect other parts of this act. (1917, c. 136, sub-ch. 17.)

SUBCHAPTER III. MUNICIPAL FINANCE ACT

Art. 23. General Provisions

§ 2918. Short title.—This law may be cited as "The Municipal Finance Act, 1921." (1917, c. 138, s. 1; 1919, c. 178, s. 3(1); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By amendment Ex. Sess. 1921 the word "law" was substituted for "act."

The Municipal Finance Act was amended and re-enacted by Public Laws 1921. This amended and re-enacted law was declared unconstitutional by Allen v. Raleigh, 181 N. C. 453, 107 S. E. 463, so the amendment and re-enactments of Ex. Sess. 1921 was had to make the amendments that were attempted to be made by Public Laws 1921. See Kornegay v. Goldsboro, 180 N. C. 441, 105 S. E. 187 as touching on the constitutionality and prior changes in the Act.

As to application of sinking funds to purchase of bonds, see §§ 1334(82), 1334(85). As to accelerating maturity of bonds, see § 1334(11a). As to Local Government Act, see §§ 2492(1)-2492(51). As to validation of municipal bonds, etc., see §§ 2492(52)-2492(61).

Applicability to School Districts.—This Act does not deal with school districts. It, therefore, does not repeal the Acts of 1915, ch. 722. Waters v. Com's, 186 N. C. 719, 120 S. E. 450.

§ 2919. Meaning of terms.—In this law, unless the context otherwise requires the expressions:

"Bond ordinance" means an ordinance authorizing the issuance of bonds of a municipality;

"Clerk" means the person occupying the position of clerk or secretary of a municipality;

"Financial officer" means the chief financial officer of a municipality;

"Funding bonds" means bonds issued to pay or extend the time of payment of debts not evidenced by bonds.

"Governing body" means the board or body in which the general legislative powers of a municipality are vested;

"Local improvement" means any improvements or property the cost of which has been or is to be specially assessed in whole or in part;

"Municipality" means and includes any city, town, or incorporated village in this state, now or hereafter incorporated;

"Necessary expenses" means the necessary expenses referred to in section seven of article seven of the constitution of North Carolina;

"Publication" includes posting in cases where posting is authorized by this act as a substitute for publication in a newspaper;

"Refunding bonds" means bonds issued to pay or extend the time of payment of debts evidenced by bonds.

"Special assessments" means special assessments for local improvements, levied on abutting property or other property specially benefited, or on street railroad companies or other companies or individuals having tracks in streets or highways, and "specially assessed" has a corresponding meaning. (1917, c. 138, s. 2; 1919, c. 178, s. 3(2); 1919, c. 285, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1; 1931, c. 60, s. 46; 1933, c. 259, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By amendment, Ex. Sess. 1921 the provision as to the determination of who is chief financial officer being left to the determination of governing body was omitted by the new Law.

Prior to Public Laws 1933, c. 259, this section, in the definition of "funding bonds" and "refunding bonds" limited such bonds to those issued for the payment of debts "incurred before July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one." The quoted clause was deleted by the amendment.

§ 2920. Publication of ordinance and notices.—An ordinance or notice required by this act to be published by a municipality shall be published in a newspaper published in the municipality, or, if no newspaper is published therein, in a newspaper published in the county and circulating in the municipality, or, if there is no such newspaper, the ordinance or notice shall be posted at the door of the building in which the governing body usually holds its meetings and at three other public places in the municipality. (1917, c. 138, s. 3; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (3); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Sections 2920 to 2928 were re-enacted without charge by the Public Laws Ex. Sess. 1921.

§ 2921. Application and construction of law.—This law shall apply to all municipalities. Every provision of this law shall be construed as being qualified by constitutional provisions, whenever such construction shall be necessary in order to sustain the constitutionality of any portion of this law. If any portion of this law shall be declared unconstitutional, the remainder shall stand, and the portion declared unconstitutional shall be exscinded. (1917, c. 138, ss. 4, 5; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (4), (5); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Art. 24. Budget and Appropriations

§ 2922. The fiscal year.—The fiscal year of every municipality shall begin either on the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, and on the first day of July in each year thereafter. In any municipalities whose fiscal year begins on the first day of June the present fiscal year shall be a year of thirteen months ending on the last day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one. In order that the additional expenses of such municipality by reason of the added month may be met without unduly burdening taxable property, any such municipality shall have the power to borrow money and issue negotiable notes therefor in such sum as may be approved by the Commission and in the manner and under the limitations provided by the Municipal Finance Act, except that any such notes and the renewals thereof may mature at any time prior to July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-four, but it shall be the duty of any municipality taking advantage of this provision to include in the budget of each of the fiscal years beginning in one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, one thousand nine hundred thirty-two and one thousand nine hundred thirty-three at least one-third of the face amount of such notes. (1917, c. 138, s. 6; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (6); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1; 1913, c. 60, s. 66.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1931 amendment the fiscal year of a municipality began either on the first day of June or September as the governing body might determine.

§ 2923-2931. Repealed by Public Laws 1931, c. 60, s. 72.

§ 2931(a). Special revolving fund for municipalities to supplant borrowing money on anticipations.—In order to avoid the necessity of borrowing money in anticipation of the receipt of taxes and revenues or the proceeds of the sale of bonds, a municipality may by ordinance create a special revolving fund and with the consent of the Commission, provide for raising the same to be used in anticipation of the receipt of such moneys and to be replenished by means of such moneys when received. Withdrawals of money from said fund shall be made only for the purposes and within the amounts and for the periods and upon the conditions stated in sections two thousand nine hundred and thirty-two, two thousand nine hundred and thirty-three and/or two thousand nine hundred and thirty-four in respect to the borrowing of the money. Such withdrawals shall not be made unless approved by the Local Government Commission in the same manner as loans made under said sections. No ordinance creating such a fund shall be repealed or amended so as to divert or reduce the amount of the fund, without the approval of said Commission as to necessity or expediency. (1931, c. 60, s. 47.)

Art. 25. Temporary Loans

§ 2932. Money borrowed to meet appropriations.—A municipality may borrow money for the purpose of meeting appropriations made for the current fiscal year, in anticipation of the collection of the taxes and revenues of such fiscal year, and within the amount of such appropriations. Such loans shall be paid not later than the tenth day of October in the next succeeding fiscal year. Provision shall be made in the annual budget and annual appropriation ordinance of each fiscal year for the payment of all unpaid loans predicated upon the taxes and revenues of the previous fiscal year. (1917, c. 138, s. 12; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (12); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

§ 2933. Money borrowed to pay judgments or interest.—For the purpose of paying a judgment recovered against a municipality, or paying the principal or interest of bonds due or to become due within two months and not otherwise adequately provided for, a municipality may borrow money in anticipation of the receipt of either the revenues of the fiscal year in which the money is borrowed or the revenues of the next succeeding fiscal year. Such loans shall be paid not later than the end of such next succeeding fiscal year. In the event, however, that a judgment or judgments against a municipality amount to more than one cent per hundred dollars of the assessed valuation of taxable property of the municipality for the year in which taxes were last levied before the recovery of the judgment, a loan to pay the judgment may be made payable in not more than five substantially equal annual installments, beginning within one year after the loan is made. For the purpose of paying or renewing notes evidencing indebtedness incurred before July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-three, and authorized by this act, as amended, to be funded, any municipality may issue new notes from time to time until such indebtedness is paid out of revenues or funded into bonds. Such new notes may be made payable at any time or times not later than five years after the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred thirty-three, notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this section. (1919, c. 178, s. 3 (12); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1; 1931, c. 60, s. 64; 1933, c. 259.)

See Editor's Note to § 1334(8).

Editor's Note.—By amendment of Ex. Sess. 1921 this section was made applicable to a judgment or judgments, and bonds, where before the amendment it provided for "a judgment" and debts.

The Act of 1931 added the last two sentences to this section.

Public Laws 1933, c. 259, changed the time mentioned in this section from January 1, 1931, to July 1, 1933.

City May Anticipate Collection of Taxes.—Where the levy of the taxes had been approved by the qualified voters of the city, the city, under this section, has the authority to borrow money to pay judgments in anticipation of the collection of the taxes validly levied for that purpose. Hammond v. Charlotte, 206 N. C. 604, 175 S. E. 148.

§ 2934. Money borrowed in anticipation of bond sales.—At any time after a bond ordinance has taken effect as provided in article twenty-six herein, a municipality may borrow money for the purposes for which the bonds are to be issued, in anticipation of the receipt of the proceeds of the sale of the bonds, and within the maximum authorized amount of the bond issue. Such loans shall be paid not later than three years after the time of taking effect of the ordinance authorizing the bonds upon which they are predicated. The governing body may, in its discretion, retire any such loans by means of current revenues, special assessments, or other funds, in lieu of retiring them by means of bonds: Provided, however, that the governing body, before the actual retirement of any such loan by any means other than the issuance of bonds, under the bond ordinance upon which such loan is predicated, shall amend or repeal such ordinance so as to reduce the authorized amount of the bond issue by the amount of the loan to be so retired. Such an amendatory or repealing ordinance shall take effect upon its passage and need not be published. (1917, c. 138, s. 13; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (13); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by Public Laws Ex. Sess. 1921.

§ 2935. Notes issued for temporary loans. —Negotiable notes shall be issued for all moneys borrowed under the last three sections. Such notes may be renewed from time to time and money may be borrowed upon notes from time to time for the payment for any indebtedness evidenced thereby, but all such notes shall mature within the time limited by said sections for the payment of the original loan. No money shall be borrowed under said sections at a rate of interest exceeding the maximum rate permitted by law. The said notes may be disposed of by public or private negotiations. The issuance of such notes shall be authorized by resolution of the governing body, which shall fix the actual or maximum face amount of the notes and the actual or maximum rate of interest to be paid upon the amount borrowed. The governing body may delegate to any officer the power to fix said face amount, and the rate of interest within the limitations prescribed by said resolution, and the power to dispose of said notes. All such notes shall be executed in the manner provided in section two thousand nine hundred and fifty-four of this subchapter in relation to bonds. They shall be submitted to and approved by the attorney for the municipality before they are issued, and his written approval indorsed on the notes. (1917, c. 138, s. 14; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (14); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1; 1931, c. 293.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment of Ex. Sess. 1921 negotiable notes were provided for instead of "notes" as was formerly provided, and provision was made for maximum rate of interest instead of six per cent as was formerly specified. Provision was also made for private or public negotiation, and the power to fix the face amount was vested in "any officer" appointed by the governing body instead of as was formerly provided "the financial officer or chief executive officer."

The Act of 1931 substituted "three" for the word two formerly appearing in the third line of this section.

Art. 26. Permanent Financing

§ 2936. Not applied to temporary loans.—The provisions of this article shall not apply to temporary loans made under article twenty-five, unless otherwise provided in said article. (1917, c. 138, s. 15; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (15); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment of Ex. Sess. 1921 the application of this article was qualified by adding the last six words.

In General.—Prior to the decision of the Supreme Court of the State in Fawcett v. Mt. Airy, 134 N. C. 125, 45 S. E. 1029, 63 L. R. A. 870, 101 Am. St. Rep. 825, December 18, 1903, it was held that the construction and maintenance of a system of light, water and sewerage was not within the meaning of the words "necessary expenses," as used in the State Constitution, Art. 7, sec. 7. In that case the court, in an opinion written by Justice Montgomery, expressly overruled the earlier cases. Mayo v. Commissioners, 122 N. C. 5, 29 S. E. 343, 40 L. R. A. 163. This decision has been uniformly, and in a large number of cases cited in the Annotated Edition of the 134th Volume, approved and has been and is now the fixed, accepted law of the State. Connor & Cheshire, Anno. Const. 319. In accordance with these decisions the Legislature enacted the Municipal Finance Act; Consol. Statutes, subc. 3, sec. 2936. Hill v. Elizabeth City, 291 Fed. 194, 210.

§ 2937. For what purpose bonds may be issued. —A municipality may issue its negotiable bonds for any one or more of the following purposes:

1. For any purpose or purposes for which it may raise or appropriate money, except for current expenses.

2. To fund or refund a debt of the municipality if such debt be payable at the time of the passage of the ordinance authorizing bonds to fund or refund such debt or be payable within one year thereafter, or if such debt, although payable more than one year thereafter, is to be cancelled prior to its maturity and simultaneously with the issuance of the bonds to fund or refund such debt. The word "debt" as used in this subsection two includes all valid or enforceable debts of a municipality, whether incurred for current expense or for any purpose. It includes debts evidenced by bonds, bond anticipation notes, revenue anticipation notes, judgments and unpaid interest on said debts accrued to the date of the bonds issued. Bond anticipation notes evidencing debts incurred before July first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-three, may, at the option of the governing body, be retired either by means of funding bonds issued under this section or by means of bonds in anticipation of the sale of which the notes were issued. It also includes debts assumed by a municipality as well as debts created by a municipality. Furthermore, the said word "debt" as used in this section includes the principal of and accrued interest on funding bonds, refunding bonds, and other evidences of indebtedness heretofore or hereafter issued. The above enumeration of particular kinds of debt shall not be construed as limiting the word "debt" as used in this section, the intention being that said word shall include debts of every kind and character. Bonds hereafter issued to fund or refund interest may, at the option of the governing body, be named or designated as certificates of indebtedness. No interest accruing after the year one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight shall be funded or refunded. (1917, c. 138, s. 16; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (16); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1; 1931, c. 60, s. 48; 1933, c, 259, s. 1; 1935, c. 302, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By amendment of Ex. Sess. 1921 "negotiable bonds" were specified instead of "bonds," and the date prior to which they were incurred was changed from March seventh, 1917 to December fifth, 1921. The Act of 1931 changed the date to July first, 1931. A provision in regard to refunding serial bonds was added by the Act of 1921.

Public Laws 1933, c. 259, omitted the limitation that the debt must have been incurred before July 1, 1931, and inserted the third and fourth sentences of subsection 2.

The amendment of 1935 substitutes the word "incurred" for the word "issued" in the second sentence of subsection 2. It also added the last four sentences of that subsection beginning with the words "Furthermore, the said word debt," etc.

Power to Hold Election Implied.—This section impliedly confers the power to hold the necessary election. Hailey v. Winston-Salem, 196 N. C. 17, 21, 144 S. E. 377.

Bonds Issued by School Trustees.—The board of trustees of a city school is an official board of the city and under this section bonds may be issued to pay the indebtedness they have incurred in operating the school. Jones v. New Bern, 184 N. C. 131, 113 S. E. 663.

Refunding Bond.—Under the provisions of this and the following section an ordinance authorizing the issuance of refunding bonds need not be submitted to the voters. Bolich v. Winston-Salem, 202 N. C. 786, 164 S. E. 361.

Issuance of Bonds Pursuant to Section Not Enjoined. — The authority to issue valid bonds for the erection and maintenance of a public hospital with the approval of its voters is conferred on a municipality by this section and § 2796, and where the other statutes relevant have been duly followed, the bonds so issued are a valid obligation of the town issuing them, and their issuance will not be enjoined by the courts. Burleson v. Spruce Pine Board of Aldermen, 200 N. C. 30, 156 S. E. 241.

§ 2938. Ordinance for bond issue:

1. Ordinance Required.—All bonds of a municipality shall be authorized by an ordinance passed by the governing body.

2. What Ordinance Must Show.—The ordinance shall state:

a. In brief and general terms the purpose for which the bonds are to be issued, including, in case of funding or refunding bonds a brief description of the indebtedness to be funded or refunded sufficient to identify such indebtedness.

b. The maximum aggregate principal amount of the bonds;

c. That a tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest of the bonds shall be annually levied and collected: Provided, in lieu of the foregoing and in the case of funding or refunding bonds, such statement with respect to an annual tax may, in the discretion of the governing body, be altered or omitted;

d. That a statement of the debt of the municipality has been filed with the clerk and is open to public inspection.

e. One of the following provisions:

(1) If the bonds are funding or refunding bonds or for local improvements of which at least one-fourth of the cost, exclusive of the cost of paving at street intersections, has been or is to be specially assessed, that the ordinance shall take effect upon its passage, and shall not be submitted to the voters; or

(2) If the bonds are for a purpose other than the payment of necessary expenses, or if the governing body, although not required to obtain the assent of the voters before issuing the bonds, deems it advisable to obtain such assent, that the ordinance shall take effect when approved by the voters of the municipality at an election as provided in this law; or

(3) In any other case, that the ordinance shall take effect thirty days after its first publication (or posting) unless in the meantime a petition for its submission to the voters is filed under this law, and that in such event it shall take effect when approved by the voters of the municipality at an election as provided in this law.

3. When the Ordinance Takes Effect.— A bond ordinance shall take effect at the time and upon the conditions indicated therein. If the ordinance provides that it shall take effect upon its passage no vote of the people shall be necessary for the issuance of the bonds.

4. Need not Specify Location of Improvement. —In stating the purpose of a bond issue, a bond ordinance need not specify the location of any improvement or property, or the kind of pavement or other material to be used in the construction or reconstruction of streets, highways, sidewalks, curbs, or gutters, or the kind of construction or reconstruction to be adopted for any building, for which the bonds are to be issued. A description in a bond ordinance of a property or improvement substantially is the language employed in sections two thousand nine hundred and forty-two of this subchapter to describe such a property or improvement, shall be a sufficiently definite statement of the purpose for which the bonds authorized by the ordinance are to be issued.

5. Application of Other Laws.—No restriction, limitation or provision contained in any special, private or public-local law relating to the issuance of bonds, notes or other obligations of a municipality shall apply to bonds or notes issued under this act for the purpose of refunding, funding or renewing indebtedness, and no vote of the people shall be required for the issuance of bonds or notes for said purpose, unless required by the constitution of this state. The special, private and public-local laws here referred to include all such laws enacted prior to the expiration of the regular session of the general assembly in the year one thousand nine hundred thirty-five. Nothing herein shall be construed, however, as prohibiting a municipality from issuing bonds or notes under any special private or public-local law applicable to such municipality, it being intended that this law shall be cumulative and additional authority for the issuance of bonds and notes. (1917, c. 138, s. 17; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (17); 1919, c. 285, s. 2; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1; 1931, c. 60, s. 49; 1933, c. 259, s. 1; 1935, c 302, s. 1.)

As to election, see section 2948.

Editor's Note.—By the amendment Ex. Sess. 1921 two subdivisions under subsection 2 were omitted. They provided for the statement of taxable valuations for the past three fiscal years, and the amount of the municipal debt. The provision for funding or refunding debts incurred prior to March seventh, 1917 was also changed by the provision for funding and refunding being made applicable to bonds for local improvement.

Public Laws of 1933, c. 259, added to subdivision 2, a, the requirement for a brief description of indebtedness for funding or refunding bonds. It also added the proviso to 2, c, relating to funding and refunding bonds. And it omitted the limitation formerly occurring in subdivision 5, that the indebtedness must have been incurred before July 1, 1931.

The amendment of 1935 added the last two sentences of the section.

What Ordinance Must Show.—It is not required by the various statutes on the subject that a bond ordinance of a municipality set forth in express terms the proportion of the cost of the proposed improvements which has been, or is to be, assessed against the property of each owner abutting upon the streets to be improved or the terms and method of making the payment, if the procedure follow the direction of the statutes relating to the subject. Leak v. Wadesboro, 186 N. C. 683, 121 S. E. 12.

Subsequent Ratification of Bond Issue.—If a school board borrows money and the debt is taken up by an election this ratification renders unimportant the question of whether or not the money was borrowed for necessary purposes. Jones v. New Bern, 184 N. C. 131, 113 S. E. 663.

Cited in Adcock v. Fuquay Springs, 194 N. C. 423, 425, 140 S. E. 24.

§ 2939. Ordinance not to include unrelated purposes.—Bonds for two or more unrelated purposes, not of the same general class or character, shall not be authorized by the same ordinance: Provided, however, that bonds for two or more improvements or properties mentioned together in any one clause of subsection four of section two thousand nine hundred and forty-two of this subchapter may be treated as being but for one purpose, and may be authorized by the same bond ordinance. After two or more bond ordinances have been passed, the governing body may, in its discretion, direct all or any of the bonds authorized by the ordinances to be actually issued as one consolidated bond issue. Separate issues of funding and/or refunding bonds may be made under authority of the same bond ordinance for the retirement of two or more different debts or classes of debts. (1919, c. 178, s. 3 (17); 1919, c. 285, s. 3; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1; 1933, c. 259, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment of Ex. Sess. 1921 the reference to subsection 4 of section 2942 refers to the same subject matter as the reference to subsection 3 in the prior law, the change of reference is brought about by change in arrangement of the later act. A provision in next to the last sentence which required the bond ordinance to "have taken effect," before a consolidated bond issue could be had, was omitted.

Public Laws 1933, c. 259, added the last sentence to this section.

§ 2940. Bonds may be divided into two classes and separate issues. (Obsolete.)

§ 2941. Ordinance and bond issue; when petition required.—In cases where a petition of property owners is required by law for the making of local improvements, a bond ordinance authorizing bonds for such local improvements may be passed before any such petition is made, but no bonds for the local improvements in respect of which such petitions are required shall be issued under the ordinance, nor shall any temporary loan be contracted in anticipation of the issuance of such bonds, unless and until such petitions are made, and then only up to the actual or estimated amount of the cost of the work petitioned for. The determination of the governing body as to the actual or estimated cost of work so petitioned for shall be conclusive in any action involving the validity of bonds or notes or other indebtedness. The bond ordinance may be made to take effect upon its passage, notwithstanding that the necessary petitions for the local improvements have not been filed: Provided, that it appears upon the face of the ordinance that one-fourth or some greater proportion of the cost, exclusive of the cost of work at street intersections, has been or is to be assessed. (1919, c. 178, s. 3 (17); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by Public Laws Ex. Sess. 1921. As to validation of bonds or notes notwithstanding failure to follow requirements of this section, see § 2492(54).

Bonds for Street Improvement.—The borrowing of money by an incorporated city or town for street paving or improvements is for a necessary expense, and does not fall within the provisions of Article VII, section 7, of the State Constitution requiring that in order for the municipality to pledge its faith or lend its credit, the proposition must have the approval of a majority of the qualified voters. Brown v. Hillsboro, 185 N. C. 368, 117 S. E. 41.

§ 2942. Determining periods for bonds to run: 1. How Periods Estimated.—Either in the bond ordinance or in a resolution passed after the bond ordinance but before any bonds are issued thereunder, the governing body shall, within the limits prescribed by subsection four of this section, determine and declare:

a. The probable period of usefulness of the improvements or properties for which the bonds are to be issued; or

b. If the bonds are to be funding or refunding bonds, either the shortest period in which the debt to be funded or refunded can be finally paid without making it unduly burdensome upon the taxpayers of the municipality, or, at the option of the governing body, the probable unexpired period of usefulness of the improvement or property for which the debt was incurred.

2. Average of Periods Determined.—In the case of a consolidated bond issue comprising bonds authorized by different ordinances for different purposes, and in the case of a bond issue authorized by but one ordinance for several related purposes in respect of which several different periods are determined as aforesaid, the governing body shall also determine the average of the different periods so determined, taking into consideration the amount of bonds to be issued on account of each purpose or item in respect of which a period is determined.

The period required to be determined as aforesaid shall be computed from a date not more than one year after the time of passage of any bond ordinance authorizing the issuance of the bonds. The determination of any such period by the governing body shall be conclusive.

3. Maturity of Bonds.—The bonds must mature within the period determined as aforesaid, or, if several different periods are so determined, then within said average period.

4. Periods of Usefulness.—In determining, for the purpose of this section, the probable period of the usefulness of an improvement or property, the governing body shall not deem said period to exceed the following periods for the following improvements and properties, respectively, viz.:

a. Sewer systems (either sanitary or surface drainage), forty years.

b. Water supply systems, or combined water and electric light systems, or combined water, electric light, and power systems, forty years.

c. Gas systems, thirty years.

d. Electric light and power systems, separate or combined, thirty years.

e. Plants for the incineration or disposal of ashes, or garbage, or refuse (other than sewage), twenty years.

f. Public parks (including or not including a playground, as a part thereof, and any buildings thereon at the time of acquisition thereof, or to be erected thereon, with the proceeds of the bonds issued for such public parks), fifty years.

g. Playgrounds, fifty years.

h. Buildings for purposes not stated in this section, if they are:

(1) Of fireproof construction, that is, a building the walls of which are constructed of brick, stone, iron, or other hard, incombustible materials, and in which there are no wood beams or lintels, and in which the floors, roofs, stair halls, and public halls are built entirely of brick, stone, iron, or other hard, incombustible materials, and in which no woodwork or other inflammable materials are used in any of the petitions, floorings, or ceiling (but the building shall be deemed to be of fireproof construction notwithstanding that elsewhere than in the stair halls and entrance halls there is a wooden flooring on top of the fireproof floor, and that wooden sleepers are used, and that it contains wooden handrails and treads, made of hardwood, not less than two inches thick), forty years.

(2) Of nonfireproof construction, that is, a building the outer walls of which are constructed of brick, stone, iron, or other hard, incombustible materials, but which in any other respect differs from a fireproof building as defined in this section, thirty years.

(3) Of other construction, twenty years.

i. Bridges and culverts (including retaining walls and approaches), forty years, unless constructed of wood, and in that case, ten years.

j. Lands for purposes not stated in this section, fifty years.

k. Constructing or reconstructing the surface of roads, streets, or highways, whether including or not including contemporaneous constructing or reconstructing of sidewalks, curbs, gutters, or drains, and whether including or not including grading, if such surface:

(1) Is constructed of sand and gravel, five years;

(2) Is of waterbound macadam or penetration process, ten years;

(3) Is of bricks, blocks, sheet asphalt, bitulithic, or bituminous concrete, laid on a solid foundation, or is of concrete, twenty years.

l. Land for roads, streets, highways, or sidewalks, or grading, or constructing or reconstructing culverts, or retaining walls, or surface, or subsurface drains, fifty years.

m. Constructing sidewalks, curbs, or gutters of brick, stone, concrete, or other material of similar lasting character, twenty years.

n. Installing fire or police alarms, telegraph or telephone service, or other system of communication for municipal use, thirty years.

o. Fire engines, fire trucks, hose carts, ambulances, patrol wagons, or any vehicles for use in any department of the municipality, or for the use of municipal officials, ten years.

p. Land for cemeteries, or the improvement thereof, thirty years.

q. Constructing sewer, water, gas, or other service connections, from the service main in the street to the curb or property line, when the work is done by the municipality in connection with any permanent improvement of or in any street, ten years.

r. The elimination of any grade crossing or crossings and improvements incident thereto, thirty years.

s. Equipment, apparatus, or furnishings not included in the foregoing clauses of this subsection, ten years.

t. Any improvement or property not included in other clauses of this subsection, forty years.

u. Land for airports or landing fields, including grading and drainage, forty years.

v. Buildings and equipment and other improvements of airports or landing fields, other than grading and drainage, ten years.

5. Improvements and Properties Defined.—The maximum periods fixed herein for the improvements and properties mentioned in clauses numbered from a to i, both inclusive, of subsection 4 of this section shall be applied thereto whether such improvements or properties are to be acquired, constructed, reconstructed, enlarged, or extended, in whole or in part, and whether the same are to include or are not to include buildings, lands, rights in lands, furnishings, equipment, machinery, or apparatus constituting a part of said improvements or properties at the time of acquisition, construction, or reconstruction. If the improvements of properties are to be an enlargement or extension of existing properties or improvements, the probable period of usefulness to be determined as aforesaid may be either that of the existing properties or improvements; or that of the enlargement or extension. Bonds for any or all improvements or properties included in any one clause of subsection 4 above may for the purposes of this section be deemed by the governing body to be for but one improvement or property.

6. Kind of Construction Determined. — If the bonds are for a building referred to in clause h of subsection 4 above, and the bond ordinance does not state the kind of construction of the building, or if the bonds are for street improvements mentioned in clause k of subsection 4 above, and the bond ordinance does not state the kind or kinds of pavement or other material to be used, then the kind of construction, or the kind or kinds of pavement or other material, as the case may be, shall be determined by resolution before any of the bonds are issued.

7. Period of Payment.—In determining for the purpose of this section the shortest period in which a debt to be funded or refunded hereunder can be finally paid without making it unduly burdensome upon the tax-payers of the municipality, the governing body shall not deem said period to be greater than fifty years. (1917, c. 138, s. 18; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (18); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1; 1929, c. 170; 1931, c. 60, s. 50, cc. 188, 301; 1933, c. 259, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By amendment Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106 the arrangement of this section was changed and the period for the bonds to run, in most cases was changed. The Act of 1929, which inadvertently referred to § 2943, added the last two paragraphs under subsection 4. These paragraphs were also added by Public Laws 1931, c. 301, and c. 188 corrected the erroneous reference in the Act of 1929. Public Laws 1931 c. 60, s. 50, struck out subsection 7 and inserted in lieu thereof the present subsection.

The only change effected in this section by Public Laws 1933, c. 259, occurs in subsection 7. The limitation was formerly thirty years if the gross debt of the county was less than twelve per cent of the assessed valuation, and fifty years in other cases. The amendment makes the limitation fifty years in all cases.

Maturity of Refunding Bonds. — Under this section the period for maturity of refunding bonds is in the discretion of the governing body of the city issuing them. Bolich v. Winston-Salem, 202 N. C. 786, 164 S. E. 361.

Cited in Jones v. Durham, 197 N. C. 127, 133, 147 S. E. 824.

§ 2943. Sworn statement of indebtedness. —

1. What Shall Be Shown.—After the introduction and before the final passage of a bond ordinance an officer designated by the governing body for that purpose shall file with the clerk showing the following:

(a) The gross debt (which shall not include debt incurred or to be incurred in anticipation of the collection of taxes or in anticipation of the sale of bonds other than funding and refunding bonds), which gross debt shall be as follows:

(1) Outstanding debt not evidenced by bonds.

(2) Outstanding bonded debts.

(3) Bonded debt to be incurred under ordinances passed or introduced.

(b) The deductions to be made from gross debt in computing net debt, which deductions shall be as follows:

(1) Amount of unissued funding or refunding bonds included in gross debt.

(2) Amount of sinking funds or other funds held for the payment of any part of the gross debt other than debt incurred for water, gas, electric light, or power purposes or two or more of said purposes.

(3) The amount of uncollected special assessments theretofore levied on account of local improvements for which any part of the gross debt was or is to be incurred which will be applied when collected to the payment of any part of the gross debt.

(4) The amount, as estimated by the engineer of the municipality or officer designated for that purpose by the governing body or by the governing body itself, of special assessments to be levied on account of local improvements for which any part of the gross debt was or is to be incurred, and which, when collected, will be applied to the payment of any part of the gross debt.

(5) The amount of bonded debt included in the gross debt and incurred, or to be incurred, for water, gas, electric light or power purposes, or two or more of said purposes.

(5a) The amount of existing bonded debt included in the gross debt, and incurred or to be incurred for the construction of sewerage systems or sewerage disposal plants where said sewerage system is entirely supported by sewerage service charges or when said systems or plants are operated together with the waterworks as a combined and consolidated system and as an integral part thereof, and when the amount necessary to meet the annual interest payable on the debt, and the annual installment necessary for the amortization of the debt, and the amount necessary for repairs, maintenance and operation of said system or systems is included in the rate for waterworks service and so collected by the municipality: Provided, the provisions of this subsection shall not apply to Transylvania county nor to municipalities situate therein, nor shall it apply to cities and towns in Mecklenburg county.

(6) The amount which the municipality shall be entitled to receive from any railroad or street-railway company under contract theretofore made for payment by such company of all or a portion of the cost of eliminating a grade crossing or crossings within the municipality which amount will be applied when received to the payment of any part of the gross debt;

(7) Indebtedness for school purposes.

(c) The net debt, being the difference between the gross debt and the deductions.

(d) The assessed valuation of property as last fixed for municipal taxation.

(e) The percentage that the net debt bears to said assessed valuation.

2. Limitation upon Passage of Ordinance.—The ordinance shall not be passed unless it appears from said statement that the said net debt does not exceed eight (8) per cent of said assessed valuation, unless the bonds to be issued under the ordinance are to be funding or refunding bonds, or are bonds for water, gas, electric light or power purposes, or two or more of said purposes, or are bonds for sanitary sewers, sewage disposal or sewage purification plants, the construction of which shall have been ordered by the state board of health or by a court of competent jurisdiction.

3. Statement Filed for Inspection.—Such statements shall remain on file with the clerk and be open to public inspection. In any action or proceeding in any court involving the validity of bonds, said statement shall be deemed to be true and to comply with the provisions of this act, unless it appears (in an action or proceeding commenced within the time limited by § 2945 for the commencement thereof), first, that the representations contained therein could not by any reasonable method of computation be true; and second, that a true statement would show that the ordinance authorizing the bonds could not be passed. (1917, c. 138, s. 19; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (19); 1919, c. 285, s. 4; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1; 1927, c. 102, s. 1; 1931, c. 60, s. 51; 1933, c. 259, s. 1; c. 321.)

As to limitation of debts prior to this section, see section 2693.

Editor's Note.—This section has been changed by the Public Laws Ex. Sess. 1921 to such an extent that a comparison of the old with the new is the most expeditious method of determining the effect of the later law. One of the most decided changes was in subsection 2 where the net indebtedness was lowered from twelve and one-half per cent when assessed valuation was less than four million dollars and ten per cent in any other case, to eight per cent in all cases.

The Act of 1931 changed the date in paragraph (a) (1) of subsection 1, December 6, 1921 to the one now specified.

By section 2966 all acts under prior laws are declared valid, but all subsequent proceedings must be under the Municipal Finance Act. It was held in Crayton v. Charlotte, 175 N. C. 17, 94 S. E. 689 that proceedings begun under Public Laws of 1915, c. 131, should be continued under this section and construed with it. Therefore an election held under Laws of 1915, c. 131, although not required under this section will be construed as valid, but the remainder of the proceedings must be under this section, and though the bond issue under Laws of 1915 would be invalid because it exceeded 10 per cent of the assessed value of the real and personal property, it will be valid under this section if it does not exceed the new limitations, which allows a greater indebtedness than allowed by the Laws of 1915.

Public Laws 1933, c. 259, eliminated the provision that the outstanding debt must have been incurred before July first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one. Public Laws 1933, c. 321, inserted subsection (5a).

For an amendment applicable only in the city of Burlington, see Public Laws 1933, c. 334.

Bonds Including Amount of Assessment.—Where a town has issued bonds for general street improvements under legislative authority, and includes the amount required for local improvements by assessment of owners of lands abutting a particular street improved, it may charge off from the proceeds of the sale of the bonds the estimated amount to be realized by the special assessments under the provisions of a recent statute. Brown v. Hillsboro, 185 N. C. 368, 117 S. E. 41.

Bonds issued by a municipality for water and sewer systems should be deducted from the gross debt in computing the net debt of the municipality in relation to the prohibition against incurring debt in excess of eight per cent of the assessed valuation of property for taxation, bonds for sewer systems being necessarily included in bonds for "water purposes" within the meaning of this section, subsec. 1(5). Lamb v. Randleman, 206 N. C. 837, 175 S. E. 293.

Such bonds do not come within the inhibition of this section, subsec. 2, against incurring debt in excess of eight per cent of the assessed valuation. Id.

§ 2944. Publication of bond ordinance.—A bond ordinance shall be published once in each of two successive weeks after its final passage. A notice substantially in the following form (the blanks being first properly filled in), with the printed or written signature of the clerk appended thereto, shall be published with the ordinance:

The foregoing ordinance was passed on the.... day of....., 19...., and was first published (or posted), on the.....day of.....,19.....

Any action or proceeding questioning the validity of said ordinance must be commenced within thirty days after its first publication (or posting).

....., Clerk (or Secretary).

(1917, c. 138, s. 20; 1919, c. 49, s. 1; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (20) Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By amendment Ex. Sess. 1921 publication is required only twice where formerly it was required four times, except that when it was to take effect at once, then only one publication was required.

§ 2945. Limitation of action to set aside ordinance.—Any action or proceeding in any court to set aside a bond ordinance or to obtain any other relief upon the ground that the ordinance is invalid, must be commenced within thirty days after the first publication of the notice aforesaid and the ordinance or supposed ordinance referred to in the notice. After the expiration of such period of limitation, no right of action or defense founded upon the invalidity of the ordinance shall be asserted, nor shall the validity of the ordinance be open to question in any court upon any ground whatever, except in an action or proceeding commenced within such period. (1917, c. 138, s. 20; 1919, c. 49, s. 1; 1919, c. 178, s. 3. (20); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by the Public Laws Ex. Sess. 1921.

§ 2946. Certain bond ordinance validated. (Obsolete).

§ 2947. Ordinance requiring popular vote.—1. When Vote Required.—If a bond ordinance provides that it shall take effect thirty days after its first publication, unless a petition for its submission to the voters shall be filed in the meantime, the ordinance shall be inoperative without the approval of the voters of the municipality at an election if a petition shall be filed as provided in this section.

2. Petition Filed.—A petition demanding that a bond ordinance be submitted to the voters may be filed with the clerk within thirty days after the first publication of the ordinance. The petition shall be in writing and signed by voters of the municipality equal in number to at least twenty-five per centum of the total number of registered voters in the municipality as shown by the registration books for the last preceding election for municipal officers therein. The residence address of each signer shall be written after his signature. Each signature to the petition shall be verified by a statement (which may relate to a specified number of signatures), made by some adult resident freeholder of the municipality, under oath before an officer competent to administer oaths, to the effect that the signature was made in his presence and is the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be. The petition need not contain the text of the ordinance to which it refers. The petition need not be all on one sheet, and if on more than one sheet, it shall be verified as to each sheet.

3. Sufficiency of Petition.—The clerk shall investigate the sufficiency of the petition and present it to the governing body with a certificate stating the result of his investigation. The governing body shall thereupon determine the sufficiency of the petition and the determination of the governing body shall be conclusive. (1917, c. 138, s. 21; 1919, c. 49, ss. 1, 2; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (21); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1; 1927, c. 102, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of Ex. Sess. 1921 changed the required number of petitioning voters from thirty-three and one-third per centum to twenty-five per centum.

Injunction against Bond Issue.—In Hill v. Elizabeth City, 291 Fed. 194, 210, it is said: "Section 2947, par. 1 provides for an election before bonds are issued, upon a petition to be filed within 30 days after the first publication of the ordinance. No such petition having been filed, the board of aldermen, on the 9th day of October, 1922, adopted an ordinance for directing the issuance of the bonds. I find no valid objection to the proceedings taken by the board of aldermen, entitling plaintiff to enjoin the issuance of the bonds."

§ 2948. Elections on bond issue.

1. What Majority Required.—If a bond ordinance provides for the issuance of bonds for a purpose other than the payment of necessary expenses of the municipality, the approval of a majority of the qualified voters of the municipality, as required by the constitution of North Carolina, shall be necessary in order to make the ordinance operative. If however, the bonds are to be issued for necessary expenses, the affirmative vote of the majority of the voters voting on the bond ordinances shall be sufficient to make it operative, in all cases where the ordinance is required by this act to be submitted to the voters.

2. When Election Held.—Whenever the taking effect of an ordinance authorizing the issuance of bonds is dependent upon the approval of the ordinances by the voters of a municipality, the governing body may submit the ordinance to the voters at an election to be held not more than six months after the passage of the ordinance. The governing body may call a special election for that purpose or may submit the ordinance to the voters at the regular municipal election next succeeding the passage of the ordinance, but no such special election shall be held within one month before or after a regular election. Several ordinances or other matters may be voted upon at the same election.

3. New Registration.—The governing body of the city or town in which such election is held may, in their discretion, order a new registration of the voters for such election. The books for such new registration shall remain open in each precinct from nine a. m. to six p. m. on each day except Sundays and holidays, for three weeks, beginning on a Monday morning and ending on the second Saturday evening before the election. A registrar and two judges of election shall be appointed by the governing body for each precinct: Provided, that the books shall be open at the polling places on each Saturday during the registration period. Sufficient notice shall be deemed to have been given of such new registration and of the appointment of the election officers if a notice thereof be published at least thirty (30) days before the closing of the registration books, stating the hours and days for registration. It shall not be necessary to specify in said notice the places for registration. In case the registrar shall fail or refuse for any cause to perform his duties, it shall be lawful for the clerk to appoint another person to perform such duties, and no notice of such appointment shall be necessary.

4. Notice of Election.—A notice of the election shall be deemed sufficiently published if published once not later than twenty days before the election. Such notice shall state the maximum amount of the proposed bonds and the purpose thereof, and the fact that a tax will be levied for the payment thereof. The date of the election shall be stated therein.

5. Ballots.—A ballot or ballots shall be furnished to each qualified voter at said election, which ballots may contain the words "for the ordinance authorizing $.... bonds (briefly stating the purpose), and a tax therefor," and "against the ordinance authorizing $.... bonds (briefly stating the purpose), and a tax therefor," and if one ballot contains the two alternatives it may contain squares in one of which the voter may make a (X) mark, but this form of ballot is not prescribed.

6. Returns Canvassed.—The officers appointed to hold the election in making return of the result thereof, shall incorporate therein not only the number of votes cast for and against each ordinance submitted, but also the number of voters registered and qualified to vote in the election. The governing body shall canvass the returns, and shall include in their canvass the votes cast and the number of voters registered and qualified to vote in the election, and shall judicially determine and declare the result of the election.

7. Application of other laws.—Except as herein otherwise provided, the registration and election shall be conducted in accordance with the laws then governing elections for municipal officers in such municipality, and governing the registration of the electors for such election of officers.

8. Statement of Result.—The board shall prepare a statement showing the number of votes cast for and against each ordinance submitted, and the number of voters qualified to vote in the election, and declaring the result of the election, which statement shall be signed by a majority of the members of the board and delivered to the clerk of the municipality, who shall record it in the book of ordinances of the municipality and file the original in his office and publish it once.

9. Limitation as to Actions.—No right of action or defense founded upon the invalidity of the election shall be asserted, nor shall the validity of the election be open to question in any court upon any ground whatever, except in an action or proceeding commenced within thirty days after the publication of such statement: Provided, that sections 2947 and 2948 shall not apply to the incorporated towns of Madison county. (1927, c. 138, s. 22; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (22); 1919, c. 291; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

As to ordinance for bond issue, see section 2938 and note. See also note under § 2806(f).

Editor's Note.—By amendment of Ex. Sess. 1921 the time within which election may not be held after notice was changed from two months to one month; all except the first sentence in subsection three was added; subsection seven was added and the time within which proceedings may be commenced to question an election was changed from twenty to thirty days.

Necessity of Notice.—In Hill v. Skinner, 169 N. C. 405, 408, 86 S. E. 351, it is said: "While, so far as the officers are concerned who are charged with the duty of giving notice, the requirement as to notice is imperative, yet it will be regarded, otherwise, as directory, if the result would not be changed by a departure from the provisions of the statute. The law looks more to the substance than to the form, and if it appears that a clear majority of the qualified voters have cast their votes in favor of the proposition submitted to them, and that there has been a fair and full opportunity for all to vote, and that there has been no fraud, and the election is in all respects free from taint of any sort, so that no well founded suspicion can be cast upon it, it would be idle to say that this free and untrammeled expression of the popular will should be disregarded and set aside." Comrs. v. Malone & Co., 179 N. C. 604, 607, 103 S. E. 134.

Form of Ballot Directory.—There being nothing in the statute making the exact language essential to the validity of a ballot, and the words used carrying practically the same meaning the requirement is directory and not mandatory, and a substantial compliance, is all that is necessary. Commissioners v. Malone & Co., 179 N. C. 604, 607, 103 S. E. 134.

Publication of Returns.—It is not necessary to the validity of an election that the returns be published as required by this section if it appears that no prejudice was sustained because of such failure. Commissioners v. Malone, 179 N. C. 604, 607, 103 S. E. 134.

When Election Held.—The requirement of this section, subsection 2, that bond elections shall not be held within one month or after a regular municipal election, is mandatory and refers to a month according to the designation in the calendar without regard to the number of days it may contain, § 3949(3), and is computed by excluding the first and including the last day thereof as provided in § 922. Adcock v. Fuquay Springs, 194 N. C. 423, 140 S. E. 24.

And the term "general election" is interpreted with the antecedent words of the statute "municipal election," and excludes a general State or National election. Adcock v. Fuquay Springs, 194 N. C. 423, 140 S. E. 24.

§ 2949. Preparation for issuing bonds.—At any time after the passage of a bond ordinance, all steps preliminary to the actual issuance of bonds under the ordinance may be taken, but the bonds shall not be actually issued unless and until the ordinance takes effect. (1917, c. 138, s. 23; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (23); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by the Public Laws Ex. Sess. 1921.

§ 2950. Within what time bonds issued.—After a bond ordinance takes effect, bonds may be issued in conformity with its provisions at any time within three years after the ordinance takes effect, unless the ordinance shall have been repealed, which repeal is permitted (without the privilege of referendum upon the question of appeal), unless notes shall have been issued in anticipation of the receipts of the proceeds of the bonds and shall be outstanding. (1917, c. 138, s. 24; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (24); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By amendment of Ex. Sess. 1921 the qualification following the second comma was added.

§ 2951. Amount and nature of bonds determined.—The aggregate amount of bonds to be issued under a bond ordinance, the rate or rates of interest they shall bear, not exceeding six per centum per annum, payable semiannually or otherwise, and the times and place or places of payment of the principal and interest of the bonds, shall be fixed by resolution or resolutions of the governing body. The bonds may be issued either all at one time or from time to time in blocks, and different provisions may be made for different blocks. (1917, c. 138, s. 25; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (25); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1; 1933, c. 259, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by Public Laws Ex. Sess. 1921.

Public Laws 1933, c. 259, inserted the words "or otherwise" following the word "semi-annually."

§ 2952. Bonded debt payable in installments.—Each bond issue made under this act shall mature in annual installments or series, the first of which shall be made payable not more than three years after the date of the first issued bonds of such issue, and the last within the period determined and declared pursuant to section two thousand nine hundred and forty-two of this subchapter. No such installment or series shall be more than two and one-half times as great in amount as the smallest prior installment or series of the same bond issue. If all of the bonds of an issue are not issued at the same time, the bonds at any one time outstanding shall mature as aforesaid. This section shall not apply to funding or refunding bonds. (1917, c. 138, s. 26; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (26); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1; 1931, c. 60, s. 52; 1933, c. 259, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change in meaning by the amendment of Public Laws Ex. Sess. 1921.

Public Laws 1933, c. 259, inserted the last sentence of the section stating that the section shall not apply to funding or refunding bonds. Prior to the amendment the section was applicable to such bonds in municipalities having a debt of less than twelve per cent of the assessed valuation.

§ 2953. Medium and place of payment.—The bonds may be made payable in such kinds of money and at such place or places within or without the state of North Carolina as the governing body may by resolution provide. (1917, c. 138, s. 27; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (27); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by Public Laws Ex. Sess. 1921.

§ 2954. Formal execution of bonds.—The bonds shall be issued in such form as the officers who execute them shall adopt, except as otherwise provided by the governing body. They shall be signed by two or more officers designated by the governing body, or, if the governing body makes no such designation, then by the mayor or other chief executive officer and by the clerk, and the corporate seal of the municipality shall be affixed to the bonds. The bonds may have coupons attached for the interest to be paid thereon, which coupons shall bear a facsimile signature of the clerk in office, at the date of the bonds or at the date of delivery thereof. The delivery of bonds so executed shall be valid notwithstanding any change in the officers or in the seal of the municipality occurring after the signing and sealing of the bonds. (1917, c. 138, s. 28; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (28); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of Ex. Sess. 1921 provided that in case no one was designated the mayor and clerk sign the bonds. Formerly it was provided that the mayor and financial officer sign, and the clerk affix the seal of the municipality and attest it.

§ 2955. Registration and transfer of bonds: 1. Bonds Payable to Bearer.—Bonds issued under this law shall be payable to the bearer unless they are registered as provided in this section; and each coupon appertaining to a bond shall be payable to the bearer of the coupon.

2. Registration and Effect.—A municipality may keep in the office of its financial officer or in the office of a bank or trust company appointed by the governing body as bond registrar or transfer agent, a register or registers for the registration and transfer of its bonds, in which it may register any bond at the time of its issue, or, at the request of the holder, thereafter. After such registration the principal and interest of the bond shall be payable to the person in whose name it is registered except in the case of a coupon bond registered as to principal only, in which case the principal shall be payable to such person, unless the bond shall be discharged from registry by being registered as payable to bearer. After registration a bond may be transferred on such register by the registered owner in person or by attorney, upon presentation to the bond registrar, accompanied by delivery of a written instrument of transfer in a form approved by the bond registrar, executed by the registered owner.

3. Registration and Transfer Noted on Bond.—Upon the registration or transfer of a bond as aforesaid, the bond registrar shall note such registration or transfer on the back of the bond. Upon the registration of a coupon bond as to both principal and interest he shall also cut off and cancel the coupons.

4. Agreement for Registration.—A municipality may, by recital in its bonds, agree to register the bonds as to principal only, or agree to register them either as to principal only or as to both principal and interest at the option of the bondholder. (1917, c. 138, s. 29; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (29); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 76.

Editor's Note.—By amendment Ex. Sess. 1921 in subsection 2 the appointment of registrar or transfer agent is designated as appointed by the "governing body," where formerly it was by the "governing board."

In subsection 4 a former provision for agreeing by a recital in the bond to register them as to both principal and interest, was omitted, by the same amendment.

§ 2956. Repealed by Public Laws 1931, c. 60, s. 53.

Editor's Note.—The cases treated in the following note were decided prior to the repeal of this section in 1931 and are likely to be of historical value only.

Sale of Bonds Below Par.—In Kornegay v. Goldsboro, 180 N. C. 441, 105 S. E. 187, it is held that although this section provides that bonds may not be sold below par, a sale below par may be allowed by special statute and it will not be contrary to Art. VIII, section 4 of the Constitution, which provides that "general laws" shall be provided by the legislature for all cities and towns. Nor is the special law contrary to Art. 1, section 7 as allowing special privileges.

Clark, C. J., and Brown, J., dissented to the above holding that Art. VIII, section 4 was meant to apply uniform rules to all towns and cities and that special laws were contrary to its meaning and intention.

Notice in a Trade Journal.—The requirement that notice be given in a financial paper or trade journal is construed to mean some paper that would likely afford notice to buyers of such security, and not to a paper carrying only such notices, for North Carolina has no such paper, and the statute will not be construed to require the impossible. Commissioners v. Prudden, 180 N. C. 496, 105 S. E. 7.

It is said by the court in this case that "The construction of the statute we have indicated being the true one, we must hold that these bonds have not been properly advertised, it appearing so far as the case discloses that the notice of sale has only been given in a newspaper having local circulation, and has not appeared in a financial or trade journal of any kind published in the State. And the matter being in fieri, it is open to the original parties to the transaction to present and insist on the objection." Bennett v. Comrs., 173 N. C. 625, 630, 92 S. E. 603.

§ 2957. Application of funds.—The proceeds of the sale of bonds under this act shall be used only for the purposes specified in the ordinance authorizing said bonds, and for the payment of the principal and interest of temporary loans made in anticipation of the sale of bonds: Provided, however, that if for any reason any part of such proceeds are not applied to or are not necessary for such purposes, such unexpended part of the proceeds shall be applied to the payment of the principal or interest of said bonds. The cost of preparing, issuing, and marketing bonds shall be deemed to be one of the purposes for which the bonds are issued. (1917, c. 138, s. 31; 1919, c. 178, s. 3(31); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by Public Laws Ex. Sess. 1921.

§ 2958. Bonds incontestable after delivery.—Any bonds reciting that they are issued pursuant to this law shall in any action or proceeding involving their validity be conclusively deemed to be fully authorized by this law and to have been issued, sold, executed, and delivered in conformity herewith, and with all other provisions of statutes applicable thereto, and shall be incontestable, anything herein or in other statutes to the contrary notwithstanding, unless such action or proceeding is begun prior to the delivery of such bonds. (1917, c. 138, s. 32; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (32); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by Public Laws Ex. Sess. 1921.

§ 2959. Taxes levied for payment of bonds.—The full faith and credit of the municipality shall be deemed to be pledged for the punctual payment of the principal of and interest on every bond and note issued under this law, including assessment bonds or other bonds for which special funds are provided. The governing body shall annually levy and collect a tax ad valorem upon all the taxable property in the municipality sufficient to pay the principal and interest of all bonds issued under this act as such principal and interest become due: Provided, however, that such tax may be reduced by the amount of other moneys appropriated and actually available for such purpose.

So much of the net revenue derived by the municipality in any fiscal year from the operation of any revenue producing enterprise owned by the municipality after paying all expenses of operating, managing, maintaining, repairing, enlarging and extending such enterprise, shall be applied, first to the payment of the interest, payable in the next succeeding year on bonds issued for such enterprise, and next, to the payment of the amount necessary to be raised by tax in such succeeding year for the payment of the principal of said bonds. All money derived from the collection of special assessments for local improvements for which bonds or notes were issued shall be placed in a special fund and used only for the payment of bonds or notes issued for the same or other local improvements.

Every municipality shall have the power to levy taxes ad valorem upon all taxable property therein for the purpose of paying the principal of or the interest on any bonds or notes for the payment of which the municipality is liable, issued under any act other than this law, or for the purpose of providing a sinking fund for the payment of said principal, or for the purpose of paying the principal of or interest on any notes issued under this law.

The powers stated in this section in respect of the levy of taxes for the payment of the principal and interest of bonds and notes shall not be subject to any limitation prescribed by law upon the amount or rate of taxes which a municipality may levy. Taxes levied under this section shall be levied and collected in the same manner as other taxes are levied and collected upon property in the municipality: Provided, in the case of funding or refunding bonds which do not mature in installments, as provided in section two thousand nine hundred fifty-two of this act, a tax for the payment of the principal of said bonds need not be levied prior to the fiscal year or years said bonds mature unless it is so provided for in an ordinance or resolution passed before the issuance of said bonds, in which case such tax shall be levied in accordance with the provisions of such ordinance or resolution. (1917, c. 138, s. 33; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (33); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1; 1933, c. 259, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By amendment Ex. Sess. 1921 the provision in the last sentence of the second paragraph for local improvement and collection of assessments for local improvements, replaced a former provision for "special assessments upon which assessment bonds or other bonds or notes are predicated."

Public Laws 1933, c. 259, inserted the proviso at the end of this section.

Art. 26A. Validation of Bonds

§ 2959(1). 1935 Validating Act.—This article may be cited as the "1935 Validating Act." (1935, c. 401, s. 1.)

§ 2959(3). Municipal bonds issued by local units to aid F. E. A. projects validated.—All bonds heretofore issued for the purpose of financing or aiding in the financing of any work, undertaking, or project by any municipality to which any loan or grant has heretofore been made by the United States of America through the federal emergency administrator of public works for the purpose of financing or aiding in the financing of such work, undertaking or project, including all proceedings for the authorization and issuance of such bonds and the sale, execution and delivery thereof, are hereby validated, ratified, approved and confirmed, notwithstanding any want of power of such municipality or governing body or commission, or officer thereof, of authority to issue such bonds, or sell, execute or deliver the same, and notwithstanding any defects or irregularities in such proceedings or in such sale, execution or delivery; and such bonds are and shall be binding, legal and enforceable obligations of such municipality. (1935, c. 401, s. 3.)

§ 2959(4). Proceedings begun for issuance of such bonds validated.—In all cases where proceedings have heretofore been taken or begun authorizing bonds by any municipality for any improvements, the financing of which shall be aided by a loan or grant or both by the United States of America through the federal emergency administrator of public works, all such proceedings are hereby validated, ratified, approved and confirmed, notwithstanding any irregularity or defect in such proceedings, and notwithstanding any want of power of such municipality to take such proceedings or to authorize such bonds, and the issuance of bonds pursuant to such proceedings is hereby approved and authorized, and such bonds declared to be valid and enforceable obligations of such municipality. (1935, c. 401, s. 4.)

§ 2959(5). Approval by local government commission.—This article shall apply only to these bonds submitted to and approved by the local government commission. (1935, c. 401, s. 5.)

Art. 27. Restrictions Upon the Exercise of Municipal Powers

§ 2960. In borrowing or expending money: 1. No municipality shall:

a. Make an appropriation of money except as provided in this law.

b. Borrow money or issue bonds or notes except as provided in this law;

c. Make an expenditure of money unless the money shall have been appropriated as provided in this law, or unless the expenditure is a payment of a judgment against the municipality or is a payment of the principal or interest of a bond or note of the municipality; or,

d. Enter into any contract involving the expenditure of money unless a sufficient appropriation shall have been made therefor, except a continuing contract to be performed in whole or in part in an ensuing fiscal year, in which case an appropriation shall be made sufficient to meet the amount to be paid in the fiscal year in which the contract is made.

2. The authorization of bonds by a municipality shall be deemed to be an appropriation of the maximum authorized amount of the bonds for the purposes for which they are to be issued. (1917, c. 138, s. 34; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (34); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—This section was re-enacted without change by Public Laws Ex. Sess. 1921.

In General.—A city purchasing a cemetery in excess of the acreage allowed by sec. 2623(3), although the act is ultra vires and no provision is made under section 2922 in the city's budget for payment, takes a good title, and only the state in direct proceedings can question it. Harrison v. New Bern, 193 N. C. 555, 137 S. E. 582.

Continuing Contract.—A definition of a "continuing contract" as used in subsection d of this section depends largely upon the facts of particular cases. The governing principle in such contracts is successive transactions between the parties over a definite or indefinite period of time. White Co. v. Hickory, 195 N. C. 42, 45, 141 S. E. 494.

A contract with an engineer to furnish services in connection with the construction of a city's water supply, the completion of which will extend beyond the period of one year, is a continuing one under this section. White Co. v. Hickory, 195 N. C. 42, 141 S. E. 494.

§ 2961. Manner of passing ordinances and resolutions.—Ordinances and resolutions passed pursuant to this law shall be passed in the manner provided by other laws for the passage of ordinances and resolutions, but shall not be subject to the provisions of other laws prescribing conditions, acts, or things necessary to exist, happen, or be performed precedent to or after the passage of ordinances or resolutions in order to give them full force and effect: Provided, however, that in any municipality in which the acts of the governing body thereof involving the raising or expenditure of money are required by law to be approved by some other official board or officer of the municipality in order to make them effective, all ordinances and resolutions passed by the governing body under this law shall, unless they relate solely to elections held under this law, be so approved before they take effect. (1917, c. 138, s. 35; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (35); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By amendment of Ex. Sess. 1921 a part of the last sentence reading "expenditure of money as required by law" was changed to read: "expenditures of money are required by law."

§ 2962. Enforcement of law.—If any board or officer of a municipality shall be ordered by a court of competent jurisdiction to levy or collect a tax to pay a judgment or other debt, or to perform any duty required by this act to be performed by such board or officer, and shall fail to carry out such order, the court, in addition to all other remedies, may appoint its own officers or other persons to carry out such order. (1917, c. 138, s. 36; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (36); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By amendment Ex. Sess. 1921 there was omitted from this section a provision for officers, creditors and taxpayers to maintain an action to declare invalid any illegal official act, and a provision for jurisdiction of the superior court to enforce by mandamus or injunction the provision of this act.

§ 2963. Limitation of tax for general purposes.—For the purpose of raising revenue for defraying the expenses incident to the proper government of the municipality, the governing body shall have the power and it is hereby authorized to levy and collect an annual ad valorem tax on all taxable property in the municipality at a rate not exceeding one dollar on the one hundred dollars valuation of said property, notwithstanding any other law, general or special, heretofore or hereafter enacted, except a law hereafter enacted expressly repealing or amending this section: Provided, that in cities where the taxable values for the year 1920 amounted to one hundred million dollars or more, the rate of taxation for general purposes shall not exceed sixty-five (65) cents on the one hundred dollars valuation. (1917, c. 138, s. 37; 1919, c. 178, s. 3 (37); Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By amendment, Ex. Sess. 1921 the rate of one dollar on the one hundred dollar valuation replaced a former rate of one dollar and twenty-five cents on the one hundred dollar valuation. All that part following the second comma beginning with notwithstanding, was added.

§ 2964. Certain taxes validated.—All taxes levied by any municipality after the enactment of chapter one hundred and thirty-eight of public laws of one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, and prior to December sixth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, are hereby ratified and validated, notwithstanding the rate of said taxes exceeded the maximum rate prescribed by law, or any other defect or irregularity in the levy thereof. (1919, c. 193; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment Ex. Sess. 1921 the former general ratification was changed to apply only to taxes levied prior to December sixth, 1921; the provision for "all taxes" replaced a provision for "all taxes levied for general purposes"; the validation of all taxes irrespective of rate replaced a validation of taxes at a rate not exceeding one dollar and twenty-five cents on the hundred dollar assessment.

§ 2965. Outstanding floating debt validated, and may be funded.—All floating or other indebtedness, not evidenced by bonds, which was outstanding on December sixth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, and was incurred by a municipality in good faith for necessary expenses thereof (including floating or other indebtedness incurred in anticipation of the collection of taxes or for current expenses) is hereby validated, notwithstanding any want of power or authority to incur indebtedness for the purpose for which such indebtedness was incurred, and notwithstanding any defect in the procedure for incurring indebtedness, or any other defect or illegality, including the failure to observe any debt limit prescribed by law. The municipality may fund such outstanding indebtedness by issuing bonds as herein provided. (1919, c. 178, s. 4; Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—By amendment of Ex. Sess. 1921 a provision for all indebtedness not evidenced by bonds replaced a former provision for floating indebtedness only. The validation of debts prior to December sixth, 1921, replaced a validation of debts prior to March seventh, 1919.

Art. 27A. Emergency Municipal Bond Act

§ 2965(1). Title of article.—This article may be cited as the "Emergency Municipal Bond Act of 1935." (1935, c. 426, s. 1.)

§ 2965(2). Meaning of terms.—In this article, unless the context otherwise requires, the terms:

(a) "Undertaking" shall mean any project, undertaking or improvement which constitutes necessary expenses and for which the municipality may legally appropriate money, the financing of which is to be aided in whole or in part by means of a loan and/or grant through the federal emergency administrator of public works or through any other agency or department of the United States of America.

(b) "Municipality" means and includes all cities, towns or incorporated villages in this State now or hereafter incorporated.

(c) "Necessary expenses" means the necessary expenses referred to in section seven of Article VII of the Constitution of North Carolina.

(d) "Governing body" means the board or body in which the general legislative powers of the municipality is vested.

(e) "Clerk" means the person occupying the position of clerk or secretary of a municipality.

(f) "Financial officer" means the chief financial officer of the municipality. (1935, c. 426, s. 2.)

§ 2965(3). Bonds authorized. — Every municipality is hereby authorized pursuant to this law to issue its negotiable coupon bonds for the purpose of financing any of the undertakings referred to in section 2965(2). The bonds shall be issued in such form as the officers who execute them shall adopt, except as otherwise provided by the governing body; they shall be signed by two or more officers designated by the governing body, or if the governing body makes no such designation, then by the mayor or other chief executive officer, and by the clerk, and the corporate seal of the municipality shall be affixed to the bonds. The bonds may have coupons attached for the interest to be paid thereon, which coupons shall bear a facsimile signature of the clerk in office at the date of the bonds or at the date of the delivery thereof. The delivery of bonds so executed shall be valid notwithstanding any change in the officers or in the seal of the municipality occurring after the signing and sealing of the bonds. The bonds shall bear such date and such rate of interest, not exceeding four (4%) per cent per annum (payable semi-annually), or such other rate of interest as may be fixed by contract between the governing body and the United States of America, or any agency or department thereof, and shall be payable at such time or times, at such place or places, and in such medium of payment and in such denomination as the governing body may by resolution determine. The bonds may be issued either all at one time or from time to time in blocks. (1935, c. 426, s. 3.)

§ 2965(4). Registration and transfer of bonds.—(a) Bonds issued under this article shall be payable to bearer, unless they are registered as provided in this section; each coupon appertaining to a bond shall be payable to the bearer of the coupon.

(b) A municipality may keep in the office of its financial officer or in the office of a bank or trust company appointed by the governing body as bond registrar or transfer agent, a register or registers for the registration and transfer of its bonds, in which it may register any bond at the time of its issue, or, at the request of the holder, thereafter. After such registration the principal and interest of the bond shall be payable to the person in whose name it is registered except in the case of a coupon bond registered as to principal only, in which case the principal shall be payable to such person, unless the bond shall be discharged from registry by being registered as payable to bearer. After registration a bond may be transferred on such register by the registered owner in person or by attorney, upon presentation to the bond registrar, accompanied by delivery of a written instrument of transfer in a form approved by the bond registrar, executed by the registered owner.

(c) Upon the registration or transfer of a bond as aforesaid, the bond registrar shall note such registration or transfer on the back of the bond. Upon the registration of a coupon bond as to both principal and interest he shall also cut off and cancel the coupons.

(d) A municipality may, by recital in its bonds, agree to register the bonds as to principal only, or agree to register them either as to principal only or as to both principal and interest at the option of the bondholder. (1935, c. 426, s. 4.)

§ 2965(5). Application of funds.—The proceeds of the sale of bonds under this article shall be used only for the purposes specified in the resolution authorizing said bonds; Provided, however, that if for any reason any part of such proceeds are not applied to, or are not necessary for such purposes, such unexpended part of the proceeds shall be applied to the payment of the principal or interest of said bonds. The cost of preparing, issuing, and marketing the bonds, together with the interest on the amount expended during the course of construction of any undertaking shall be deemed to be one of the purposes for which the bonds are issued and may be paid for out of the proceeds derived from the sale of the bonds. (1935, c. 426, s. 5.)

§ 2965(6). Bonds authorized by resolution shall be incontestable after delivery.—All bonds issued under this article shall be authorized by appropriate resolution of the governing body, which shall be the only proceeding necessary to evidence the legality thereof. The bonds shall recite that they are issued pursuant to this article, and shall in any action or proceeding involving their validity, be conclusively deemed to be fully authorized by this article and to have been issued, executed, sold, and delivered in conformity herewith and with all other provisions and statutes applicable thereto, and shall be incontestable, anything herein or in other statutes to the contrary, notwithstanding, unless such action or proceeding is begun prior to the delivery of such bonds. (1935, c. 426, s. 6.)

§ 2965(7). Taxes levied for the payment of the bonds.—The full faith and credit of the municipality shall be deemed to be pledged for the punctual payment of the principal of and interest on every bond issued under this article. The governing body shall annually levy and collect a tax, ad valorem, upon all the taxable property subject to taxation by the municipality, sufficient to pay the principal and interest of all bonds issued under this article as such principal and interest become due: Provided, however, that such tax may be reduced by the amount of other moneys appropriated and actually available for such purposes.

So much of the net revenue derived by the municipality in any fiscal year from the operation of any revenue producing undertaking owned by the municipality after paying all expense of operating, managing, maintaining, repairing, enlarging and extending such undertaking, shall be applied, first to the payment of the interest payable in the next succeeding year on the bonds issued for such undertaking, and next, to the payment of the amount necessary to be raised by tax in such succeeding year for the payment of the principal of said bonds.

The powers stated in this section in respect to the levy of taxes for the payment of principal and interest of bonds shall not be subject to any limitation prescribed by law upon the amount or rate of taxes which a municipality may levy. Taxes levied under this section shall be levied and collected in the same manner as other taxes are levied and collected upon property by the municipality. (1935, c. 426, s. 7.)

§ 2965(8). Local government act applicable. — Any municipality issuing bonds under the provisions of this article, shall before the issuance and delivery thereof, make application to the local government commission and obtain the approval of that commission to issue such bonds, and they shall be subject to all the provisions of the Local Government Act, as amended, but the issuance of such bonds shall not be subject to any of the provisions of the Municipal Finance Act, as amended by the Local Government Act, and provided further that the local government commission may sell any bonds issued under this article to the United States of America, or any agency or department thereof, at private sale and without advertisement. (1935, c. 426, s. 8.)

§ 2965(9). Effect upon prior laws and proceedings taken.—This article shall not affect any acts or proceedings heretofore done or taken for the issuance of bonds for any undertaking under the Municipal Finance Act as it stood prior to the ratification of this article, or under any other law, and every municipality is hereby authorized to complete said acts and proceedings pursuant to the law under which they were done or taken and to issue said bonds under such acts in the same manner as if this article had not been passed: Provided, however, that the governing body may at its option proceed under this article for the issuance of such bonds, except in cases where a sufficient petition has theretofore been filed pursuant to law by the voters of such municipality demanding a referendum on the question of the issuance of such bonds without regard to the restrictions imposed by the said Municipal Finance Act and other laws. (1935, c. 426, s. 9.)

§ 2965(10). Consent of state agencies.—It shall not be necessary for any municipality proceeding under this article to obtain any certificate of convenience or necessity, franchise, license, permit, or other authorization from any bureau, board, commission or other like instrumentality of the State, except as provided by section 2965(8), in order to permit any undertaking authorized by this article, except the approval of the state board of health for an undertaking consisting of a water supply or sewer system as now provided by law (1935, c. 426, s. 10.)

§ 2965(11). Application and construction of article.—The powers conferred by this article are in addition to and not in substitution for those conferred by any other act, either general, special or local, and every municipality may proceed to issue bonds under the provisions of this article, notwithstanding any conditions, restrictions or limitations contained in any other act, whether general, special or local. Every provision of this article shall be construed as being qualified by constitutional provisions, whenever such construction shall be necessary in order to sustain the constitutionality of any portion of this article. If any portion of this article shall be declared unconstitutional, the remainder shall stand, and the portion declared unconstitutional shall be exscinded. (1935, c. 426, s. 11.)

§ 2965(12). Termination of power to issue bonds.—Except in pursuance to any contract or agreement theretofore entered into by any municipality, no municipality shall borrow any money or deliver any bonds pursuant to this article to the purchaser or purchasers thereof after June thirty, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, no bonds shall be issued under this act except with the express approval of the local government commission. (1935, c. 426, s. 12.)

Art. 28. General Effect of Municipal Finance Act

§ 2966. Effect upon prior laws and proceedings taken.—(Obsolete.)

§ 2967. Other acts repealed; exceptions.—(Obsolete.)

§ 2968. Proceedings under act of 1917 validated.—(Obsolete).

§ 2969. General repealing clause. — (Obsolete.)

§ 2969(a). Effect upon prior laws and proceedings taken. — All acts and parts of acts, whether general, special, private or local, regulating or relating in any way to the issuance of bonds or other obligations of a municipality, or relating to the subject-matter of this law, are hereby repealed: Provided, however, that this law shall not affect any local or private act enacted at the present session of the general assembly, or regular session of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, but the powers hereby conferred and the methods of procedure hereby provided shall be deemed to be conferred and provided in addition to and not in substitution for those conferred or provided by any such local or private act enacted at the extraordinary session, 1921, of the general assembly, or regular session of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, so that any municipality may, at its option, proceed under any such local or private act applicable to it enacted at the extraordinary session, 1921, of the general assembly or regular session of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-twenty-one without regard to the restrictions imposed by this law, or may proceed under this law without regard to the restrictions imposed by any other act: Provided further, that this law shall not affect any of the provisions of article nine of subchapter one of chapter 56 of Consolidated Statutes, except those provisions which prescribe methods of procedure for borrowing money or issuing bonds or other obligations, and said article shall apply to all municipalties in this state, notwithstanding any inconsistent, general, special, local or private laws: Provided further, that this law shall not affect any acts or proceedings heretofore done or taken for the issuance of bonds or other obligations under the municipal finance act, as it stood prior to December 20, 1921, or under any other law, and every municipality is hereby authorized to complete said acts and proceedings pursuant to the laws under which they were done or taken, and to issue said bonds or other obligations under such acts in the same manner as if this law had not been passed: Provided further, that this law shall not render invalid any bonds or notes or proceedings for the issuance of bonds or notes in cases when such bonds, notes or proceedings have been validated by any other act. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 106, s. 2.)

Art. 29. State Supervision of Payment of Bonds

§§ 2969(b)-2969(i). Repealed by the Public Laws of 1925, c. 100, s. 13.

Editor's Note.—Ch. 100 of the Public Laws 1925 was repealed by Public Laws 1927, c. 214, which in turn was repealed by Public Laws 1931, c. 60, s. 4.

As to supervision under Local Government Act, see §§ 2492(1)-2492(51).

Art. 30. Municipal Fiscal Agency Act

§ 2969(j). Title of Act. — This act shall be known as "the Municipal Fiscal Agency Act." (1925, c. 195, s. 1.)

§ 2969(k). Payment of fees to bank.—Whenever any county, city, town, township, school district or school taxing district is or shall be authorized or permitted to make payments of bonds or coupons issued by it or in its behalf at any place other than within such county, city, town, township, school district or school taxing district, and such bonds or coupons are by their terms payable at such other place, it shall be lawful for the officer disbursing the funds for such payment to pay the reasonable fees of the bank, trust company or other agency making payment at such place, and to agree to pay such fees at a fixed rate throughout the term of the bonds as to which such payment is to be made at such place, but no fee in excess of one-fourth of one per cent of the amount of interest paid and one-eighth of one per cent of the amount of principal paid shall be deemed reasonable. (1925, c. 195, s. 2.)

As to effect of Local Government Act, see §§ 2492(1) et seq.

Art. 31. Municipal Bond Registration Act

§ 2969(l). Title of Act. — This act shall be known as "The Municipal Bond Registration Act". (1925, c. 129, s. 1.)

§ 2969(m). Registration. — Each county, city, town, school district and school taxing district which has issued or shall hereafter issue bonds in its own name, and each county, city, and town, which has issued or shall hereafter issue bonds in behalf of a school district or a school taxing district, is hereby authorized to keep in the office of its treasurer or financial agent or its clerk, or in the office of the bank or trust company appointed by its governing body as bond registrar, a register or registers for the registration as to principal of such bonds in the name of the owner thereof, in which it may register any such bond as to principal at the time of its issue, or at the request of the holder thereafter. Such registration shall not affect the payment of interest, but such interest shall continue to be made upon the presentation and surrender of interest coupons if issued, but after such registration as to principal, the principal shall be payable to the person in whose name registered or to the person in whose name the bonds registered may be transferred on such register by the registered owner in person or by attorney, upon presentation to the bond registrar, accompanied by delivery of a written instrument of transfer in a form approved by the bond registrar, executed by the registered owner: Provided, however, that a registered bond may be discharged from registry by a transfer to bearer registered as herein provided. Upon the registration or transfer of a bond as aforesaid the bond registrar shall note such registration or transfer on the back of the bond. (1925, c. 129, s. 2.)

As to effect of Local Government Act, see §§ 2492(1) et seq.

SUBCHAPTER IV. FISCAL CONTROL ACT AND COLLECTION OF TAXES

Art. 32. Fiscal Control Act

§ 2969(n). Municipalities brought under terms of county fiscal control act.—All cities and towns shall be subject to and be governed by all of the provisions of the County Fiscal Control Act [§§ 1334(53)-1334(76)] and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, including acts ratified at the present session of the General Assembly, except as herein otherwise provided or except as the context shows that it is not intended that such acts shall be applicable to cities and towns. (1931, c. 60, s. 65.)

§ 2969(o). Terms in county fiscal control act made applicable to cities and towns. — Except as the context may otherwise show, and for the purpose of applying the provisions of the County Fiscal Control Act to cities and towns, the following words and phrases in the County Fiscal Control Act, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, shall be deemed to have the following meanings when applied to cities and towns:

County Accountant, County Treasurer, County Auditor, County Depository and County Treasury shall mean Municipal Accountant, Municipal Treasurer, Municipal Auditor, Municipal Depository and Municipal Treasury; the Board of County Commissioners shall mean the governing body of a municipality, sub-division shall mean a school district, school taxing district or other political corporation or sub-division wholly or partly within a municipality, the taxes for which are under the law levied by the governing body of the municipality: county as a noun shall mean municipality; county as an adjective shall mean municipal; Clerk of the Board of County Commissioners shall mean clerk of the municipality or of its governing body; courthouse door shall mean door of the municipal building; appropriation resolution and resolution making tax levy shall mean appropriation ordinance and ordinance making tax levy, respectively; County Fiscal Control Act shall mean Local Government Act, being this Act and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto; County Government Advisory Commission shall mean the Director of Local Government whose office is created by the Local Government Act. (1931, c. 60, s. 67.)

As to the Local Government Act, see §§ 2492(1) et seq.

§ 2969(p). Purposes of municipal funds required by act.—The municipal funds required by this Act for cities and towns are not those funds required by the County Fiscal Control Act for counties, but are funds for each of the following functions of municipal government:

(1) Current operating expense of the municipality.

(2) School expenses of the municipality supplemental to constitutional school maintenance.

(3) Municipal debt service.

(4) Each special purpose to which the General Assembly has given its special approval, separately stated.

(5) Debt service of each sub-division, separately stated.

(6) Maintenance of each sub-division, separately stated.

(7) Permanent improvements in each sub-division, separately stated.

(8) Such other funds as may be established by the governing body, separately stated. (1931, c. 60, s. 68.)

§ 2969(q). Exceptions. — Notwithstanding the foregoing, none of the provisions of the County Fiscal Control Act or acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto in relation to maintenance of schools for the constitutional term, depositories and security for deposits, abolition of the office of County Treasurer or appointment of financial agents to perform functions of the County Treasurer shall be applicable to or govern cities or towns. (1931, c. 60, s. 69.)

Art. 33. Collection of Taxes

§ 2969(r). Sections 1334(45)-1334(52) applicable: Sale of land for non-payment of special assessments.—All cities and towns shall be subject to the provisions of sections 1334(45)-1334(52). Except as the context may otherwise show, and for the purpose of applying the provisions of said sections to cities and towns, the following words and phrases in said sections shall be deemed to have the following meanings when applied to cities and towns, viz.: "county commissioners" shall mean the governing body of a municipality; "county" shall mean a municipality; "township" shall mean taxing district; "county-town" shall mean the municipality.

Sales of land for delinquent special assessments shall be advertised and made at the time provided for advertisements and sales of land for taxes upon property. In applying the provisions of section 1334(48) to cities and towns, duties required to be performed on the first Monday in May shall be deemed duties to be performed on the second Monday in May and duties required to be performed on the first Monday in June shall be deemed duties required to be performed on the second Monday in June. In applying the provisions of section 1334(51) to cities and towns, references to the first Monday in December being made three times in said section seven shall be deemed to refer to the date any tax collector ceases to hold such office although such date be not the first Monday in December. (1931, c. 296, s. 3.)

SUBCHAPTER V. REVENUE PRODUCING UNDERTAKINGS.

Art. 34. Revenue Bond Act of 1935

§ 2969(1). Title of article.—This article may be cited as "The Revenue Bond Act of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five." (1935, c. 473, s. 1.)

§ 2969(2). Definitions.—Whenever used in this article, unless a different meaning clearly appears from the context:

(a) The term "undertaking" shall mean any one or combination of two or more of the following: Water, sewerage, gas or electric, heat, light or power works, plants and systems, together with all parts thereof and appurtenances thereto including, but not limited to, supply and distribution systems, reservoirs, dams, sewage treatment and disposal works and generating plants, and also including plants for the incineration or disposal of ashes, garbage or refuse (other than sewerage).

(b) The term "municipality" means and includes all cities, towns, incorporated villages or sanitary districts in this State now or hereafter incorporated.

(c) The term "governing body" means the board or body in which the general legislative powers of the municipality is vested. (1935, c. 473, s. 2.)

§ 2969(3). Declaration of policy.—It is hereby declared to be the policy of this State that any municipality acquiring, purchasing, constructing, reconstructing, improving, bettering or extending an undertaking pursuant to this article shall manage such undertaking in the most efficient manner consistent with sound economy and public advantage to the end that the services of the undertaking shall be furnished to consumers at the lowest possible cost. No municipality shall operate such undertaking primarily for profit but shall operate such undertaking for the use and benefit of the consumers served by such undertaking and for the promotion of the welfare and for the improvement of the health and safety of the inhabitants of the municipality. (1935, c. 473, s. 3.)

§ 2969(4). Additional powers of municipalities.—In addition to the powers which it may now have, any municipality shall have power under this article: (a) to construct, acquire by gift, purchase, or the exercise of the right of eminent domain, reconstruct, improve, better or extend any undertaking, within the municipality, and to acquire by gift, purchase, or the exercise of the right of eminent domain, lands or rights in land or water rights in connection therewith, (b) to operate and maintain any undertaking for its own use or for the use and benefit of its inhabitants and also to operate and maintain such undertaking for the use and benefit of persons, firms, and corporations (including municipal corporations and inhabitants thereof) whose residences or places of business are (or which are) located in such municipality, (c) to issue its bonds to finance in whole or in part the cost of the acquisition, purchase, construction, reconstruction, improvement, betterment or extension of any undertaking, (d) to prescribe and collect rates, fees, charges for the services, facilities and commodities furnished by such undertaking, and (e) to pledge to the punctual payment of said bonds and interest thereon an amount of the revenues of such undertaking (including improvements, betterments, or extensions thereto thereafter constructed or acquired) or of any part of such undertaking, sufficient to pay said bonds and interest as the same shall become due and to create and maintain reasonable reserves therefor. Such amount may consist of all or any part or portion of such revenue. The governing body of the municipality in determining such cost may include all costs and estimated costs of the issuance of said bonds, all engineering, inspection, fiscal and legal expenses, and interest which it is estimated will accrue during the construction period and for six months thereafter on money borrowed or which it is estimated will be borrowed pursuant to this article. (1935, c. 473, s. 4.)

§ 2969(5). Authorization of project; bond provisions. — The construction, reconstruction, improvement, betterment or extension of any undertaking may be authorized under this article and bonds may be authorized to be issued under this article to provide funds for such purpose or purposes by resolution or resolutions of the governing body which may be adopted at the same meeting at which they are introduced by a majority of all the members thereof then in office and shall take effect immediately upon adoption, notwithstanding any provisions to the contrary contained in the charter of such municipality, or in any other law, and such resolutions shall not be required to be published. Said bonds shall bear interest at such rate or rates not exceeding five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, may be in one or more series, may bear such date or dates, may mature at such time or times not exceeding forty years from their respective dates, may be payable in such medium of payment, at such place or places, may carry such registration privileges, may be subject to such terms of redemption, may be executed in such manner, may contain such terms, covenants and conditions, and may be in such form, either coupon or registered, as such resolution or subsequent resolutions may provide. The local government commission may sell said bonds at private sale without advertisement to the United States of America or any agency, instrumentality, or corporation thereof. Pending the preparation of the definitive bonds, interim receipts or certificates in such form and with such provisions as the governing body may determine may be issued to the purchaser or purchasers of bonds sold pursuant to this article. Said bonds and interim receipts or certificates shall be fully negotiable within the meaning of and for all the purposes of the chapter of the Consolidated Statutes, entitled "Negotiable Instruments." (1935, c. 473, s. 5.)

§ 2969(6). Covenants in resolution authorizing issuance of bonds.—Any resolution or resolutions authorizing the issuance of bonds under this article may contain covenants as to (a) the purpose or purposes to which the proceeds of sale of said bonds may be applied and the use and disposition thereof, (b) the use and dispostion of the revenue of the undertaking for which said bonds are to be issued, including the creation and maintenance of reserves, (c) the transfer from the general funds of the municipality to the account or accounts of the undertaking an amount equal to the cost of furnishing such municipality or any of its departments, boards or agencies with the services, facilities and commodities of said undertaking, (d) the issuance of other or additional bonds payable from the revenues of said undertaking, (e) the operation and maintenance of such undertaking, (f) the insurance to be carried thereon and the use and disposition of insurance moneys, (g) books of account and the inspection and audit thereof, and (h) the terms and conditions upon which the holders of said bonds or any proportion of them or any trustee therefor shall be entitled to the appointment of a temporary or permanent receiver by the resident judge of the superior court of the judicial district in which the municipality is situated, or by a judge holding a regular or special term therein, which court shall have jurisdiction in such proceedings, and which receiver may, subject to the orders of said court, enter and take possession of said undertaking, operate and maintain the same, prescribe rates, fees, or charges, and collect, receive and apply all revenue thereafter arising therefrom in the same manner as the municipality itself might do. The provisions of this article and any such resolution or resolutions shall be a contract with the holder or holders of said bonds, and the duties of the municipality and of its governing body and officers under this article and any such resolution or resolutions shall be enforceable by any bondholder, by mandamus or other appropriate suit, action or proceeding in any court of competent jurisdiction. (1935, c. 473, s. 6.)

§ 2969(7). Validity of bonds.—Said bonds bearing the signature of officers in office on the date of the signing thereof shall be valid and binding obligations, notwithstanding that before the delivery thereof and payment therefor any or all the persons whose signatures appear thereon shall have ceased to be officers of the municipality issuing the same. The validity of said bonds shall not be dependent on nor affected by the validity or regularity of any proceedings relating to the acquisition, purchase, construction, reconstruction, improvement, betterment, or extension of the undertaking for which said bonds are issued. The resolution authorizing said bonds may provide that the bonds shall contain a recital that they are issued pursuant to the act, which recital shall be conclusive evidence of their validity and of the regularity of their issuance. (1935, c. 473, s. 7.)

§ 2969(8). Lien of bonds.—All bonds of the same issue shall, subject to the prior and superior rights of outstanding bonds, claims or obligations, have a prior and paramount lien on the revenue of the undertaking, for which said bonds have been issued, over and ahead of all bonds of any issue payable from said revenue which may be subsequently issued and over and ahead of any claims or obligations of any nature against said revenue subsequently arising or subsequently incurred. All bonds of the same issue shall be equally and ratably secured without priority by reason of number, date of bonds, of sale, of execution or of delivery, by a lien on said revenue in accordance with the provisions of this article and the resolution or resolutions authorizing said bonds. All bonds issued under this article shall have a junior and subordinate lien on the revenue of the undertaking under and secondary to outstanding bonds issued to finance in whole or in part the acquisition, purchase, or construction of such undertaking, where any part of such revenues are by other laws required to be applied to the payment of the principal or interest of such outstanding bonds. (1935, c. 473, s. 8.)

§ 2969(9). Bonds not a general obligation of municipality.—No holder or holders of any bonds issued under this article shall ever have the right to compel any exercise of taxing power of the municipality to pay said bonds or the interest thereon. Each bond issued under this article shall recite in substance that said bond, including interest thereon, is payable from the revenue pledged to the payment thereof, and that said bond does not constitute a debt of the municipality within the meaning of any statutory limitation. (1935, c. 473, s. 9.)

§ 2969(10). Undertakings to be self-supporting.—The governing body of a municipality issuing bonds pursuant to this article shall prescribe and collect reasonable rates, fees or charges for the services, facilities and commodities of such undertaking, and shall revise such rates, fees or charges from time to time whenever necessary so that such undertaking shall be and always remain self-supporting. The rates, fees or charges prescirbed shall be such as will produce revenue at least sufficient (a) to pay when due all bonds and interest thereon, for the payment of which such revenue is or shall have been pledged, charged or otherwise encumbered, including reserves therefor, and (b) to provide for all expenses of operation and maintenance of such undertaking, including reserves therefor. (1935, c. 473, s. 10.)

§ 2969(11). Use of revenue.—Any municipality issuing bonds pursuant to this article for the acquisition, purchase, construction, reconstruction, improvement, betterment or extension of any undertaking shall have the right to appropriate, apply or expend the revenue of such undertaking for the following purposes: (a) to pay when due all bonds and interest thereon, for the payment of which such revenue is or shall have been pledged, charged or otherwise encumbered, including reserves therefor, (b) to provide for all expenses of operation and maintenance of such undertaking, including reserves therefor, (c) to pay and discharge notes, bonds or other obligations and interest thereon, not issued under this article for the payment of which the revenue of such undertaking is or shall have been pledged, charged or encumbered, (d) to pay and discharge notes, bonds or other obligations and interest thereon, which do not constitute a lien, charge or encumbrance on the revenue of such undertaking, which shall have been issued for the purpose of financing the acquisition, purchase, construction, reconstruction, improvements, betterment or extension of such undertaking, and (e) to provide a reserve for betterments to such undertaking. Unless and until adequate provision has been made for the foregoing purposes, no municipality shall have the right to transfer the revenue of such undertaking to its general funds. (1935, c. 473, s. 11.)

§ 2969(12). Consent of state agencies; and application of the local improvement act.—It shall not be necessary for any municipality proceeding under this article to obtain any certificate of convenience or necessity, franchise, license, permit, or other authorization from any bureau, board, commission or other like instrumentality of the state except the approval of the local government commission, as required by the Local Government Act as amended, which act as amended shall apply to all bonds issued hereunder, in order to acquire, construct, purchase, reconstruct, improve, better, extend, maintain and operate an undertaking, but the powers and duties of the state board of health shall continue as heretofore. (1935, c. 473, s. 12.)

§ 2969(13). Construction of article.—The powers conferred by this article shall be in addition and supplemental to the powers conferred by any other general, special or local law. The undertaking may be acquired, purchased, constructed, reconstructed, improved, bettered, and extended, and bonds may be issued under this article for said purposes, notwithstanding that any general, special or local law may provide for the acquisition, purchase, construction, reconstruction, improvement, betterment, and extension of a like undertaking, or the issuance of bonds for like purposes, and without regard to the requirements, restrictions, limitations, or other provisions contained in any other general, special or local law, including, but not limited to, any requirement for the approval by the voters of any municipality. In so far as the provisions of this article are inconsistent with the provisions of any other general, special or local law, the provisions of this article shall be controlling. (1935, c. 473, s. 13.)

§ 2969(14). Termination of power to issue bonds.—Except in pursuance to any contract or agreement theretofore entered into by any municipality, no municipality shall borrow any money or deliver any bonds pursuant to this article to the purchaser or purchasers thereof after June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven. (1935, c. 473, s. 15.)

§ 2969(15). Consent of local government commission necessary before bonds are issued. — No bonds shall be issued under this article except with the express approval of the local government commission. (1935, c. 473, s. 17.)

CHAPTER 57

NAMES OF PERSONS

§ 2970. Legislature may regulate change by general but not private law.—The general assembly shall not have power to pass any private law to alter the name of any person, but shall have power to pass general laws regulating the same. (Rev., s. 2146; Const., Art. II, s. 11.)

As to name of partnership, see section 3269. As to persons trading as "company" or "agent" to disclose names of real parties, see section 3292. As to name of corporation, see section 1114. As to trademarks, brands and marks, see section 3971 et seq. As to changing name of minor child upon adoption, see section 186.

§ 2971. Procedure for changing name; petition; notice.—A person who wishes, for good cause shown, to change his name must file his application before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which he lives, having first given ten days notice of the application by publication at the courthouse door. (Rev., s. 2147; 1891, c. 145.)

§ 2972. Contents of petition.—The applicant shall state in the application his true name, the name he desires to adopt, his reasons for desiring such change, and that his name has never been changed before by law. (Rev., s. 2147; 1891, c. 145.)

§ 2973. Proof of good character to accompany petition.—The applicant shall also file with said petition proof of his good character, which proof must be made by at least two citizens of the county who know his standing. (Rev., s. 2148; 1891, c. 145.)

§ 2974. Clerk to order change; certificate and record.—If the clerk thinks that good and sufficient reason exists for the change of name, it shall be his duty to issue an order changing the name of applicant from his true name to the name sought to be adopted. He shall issue to the applicant a certificate under his hand and seal of office, stating the change made in the applicant's name, and shall also record said application and order on the docket of special proceedings in his court. (Rev., ss. 2149, 2150; 1891, c. 145.)

§ 2975. Effect of change; only one change.—When the order is made and the applicant's name changed, he is entitled to all the privileges and protection under his new name as he would have been under the old name. No person shall be allowed to change his name under this chapter but once. (Rev., ss. 2147, 2149; 1891, c. 145.)

CHAPTER 58

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS

Art. 1. General Provisions

§ 2976. Definitions.—In this chapter, unless the context otherwise requires—

"Acceptance" means an acceptance completed by delivery or notification.

"Action" includes counterclaim and setoff.

"Bank" includes any person or association of persons carrying on the business of banking, whether incorporated or not.

"Bearer" means the person in possession of a bill or note which is payable to bearer.

"Bill" means bill of exchange, and "note" means negotiable promissory note.

"Delivery means transfer of possession, actual or constructive, from one person to another.

"Holder" means the payee or indorsee of a bill or note who is in possession of it, or the bearer thereof.

"Indorsement" means an indorsement completed by delivery.

"Instrument" means negotiable instrument.

"Issue" means the first delivery of the instrument, complete in form, to a person who takes it as a holder.

"Person" includes a body of persons, whether incorporated or not.

"Value" means valuable consideration.

"Written" includes printed, and "writing" includes print. (Rev., s. 2340; 1899, c. 733, s. 191.)

Editor's Note. — Especial attention is called to the fact that the purpose in enacting this statute was to bring about, insofar as possible, a uniformity of the law of the various states upon the subject. This being true, if the purpose is to be realized to the fullest extent, uniformity of interpretation is as essential as uniformity in the statutory provisions. Hence, an investigation of the decisions of the other states which interpret the N. I. L. is not only proper but almost indispensable, and such decisions are more persuasive as authority than is usually the case with the decisions of other states. While it would be impossible in a work of this nature to incorporate all the holdings of the courts of other states upon the subject, some of these decisions have been inserted in this chapter where it is thought they may be of great value in construing the law, or where no decision of the Supreme Court of North Carolina covers the special point.

Some of the North Carolina cases herein annotated were decided under the Law Merchant before the N. I. L. was adopted, but should be of aid in construing this law.

Section quoted in defining bearer and holder in Steinhilper v. Basnight, 153 N. C. 293, 69 S. E. 220. See notes of this case under section 3010.

§ 2977. Person primarily liable on instrument.—The person primarily liable on an instrument is the person who by the terms of the instrument is absolutely required to pay the same. All other parties are secondarily liable. (Rev., s. 2342; 1899, c. 733, s. 192.)

Cross Reference.—As to accommodation endorser, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 418; as to liability of parties, see sections 3041-3050.

A surety on an instrument comes squarely within the definition of a person whose liability is primary, for he is, by the terms of the instrument, absolutely required to pay the same. Rouse v. Wooten, 140 N. C. 557, 559, 53 S. E. 430. See also Taft v. Covington, 199 N. C. 51, 56, 153 S. E. 597; Dry v. Reynolds, 205 N. C. 571, 172 S. E. 351.

Joint makers upon the face of a negotiable instrument are deemed to be primarily liable thereon, and in an action upon the note the burden is upon the defendants to prove any matter in release, if brought within three years. Roberson Co. v. Spain, 173 N. C. 23, 91 S. E. 361. See also Taft v. Covington, 199 N. C. 51, 56, 153 S. E. 597.

When a promissory note sued on has the signatures of two of the defendants on its face as joint makers and the other defendant's signature on the back as endorser, the statute makes them each liable to the payee and nothing else appearing, those signing as makers are primarily liable, with the right of contribution among themselves, while the endorser is secondarily liable. Raleigh Trust Co. v. York, 199 N. C. 624, 155 S. E. 263.

Indorser.—If a note, whether negotiable or not, is indorsed at the same time the note itself is made, the indorser ought to be held as original promisor or maker of the note. But where the note is indorsed after its delivery to the payee, the indorser is to be held as an indorser or guarantor depending upon whether the note is negotiable or not. Lilly v. Baker, 88 N. C. 151, 154.

A married woman may now make executory contracts as binding as if she were a feme sole, § 2507, with certain restrictions, § 2515, and when she has executed a note as co-maker with her husband, a holder in due course for value, may accordingly enforce collection thereof against her as a person primarily liable on the note, and absolutely required to pay it. Taft v. Covington, 199 N. C. 51, 153 S. E. 597.

Parol Evidence as to Character of Signing.—As between the payee of a negotiable note and the signers thereof, a person signing his name on the face of the note may prove by parol evidence that to the knowledge of the payee he signed the same as surety and not maker. Davis v. Alexander, 207 N. C. 417, 177 S. E. 417.

Cited in Mayers v. Bank, 198 N. C. 542, 152 S. E. 628.

§ 2978. What constitutes reasonable time.—In determining what is reasonable time or an unreasonable time regard is to be had to the nature of the instrument, the usage of trade or business (if any) with respect to such instruments, and the facts of the particular case. (Rev., s. 2343; 1899, c. 733, s. 193.)

Cross Reference. — As to failure to present bill for acceptance within a reasonable time, see sec. 3126; as to demand for payment, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 472.

As Dependent upon Circumstances. — What constitutes reasonable time will vary under the facts and circumstances of different cases, and this statute expresses as definite a rule as could well be established or considered desirable. Manufacturing Co. v. Summers, 143 N. C. 102, 108, 55 S. E. 522.

Though it be inconvenient to have several rules, applicable to different classes of persons, it is more so to have one applied to all, which is wholly unsuited to the habits, transactions, and experience of the greater number. It is impossible to lay down a rule in the abstract which is equally just in its bearing on all persons to be affected by it; it must depend upon the circumstances of the case, and must be determined by the jury, under the directions of the court. Raines v. Grantham, 205 N. C. 340, 343, 171 S. E. 360, citing Brittain v. Johnson, 12 N. C. 293.

Same—Demand and Notice of Default upon Notes.—Four months, when the parties all resided in the same village, is an unreasonable time in making a demand of the maker of a note and giving notice of non-payment to the indorser. Yancey v. Littlejohn, 9 N. C. 525.

But where a demand note was given to raise money for marketing a crop to be negotiated when needed, a negotiation forty four days after the date of making was not an unreasonable time. Colona v. Parksley Nat. Bank, 120 Va. 812, 92 S. E. 979.

Same—Presentation of Check.—The holder of a check upon a bank located in the town of his residence may present it for payment on the day after the same is drawn, and his omission to present it sooner is no defense to the drawee bank, unless he had information of its precarious condition. First National Bank v. Alexander, 84 N. C. 30.

§ 2979. When law merchant governs.—In any case not provided for in this chapter the rules of the law merchant shall govern. (Rev., s. 2344; 1899, c. 733, s. 196.)

§ 2980. Acts to be done on Sunday or holiday.—Where the day, or the last day, for doing any act herein required or permitted to be done falls on Sunday, or on a holiday, the act may be done on the next succeeding secular or business day. (Rev., s. 2839; 1899, c. 733, s. 194.)

§ 2981. Application of chapter.—The provisions of this chapter do not apply to negotiable instruments made and delivered prior to the eighth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine. (Rev., s. 2345; 1899, c. 733, s. 195.)

Applied in Barden v. Hornthal, 151 N. C. 8, 65 S. E. 513.

Art. 2. Form and Interpretation

§ 2982. Form of negotiable instrument. — An instrument to be negotiable must conform to the following requirements: (1) It must be in writing and signed by the maker or drawer; (2) must contain an unconditional promise or order to pay a sum certain in money; (3) must be payable on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time; (4) must be payable to the order of a specified person or to bearer; and (5) where the instrument is addressed to a drawee, he must be named, or otherwise indicated therein with reasonable certainty. (Rev., s. 2151; 1899, c. 733, s. 1.)

Cross Reference.—As to certainty of sum, see sec. 2983; as to unconditional promise, see sec. 2984; as to fixed determinable time, see sec. 2988, 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 409; as to payment to order, see sec. 2989; as to payment to bearer, see sec. 2990. As to negotiability in general, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 404.

Editor's Note.—It is apparent that this section is declaratory of the prior law upon the subject. As to certainty of amount to be paid and time of payment, see First Nat. Bank v. Bynum, 84 N. C. 25; necessity of payment in money, Johnson v. Henderson, 76 N. C. 227.

Effect of Conditions.—A contingent condition has always defeated the negotiability of an instrument. Goodloe v. Taylor, 10 N. C. 458.

Since the passage of this law the court has held that a note, the payment of which was made dependent upon a condition expressed in a separate instrument, a deed, was not negotiable. Pope v. Righter Parey Lumber Co., 162 N. C. 206, 78 S. E. 65.

Necessity for Payment to Order or Bearer.—Subsection four was applied in Johnson v. Lassiter, 155 N. C. 47, 71 S. E. 23.

Where an instrument is expressly made payable to a named person, such a provision clearly imports a lack of negotiability under this section. Bank of United States v. Cuthbertson, 67 F. (2d) 182, 186.

The absence of the words "to bearer" or "to order" does not render the bonds nonassignable, but nonrecognizable. Id.

Form of Instrument.—So long as the requirements of this section are complied with, the form of the instrument is immaterial. Thus it has been held that the fact that the instrument is written in pencil (Gudger v. Fletcher, 29 N. C. 372, although decided prior to section this holding would seem to be applicable), or that it is under seal (First Nat. Bank v. Michael, 96 N. C. 53, 1 S. E. 855. This case was also decided prior to N. I. L. but is apparently applicable, see section 2987) does not affect the negotiability.

To illustrate further, it has been held that a certificate of deposit containing words of negotiability (Johnson v. Henderson, 76 N. C. 227, though decided prior to N. I. L., this case is applicable under it), or a due bill (Purtel v. Morehead, 19 N. C. 239) or a mortgage note for a specified sum, payable a certain future day, though it provided that the whole principal sum should become payable at the option of the mortgagee upon a default in an installment, (decided under the N. I. L. of Wisconsin which is identical with this section) is negotiable. Thorpe v. Minderman, 123 Wis. 149, 101 N. W. 417.

Although county warrants are transferable by indorsement and the indorsee or holder may sue upon them in his own name, they are not negotiable in the sense that the holder in due course is protected by the N. I. L. Wright v. Kinney, 123 N. C. 618, 619, 31 S. E. 874. For further treatment, see notes to section 2983-2995.

The provisions therein that a bond should be payable to bearer, or if registered to the registered holder only, and provisions for an extension of time, upon application of the maker, in the discretion of trustee in the deed of trust securing it, does not change its negotiable character. Thomas v. De Moss, 202 N. C. 646, 163 S. E. 759.

A municipal bond payable to bearer, and otherwise complying as to form with the provisions of this section, is a negotiable instrument, and as such when in the hands of a holder in due course as defined by C. S., 3033, is not subject to defenses which would otherwise ordinarily be available to the municipal corporation by which the bond was issued. Bankers' Trust Co. v. Statesville, 203 N. C. 399, 407, 166 S. E. 169.

A bond indemnifying a bank from any loss which it might sustain by reason of its taking over the assets and discharging the liabilities of another bank, the bond being payable to the liquidating bank and not to its order, is not a negotiable instrument within the meaning of this section. North Carolina Bank, etc., Co. v. Williams, 201 N. C. 464, 160 S. E. 484.

Holders of negotiable mortgage notes are necessary parties plaintiff in an equitable action to reform the deed of trust and the notes. First Nat. Bank v. Thomas, 204 N. C. 599, 169 S. E. 189.

Cited in Peoples Building & Loan Assn. v. Swaim, 198 N. C. 14, 16, 150 S. E. 668; Dixon v. Smith, 204 N. C. 480, 168 S. E. 683; Stein v. Levins, 205 N. C. 302, 305, 171 S. E. 96.

§ 2983. What constitutes certainty as to sum.—The sum payable is a sum certain within the meaning of this chapter, although it is to be paid (1) with interest; or (2) by stated installments; or (3) by stated installments with a provision that upon default in payment of any installment the whole shall become due; or (4) with exchange, whether at a fixed rate or at the current rate; or (5) with costs of collection or an attorney's fee in case payment shall not be made at maturity. But a provision incorporated in the instrument to pay counsel fees for collection is not enforceable, but does not affect the other terms of the instrument or the negotiability thereof. (Rev., ss. 2152, 2346; 1899, c. 733, ss. 2, 197; 1905, c. 327.)

Editor's Note.—In First Nat'l Bank v. Bynum, 84 N. C. 25, decided before this section was enacted, it was held that a provision for attorneys' fees and exchange made the note non-negotiable because of uncertainty of the amount to be paid. This, according to the specific terms of the section, is, of course, no longer the law.

Although the first sentence of paragraph five appears in the N. I. L., the second sentence was inserted by the legislature of this State so that, in accordance with the uniform law, the stipulation for attorney fees does not destroy the negotiability of the instrument although the provision is not enforceable. It is the evident policy of the legislature to prevent any stipulation permitting "collection fees" as being against public policy. See Turner v. Boger, 126 N. C. 300, 302, 35 S. E. 592, and citations. An application of the operation of this paragraph will be found in Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 177 S. E. 629.

Since the provision in an instrument is invalid it does not affect the amount in suit in determining the jurisdiction of a justice court. Bank v. Appalachian Land, etc., Co., 128 N. C. 193, 38 S. E. 813.

Since attorney fees are not collectible under this section an agent with special authority to pay a note due out of funds held by him is limited to a payment of the principal sum, interests and costs that have accrued at the time of payment. Hooper v. Trust Co., 190 N. C. 423, 130 S. E. 49.

Same—Foreign Contract for Attorney's Fees.—The validity of a provision in a note for attorneys' fees executed and payable in Georgia, must be determined by the laws of North Carolina. Exchange Bank v. Land Co., 128 N. C. 193, 38 S. E. 813. And because of this section, the courts of North Carolina will not enforce such a provision. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 177 S. E. 629.

§ 2984. When promise is unconditional.—An unqualified order or promise to pay is unconditional within the meaning of this chapter, though coupled with (1) an indication of a particular fund out of which reimbursement is to be made, or a particular account to be debited with the amount; or (2) a statement of the transaction which gives rise to the instrument. But an order or promise to pay out of a particular fund is not unconditional. (Rev., s. 2153; 1899, c. 733, s. 3.)

Cross Reference.—As to draft with bill of lading attached, see sec. 318 and the notes thereto; as to payment on contingency, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 386.

Editor's Note.—This section is declaratory of the prior law upon the subject [See 9 Enc. Dig. (sections 10, 14, 58) pages 386, 400], except that very early it was held that a statement of the consideration made the instrument conditional. See Mason v. Nelson Cotton Co., 148 N. C. 492, 62 S. E. 625; and Bank v. Hatcher, 151 N. C. 359, 66 S. E. 308, which overruled the early case, Howard v. Kimball, 65 N. C. 175, and held in conformity with this section.

Retention of Title in Seller.—A written unconditional, promise to pay a specified sum of money at a designated time is a negotiable instrument, and the negotiability is not affected because the title to goods sold for which the note was given is retained in the seller until payment shall have been made; or stipulations are made in the instrument for application of the proceeds to the obligor's unqualified promise to pay. See Branch Banking, etc., Co. v. Leggett, 185 N. C. 65, 116 S. E. 1.

Particular Fund Provided.—Bonds issued for road building are negotiable, notwithstanding that a fund is provided for their payment. While the specification of a particular fund out of which payment is to be made destroys the negotiability, a fund may be provided for payment, as in this case, without affecting it. Commissioners v. Bank, 157 N. C. 191, 72 S. E. 996.

§ 2985. What constitutes determinable future time.—An instrument is payable at a determinable furture time, within the meaning of this chapter, which is expressed to be payable (1) at a fixed period after date or sight; or (2) on or before a fixed or determinable future time specified therein; or (3) on or at a fixed period after the occurrence of a specified event which is certain to happen, though the time of happening be uncertain. An instrument payable upon a contingency is not negotiable, and the happening of the event does not cure the defect. An instrument is payable at a determinable future time, within the meaning of this chapter, notwithstanding the fact that it contains a provision waiving notice of protest, notice of dishonor, and an agreement to be bound notwithstanding any extension of time which may be granted. Or, if collaterals have been deposited as security for the payment thereof and the instrument contains a provision that if the value of the securities so deposited has so decreased or declined as to render the holder insecure, the holder may require the maker to deposit other and further collaterals to secure the same, and, upon failure to comply with such demand, to declare the instrument due at once. An instrument payable upon a contingency is not negotiable, and the happening of the event does not cure the defect, but an instrument payable at a determinable future time is negotiable, even though it may mature or be declared due upon a contingency happening before such future time. (Rev., s. 2156; 1899, c. 733, s. 4; 1923, c. 72.)

Editor's Note.—By the amendment, Public Laws 1923, there was added all that part of the section including and following the third sentence.

In I N. C. Law Rev. 299, in an article discussing the statutory changes effected by the Public Laws of 1923, it is said: "C. 72 of the Public Laws of 1923 amends the Negotiable Instruments Law (N. I. L.) s. 4, C. S. s. 2985 in one important respect in order to conform with banking experience and the recommendation of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond. [The Tar Heel Banker, April 1923, p. 14.] There are in common usage today many kinds of provisions in negotiable paper for the purpose of accelerating maturity. Thus the principal amount may be made payable in installments with the provision that upon default in payment of any installment or of interest, the whole shall become due. [sec. 2983, par. 3]. Or notes may be issued in a series to fall due on successive dates, and each note stating that if one is dishonored the whole series is payable at once. [Chicago Ry. Equipment Co. v. Merchants Bank, 136 U. S. 268, 34 L. Ed. 349, is an example.] Other examples are found in "chattel notes," [Whitlock v. Lumber Co., 145 N. C. 120, 58 S. E. 909] which contain provisions to protect the seller of goods under a conditional sale. If the note provides that the amount shall be payable at a fixed date, or sooner at the demand of the holder if he deems himself insecure, the courts have generally held that such provisions destroy negotiability. (First Nat'l Bank v. Bynum, 84 N. C. 25.) If the ultimate time of payment can be ascertained from the face of the instrument and payment can be accelerated only by the performance of an act regularly incident to the collection of the paper, it would seem that all these provisions should be upheld. [This is the argument made by Zachariah Chafee, Acceleration Provision in Time Paper, 32 Harv. L. Rev. 746.]

"The amendment makes valid another type of acceleration provision used largely by banks, and which bankers looked upon as valid, although the majority of courts thought otherwise. [Strickland v. National Salt Co., 79 N. J. Eq. 182, 91 Atl. 828; National Salt Co. v. Ingraham, 122 Fed. 40. But see National Salt Co. v. Ingraham (1906) 143 Fed. 805. For further cases see Mr. Chafee's article cited, supra. This article is the best discussion of this subject available, and Mr. Chafee argues for the negotiability of time paper with acceleration provisions.] Suppose that collateral is deposited as security for the payment of a note, which contains a provision that if the value of the securities declines so as to render the holder insecure, the holder may require the maker to deposit other collateral, and upon failure to comply, the holder may declare the instrument due at once. It has been argued that such a provision violates three formal requisites of negotiability, certainty of time, certainty of amount, and the rule against the promise to do anything but pay money. But such a provision makes it more certain that the holder will receive the full face value of the instrument, and under the N. I. L. a note payable "on or before" a certain date is not rendered non-negotiable. [§ 2985, par. 2.] Further the purpose of the additional promise is to secure the payment of the money and protect the holder from the risks of the maker's insolvency. The provision makes the note more valuable as a substitute for money, and the amendment brings the law of North Carolina into line with business practice.

"The amendment also provides that provisions waiving notice of protest, notice of dishonor and agreements to be bound notwithstanding any extension of time, shall not affect negotiability. It seems that this merely makes more certain what was already understood to be the law. (Sections, 3091, 3092, 3093, 3141. See First Nat'l Bank v. Johnston (1915) 169 N. C. 526, 86 S. E. 360.)" (The citations which here appear in the brackets are footnotes of the Article as it reads in the Law Review.)

Acceleration.—Acceleration of the maturity of a note, or of notes in a series, as the result of the failure of the maker to pay interest, or to pay one of the notes of said series, when same becomes due, according to the tenor of the note or notes, by virtue of an agreement to that effect appearing on the face of the note, or notes, does not make the note, or notes of the series, payable upon a contingency, and therefore non-negotiable within the meaning of this section. New Bern Banking, etc., Co. v. Duffy, 153 N. C. 62, 68 S. E. 915; Walter v. Kilpatrick, 191 N. C. 458, 461, 132 S. E. 148.

Section applied as to retaining title to the goods for which the note was given, in Chicago R. Co. v. Merchants' Bank, 136 U. S. 268, 34 L. Ed. 349. See note of Trust Co. v. Legett under section 2984.

§ 2986. Additional provisions as affecting negotiability.—An instrument which contains an order or promise to do any act in addition to the payment of money is not negotiable. But the negotiable character of an instrument otherwise negotiable is not affected by a provision which (1) authorizes the sale of collateral securities in case the instrument be not paid at maturity; or (2) authorized a confession of judgment if the instrument be not paid at maturity; or (3) waives the benefit of any law intended for the advantage or protection of obligor; or (4) gives the holder an election to require something to be done in lieu of payment of money. But nothing in this section shall validate any provision or stipulation otherwise illegal, nor authorize the enforcement of an authorization to confess judgment of a waiver of homestead and personal property exemptions. (Rev., ss. 2154, 2346; 1899, c. 733, ss. 5, 197; 1905, c. 327.)

Editor's Note.—Subdivision two and all the provisions after the word "illegal" in the last sentence were inserted by the North Carolina Legislation and does not appear in the proposed Uniform Law.

A Procedure Statute.—In so far as this section relates to the enforcement of an authorization to confess judgment, it is merely procedural. Monarch Refrigerating Co. v. Farmers' Peanut Co., 74 F. (2d) 790, 793.

This section and §§ 624, 625, are mere procedural statutes, regulating the practice of the courts, and can of course have no extraterritorial effect or be looked to as limiting the powers of corporations. Id.

Negotiability Not Affected by Mortgage.—The recital on the face of a note, to wit: "This is one of a series of notes secured by deed of trust or mortgage," does not affect the negotiable character of the notes under this section. Walter v. Kilpatrick, 191 N. C. 458, 461, 132 S. E. 148.

Additional Act Destroying Negotiability.—A bond to pay money, and to do something else, "as to feed and clothe a slave," is not negotiable. Knight v. Wilmington R. Co., 46 N. C. 357.

Enforcement of Foreign Homestead Waiver.—A provision in a note for the waiver of homestead exemption will not be enforced by the courts of this State although the note may have been executed by parties in another state. Exchange Bank v. Land Co., 128 N. C. 193, 38 S. E. 813.

Applied in Branch Banking, etc., Co. v. Legett, 185 N. C. 65, 116 S. E. 1. See note under section 2984.

§ 2987. Effect of omissions; seal; designation of particular money. — The validity and negotiable character of an instrument are not affected by the fact that (1) it is not dated; or (2) does not specify the value given, or that any value has been given therefor; or (3) does not specify the place where it is drawn or the place where it is payable; or (4) bears a seal; or (5) designates a particular kind of current money in which payment is to be made. But nothing in this section shall alter or repeal any statute requiring in certain cases the nature of the consideration to be stated in the instrument. (Rev., s. 2155; 1899, c. 733, s. 6.)

Cross Reference.—As to certainty of parties, place, and payment, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 408; as particular kind of currency, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 409-410.

Editor's Note.—Prior to this secton it was held that a negotiable instrument payable in "current funds" was not negotiable. It was also intimated that one paid in "currency" was not, but that one payable in "legal tender notes" was negotiable.

See the note to the following section.

Statement of Transaction.—A negotiable instrument, setting out the transaction for which the instrument is given, cannot be set aside when a holder in due course takes without notice of the infirmity or defect, where there is nothing in such contract to restrict negotiability in the instrument or to indicate fraud or an existent breach. Bank v. Hatcher, 151 N. C. 359, 66 S. E. 308; Bank v. Michael, 96 N. C. 53, 1 S. E. 855.

Bonds under Seal Negotiable.—Bonds for the payment of money only, while they retain in other respects the properties and incidents of obligations under seal, are in this State put upon the footing of promissory notes and both are made negotiable securities under the statute. Pate v. Brown, 85 N. C. 166, 167.

§ 2988. When payable on demand.—An instrument is payable on demand (1) when it is expressed to be payable on demand, or at sight or on presentation; or (2) in which no time for payment is expressed. Where an instrument is issued, accepted or indorsed when overdue, it is, as regards the person so issuing, accepting or indorsing it, payable on demand. (Rev., s. 2157; 1899, c. 733, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—In Freeman v. Ross, 15 Ga. 252, it was held that a draft in which no time of payment was expressed was due instantly, and after presentment it became an overdue instrument and a holder after that time took with notice of all equities. One who took before presentment took before it was overdue. Rosewell Mfg. Co. v. Hudson, 72 Ga. 24. A note payable "after date" without expressing any time is payable on demand. Morrison v. Morrison, 102 Ga. 170, 29 S. E. 125. A note payable on or before a certain date is payable on that date. The maker may pay before the date if he likes, but if he wishes he may delay payment until the date named. James v. Benjamin, 72 Ga. 185.

Demand Not Necessary.—When an instrument is payable on demand it is not necessary to aver and prove demand, the suit itself is sufficient demand. Dougherty v. Western Bank, 13 Ga. 287.

Statute of Limitations.—A promissory note, payable on demand, is due immediately, and the statute of limitations runs from the date. Caldwell v. Rodman, 50 N. C. 139. The same is true of a bond when no time is specified for payment of it. Ervin v. Brook, 111 N. C. 358, 16 S. E. 240.

§ 2989. When payable to order.—The instrument is payable to order when it is drawn payable to the order of a specified person, or to him or his order. It may be drawn payable to the order of (1) a payee who is not maker, drawer or drawee; or (2) the drawer or maker; or (3) the drawee; or (4) two or more payees jointly; or (5) one or some of several payees; or (6) the holder of an office for the time being. When the instrument is payable to order, the payee must be named or otherwise indicated therein with reasonable certainty. (Rev., s. 2158; 1899, c. 733, s. 8.)

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 80.

Negotiability.—Unless a note is payable "to the order of a special person or to bearer" it is not negotiable. Johnson v. Lassiter, 155 N. C. 47, 71 S. E. 23. So a note payable to a specific person or his order is negotiable. Insurance Co. v. Jones, 191 N. C. 176, 179, 131 S. E. 587.

§ 2990. When payable to bearer.—The instrument is payable to the bearer (1) when it is expressed to be so payable; or (2) when it is payable to a person named therein or to bearer; or (3) when it is payable to the order of a fictitious or nonexisting person, and such fact was known to the person making it so payable; or (4) when the name of the payee does not purport to be the name of any person; or (5) when the only or last indorsement is an indorsement in blank. (Rev., s. 2159; 1899, c. 733, s. 9.)

The terms bearer and holder are of the same import, and where either is employed in an instrument it may be negotiated by delivery. Pryor v. American Trust Co., 15 Ga. App. 822, 84 S. E. 312.

Fictitious Payee.—A negotiable instrument payable to a fictitious payee does not make one whose name is identified as that appearing on the instrument payee, but the intention of the maker in inserting the name governs. Norton v. City Bank (Va.) 294 Fed. 839.

Effect of Indorsement upon Negotiability.—An indorsement in blank of a non-negotiable instrument does not make it negotiable. Johnson v. Lassiter, 155 N. C. 47, 71 S. E. 23.

§ 2991. No formal language required. — The negotiable instrument need not follow the language of this chapter, but any terms are sufficient which clearly indicate an intention to conform to the requirements hereof. (Rev., s. 2160; 1899, c. 733, s. 10.)

§ 2992. Presumption as to date.—Where the instrument or an acceptance or any indorsement thereon is dated, such date is deemed prima facie to be the true date of the making, drawing, acceptance or indorsement, as the case may be. (Rev., s. 2161; 1899, c. 733, s. 11.)

§ 2993. Antedated and postdated.—The instrument is not invalid for the reason only that it is antedated or postdated, provided that this is not done for an illegal or fraudulent purpose. The person to whom an instrument so dated is delivered acquires the title thereto as of the date of delivery. (Rev., s. 2162; 1899, c. 733, s. 12.)

When Postdated Check Subject to Payment.—Since postdated checks are payable at the time of their date and not before, the drawee cannot accept them and charge them against funds of the drawer prior to that time. The drawer does not undertake to have the funds in the drawee's hands until the time it bears date. Smith v. Maddox-Rucker Bkg. Co., 8 Ga. App. 288, 68 S. E. 1092.

Status of Postdated Check before Maturity.—A postdated check is payable on or after the day of its date; but in the meantime it is negotiable, and the drawer cannot be charged by garnishment as debtor of the payee unless it affirmatively appears at the time of the judgment that the check is due and is still the property of the payee. Wilson v. McEachern, 9 Ga. App. 584, 71 S. E. 946.

§ 2994. When date may be inserted.—When an instrument expressed to be payable at a fixed period after date is issued undated, or where the acceptance of an instrument payable at a fixed period after sight is undated, any holder may insert therein the true date of issue or acceptance, and the instrument shall be payable accordingly. The insertion of a wrong date does not avoid the instrument in the hands of a subsequent holder in due course; but as to him the date so inserted is to be regarded as the true date. (Rev., s. 2163; 1899, c. 733, s. 13.)

up the blanks therein. And a signature on a blank paper delivered by the person making the signature in order that the paper may be converted into a negotiable instrument operates as a prima facie authority to fill it up as such for any amount. In order, however, that any such instrument when completed may be enforced against any person who became a party thereto prior to its completion it must be filled up strictly in accordance with the authority given and within a reasonable time. But if any such instrument after completion be negotiated to a holder in due course, it is valid and effectual for all purposes in his hands, and he may enforce it as if it had been filled up strictly in accordance with the authority given and within a reasonable time. (Rev., s. 2164; 1899, c. 733, s. 14.)

Liability Where Amount Left Blank.—The affixing a seal by an agent without authority will not lessen the maker's liability where the amount inserted by the agent was more than agreed to. Humphreys v. Finch, 97 N. C. 303, 1 S. E. 870; Phillips v. Hensley, 175 N. C. 23, 94 S. E. 673; McArthur v. McLeod, 51 N. C. 476.

Who May Fill Blank.—A bill of exchange drawn and issued in blank for the name of the payee may be filled up by a bona fide holder with his own name, and will bind the drawer. Lawrence v. Mabry, 13 N. C. 473, 475.

One taking before the blanks are filled takes with notice, and must at his peril ascertain the real authority of the person intrusted to complete the instrument. Guerrant v. Guerrant, 7 Va. Law Reg. 639.

Must Be Filled in Reasonable Time.—The blanks in a negotiable instrument must be filled in in a reasonable time. Brown v. Thomas, 120 Va. 763, 92 S. E. 977. As to what constitutes a reasonable time, see sec. 2978.

§ 2996. Incomplete instrument not delivered.—Where an incomplete instrument has not been delivered it will not, if completed and negotiated without authority, be a valid contract in the hands of any holder as against any person whose signature was placed thereon before delivery. (Rev., s. 2165; 1899, c. 733, s. 15.)

Acknowledgment after Completion. — If the maker of a sealed note, blank as to the payee's name, acknowledges it to be his bond after the insertion of the payee's name, and delivery, it is valid and its maker is liable thereon. Wester v. Bailey, 118 N. C. 193, 24 S. E. 9.

§ 2997. Delivery necessary; when effectual; when presumed.—Every contract on a negotiable instrument is incomplete and revocable until delivery of the instrument for the purpose of giving effect thereto. As between immediate parties, and as regards a remote party other than a holder in due course, the delivery in order to be effectual must be made either by or under the authority of the party making, drawing or indorsing as the case may be; and in such case the delivery may be shown to have been conditional or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring the property in the instrument. But where the instrument is in the hands of a holder in due course a valid delivery thereof by all parties prior to him, so as to make them liable to him, is conclusively presumed. And where the instrument is no longer in possession of a party whose signature appears thereon, a valid and intentional delivery by him is presumed until the contrary is proved. (Rev., s. 2166; 1899, c. 733, s. 16.)

As to necessity for delivery in negotiation, see sec. 3010.

Presumption of Delivery to Holder in Due Course. — Where a negotiable municipal bond is in the hands of a holder in due course, it is conclusively presumed that a valid delivery of the bonds had been made so far as the rights of the holder are concerned. Bankers' Trust Co. v. Statesville, 203 N. C. 399, 166 S. E. 169.

Presumption of Delivery to Payee. — Whenever a bill or note is found in the hands of the payee it will be presumed that it was delivered to him, but the presumption may be rebutted. Pate v. Brown, 85 N. C. 166, 167.

Delivery to Other than Payee.—It is not necessary that delivery be made to the payee. If the delivery is made to another but shows that the maker intended to part with control, and that it was for the payee's benefit, such delivery is sufficient to bind the maker. Irvin v. Harris, 182 N. C. 647, 109 S. E. 867.

Parol Proof of Conditional Delivery — Contemporaneous Parol Agreements.—It seems to be the rule that as against any person not a holder in due course a contemporaneous parol agreement may be shown to prove that the delivery was conditional, and that there was no contract on the failure of the condition. The instrument cannot be varied by such agreements. See, Robertson v. Virginia Nat. Bank, 135 Va. 166, 115 S. E. 536. Ed. Note.

Therefore it is competent to prove a collateral agreement as between the immediate parties making a note non-payable upon a contingency which would deprive the note of all consideration even though the note is under seal. Farrington v. McNeill, 174 N. C. 420, 422, 93 S. E. 957.

But in an action upon a note the defendants were not permitted to set up the defense that as a part of the contemporaneous parol agreement they were given further time, until certain lands had been sold, for such would be in contradiction of the written instrument. Cherokee County v. Meroney, 173 N. C. 653, 92 S. E. 616.

§ 2998. Construction, where instrument is ambiguous.—Where the language of the instrument is ambiguous or there are omissions therein, the following rules of construction apply:

1. Where the sum payable is expressed in words and also in figures and there is a discrepancy between the two, the sum denoted by the words is the sum payable; but if the words are ambiguous or uncertain, reference may be had to the figures to fix the amount.

2. Where the instrument provides for the payment of interest, without specifying the date from which interest is to run, the interest runs from the date of the instrument, and if the instrument is undated, from the issue thereof.

3. Where the instrument is not dated it will be considered to be dated as of the time it was issued.

4. Where there is conflict between the written and printed provisions of the instrument the written provisions prevail.

5. Where the instrument is so ambiguous that there is doubt whether it is a bill or a note the holder may treat it as either at his election.

6. Where a signature is so placed upon the instrument that it is not clear in what capacity the person making the same intended to sign, he is to be deemed an indorser.

7. Where an instrument containing the words "I promise to pay" is signed by two or more persons, they are deemed to be jointly and severally liable thereon. (Rev., ss. 1952, 2341; 1899, c. 733, s. 17.)

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 81.

As to how indorsement made, see sec. 3011; as to liability of indorser, see sec. 3044 to 3049.

Note without Interest. — A note given for a specified amount "without interest" will be construed to bear interest after maturity. Dowd v. Railroad, 70 N. C. 468.

Figures Not Material.—The figures are not a material part of an instrument as the words control. State v. Lotono, 62 W. Va., 310, 58 S. E. 621.

The indorsement may be on any part of the note, even the face or under the maker's name. Colona v. Parksley Nat. Bank, 120 Va. 812, 92 S. E. 979.

§ 2999. Signature must appear; trade or assumed name.—No person is liable on the instrument whose signature does not appear thereon, except as herein otherwise expressly provided. But one who signs in a trade or assumed name will be liable to the same extent as if he had signed in his own name. (Rev., s. 2167; 1899, c. 733, s. 18.)

Cross Reference.—As to consideration in general, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 390, 391.

Name in Body of Instrument Not Necessary.—It is not necessary that the name of the obligor appear in the note it is sufficient that he sign it. Howell v. Parsons, 89 N. C. 230.

Maker Must Show Lack of Consideration.—Where, between the original parties, the maker sets up the want of consideration for a note he has made to the payee as a defense, in an action thereon the burden is upon him to introduce evidence to establish his defense, and his failure to do so will entitle the payee to a judgment in his favor. Merchants Nat. Bank v. Andrews, 179 N. C. 341, 102 S. E. 500; Piner v. Brittain, 165 N. C. 401, 81 S. E. 462.

Instruments under Seal.—The lack of consideration cannot benefit a maker of a bond under seal because the law conclusively presumes that it was made upon good and sufficient consideration. Angier v. Howard, 94 N. C. 27; Wester v. Bailey, 118 N. C. 193, 194, 24 S. E. 9.

§ 3000. Signature by agent; how authority shown. — The signature of any party may be made by a duly authorized agent. No particular form of appointment is necessary for this purpose, and the authority of the agent may be established as in other cases of agency. (Rev., s. 2168; 1899, c. 733, s. 19.)

In General.—This provision is an expression and affirmance of the better considered decisions on the subject. Midgette v. Basnight, 173 N. C. 18, 91 S. E. 353.

Authority of Agent Necessary.—The power to bind the principal by the making of negotiable paper is an important one, and not lightly to be inferred. It should be conferred directly, unless by necessary implication the duties of the agent cannot be performed without the exercise of the power, or where, as otherwise expressed, the power is practically indispensable to accomplish the object of the agency, and the person dealing with the agent must, subject to the principles heretofore stated, see to it that his authority is adequate. Bank v. Hay, 143 N. C. 326, 337, 55 S. E. 811.

Extent of Power.—Power to make restricted indorsements will not authorize a general indorsement in blank. Exchange Bank v. Thrower, 118 Ga. 433, 45 S. E. 316.

A general power to discount bills of exchange confers on the agent power to indorse. Merchants Bank v. Central Bank, 1 Ga. 418.

Agent by Implication.—The indorsement by an agent is valid although the power to indorse was conferred in a vague way, and the agency is one by implication. Midgette v. Basight, 173 N. C. 18, 91 S. E. 353.

Written Authority Not Necessary.—Authority to indorse a promissory note for another may be orally conferred. Conner v. Hodges, 7 Ga. App. 153, 66 S. E. 546; Taylor v. Johnson, 18 Ga. App. 161, 89 S. E. 77.

Necessity for Proof.—The fact that a signature is by a duly authorized agent does not prove itself, but the facts must be established by proper testimony. Midgette v. Basnight, 173 N. C. 18, 91 S. E. 353.

§ 3001. Liability of person signing as agent.— Where the instrument contains, or a person adds to his signature, words indicating that he signed for or on behalf of the principal or in a representative capacity, he is not liable on the instrument if he was duly authorized; but the mere addition of words describing him as an agent or as filling a representative character, without disclosing his principal, does not exempt him from personal liability. (Rev., s. 2169; 1899, c. 733, s. 20.)

Sufficient Disclosure of Principal. — Where a negotiable instrument is made by an agent for his principal, the agent, in order to exempt himself from liability, must not only name the principal, but must sufficiently show that the signature is that of the principal though done by an agent. A mere description of the relation is not sufficient to relieve the agent of liability. Graham v. Campbell, 56 Ga. 258; Lester v. McIntosh, 101 Ga. 675, 29 S. E. 7.

If the principal is distinctly indicated and the contract is in his name, the agent is not liable if he has the power to bind the principal. No form is indicated, all that is required is that the parties and intent be made plain. Merchants Bank v. Central Bank, 1 Ga. 418; Rawlings v. Robson, 70 Ga. 595.

Agreement as to Personal Liability.—Where an administrator signs a note in the name of the estate and thereunder writes his name as administrator, and at the time of the execution of the note the parties agree that he should not be personally liable thereon, the payee may not hold the administrator personally liable thereon, in view of this section. Bank of Spruce Pines v. Vance, 205 N. C. 103, 170 S. E. 119.

Proof of Principal by Parol.—As between themselves it may be shown that it was the intent of the parties that the principal and not the agent be bound, and that the instrument was given and accepted as such. Metcalf v. Williams, 104 U. S. 93, 26 L. Ed. 665; Ocilla Southern R. Co. v. Morton, 13 Ga. App. 504, 79 S. E. 480.

But where the principal is not sufficiently described parol evidence cannot be introduced to charge him. The reason for this rule is that for a party to be bound his name must appear on the instrument. Burkhalter v. Perry, 127 Ga. 438, 56 S. E. 631; Bedell v. Scarlett, 75 Ga. 56.

Applicability to Fiduciaries.—See 9 N. C. L. Rev. 444.

§ 3002. Effect of signature by procuration.—A signature by procuration operates as notice that the agent has but a limited authority to sign, and the principal is bound only in case the agent so signing acted within the actual limits of his authority. (Rev., s. 2170; 1899, c. 733, s. 21.)

Signature of Attorney.—An attorney to whom a note is sent for collection has, prima facie, no authority to indorse the same in the name of his client, and the purchaser should inquire as to the extent of the attorney's authority. Sherrill v. Weisiger Clothing Co., 114 N. C. 436, 438, 19 S. E. 365.

§ 3003. Effect of forged signature.—When a signature is forged or made without the authority of the person whose signature it purports to be, it is wholly inoperative, and no right to retain the instrument or to give a discharge therefor or to enforce payment thereof against any party thereto can be acquired through or under such signature, unless the party against whom it is sought to enforce such right is precluded from setting up the forgery or want of authority. (Rev., s. 2171; 1899, c. 733, s. 23.)

As to liability of acceptor in case of forged signature, see sec. 3043.

Editor's Note.—When a signature is forged no title can be acquired through it. Hillman v. Cornett, 137 Va. 200, 119 S. E. 74. Such infirmity inheres in the factum of the instrument and by the terms of the statute renders it inoperative; and this is true even where the instrument is in the hands of a bona fide holder for value. Pettyjohn v. National Exch. Bank, 101 Va. 111, 43 S. E. 203. The same rule applies whether it is the signature of the maker or the indorser that is attacked.

A bank is presumed to know the signature of its customers and if it pays a forged check it cannot charge the amount to the account of the depositor, unless the depositor is negligent. Yarborough v. Trust Co., 142 N. C. 377, 55 S. E. 296, as to forged bank checks, see also sec. 220 (h) and notes thereto.

In case of drafts presented for payment by an agent, the bank must be assured of the agency to hold another as principal. Letters of instruction to the agent are not sufficient to show power to draw drafts on the principal. Bank v. Hay, 143 N. C. 326, 55 S. E. 811.

In the case of McKaughan v. Trust Co., 182 N. C. 543, 109 S. E. 355, it is held that when one forges a deed and under the forgery obtains a check payable to a third party and he indorses the check in the name of the third party, paying an outstanding debt, to the drawer with a part of the funds so obtained, in an action against the bank the drawer can only recover the difference between the amount of the check and the amount paid to the drawer. This case is discussed and criticised in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 40, where it is suggested that the check was payable to a fictitious person in which case the bank would not be liable, for the funds went into the hands of the person intended by the drawer, still it is said that if the drawer should recover at all he should recover all, for the funds that were paid him were for a prior debt and he became purchaser for value without notice.

The defense of forgery is personal, and an indorser cannot plead the forgery of the signature of the maker nor can he plead forgery of signatures of subsequent indorsers. Produce Co. v. Bieberback, 176 Mass. 577, 58 N. E. 162. Nor can a maker avoid liability because of forgery of the signature of a co-maker. Bum v. Farrell, 135 Iowa, 670, 113 N. W. 539.

There seems to be a conflict of authority as to whether or not a forgery may be ratified, see 36 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1006 (notes). The doctrine of estoppel seems to be generally applied, see 36 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1017 (notes), also 8 C. J. p. 763, sec. 1030 and that North Carolina will apply the doctrine that a forgery may be ratified is indicated in Yarborough v. Trust Co., 142 N. C. 377, 55 S. E. 296.

Art. 3. Consideration

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 52.

Editor's Note.—In Planter's Bank v. Yelverton, 185 N. C. 314, 117 S. E. 299, this section is construed with § 3010, and 3030 and it is held that one taking without indorsement takes subject to equities between the original parties, and the presumption of consideration may be rebutted.

Maker Must Show Lack of Consideration.—Where, between the original parties, the maker sets up the want of consideration for a note he has made to the payee as a defense, in an action thereon the burden is upon him to introduce evidence to establish his defense, and his failure to do so will entitle the payee to a judgment in his favor. Merchants Nat. Bank v. Andrews, 179 N. C. 341, 102 S. E. 500. Piner v. Brittain, 165 N. C. 401, 81 S. E. 462. See also Bank of Lewiston v. Harrington, 205 N. C. 244, 170 S. E. 916.

Where there is evidence tending to show that the president of a bank had received from the defendant an exchange of notes for the former's benefit, and that the defendant in the bank's action on the note admits its execution and delivery, it is prima facie evidence that the note was given for a consideration and defendant must show failure of consideration when relied upon by him. American Trust Co. v. Anagnos, 196 N. C. 327, 145 S. E. 619.

When Holder Must Show Consideration.—While a valuable consideration is essential to the support of negotiable instruments it is not necessary in an action upon them for the plaintiff to aver and prove such consideration; yet when evidence has been introduced by the defendant to rebut the presumption which they raise, the burden is thrown upon the plaintiff to satisfy the jury by a preponderance of evidence that there was a consideration. Campbell v. McCormac, 98 N. C. 491. Hunt v. Eure, 188 N. C. 716, 718, 125 S. E. 484.

Instruments under Seal.—The lack of consideration cannot benefit a maker of a bond under seal because the law conclusively presumes that it was made upon good and sufficient consideration. Angier v. Howard, 94 N. C. 27. Wester v. Bailey, 118 N. C. 193, 194, 24 S. E. 9.

Presumption of Sanity of Maker.—There is a rebuttable presumption that a promisor was sane at the time of the execution of a note, and on that question the burden of showing the contrary, as a general rule, is upon the defendant or the person alleging it. Jones v. Winstead, 186 N. C. 536, 538, 120 S. E. 89.

Burden of Proof.—Whenever a prima facie case is made out as provided by this section, in favor of the plaintiff, it is upon the defendant to go forward with his proof, or take the risk before the jury of an adverse verdict, but the burden of proof and the burden of the issue remains upon the plaintiff throughout the trial. Stein v. Levins, 205 N. C. 302, 305, 171 S. E. 96.

Quoted in White v. Johnson & Sons, 205 N. C. 773, 774, 172 S. E. 370.

Cited in Peoples Building & Loan Assn. v. Swaim, 198 N. C. 14, 16, 150 S. E. 668; Taft v. Covington, 199 N. C. 51, 56, 153 S. E. 597.

§ 3005. What constitutes consideration.—Value is any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract. An antecedent or preëxisting debt constitutes value, and is deemed such whether the instrument is payable on demand or at a future time. (Rev., s. 2173; 1899, c. 733, s. 25.)

Cross Reference.—As to consideration in general, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 390, 391.

Rule Prior to This Act.—Many of the courts have heretofore denied that an indebtedness was sufficient consideration to constitute one a holder for value within the meaning of the law merchant. This statute on this question, however, changes the rule. Manufacturing Co. v. Summers, 143 N. C. 102, 107, 55 S. E. 522.

Necessity for Adequate Consideration.—When the parties are competent to contract, relief will not be given on grounds of inadequacy of consideration unless the inequality is so gross as to amount to fraud. Jones v. Degge, 84 Va. 685, 5 S. E. 799; Mathews v. Crockett, 82 Va. 394.

Pre-Existing Debt.—An extension of time by a creditor to his principal debtor is a sufficient consideration to support the indorsement of a note renewing the original debt. Hollingshead v. Bank, 104 Ga. 250, 30 S. E. 728; Colley v. Summers Parrot Helve Co., 119 Va. 439, 89 S. E. 906.

The provisions of this section that a preëxisting debt is sufficient consideration for a promissory note does not apply when the note in question is not negotiable within the meaning of the negotiable instrument law, and the debt was not contracted by the maker, and where the nonnegotiable note is given by a widow for the defalcation of her husband without consideration, it must be alleged and shown that she knowingly accepted profit, advantage or benefit from the transaction. Peoples Building and Loan Association v. Swaim, 198 N. C. 14, 150 S. E. 668.

Dower.—The relinquishment of a right of dower is a valid consideration for a promissory note. Trust Co. v. Benbow, 135 N. C. 303, 47 S. E. 435.

Note to Secure Mortgage.—A note given by incorporators of a land company to secure the holder of a mortgage for the purchase price carries sufficient consideration. Johnson v. Rodeger, 119 N. C. 446, 25 S. E. 1021.

Assignment of Contract for Carrying Mail.—See note under § 3008.

§ 3006. What constitutes a holder for value.—Where value has at any time been given for the instrument the holder is deemed a holder for value in respect to all parties who became such prior to that time. (Rev., s. 2174; 1899, c. 733, s. 26.)

Drafts with Bill of Laden Attached.—Where a bank for a valuable consideration takes an assignment of a bill of lading with draft attached, the consignee of the goods takes them subject to the rights of the holder of the bill of lading for the amount of the draft, and he cannot retain the price of the goods on account of a debt due him from the consignor. Willard Mfg. Co. v. Tierney, 133 N. C. 630, 631, 45 S. E. 1026.

Deposit of Draft for Collection.—If drafts, deposited by the customer for his credit, returned unpaid, are charged back to the customer's account, and returned to him, this constitutes only an agency for collection. Davis v. Lumber Co., 130 N. C. 174, 176, 41 S. E. 95; Cotton Mills v. Weil, 129 N. C. 452, 40 S. E. 218. But if the drawer was in debt to the bank, and the draft was discounted by it and the proceeds applied in discharge of such balance, the bank became the owner of the draft, and as a purchaser for value to the extent of the goods described in the bills of lading. Latham v. Spragins, 162 N. C. 404, 408, 78 S. E. 282.

Transfer to a Creditor.—The transfer of a negotiable note by the holder to his creditor before maturity for an antecedent debt constitutes the transferee a holder for value. American Exch. Nat. Bank v. Seagroves, 166 N. C. 609, 82 S. E. 947.

Held as Collateral.—One who holds a negotiable note as collateral for the payment of a debt may maintain an action thereon in his own name, but not one who holds "for collection," for the latter is not "the party in interest." Third National Bank v. Exum, 163 N. C. 199, 79 S. E. 498.

Possession is prima facie evidence that the holder is a holder for value, and the burden of proof is on one seeking to impeach the title. Fent v. Miller, 17 Gratt. (58 Va.) 47-82; Wilson v. Fagin, 11 Gratt. (56 Va.) 477; Duerson v. Alsop, 27 Gratt, (68 Va.) 229; Board v. Randolph, 89 Va. 619, 16 S. E. 722; Piedmont Bank v. Hatcher, 94 Va. 229, 26 S. E. 505.

§ 3007. When lien on instrument constitutes holder for value.—Where the holder has a lien on the instrument arising either from contract or by implication of law he is deemed a holder for value to the extent of his lien. (Rev., s. 2175; 1899, c. 733, s. 27.)

Assignment to Secure Debt.—When a negotiable note is transferred before maturity as collateral security for a pre-existing debt, the assignee is such holder for value that he takes free from equities of which he had no notice, to the extent of the debt secured. See Brooks v. Sullivan, 129 N. C. 190, 39 S. E. 822. But that is a change of law which was previously otherwise. Holderby v. Blum, 22 N. C. 51; Harris v. Horner, 21 N. C. 455, 30 Am. Dec., 182; Potts v. Blackwell, 56 N. C. 449.

Holder as Collateral Security.—An interpleader, where a note has been attached, who claims as a holder in due course, and makes it appear that the note was taken as collateral security to another note, is a holder in due course only to the extent of his lien. The balance is subject to attachment. Sugg v. St. Mary's Oil Engine Co., 193 N. C. 815, 138 S. E. 169.

A bank taking a warehouse receipt as collateral security is a holder in due course to the extent of its lien. Lacy v. Indemnity Co., 189 N. C. 24, 126 S. E. 316.

Same—Payment of Original Debt.—If a promissory note, before its maturity, is pledged as collateral security for a particular debt, and such debt is afterward paid, the holder of the collateral note has no right to collect it, but so long as any part of the secured debt remains unpaid the holder of the security note may collect enough to pay his claims thereby secured. Bank v. Tuck, 96 Ga. 456, 23 S. E. 467.

Fertilizer Notes Where Grade Misrepresented.—A note given for the purchase price of fertilizer reciting that there is no warranty is subject to the defense of lack of consideration, and if it appears that the fertilizer was not the grade as shown by the analysis on the sack, the plaintiff is not entitled to recover on the note. Swift v. Etheridge, 190 N. C. 162, 129 S. E. 453.

Against Holder in Due Course.—A total absence of consideration is a matter of defense by the maker against the original payee. Swift & Co. v. Aydlett, 192 N. C. 330, 135 S. E. 141.

Burden to Show Want of Consideration.—In Conservatory v. Dickerson, 158 N. C. 207, 73 S. E. 990, it is said that although notes, as simple contracts, require a consideration to support them, it has been long settled that they import a consideration, prima facie, so as to throw on the maker the burden to show a want of consideration. McArthur v. McLeod, 51 N. C. 476; Campbell v. McCormac, 90 S. E. 491. In the latter case it was said that "It is wholly unnecessary to establish that a promissory note was given upon a consideration; and the burden of proof rests upon the other party to establish the contrary and to rebut the presumption of validity and value which the law raises." Piner v. Brittain, 165 N. C. 401, 81 S. E. 462.

Not Applicable to Non-negotiable Paper.—Whether the provisions of this section should be extended to non-negotiable instruments so as to make the rule uniform is a matter which is addressed to the legislative discretion. Hunt v. Eure, 188 N. C. 716, 125 S. E. 484

Stated in Hardy v. Mitchell, 156 N. C. 76, 72 S. E. 95.

Cited in New Bern Oil, etc., Co. v. National Bank, 28 Fed. (2d) 554.

§ 3008. Effect of want of consideration.—Absence or failure of consideration is matter of defense as against any person not a holder in due course, and partial failure of consideration is a defense pro tanto, whether the failure is an ascertained and liquidated amount or otherwise. (Rev., s. 2176; 1899, c. 733, s. 28.)

A contract for carrying mail is not assignable, and in an action on a note given in part consideration of such assignment this may be shown as a failure of consideration, except as against a holder for value, in due course, without notice. Peoples Bank, etc., Co. v. Duncan, 194 N. C. 692, 140 S. E. 610.

Presumption of Consideration May Be Rebutted.—While the execution and delivery of a note under seal raises the presumption of consideration, such presumption, in view of this section, is rebuttable as against any person not a holder in due course. Lentz v. Johnson & Sons, 207 N. C. 614, 178 S. E. 226.

Parol Evidence Rule Not Violated.—The rule which prohibits the introduction of parol evidence to vary, modify or contradict the terms of a written instrument, is not violated by showing failure of consideration. Virginia Trust Co. v. Asheville, 207 N. C. 164, 166, 176 S. E. 257.

Failure of consideration is a valid defense to a note under seal by reason of the fact the presumption arising from a seal upon a negotiable instrument is rebuttable. Patterson v. Fuller, 203 N. C. 788, 791, 167 S. E. 74.

Quoted in White v. Johnson & Sons, 205 N. C. 773, 774, 172 S. E. 370.

§ 3009. Liability of accommodation party.—An accommodation party is one who has signed the instrument as maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser without receiving value therefor, and for the purpose of lending his name to some other person. Such a person is liable on the instrument to a holder for value, notwithstanding such holder at the time of taking the instrument knew him to be only an accommodation party. (Rev., s. 2177; 1899, c. 733, s. 29.)

Failure of Maker to Conform to Agreement.—An accommodation indorser is not relieved from liability upon the ground that the maker agreed in parol to negotiate the note at a certain bank which he failed to do, but negotiated to the plaintiff instead who had notice of the agreement. Parker v. Sutton, 103 N. C. 191, 9 S. E. 283; Parker v. McDowell, 95 N. C. 219.

Order of Liability on Instrument.—A note indorsed for the makers accommodation signed by the principal, and surety is a joint and several obligation, and the owner may sue any one of the indorsers or sureties without joining the maker other sureties or indorsers. Bank v. Carr, 121 N. C. 113, 28 S. E. 186. Norfolk Nat. Bank v. Griffin, 107 N. C. 173, 11 S. E. 1049.

Right to Recover from Principal and Prior Parties.—An accommodation indorser of a negotiable note who pays the note has only the right of a surety to be fully idemnified for his payment on account of his principal. Burton v. Slaughter, 26 Gratt. (67 Va.) 914; Call v. Scott, 4 Call (8 Va.) 402.

Agreements for Equal Liability.—Unless agreed among themselves to be held equally liable, accomodation indorsers are held prima facia liable in the inverse order of the indorsement. Plumely v. First Nat. Bank, 76 W. Va. 635, 87 S. E. 94.

Indorser for Member of a Partnership.—A note executed by a member of a partnership to a third party who, as surety and for the accommodation of the maker, endorses it and receives no benefit from it, cannot be the subject of an action at law against the indorser by the firm, nor in case of the death of the maker of the note can the surviving partner maintain an action on the note against the accommodation indorser unless the firm be insolvent. Patton v. Carr, 117 N. C. 176, 23 S. E. 182.

Sufficient Interest to Defeat Accommodation Character Illustrated.—Factors to whom the drawee of a draft for the purchase money of a steam engine for ginning cotton was in debt, and who agreed to accept it in order to facilitate their collection from the drawer out of his cotton, did not stand on the footing of accommodation acceptors, but were original contractors. Saulsbury Co. v. Blandys, 65 Ga. 45.

Cited in Mayers v. Bank, 198 N. C. 542, 152 S. E. 628; Taft v. Covington, 199 N. C. 51, 56, 153 S. E. 597.

Art. 4. Negotiation

§ 3010. What constitutes negotiation.—An instrument is negotiated when it is transferred from one person to another in such manner as to constitute the transferee the holder thereof. If payable to bearer, it is negotiated by delivery; if payable to order, it is negotiated by the indorsement of the holder, and completed by delivery. (Rev., s. 2178; 1899, c. 733, s. 30.)

Cross Reference.—As to words to negotiability, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 406; as to definition, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 404.

Form Immaterial.—No form of indorsement is necessary to negotiate an instrument. In case of a corporation the seal is not necessary. Sheffield v. Johnson County Sav. Bank, 2 Ga. App. 221, 58 S. E. 386.

Endorsement Must Be Proven.—A note being made payable to X or order, indorsement by him was necessary to transfer the title and give the plaintiffs, as the holder, the benefit of the presumptions of the negotiable instrument act; and proof of such indorsement by the payee was necessary. Tyson v. Joyner, 139 N. C. 69, 51 S. E. 803; Mayers v. McRimmon, 140 N. C. 640, 53 S. E. 447; Myers v. Petty, 153 N. C. 462, 464, 69 S. E. 417.

Purchaser without Indorsement.—A purchaser of a negotiable instrument for value before maturity, but without indorsement, becomes the holder of the equitable title only, and takes subject to any defense the maker may have against the original payee. Steinhilper v. Basnight, 153 N. C. 293, 69 S. E. 220; Whitman v. York, 192 N. C. 87, 88, 133 S. E. 427; Bresee v. Crumpton, 121 N. C. 122, 28 S. E. 351; Planters Bank v. Yelverton, 185 N. C. 314, 117 S. E. 299.

The introduction of a note in evidence without indorsement raises the presumption of equitable ownership and assignment, and without proof of indorsement the holder is not one in due course. Woods v. Finley, 153 N. C. 497, 69 S. E. 502.

Warehouse receipts, issued under sec. 4925(b), indorsed by the owner of the cotton and by the superintendent of the warehouse are negotiable by delivery, and when taken as collateral confer upon the holder the position of a bona fide holder for value. Lacy v. Globe Indemnity Co., 189 N. C. 24, 126 S. E. 316.

Stated in Tyson v. Joyner, 139 N. C. 69, 51 S. E. 803.

Cited in Insurance Co. v. Jones, 191 N. C. 176, 131 S. E. 587; Dawson v. Bank, 197 N. C. 499, 150 S. E. 38; Dixon v. Smith, 204 N. C. 480, 168 S. E. 683.

§ 3011. How indorsement made.—The indorsement must be written on the instrument itself or upon a paper attached thereto. The signature of the indorser, without additional words, is a sufficient indorsement. (Rev., s. 2179; 1899, c. 733, s. 31.)

As to indorsement by agent, see, sec. 3000.

In General.—The position of the indorsement is immaterial, it may be on the face or the back of the instrument so long as the intention of the parties can be ascertained. Quinn v. Sterne, 26 Ga. 223; First Nat. Bank v. Messer, 136 Ga. 226, 71 S. E. 148.

Prerequisite to Indorsement on Additional Paper.—While a lack of room for further indorsements is not a prerequisite to attaching a paper an essential requirement is that the paper be physically attached or that it should have been when the indorsement was made, and that an assignment or transfer on a separate paper will not suffice. Midgette v. Basnight, 173 N. C. 18, 91 S. E. 353; Commercial Security Co. v. Main St. Pharmacy, 174 N. C. 655, 656, 94 S. E. 298.

Indorsement by Letter Attached to Note.—Where a note was sent to a bank as security and attached to a letter, in which it is stated that the holder did assign the note to the bank as collateral security, it was held that the signature on the letter was sufficient indorsement. Colona v. Parksley Nat. Bank, 120 Va. 812, 92 S. E. 979.

Indorsement with Rubber Stamp.—Where the name of the drawee is stamped on the back of a draft with a rubber stamp, by one having authority to do so and with intent to indorse it, it is a valid indorsement, but does not prove itself. Mayers v. McRimmon, 140 N. C. 640, 53 S. E. 447.

§ 3012. Effect of indorsement by infant or corporation.—The indorsement or assignment of the instrument by a corporation, an infant, or married woman passes the property therein, notwithstanding that from want of capacity the corporation, infant, or married woman may incur no liability thereon. (Rev., s. 2180; 1899, c. 733, s. 22.)

Editor's Note—Married Women.—In the case of Vann v. Edwards, 128 N. C. 425, 39 S. E. 66; 130 N. C. 70, 72, 40 S. E. 853; 135 N. C. 661, 47 S. E. 784, which was decided under the prior law, and was before the Supreme Court three times. It was held that a married woman may dispose of her property without the assent of her husband except in those cases where a written instrument or conveyance is required for that purpose.

The delivery of a note to the indorsee after it has been indorsed in blank by the wife, the owner and the husband, is a sufficient conveyance. But the indorsement may be explained as between the immediate parties. Coffin v. Smith, 128 N. C. 252, 38 S. E. 864.

Corporations.—If a corporation indorses a negotiable instrument when it has no power to do so it cannot be bound by subsequent holders. Savannah Ice Co. v. Canal-Louisiana Bank, etc., Co., 12 Ga. App. 818, 79 S. E. 45; but see Towers Co. v. Inman, 96 Ga. 506, 23 S. E. 418; Jacobs Pharmacy Co. v. Southern Banking, etc., Co., 97 Ga. 573, 25 S. E. 171, where the corporation receives value.

Infants.—"In stipulating that the indorsement of the instrument by an infant 'passes the property therein,' it was meant to provide that the contract of indorsement is not void, and that his indorsee has the right to enforce payment from all parties prior to the infant indorser. The incapacity of the minor cannot be availed of by prior parties. It was not intended to provide that the indorsee should become the owner of the instrument by title indefeasible as against the infant, or to make the act of indorsement an irrevocable one. The act does not concern the right of such an indorser to disaffirm under the rules of the law of infancy. The words 'passes the property therein,' if given a meaning that would deny that right in respect of a contract of indorsement, would deprive the infant of the right to reinvest in himself the title to the instrument against a holder who had knowledge of the indorser's infancy. The quoted words are not qualified so as to save his rights in such an assumed case. It must be admitted that the Legislature did not intend any such radical and grossly inequitable departure from a settled and salutary rule of law." Murray v. Thompson, 136 Tenn. 188, 188 S. E. 578.

§ 3013. Indorsement must be of entire instrument.—An indorsement must be an indorsement of the entire instrument. An indorsement which purports to transfer to the indorsee a part only of the amount payable or which purports to transfer the instrument to two or more indorsees severally, does not operate as a negotiation of the instrument. But where the instrument has been paid in part it may be indorsed as to the residue. (Rev., s. 2181; 1899, c. 733, s. 32.)

In General.—An assignment of a note, to enable the assignee to sue thereon, must be made by the payee, and must be for the whole, and not for a part of the sum mentioned in the note. Martin v. Hayes, 44 N. C. 423.

§ 3014. Kinds of indorsement.—An indorsement may be either in blank or special, and it may also be either restrictive or qualified or conditional. (Rev., s. 2182; 1899, c. 733, s. 33.)

§ 3015. Special indorsement; indorsement in blank.—A special indorsement specifies the person to whom or to whose order the instrument is to be payable; and the indorsement of such indorsee is necessary to the further negotiation of the instrument. An indorsement in blank specifies no indorsee, and an instrument so indorsed is payable to bearer and may be negotiated by delivery. (Rev., s. 2183; 1899, c. 733, s. 34.)

As to right of holder without indorsement when payable to order, see sec. 3030 and annotations; as to indorsements in general, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 413-416.

Indorsement Where Note Payable to Bearer.—Although a note payable to bearer may be transferred by delivery, it may also be transferred by indorsement of the holder, and in such case the indorser incurs the same obligation and liability as an indorser of a note payable to order. Lilly v. Baker, 88 N. C. 151.

Right of Indorser in Blank When Instrument Subsequently Acquired by Delivery.—An indorsement "without recourse," but not saying to whom the bill was indorsed was an indorsement in blank, and the bill became payable to bearer; and notwithstanding that subsequent holders afterwards indorsed it in full or specially, yet when it came again to C. by delivery, he had a right to demand payment of the bill from any prior indorser. French v. Barney, 23 N. C. 219.

Transfer by Blank Indorsement Presumed.—An indorsement in blank by the payee of a note is presumed to have been intended as a transfer thereof. Davis v. Morgan, 64 N. C. 570. And nothing else appearing such indorsement constitutes a transfer of the note. Coffin v. Smith, 128 N. C. 252, 38 S. E. 864; but as between the immediate parties parol evidence is admissible to show a qualified or special contract. Hoffman v. Moore, 82 N. C. 313; Bank v. Pegram, 118 N. C. 671, 24 S. E. 487; Mendenhall v. Davis, 72 N. C. 150; Hill v. Shields, 81 N. C. 251.

Title of Attorney Holding for Collection.—A bond indorsed in blank and given to an attorney for collection amounts to an assignment of title, and conveys authority to the attorney to dispose of it as his own. Parker v. Stallings, 61 N. C. 590; Bradford v. Williams, 91 N. C. 7.

§ 3016. How blank indorsement changed to special indorsement.—The holder may convert a blank indorsement into a special indorsement by writing over the signature of the indorser in blank any contract consistent with the character of the indorsement. (Rev., s. 2184; 1899, c. 733, s. 35.)

Changing Liability by Filling Blank.—In case of an indorsement in blank any holder may fill in the blank over the signature thus making it payable to himself or some other person. But by filling in over the indorsement the holder cannot change the indorser's liability. Lilly v. Baker, 88 N. C. 151.

Time of Filling Blank. — Where a note is indorsed in blank, the holder has the authority to make it payable to himself or to any other person by filling up the blank over the signature, and this may be done at or before the trial. Johnson v. Hooker, 47 N. C. 29; Lilly v. Baker, 88 N. C. 151. It then becomes a special indorsement. Tyson v. Joyner, 139 N. C. 70, 74, 51 S. E. 803.

§ 3017. When indorsement restrictive.—An indorsement is restrictive which either (1) prohibits the further negotiation of the instrument; or (2) constitutes the indorsee the agent of the indorser; or (3) vests the title in the indorsee in trust for, or to the use of, some person. But the mere absence of words implying power to negotiate does not make an indorsement restrictive. (Rev., s. 2185; 1899, c. 733, s. 36.)

See notes to section 3018.

Construing this section with § 446 under Civil Procedure, that says every action must be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest, § 446 is mandatory and compelling, and the instant section does not allow a contrary construction. Federal Reserve Bank v. Whitford, 207 N. C. 267, 269, 176 S. E. 584.

§ 3018. Effect of restrictive indorsement; rights of indorsee.—A restrictive indorsement confers upon the indorsee the right (1) to receive payment of the instrument; (2) to bring any action thereon that the indorser could bring; (3) to transfer his rights as such indorsee, where the form of the indorsement authorizes him to do so. But all subsequent indorsees acquire only the title of the first indorsee under the restrictive indorsement. (Rev., s. 2186; 1899, c. 733, s. 37.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the passage of this and the preceding section it was uniformly held in this State that a bank holding a note under a restricted indorsement for collection could not bring suit in its own name, but must bring suit in the name of the indorser. In Bank v. Exum, 163 N. C. 199, 79 S. E. 498, decided after this section, the same rule was followed, the court citing prior cases and not referring to this and the preceding section. The case of Bank v. Rochamora, 193 N. C. 1, 136 S. E. 259, decided the same question and follows the prior ruling.

In 5 N. C. Law Rev. 369, there appears a discussion and criticism of these cases, citing cases of other states where this section has been adopted with the Negotiable Instrument Law, showing that in most jurisdictions it is held that a bank as endorsee for collection can bring suit in its own name, as it has legal title although holding in trust.

Construing this and the preceding section of the N. I. L. referred to with the section under civil procedure, that says every action must be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest, we think section 446, is mandatory and compelling. We think the decision of Bank v. Exum, 163 N. C. 199, 79 S. E. 498; correct in principle and founded on a just and reasonable interpretation of the statutes applicable and cognate. To say a collecting agency, because it is a bank, can sue in its own name would be to say that any attorney or any kind of collecting agent can likewise enter suit by reason of the agency. We do not think our statute allows this construction as to favoritism. The contrary construction would permit the real owner of the instrument to defeat all equities of the maker by simply turning it over to an agent for collection. Id.

In General.—There is a general and restrictive indorsement. In case of restrictive indorsement the indorsee cannot indorse to one, who will become a holder in due course, and have a right to sue either indorser. A restrictive indorsement restricts the rights of the indorsee to specified steps. Drew v. Jacocks, 6 N. C. 138.

Indorsed as Collateral Security. — A note indorsed to a bank is restrictive where the indorsement is unrestricted, if it appears that the note is only indorsed as collateral security, and for collection, or it appears that the indorser had been given depositor's credit for the amount of the note with the right to charge back in case of dishonor. Packing Co. v. Davis, 118 N. C. 548, 24 S. E. 365.

Rights of Restricted Endorsee.—A draft or bill which is transferred to a bank by restrictive indorsement, as for deposit or for collection, is taken and held by the bank as agent of the indorser, and for the purpose indicated, and subject to the right of the indorser to arrest payment or divert the proceeds in the hands of any intermediate or subagent who has taken the paper for a like purpose and affected by the restriction. Boykin v. Bank, 118 N. C. 566, 24 S. E. 357; Bank v. Hubble, 117 N. Y. 384; Balback v. Frelinghyser, 15 Fed. 675; Tyson & Rawles v. Bank, 77 Md. 412; Murchinson Nat. Bank v. Oil Mills, 150 N. C. 718, 721, 64 S. E. 885.

Indorsement Enlarging Liability.—"Demand, notice and protest waived, payment guaranteed by the undersigned" is an indorsement with an enlarged liability. The language makes the holder one in due course and the instrument is taken free from equities and defenses which the maker has against the payee. Richmond Guano Co. v. Walston, 191 N. C. 797, 801, 133 S. E. 196.

§ 3019. Qualified indorsement. — A qualified indorsement constitutes the indorser a mere assignor of the title to the instrument. It may be made by adding to the indorser's signature the words "without recourse" or any words of similar import. Such an indorsement does not impair the negotiable character of the instrument. (Rev., s. 2187; 1899, c. 733, s. 38.)

As to instrument with indorsement enlarging liability, see notes to sec. 3018.

Effect of Indorsement without Recourse.—Notes indorsed by the payee named therein, who wrote above his signature on the back of each note the words, "without recourse," is a qualified indorsement. Its effect is to constitute the indorser a mere assignor of the title to the note, which he held at the date of the indorsement. It does not impair the negotiable character of the note so indorsed. Bank v. Hatcher, 151 N. C. 359, 66 S. E. 308; Evans v. Freeman, 142 N. C. 61, 54 S. E. 847; Walter v. Kilpatrick, 191 N. C. 458, 462, 132 S. E. 148.

Alone, a qualified indorsement is not sufficient notice as to discredit a negotiable instrument, but when combined with other suspicious facts it may become evidence to show infirmities. Merchants Nat. Bank v. Branson, 165 N. C. 344, 81 S. E. 410.

Qualifying Words May Precede or Follow Signature.—The words qualifying an endorsement of a negotiable instrument, such as "without recourse" and words of like effect, may either precede or follow the signature of the transferer of title. Medlin v. Miles, 201 N. C. 683, 161 S. E. 207.

Qualified Indorser May Be Liable on Warranties.—A negotiable instrument transferred by an endorsement reading "for value received I hereby sell, transfer and assign all my right, title and interest to within note to M." assigns title to the instrument by qualified endorsement, exempting the transferer from all liability as a general endorser, except that he is still chargeable with implied warranties as a seller. Medlin v. Miles, 201 N. C. 683, 161 S. E. 207.

§ 3020. Conditional indorsement.—Where an indorsement is conditional, a party required to pay the instrument may disregard the condition and make payment to the indorsee or his transferee, whether the condition has been fulfilled or not. But any person to whom an instrument so indorsed is negotiated will hold the same or the proceeds thereof subject to the rights of the person indorsing conditionally. (Rev., s. 2188; 1899, c. 733, s. 39.)

As to indorsement with enlarged liability, see sec. 3018.

In General.—An indorsement to "A. B. for sixty days," if conditional is only a guaranty for sixty days, if unconditional it is only to be in force for a limited time. Johnson v. Olive, 60 N. C. 213.

§ 3021. Indorsement of instrument payable to bearer.—Where an instrument payable to bearer is indorsed specially, it may nevertheless be further negotiated by delivery; but the person indorsing specially is liable as indorser to only such holders as make title through his indorsement. (Rev., s. 2189; 1899, c. 733, s. 40.)

As to special indorsee indorsing in blank, see note to sec. 3015, as to who is bearer, see sec. 2990.

§ 3022. Indorsement of instrument payable to two or more persons.—Where an instrument is payable to the order of two or more payees or indorsees who are not partners, all must indorse unless the one indorsing has authority to indorse for the others. (Rev., s. 2190; 1899, c. 733, s. 41.)

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 92.

Cited in Dawson v. Bank, 197 N. C. 499, 150 S. E. 38; applied in Virginia-Carolina Bank v. First, etc., Bank, 197 N. C. 526, 534, 150 S. E. 34.

§ 3023. Effect of instrument drawn or indorsed to a person as cashier.—Where an instrument is drawn or indorsed to a person as cashier or other fiscal officer of a bank or corporation it is deemed prima facie to be payable to the bank or corporation of which he is such officer, and may be negotiated by either the indorsement of the bank or corporation or the indorsement of the officer. (Rev., s. 2191; 1899, c. 733, s. 42.)

§ 3024. Indorsement, where payee's name misspelled.—Where the name of a payee or indorsee is wrongly designated or misspelled he may indorse the instrument as there described, adding, if he think fit, his proper signature. (Rev., s. 2192; 1899, c. 733, s. 43.)

§ 3025. Indorsement in representative capacity.—Where any person is under obligation to indorse in a representative capacity he may indorse in such terms as to negative personal liability. (Rev., s. 2193; 1899, c. 733, s. 44.)

§ 3026. Presumption as to time of indorsement.—Except where an indorsement bears date after the maturity of the instrument, every negotiation is deemed prima facie to have been effected before the instrument was overdue. (Rev., s. 2194; 1899, c. 733, s. 45.)

In General.—Indorsements in blank upon negotiable instruments are presumed to be made contemporaneously with the execution of such instrument. Southerland v. Freemont, 107 N. C. 565, 12 S. E. 237.

Indorsement to a Deceased Person.—Where a negotiable instrument has been indorsed to a decedent, and it is found among his papers, the indorsement not bearing a date, he is prima facie presumed to have acquired it in due course. Insurance Co. v. Jones, 191 N. C. 176, 131 S. E. 587.

§ 3027. Presumption as to place of indorsement.—Except where the contrary appears, every indorsement is presumed prima facie to have been made at the place where the instrument is dated. (Rev., s. 2195; 1899, c. 733, s. 46.)

§ 3028. Continuation of negotiable character.—An instrument negotiable in its origin continues to be negotiable until it has been restrictively indorsed or discharged by payment or otherwise. (Rev., s. 2196; 1899, c. 733, s. 47.)

See annotations under section 3018.

Applied in Dunlap v. London Guaranty, etc., Co., 202 N. C. 651, 163 S. E. 750.

§ 3029. Striking out indorsement.—The holder may at any time strike out any indorsement which is not necessary to his title. The indorser whose indorsement is struck out and all indorsers subsequent to him are thereby relieved from liability on the instrument. (Rev., s. 2197; 1899, c. 733, s. 48.)

As to negotiation by prior party, see note to section 3031.

In General.—An indorser in full, who takes up a bill, is remitted to his former title, and may strike out his indorsement and sue as indorsee those standing before him on the bill, although he may have once made a restrictive indorsement. French v. Barney, 23 N. C. 219, 221.

Suit without Striking Subsequent Indorsees.—An indorser of a note may strike out the subsequent indorsers and bring suit, or he may bring suit without striking the subsequent indorsers, as possession is prima facie evidence of payment to the indorsee. Smith v. St. Lawrence, 2 N. C. 174.

§ 3030. Effect of transfer without indorsement.—Where the holder of an instrument payable to his order transfers it for value without indorsing it, the transfer vests in the transferee such title as the transferrer had therein, and the transferee acquires in addition the right to have the indorsement of the transferrer. But for the purpose of determining whether the transferee is a holder in due course, the negotiation takes effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made. (Rev., s. 2198; 1899, c. 733, s. 49.)

As to indorsement in blank, see section 3015.

In General.—Where a note is payable to order and not to bearer, the indorsement of the payee is necessary to transfer the legal title; and where this is not done, a subsequent holder is not one in due course, though the instrument may have been indorsed to him for value by an intermediate holder. Elgin City Banking Co. v. McEachern, 163 N. C. 333, 79 S. E. 680; Steinhilper v. Basnight, 153 N. C. 293, 69 S. E. 220; Tyson v. Joyner, 139 N. C. 69, 51 S. E. 803.

Endorsement is not the only mode by which an interest in notes may be assigned in view of this section. Dozier v. Leary, 196 N. C. 12, 144 S. E. 368, applying this rule in a case where a husband transferred his interest in a note executed by him and his wife by a registered paper writing, which was held competent evidence in an action by the transferee for one-half the proceeds of the note.

Payable to Order of Maker.—One making a note payable to her own order and delivering it to another without indorsement does not make the holder a holder in due course. Planters Bank v. Yelverton, 185 N. C. 314, 117 S. E. 299.

When Indorsement Must Be Proven.—Where the plaintiff at the trial presented the draft sued on, with the name of the drawee stamped on the back and testified that the draft had been discounted to him by the drawee before maturity for value and without notice, he is only the equitable owner, in the absence of proof that the instrument had been indorsed, and he holds it subject to any valid defense open to the maker, and it was error to exclude evidence tending to show fraud. Mayers v. McRimmon, 140 N. C. 640, 53 S. E. 447.

Indorsing Two Notes Folded Together. — Where two notes are folded together and only one of them is indorsed, the indorsement is operative only to the one indorsed though the intention of the parties was otherwise. National Bank v. Leonard, 91 Ga. 805, 18 S. E. 32.

§ 3031. When prior party may negotiate instrument.—Where an instrument is negotiated back to a prior party, such party may, subject to the provisions of this chapter, reissue and further negotiate the same. But he is not entitled to enforce payment thereof against any intervening party to whom he was personally liable. (Rev., s. 2199; 1899, c. 733, s. 50.)

Editor's Note.—In I. N. C. Law Rev. 187 there is a discussion of the N. I. L. which includes this and section 3039. The rule seems to be as laid down in Adrian v. McCaskill, 103 N. C. 182, 9 S. E. 284 that one who obtains possession of a negotiable instrument after having formerly indorsed it is restored to his former position and cannot hold indorsers subsequent to his first indorsement. The reason for this rule is clearly to avoid circuity of action for the subsequent indorsers would eventually hold him liable under his first indorsement. See editor's note under section 3039 for rights of holder with notice of fraud.

One who obtains possession of a note or bill after endorsing it is restored to his original position and cannot hold intermediate parties; and one who acquires possession of the instrument from such person, with notice of the fact, cannot hold the intermediate endorser. Ray v. Livingston, 204 N. C. 1, 4, 167 S. E. 496.

Art. 5. Rights of Holder

§ 3032. Right of holder to sue; payment.—The holder of a negotiable instrument may sue thereon in his own name, and payment to him in due course discharges the instrument. (Rev., s. 2200; 1899, c. 733, s. 51.)

Cross References.—As to right of bank holding for collection to sue, see editor's note under section 3018; as to definition of holder, see section 2976; as to presumption that holder is holder in due course, see section 3040; as to person to whom payment may be made, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 481.

§ 3033. What constitutes holder in due course.—A holder in due course is a holder who has taken the instrument under the following conditions: (1) That the instrument is complete and regular upon its face; (2) that he became the holder of it before it was overdue and without notice that it has been previously dishonored, if such was the fact; (3) that he took it for good faith and value; (4) that at the time it was negotiated to him he had no notice of any infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating it. (Rev., s. 2201; 1899, c. 733, s. 52.)

Cross Reference.—As to defenses which may or may not be set up against a holder in due course see § 3038 and the note thereto.

As to defective title, see section 3036; as to presumption in favor of a holder, see section 3040. As to defenses which are good as against a holder in due course, see note to section 3036.

Indorsement Necessary.—To constitute a holder in due course it is required that the instrument be indorsed. Bank v. Yelverton, 185 N. C. 314, 117 S. E. 299; Mayers v. McRimmon, 140 N. C. 640, 53 S. E. 447. See also Keith v. Henderson County, 204 N. C. 21, 24, 167 S. E. 481.

Same—Taking Without Notice.—A holder of a note not indorsed to him is not a holder in due course, and it makes no difference if he had no notice of the equities of the parties, he is subject to them nevertheless. Steinhilper v. Basnight, 153 N. C. 293, 69 S. E. 220.

Indorsement Implies "Due Course."—The holder of a negotiable instrument duly indorsed is, prima facie, a purchaser for value, in good faith, before maturity, and without notice of any defect in the title of the person negotiating it. Worth Co. v. International Feed Co., 172 N. C. 335, 342, 90 S. E. 295; Smathers v. Toxaway Hotel Co., 168 N. C. 69, 84 S. E. 47.

Admission of Indorsement to Holder.—The admission by the maker of a promissory note that it had been indorsed to the plaintiff in due course raises the presumption prima facie that he is a holder in due course, and the prima facie case is not rebutted by a denial in the pleadings. Gulf States Steel Co. v. Ford, 173 N. C. 195, 91 S. E. 844.

The transfer by endorsement to another of a bond indemnifying a bank from any loss which it might sustain by reason of its taking over the assets and discharging the liabilities of another bank, is an assignment of a chose in action, and the assignee is not a holder in due course. North Carolina Bank, etc., Co. v. Williams, 201 N. C. 464, 160 S. E. 484.

Defective Title Rebuts Presumption. — The presumption that every holder is a holder in due course does not apply when it is alleged and shown that the negotiable instrument was indorsed by one whose title was defective. Whitman v. York, 192 N. C. 87, 93, 133 S. E. 427; American Exch. Nat. Bank v. Seagroves, 166 N. C. 608, 82 S. E. 947.

Fraud as Preventing Party from Being Holder in Due Course.—Where the endorser alleged in his answer that he signed the note upon representations made by the maker that the payee was lending the money to the maker to finance the equipment of a law office, that in fact the note was given to cover funds of the payee on deposit in a bank which had been wrongfully converted by the maker, and that the payee had full knowledge of, agreed to, and participated in, the fraudulent scheme to procure the endorser to sign the note by such false representations, the answer was sufficiently broad to allege fraud, and the payee was not a holder in due course under this section. Mitchell v. Strickland, 207 N. C. 141, 176 S. E. 468.

When Burden Shifts to Holder.—A holder of a note to show that he is a holder in due course without notice must do so by the greater weight of evidence when the maker pleads and shows fraud, infirmity or defective title. Discount Co. v. Baker, 176 N. C. 546, 97 S. E. 495; Myers v. Petty, 153 N. C. 462, 69 S. E. 417; Bank v Branson, 165 N. C. 344, 81 S. E. 410; Hooker v. Hardee, 192 N. C. 229, 134 S. E 485; Bank v. Fountain, 148 N. C. 590, 595, 62 S. E. 738; Smathers v. Toxaway Hotel Co., 168 N. C. 69, 84 S. E. 47.

When a holder of a note admits certain infirmities in the note, in an action to recover on the note, the burden is upon him to show that he is a holder in due course. Whitman v. York, 192 N. C. 87, 133 S. E. 427.

The holder of a negotiable note is presumed to be a holder in due course, but, when its execution is proved to have been obtained by fraud, the burden then shifts to him to prove that he took it before maturity, for value and without notice. Williams v. Green, 23 Fed. (2d) 796.

Enlarged Liability of Indorser Does Not Affect Negotiability.—A negotiable note indorsed to a holder, bearing an enlarged liability—a guaranty of payment, makes the holder a holder in due course in spite of the enlarged liability of the indorser. Richmond Guano Co. v. Walston, 191 N. C. 797, 133 S. E. 196.

Renewal Note after Notice.—A bank purchasing a note after maturity takes it subject to the equities of the parties. A subsequent note taken as a renewal of the first will not cure the defect and such holder cannot enforce payment. Grace & Co. v. Strickland, 188 N. C. 369, 124 S. E. 856; Merchants Nat. Bank v. Howard, 188 N. C. 543, 125 S. E. 126.

Holder for Collection.—A bank taking a note for collection is not a holder in due course. Insurance Co. v. Cotton Mill Co., 187 N. C. 233, 121 S. E. 439; Bank v. Rochamora, 193 N. C. 1, 136 S. E. 259.

Drafts Charged Back.—The fact that there is a custom among banks to take drafts for collection, and charge them back if they are unpaid, is not sufficient evidence to show that a bank holding a draft is not a holder in due course; Lumber Co. v. Childerhose, 167 N. C. 34, 83 S. E. 22; nor will the charging back of a check which is unpaid, make the holder bank a holder for collection, if the back charge was against an account that consisted of deposited checks that were later returned unpaid. Standard Trust Co. v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 240 Fed. 303.

Question for Jury.—Whether the execution of notes were induced by fraudulent representations held a question for jury. Clark v. Laurel Park Estates, 196 N. C. 624, 146 S. E. 584.

Same—Duty to Instruct.—Where there is evidence that the holder of a negotable instrument had notice of its infirmity, the question is for the jury, and a failure to instruct thereon is reversible error. Peoples Bank, etc., Co. v. Duncan, 194 N. C. 692, 140 S. E. 610.

Applied in Wellons v. Warren, 203 N. C. 178, 165 S. E. 545; Bankers' Trust Co. v. Statesville, 203 N. C. 399, 166 S. E. 169; Dyer v. Bray, 208 N. C. 248, 180 S. E. 83.

Cited in Mayers v. Bank, 198 N. C. 542, 544, 152 S. E. 628. See also Dixon v. Smith, 204 N. C. 480, 168 S. E. 683.

§ 3034. When person not deemed holder in due course.—Where an instrument payable on demand is negotiated an unreasonable length of time after its issue, the holder is not deemed a holder in due course. (Rev., s. 2202; 1899, c. 733, s. 53.)

As to what is reasonable time, see sec. 2978 and note.

In General.—A cashier's check negotiated to a holder in another state within five days is negotiated in a reasonable time. Manufacturing Co. v. Summers, 143 N. C. 102. 55 S. E. 522.

Cited in State, etc., Trust Co. v. Hedrick, 198 N. C. 374, 151 S. E. 723.

§ 3035. Notice before full amount paid.—Where the transferee has received notice of any infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating the same before he has paid the full amount agreed to be paid therefor, he will be deemed a holder in due course only to the extent of the amount theretofore paid by him. (Rev., s. 2203; 1899, c. 733, s. 54.)

As to what constitutes notice, see sec. 3037.

In General.—The title passes to one who takes a negotiable paper without notice of any defect or equities no matter how little he paid, in the absence of fraud. If there is fraud he is only entitled to what he has paid before receiving notice of the fraud. Bank v. McNair, 116 N. C. 550, 21 S. E. 389.

Taken as Collateral Security.—Where the original consideration of the paper is illegal or fraudulent, or it is taken as collateral security, the right of recovery is restricted to the consideration actually paid by the indorsee before notice of the fraud (Dresser v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 93 U. S. 92, 95, 23 L. Ed. 815), or the amount of the debt to which it is collateral. Kerr v. Cowen, 17 N. C. 356; United States Nat. Bank v. McNair, 116 N. C. 550, 551, 554, 21 S. E. 389.

Cited in Standing Stone Nat. Bank v. Walser, 162 N. C. 53, 77 S. E. 1006.

§ 3036. When title defective.—The title of a person who negotiates an instrument is defective within the meaning of this chapter when he obtained the instrument, or any signature thereto, by fraud, duress or force and fear or other unlawful means, or for an illegal consideration, or when he negotiates it in breach of faith or under such circumstances as amount to a fraud. (Rev., s. 2204; 1899, c. 733, s. 55.)

As to burden of proof when title defective, see sec. 3040.

Editor's Note.—A careful reading of this section will reveal that it applies to "the title of a person who negotiates" and thus has full knowledge of or the means of knowing the circumstances. The question of whether or not fraud, duress, usury, illegality of consideration, etc., will render the instrument unenforceable in the hands of a person in due course without notice presents itself.

In the case of the fraud which is sufficient to avoid an instrument as to such holder there is a considerable amount of conflict. See 8 C. J. sections 1048, 1049, pp. 789, 790. However, it would seem that the better rule is that fraud ordinarily renders the instrument voidable only, and therefore, in accordance with the general rule is not a good defense as against a holder in due course where he proves himself to be such in accordance with section 3040. See Discount Co. v. Baker, 176 N. C. 546, 97 S. E. 495, and citations.

Of course, it might be that upon principle, the rule should be that where one who has been induced through fraud to sign an instrument the actual terms of which he has no knowledge and signs thinking he is signing a different instrument, as for example, where he cannot read and he depended upon the payee to read the terms to him correctly, which the payee did not do, should be allowed to defend against holders in due course, because in such cases the instrument is in fact no more the maker's than if it were forged or altered and this should be placed in the same category. But, be this as it may, where the maker has proved such fraud or deception the burden of proving that the holder is one in due course is upon the holder and he cannot recover if he fails to sustain the burden. See section 3040; Discount Co. v. Baker, supra; Duncan v. Carson, 127 Va. 306, 103 S. E. 665, 105 S. E. 62.

As to duress as a defense, see 8 C. J. section 1027, p. 761; illegality of consideration, 8 C. J. sections 1031, 1032, p. 766, gambling transactions, 8 C. J. section 1031, p. 769.

Rights of Holders of Notes Tainted with Usury or Illegality.—The exceptions to the rule of section 3040 are: (1) When by statute the paper is void in whole or in part from its inception, as for usury or for gaming or immoral contracts. (See notes to section 2306 as to usury, section 2142 as to gaming transaction). In such cases it is void to the same extent into whosoever hands it may pass, even if acquired before maturity, for value and without notice, and the sole remedy of the holder for the deficiency is against the indorser. Ward v. Sugg, 113 N. C. 489, 18 S. E. 717, and cases there cited. (2) Where the original consideration of the paper is illegal or fraudulent, or it is taken as collateral security, the right of recovery is restricted to the consideration actually, paid by the indorsee before notice of the fraud (Dresser v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 93 U. S. 92, 23 L. Ed. 815), or the amount of the debt to which it is collateral. Kerr v. Cowen, 17 N. C. 356. But the exception does not extend further, not even to cases where the note was issued without any consideration, though it may be purchased by the indorsee for less than its face. United States Nat. Bank v. McNair, 116 N. C. 550, 21 S. E. 389, 390; See also sections 3033, 3046, 3046 and 3047.

In the case of an instrument tainted with usury it is void to the extent declared by statute. See sec. 2306 and note, and the bona fide holder cannot recover upon the portion which is void.

When Title Subject to Question.—In the absence of an allegation of fraud the intervener's title is not subject to question when suit is brought by a holder in due course. Moon v. Simpson, 170 N. C. 335, 87 S. E. 118, 172 N. C. 576, 90 S. E. 578; Worth Co. v. Feed Co., 172 N. C. 335, 90 S. E. 295.

Burden of Proof.—When it is shown or admitted that the title of the person who negotiated the instrument is defective, or there is evidence of the fact, it is necessary for a recovery by one claiming to be the holder in due course to show by the greater weight of the evidence that he is such a holder according to the terms of section 3033. Manufacturing Co. v. Summers, 143 N. C. 102, 108, 55 S. E. 522; Smathers & Co. Toxaway Hotel Co., 168 N. C. 69, 84 S. E. 47; Bank v. Fountain, 148 N. C. 590, 62 S. E. 738; Bank v. Branson, 165 N. C. 344, 81 S. E. 410; First Nat. Bank v. Warsaw Drug Co., 166 N. C. 99, 100, 81 S. E. 993; Whitman v. York, 192 N. C. 87, 133 S. E. 427; Hooker v. Hardee, 192 N. C. 229, 134 S. E. 485; Moon v. Simpson, 170 N. C. 335, 337, 87 S. E. 118.

Cited in Bank v. Roch mora, 193 N. C. 1, 136 S. E. 259; Clark v. Laurel Park Estates, 196 N. C. 624, 638, 146 S. E. 584.

§ 3037. What constitutes notice of defect.—To constitute a notice of an infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating the same the person to whom it is negotiated must have had actual knowledge of the infirmity or defect or knowledge of such facts that his action in taking the instrument amounted to bad faith. (Rev., s. 2205; 1899, c. 733, s. 56.)

In General.—Observable irregularities on the face of the instrument will no longer suffice to affect the rights of a holder in due course. It is necessary that circumstances set out in this section should occur in order to charge the holder with notice. Holleman v. Trust Co., 185 N. C. 49, 115 S. E. 825; Critcher v. Ballard, 180 N. C. 111, 112, 104 S. E. 134; Smathers & Co. v. Toxaway Hotel Co., 162 N. C. 346. 78 S. E. 224; Lacy v. Globe Indemnity Co., 189 N. C. 24, 32, 126 S. E. 316; Smathers & Co. v. Toxaway Co., 167 N. C. 469, 470, 83 S. E. 844.

In Hotchkiss v. National Banks, 88 U. S. (21 Wall.) 354, 22 L. Ed. 645 it is said: "A suspicion that there is a defect of title in the holder, or a knowledge of circumstances that might excite such suspicion in the mind of a cautious person, or even gross negligence at the time, will not defeat the title of the purchaser." Piedmont Carolina R. Co. v. Shaw, 223 Fed. 973, 977.

The fact that a note is negotiated by a stranger at a discount and one of the alternative places of payment was not known to the holder, is not sufficient to put him on notice of the defects. Farthing v. Dark, 111 N. C. 243, 16 S. E. 337. This case was reported in Farthing v. Dark, 109 N. C. 291, 13 S. E. 918, but at that time the court was not advertent of the fact that there was an alternative place of payment.—Ed. Note.

When a note is signed through fraud of another, and discounted with an indorsee that had notice of this fraud, the indorsee is subject to the equities between the parties. Grace & Co. v. Strickland, 188 N. C. 369, 124 S. E. 856.

Notice to Bank Through Officers.—A note payable to an officer of a bank and discounted at the bank through the discount committee does not make the bank subject to the principle of imputed knowledge when the officer is not a member of the discount committee. Bank v. Howard, 188 N. C. 543, 125 S. E. 126.

A bank taking a note indorsed to it by its president takes with notice of all equities between the parties, when the president and cashier constitute the discount committee, as notice to the president constitutes notice to the bank. Le Duc v. Moore, 111 N. C. 516, 15 S. E. 888.

Duty to Inquire.—When a person has knowledge of such facts and circumstances which make it incumbent on him to inquire as to the character of the note which he purchased, and, that being so, he will be affected with knowledge of all that the inquiry would disclose. Bunting v. Ricks, 22 N. C. 130, 32 Am. Dec. 699; Hulbert v. Douglas, 94 N. C. 122. Loftin v. Hill, 131 N. C. 105, 106, 110, 42 S. E. 548. But knowledge of the crookedness in business matters of the assignee does not defeat the title of the assignee or make it his duty to inquire relative to the note. Setzer v. Deal, 135 N. C. 428, 47 S. E. 466.

Same—Interest Past Due.—The fact that interest is past due does not of itself constitute notice of equities between the parties, but it may be considered by the jury in passing on the issue. Trust Co. v. Whitehead, 165 N. C. 74, 80 S. E. 1065.

Statement of Transaction.—A note containing on its face an express statement of the transaction for which it was given, in the absence of further evidence, is not notice of the equities between the parties. Bank v. Hatcher, 151 N. C. 359, 66 S. E. 308. See sec. 2984 and notes thereto.

Question for the Jury.—Where there is conflicting evidence as to notice the holder had of equities between the parties, issue should be submitted to a jury. Loftis v. Hill, 131 N. C. 105, 42 S. E. 548.

§ 3038. Rights of holder in due course.—A holder in due course holds the instrument free from any defect of title of prior parties, and free from defenses available to prior parties among themselves, and may enforce payment of the instrument for the full amount thereof against all parties liable thereon. (Rev., s. 2206; 1899, c. 733, s. 57.)

For discussion of rights of prior holder taking through a holder in due course, see note to section 3339.

In General.—One taking a note as a holder in due course can, under this section, enforce his right against all prior parties, except in case of a defective title as provided in section 3036. Bank v. McNair, 116 N. C. 550, 21 S. E. 389; Davidson v. Powell, 114 N. C. 575, 19 S. E. 601; Bank v. Griffin, 153 N. C. 72, 68 S. E. 919; Standing Stone Nat. Bank v. Walser, 162 N. C. 53, 54, 77 S. E. 1006. But see section 3040 as to burden of proof where defect is shown.

The maker of a note may not set up defenses he may have against the payee of the note in an action by a holder in due course, but where the holder is not a holder in due course without notice, the maker may set up all defenses which he may have as against the payee. Federal Reserve Bank v. Atmore, 200 N. C. 437, 157 S. E. 129.

Where the answer sufficiently alleges that the holder was not a holder in due course for value without notice, all defenses which the defendant may have are presentable under the pleadings. Id.

Relief from Scheme to Evade Usury Laws.—Where a borrower is entitled to enforce an equity against the payee because of a device to evade the usury laws, this equity cannot be enforced against a holder in due course. Federal Reserve Bank v. Jones, 205 N. C. 648, 650, 172 S. E. 185.

Cited in Dixon v. Smith, 204 N. C. 480, 168 S. E. 683.

§ 3039. When subject to original defenses.—In the hands of any holder other than a holder in due course a negotiable instrument is subject to the same defenses as if it were nonnegotiable. But a holder who derives his title through a holder in due course and who is not himself a party to any fraud or illegality affecting the instrument has all the rights of such former holder in respect of all parties prior to the latter. (Rev., s. 2207; 1899, c. 733, s. 58.)

Editor's Note.—The dictum in Pierce v. Carlton, 184 N. C. 175, 114 S. E. 13 is to the effect that one who is not a party to the fraud in procuring an instrument but who takes with notice, and then passes the instrument on to a holder in due course, will take a good title and hold as a holder in due course when he reacquires the instrument from the holder in due course. The court cites Calverts on Negotiable Instruments sec. 805 which recognizes only one exception to the rule that one taking from a holder in due course takes good title, and that is a taking by a fraudulent payee from a holder in due course. Such fraudulent payee can't take as a holder in due course. In 1 N. C. Law Rev. 187 this dictum is criticized and it is contended that one who takes with notice of an infirmity should not be allowed to clear his title by passing it through a holder in due course, for such would open the door to fraud.

In General.—If plaintiff failed to prove that he was a holder in due course, the notes, although in his hands as a holder, other than a holder in due course, are subject to the same defenses as if they were non-negotiable. Whitman v. York, 192 N. C. 87, 90, 133 S. E. 427. A past due instrument, lodged with bank as security, is subject to all defenses. Bank v. Loughran, 126 N. C. 814, 36 S. E. 281. The transferee of an unindorsed instrument not payable to bearer also takes subject to defenses. Bresee v. Crumpton, 121 N. C. 122, 28 S. E. 351.

A holder in due course may transfer a complete title to a third person although the latter when he takes the paper has knowledge of facts which would defeat recovery by the payee. Wellons v. Warren, 203 N. C. 178, 181, 165 S. E. 545.

"But this rule is subject to the single exception that if the note were invalid as between the maker and the payee, the payee could not himself, by purchase from a bona fide holder, become successor to his rights, it not being essential to such bona fide holder's protection to extend the principle so far." Ray v. Livingston, 204 N. C. 1, 4, 167 S. E. 496.

Cited in Merchants Nat. Bank v. Howard, 188 N. C. 543, 548, 125 S. E. 126.

§ 3040. Who deemed holder in due course.—Every holder is deemed prima facie to be a holder in due course; but when it is shown that the title of any person who has negotiated the instrument was defective, the burden is on the holder to prove that he or some person under whom he claims acquired the title as a holder in due course. But the last mentioned rule does not apply in favor of a party who became bound on the instrument prior to the acquisition of such defective title. (Rev., s. 2208; 1899, c. 733, s. 59.)

Cross References.—As to what constitutes holder in due course, see section 3033; as to burden of proof and presumption rebutted, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 504-508; as to defenses against Bona Fide Purchaser, sec. 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 458.

Editor's Note.—There are several exceptions to this section, see note to section 3036.

Holders to Whom Applicable.—The presumption that the holder is one in due course exists in favor of the holder of a draft payable to order with bill of lading attached. Manufacturing Co. v. Tierney, 133 N. C. 630, 635, 45 S. E. 1026; Mangum v. Mutual Grain Co., 184 N. C. 181, 182, 114 S. E. 2.

This presumption does not exist in favor of a holder of an unindorsed note not payable to bearer. Harlan, J., in Osgood v. Artt, 17 Fed. 575, says: "It is well settled that the purchaser, if the paper be delivered to him without indorsement, takes by the law merchant only the rights which the payee has, and therefore takes subject to any defense the payor may rightfully assert as against the payee. The purchaser in which case becomes only the equitable owner of the claim or debt evidenced by the negotiable security." Tyson v. Joyner, 139 N. C. 69, 70, 72, 51 S. E. 803.

But when a properly negotiated note is found among the papers of a deceased person that is prima facie evidence that the holder is a holder in due course, until it is alleged and shown by a party liable on the note that it is defective, the evidence is sufficient for the administrator of the holder to recover thereon. Insurance Co. v. Jones, 191 N. C. 176, 131 S. E. 587.

When Presumption Becomes Operative—Proof of Indorsement.—The presumption becomes operative as a matter of course where there is neither allegation nor proof that the title to a negotiable instrument is defective. The holder by indorsement is only required to prove the indorsement in order for him to be deemed prima facie a holder in due course. Moon v. Simpson, 170 N. C. 335, 87 S. E. 118.

Rebuttal of Presumption.—The prima facie case is not rebutted by a mere denial in the answer of the ownership of the plaintiff. Causel v. Snow, 120 N. C. 279, 26 S. E. 775; Gulf States Steel Co. v. Ford, 173 N. C. 195, 196, 91 S. E. 844.

Defective Title—Holder's Burden of Proof.—Where fraud on the part of the payee in the procurement and issuance of the instrument is shown the burden of proving due course is shifted to the holder. Myers v. Petty, 153 N. C. 462, 69 S.

E. 417; Hooker v. Hardee, 192 N. C. 229, 134 S. E. 485; Bank v. Sherron, 186 N. C. 297, 119 S. E. 497; Bank v. Exum, 163 N. C. 199, 79 S. E. 498; Bank v. Branson, 165 N. C. 344, 349, 81 S. E. 410; American Exch. Nat. Bank v. Seagroves, 166 N. C. 608, 610, 82 S. E. 947.

This rule also applies where the holder admits infirmities in the instrument. Whitman v. York, 192 N. C. 87, 133 S. E. 427.

The holder by indorsement must show that the instrument was indorsed before maturity. An indorsement by a rubber stamp is a valid indorsement but does not prove itself. Mayers v. McRimmon, 140 N. C. 640, 53 S. E. 447.

It was competent for the defendant to introduce evidence as to the quality of goods for which a draft was accepted in order that he might show fraud and deception and where such proof was admitted the burden of proving holding in due course devolved upon holder. Campbell v. Patton, 113 N. C. 481, 18 S. E. 687; Manufacturing Co. v. Summers, 143 N. C. 102, 109, 55 S. E. 522; Bank v. Fountain, 148 N. C. 590, 62 S. E. 738; Park v. Exum, 156 N. C. 228, 72 S. E. 309; Standing Stone Nat. Bank v. Walser, 162 N. C. 53, 62, 77 S. E. 1006; Fidelity Trust Co. v. Ellen, 163 N. C. 45, 46, 79 S. E. 263; Smathers & Co. v. Toxaway Hotel Co., 168 N. C. 69, 72, 84 S. E. 47; Bank v. Branson, 165 N. C. 344; 81 S. E. 510; Discount Co. v. Baker, 176 N. C. 546, 97 S. E. 495.

The credibility of the plaintiff's evidence that he is a holder in due course is for the jury. Manufacturing Co. v. Summers, 143 N. C. 102, 55 S. E. 522; Bank v Fountain, 148 N. C. 590, 62 S. E. 738; Park v. Exum, 156 N. C. 228, 231, 72 S. E. 309; Standing Stone Nat. Bank v. Walser, 162 N. C. 53, 63, 77 S. E. 1006; Fidelity Trust Co. v. Ellen, 163 N. C. 45, 46, 79 S. E. 263.

Rule applied in Merchants Nat. Bank v. Howard, 188 N. C. 543, 550, 125 S. E. 126.

Interveners Assume Burden of Proving Title.—Where a forwarding bank intervenes and claims title to a draft of a nonresident debtor attached in the hands of a local bank, the burden is on the intervener to show its title to the property attached. Sterling Mills v. Milling Co., 184 N. C. 461, 114 S. E. 756.

Renewal Note Subject to Defenses against the Original.—If a note is negotiated after maturity and then taken up by a renewal note, the renewal note is subject to all the equities the original note was subject to. Grace v. Strickland, 188 N. C. 369, 124 S. E. 856.

Section applied in Manufacturing Co. v. Summers, 143 N. C. 102, 109, 55 S. E. 522; Dyer v. Bray, 208 N. C. 248, 180 S. E. 83.

Art. 6. Liabilities of Parties

§ 3041. Liability of maker.—The maker of a negotiable instrument by making it engages that he will pay it according to its tenor, and admits the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse. (Rev., s. 2209; 1899, c. 733, s. 60.)

Quoted in White v. Johnson & Sons, 205 N. C. 773, 774, 172 S. E. 370.

Cited in Taft v. Covington, 199 N. C. 51, 56, 153 S. E. 597; Howell v. Robertson, 197 N. C. 572, 150 S. E. 32; Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. v. Black, 198 N. C. 219, 151 S. E. 269; Davis v. Alexander, 207 N. C. 417, 419, 177 S. E. 417.

§ 3042. Liability of drawer.—The drawer by drawing the instrument admits the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse, and engages that on due presentment the instrument will be accepted or paid, or both, according to its tenor, and that if it be dishonored and the necessary proceedings on dishonor be duly taken, he will pay the amount thereof to the holder or to any subsequent indorser who may be compelled to pay it. But the drawer may insert in the instrument an express stipulation negativing or limiting his own liability to the holder. (Rev., s. 2210; 1899, c. 733, s. 61.)

See note under section 220(aa).

Right of Drawer to Arrest Payment. — A drawer of a draft, ordinarily standing towards subsequent parties as a general endorser, may, by appropriate words appearing on the paper, or by agreement dehors the instrument as to persons affected with notice, retain the right to arrest payment. Murchison Nat. Bank v. Dunn Oil Mills Co., 150 N. C. 718, 64 S. E. 885.

Where a draft or bill is transferred to a bank by restrictive indorsement, as for deposit or for collection, the instrument is taken and held by the bank as agent for the indorser, and for the purpose indicated, and subject to the right of the indorser to arrest payment or divert the proceeds in the hands of any intermediate or subagent who has taken the paper for like purpose and affected by the restriction. Boykin v. Bank, 118 N. C. 566, 24 S. E. 357; Bank v. Hubble, 117 N. Y. 384; Balbach v. Frelinghuysen, 15 Fed. 675; Tyson & Rawles v. Bank, 77 Md. 412; Murchison Nat. Bank v. Dunn Oil Mills Co., 150 N. C. 718, 721, 64 S. E. 885.

Rights of Holder without Notice of Restrictions.—When a bank to which a draft, appearing on its face to be negotiable, is forwarded by another bank, purchases it for value, without notice of an agreement restricting its negotiation, the drawer may not stop payment of the draft as against the rights of the bank so holding the paper. Murchison Nat. Bank v. Dunn Oil Mills Co., 150 N. C. 718, 64 S. E. 885.

Cited in Morris v. Cleve, 197 N. C. 253, 262, 148 S. E. 253.

§ 3043. Liability of acceptor.—The acceptor by accepting the instrument engages that he will pay it according to the tenor of his acceptance; and admits (1) existence of the drawer, the genuineness of his signature and his capacity and authority to draw the instrument; and (2) the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse. (Rev., s. 2211; 1899, c. 733, s. 62.)

Burden on Acceptor to Prove Signature of Drawer. — When a check drawn against a depositor of a bank is paid by the bank, in an action to recover deposits, the burden is on the bank to show that the check was signed by the depositor as maker. Yarborough v. Trust Co., 142 N. C. 377, 55 S. E. 296.

Where the cashing bank acts in good faith, the drawee cannot recover the amount which it has paid on the forged check. The drawee should know the signature of the drawer, its own depositor, better than the holder. The drawee cannot plead a custom that would entitle it to pay such draft without the signature being genuine. The fact that the cashing bank stamped the check "all prior indorsements guaranteed" makes no difference to the drawee, as that guarantee is only applicable to subsequent holders in due course. State Bank v. Savings etc., Co., 168 N. C. 605, 698, 85 S. E. 5.

When Forgery Known to Drawee.—Where a depositor is aware of forgery and indorses the check, and it is accordingly credited to him without knowledge of such facts on the part of the bank, the bank may return the check to such depositor and rightfully charge his account therewith, without reference to any fraudulent intent on his part. Woodward v. Savings, etc., Co., 178 N. C. 184, 100 S. E. 304.

Mistake Not Grounds for Repudiating Acceptance.—When a bank credits a depositor with the amount of a check drawn upon it by another customer, and there is no want of good faith on the part of the depositor, the act of crediting is equivalent to a payment in money, and the bank cannot recall or repudiate the payment because, later it is ascertained that the drawer, was without funds to meet the check, though when the payment was made the officials labored under the mistake that there were funds sufficient. Woodward v. Savings, etc., Co., 178 N. C. 184, 186, 100 S. E. 304.

§ 3044. When person deemed indorser.—A person placing his signature upon an instrument otherwise than as maker, drawer or acceptor is deemed to be an indorser, unless he clearly indicates by appropriate words his intention to be bound in some other capacity. (Rev., s. 2212; 1899, c. 733, s. 63.)

As to liability of indorsers, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig., 419 to 436.

In General.—A person indorsing a note at the time it is made should be held as original promisor. If the note is indorsed after delivery to the payee and negotiated, the indorsement binds the indorser as indorser only, but if it is not negotiated he is liable as guarantor. Lilly v. Baker, 88 N. C. 151.

Persons placing their names on the back of the note are, therefore, nothing else appearing, indorsers and liable on the note only as indorsers. Perry v. Taylor, 148 N. C. 362, 62 S. E. 423; Houser v. Fayssoux, 168 N. C. 1, 83 S. E.

692; Bank v. Wilson, 168 N. C. 557, 84 S. E. 866; Meyers v. Battle, 170 N. C. 168, 86 S. E. 1034; Barber v. Absher Co., 175 N. C. 602, 96 S. E. 43; Gillam v. Walker, 189 N. C. 189; 126 S. E. 424. Dillard v. Farmers Mercantile Co., 190 N. C. 225; 227, 129 S. E. 598.

Such "appropriate words" as provided by this section, must appear upon the instrument itself or in some sufficient writing attached thereto and becoming an essential and integral part thereof, and parol evidence is not admissible to show that one signing as endorser is primarily liable on the note. Waddell v. Hood, 207 N. C. 250, 176 S. E. 558.

Indorsement as Surety.—When it is set out in the body of a note that indorsers on the back are sureties, they will be held liable as sureties and not as indorsers. Dillard v. Mercantile Co., 190 N. C. 225, 129 S. E. 598.

When Parol Evidence Admissible.—Parol Evidence is admissible as between the parties to explain the instrument. For example, "the surety on the fact of a note, and an accommodation indorser, may, as between themselves, be shown by parol to be co-sureties by virtue of a verbal understanding to that effect. So several successive accommodation indorsers of a negotiable instrument may be shown by parol to be co-sureties." Brandt Suretyship Guaranty, Vol. 1 3 ed.), pp. 562-3; Sykes v. Everett, 167 N. C. 600, 83 S. E. 585; Gillam v. Walker, 189 N. C. 189, 126 S. E. 424.

But it is not competent to show that the liability of one whose name is written on the back of a note as an indorser is primary, and not secondary, for the purpose of sustaining the contention that notice of dishonor by nonpayment is dispensed with. Busbee v. Creech, 192 N. C. 499, 500, 135 S. E. 326; Fourth Nat. Bank v. Wilson, 168 N. C. 557, 84 S. E. 866.

Where the directors of a corporation sign a negotiable instrument on the back thereof as endorsers, the holder may not show by parol that they signed as co-makers, or guarantors, or sureties. Wrenn v. Lawrence Cotton Mills, 198 N. C. 89, 150 S. E. 676.

Testimony in direct contradiction of the written agreement as expressed in the endorsement to "guarantee payment of this note . . . with full knowledge of this contract," should be excluded under this section. Carr v. Clark, 205 N. C. 265, 266, 171 S. E. 88.

Applied in Corporation Commission v. Wilkinson, 201 N. C. 344, 160 S. E. 292; Hyde v. Tatham, 204 N. C. 160, 167 S. E. 626.

Cited in Nance v. Hulin, 192 N. C. 665, 135 S. E. 774; Howell v. Robertson, 197 N. C. 572, 150 S. E. 32.

§ 3045. Liability of irregular indorser.—Where a person not otherwise a party to an instrument places thereon his signature in blank before delivery he is liable as indorser in accordance with the following rules: (1) If the instrument is payable to the order of a third person he is liable to the payee and to all subsequent parties; (2) if the instrument is payable to the order of the maker or drawer, or is payable to bearer, he is liable to all parties subsequent to the maker or drawer; (3) if he signs for the accomodation of the payee he is liable to all parties subsequent to the payee. (Rev., s. 2213; 1899, c. 733, s. 64.)

Cited in Perry v. Taylor, 148 N. C. 362, 62 S. E. 423; Meyers v. Battle, 170 N. C. 168, 86 S. E. 1034; Rouse v. Wooten, 140 N. C. 557, 53 S. E. 430, and held not applicable to that case. Wrenn v. Lawrence Cotton Mills, 198 N. C. 89, 90, 150 S. E. 676.

§ 3046. Warranty, where negotiation by delivery.—Every person negotiating an instrument by delivery or by a qualified indorsement warrants (1) that the instrument is genuine and in all respects what it purports to be; (2) that he has a good title to it; (3) that all prior parties had capacity to contract; (4) that he has no knowledge of any fact which would impair the validity of the instrument or render it valueless. But when the negotiation is by delivery only the warranty extends in favor of no holder other than the immediate transferee. The provisions of subdivision three of this section do not apply to persons negotiating public or corporate securities other than bills and notes. (Rev., s 2214; 1899, c. 733, s. 65.)

As to qualified indorsement, see sec. 3019.

§ 3047. Liability of general indorser.—Every indorser who indorses without qualification warrants to all subsequent holders in due course (1) the matters and things mentioned in subdivisions one, two and three of the next preceding section; and (2) that the instrument is at the time of his indorsement valid and subsisting. And in addition he engages that on due presentment it shall be accepted or paid, or both, as the case may be, according to its tenor, and that if it be dishonored and the necessary proceedings on dishonor be duly taken he will pay the amount thereof to the holder or to any subsequent indorser who may be compelled to pay it. (Rev., s. 2215; 1899, c. 733, s. 66.)

Cross References.—As to words which exempt transferer from liability as general endorser see § 3019 and the note thereto.

Considered with Other Sections.—This section, which restricts the warranty to subsequent holders in due course, must be considered in connection with other sections of the Negotiable Instruments Law. Ray v. Livingston, 204 N. C. 1, 4, 167 S. E. 496.

Contract of Indorsement Is a Separate Contract.—A contract of indorsement is a substantive contract, separable and independent of the instrument on which it appears, and where it has been made without qualification and for value it guarantees to a holder in due course among other things that the instrument, at the time of the indorsement, is a valid and subsisting obligation. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co. v. Grafton, 181 N. C. 404, 405, 107 S. E. 316.

Indorsement after Maturity.—An indorsee taking after maturity takes the title to whatever interest his indorsee had, and by the indorsement the indorser makes such warranties as are provided by statute. Smith v. Godwin, 145 N. C. 242, 58 S. E. 1089.

An indorsement "without recourse" does not impair the negotiability of the instrument, but qualifies the indorsement and where one has acquired a negotiable instrument by an indorsement by a holder without recourse, there is no implied warranty on the part of such indorser. Walter v. Kilpatrick, 191 N. C. 458, 132 S. E. 148; Evans v. Freeman, 142 N. C. 61, 54 S. E. 847.

Signature Not Explained by Parol.—When a payee or regular indorsee thereof writes his name on the back of a note, as between him and a bona fide holder for value and without notice, the law implies that he intended to assume the well-known liability of an indorser, and he will not be permitted to contradict this implication. But this rule does not apply between the original parties to a contract which is not in writing, although there may be the signature of one or more parties to authenticate that some contract was made. Sykes v. Everett, 167 N. C. 600, 604, 835 S. E. 585.

Liability of Substituted Indorser.—Where an endorser as originally appearing on a negotiable note has his name stricken from the instrument by the payee and another person signs in substitution for him, the liability of the substituted endorser to the payee remains as a general endorser, unaffected by the cancellation and substitution, when his signature is not obtained by misrepresentation that the other endorsers had consented to the substitution and remained bound by the instrument. Efird v. Little, 205 N. C. 583, 172 S. E. 198.

Set-off of Deposits against Note.—Where a depositor in an insolvent national bank had indorsed a note on which he was in fact primarily liable, and procured the bank to discount it for his benefit, he was entitled in a suit by the bank's receiver to recover the amount of the note, to set off his deposit in the bank against his liability on the note. Williams v. Rose, 218 Fed. 898; Yardley v. Clothier, 51 Fed. 506, 17 L. R. A. 462; Scott v. Armstrong, 146 U. S. 499, 36 L. Ed., 1059; Yardley v. Philler, 167 U. S. 344, 346, 42 L. Ed. 192; Williams v. Coleman, 190 N. C. 368, 371, 129 S. E. 818.

Not Applicable to Usury. — The provisions made as to warranties which prevail in case of unqualified indorsements refer to lawful transactions, and do not relate to transactions coming within the meaning of our usury laws. Sedbury v. Duffy, 158 N. C. 432, 74 S. E. 355.

Parol Evidence. — Where an unqualified endorsement is supported by a valuable consideration and the maker seeks to enforce the endorser's liability the endorser may introduce parol evidence of an agreement entered into by the parties contemporaneously with the execution of the note that payment was to be made out of a particular fund, but he may not introduce parol evidence in contradiction of the written terms of the note that he was not to be held liable in any event. Kindler v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 204 N. C. 198, 167 S. E. 811.

Applied in Hyde v. Tatham, 204 N. C. 160, 167 S. E. 626.

§ 3048. Liability of indorser, where paper negotiable by delivery.—Where a person places his indorsement on an instrument negotiable by delivery he incurs all the liabilities of an indorser. (Rev., s. 2216; 1899, c. 733, s. 67.)

§ 3049. Order in which indorsers are liable.—As respects one another, indorsers are liable prima facie in the order in which they indorse; but evidence is admissible to show that as between or among themselves they have agreed otherwise. Joint payees or joint indorsees who indorse are deemed to indorse jointly and severally. (Rev., s. 2217; 1899, c. 733, s. 68.)

As to liability of subsequent holder when instrument is negotiated back to prior holder, see section 3031.

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 82, 87.

Contribution between Indorsers. — An indorser of a negotiable instrument is not subject to contribution among all others who may have indorsed the same, but only liable to those who are subsequent in date to his indorsement, to the full amount of their payment as an indemnitor. Lancaster v. Stanfield, 191 N. C. 340, 132 S. E. 21.

An indorser of a negotiable instrument who had paid a judgment obtained thereon in an action against him and the insolvent makers, cannot, nothing else appearing, recover the amount in his action therefor against a subsequent indorser. Lynch v. Loftin, 153 N. C. 270, 69 S. E. 143.

Parol Evidence between Immediate Parties.—Parol evidence is admissible to show that as between or among themselves parties to a negotiable instrument are liable otherwise than appears prima facie. Bank v. Burch, 145 N. C. 316, 59 S. E. 71; Sykes v. Everett, 167 N. C. 600, 83 S. E. 585; Gillam v. Walker, 189 N. C. 189, 126 S. E. 424; Dillard v. Mercantile Co., 190 N. C. 225, 129 S. E. 598; Lancaster v Stanfield, 191 N. C. 340, 343, 132 S. E. 21.

Parol Evidence against Remote Indorsee.—In an action upon a note by a remote indorsee, who purchased bona fide for full value and without notice, against the payee, who indorsed the note in blank, evidence of an agreement between the payee and his immediate indorsee that he should not be held liable on his indorsement is not admissible. Hill v. Shields, 81 N. C. 250.

Cited in Howell v. Robertson, 197 N. C. 572, 574, 150 S. E. 32.

§ 3050. Liability of agent or broker.—Where a broker or other agent negotiates an instrument without indorsement he incurs all the liabilities prescribed by section three thousand and forty-six, unless he discloses the name of his principal and the fact that he is acting only as agent. (Rev., s. 2218; 1899, c. 733, s. 69.)

Art. 7. Presentment for Payment

§ 3051. Effect of want of demand on principal debtor.—Presentment for payment is not necessary in order to charge the person primarily liable on the instrument; but if the instrument is by its terms payable at a special place, and he is able and willing to pay it there at maturity, such ability and willingness are equivalent to a tender of payment upon his part. But, except as herein otherwise provided, presentment for payment is necessary in order to charge the drawer and indorsers. (Rev., s. 2219; 1899, c. 733, s. 70.)

Cross References.—As to when presentment is not necessary in order to charge drawer and indorsers, see sections 3060, 3061; as to place of presentment, see sec. 3054; as to notice to those secondarily liable, see secs. 3071 et seq.

Presentment Necessary to Hold Drawer.—When a draft on a third person is given in settlement of an antecedent debt, it is the duty of the holder to present it, and a failure to do so will discharge the debt. Mauney & Son v. Coit, 80 N. C. 300.

Presentment Must Be Made in a Reasonable Time to Hold Drawer.—A drawer of a bill, having funds in the hands of the drawee has a right that the bill be presented for payment, and he cannot be charged unless the bill was presented in a reasonable time, although he knew at the time of drawing the bill that the drawee was insolvent. Cedar Falls Co. v. Wallace, 83 N. C. 225; Long v. Stephenson, 72 N. C. 569.

Effect of Guaranteeing Prior Indorsements. — A certificate of deposit forwarded to another bank by the drawer bank must be presented in a reasonable time, and if not presented the drawer is not liable, although it stamped the certificate "Prior indorsements guaranteed." Bank v. Trust Co., 159 N. C. 85, 74 S. E. 747.

Presentment of Checks.—A postdated check, like any other check need not be presented on the day of its date, but may be presented within a reasonable time thereafter, and the fact that the drawee had money on deposit to meet it on that date, but did not have it when the check was presented, is not equivalent to a "tender of payment." Philadelphia Life Ins. Co. v. Hayworth, 296 Fed. Rep. 339.

Sufficient Funds on Deposit May Amount to Tender.—The fact that the maker of a negotiable note payable at a certain bank kept a deposit sufficient to pay the note at the bank on the due date may amount to a tender of payment under this section, but such tender would discharge only persons secondarily liable on the note, and would not discharge the liability of the maker and surety on the note. Dry v. Reynolds, 205 N. C. 571, 172 S. E. 351.

Surety's Liability.—When one is a surety on a note, as to all holders he stands on the same basis as the principal, and presentment for payment is not necessary to make him liable thereon. Rouse v. Wooten, 140 N. C. 557, 53 S. E. 430. See also Dry v. Reynolds, 205 N. C. 571, 172 S. E. 351.

Guarantor's Liability.—One who is a guarantor on a note is not primarily liable, and presentment is necessary to hold him liable thereon. Rouse v. Wooten, 140 N. C. 557, 53 S. E. 430.

When Failure to Make Demand Available as Defense — Proof.—If a note be payable at a particular time and place, a demand at the time and place need not be averred or proven in an action by the holder against the maker. A failure to make such demand can only be used in defense if the money was ready at the time and place. Nichols v. Pool, 47 N. C. 23.

Cited in Perry v. Taylor, 148 N. C. 362, 62 S. E. 423.

§ 3052. Presentment, where the instrument is not payable on demand.—Where the instrument is not payable on demand, presentment must be made on the day it falls due. Where it is payable on demand, presentment must be made within a reasonable time after its issue, except that in the case of a bill of exchange presentment for payment will be sufficient if made within a reasonable time after the last negotiation thereof. (Rev., s. 2220; 1899, c. 733, s. 71.)

In General.—Where a negotiable paper is assigned, the transaction is to be regulated according to the laws of merchants, by which the assignee is bound to apply for payment within a reasonable time. Plummer v. Christmas, 1 N. C. 145, 146.

Presentment of Checks Must Be within Reasonable Time.—Section 192 of the Negotiable Instruments Act (sec. 3167, this Code) says that "a check is a bill of exchange drawn on a bank payable on demand". Instruments payable on demand may be presented within a reasonable time after their issue. In this respect there is no difference between a postdated check and any other. In either case it should be presented within a reasonable time after its issue, but the only effect of a failure to present it within such time is to discharge the drawer from liability to the extent of the loss caused by the delay. Philadelphia Life Ins. Co. v. Hayworth, 296 Fed. 339, 342.

§ 3053. What constitutes a sufficient presentment.—Presentment for payment to be sufficient must be made (1) by the holder or by some person authorized to receive payment on his behalf; (2) at a reasonable hour on a business day; (3) at a proper place as herein defined; (4) to the person primarily liable on the instrument, or, if he is absent or inaccessible, to any person found at the place where the presentment is made. (Rev., s. 2221; 1899, c. 733, s. 72.)

In General.—The presentment of a bill of exchange or draft must be made to the drawee or acceptor, or to an authorized agent. A personal demand is not always necessary, and it is sufficient to make the demand at the residence or usual places of business of the drawee, where the presentment is for payment. It is the duty of the bank collector to be careful, not only to present the draft at the usual place of business, but, if the plaintiff was not in, to assure himself that the person to whom he presented the draft for acceptance was the authorized agent of the plaintiff. Burrus v. Life Ins. Co., 124 N. C. 9, 12, 32 S. E. 323.

§ 3054. Place of presentment.—Presentment for payment is made at the proper place (1) where a place of payment is specified in the instrument and it is there presented; (2) where no place of payment is specified, but the address of the person to make the payment is given in the instrument, and it is there presented; (3) where no place of payment is specified and no address is given and the instrument is presented at the usual place of business or residence of the person to make payment; (4) in any other case if presented to the person to make payment wherever he can be found, or if presented at his last known place of business or residence. (Rev., s. 2222; 1899, c. 733, s. 73.)

Place of Payment Specified.—Whenever a bill of exchange or note is made payable at a particular place, a demand at that place is sufficient, and a personal one is not necessary whether the maker lives at the same place or a different one. Sullivan v. Mitchell, 4 N. C. 93. But the maker is not bound to pay it until it is presented at the place where it is expressed to be payable. Bank v. Bank, 35 N. C. 75.

Presentment at the place of data is sufficient, no other place of presentment appearing. Wittkowski v. Smith, 84 N. C. 671.

§ 3055. Instrument must be exhibited.—The instrument must be exhibited to the person from whom payment is demanded, and, when it is paid, must be delivered up to the party paying it. (Rev., s. 2223; 1899, c. 733, s. 74.)

Lost or Destroyed Note. — The provisions of this section that upon payment of a note it must be delivered up to the party paying it, does not apply where the note has been lost or destroyed, and, under the facts of this case, there was no error in not requiring a bond for the protection of the maker where there was no request made therefor. Wooten v. Bell, 196 N. C. 654, 146 S. E. 705.

§ 3056. Presentment where instrument payable at bank.—Where the instrument is payable at a bank presentment for payment must be made during banking hours, unless the person to make payment has no funds there to meet it at any time during the day, in which case presentment at any hour before the bank is closed on that day is sufficient. (Rev., s. 2224; 1899, c. 733, s. 75.)

§ 3057. Presentment where principal debtor is dead.—Where the person primarily liable on the instrument is dead, and no place of payment is specified, presentment for payment must be made to his personal representative, if such there be, and if with the exercise of reasonable diligence he can be found. (Rev., s. 2225; 1899, c. 733, s. 76.)

§ 3058. Presentment to persons liable as partners.—Where the persons primarily liable on the instrument are liable as partners and no place of payment is specified, presentment for payment may be made to any one of them, even though there has been a dissolution of the firm. (Rev., s. 2226; 1899, c. 733, s. 77.)

In General.—Where the protest of a notary public stated that he presented a bill, which purported to be drawn on a firm, to A, one of the members thereof, it was held to be evidence that A was a member of that firm, and that the presentment was properly made. Elliott v. White, 51 N. C. 98.

§ 3059. Presentment to joint debtors.—Where there are several persons not parties primarily liable on the instrument and no place of payment is specified, presentment must be made to them all. (Rev., s. 2227; 1899, c. 733, s. 78.)

§ 3060. When presentment not required to charge the drawer.—Presentment for payment is not required in order to charge the drawer where he has no right to expect or require that the drawee or acceptor will pay the instrument. (Rev., s. 2228; 1899, c. 733, s. 79.)

In General.—The drawers, having funds in the hands of the drawee, had the right to expect their bill to be honored by them, and they were entitled to presentment of their bill in a reasonable time and strict notice if dishonored on the part of the plaintiff, although the defendants at the time they drew the bill may have believed the drawees were insolvent and had been so notified by them and requested not to draw on them. Cedar Falls Co. v. Wallace Bros., 83 N. C. 225, 228.

§ 3061. When presentment not required to charge the indorser.—Presentment for payment is not required in order to charge an indorser where the instrument was made or accepted for his accommodation, and he has no reason to expect that the instrument will be paid if presented. (Rev., s. 2229; 1899, c. 733, s. 80.)

This section is not applicable where holder testifies endorser was not accommodation endorser. Hyde v. Tatham, 204 N. C. 160, 167 S. E. 626.

Lack of Funds with Which to Pay.—Where the treasurer of a corporation indorses the corporate note, payable at a certain bank, and at its maturity the corporation has no funds at the bank, it is not necessary that the note should have been presented to the bank for payment. Meyers Co. v. Battle, 170 N. C. 168, 86 S. E. 1034.

Burden of Proof on Holder.—If it is in fact an accommodation paper, then, notwithstanding the form of the paper, the drawer would be primarily liable and not entitled to notice, but the burden to show this is on the holder, and there being no evidence to that fact, the form of the paper governs and the drawer is entitled to notice. National Bank v. Bradley, 117 N. C. 526, 530, 23 S. E. 455.

§ 3062. When delay in presentment is excused.—Delay in making presentment for payment is excused when the delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder and not imputable to his default, misconduct or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate presentment must be made with reasonable diligence. (Rev., s. 2230; 1899, c. 733, s. 81.)

Delay Caused by One Liable.—Where an agent has incurred a personal liability on a negotiable instrument given in behalf of his principal, he may not avoid payment on the ground of delay in presenting it for payment, when the delay was at his own request and by his own conduct. Caldwell Co. v. George, 176 N. C. 602, 97 S. E. 507.

§ 3063. When presentment may be dispensed with.—Presentment for payment is dispensed with (1) where after the exercise of reasonable diligence presentment as required by this chapter cannot be made; (2) where the drawee is a fictitious person; (3) by waiver of presentment, express or implied. (Rev., s. 2231; 1899, c. 733, s. 82.)

Where Presentment Cannot Be Made.—Where the maker is a seaman, without any domicil in the State, and goes on a voyage about the time the note falls due, no demand on him is necessary in order to charge the indorser. Moore v. Coffield, 12 N. C. 247.

Implied Waiver of Presentments.—Where a check was given for county bonds and the bonds could not be issued at once, and the drawer cooperated with the county to get the bond issue, there is a sufficient implied waiver of immediate presentment, and a presentment within a reasonable time after the bond issue was sufficient to bind the drawer. Caldwell County v. George, 176 N. C. 602, 97 S. E. 507.

§ 3064. When instrument dishonored by nonpayment.—The instrument is dishonored by nonpayment when (1) it is duly presented for payment and payment is refused or cannot be obtained; or (2) presentment is excused and the instrument is overdue and unpaid. (Rev., s. 2232; 1899, c. 733, s. 83.)

§ 3065. Liability of persons secondarily liable when instrument dishonored. — Subject to the provisions of this chapter, when the instrument is dishonored by nonpayment, an immediate right of recourse to all parties secondarily liable thereon accrues to the holder. (Rev., s. 2233; 1899, c. 733, s. 84.)

§ 3066. Time of maturity.—Every negotiable instrument is payable at the time fixed therein without grace, except as allowed by the succeeding section. When the day of maturity falls upon Sunday or a holiday the instrument is payable on the next succeeding business day. (Rev., s. 2234; 1899, c. 733, s. 85; 1907, c. 897; 1909, c. 800, s. 1.)

§ 3067. When days of grace allowed.—All bills of exchange payable within the state, at sight, in which there is an express stipulation to that effect and not otherwise, shall be entitled to days of grace as the same are allowed by the custom of merchants on foreign bills of exchange payable at the expiration of a certain period after date or sight, but no days of grace shall be allowed on any bill of exchange, promissory note, or draft payable on demand. (Rev., s. 2235; Code, s. 43; 1905, c. 327; 1907, c. 861.)

§ 3068. How time is computed.—Where the instrument is payable at a fixed period after date, after sight, or after the happening of a specified event, the time of payment is determined by excluding the day from which the time is to begin to run and by including the date of payment. (Rev., s. 2236; 1899, c. 733, s. 86.)

§ 3069. Rule where instrument is payable at bank.—Where the instrument is made payable at a bank it is equivalent to an order to the bank to pay the same for the account of the principal debtor thereon. (Rev., s. 2237; 1899, c. 733, s. 87.)

Where a note is made payable at a certain bank it amounts to an order to the bank to pay same out of the maker's deposit upon presentment when due. Dry v. Reynolds, 205 N. C. 571, 172 S. E. 351.

Liability Where Bank Fails to Pay out of Deposits.—Where the bank of deposit of the maker of a note is the one specified as the place of its payment, and also the one to which the note is sent at maturity for collection, the maker's written order on the note to the bank to pay it from his deposits is sufficient; and where the bank accepts this order and retains the note without entry on its books for twelve days, then its doors are closed and a receiver appointed, the payee of the note is held responsible for the acts of its agency for collection, and a plea of payment is good. Peaslee-Gaulbert Co. v. Dixon, 172 N. C. 411, 90 S. E. 421.

Cited in Standard Trust Co. v. Bank, 166 N. C. 112, 81 S. E. 1074.

§ 3070. What constitutes payment in due course.—Payment is made in due course when it is made at or after the maturity of the instrument to the holder thereof in good faith and without notice that his title is defective. (Rev., s. 2238; 1899, c. 733, s. 88.)

Art. 8. Notice of Dishonor

§ 3071. To whom notice of dishonor must be given.—Except as herein otherwise provided, when a negotiable instrument has been dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment, notice of dishonor must be given to the drawer and to each indorser, and any drawer or indorser to whom such notice is not given is discharged. (Rev., s. 2239; 1899, c. 733, s. 89.)

As to notice to principal, see section 3051; as to notice in general, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 472-478.

In General.—The draft having been accepted, the drawee became primarily liable, and in the event of dishonor notice must be given to all those who are secondarily liable as drawer and indorsers. Denny v. Palmer, 27 N. C. 610; Tiedman Com. Paper, sec. 336; 3 Randolph Com. Paper, sec. 1238; 2 Daniel Neg. Inst., sec. 995; Brown v. Teague, 52 N. C. 573; National Bank v. Bradley, 117 N. C. 526, 530, 23 S. E. 455.

Following the statute it was held in Perry v. Taylor, 148 N. C. 362, that failure to give notice of dishonor discharged the indorser from further liability. Barber v. Absher, 175 N. C. 602, 604, 96 S. E. 43.

Notice to Surety.—A surety on a note is not discharged from liability by reason of the fact that he was not given notice of its dishonor. Rose v. Wooten, 140 N. C. 557, 53 S. E. 430.

Notice to Forwarding Bank.—When a bank forwards a check to another bank to be collected, and the drawee bank is negligent in notifying the forwarding bank of nonpayment, the right of the forwarding bank to recover will be determined by whether or not it would have prevented loss by notice, and it can recover such loss only as was occasioned by the delay. Bank v. Trust Co., 177 N. C. 254, 98 S. E. 595.

Waiver of Notice.—Notice of dishonor may be waived by an indorser of a negotiable paper before or after maturity thereof by express words or by necessary implication, and when so waived, notice of dishonor need not be given. National Bank v. Johnson, 159 N. C. 526, 86 S. E. 360.

Burden on Holder to Show Primary Liability.—The burden is on the holder of a note, seeking to hold an indorser, to whom notice of dishonor has not been given, liable thereon upon the contention that notice was not required, to prove that the note was given for his accommodation. Parol evidence is not admissible to show primary liability to sustain the contention that notice of dishonor is dispensed with. Busbee v. Creech, 192 N. C. 499, 135 S. E. 326.

Effect of Endorser's Consent to Extension of Time.—It cannot be determined as a matter of law that an endorser is not entitled to notice of dishonor as provided in this section, by reason of his consent to an extension of time of payment granted the principal. Davis v. Royall, 204 N. C. 147, 167 S. E. 559.

§ 3072. By whom notice given.—The notice may be given by or on behalf of the holder or by or on behalf of any party to the instrument who might be compelled to pay to the holder, and who upon taking it up would have a right to reimbursement from the party to whom notice is given. (Rev., s. 2240; 1899, c. 733, s. 90.)

In General.—The notice required by law to be given to an indorser is good if it be sufficient to put the indorser on inquiry; no particular form is required and any person through whose hands a bill or note has passed may give notice to the drawer or his prior indorser of the dishonor of the bill, although the bill or note may not have been taken up by him at that time. Bank v. Seawell, 9 N. C. 560.

Verbal Notice.—Where a bank holding a note for collection gave verbal notice of dishonor to one of the indorsers, and all of the indorsers discussed the matter among themselves and determined to refuse payment, the notice was sufficient, as the indorsers notified each other, and this notice inured to the benefit of the holders. Piedmont Carolina Ry. Co. v. Shaw, 223 Fed. 973, 974.

Verbal notice is good if sufficient to put endorsers upon inquiry. Bank v. Seawell, 9 N. C. 560.

§ 3073. Notice given by agent.—Notice of dishonor may be given by an agent either in his own name or in the name of any party entitled to give notice, whether that party be his principal or not. (Rev., s. 2241; 1899, c. 733, s. 91.)

§ 3074. Effect of notice given on behalf of holder.—Where notice is given by or on behalf of the holder, it inures to the benefit of all subsequent holders and all prior parties who have a right of recourse against the party to whom it is given. (Rev., s. 2242; 1899, c. 733, s. 92.)

§ 3075. Effect, where notice is given by party entitled thereto.—Where notice is given by or on behalf of a party entitled to give notice it inures to the benefit of the holder and all parties subsequent to the party by whom notice is given. (Rev., s. 2243; 1899, c. 733, s. 93.)

§ 3076. When agent may give notice.— Where the instrument has been dishonored in the hands of an agent he may either himself give notice to the parties liable thereon or he may give notice to his principal. If he give notice to his principal he must do so within the same time as if he were the holder, and the principal upon the receipt of such notice has himself the same time for giving notice as if the agent had been an independent holder. (Rev., s. 2244; 1899, c. 733, s. 94.)

§ 3077. When notice sufficient.—A written notice need not be signed and an insufficient written notice may be supplemented and validated by verbal communication. A misdescription of the instrument does not vitiate it unless the party to whom the notice is given is in fact misled thereby. (Rev., s. 2245; 1899, c. 733, s. 95.)

Prior Law.—There was no necessity for signing under the prior law. Bank v. Seawell, 9 N. C. 560.

§ 3078. Form of notice.—The notice may be in writing or merely oral, and may be given in any terms which sufficiently identify the instrument and indicate that it has been dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment. It may in all cases be given by delivering it personally or through the mails. (Rev., s. 2246; 1899, c. 733, s. 96.)

§ 3079. To whom notice may be given.—Notice of dishonor may be given either to the party himself or to his agent in that behalf. (Rev., s. 2247; 1899, c. 733, s. 97.)

§ 3080. Notice when party is dead.— When any party is dead and his death is known to the party giving notice, the notice must be given to a personal representative if there be one, and if with reasonable diligence he can be found. If there is no personal representative, notice may be sent to the last residence or last place of business of the deceased. (Rev., s. 2248; 1899, c. 733, s. 98.)

§ 3081. Notice to partners.—When the parties to be notified are partners, notice to any one partner is notice to the firm, even though there has been a dissolution. (Rev., s. 2249; 1899, c. 733, s. 99.)

§ 3082. Notice to persons jointly liable.—Notice to joint parties who are not partners must be given to each of them unless one of them has authority to receive such notice for the others. (Rev., s. 2250; 1899, c. 733, s. 100.)

§ 3083. Notice to bankrupt.—Where a party has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent or has made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, notice may be given either to the party himself or to his trustee or assignee. (Rev., s. 2251; 1899, c. 733, s. 101.)

§ 3084. Time within which notice must be given.—Notice may be given as soon as the instrument is dishonored, and, unless delay is excused as hereinafter provided, must be given within the times fixed by this chapter. (Rev., s. 2252; 1899, c. 733, s. 102.)

The burden is on the holder of a negotiable note to show that notice of nonpayment was given the endorsers, and in the absence of evidence of such notice to an endorser, or to his personal representative after his death, the holder is not entitled to recover on the endorsement. Williams v. Fowler Automobile Co., 207 N. C. 309, 176 S. E. 567.

§ 3085. Notice where parties reside in the same place.—When the person giving and the person to receive notice reside in the same place notice must be given within the following times: (1) If given at the place of business of the person to receive notice it must be given before the close of business hours on the day following; (2) if given at his residence it must be given before the usual hours of rest on the day following; (3) if sent by mail it must be deposited in the post office in time to reach him in the usual course on the day following. (Rev., s. 2253; 1899, c. 733, s. 103.)

§ 3086. Notice where parties reside in different places.—Where the person giving and the person to receive notice reside in different places the notice must be given within the following times: (1) If sent by mail it must be deposited in the post office in time to go by mail the day following the day of dishonor, or if there be no mail at a convenient hour on that day, by the next mail thereafter; (2) if given otherwise than through the post office then within the time that notice would have been received in due course of mail if it had been deposited in the post office within the time specified in the last subdivision. (Rev., s. 2254; 1899, c. 733, s. 104.)

In General.—As to what was a reasonable notice under varying circumstances, it has now been long settled that a reasonable notice is one which is sent by the first post after the day of dishonor, and when there is a daily mail, this necessarily means the next day, if the next day's mail does not leave before business hours. National Bank v. Bradley, 117 N. C. 526, 530, 23 S. E. 455; Hubbard v. Troy, 24 N. C. 134; Denny v. Palmer, 27 N. C. 610.

Sufficient Proof of Notice.—It was unanimously held by the Supreme Court of the United States, in Lindenberger v. Beal, 6 Wheat. 104, that the evidence of the latter containing notice, put into the post office, directed to the defendant at his place of residence, was sufficient proof of the notice to be left to the jury, and that it was unnecessary to give notice to the defendant to produce the letter before parol evidence could be admitted. Faribault v. Ely, 13 N. C. 67, 72.

§ 3087. When sender deemed to have given due notice.—Where notice of dishonor is duly addressed and deposited in the post office the sender is deemed to have given due notice, notwithstanding any miscarriage in the mails. (Rev., s. 2255; 1899, c. 733, s. 105.)

§ 3088. What constitutes deposit in postoffice.—Notice is deemed to have been deposited in the post office when deposited in any branch post office or in any letter-box under the control of the postoffice department. (Rev., s. 2256; 1899, c. 733, s. 106.)

§ 3089. Time of notice to antecedent parties.—Where a party receives notice of dishonor he has, after the receipt of such notice, the same time for giving notice to antecedent parties that the holder has after the dishonor. (Rev., s. 2257; 1899, c. 733, s. 107.)

§ 3090. Where notice must be sent.—Where a party has added an address to his signature, notice of dishonor must be sent to that address; but if he has not given such address, then the notice must be sent as follows: (1) Either to the postoffice nearest to his place of residence or to the postoffice where he is accustomed to receive his letters; or (2) if he lives in one place and has his place of business in another, notice may be sent to either place; or (3) if he be sojourning in another place notice may be sent to the place where he is sojourning. But where the notice is actually received by the party within the time specified in this chapter it will be sufficient, though not sent in accordance with requirements of this section. (Rev., s. 2258; 1899, c. 733, s. 108.)

Diligent Attempt to Notify Necessary.—A holder of a dishonored bill must give notice to all indorsers, or make a diligent attempt to give this notice, if he does not know where the indorser resides. Runyon v. Montfort, 44 N. C. 371.

Nearest Post Office.—The rule that notice to a distant indorser should be sent to the post office nearest to his residence was founded on the presumption that the information would most speedily be given in such way; but the rule is subject to modification, and the true inquiry is, was the notice directed to that post office which was most likely to impart to the indorser the earliest intelligence, though it may not be the nearest; if it was, it is sufficient. Bank v. Lane, 10 N. C. 453.

Notice sent to the place where the bill was drawn is not sufficient. Denny v. Palmer, 27 N. C. 610.

§ 3091. Waiver of notice.—Notice of dishonor may be waived either before the time of giving notice has arrived or after the omission to give due notice, and the waiver may be express or implied. (Rev., s. 2259; 1899, c. 733, s. 109.)

As to waiver in general, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 487-480.

Mistake.—When one thinking there has been a present ment for payment makes promises that would amount to a waiver, had there been a presentment, he is not liable on the grounds of waiver of notice if there had been no presentment for payment. Lilly v. Petteway, 73 N. C. 358.

Extension of Time.—The authorities seem to hold that where the indorser consents in advance of maturity to extensions of the time of payment of the note, he thereby waives his right to receive notice of dishonor and presentment for payment. Worley v. Johnson, 33 L. R. A. 641, notes. National Bank v. Johnston, 169 N. C. 526, 529, 86 S. E. 360.

Promise to Pay after Failure to Be Notified.—A promise to pay generally, or a promise to pay a part, or a part payment made, with a full knowledge that he had been fully released from liability on the bill by the neglect of the holder to give notice, will operate as a waiver and bind the party who makes it for the payment of the whole bill. Dixon v. Elliot, 5 Car. & P., 437; Margetson v. Atkins, 3 Car. & P., 388; Harvey v. Thorpe, 23 Miss., 538; Shaw Bros. v. McNeill, 95 N. C. 535, 538.

Where, upon the dishonor of a bill of exchange or promissory note, the indorsee has neglected to give the proper notice, the drawer or indorser of the bill or indorser of the note will still be liable, if, after a knowledge of all the facts which in law would have discharged him, he promises to pay the bill or note. Moore v. Tucker, 25 N. C. 347.

§ 3092. Who affected by waiver.—Where the waiver is embodied in the instrument itself it is binding upon all parties, but where it is written above the signature of an indorser it binds him only. (Rev., s. 2260; 1899, c. 733, s. 110.)

In General. — Where upon the face of a negotiable note there is an agreement to waive notice of dishonor or an extension of time, etc., one placing his name on the back thereof is deemed to be an indorser without indication of other liability therein, and is bound by the agreement expressed on the face of the instrument waiving notice, etc. Gillam v. Walker, 189 N. C. 189, 126 S. E. 424.

Applied in Fidelity Bank v. Hessee, 207 N. C, 71, 175 S. E. 826.

Cited in National Bank v. Johnston, 169 N. C. 526, 86 S. E. 360.

§ 3093. Waiver of protest.—A waiver of protest, whether in the case of a foreign bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument, is deemed to be a waiver not only of a formal protest, but also of a presentment and notice of dishonor. (Rev., s. 2261; 1899, c. 733, s. 111.)

Waiver Binding Partnership.—Where a partner, after the dissolution of the firm, gives a draft in payment of a partnership debt, he cannot waive protest so as to bind his former copartner, especially when the latter has been a dormant member. Mauney & Son v. Coit, 80 N. C. 300.

Inland Bills.—Although protest is not necessary on an inland bill, yet its waiver in such a case is construed to signify as much as when applied to foreign bills. Shaw Bros. v. McNeill, 95 N. C. 535.

Foreign Bills.—A protest is necessary only in case of foreign bills. A waiver of protest on a foreign bill is also a waiver of presentment and notice. Shaw Bros. v. McNeill, 90 N. C. 535.

Cited in National Bank v. Johnston, 169 N. C. 526, 86 S. E. 360.

§ 3094. When notice is dispensed with.—Notice of dishonor is dispensed with when, after the exercise of reasonable diligence, it cannot be given to or does not reach the parties sought to be charged. (Rev., s. 2262; 1899, c. 733, s. 112.)

§ 3095. Delay in giving notice.—Delay in giving notice of dishonor is excused when the delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder and not imputable to his default, misconduct or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate, notice must be given with reasonable diligence. (Rev., s. 2263; 1899, c. 733, s. 113.)

§ 3096. When notice need not be given to drawer.—Notice of dishonor is not required to be given to the drawer in either of the following cases: (1) Where the drawer and the drawee are the same person; (2) Where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract; (3) where the drawer is the person to whom the instrument is presented for payment; (4) where the drawer has no right to expect or require that the drawee or acceptor will honor the instrument; (5) where the drawer has countermanded payment. (Rev., s. 2264; 1899, c. 733, s. 114.)

As to notice, see notes to section 3060.

§ 3097. When notice need not be given to indorser.—Notice of dishonor is not required to be given to an indorser in either of the following cases; (1) Where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract, and the indorser was aware of the fact at the time he indorsed the instrument; (2) where the indorser is the person to whom the instrument is presented for payment; (3) where the instrument was made or accepted for his accommodation. (Rev., s. 2265; 1899, c. 733, s. 115.)

In General.—Although, at the time of the indorsement of a note, the indorsers had reason to believe, and did believe, that the note would not be paid by the maker, this circumstance does not dispense with the necessity of a due notice. Denny v. Palmer, 27 N. C. 610.

Cited in Busbee v. Creech, 192 N. C. 499, 135 S. E. 326.

§ 3098. Notice of nonpayment where acceptance refused.—Where due notice of dishonor by nonacceptance has been given, notice of a subsequent dishonor by nonpayment is not necessary unless in the meantime the instrument has been accepted. (Rev., s. 2266; 1899, c. 733, s. 116.)

§ 3099. Effect of omission to give notice of nonacceptance.—An omission to give notice of dishonor by nonacceptance does not prejudice the rights of a holder in due course subsequent to the omission. (Rev., s. 2267; 1899, c. 733, s. 117.)

§ 3100. When protest need not be made; when it must be made.—Where any negotiable instrument has been dishonored it may be protested for nonacceptance or nonpayment as the case may be, but protest is not required except in the case of foreign bills of exchange. (Rev., s. 2268; 1899, c. 733, s. 118.)

In General.—Protest is not necessary to fix the drawee and indorsers of inland bills of exchange with liability, although it is necessary in the case of foreign bills. Shaw Bros. v. McNeill, 95 N. C. 535.

Art. 9. Discharge

§ 3101. How instrument discharged.—A negotiable instrument is discharged (1) by payment in due course by or on behalf of the principal debtor; (2) by payment in due course by the party accommodated, where the instrument is made or accepted for accommodation; (3) by the intentional cancellation thereof by the holder; (4) by any other act which will discharge a simple contract for the payment of money; (5) when the principal debtor becomes the holder of the instrument at or after maturity in his own right. (Rev., s. 2269; 1899, c. 733, s. 119.)

In an action on a note the maker and sureties may rely on the discharge of the note by the payee's acceptance of the note of another party in the sum due, and the payee's delivery to them of the papers on which defendants were bound, since this is an intentional cancellation by the payee, under this section, which is not required to be in writing. Hood System Industrial Bank v. Dixie Oil Co., 205 N. C. 778, 172 S. E. 360.

An instruction that a negotiable instrument may be discharged by an act which would discharge a simple contract for the payment of money is not error under this section. Id.

§ 3102. Discharge of person secondarily liable.—A person secondarily liable on the instrument is discharged (1) by any act which discharges the instrument; (2) by the intentional cancellation of his signature by the holder; (3) by the discharge of a prior party; (4) by a valid tender of payment made by a prior party; (5) by a release of the principal debtor, unless the holder's right of recourse against the party secondarily liable is expressly reserved; (6) by any agreement binding upon the holder to extend the time of payment or to postpone the holder's right to enforce the instrument, unless made with the assent of the party secondarily liable or unless the right of recourse against such party is expressly reserved. (Rev., s. 2270; 1899, c. 733, s. 120.)

Release of Maker Discharges Indorser.—Where the holder of a negotiable instrument releases the maker from liability thereon, he thereby discharges from liability his indorser from whom he acquired the instrument. Lumber Co. v. Buchanan, 192 N. C. 771, 136 S. E. 129.

A tender of payment under § 3051 would discharge only persons secondarily liable on the note, as provided by this section, and would not discharge the liability of the maker and surety on the note. Dry v. Reynolds, 205 N. C. 571, 172 S. E. 351.

Extension of Payment.—In an action upon a negotiable instrument the defendants on its face being joint makers, the mere fact that the plaintiff had told one of the defendants, without the knowledge of the other, "that he would take up and carry the note until fall," is not an extension of payment for a "fixed and definite" period, which would operate as a release to such other from liability. Roberson v. Spain, 173 N. C. 23, 91 S. E. 361.

Where the face of a note contains an agreement that the parties should remain bound notwithstanding any extension of time granted the maker, upon payment of interest by him, the endorsers remain liable although ignorant of such extensions and payments of interest by the maker, they being bound by their agreement in the note and the extension being supported by the necessary elements of certainty, mutuality and consideration. Fidelity Bank v. Hessee, 207 N. C. 71, 175 S. E. 826.

Applied in Corporation Commission v. Wilkinson, 201 N. C. 344, 349, 160 S. E. 292.

Cited in National Bank v. Johnston, 169 N. C. 526, 86 S. E. 360.

§ 3103. Right of party paying instrument.—When the instrument is paid by a party secondarily liable thereon it is not discharged; but the party so paying it is remitted to his former rights as regards all prior parties, and he may strike out his own and all subsequent indorsements, and again negotiate the instrument, except (1) where it is payable to the order of the third person and has been paid by the drawer; and (2) where it was made or accepted for accommodation and has been paid by the party accommodated. (Rev., s. 2271; 1899, c. 733, s. 121.)

Right to Put into Circulation.—When a bill of exchange made payable to a third person is protested and taken up by the drawer, the latter cannot again put it in circulation. Price v. Sharp, 24 N. C. 417.

Liability of Principal.—An indorser who pays off and discharges the note of his principal can only recover from the latter the amount actually paid by him. Pace v. Robertson, 65 N. C. 550.

Cited in Roberson v. Spain, 173 N. C. 23, 91 S. E. 361.

§ 3104. Renunciation by holder.—The holder may expressly renounce his rights against any party to the instrument before, at or after its maturity. An absolute and unconditional renunciation of his rights against the principal debtor made at or after the maturity of the instrument discharges the instrument. But a renunciation does not affect the rights of a holder in due course without notice. A renunciation must be in writing, unless the instrument is delivered up to the person primarily liable thereon. (Rev., s. 2272; 1899, c. 733, s. 122.)

In General.—The right of an obligor to defend an action against himself on a negotiable note, under the provisions of this section may be done by virtue thereof only as therein expressed when the release is in writing, and may not be shown when resting only by parol. Manly v. Beam, 190 N. C. 659, 130 S. E. 633.

A parol agreement between an official of a bank that the bank would release the endorsers or sureties on a note upon the maker confessing judgment thereon is not enforceable, a verbal renunciation being ineffectual under the provisions of this section. Page Trust Co. v. Lewis, 200 N. C. 286, 287, 156 S. E. 504.

No writing is necessary if "the instrument is delivered to the person primarily liable thereon." Hood System Industrial Bank v. Dixie Oil Co., 205 N. C. 778, 779, 172 S. E. 360.

§ 3105. Unintentional cancellation; burden of proof. — A cancellation made unintentionally or under a mistake or without the authority of the holder is inoperative, but where an instrument or any signature thereon appears to have been canceled the burden of proof lies on the party who alleges that the cancellation was made unintentionally or under a mistake or without authority. (Rev., s. 2273; 1899, c. 733, s. 123.)

§ 3106. Effect of alteration of instrument. — Where a negotiable instrument is materially altered without the assent of all parties liable thereon, it is avoided except as against a party who has himself made, authorized or assented to the alteration, and subsequent indorsers. But when an instrument has been materially altered and is in the hands of a holder in due course not a party to the alteration he may enforce payment thereof according to its original tenor. (Rev., s. 2274; 1899, c. 733, s. 124.)

See annotations to § 3107.

In General.—It is familiar learning that if the payee of a bond alters it in any material part, without the consent of the obligor, the bond is avoided and may be defeated on the plea of non est factum. Mathis v. Mathis, 20 N. C. 55; Dunn v. Clements, 52 N. C. 58; Darwin v. Rippey, 63 N. C. 319; Davis v. Coleman, 29 N. C. 424.

Liability on Raised Checks. — Where the maker of a check, whether a bank or other corporation, or an individual, fills out the blank spaces by writing in ink and delivers it to the payee as a complete instrument, there is no question of implied agency of the payee to do anything further regarding the negotiation of the instrument as the agent for the maker, and where the payee has fraudulently raised the amount of the check, indorses it to another, and receives the money thereon, the maker is not liable to the indorsee except in an action for the original or true amount of the check. Broad St. Bank v. Nat. Bank, 183 N. C. 463, 112 S. E. 11.

§ 3107. What constitutes a material alteration. —Any alteration which changes (1) the date; (2) the sum payable either for principal or interest; (3) the time or place of payment; (4) the number or the relation of the parties; (5) the medium or currency in which payment is to be made; or which adds a place of payment where no place of payment is specified, or any other change or addition which alters the effect of the instrument in any respect, is a material alteration. (Rev., s. 2275; 1899, c. 733, s. 125.)

In General. — Adding the words "in specie" after the word "dollars" in a note is a material alteration. Darwin v. Rippey, 63 N. C. 319.

The cutting of the name of one of the makers of a promissory note and substituting that of another was a material alteration of the note, and vitiated it. Davis v. Coleman, 29 N. C. 424, 427.

Striking Out Endorser's Name and Substituting Another Is Material.—Where the payee of a negotiable instrument acquires it with certain endorsers thereon and subsequently strikes out the name of one endorser and another signs as endorser in lieu of the endorser whose name was stricken out, the change is a material one under this section, and will release the endorsers who had not consented to the substitution, but will not release those endorsers whose consent had been procured, as provided in § 3106. Efird v. Little, 205 N. C. 583, 172 S. E. 198.

Immaterial Alterations.—The addition that does not vary the terms of the contract, and adds nothing more than is already implied by law is not sufficient to be construed as a material alteration. Houston v. Potts, 64 N. C. 33.

Art. 10. Bills of Exchange

§ 3108. Bill of exchange defined.—A bill of exchange is an unconditional order in writing, addressed by one person to another, signed by the person giving it, requiring the person to whom it is addressed to pay on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time a sum certain in money to order or to bearer. (Rev., s. 2276; 1899, c. 733, s. 126.)

See note under section 220(aa).

In General.—Where a draft drawn to the maker's order and, having been indorsed by another, is accepted at a bank, and then purchased in due course before maturity by an innocent purchaser for value, the bank may not resist payment upon the ground that the transaction was ultra vires, and not within the authority of its charter, authorizing it to accept bills, notes, commercial paper, etc., for it comes within the statutory definition of an inland bill of exchange, and may be treated as a bill or note, at the option of the holder. Sherrill v. American Trust Co., 176 N. C. 591, 97 S. E. 471.

Cited in Johnson v. Lassiter, 155 N. C. 47, 71 S. E. 23; Trust Co. v. Bank, 166 N. C. 112, 81 S. E. 1074; Morris v. Cleve, 197 N. C. 253, 262, 148 S. E. 253.

§ 3109. Bill not an assignment of funds in hands of drawee.—A bill of itself does not operate as an assignment of the funds in the hands of the drawee available for the payment thereof, and the drawee is not liable on the bill unless and until he accepts the same. (Rev., s. 2277; 1899, c. 733, s. 127.)

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 131, as to what orders constitute an assignment.

Cited in Trust Co. v. Bank, 166 N. C. 112, 81 S. E. 1074.

§ 3110. Bill addressed to more than one drawee.—A bill may be addressed to two or more drawees jointly, whether they are partners or not, but not to two or more drawees in the alternative or in succession. (Rev., s. 2278; 1899, c. 733, s. 128.

§ 3111. Inland and foreign bills of exchange.— An inland bill of exchange is a bill which is or on its face purports to be both drawn and payable within this state. Any other bill is a foreign bill. Unless the contrary appears on the face of the bill the holder may treat it as an inland bill. (Rev., s. 2279; 1899, c. 733, s. 129.)

§ 3112. When bill may be treated as promissory note.—Where in a bill drawer and drawee are the same person, or where the drawee is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract, the holder may treat the instrument, at his option, either as a bill of exchange or a promissory note. (Rev., s. 2280; 1899, c. 733, s. 130.)

In General.—A paper coming directly within the definition of an inland bill of exchange can be treated as a bill or note at the option of the holder, the drawer and drawee being the same person. Sherrill v. American Trust Co., 176 N. C. 591, 592, 97 S. E. 471.

§ 3113. Referee in case of need.—The drawer of a bill and any indorser may insert thereon the name of a person to whom the holder may resort in case of need: that is to say, in case the bill is dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment. Such person is called the referee in case of need. It is in the option of the holder to resort to the referee in case of need or not, as he may see fit. (Rev., s. 2281; 1899, c. 733, s. 131.)

Art. 11. Acceptance

§ 3114. Acceptance defined; how made.—The acceptance of a bill is the signification by the drawee of his assent to the order of the drawer. The acceptance must be in writing and signed by the drawee. It must not express that the drawee will perform his promise by any other means than the payment of money. (Rev., s. 2282; 1899, c. 733, s. 132.)

Acceptance by Agent.—The authority to draw, accept or indorse bills, notes and checks will not readily be implied as an incident to the express authority of an agent. It must ordinarily be conferred expressly, but it may be implied if the execution of the paper is a necessary incident to the business, that is, if the purpose of the agency cannot otherwise be accomplished. Bank v. Hay, 143 N. C. 326, 55 S. E. 811.

§ 3115. Holder entitled to acceptance on face of bill.—The holder of a bill presenting the same for acceptance may require that the acceptance be written on the bill, and if such request is refused, may treat the bill as dishonored. (Rev., s. 2283; 1899, c. 733, s. 133.)

Cited in Commercial Investment Trust v. Windsor, 197 N. C. 208, 148 S. E. 42.

§ 3116. Acceptance by separate instrument.—Where an acceptance is written on a paper other than the bill itself it does not bind the acceptor except in favor of a person to whom it is shown and who, on the faith thereof, receives the bill for value. (Rev., s. 2284; 1899, c. 733, s. 134.)

Letters of Acceptance. — A letter written to a drawer within a reasonable time before or after the date of a bill of exchange, describing it in terms not to be mistaken, and promising to accept it, is, if shown to the person who takes the bill on the credit of the letter, a virtual acceptance, and binds the person who makes the promise, even though there are no funds in his hands belonging to the drawer, if the bill is drawn payable at a fixed time, and not at or after sight. Nimock v. Woody, 97 N. C. 1, 2 S. E. 249.

Where the letters, upon which the plaintiff bank relied as authority to an agent to make the draft which is cashed, show that the alleged authority to draw was nothing more than private instructions by the principal to his agent as to how he should conduct this part of the business, and were not to be used as a basis of credit to the agent, the court properly nonsuited the plaintiff. Bank v. Hay, 143 N. C. 326, 55 S. E. 811.

§ 3117. When promise to accept equivalent to acceptance.—An unconditional promise in writing to accept a bill before it is drawn is deemed an actual acceptance in favor of every person who, upon the faith thereof, receives the bill for value. (Rev., s. 2285; 1899, c. 733, s. 135.)

§ 3118. Time allowed drawee to accept.—The drawee is allowed twenty-four hours after presentment in which to decide whether or not he will accept the bill, but the acceptance, if given, dates as of the day of presentation. (Rev., s. 2286; 1899, c. 733, s. 136.)

§ 3119. Liability of drawee retaining or destroying bill.—Where a drawee to whom a bill is delivered for acceptance destroys the same or refuses within twenty-four hours after such delivery, or within such other period as the holder may allow, to return the bill accepted or nonaccepted to the holder, he will be deemed to have accepted the same. (Rev., s. 2287; 1899, c. 733, s. 137.)

Cited in Standard Trust Co. v. Bank, 166 N. C. 112, 81 S. E. 1074; Lamb v. Hood, 205 N. C. 409, 410, 171 S. E. 359.

§ 3120. Acceptance of incomplete bill. — A bill may be accepted before it has been signed by the drawer or while otherwise incomplete, or when it is overdue, or after it has been dishonored by a previous refusal to acept, or by nonpayment. But when a bill payable after sight is dishonored by nonacceptance and the drawee subsequently accepts it, the holder, in the absence of any different agreement, is entitled to have the bill accepted as of the date of the first presentment. (Rev., s. 2288; 1899, c. 733, s. 138.)

§ 3121. Kinds of acceptances.—An acceptance is either general or qualified. A general acceptance assents without qualification to the order of the drawer. A qualified acceptance in express terms varies the effect of the bill as drawn. (Rev., s. 2289; 1899, c. 733, s. 139.)

§ 3122. What constitutes a general acceptance.—An acceptance to pay at a particular place is a general acceptance unless it expressly states that the bill is to be paid there only, and not elsewhere. (Rev., s. 2290; 1899, c. 733, s. 140.)

§ 3123. What constitutes a qualified acceptance.—An acceptance is qualified which is (1) conditional; that is to say, which makes payment by the acceptor dependent on the fulfillment of a condition therein stated; (2) partial; that is to say, an acceptance to pay part only of the amount for which the bill is drawn; (3) local; that is to say, an acceptance to pay only at a particular place; (4) qualified as to time; (5) the acceptance of some one or more of the drawees, but not of all. (Rev., s. 2291; 1899, c. 733, s. 141.)

Qualified as to Time.—Where one accepted a draft on him "payable when I receive funds to the use of the drawer," he became liable when the moneys were placed to his credit though he had not taken manual possession thereof. Wallace Brothers v. Douglas, 116 N. C. 659, 21 S. E. 387.

§ 3124. Rights of parties as to qualified acceptance.—The holder may refuse to take a qualified acceptance, and if he does not obtain an unqualified acceptance he may treat the bill as dishonored by nonacceptance. When a qualified acceptance is taken the drawer and indorsers are discharged from liability on the bill unless they have expressly or impliedly authorized the holder to take a qualified acceptance or subsequently assent thereto. When the drawer or an indorser receives notice of a qualified acceptance he must, within a reasonable time, express his dissent to the holder or he will be deemed to have assented thereto. (Rev., s. 2292; 1899, c. 733, s. 142.)

Art. 12. Presentment for Acceptance

§ 3125. When presentment for acceptance must be made. — Presentment for acceptance must be made (1) where the bill is payable after sight, or in any other case where presentment for acceptance is necessary in order to fix the maturity of the instrument; or (2) where the bill expressly stipulates that it shall be presented for acceptance; or (3) where the bill is drawn payable elsewhere than at the residence or place of business of the drawee. In no other case is presentment for acceptance necessary in order to render any party to the bill liable. (Rev., s. 2293; 1899, c. 733, s. 143.)

§ 3126. Failure to present in reasonable time discharges drawer and indorsers. — Except as herein otherwise provided the holder of a bill which is required by the next preceding section to be presented for acceptance must either present it for acceptance or negotiate it within a reasonable time. If he fail to do so the drawer and all indorsers are discharged. (Rev., s. 2294; 1899, c. 733, s. 144.)

§ 3127. How presentment made. — Presentment for acceptance must be made by or on behalf of the holder, at a reasonable hour on a business day and before the bill is overdue, to the drawee or some person authorized to accept or refuse acceptance on his behalf; and (1) where a bill is addressed to two or more drawees who are not partners, presentment must be made to them all, unless one has authority to accept or refuse acceptance for all, in which case presentment may be made to him only; (2) where the drawee is dead, presentment may be made to his personal representative; (3) where the drawee has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent or has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, presentment may be made to him or to his trustee or assignee. (Rev., s. 2295; 1899, c. 733, s. 145.)

Cross Reference.—As to necessity of presentment, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 463; as to time, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 475.

In General.—A draft payable at no definite place in a city or town, must be presented at the maker's residence or place of business, if he has such, at its maturity, and if he has none, then the presence of the instrument in the city is a sufficient presentation. Peoples Nat. Bank v. Lutterloh, 95 N. C. 495, 499.

§ 3128. On what days presentment may be made.—A bill may be presented for acceptance on any day on which negotiable instruments may be presented for payment under the provisions of this chapter. (Rev., s. 2296; 1899, c. 733, s. 146; 1909, c. 800, s. 1.)

§ 3129. Presentment where time is insufficient.—Where the holder of a bill drawn payable elsewhere than at the place of business or the residence of the drawee has not time with the exercise of reasonable diligence to present the bill for acceptance before presenting it for payment on the day that it falls due, the delay caused by presenting the bill for acceptance before presenting it for payment is excused and does not discharge the drawers and indorsers. (Rev., s. 2297; 1899, c. 733, s. 147.)

§ 3130. Where presentment is excused.—Presentment for acceptance is excused and a bill may be treated as dishonored by nonacceptance in either of the following cases: (1) Where the drawee is dead or has absconded or is a fictitious person or a person not having capacity to contract by bill; (2) where after the exercise of reasonable diligence presentment cannot be made; (3) where, although presentment has been irregular acceptance has been refused on some ground. (Rev., s. 2298; 1899, c. 733, s. 148.)

§ 3131. When dishonored by nonacceptance. —A bill is dishonored by nonacceptance (1) when it is duly presented for acceptance and such an acceptance as is prescribed in this chapter is refused or cannot be obtained; or (2) when a presentment for acceptance is executed and the bill is not accepted. (Rev., s. 2299; 1899, c. 733, s. 149.)

§ 3132. Duty of holder, where bill not accepted.—Where a bill is duly presented for acceptance and is not accepted within the prescribed time, the person presenting it must treat the bill as dishonored by nonacceptance or he loses the right of recourse against the drawer and indorsers. (Rev., s. 2300; 1899, c. 733, s. 150.)

§ 3133. Rights of holder, where bill not accepted.—When a bill is dishonored by nonacceptance an immediate right of recourse against the drawers and indorsers accrues to the holder, and no presentment for payment is necessary. (Rev., s. 2301; 1899, c. 733, s. 151.)

Art. 13. Protest

§ 3134. In what cases protest necessary.— Where a foreign bill appearing on its face to be such is dishonored by nonacceptance, it must be duly protested for nonacceptance; and where such a bill which had not previously been dishonored by nonacceptance is dishonored by nonpayment, it must be duly protested for nonpayment. If it is not so protested the drawer and indorsers are discharged. Where a bill does not appear on its face to be a foreign bill, protest in case of dishonor is unnecessary. (Rev., s. 2302; 1899, c. 733, s. 152.)

As to protest and certificate thereof, see 2 N. C. Enc. Dig. 473.

Waiver of Protest.—In foreign bills the protest may be waived; the words, "I waive protest," or "waiving protest," or any similar words, infer that the protest is waived, and when applied to foreign bills, are universally regarded as expressly waiving presentment and notice, the protest being, according to the law-merchant, the formal and necessary evidence of the dishonor of such an instrument. Shaw Bros. v. McNeill, 95 N. C. 535, 539.

Protest in Another State.—A promissory note made in another state need not be protested before the owner may sue an indorser, there being no evidence that this is required in the state where the note was executed. Bank v. Carr, 130 N. C. 479, 41 S. E. 876.

How Protested.—By the law merchant a protest of a bill by a public notary is, in itself, evidence. And by our statute such protest is prima facie evidence. Gordon v. Price, 32 N. C. 385.

Protest of Inland Bills.—Protest of an order or inland bill is not necessary to enable the holder to recover the principal and interest. Notice in due time of non-acceptance or non-payment is all that is required for that purpose. Hubbard v. Troy, 24 N. C. 134; National Bank v. Bradly, 117 N. C. 526, 23 S. E. 455; Peoples Nat. Bank v. Lutterloh, 95 N. C. 495.

§ 3135. How protest made.—The protest must be annexed to the bill or must contain a copy thereof, and must be under the hand and seal of the notary making it, and must specify (1) the time and place of presentment; (2) the fact that presentment was made and the manner thereof; (3) the cause or reason for protesting the bill; (4) the demand made and the answer given, if any, or the fact that the drawee or acceptor could not be found. (Rev., s. 2303; 1899, c. 733, s. 153.)

§ 3136. By whom protest made.—Protest may be made by (1) a notary public; or (2) by any respectable resident of the place where the bill is dishonored, in the presence of two or more credible witnesses. (Rev., s. 2304; 1899, c. 733, s. 154.)

§ 3137. When protest to be made.—When a bill is protested, such protest must be made on the day of its dishonor, unless delay is excused as herein provided. When a bill has been duly noted the protest may be subsequently extended as of the date of the noting. (Rev., s. 2305; 1899, c. 733, s. 155.)

§ 3138. Where protest made.—A bill must be protested at the place where it is dishonored, except that when a bill drawn payable at the place of business or residence of some person other than the drawee has been dishonored by nonacceptance it must be protested for nonpayment at the place where it is expressed to be payable, and no further presentment for the payment to or demand on the drawee is necessary. (Rev., s. 2306 1899, c. 733, s. 156.)

§ 3139. Protest both for nonacceptance and nonpayment.—A bill which has been protested for nonacceptance may be subsequently protested for nonpayment. (Rev., s. 2307; 1899, c. 733, s. 157.)

§ 3140. Protest before maturity, where acceptor insolvent.—Where the acceptor has been adjudged a bankrupt or an insolvent or has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors before the bill matures, the holder may cause the bill to be protested for better security against the drawer and indorsers. (Rev., s. 2308; 1899, c. 733, s. 158.)

§ 3141. When protest dispensed with.—Protest is dispensed with by any circumstances which would dispense with notice of dishonor. Delay in noting or protesting is excused when delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder and not imputable to his default, misconduct or negligence. When the cause of delay ceases to operate, the bill must be noted or protested with reasonable diligence. (Rev., s. 2309; 1899, c. 733, s. 159.)

§ 3142. Protest where bill is lost.—Where a bill is lost or destroyed or is wrongly detained from the person entitled to hold it, protest may be made on a copy or written particulars thereof. (Rev., s. 2310; 1899, c. 733, s. 160.)

Art. 14. Acceptance for Honor

§ 3143. When a bill may be accepted for honor.—Where a bill of exchange has been protested for dishonor by nonacceptance or protested for better security, and is not overdue, any person not being a party already liable thereon may, with the consent of the holder, intervene and accept the bill supra protest for the honor of any party liable thereon or for the honor of the person for whose account the bill is drawn. The acceptance for honor may be part only of the sum for which the bill is drawn, and where there has been an acceptance for honor for one party there may be a further acceptance by a different person for the honor of another party. (Rev., s. 2311; 1899, c. 733, s. 161.)

§ 3144. How acceptance for honor made.—An acceptance for honor supra protest must be in writing and indicate that it is an acceptance for honor, and must be signed by the acceptor for honor. (Rev., s. 2312; 1899, c. 733, s. 162.)

§ 3145. When deemed an acceptance for honor of drawer. — Where an acceptance for honor does not expressly state for whose honor it is made, it is deemed to be an acceptance for the honor of the drawer. (Rev., s. 2313; 1899, c. 733, s. 163.)

§ 3146. Liability of acceptor for honor.—The acceptor for honor is liable to the holder and to all parties to the bill subsequent to the party for whose honor he has accepted. (Rev., s. 2314; 1899, c. 733, s. 164.)

§ 3147. Agreement of acceptor for honor.—The acceptor for honor by such acceptance engages that he will on due presentment pay the bill according to the terms of his acceptance, provided it shall not have been paid by the drawee; and provided, also, that it shall have been duly presented for payment and protested for nonpayment and notice of dishonor given to him. (Rev., s. 2315; 1899, c. 733, s. 165.)

§ 3148. Maturity of bill payable after sight accepted for honor.—Where a bill payable after sight is accepted for honor its maturity is calculated from the date of the noting for nonacceptance and not from the date of the acceptance for honor. (Rev., s. 2316; 1899, c. 733, s. 166.)

§ 3149. Protest of bill accepted for honor. — Where a dishonored bill has been accepted for honor supra protest or contains a reference in case of need, it must be protested for nonpayment before it is presented for payment to the acceptor for honor or referee in case of need. (Rev., s. 2317; 1899, c. 733, s. 167.)

§ 3150. How presentment for payment to acceptor for honor made.—Presentment for payment to the acceptor for honor must be made as follows: (1) If it is to be presented in the place where the protest for nonpayment was made it must be presented not later than the day following its maturity; (2) if it is to be presented in some other place than the place where it was protested, then it must be forwarded within the time in this chapter specified. (Rev., s. 2318; 1899, c. 733, s. 168.)

§ 3151. When delay in making presentment excused.—The provisions of section 3062 apply where there is delay in making presentment to the acceptor for honor or referee in case of need. (Rev., s. 2319; 1899, c. 733, s. 169.)

§ 3152. Dishonor of bill by acceptor for honor. —When the bill is dishonored by the acceptor for honor it must be protested for nonpayment by him. (Rev., s. 2320; 1899, c. 733, s. 170.)

Art. 15. Payment for Honor

§ 3153. Who may make payment for honor.— Where a bill has been protested for nonpayment any person may intervene and pay it supra protest for the honor of any person liable thereon or for the honor of the person for whose account it was drawn. (Rev., s. 2321; 1899, c. 733, s. 171.)

§ 3154. How payment for honor must be made.—The payment for honor supra protest in order to operate as such and not as a mere voluntary payment must be attested by a notarial act of honor, which may be appended to the protest or form an extension to it. (Rev., s. 2322; 1899, c. 733, s. 172.)

§ 3155. Declaration before payment for honor.—The notarial act of honor must be founded on a declaration made by the payer for honor or by his agent in that behalf declaring his intention to pay the bill for honor and for whose honor he pays. (Rev., s. 2323; 1899, c. 733, s. 173.)

§ 3156. Preference of parties offering to pay for honor.—Where two or more persons offer to pay a bill for the honor of different parties the person whose payment will discharge most parties to the bill is to be given the preference. (Rev., s. 2324; 1899, c. 733, s. 174.)

§ 3157. Effect on subsequent parties, where bill is paid for honor.—Where a bill has been paid for honor all parties subsequent to the party for whose honor it is paid are discharged, but the payer for honor is subrogated for and succeeds to both the rights and duties of the holder as regards the party for whose honor he pays and all parties liable to the latter. (Rev., s. 2325; 1899, c. 733, s. 175.)

§ 3158. Where holder refuses to receive payment supra protest.—Where the holder of a bill refuses to receive payment supra protest he loses his right of recourse against any party who would have been discharged by such payment. (Rev., s. 2326; 1899, c. 733. s. 176.)

§ 3159. Rights of payer for honor.—The payer for honor on paying to the holder the amount of the bill and the notarial expenses incidental to its dishonor is entitled to receive both the bill itself and the protest. (Rev., s. 2327; 1899, c. 733, s. 177.)

Art. 16. Bills in a Set.

§ 3160. Bills in a set constitute one bill. — Where a bill is drawn in a set, each part of the set being numbered and containing a reference to the other parts, the whole of the parts constitute one bill. (Rev., s. 2328; 1899, c. 733, s. 178.)

§ 3161. Rights of holders, where different parts are negotiated.—Where two or more parts of a set are negotiated to different holders in due course the holder whose title first accrues is, as between such holders, the true owner of the bill. But nothing in this section affects the rights of a person who in due course accepts or pays the part first presented to him. (Rev., s. 2329; 1899, c. 733, s. 179.)

§ 3162. Liability of holder who indorses two or more parts of a set to different persons.—Where the holder of a set indorses two or more parts to different persons he is liable on every such part, and every indorser subsequent to him is liable on the part he has himself indorsed as if such parts were separate bills. (Rev., s. 2330; 1899, c. 733, s. 180.)

§ 3163. Acceptance of bills drawn in sets. — The acceptance may be written on any part, and it must be written on one part only. If the drawee accepts more than one part, and such accepted parts are negotiated to different holders in due course, he is liable on every such part as if it were a separate bill. (Rev., s. 2331; 1899, c. 733, s. 181.)

§ 3164. Payment by acceptor of bills drawn in sets.—When the acceptor of a bill drawn in a set pays it without requiring the part bearing his acceptance to be delivered up to him, and that part at maturity is outstanding in the hands of a holder in due course, he is liable to the holder thereon. (Rev., s. 2332; 1899, c. 733, s. 182.)

§ 3165. Effect of discharging one of a set. — Except as herein otherwise provided where any one part of a bill drawn in a set is discharged by payment or otherwise the whole bill is discharged. (Rev., s. 2333; 1899, c. 733, s. 183.)

Art. 17. Promissory Notes and Checks

§ 3166. Negotiable promissory note defined.— A negotiable promissory note within the meaning of this chapter is an unconditional promise in writing made by one person to another, signed by the maker, engaging to pay on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time a sum certain in money to order or to bearer. Where a note is drawn to the maker's own order it is not complete until indorsed by him. (Rev., s. 2334; 1899, c. 733, s. 184.)

As to form of negotiable instrument, see section 2982 and following sections.

In General. — To render a note non-negotiable it must show on its face that the promise to pay is conditional, or render the amount to be paid uncertain. First National Bank v. Micheal, 96 N. C. 53, 1 S. E. 855. A note not payable to order or bearer is not a negotiable paper. Newland v. Moore, 173 N. C. 728, 92 S. E. 367.

Bond Treated as Promissory Note under Seal.—A bond is in form negotiable, and when indorsed for value and without notice before maturity it is to be regarded, so far as its negotiability is concerned and its liability to be governed by the commercial law applicable to promissory notes, as if it were a promissory note not under seal. Miller v. Tharel, 75 N. C. 148; Spence v. Tapscott, 93 N. C. 246. The principle was applied in Lewis v. Long, 102 N. C. 206, 9 S. E. 637, in which it was decided that an obligor on a bond could not, as against an indorsee for value, before maturity and without notice, set up the defense that he executed the same as a surety only. Christian v. Parrott, 114 N. C. 215, 218, 19 S. E. 151.

Note under Seal.—A written instrument, whereby a party promises to pay the party therein named a sum certain at a time specified therein, is a promissory note in this State, although it be under seal. First Nat. Bank v. Michael, 96 N. C. 53, 1 S. E. 855.

Cited in Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. v. Black, 198 N. C. 219, 151 S. E. 269; Taft v. Covington, 199 N. C. 51, 55, 153 S. E. 597.

§ 3167. Check defined.—A check is a bill of exchange drawn on a bank payable on demand. Except as herein otherwise provided the provisions of this chapter that are applicable to a bill of exchange payable on demand apply to a check. (Rev., s. 2335; 1899, c. 733, s. 185.)

See note under section 220 (aa).

A check is further defined as a written order on a bank or banker, purporting to be drawn against a deposit of funds, for the payment at all events of a sum of money to a certain person therein named, or to him or his orders, or to bearer, and payable on demand. Woody v. First Nat. Bank, 194 N. C. 549, 140 S. E. 150.

Restrictions as to Payments.—A stipulation stamped on the face of a check, that it will positively not be paid to a certain company or its agents, is a valid restriction and binding on the holder. Commercial Nat. Bank v. First Nat. Bank, 118 N. C. 783, 24 S. E. 524.

Time of Presentment.—A "check" is a bill of exchange drawn on a blank, payable on demand, and instruments payable on demand may be presented within a reasonable time after its issue. Philadelphia Life Ins. Co. v. Hayworth, 296 Fed. 339.

Cited in Standard Trust Co. v. Bank, 166 N. C. 112, 81 S. E. 1074; Morris v. Cleve, 197 N. C. 253, 262, 148 S. E. 253; State v. Crawford, 198 N. C. 522, 524, 152 S. E. 504.

§ 3168. Within what time a check must be presented.—A check must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after its issue or the drawer will be discharged from liability thereon to the extent of the loss caused by the delay. (Rev., s. 2336; 1899, c. 733, s. 186.)

As to what is reasonable time, see section 2978.

In General.—Cashier's checks, whether certified or otherwise, are classed with bills of exchange payable on demand; and if negotiated by indorsement for value without notice and within a reasonable time, a holder can maintain the position of a holder in due course. Manufacturing Co. v. Summers, 143 N. C. 102, 55 S. E. 522.

A check is only conditional payment, but the payee must exercise due diligence in presenting it for payment, and where his failure to exercise such diligence causes loss he must suffer it, due diligence being determined in accordance with the facts and circumstances of each particular case. Henderson Chevrolet Co. v. Ingle, 202 N. C. 158, 162 S. E. 219.

Facts to Be Considered.—In determining what is a reasonable time for the presentment of a check for payment regard must be had to the nature of the instrument, the customs and usages of trade in regard to such instrument, and the facts of the particular case. Raines v. Grantham, 205 N. C. 340, 171 S. E. 360.

Cited in Standard Trust Co. v. Bank, 166 N. C. 112, 81 S. E. 1074.

§ 3168(a). Bank may refuse to honor check more than six months old in the absence of contrary instructions.—Where a check or other instrument payable on demand at any bank or trust company doing business in this State is presented for payment more than six months from its date, such bank or trust company, may, unless expressly instructed by the drawer or maker to pay the same, refuse payment thereof and no liability shall thereby be incurred to the drawer or maker for dishonoring the instrument by non-payment. (1929, c. 341, s. 3.)

§ 3169. Effect of certification of check.—Where a check is certified by the bank on which it is drawn the certification is equivalent to an acceptance. (Rev., s. 2337; 1899, c. 733, s. 187.)

In General.—The certification of a check by the bank on which it is drawn is equivalent to the acceptance, and the bank then becomes the debtor to the holder, against whom he may maintain his action. It does not affect the enforcement of an agreement between the original parties, made before certification of the check, and the debtor has agreed to waive or withdraw a condition annexed to the acceptance of his check that it was to be received by the payee, his creditor, in full compromise of his debt in a larger amount. Drewry-Hughes Co. v. Davis, 151 N. C. 295, 66 S. E. 139.

Whether Certified at Instance of Drawer or Payee.—A drawer of a check by having the drawee bank certify it before delivering it to the payee of the check does not change the status of his liability thereon, the effect being to add the credit of the bank to that of his own; but it is otherwise if the payee of the check accepts it uncertified and then has it certified by the drawee bank instead of presenting it for payment, for then the credit of the bank is substituted for that of the drawer of the check and the liability of the latter on the check he has issued ceases. Commercial Investment Trust v. Windsor, 197 N. C. 208, 148 S. E. 42.

§ 3170. Effect, where holder of check procures it to be certified.—Where the holder of a check procures it to be accepted or certified the drawer and all indorsers are discharged from liability thereon. (Rev., s. 2338; 1899, c. 733, s. 188.)

§ 3171. Check not assignment of funds.—A check of itself does not operate as an assignment of any part of the funds to the credit of the drawer with the bank, and the bank is not liable to the holder unless and until it accepts or certifies the check. (Rev., s. 2339; 1899, c. 733, s. 189.)

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 131.

In General.—A depositor is a creditor of a bank, his deposit becoming a part of the general fund, the property of the bank, and subject to assignment by the owners of the bank and a check-holder is, to the extent of his check, the assignee of the depositor's debt due him by the bank, but he has no lien upon the deposit for the amount of this check and a payee or holder of a check has an interest in the deposit as against the drawer, subject to the bank's right to pay outstanding checks before notice. Howes v. Blackwell, 107 N. C. 196, 12 S. E. 245.

The giving of a check passes no title, legal or equitable, to money on deposit in a bank. Perry v. Bank, 131 N. C. 117, 42 S. E. 551.

An action cannot be sustained against a bank by the payee of a negotiable check, though the drawer has funds on deposit sufficient for its payment against which the bank has no claim. Perry v. Bank, 131 N. C. 117, 42 S. E. 551, until after its acceptance by the bank. Commercial Nat. Bank v. First Nat. Bank, 118 N. C. 783, 24 S. E. 524. See also Brantley v. Collie, 205 N. C. 229, 171 S. E. 88.

Acceptance under this section may be evidenced in various ways, as where the bank pays the check without endorsement to some person unauthorized by the payee to receive it and charges the amount to the depositor's account, and where evidence on this point is conflicting an issue is raised for the jury, and a judgment as of nonsuit should be denied. Dawson v. National Bank, 196 N. C. 134, 144 S. E. 833.

Cited in Standard Trust Co. v. Bank, 166 N. C. 112, 81 S. E. 1074; Dawson v. National Bank, 197 N. C. 499, 150 S. E. 38.

§ 3171(a). When stop-payment order given banks to expire.—No revocation, countermand or stop-payment order relating to the payment of any check or draft against an account of a depositor in any bank or trust company doing business in this State shall remain in effect for more than six months after the service thereof on the bank, unless the same be renewed, which renewals shall be in writing and which renewals shall be in effect for not more than six months from date of service thereof on the bank or trust company, but such renewals may be made from time to time. (1929, c. 341, s. 1.)

§ 3171(b). Application to present orders.—No notice affecting a check upon which revocation, countermand or stop-payment order has been made at the time of the taking effect of § 3171(a) shall be deemed to continue for a period of more than six months thereafter. (1929, c. 341, s. 2.)

NOTARIES

§ 3172. Appointment and commission; term of office; revocation of commission.—The governor may, from time to time, at his discretion, appoint one or more fit persons in every county to act as notaries public, and shall issue to each a commission. They shall hold their office for two years from and after the date of their appointment.

Any commission so issued by the Governor or his predecessor, shall be revokable by him in his discretion upon complaint being made against such notary public and when he shall be satisfied that the interest of the public will be best served by the revocation of said commission.

Whenever the Governor shall have revoked the commission of any notary public appointed by him, or his predecessor in office, it shall be his duty to file with the clerk of the court in the county of such notary public a copy of said order and mail a copy of same to said notary public.

Any person holding himself out to the public as a notary public, or any person attempting to act in such capacity after his commission shall have been revoked by the Governor, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction be punishable in the discretion of the court, as provided for in other misdemeanors. (Rev., ss. 2347, 2348; Code, ss. 3304, 3305; 1927, c. 117.)

Editor's Note.—The Supreme Court, by a three to two decision, with the great Chief Justice Clark dissenting, held in State v. Knight, 169 N. C. 333, 85 S. E. 418, that women could not hold the position of notary public in North Carolina. The Legislature had, at its previous session, enacted chapter 12, Laws 1915, as follows: "The Governor is hereby authorized to appoint women as well as men to be notaries public, and this position shall be deemed to be a place of trust and profit, and not an office." The Governor, acting upon this authority, issued his commission to Mrs. Noland Knight as a notary public. Thereafter a quo warranto proceeding was brought, averring that a notary public was not a place of trust and profit, as the Legislature has enacted, but was in truth an office, and therefore that the commission issued to her by the Chief Executive was a nullity because she was a woman. The action was brought before his Honor Judge Webb of the superior court, who declined to hold the commission void. The Supreme Court reversed the decision and held the act unconstitutional on the grounds that a notary public was a public office; that a woman was ineligible for public office under the Constitution; and that being a public office, that the Legislature could not change its character by simply making a change in its name. This was so held in spite of the fact that, as pointed out by Mr. Chief Justice Clark, there was no constitutional provision as to notaries public, and that the place was wholly a creature of legislative enactment. In Opinion of Justices, 165 Mass. 599, 601, 43 N. E. 927, 32 L. R. A. 350, the court said: "Where an office is created by statute . . . . the qualifications required . . . . are wholly within the control of the Legislature, unless there is some limitation put upon the Legislature by the Constitution." And in Bank v. Smith (Tenn.), 37 S. W. 1102, it was said: "All that is needed to enable one to be a de jure female notary public is an enabling act of the Legislature."

However correct or incorrect may have been the conclusion of the court in State v. Knight, supra, by the very reasoning in that case, women are now eligible as notaries public. Federal and State constitutional amendments now insure to women the right to the ballot on equal terms with men. Article VI, sec. 4, of the Constitution of North Carolina is as follows: "Every voter, except as hereinafter provided, shall be eligible to office, etc. Women are not included within the exceptions numbered. See Lee v. Dunn, 73 N. C. 602; Spruill v. Batemen, 162 N. C. 588, 77 S. E. 768. Therefore, since women can vote, and voters may hold office, and the position of notary public is a public office, it follows that women are eligible to the office if notary public.

Origin.—The office of notary public has long been known both to the civil and to the common law. State v. Knight, 169 N. C. 333, 337, 85 S. E. 418; 29 Cyc. 1068.

In Loan Co. v. Turrell, 19 Ind. 469, it was said: "The office originated in the early Roman jurisprudence, and was known in England before the Conquest." State v. Knight, 169 N. C. 333, 338, 85 S. E. 418.

Same—Recognized as an Officer.—That the position was recognized as an office at common law is shown by the following, taken from 5 Comyn's Dig., 140, when speaking of protests of bills of exchange: "The protest must be made by a public notary upon all foreign bills of exchange, because he is a public officer to whom credit is given"; and by the opinion of Buller, J., in Lefty v. Mills, 4 T. R., 175 (1791), that "The demand of a foreign bill must be made by a notary public, to whom credit is given, because he is a public officer." State v. Knight, 169 N. C. 333, 337, 85 S. E. 418.

Present Status.—In Ashcraft v. Chapman, 38 Conn. 232, Chief Justice Butler says: "Notaries were originally mere commercial scriveners. Becoming important to the commercial world, their appointment was provided for and their duties regulated by public law, and they became sworn public officers." State v. Knight, 169 N. C. 333, 338, 85 S. E. 418. See also, 21 A. and E. Enc. Law, 555.

It is in most of the states a state office, although in few states it has been regarded as a county office, and its functions, once simple, have now a wider scope. State v. Knight, 169 N. C. 333, 337, 85 S. E. 418.

Who Eligible.—In U. S. v. Bixby, 10 Bizzell, 520, it was held by Gresham, J., that "at common law a minor is eligible to the position of notary public." State v. Knight, 169 N. C. 333, 358, 85 S. E. 418.

After the passage of C. 12, Laws 1915 an official inquiry was instituted as to the status of notary public in the other states. The replies from their judicial departments show that out of the fifty-three jurisdictions in the United States (i. e., forty-eight States, the District of Columbia, and the territories of Alaska, Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the Philippines) women are competent to be notaries public in all except ten, and in those ten they were held incompetent either because, as in Massachusetts, the Constitution had made the position an office or a statute had made it an office, or, as in a few of them, "it had not been the custom to admit women to hold the place, and there was no statute as yet authorizing them to fill the position." In no case was there found, or reported, a decision holding women incompetent to fill the place when there was a statute authorizing them to do so, or providing that the position was not an office. Outside of these ten States (of our fifty-three jurisdictions) there is no country which disqualifies a woman to hold the position of notary public. From dissenting opinion of Clark, C. J., in State v. Knight, 169 N. C. 333, 359, 85 S. E. 418.

Same—In Virginia.—In Virginia, which naturally more nearly follows the English law than any other State in the Union, its Attorney-General says: "In this State any man or woman over 18 years of age can be a notary public." State v. Knight, 169 N. C. 333, 358, 85 S. E. 418.

Same—English Rule as to Women.—Sir John Simon, when Attorney-General of England, said: "No act of Parliament has ever disqualified women from holding the position of notary public in this country, and it is very certain that none such could be passed." State v. Knight, 169 N. C. 333, 358, 85 S. E. 418.

§ 3173. To qualify before clerk; record of qualification.—Upon exhibiting their commission to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which they are to act, the notaries shall be duly qualified by taking before said clerk an oath of office, and the oaths prescribed for officers. A certificate of the commission shall be deposited with the clerk and filed among the records, and he shall note on his minutes the qualification of the notary public. (Rev., ss. 2347, 2348; Code, ss. 3304, 3305.)

§ 3174. Clerks notaries ex officio; may certify own seals.—The clerks of the superior court may act as notaries public, in their several counties, by virtue of their office as clerk, and may certify their notarial acts under the seals of their respective courts. (Rev., s. 2349; Code, s. 3306; R. C., c. 75, s. 3; 1833, c. 7, ss. 1, 2.)

A clerk of the superior court, is, by virtue of his office, a notary public, and the taking of acknowledgments must be referred to the exercise of his notarial authority. Lawrence v. Hodges, 92 N. C. 672, 681.

§ 3175. Powers of notaries.—Notaries public, in and out of the state, have power to take and certify the acknowledgment or proof of powers of attorney, mortgages, deeds and other instruments of writing, to take depositions and to administer oaths and affirmations in matters incident or belonging to the duties of their office, and to take affidavits to be used before a court, judge or other officer, within the state, and have power to take the privy examination of femes covert. (Rev., s. 2350; Code, s. 3307; 1866, c. 30; 1879, c. 128.)

Scope of Powers.—A notary public is recognized by the universal law of civilized and commercial nations; but his powers are confined to the authentication of commercial papers and to the protesting of bills of exchange and the like. Benedict, Hall & Co. v. Hall, 76 N. C. 113, 114.

By statute in this State the powers of notaries public have been extended beyond those which were incident to the office by the universal law-merchant, and pertained to the presentment of bills of exchange for acceptance or payment and the protest thereof for nonpayment or refusal to accept; they may now take and certify the acknowledgment or proof of powers of attorney, mortgages, deeds and other instruments of writing, etc. Pipe and Foundry Co. v. Keith & Co., 114 N. C. 178, 184, 19 S. E. 109.

Duty in Taking Acknowledgments.—The notary is required "to take and certify the acknowledgment or proof" and this imposes upon him the duty of ascertaining (1) that the persons who present themselves are the grantors in the deed; (2) that they acknowledge the execution of it; (3) that the wife signed the deed freely and voluntarily, and that she voluntarily assents thereto. Young v. Jackson, 92 N. C. 144, 147; Darden v. Steamboat Co., 107 N. C. 434, 446, 12 S. E. 46; State v. Knight, 169 N. C. 333, 343, 85 S. E. 418.

Acknowledgment Quasi Judicial Act. — An acknowledgment of a deed, taken before a notary public, is a judicial, or at least a quasi judicial act. Long v. Crews, 113 N. C. 256, 18 S. E. 499.

Protest as Evidence.—The protest of a notary establishes the facts stated in it in respect to each and all of these points to the full extent the notary could do it if he were examined as a witness and were believed. Pipe and Foundry Co. v. Keith & Co., 114 N. C. 178, 184, 19 S. E. 109.

This was for convenience of commerce and to dispense with the necessity of bringing witnesses from a distance or of taking depositions to prove the facts certified to in the protest, the certificate being prima facie true. Elliott v. White, 51 N. C. 98; Pipe and Foundry Co. v. Keith & Co., 114 N. C. 178, 184, 19 S. E. 109.

Certificates of Probate Prima Facie Evidence.—With the extension of the powers of notaries to take probate of deeds, the same quality attaches to their certificates of probate or acknowledgment; it is prima facie evidence of the truth of its pertinent recitals. Pipe and Foundry Co. v. Keith & Co., 114 N. C. 178, 184, 19 S. E. 109.

Not Disqualified to Act Because Employee of Grantee.—A notary public is not disqualified to take acknowledgment of grantors and privy examination of married women to conveyances of land when he is an employee of the grantee, without any interest in the land conveyed. Smith v. Ayden Lumber Co., 144 N. C. 47, 56 S. E. 555.

Incurable Incompetency.—Where a notary public was interested in a deed of trust, he was disqualified to take the acknowledgment, his attempted action was a nullity, and such defect could not be cured by probate upon such acknowledgment before the clerk and registration. Long v. Crews, 113 N. C. 256, 18 S. E. 499.

§ 3176. May exercise powers in any county.—Notaries public have full power and authority to perform the functions of their office in any and all counties of the state, and full faith and credit shall be given to any of their official acts wheresoever the same shall be made and done. (Rev., s. 2351, 1891, s. 248.)

A notary public resident out of the State has no authority to take affidavits to be used in the courts of this State. Hall & Co. v. Hall, 76 N. C. 113, 114.

§ 3177. Expiration of commission to be stated after signature.—Notaries public shall state after each official signature by them the date of the expiration of their commissions; but the failure to do so shall not thereby invalidate their official acts. (Rev., s. 2351a.)

§ 3178. Fees of notaries.—Notaries public and other persons acting as such shall be allowed the sum of fifty cents for protesting for nonacceptance or for nonpayment, or for both when done at the same time, any order, draft, note, bond or bill or any other thing necessary to be protested, and the sum of ten cents for each notice sent in connection therewith. For other necessary services, where no fee is fixed, they shall be allowed twenty cents for every ninety words. Cases of protest concerning vessels or other cargoes shall not be affected by this section. (Rev., s. 2800; Code, s. 3749; 1889, c. 446, 1895, c. 296; 1903, c. 734.)

The fees of notaries public are created and regulated by statute. Cider & Vinegar Co. v. Carroll, 124 N. C. 555, 559, 32 S. E. 959.

§ 3179. Notarial seal.—Official acts by notaries public shall be attested by their notarial seals. (Rev., s. 2352.)

Courts Take Judicial Notice.—It was said in Pierce v. Indseth, 106 U. S. 546: "The court will take judicial notice of the seals of notaries public, for they are officers recognized by the commercial law of the world." State v. Knight, 169 N. C. 333, 338, 85 S. E. 418.

Name in Seal.—The statute authorizing a notary public to take acknowledgment of deeds does not require that his name or any name shall be used in the notarial seal, and the seal appended to the certificate is presumably his in the absence of evidence to the contrary; hence, where the fact of the execution of deed by a notary public is adjudged to have been proved by such seal and certificate, it is not rebutted by the mere fact that the notary signs his name, "Geo. Theo. Somner" and the seal has on it the name of "Theo. Somner." Deans v. Pate, 114 N. C. 194, 19 S. E. 146.

Failure to Attest by Seal.—A motion for judgment for want of an answer was properly allowed when the complaint was duly verified and what purported to be the verification of the answer was attested only by a person signing his name with the letters "N. P." added thereto, but without an official seal. Tucker v. Inter-States Life Association, 112 N. C. 796, 17 S. E. 532.

The acknowledgment of a deed before a notary public in due form is not defective because not attested by his notarial seal. Peel v. Corey, 196 N. C. 79, 144 S. E. 559.

CHAPTER 60

NUISANCES AGAINST PUBLIC MORALS

§ 3180. What are nuisances under this chapter.—Whoever shall erect, establish, continue, maintain, use, own, or lease any building, erection, or place used for the purpose of lewdness, assignation, prostitution, gambling, or illegal sale of whiskey is guilty of nuisance, and the building, erection, or place, or the ground itself, in or upon which such lewdness, assignation, prostitution, gambling, or illegal sale of liquor is conducted, permitted, or carried on, continued, or exists, and the furniture, fixtures, musical instruments and contents, are also declared a nuisance, and shall be enjoined and abated as hereinafter provided. (1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 25.)

Authority of Municipalities Concerning Nuisances.—Under the authority conferred upon a municipal corporation to adopt ordinances for the government of the corporation and to abate nuisances, no power is granted to enact that the permitting of prostitution by the owner or occupant of any house therein shall constitute such owner or occupant the keeper of a house of ill fame, nor to declare what shall be a bawdy house or a disorderly house. State v. Webber, 107 N. C. 962, 12 S. E. 598.

§ 3181. Action for abatement; injunction. — Whenever a nuisance is kept, maintained, or exists as defined in this chapter, the city prosecuting attorney, the solicitor, or any citizen of the county may maintain civil action in the name of the state of North Carolina upon the relation of such city prosecuting attorney, solicitor, or citizen, to perpetually enjoin said nuisance, the person or persons conducting or maintaining the same, and the owner or agent of the building or ground upon which said nuisance exists. In such action the court, or a judge in vacation, shall, upon the presentation of a petition therefor, alleging that the nuisance complained of exists, allow a temporary writ of injunction without bond, if it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the judge by evidence in the form of affidavits, depositions, oral testimony, or otherwise, as complainant may elect, unless the judge, by previous order, shall have directed the form and manner in which it shall be presented. When an injunction has been granted it shall be binding on the defendant throughout the county in which it was issued, and any violation of the provisions of injunction herein provided shall be a contempt, as hereinafter provided. (1919, c. 288; P. L. 1919, c. 761, s. 26.)

§ 3182. When triable; evidence; dismissal of complaint.—The action when brought shall be triable at the first term of court after service of the summons has been made, and in such action evidence of the general reputation of the place shall be admissible for the purpose of proving the existence of said nuisance. If the complaint is filed by a citizen, it shall not be dismissed except upon a sworn statement made by the complainant and his attorney, setting forth the reason why the action should be dismissed, and the dismissal approved by the city prosecuting attorney, or solicitor, in writing or in open court. If the court is of the opinion that the action ought not to be dismissed, he may direct the city prosecuting attorney, or the solicitor, to prosecute said action to judgment; and if the action continued more than one term of court, any citizen of the county, or the county attorney, may be substituted for the complaining party and prosecute said action to judgment. If the action is brought by a citizen, and the court finds there was no reasonable ground or cause of said action, the costs may be taxed to such citizen. (1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 27.)

§ 3183. Violation of injunction; punishment.—In case of the violation of any injunction granted under the provisions of this chapter, the court, or, in vacation, a judge thereof, may summarily try and punish the offender. A party found guilty of contempt under the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred or more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than three or more than six months, or by both fine and imprisonment. (1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 28.)

As to certain evidence relative to keeping disorderly houses admissible, see section 4347.

§ 3184. Order abating nuisances; what it shall contain.—If the existence of the nuisance be established in an action as provided in this chapter, or in a criminal proceeding, an order of abatement shall be entered as a part of the judgment in the cause, which order shall direct the removal from the building or place of all fixtures, furniture, musical instruments, or movable property used in conducting the nuisance, and shall direct the sale thereof in the manner provided for the sale of chattels under execution, and the effectual closing of the building or place against its use for any purpose, and so keeping it closed for a period of one year, unless sooner released. If any person shall break and enter, or use said building, erection, or place so directed to be closed, he shall be punished as for contempt, as provided in the preceding section. For moving and selling the movable property, the officer shall be entitled to charge and receive the same fees as he would for levying upon and selling like property on execution; and for closing the premises and keeping them closed, a reasonable sum shall be allowed by the court. (1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 29.)

Fishing in waters when prohibited by law is a public nuisance and the General Assembly has the power to authorize a prompt abatement of the nuisance by seizure and sale of the nets, subject to the right of their owner to contest the fact of his violation of the law by a proceeding in the nature of claim and delivery, or by injunction to prevent sale, or by an action to recover the proceeds of sale plus damages. Daniels v. Homer, 139 N. C. 219, 51 S. E. 992.

§ 3185. Application of proceeds of sale.—The proceeds of the sale of the personal property as provided in the preceding section shall be applied in the payment of the costs of action and abatement, and the balance, if any, shall be paid to the defendant. (1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 30.)

§ 3186. How order of abatement may be canceled.—If the owner appears and pays all cost of the proceeding and files a bond, with sureties to be approved by the clerk, in the full value of the property, to be ascertained by the court, or, in vacation, by the clerk of the superior court, conditioned that he will immediately abate said nuisance, and prevent the same from being established or kept within a period of one year thereafter, the court may, if satisfied of his good faith, order the premises closed under the order of abatement to be delivered to said owner, and said order of abatement canceled so far as same may relate to said property; and if the proceeding be a civil action, and said bond be given and costs therein paid before judgment and order of abatement, the action shall be thereby abated as to said building only. The release of the property under the provisions of this section shall not release it from any judgment, lien, penalty, or liability to which it may be subject by law. (1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 31.)

§ 3187. Attorney's fees may be taxed as costs.—The court shall tax as part of the cost in any action brought hereunder such fee for the attorney prosecuting the action or proceedings as may in the court's discretion be reasonable remuneration for the services performed by such attorney. (1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 32.)

CHAPTER 61

OATHS

Art. 1. General Provisions

§ 3188. Oaths to be administered with solemnity.—Whereas, lawful oaths for the discovery of truth and establishing right are necessary and highly conducive to the important end of good government; and being most solemn appeals to Almighty God, as the omniscient witness of truth and the just and omnipotent avenger of falsehood, such oaths, therefore, ought to be taken and administered with the utmost solemnity. (Rev., s. 2353; R. C., c. 76, s. 1; 1777, c. 108, s. 2.)

This "solemnity" applies not only to the substance of the oath, but to the form and manner of taking it and of administering it. State v. Davis, 69 N. C. 383, 385.

Object of Statutes.—It is manifest, by a perusal of the statutes, that they were not intended to alter any rule of law, but the sole object was to prescribe forms for the sake of convenience and uniformity. State v. Pitt, 166 N. C. 268, 271, 80 S. E. 1060.

Double Sanction to Oath of Witness.—The law requires two guarantees of the truth of what a witness is about to state; he must be in the fear of punishment by the laws of man, and he must also be in the fear of punishment by the laws of God, if he states what is false; in other words, there must be a temporal and also a religious sanction to his oath. Shaw v. Moore, 49 N. C. 25, 26.

Sufficiency of Belief.—A person who believes in the obligation of an oath on the Bible; who believes in God and Jesus Christ, and that God will punish in this world, all violators of his law, and that the sinner will inevitably be punished in this world for each and every sin committed; but there will be no punishment after death, and that in another world all will be happy and equal to the angels is competent to be sworn. Shaw v. Moore, 49 N. C. 25, 26.

In the case of Omychund v. Barker, 1 Atk. 19, and Wiles, 538, it was decided by the Lord Chancellor, with the assistance of Chief Baron Parker, Chief Justice Willes and Chief Justice Lee, that a Gentoo, who was an infidel, who did not believe in either the Old or New Testament, but who believed in a God, as the Creator of the Universe, and that he is a rewarder of those who do well, and an avenger of those who do ill, according to the common law, may be sworn in that form which is the most sacred and obligatory upon his religious sense. Shaw v. Moore, 49 N. C. 25, 27.

The great case of Omychund v. Barker, establishes the rule to be, that an infidel is competent to be sworn, provided he believes in the existence of a Supreme Being, who punishes the wicked, without reference to the time of punishment. Shaw v. Moore, 49 N. C. 25, 29.

It is laid down by Lord Hale to be the common law, that a Jew is competent to be sworn, and may be sworn on the Old Testament, and such has ever since been taken to be the law. Shaw v. Moore, 49 N. C. 25, 27.

Finding of the Judge Conclusive.—The finding of the judge as to the competency of a witness to take oath is conclusive, and not reviewable. State v. Pitt, 166 N. C. 268, 270, 80 S. E. 1060.

Sufficiency of Juror's Oath.—An oath administered to a juror in the manner prescribed by statute is sufficient; the juror need not repeat the words "so help me God." State v. Paylor, 89 N. C. 539.

At Common Law.—In Shaw v. Moore, 49 N. C. 25, Pearson, J., said that "in the old cases it was held to be common law that no infidel (in which class Jews were included) could be sworn as a witness in the courts of England." He then proceeds to say that the reason for this as given by Lord Coke, "to say the least of it, is narrow-minded, illiberal, bigoted, and unsound." State v. Pitt, 166 N. C. 268, 270, 80 S. E. 1060.

Objection to Oath of Incompetent after Verdict.—Where a juror is incompetent to be sworn because an atheist (State v. Davis, 80 N. C. 412) and the objection is not discovered till after verdict, setting aside the verdict rests in the discretion of the trial judge. State v. Lambert, 93 N. C. 618; State v. Council, 129 N. C. 511, 39 S. E. 814, 816.

Objection to Manner of Administering after Verdict.—Where a juror was sworn in the presence of the prisoner and his counsel let him acquiesce in the manner in which the oath was taken, and then object after the verdict, would simply make a trial not a decision upon the merits but a series of pitfalls for the State. Not having spoken when he was called upon to speak, the prisoner should not be heard after the verdict has gone against him. State v. Boon, 82 N. C. 638; State v. Patrick, 48 N. C. 443; Briggs v. Byrd, 34 N. C. 377; State v. Ward, 9 N. C. 443; State v. Council, 129 N. C. 511, 39 S. E. 814, 816.

Failure to Administer.—In State v. Gee, 92 N. C. 756, where a witness was not sworn at all, the court held that this was not ground of objection after verdict. State v. Council, 129 N. C. 511, 39 S. E. 814, 817.

§ 3189. Administration of oath upon the Gospels.—Judges and justices of the peace, and other persons who may be empowered to administer oaths, shall (except in the cases in this chapter excepted) require the party sworn to lay his hand upon the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, in token of his engagement to speak the truth, as he hopes to be saved in the way and method of salvation pointed out in that blessed volume; and in further token that, if he should swerve from the truth, he may be justly deprived of all the blessings of the Gospel, and made liable to that vengeance which he has imprecated on his own head; and he shall kiss the Holy Gospel, as a seal of confirmation to the said engagements. (Rev., s. 2354; Code, s. 3309; R. C., c. 76, s. 1; 1777, c. 108, s. 2.)

Cross References.—As to exceptions to this section; for administration of oath with uplifted hand, see section 3190; for affirmation of Quakers and others, see section 3191; as to forms of oath, see section 3199; as to perjury, see section 4364.

The essential requirements of the law are that the party sworn "shall lay his hand upon the Holy Evangelist of Almighty God," and after the oath is administered he shall invoke the blessing or the curse of God by repeating the words, "So help me, God," and shall kiss the Holy Gospel as a seal of confirmation to his engagements. State v. Owen, 72 N. C. 605, 612.

Application to Witnesses.—After this manner, every witness, except as hereinafter provided, must be sworn. State v. Davis, 69 N. C. 383, 385.

Ministerial Act.—The administration of an oath is a ministerial act and may be done by any one in the presence and by the direction of the court, but is the act of the court. State v. Knight, 84 N. C. 790.

Partially Directory.—"As to the form of the oath, when it is prescribed by statute," remarks, Mr. Bishop, "the statute is to be construed in some sense directory only, so far at least that a departure from the words, in matter not of substance but of form merely, does not exempt the person taking it from the pains of perjury." 2 Bish. Cr. Law, secs. 862, 982; State v. Mazon, 90 N. C. 676, 678.

Same—Validity of Irregular Oath.—To hold invalid an oath that did not follow the very words of the statute might prove disastrous to the public interests. "Perjury and slander," in the language of the Supreme Court of Tennessee, "could often find, in slight variances from the prescribed forms of oath, the means of escape from condign punishment which justice invokes. Undoubtedly an oath, administered substantially according to the prescribed form, will be valid, and if taken falsely the party will be guilty of perjury." Sharp v. Wilhite, 21 Tenn. 434. And in the language of Green, C. J., in State v. Daylor, 3 Zab. (N. Y.), 49: "The Legislature did not design to prescribe the precise form of the oath, the slightest deviation from the phraseology of which would prove fatal." State v. Mazon, 90 N. C. 676, 678.

Same—Same—Juror's Oath in Capital Cases.—Although the omission of the words "you swear" at the commencement of the oath of jurors in a capital case looks awkward and mars the comeliness of judicial proceedings, we do not think that it vitiates the oath. State v. Owen, 72 N. C. 605, 612.

The manner of swearing is, as Judge Pearson says, merely a form "adapted to the religious belief of the general mass of citizens for the sake of convenience and uniformity." State v. Pitt, 166 N. C. 268, 271, 80 S. E. 1060.

Presumption.—The administration of an oath to a witness is an official act of the court; and it being shown affirmatively that an oath was administered to the defendant in open court on the Bible, a presumption arises that it was rightly done. State v. Mace, 86 N. C. 668, 670.

The maxim omnia presumuntur rite esse acta applies in no case with greater effect than to official acts of this nature, the minute and particular details of which, while important, are not likely to attract such attention as to insure their being accurately remembered. State v. Mace, 86 N. C. 668, 670.

Willful Violation.—A willful violation of such an oath in a material matter is perjury, and no other is. This is the general rule. State v. Davis, 69 N. C. 383, 385.

When Deputy Clerk May Administer.—The deputy of the clerk of the superior court is authorized to take the affidavit of the plaintiff in an action of claim and delivery. Jackson v. Buchanan, 89 N. C. 74.

A deputy sheriff is not authorized to administer oath to homestead appraisers. Oates v. Munday, 127 N. C. 439, 444, 37 S. E. 457. As to the effect of the deputy sheriff administering the oath, see annotations under section 730.

Cited in State v. Beal, 199 N. C. 278, 280, 154 S. E. 604.

§ 3190. Administration of oath with uplifted hand.—When the person to be sworn shall be conscientiously scrupulous of taking a book oath in manner aforesaid, he shall be excused from laying hands upon, or touching the Holy Gospel: and the oath required shall be administered in the following manner, namely: He shall stand with his right hand lifted up towards heaven, in token of his solemn appeal to the Supreme God, and also in token that if he should swerve from the truth he would draw down the vengeance of heaven upon his head, and shall introduce the intended oath with these words, namely:

I, A. B., do appeal to God, as a witness of the truth and the avenger of falsehood, as I shall answer the same at the great day of judgment, when the secrets of all hearts shall be known (etc., as the words of the oath may be.) Rev., s. 2355; Code, s. 3310; R. C., c. 76, s. 2; 1777, c. 108, s. 3.)

As to oath required of voter, see section 5940.

Conscientious Scruples.—If the usual form of oaths upon the Holy Evangelists is dispensed with, and an "appeal" or "information" is substituted, it must appear that the person sworn had conscientious scruples, else the "appeal" or "affirmation" is invalid. State v. Davis, 69 N. C. 383, 386; Pearre v. Folb, 123 N. C. 239, 31 S. E. 475.

Presumption as to Manner.—Where it appears that the registrar administered the prescribed oath to electors, but that he did not swear them on the Bible, it will be inferred, in the absence of direct proof to the contrary, that the oath was taken with uplifted hand, as specified by the section, and was accepted as a valid mode of administering it, by both the registrar and the elector. Administering the oath in such manner is sufficient to meet the requirements of the election law. State v. Nicholson, 102 N. C. 465, 9 S. E. 545.

Presumption as to Witness.—When a witness comes before a tribunal to be sworn it is to be presumed that he has settled the point with himself in what manner he will be sworn, and he should make it known to the officer of the court; and should he be sworn with uplifted hand, though not conscientiously scrupulous of swearing on the Gospels, and depose falsely, he subjects himself to the pains and penalties of perjury. State v. Whisenhurst, 9 N. C. 458.

Cited in State v. Beal, 199 N. C. 278, 280, 154 S. E. 604.

§ 3191. Affirmation of Quakers and others.—The solemn affirmation of Quakers, Moravians, Dunkers and Mennonites, made in the manner heretofore used and accustomed, shall be admitted as evidence in all civil and criminal actions; and in all cases where they are required to take an oath to support the constitution of the state, or of the United States, or an oath of office, they shall make their solemn affirmation in the words of the oath beginning after the word "swear"; which affirmation shall be effectual to all intents and purposes. (Rev., s. 2356; Code, s. 3311; R. C., c. 76, s. 3; 1777, c. 108, s. 4; 1777, c. 115, s. 42; 1819, c. 1019; 1821, c. 1112.)

Quakers and some others who have conscientious scruples about swearing at all, are permitted to "affirm." State v. Davis, 69 N. C. 383, 385.

Cited in State v. Beal, 199 N. C. 278, 280, 154 S. E. 604.

§ 3192. Oaths of corporations.—In all cases where a corporation is appointed administrator, executor, collector, or to any other fiduciary position, of which fiduciary an oath is required by law, such oath may be taken by such corporation by and through any officer or agent of said corporation who is authorized by law to verify pleadings in behalf of such corporation; and any oath so taken shall be valid as the oath of such corporation. Any oath heretofore taken in the manner aforesaid in behalf of a corporation as such fiduciary is hereby validated as the oath of such corporation. (1919, c. 89, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 3193. Oath to support constitution of United States; all officers take.—All members of the general assembly, and all officers who shall be elected or appointed to any office of trust or profit within the state, shall, agreeably to act of congress, take the following oath or affirmation:

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be) that I will support the constitution of the United States; so help me, God.

Which oath shall be taken before they enter upon the execution of the duties of the office. (Rev., s. 2357; Code, s. 3313; R. C., c. 76, s. 5; 1791, c. 342, s. 2.)

As to what constitutes an office or place of trust or profit within the meaning of this section, see secs. 3200-3207.

Officers and Placemen.—Officers are required to take an oath to support the Constitutions of the State and of the United States, while placemen are not. Worthy v. Barrett, 63 N. C. 199.

Oath Incidental.—The oath required of public officers is merely incidental to and constitutes no part of the office. State v. Stanley, 66 N. C. 60, 63.

Failure to Take Oath. — Public officers who have not taken the required oaths of office are not entitled to the salaries attached to such offices. Wiley v. Worth, 61 N. C. 171.

§ 3194. Oath or affirmation to support state constitution; all officers to take.—Every member of the general assembly, and every person who shall be chosen or appointed to hold any office of trust or profit in the state, shall, before taking his seat or entering upon the execution of the office, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation:

I, A. B., do solemnly and sincerely swear (or affirm) that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to the state of North Carolina, and to the constitutional powers and authorities which are or may be established for the government thereof; and that I will endeavor to support, maintain and defend the constitution of said state, not inconsistent with the constitution of the United States, to the best of my knowledge and ability; so help me, God.

Where such person shall be of the people called Quakers, Moravians, Mennonites or Dunkers, he shall take and subscribe the following affirmation:

I, A. B., do solemnly and sincerely declare and affirm that I will truly and faithfully demean myself as a peaceful citizen of North Carolina; that I will be subject to the powers and authorities that are or may be established for the good government thereof, not inconsistent with the constitution of the state and constitution of the United States, either by yielding an active or passive obedience thereto, and that I will not abet or join the enemies of the state, by any means, in any conspiracy whatever, against the state; that I will disclose and make known to the legislative, executive or judicial powers of the state all treasonable conspiracies which I shall know to be made or intended against the state. (Rev., s. 2358; Code, s. 3312; R. C., c. 76, s. 4; 1781, c. 342, s. 1.)

Cross References.—As to oath with uplifted hand, see sec. 3190; as to affirmation by Quakers and others, see sec. 3191; as to public officers. see sec. 3193.

§ 3195. When deputies may administer.—In all cases where any civil officer, in the discharge of his duties, is permitted by the law to administer an oath, the deputy of such officer, when discharging such duties, shall have authority to administer it, provided he is a sworn officer; and the oath thus administered by the deputy shall be as obligatory as if administered by the principal officer, and shall be attended with the same penalties in case of false swearing. (Rev., s. 2359; Code, s. 3316; R. C., c. 76, s. 7; 1836, c. 27, s. 2.)

As to administration of homestead appraiser's oath, see annotations to secs. 730, 3189.

§ 3196. Administration by certain officers.—The chairman of the board of county commissioners and the chairman of the board of education of the several counties may administer oaths in any matter or hearing before their respective boards. (Rev., s. 2362; 1899, c. 89; 1889, c. 529.)

Cross References.—As to power of sheriff to administer oath to homestead appraisers, see sec. 730; as to administration of oath to appraisers in homestead allotment, see annotations under secs. 730, 3189.

§ 3197. When county surveyors may administer oaths.—The county surveyors of the several counties are empowered to administer oaths to all such persons as are required by law to be sworn in making partition of real estate, in laying off widows' dower, in establishing boundaries and in surveying vacant lands under warrants. (Rev., s. 2361; Code, s. 3314; 1881, c. 144.)

§ 3198. Certain oaths validated.—All oaths and affidavits made prior to the first day of March, nineteen hundred and fifteen, administered by authorized officers to persons with uplifted hands be and the same are hereby validated and made as legal and binding as if administered to persons laying hands on and kissing the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God, whether said oaths and affidavits were made by persons conscientiously scrupulous of taking a "book oath" or not, and whether such oaths and affidavits were made in other respects in strict compliance with section 3189 of this chapter: Provided, that this section shall not affect the rights of the parties in actions now pending nor in any manner affect prosecutions for perjury claimed to have been heretofore committed. (Rev., s. 2363; 1899, c. 50; 1915, c. 3.)

Art. 2. Forms of Official and Other Oaths

§ 3199. Oaths of sundry persons; forms.—The oaths of office to be taken by the several persons hereafter named shall be in the words following the names of said persons respectively:

Administrator

You swear (or affirm) that you believe A. B. died without leaving any last will and testament; that you will well and truly administer all and singular the goods and chattels, rights and credits of the said A. B., and a true and perfect inventory thereof return according to law; and that all other duties appertaining to the charge reposed in you, you will well and truly perform, according to law, and with your best skill and ability; so help you, God.

Commissioner of Wrecks

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will truly and faithfully discharge the duties of a commissioner of wrecks, for the district of ....., in the county of....., according to law; so help me, God.

Constable

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will well and truly serve the state of North Carolina in the office of constable; I will see and cause the peace of the state to be well and truly preserved and kept, according to my power; I will arrest all such persons as, in my sight, shall ride or go armed offensively, or shall commit or make any riot, affray or other breach of the peace; I will do my best endeavor, upon complaint to me made, to apprehend all felons and rioters or persons riotously assembled, and if any such offenders shall make resistance with force, I will make hue and cry, and will pursue them according to law, and will faithfully and without delay execute and return all lawful precepts to me directed; I will well and truly, according to my knowledge, power and ability, do and execute all other things belonging to the office of constable, so long as I shall continue in office; so help me, God.

Cotton Weigher for Public

I, ..., public weigher for the city of ..... (or as the case may be), do solemnly swear that I will justly, impartially and without any deduction, except as may be allowed by law, weigh all cotton that may be brought to me for that purpose, and tender a true account thereof to the parties concerned, if required so to do; so help me, God.

Entry-Taker

I, A, B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will well and impartially discharge the several duties of the office of entry-taker for the county of.....according to law; so help me, God.

Executor

You swear (or affirm) that you believe this writing to be and contain the last will and testament of A. B., deceased; and that you will well and truly execute the same by first paying his debts and then his legacies, as far as the said estate shall extend or the law shall charge you; and that you will well and faithfully execute the office of an executor, agreeably to the trust and confidence reposed in you, and according to law; so help you, God.

Finance Committee

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will diligently inquire into all matters relating to the receipts and disbursements of county funds and a true report make, without partiality; so help me, God.

Grand Jury—Foreman of

You, as foreman of this grand inquest for the body of this county, shall diligently inquire and true presentment make of all such matters and things as shall be given you in charge; the state's counsel, your fellows' and your own you shall keep secret; you shall present no one for envy, hatred or malice; neither shall you leave any one unpresented for fear, favor or affection, reward or the hope of reward; but you shall present all things truly, as they come to your knowledge, according to the best of your understanding; so help you, God.

Grand Jurors

The same oath which your foreman hath taken on his part, you and each of you shall well and truly observe and keep on your part; so help you, God.

Grand Jury—Officer of

You swear (or affirm) that you will faithfully carry all papers sent from the court to the grand jury, or from the grand jury to the court, without alteration or erasement, and without disclosing the contents thereof; so help you, God.

Jury—Officer of

You swear (or affirm) that you will keep every person, sworn on this jury, together in some private or convenient place, without meat or drink (water excepted). You shall not suffer any person to speak to them, neither shall you speak to them yourself, unless it be to ask them whether they are agreed in their verdict, but with leave of the court; so help you, God.

Jury, in a Capital Case

You swear (or affirm) that you will well and truly try, and true deliverance make, between the state and the prisoner at the bar, whom you shall have in charge, and a true verdict give according to the evidence; so help you, God.

Jury, in Criminal Actions Not Capital

You and each of you swear (or affirm) that you will well and truly try all issues in criminal actions which shall come before you during this term, and true verdicts give according to the evidence thereon; so help you, God.

(The same oath to talesmen, by using the word "day" instead of "term".)

Jury, in Civil Actions

You and each of you swear (or affirm) that you will well and truly try all civil actions which shall come before you during this term, and true verdicts give according to the evidence; so help you, God.

(The same oath to talesmen, by using the word "day" instead of "term.")

Jury, Laying off Dower

You and each of you swear (or affirm) that you will, without partiality and according to your best judgment, lay off and allot to A. B., widow of C. D., such dower in the lands of said C. D. as by law she is entitled to; so help you, God.

Jury, Laying off Roads and Assessing Damages

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will lay out the road, directed to be laid out by the board of commissioners of the county, to the greatest ease and advantage of the inhabitants, and with as little prejudice to the owners of land over which same shall be laid out as may be; and will truly and impartially assess the damages which may be awarded by me for injuries done to lands by the laying out of said road, without favor, affection, malice or hatred, to the best of my skill and knowledge; so help me, God.

Judge of the Supreme Court

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that in my office of justice of the supreme court of North Carolina I will administer justice without respect to persons, and do equal right to the poor and the rich, to the state and to individuals; and that I will honestly, faithfully, and impartially perform all the duties of the said officer according to the best of my abilities, and agreeably to the constitution and laws of the state; so help me, God.

Judge of the Superior Court

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will well and truly serve the state of North Carolina in the office of judge of the superior court of the said state; I will do equal law and right to all persons, rich and poor, without having regard to any person. I will not wittingly or willingly take, by myself or by any other person, any fee, gift, gratuity or reward whatsoever, for any matter or thing by me to be done by virtue of my office, except the fees and salary by law appointed; I will not maintain, by myself or by any other person, privately or openly, any plea or quarrel depending in any of the said courts; I will not delay any person of common right by reason of any letter or command from any person or persons in authority to me directed, or for any other cause whatsoever; and in case any letter or orders come to me contrary to law, I will proceed to enforce the law, such letters or order notwithstanding; I will not appoint any person to be clerk of any of the said courts but such of the candidates as appear sufficiently qualified for that office; and in all such appointments I will nominate without reward, hope of reward, prejudice, favor or partiality or any other sinister motive whatsoever; and finally, in all things belonging to my office, during my continuance therein, I will faithfully, truly and justly, according to the best of my skill and judgment, do equal and impartial justice to the public and to individuals; so help me, God.

Justice of the Peace

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that as justice of the peace of the county of ....., in all articles in the commission to me directed, I will do equal right to the poor and the rich, to the best of my judgment and according to the laws of the state; I will not, privately or openly, by myself or any other person, be of counsel in any quarrel or suit depending before me; the fines and amercements that shall happen to be made, and the forfeitures that shall be incurred, I will cause to be duly entered without concealment; I will not wittingly or willingly take, by myself or by any other person for me, any fee, gift, gratuity or reward whatsoever for any matter or thing by me to be done by virtue of my office, except such fees as are or may be directed and limited by statute; but well and truly I will perform my office of justice of the peace; I will not delay any person of common right, by reason of any letter or order from any person in authority to me directed, or for any other cause whatever; and if any letter or order come to me contrary to law I will proceed to enforce the law, such letter or order notwithstanding. I will not direct or cause to be directed to the parties any warrant by me made, but will direct all such warrants to the sheriffs or constables of the county, or other officers or ministers of the state, or other indifferent persons, to do execution thereof; and finally, in all things belonging to my office, during my continuance therein, I will faithfully, truly and justly, and according to the best of my skill and judgment, do equal and impartial justice to the public and to individuals; so help me, God.

Register of Deeds

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully and truly, according to the best of my skill and ability, execute the duties of the office of register of deeds for the county of....., in all things according to law; so help me, God.

Secretary of State

I, A. B., do swear (or affirm) that I will, in all respects, faithfully and honestly execute the office of secretary of state of the state of North Carolina, during my continuance in office, according to law; so help me, God.

Sheriff

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will execute the office of sheriff of ..... county to the best of my knowledge and ability, agreeably to law; and that I will not take, accept or receive, directly or indirectly, any fee, gift, bribe, gratuity or reward whatsoever, for returning any man to serve as a juror or for making any false return on any process to me directed; so help me, God.

Standard Keeper

I, A. B., do swear (or affirm) that I will not stamp, seal or give any certificate for any steelyards, weights or measures, but such as shall, as near as possible, agree with the standard in my keeping; and that I will, in all respects, truly and faithfully discharge and execute the power and trust by law reposed in me, to the best of my ability and capacity; so help me, God.

State Treasurer

I, A. B., do swear (or affirm) that, according to the best of my abilities and judgment, I will execute impartially the office of state treasurer, in all things according to law, and account for the public taxes; and I will not, directly or indirectly, apply the public money to any other use than by law directed; so help me, God.

Stray Valuers

You swear (or affirm) that you well and truly view and appraise the stray, now to be valued by you, without favor or partiality, according to your skill and ability; so help you, God.

Surveyor for a County

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will well and impartially discharge the several duties of the office of surveyor for the county of ....., according to law; so help me, God.

Treasurer for a County

I, A. B., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that, according to the best of my skill and ability, I will execute impartially the office of treasurer for the county of ....., in all things according to law; that I will duly and faithfully account for all public moneys that may come into my hands, and will not, directly or indirectly, apply the same, or any part thereof, to any other use than by law directed; so help me, God.

Witness to Depose before the Grand Jury

You swear (or affirm) that the evidence you shall give to the grand jury, upon this bill of indictment against A. B., shall be the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth; so help you, God.

Witness in a Capital Trial

You swear (or affirm) that the evidence you shall give to the court and jury in this trial, between the state and the prisoner at the bar, shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; so help you, God.

Witness in a Criminal Action

You swear (or affirm) that the evidence you shall give to the court and jury in this action between the state and A. B. shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; so help you, God.

Witness in Civil Cases

You swear (or affirm) that the evidence you shall give to the court and jury in this cause now on trial, wherein A. B. is plaintiff and C. D. defendant, shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; so help you, God.

Witness to Prove a Will

You swear (or affirm) that you saw C. D. execute (or heard him acknowledge the execution of) this writing as his last will and testament; that you attested it in his presence and at his request; and that at the time of its execution (or at the time the execution was acknowledged) he was, in your opinion, of sound mind and disposing memory; so help you, God.

General Oath

Any officer of the state or of any county or township, the form of whose oath is not given above, shall take an oath in the following form:

I, A. B., do swear (or affirm) that I will well and truly execute the duties of the office of ..... according to the best of my skill and ability, according to law; so help me, God. (Rev., s. 2360; Code, ss. 3057, 3315; 1903, c. 604; 1874-5, c. 58, s. 2; R. C., c. 76, s. 6.)

CHAPTER 62

OFFICES AND PUBLIC OFFICERS

Art. 1. General Provisions

§ 3200. No person shall hold more than one office.—No person who shall hold any office or place of trust or profit under the United States, or any department thereof, or under this state, or under any other state or government, shall hold or exercise any other office or place of trust or profit under the authority of this state, or be eligible to a seat in either house of the general assembly; Provided, that nothing herein contained shall extend to officers in the militia, justices of the peace, commissioners of public charities, or commissioners for special purposes. (Rev., s. 2364; Const., Art. XIV, s. 7.)

I. EDITOR'S NOTE.

Editor's Note.—The celebrated case of Hoke v. Henderson, 15 N. C. 1, 2, was decided in the December Term, 1833. In that case the court held that a public office constitutes a species of private property based upon a contract between the officer and the State, and while the Legislature has the power, as the mere incident of a general law, to abolish offices as useless, it can not retain the office and deprive the officer of his property therein. Thus the status of a public office was established as a vested right. This decision and approximately forty cases following it form a part of our legal history, and are justly famous in the judicial annals of North Carolina, hence it is unnecessary to refer directly to each individual case in this note. Around the principle thus enunciated raged one of the fiercest battles of legal arguments within the experience of the bar of this State.

The struggle began with the decision of Hoke v. Henderson, supra, and extended over a period of more than seventy years, flaring up with particular heat in 1870, 1898 and 1903. It was finally in 1903 that the court by a three to two decision overruled Hoke v. Henderson, supra, in Mial v. Ellington, 134 N. C. 131, 46 S. E. 961. In the words of Mr. Justice Connor at page 162, "To conclude the matter, the doctrine of Hoke v. Henderson is based upon the proposition that a public office is private property, with all the results that logically flow therefrom. In so far as that case holds this proposition to be law, we expressly overrule it and declare that no officer can have a property in the sovereignty of the State; that in respect to offices created and provided for by the Constitution, the people in convention assembled alone can alter, change their tenure, duties or emoluments, or abolish them; that in respect to legislative offices, it is entirely within the power of the Legislature to deal with them as public policy may suggest and public interest may demand."

When Hoke v. Henderson was decided, the Supreme Court of the United States had not then held, as it soon afterwards did, in Butler v. Pennsylvania, 10 Howard 402, 416, 13 L. Ed. 472, that an office was not a contract and not protected by the contract clause of the Federal Constitution. That court has maintained that doctrine with uniformity ever since notably in Newton v. Commissioners, 100 U. S. 548, 25 L. Ed. 710; Blake v. United States, 103 U. S. 227; Crenshaw v. United States, 134 U. S. 99; Taylor v. Beckham, 178 U. S. 548, 577, 20 S. Ct. 890, 1009. Mr. Chief Justice Clark, in his concurring opinion in Mial v. Ellington, 134 N. C. 131, 165, 46 S. E. 961, ventures the opinion that, "Had those decisions on any one of them, been rendered in 1833, it is quite certain Hoke v. Henderson would have been decided the other way, for the construction placed by the United States Supreme Court upon any clause of the Federal Constitution is conclusive upon all courts." It is interesting to note that Montgomery, J., in his dissenting opinion in Mial v. Ellington frankly admits that "it may be taken as true that the Supreme Court of North Carolina is the only court, State or Federal, which has held that a legislative office is property; that it is held by contract between the State and the officer, and that the officer can be deprived of his office by judicial determination only." And Mr. Justice Douglas, also dissenting, fails to name a single case outside of North Carolina holding with Hoke v. Henderson.

The case was decided at a time when the American political spirit was still in its most formative years. We had hardly learned to stand without leaning heavily upon English institutions and customs. It was customary to cling to or adopt English political ideas, unless conditions clearly indicated the inadvisability of so doing. The question in Hoke v. Henderson was one of first impression in any American court. It was quite natural that the famous court of that day, learned in English Law, should have decided as they did. Neither is it to be doubted that the high esteem in which that great court, composed of Ruffin, C. J., Gaston, J., and Daniel, J., is, and has always been, held by the courts of the State, was a great influence in upholding the decision in Hoke v. Henderson. However, at the dawn of the twentieth century, the principle, being so clearly out of harmony with the American political ideas, was at last forced to yield in the name of democratic progress. For, as Mr. Justice Connor points out in his opinion in Mial v. Ellington, supra, if it be held that a public office is private property, "the State instead of being sovereign, finds herself, in her efforts to perform her governmental functions, bereft of her sovereignty, her hands tied, her progress obstructed, for those whom she has commissioned to be her servants have, by grants of parts and parcels of her sovereignty, become her masters, and, connecting her commissions into grants, forbid her to proceed or go forward."

II. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS.

One man may not hold two offices. Dowtin v. Beardsley, 126 N. C. 119, 35 S. E. 241.

At common law there was no limit on the right of a citizen to hold several offices, except the incompatibility of the duties of the several offices, and much learning was invoked in England and in this country on the question of "incompatibility." Barnhill v. Thompson, 122 N. C. 493, 29 S. E. 720, 721.

Under Constitution.—The question in this State does not turn upon the incompatibility of the duties of the two offices alone, as it did at common law, but upon the plain positive language of the Constitution. Caldwell v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 28 S. E. 554; Barnhill v. Thompson, 122 N. C. 493, 29 S. E. 720, 722.

Under art. 14, § 7, providing that no person who shall hold any office or place of trust or profit under the United States or any department thereof or under the State, etc., shall hold or exercise any other office or place of trust or profit under the authority of the State, provided, etc., an office or place of trust is a public position, involving a delegation to the individual of some part of the sovereign functions of the government to be exercised for the public benefit. State v. Smith, 145 N. C. 476, 59 S. E. 649.

Office Vacated Ipso Facto.—The acceptance of a second office by one already holding a public office operates ipso facto to vacate the first. While the officer has a right to elect which of the two he will retain, his election is deemed to be made when he accepts and qualifies for the second. State v. Thompson, 122 N. C. 493, 29 S. E. 720.

Necessity of Taking Oath.—The taking of an oath of office is not an indispensable criterion, for the office may exist without it. State v. Stanley, 66 N. C. 60; State v. Patrick, 124 N. C. 651, 33 S. E. 151, 153.

Power of the Legislature.—The Legislature may reduce or increase the salaries of such officers as are not protected by the constitution during their term of office, but can not deprive them of the whole. Cotten v. Ellis, 52 N. C. 545. This case is evidently following Hoke v. Henderson, 15 N. C. 1, which was overruled by Mial v. Ellington, 134 N. C. 131, 46 S. E. 961. For a complete discussion of this line of cases, see Editor's Note, supra.

Although an office is a constitutional one, the Legislature may, within reasonable limits change the statutory duties and diminish the emoluments of such office, if the public welfare requires it. Fortune v. Board, 140 N. C. 322, 52 S. E. 950; Commissioners v. Stedman, 141 N. C. 448, 54 S. E. 269.

The Legislature may attach additional duties to an existing office, and it may afterwards lop off those duties and assign them to a new office, leaving the original office as it was before the additional duties were attached to it. Dowtin v. Beardsley, 126 N. C. 119, 35 S. E. 241. As to power of Legislature to wholly abolish an office, or to transfer its duties, see Editor's Note, supra.

Manner of Appointment.—Where officers have to be appointed to fill a regular term, the Governor nominates to the Senate, unless it be an officer who is elected by the people, and then he fills the vacancy or term until the people can elect his successor. People v. McIver, 68 N. C. 467. See also, People v. Bledsoe, 68 N. C. 457; People v. McKee, 68 N. C. 429.

Authority to Suspend or Remove.—The power to create vacancies in a public office, incumbents of which are charged with continuing duties and responsibilities, rests, in the absence of provisions to the contrary, in the body possessing the original power of appointment. Greene v. Owen, 125 N. C. 212, 34 S. E. 424.

By Consolidation.—Offices whose duties are congruous may be consolidated; but it is just, in cases of consolidation of offices, to postpone the operation of the law until a vacancy appears in the office whose duties are to be transferred. Troy v. Wooten, 32 N. C. 377.

III. DISTINGUISHING CHARACTERISTICS.

Definition.—Public office is tenure by virtue of an appointment, conferred by public authority. Willis v. Melvin, 53 N. C. 62, 63.

The term embraces the ideas of tenure, duration, emolument and duties. United States v. Hartwell, 6 Wall. 385, 393, 18 L. Ed. 830; State v. Patrick, 124 N. C. 651, 662, 33 S. E. 151.

Same—Portion of Sovereignty Attaches.—An office or place of trust requiring a proceeding by quo warranto for the motion of the incumbent is defined as follows: "A public position to which a portion of the sovereignty of the country, either legislative, executive or judicial, attaches for the time being, and which is exercised for the benefit of the public." High Ex. Leg. Rem., sec. 620; Mechem Pub. Off., sec. 1; State v. Smith, 145 N. C. 476, 477, 59 S. E. 649.

Same—Agency from State.—A public office is an agency from the State, and the person whose duty it is to perform this agency is a public officer. State Prison v. Day, 124 N. C. 362, 32 S. E. 748.

Same—Same—Essence of Duty.—This is considered to be the true definition of a public officer in its original, broad sense. The essence of it is the duty of performing an agency, that is, of doing some act or acts or series of acts for the State. State v. Stanley, 66 N. C. 60, 63.

Same—Authority to Appoint.—If a person is authorized to appoint to an office, this duty of itself constitutes him a public officer. State v. Stanley, 66 N. C. 60, 8 Am. Rep. 488, citing Hoke v. Henderson, 15 N. C. 1, 12, cited in notes in 17 L. R. A. 243, 244, 247, 249; State v. Tate, 68 N. C. 546, cited in note in 17 L. R. A. 247.

Same—Combination of Duty and Agency.—In the textbooks it is taught that the word office in its primary signification implies a duty or duties—the agency from the State to perform the duties. The duties of the office are of first consequence, and the agency from the State to perform those duties is the next step in the creation of an office. It is the union of the two factors, duty and agency, which makes the office. State Prison v. Day, 124 N. C. 362, 368, 32 S. E. 748, 46 L. R. A. 295.

Mere Addition of Duties.—An act which merely attaches new duties to existing offices does not create a new office. McCullers v. Board, 158 N. C. 75, 82, 73 S. E. 816.

Distinguished from a Public Agency.—The most important characteristic which distinguishes an office from a public agency is that the conferring of the office carries with it a delegation to the individual of some of the sovereign functions of the government. In this respect the terms "office" and "place of trust" as used in our Constitution are synonymous. Doyle v. Raleigh, 89 N. C. 133, 136, 45 Am. Rep. 677; Barnhill v. Thompson, 122 N. C. 493, 495, 29 S. E. 720; State v. Smith, 145 N. C. 476, 59 S. E. 649, 650.

It is an administrative agency or public employment, and, as was said by Chief Justice Marshall, "although an office is an employment, it does not follow that every employment is an office." United States v. Maurice, Fed. Cas. No. 15747, 2 Brock. (U. S. C. C.), 96; State v. Smith, 145 N. C. 476, 478, 59 S. E. 649.

Distinguished from Placemen.—The distinction between officers and placemen is that the former are required to take an oath to support the Constitutions of the State and of the United States; whilst the latter are not. Worthy v. Barrett, 63 N. C. 199.

Distinguished from Employment and Contract.—An "office" is defined by good authority as involving a delegation to the individual of some of the sovereign functions of government, to be exercised by him for the benefit of the public, by which it is distinguished from "employment" or "contract." Mech. Pub. Off. secs. 1, 4; Eliason v. Coleman, 86 N. C. 236. A public office is an agency for the state. State v. Stanley, 66 N. C. 60; Barnhill v. Thompson, 122 N. C. 493, 29 S. E. 720, 721.

IV. GENERAL ILLUSTRATIONS.

The Executive Department is an agency for the State, and the Governor and others, whose duty it is to discharge this agency, are public officers. State v. Stanley, 66 N. C. 60, 64.

The trustees of the University, and the directors of the penitentiary, of the lunatic asylum and of the institution for the deaf, dumb and blind, are public officers. People v. McKee, 68 N. C. 429; People v. Bledsoe, 68 N. C. 457, cited in notes in 17 L. R. A. 243, 246; People v. Johnson, 68 N. C. 471; People v. McGowan, 68 N. C. 520.

The position of public administrator is a mere administrative agency, and not an office or place of trust, within the Const. Art. 14, sec. 7, prohibiting a person from filling two or more offices or places of trust under the federal, State, or county government at the same time. State v. Smith, 145 N. C. 476, 59 S. E. 649.

Legislative Members.—Mr. Justice Reade declares that "members of the Legislature are not officers. Theirs are places of trust and profit, but not offices of trust and profit." Worthy v. Barrett, 63 N. C. 199; Doyle v. Raleigh, 89 N. C. 133, 136. But see the two following notes.

The Legislative Department is an agency for the State, and the members of the Senate and of the House of representatives are public officers. State v. Stanley, 66 N. C. 60, 64. This case and the next preceding one are to be considered in the light of the explanation given in the next succeeding note. Ed. Note.

In State v. Stanley, 66 N. C. 60, 65, Pearson, C. J., says: "The distinction between Worthy v. Barrett (supra) is this: Here we are treating the terms 'public offices and public officers' in the broad, original, legal sense in which these terms are used in the Constitution of the State; there we were treating the terms in the restricted sense in which they are used in Article XIV of the Amendment of the Constitution of the United States."

Judges.—The judicial department is an agency for the State, and the judges are public officers. State v. Stanley, 66 N. C. 60, 64.

Federal Attorney Acting as Solicitor.—The appointment by the judge of the United States District Attorney to act temporarily for the absent solicitor in the prosecution of a criminal action in the State court, does not come within the inhibition of our Constitution, Art. XIV, sec. 7, as to holding two offices at the same time. State v. Wood, 175 N. C. 809, 95 S. E. 1050.

A clerk of the court is a public officer. Wilson v. Jordan, 124 N. C. 683, 33 S. E. 139.

Deputy clerk and justice of the peace under Acts 1808, c. 12, sec. 3, declares the appointment of deputy clerk of the county court to be incompatible with the office of a justice of the peace. Wardens v. Sneed, 5 N. C. 485.

A town clerk is a public officer. Rhodes v. Love, 153 N. C. 468, 69 S. E. 436.

A recorder is a public officer. Rhodes v. Love, 153 N. C. 468, 69 S. E. 436.

Under Const. Art. 14, sec. 7, excepting a justice of the peace from the inhibition against one holding two offices of trust or profit, one may be both a justice of the peace and the recorder of a city recorder's court. State v. Lord, 145 N. C. 479, 59 S. E. 656.

A clerk of the peace is a public officer. Rhodes v. Love, 153 N. C. 468, 69 S. E. 436.

A constable is a public officer. Rhodes v. Love, 153 N. C. 468, 69 S. E. 436.

State Printer.—Under Acts 1869-70, c. 43, abolishing the office of State printer, and Acts 1871-72, c. 180, providing for the letting of the State printing by contract, the position of State printer is not a public office. Brown v. Turner, 70 N. C. 93, cited in note in 17 L. R. A. 248.

Clerk of City Works. — It has even been held that a clerk of the city works is a public officer. Rhodes v. Love, 153 N. C. 468, 69 S. E. 436.

The office of the superintendent of the State's prison, with its attendant duties, is a public office. State v. Stanley, 66 N. C. 60; Hoke v. Henderson, 15 N. C. 1; Wood v. Bellamy, 120 N. C. 212, 27 S. E. 113; State Prison v. Day, 124 N. C. 362, 32 S. E. 748, 749.

That the members of the county board of education are public officers is expressly held in Barnhill v. Thompson, 122 N. C. 493, 29 S. E. 720. Greene v. Owen, 125 N. C. 212, 34 S. E. 424, 426.

Member of Board of Health.—Laws 1911, c. 62, sec. 9, relating to boards of health, held not to violate Const. Art. 14, sec. 7, forbidding the holding of two offices by one person. McCullers v. Board, 158 N. C. 75, 73 S. E. 816.

The office of brigadier general under the Confederate States was held to be incompatible with that of adjutant general of the State of North Carolina, and the acceptance of the former office was held to vacate the latter which was held at the time of such acceptance. In the Matter of Martin, 60 N. C. 153, in the appendix. But it is now customary for the adjutant general of a state to hold a commission as brigadier general from the Federal government.—Ed. note.

The office of chief inspector of the shell fish commission is a public office. White v. Hill, 125 N. C. 194, 34 S. E. 432.

The place of chief engineer of the W. N. C. R. R. is not a public office. The true test of a public office is that it is parcel of the administration of government, or is itself directly created by the law-making power. Eliason v. Coleman, 86 N. C. 236.

Sexton.—It has even been held that a sexton is a public officer. Rhodes v. Love, 153 N. C. 468, 69 S. E. 436.

Performance of Duties after End of Term.—Where the statute imposes certain duties to be performed by an officer after the expiration of the term of office, their performance does not constitute a place or office of trust or profit so as to disqualify the former officer from holding another office at the same time. State v. Somers, 96 N. C. 467, 2 S. E. 161.

§ 3201. Holding office contrary to the constitution; penalty.—If any person presumes to hold any office, or place of trust or profit, or is elected to a seat in either house of the general assembly, contrary to the seventh section of the fourteenth article of the constitution of the state, he shall forfeit and pay two hundred dollars to any person who will sue for the same. Provided, such action shall not be brought or maintained by any person who is not a bona fide resident of the same county in which the defendant resides. (Rev., s. 2365; Code, s. 1870; R. C. c. 77, s. 1; 1790, c. 319; 1792, c. 366; 1793, c. 393; 1796, c. 450; 1811, c. 811; 1924, c. 110.)

As to parties to suits for penalties, see sec. 447.

Editor's Note.—This section was amended by chapter 110, Laws 1924, by adding thereunto the proviso restricting the right of action to residents of the county in which the defendant resides.

§ 3202. Bargains for office void.—All bargains, bonds and assurances made or given for the purchase or sale of any office whatsoever, the sale of which is contrary to law, shall be void. (Rev., s. 2366; Code, s. 1871; R. C., c. 77, s. 2; 5 and 6 Edw. VI, c. 16, s. 3.)

Section 3946 prohibits a sheriff from letting to farm, in any manner, his county, or any part of it. Cansler v. Penland, 125 N. C. 578, 34 S. E. 683.

Theory of Appointments.—Ames, C. J., says in Eddy v. Capron, 67 Am. Dec. 541. "By the theory of our government, appointments to office are presumed to be made solely upon the principle detur digniori, and any practice whereby the bare consideration of money is brought to bear in any form upon such appointments to or resignation of office conflicts with and degrades this great principle. The services performed under such appointments are paid for by salary or fees, presumed to be adjusted at the point of adequate remuneration only. Any premium paid to obtain office interferes with this adjustment and tempts to speculation, overcharges and frauds in the effort to restore the balance thus disturbed." Quoted with approval in Basket v. Moss, 115 N. C. 448, 458, 20 S. E. 733.

The public has a right to some better test of the capacity of their servants than the fact that they possess the means of purchasing their offices. Basket v. Moss, 115 N. C. 448, 457, 20 S. E. 733.

Agreements Void.—Public offices are public trusts, and should be conferred solely upon considerations of ability, integrity, fidelity and fitness for the position. Agreements for compensation to procure these tend directly and necessarily to lower the character of the appointments, to the great detriment of the public. Hence, such agreements, of whatever nature, have always been held void as being against public policy. Maguire v. Comine, 101 U. S. 108; Tool Co. v. Norris, 2 Wall. 45, 17 L. Ed. 868; Gray v. Hook, 4 N. Y. 449; Gaston v. Drake, 33 Am. Rep. 548; Filsom v. Himes, 47 Am. Dec. 422; Faurie v. Morin, 4 Martin (La.), 39; Liness v. Hessing, 92 Am. Dec. 153; Basket v. Moss, 115 N. C. 448, 457, 20 S. E. 733.

Contracts to procure appointments to an office (Mechem on Public Officers, sec. 351), or to resign an office in another's favor are void. Meacham v. Dow, 32 Vt. 721; Gracone v. Wroughton, 11 Exch. 146; Basket v. Moss, 115 N. C. 448, 457, 20 S. E. 733.

Same—Common Law.—Such agreements are void at Common law, as well as by statute. Basket v. Moss, 115 N. C. 448, 457, 20 S. E. 733.

Same—Federal Offices.—Notwithstanding the office is an office under the United States government, if an action were brought in our courts to recover upon a bond or mortgage given for such consideration, our courts would hold it void. Basket v. Moss, 115 N. C. 448, 457, 20 S. E. 733.

§ 3203. Oath required before acting; penalty.—Every officer and other person required to take an oath of office, or an oath for the faithful discharge of any duty imposed on him, and also the oath appointed for such as hold any office of trust or profit in the state, shall take all said oaths before entering on the duties of the office, or the duties imposed on such person, on pain of forfeiting five hundred dollars to the use of the poor of the county in or for which the office is to be used, and of being ejected from his office or place by proper proceedings for that purpose. (Rev., s. 2367; Code, s. 1873; R. C., c. 77, s. 4.)

The taking of the oath of office is not an indispensable criterion, for the office may exist without it. It is a mere incident, and constitutes no part of the office. State v. Stanley, 66 N. C. 60; Comrs. v. Evans, 74 Penn. St., 124, 139; State v. Patrick, 124 N. C. 651, 662, 33 S. E. 151.

§ 3204. Persons admitted to office deemed to hold lawfully.—Any person who shall, by the proper authority, be admitted and sworn into any office, shall be held, deemed, and taken, by force of such admission, to be rightfully in such office until, by judicial sentence, upon a proper proceeding, he shall be ousted therefrom, or his admission thereto be, in due course of law, declared void. (Rev., s. 2368; Code, s. 1872; R. C. c. 77, s. 3; 1844, c. 38, s. 2; 1848, c. 64, s. 1; Const., Art. IV, s. 25.)

Tabulation By Clerk.—A tabulation of the result of an election by the clerk, in the manner required by law is prima facie correct. Cozart v. Fleming, 123 N. C. 547, 31 S. E. 822.

Appointment Biennially.—A proviso for an appointment to office "biennially" ex vi termini, implies a two years' term of office. State v. Patrick, 124 N. C. 651, 33 S. E. 151.

A relator in quo warranto proceedings to try title to office accepts the position that he has been displaced in the office, by the form of action in which he seeks to assert his rights, and may not therein avail himself of the position that under the section, he should have been ousted therefrom by a judicial sentence, under a proper proceeding, etc. State v. Croom, 167 N. C. 223, 83 S. E. 354.

To constitute an officer de facto it is requisite that there be some colorable election or appointment to and induction into the office. Van Amringe v. Taylor, 108 N. C. 196, 12 S. E. 1005, 23 Am. St. Rep. 51, 12 L. R. A. 202; Burke v. Elliott, 26 N. C. 355, 361; Gillam v. Reddick, 26 N. C. 368; Burton v. Patton, 47 N. C. 124; Commissioners v. McDaniel, 52 N. C. 107; People v. Staton, 73 N. C. 546; Keeler v. New Bern, 61 N. C. 505; State v. Lewis, 107 N. C. 967, 12 S. E. 457, 13 S. E. 247.

The indispensable basis of being a de facto officer is that there is such an office. Meacham Public Offices, sec. 324, and numerous cases there cited; State v. Shuford, 128 N. C. 588, 591, 38 S. E. 808, cited in note in 15 L. R. A., N. S. 102.

Persons who have been regarded as public officers for the greater part of the time during which the office existed, and whose acts are recognized by other public functionaries, must be taken to be officers de facto. Burton v. Patton, 47 N. C. 124, 62 Am. Dec. 194.

An officer de facto is one whose acts, though not those of a lawful officer, the law, upon principles of policy and justice, will hold valid, so far as they involve the interests of the public and third persons, where the duties of the office were exercised (1) without a known appointment or election, but under such circumstances of reputation or acquiescence as were calculated to induce people, without inquiry, to submit to or invoke his action, supposing him to be the officer he assumed to be; (2) under color of a known and valid appointment or election, but where the officer failed to conform to some precedent requirement or condition, such as taking an oath, giving a bond, or the like; (3) under color of a known election or appointment, void because there was a want of power in the electing or appointing body, or by reason of some defect or irregularity in its exercise, such ineligibility, want of power or defect being unknown to the public; (4) under color of an election or appointment, by or pursuant to a public unconstitutional law, before the same is adjudged to be such. State v. Lewis, 107 N. C. 967, 12 S. E. 457, 13 S. E. 247; State v. Taylor, 108 N. C. 196, 12 S. E. 1005; State v. Speaks, 95 N. C. 689; Whitehead v. Pittman, 165 N. C. 89, 80 S. E. 976.

Acts of de facto officers, who exercise their office for a considerable length of time, are as effectual when they concern the rights of third persons or the public as if they were officers de jure, but to constitute one an officer de facto there must be an actual exercise of the office and acquiescence of the public authorities long enough to cause, in the mind of the citizen, a strong presumption that the officer was duly appointed. Hughes v. Long, 119 N. C. 52, 25 S. E. 743; Gilliam v. Reddick, 26 N. C. 368; Burke v. Elliott, 26 N. C. 355; State v. Lewis, 107 N. C. 967, 12 S. E. 457, 13 S. E. 247.

The acts of one purporting to be an officer are evidence of his authority; and such acts, as to third persons, are to be taken as valid while the incumbent is thus acting. Swindell v. Warden, 52 N. C. 575.

The official acts of persons entering into office under color of an irregular election are of full force until such officers are removed by a proper proceeding. Commissioners v. McDaniel, 52 N. C. 107.

Usurping De Facto and De Jure Officers Distinguished.—A usurper is one who takes possession without any authority. His acts are utterly void, unless he continues to act for so long a time or under such circumstances as to afford a presumption of his right to act. And then his acts are valid as to the public and third persons. But he has no defense in a direct proceeding against himself. A de facto officer is one who goes in under color of authority or who exercises the duties of the office so long or under such circumstances as to raise a presumption of his right; in which cases his necessary official acts are valid as to the public and third persons; but he may be ousted by a direct proceeding. A de jure officer is one who is regularly and lawfully elected or appointed and inducted into office and exercises the duties as his right. All his necessary official acts are valid, and he can not be ousted. The only difference between an officer de facto and an officer de jure is that the former may be ousted in a direct proceeding against him, while the latter cannot be. So far as the public and third persons are concerned, there is no difference whatever. The acts of one have precisely the same force and effect as the acts of the other. People v. Staton, 73 N. C. 546, 550, citing Burke v. Elliott, 26 N. C. 355; Gilliam v. Reddick, 26 N. C. 368; Commissioners v. McDaniel, 52 N. C. 107; Swindell v. Warden, 52 N. C. 575; Keeler v. New Bern, 61 N. C. 505; Culver v. Eggers, 63 N. C. 630; Ellis v. N. C. Institution, 68 N. C. 423.

A mere intruder or usurper is not ordinarily, but may become, an officer de facto in some cases. This can happen only by the continued exercise of the office by him and the acquiescence therein by the public authorities and the public for such length of time as to afford to citizens generally a strong presumption that he had been duly appointed. But when without color of authority he simply assumes to act, to exercise authority as an officer, and the public know the fact, or reasonably ought to know that he is a usurper, his acts are absolutely void for all purposes. The mere fact that, apart from his usurpation, his supposed official acts were fair and honest could not impart to them validity and efficiency. Burke v. Elliott, 26 N. C. 355, 361; State v. Staton, 73 N. C. 546; State v. Taylor, 108 N. C. 196, 202, 12 S. E. 1005; 23 Am. St. Rep. 51, 12 L. R. A. 202; Whitehead v. Pittman, 165 N. C. 89, 80 S. E. 976.

To Try Title—In the Case of Contested Election.—Injunction does not lie to restrain county commissioners from declaring a public office vacant because of an apparent tie vote, where it is an attempt, in effect, to try the title to the office by injunction, which is not permissible. Cozart v. Fleming, 123 N. C. 547, 31 S. E. 822.

The erroneous action of the county commissioners in declaring an office vacant because of an apparent tie vote, and ordering a new election, does not warrant the granting of an injunction to one of the candidates, since the title to the office can be inquired into by quo warranto even after such a new election. Cozart v. Fleming, 123 N. C. 547, 31 S. E. 822.

Same—By Incumbent against an Intruder.—Injunction is not the proper method of trying title to an office and it will not lie at the suit of the incumbent of a public office to restrain a claimant of the office from claiming and exercising its powers and duties. Jones v. Commissioners, 77 N. C. 280; Patterson v. Hubbs, 65 N. C. 119.

How Brought.—An action to try the right of an incumbent to any public office, may be brought by the Attorney-General upon his own information, or upon the complaint of any private party. People v. Hilliard, 72 N. C. 169; People v. Wilson, 72 N. C. 155.

Right of Action.—Any person having a right to an office, can in his own name, bring an action for the purpose of testing his right as against one claiming adversely. Brown v. Turner, 70 N. C. 93.

Notwithstanding the maxim "De minimis non curat lex," a suit will be entertained to determine rights to an office paying only eight dollars a month in addition to board. Greene v. Owen, 125 N. C. 212, 34 S. E. 424.

Pleading—Proceeding in the Nature of Quo Warranto.—Title to a public office can not be tried by motion, but must be determined by a proceeding in the nature of quo warranto. Sneed v. Bullock, 77 N. C. 282, citing Patterson v. Hubbs, 65 N. C. 119; Brown v. Turner, 70 N. C. 93.

Same—As to Necessity of Demand.—No demand is necessary before suing to try the right to an office. Shennonhouse v. Withers, 121 N. C. 376, 28 S. E. 522.

Same—Allegation of Citizenship in Complaint.—Where persons who have been elected and qualified as county commissioners bring an action against persons appointed by the judge of the district, under the provisions of ch. 135, Laws 1895, to try the defendants' title to office, the complaint must allege that the plaintiffs are citizens and tax-payers of the county. Houghtalling v. Taylor, 122 N. C. 141, 29 S. E. 101, citing Hines v. Vann, 118 N. C. 3, 23 S. E. 932; Foard v. Hall, 111 N. C. 369, 16 S. E. 420, and cases there cited.

Conduct of Incumbent as Estoppel to Deny Vacancy.—Where a person had been elected clerk of the superior court, and at the proper time had tendered his bonds, which had been accepted by the court, and he inducted into office, while the former clerk was present in court, cognizant of what was going on, and did not object thereto, but surrendered up the office and records to the new clerk and retired from the performance of the duties of the office for twelve months thereafter. It was held, in an action in the nature of quo warranto, that such conduct in the old clerk amounted to a surrender of his office to the court, and justified the reception and induction into office of the newly elected clerk. Williams v. Somers, 18 N. C. 61.

Same—Estoppel to Deny.—A person who held himself out and who acted as an officer and who signed his name as such, and who in writing resigned the office, is estopped from denying that he accepted the office, and he vacated a prior office filled by him. Midgett v. Gray, 159 N. C. 443, 74 S. E. 1050, reversing judgment on rehearing on other grounds 158 N. C. 133, 73 S. E. 791.

A person who held himself out and who acted as an officer is estopped to deny his qualification when the acceptance of such office is relied on to vacate a prior office filled by him, and that he was not sworn on the Bible when he qualified for the second office is not available. Midgett v. Gray, 159 N. C. 443, 74 S. E. 1050, reversing judgment on rehearing on other grounds 158 N. C. 133, 73 S. E. 791; State v. Long, 76 N. C. 254; State v. Cansler, 75 N. C. 442.

§ 3205. Officer to hold until successor qualified.—All officers shall continue in their respective offices until their successors are elected or appointed, and duly qualified. (Rev., s. 2368; Code, s. 1872; R. C., c. 77, s. 3; 1848, c. 64, s. 2.)

Holding over after Expiration of Term.—An officer elected by the people, holding over his regular term on failure of his successor to qualify, holds over until the place is filled at the next general election, under Const. Art. 3, §§ 1, 13. People v. McIver, 68 N. C. 467, cited in note in 50 L. R. A., N. S., 376.

Where an officer has been inducted into his office before the beginning of the term for which he was re-elected, one who is appointed to fill the vacancy, caused by his death before that term begins, holds only until the expiration of the first term. State v. Smith, 81 N. C. 304, cited in notes in 14 L. R. A. 858; 50 L. R. A., N. S. 380.

Term of Appointee of Judge.—In case of a vacancy in the office of the clerk of the superior court the appointee of the judge holds only until the next election at which members of the General Assembly are chosen. Rodwell v. Rowland, 137 N. C. 617, 50 S. E. 319.

Status of Officer Holding over—De Jure.—Whether regarded as a part of an original term or a new and conditional one by virtue of the statute, the holders are regarded as officers de jure until their successors have been lawfully elected or appointed and have properly qualified. State v. Simpson, 175 N. C. 135, 95 S. E. 106.

Same—De Facto.—Where a clerk of the superior court held over in office until his successor qualified, he was at least clerk de facto; his acts can not be collaterally impeached, and are valid as to third parties. Threadgill v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 73 N. C. 178. It would seem that the rule now is, as laid down in the preceding case, to consider such an officer an officer de jure.

§ 3206. Citizen to recover funds of county or town retained by delinquent official.—When an official of a county, city or town is liable upon his bond for unlawfully and wrongfully retaining by virtue of his office a fund, or a part thereof, to which the county, city or town is entitled, any citizen and taxpayer may, in his own name for the benefit of the county, city or town, institute suit and recover from the delinquent official the fund so retained. Any county commissioners, aldermen, councilmen or governing board who fraudulently, wrongfully and unlawfully permit an official so to retain funds shall be personally liable therefor; any citizen and taxpayer may, in his own name for the benefit of the county, city or town, institute suit and recover from such county commissioners, aldermen, councilmen or governing board, the fund so retained. Before instituting suit under this section, the citizen and taxpayer shall file a statement before the county commissioners, treasurer, or other officers authorized by law to institute the suit, setting forth the fund alleged to be retained or permitted to be retained, and demanding that suit be instituted by the authorities authorized to sue within sixty days. The citizen and taxpayer so suing shall receive one-third part, up to the sum of five hundred dollars, of the amount recovered, to indemnify him for his services, but the amount received by the taxpayer and citizen as idemnity shall in no case exceed five hundred dollars. (1913, c. 80.)

The section applies to money collected before the passage of the act, and a citizen and taxpayer on sufficient and proper averment of default on part of the county officials, had and has a right to maintain an action of this character without resort to the provisions of the statute. Waddill v. Masten, 172 N. C. 582, 585, 90 S. E. 694.

Under the provisions of this section, citizens and taxpayers of a county may maintain an action against the commissioners of the county and its defaulting sheriff to enforce collection of the amount of the default upon allegations that the county commissioners have corruptly refused to perform their duties in this respect. Weaver v. Hampton, 201 N. C. 798, 161 S. E. 480.

§ 3206(a). Trust funds to be kept separate.—Any sheriff, treasurer or other officer of any county, city, town or other political subdivision of the State, receiving, by virtue of his office, public money or money to be held by him in trust shall keep or deposit such money or the credits or other evidence thereof separate and apart from his own funds and shall not, at any time, apply such money to his own use or benefit or intermingle the same in any manner with credits or funds of his own. (1931, c. 77, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—To the extent that this section requires local public officers to keep their official bank accounts separate from their personal accounts and prohibits them from applying official funds to personal uses and from intermingling official and personal moneys, it probably states a well-known principle of law. The need for the statute, however, arose out of cases where local officials had defaulted and where the mixup of personal and official funds in the same account made tracing difficult if not impossible. The new statute, therefore, by making the principle specific, perhaps puts the officers on warning. It should be read in connection with §§ 1326 and 1334(70), relating to the reports and deposits. While it is made the duty of the County Government Advisory Commission to report violations to the solicitor, the Local Government Commission, which succeeds to the rights and liabilities of the former by § 2493(3) now has such duty to perform. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 400.

§ 3206(b). Violations to be reported; misdemeanors.—It shall be the duty of the Executive Secretary of the County Government Advisory Commission to report to the solicitor of the district any violation of section 3206(a) of which he may have knowledge, and that any violation of such section shall be unlawful and shall constitute a misdemeanor, punishable be fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court. (1931, c. 77, s. 2.)

§ 3207. Local: Officers compensated from fees to render statement; penalty; proceeds to school fund.—Every clerk of the superior court, register of deeds, sheriffs, coroner, surveyor, or other county officer, whose compensation for services performed shall be derived from fees, shall render to the board of county commissioners of their respective counties, on the first Monday in December of each year, a statement, verified under oath, showing: first, the total gross amount of all fees collected during the preceding fiscal year; second, the total amount paid out during the preceding fiscal year for clerical or office assistance. Any county officer, subject to this section, who refuses or fails to file such report as above provided, on or before the first Monday in December, shall be subject to a fine of twenty-five dollars and ten dollars additional for each day or fraction of a day such failure shall continue. The board of county commissioners shall assess and collect the penalty above provided for, and apply same to the general school fund of the county. The first report under this section shall be for the fiscal year beginning December twelfth, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen.

This section applies only to the counties of Anson, Bertie, Bladen, Cabarrus, Carteret, Chowan, Currituck, Duplin, Halifax Harnett, Haywood, Hertford, Johnston, Jones, Moore, Pender, Perquimans, Pitt, Randolph, Richmond, Rowan, Scotland, Union, Vance, Warren, Washington, Wayne, Wilson. (1913, c. 97; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 10; 1935, c. 390.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 added Cabarrus county to the list of counties to which the section is applicable.

Power of Legislature to Regulate Pay.—One who accepts a public office does so, with well defined exceptions as to certain constitutional offices, under the authority of the Legislature to change the emoluments he is to receive for the performance of his duties, at any time, and, while the office of sheriff is a constitutional one, the regulation of his fees is within the control of the Legislature, and the same may be reduced during the term of the incumbent, or he may therein be compensated by a salary instead of on a fee basis. Mills v. Deaton, 170 N. C. 386, 87 S. E. 123.

Construction of Act Changing Pay from Salary to Fee Basin.—An act changing the pay of county officials from a salary to a fee basis, taking prospective effect from the expiration of the terms of the present incumbents, will be presumed to have a sensible and just intent, with knowledge of existing conditions and will not be construed as to apply to deprive the incumbent sheriff of the emoluments of his term by requiring that he deliver the tax lists to his successor. Commissioners v. Bain, 173 N. C. 377, 92 S. E. 176.

Art. 2. Removal of Unfit Officers

§ 3208. Officers subject to removal; for what offenses.—Any city prosecuting attorney, any sheriff, police officer, or constable, shall be removed from office by the judge of the superior court upon charges made in writing, and hearing thereunder, for the following cause:

First. For willful or habitual neglect or refusal to perform the duties of his office.

Second. For willful misconduct or maladministration in office.

Third. For corruption.

Fourth. For extortion.

Fifth. Upon conviction of a felony.

Sixth. For intoxication, or upon conviction of being intoxicated. (1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 20.)

As to appropriate manner of action by which to try the title to an office, see section 870 and annotations thereto.

Purpose.—The officer may be removed for misconduct or failure to perform the duties of his office, whether such failures were willful or habitually negligent; the statute was evidently enacted for the protection of the public, and not for the punishment of the delinquent officer. State v. Hamme, 180 N. C. 684, 687, 104 S. E. 174.

Failure to Take Oath Does Not Exempt from Liability.—There can be no doubt that if one elected to an office takes possession of it, and engages in the exercise of its duties, and misbehaves as in this case—take unlawful and extortionate fees—he will be liable for such misbehavior, notwithstanding the fact that he failed to take oath of office. State v. Cansler, 75 N. C. 442, 444.

What Evidence Sufficient.—The evidence of a prosecuting attorney in proceedings before the judge to remove him from office, under this section is sufficient to sustain an order removing him when it admits that he attempts to induce, and did induce, a person to violate the statutes of our State in participating in acts made an offense for immorality, etc., whatever his intent may have been therein. State v. Hamme, 180 N. C. 684, 104 S. E. 174. It was also held in this case that the prosecuting attorney could not complain because he was removed not in accordance with the specifications alleged in the petition, but upon his own evidence, the element of surprise or possibility of an amendment to the petition not entering.—Ed. Note.

Jury Not Required.—The proceedings under this section do not require an issue to be submitted to the jury. Upon the defendant's own admissions in this case, and evidence, he is guilty of the offense charged, which is sufficient to remove him from office; such office is not a property right under the provisions of the Constitution of North Carolina, Art. 1, section 19. State v. Hamme, 180 N. C. 684, 104 S. E. 174.

Appeal from Superior Court.—An appeal from the judgment of the superior court judge that a prosecuting attorney be removed for "willful misconduct or maladministration in office," etc., is upon questions of law and legal inferences, if justified by the findings of facts supported by evidence. Constitution, Art. VI, sec. 8; and the appeal is allowed by C. S., 638; State v. Hamme, 180 N. C. 684, 104 S. E. 174.

Enjoining Vacating of Office by Commissioners before They Have Qualified.—An action to enjoin newly-elected county commissioners, who had not yet qualified, from declaring a public office vacant, and electing a successor, is properly dismissed as premature. Cozart v. Fleming, 123 N. C. 547, 31 S. E. 822.

§ 3209. Petition for removal; county attorney to prosecute.—The complaint or petition shall be entitled in the name of the state of North Carolina, and may be filed upon the relation of any five qualified electors of the county in which the person charged is an officer, upon the approval of the county attorney of such county, or the solicitor of the district, or by any such officer upon his own motion. It shall be the duty of the county attorney or solicitor to appear and prosecute this proceeding. (1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 21.)

§ 3210. Petition filed with clerk; what it shall contain; answer.—The accused shall be named as defendant, and the petition shall be signed by some elector, or by such officer. The petition shall state the charges against the accused, and may be amended, and shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of this county in which the person charged is an officer. The accused may at any time prior to the time fixed for hearing file in the office of the clerk of the superior court his answer, which shall be verified. (1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 22.)

§ 3211. Suspension pending hearing; how vacancy filled.—Upon the filing of the petition in the office of the superior court, and the presentation of the same to the judge, the judge may suspend the accused from office if in his judgment sufficient cause appear from the petition and affidavit, or affidavits, which may be presented in support of the charges contained therein. In case of suspension, as herein provided, the temporary vacancy shall be filled in the manner provided by law for filling of the vacancies in such office. (1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 23.)

§ 3212. Precedence on calendar; costs.—In the trial of the cause in the superior court the cause shall be advanced and take precedence over all other causes upon the court calendar, and shall be heard at the next term after the petition is filed, provided the proceedings are filed in said court in time for said action to be heard. The superior court shall fix the time of hearing. If the final termination of such proceedings be favorable to any accused officer, said officer shall be allowed the reasonable and necessary expense, including a reasonable attorney fee, to be fixed by the judge, he has incurred in making his defense, by the county, if he be a county officer, or by the city or town in which he holds office, if he be a city officer. If the action is instituted upon the complaint of citizens as herein provided, and it appears to the court that there was no reasonable cause for filing the complaint, the costs may be taxed against the complaining parties. (1919, c. 288; P. L. 1913, c. 761, s. 24.)

CHAPTER 63

PARTITION

Art. 1. Partition of Real Property

§ 3213. Partition is a special proceeding.—Partition under this chapter shall be by special proceeding and the procedure shall be the same in all respects as prescribed by law in special proceedings, except as modified herein. (Rev., s. 2485; Code, s. 1923; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 33.)

As to partition generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. 857 et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 158 et seq.

Editor's Note.—At one time partition could be effected only by a suit in equity of which the several State courts possessing general equity or chancery jurisdiction had cognizance. This was changed in 1868 and the proceedings made special. Special proceedings are regulated by sections 753 et seq., of this code, to which, with the annotations thereto, reference should be made.

Chapter Does Not Apply to Partition by Agreement.—This chapter applies to compulsory or judicial partition. It does not apply to partition by agreement. Keener v. Den, 73 N. C. 132. As to the authority of the court in a partition by agreement, and the procedure therein, see Outlaw v. Outlaw, 184 N. C. 255, 114 S. E. 4; Newsome v. Harrell, 168 N. C. 295, 84 S. E. 337. See also, 9 Enc. Dig. 861 et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 159 et seq.

When the proceeding for partition becomes adverse to him the plaintiff is not allowed to take a voluntary nonsuit. Haddock v. Stocks, 167 N. C. 70, 83 S. E. 9.

Cited in Skinner v. Carter, 108 N. C. 106, 12 S. E. 908.

§ 3214. Venue in partition.—The proceeding for partition, actual or by sale, must be instituted in the county where the land or some part thereof lies. If the land to be partitioned consists of one tract lying in more than one county, or consists of several tracts lying in different counties, proceedings may be instituted in either of the counties in which a part of the land is situated, and the court of such county wherein the proceedings for partition are first brought shall have jurisdiction to proceed to a final disposition of said proceedings, to the same extent as if all of said land was situate in the county where the proceedings were instituted. (Rev., s. 2486; Code, s. 1898; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 7; 1924, c. 62.)

As to jurisdiction in partition generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. 872 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The latter part of the section, stating the extent of the jurisdiction of the court, and the provision for partition of land consisting of several tracts, were added by the Public Laws of 1924, Extra Session.

Waiver of Venue.—Construing secs. 469, 470, and this section, in pari materia, venue cannot be jurisdictional, and it may always be waived. Pleading to the merits waives defective venue. Venue is a matter not to be determined by the common law, but by legislative regulation. Clark v. Carolina Homes, 189 N. C. 703, 128 S. E. 20, 25. For distinctions between venue and jurisdiction, see the Editor's Note to sec. 463.

§ 3215. Petition by cotenant.—One or more persons claiming real estate as joint tenants or tenants in common may have partition by petition to the superior court. (Rev., s. 2487; Code, s. 1892; 1886-9, c. 122, s. 1.)

As to requirements of petition for partition, see 9 Enc. Dig. 875 et seq., 15 Enc. Dig. 158 et seq.; as to the procedure for sale, and the remainder to uncertain persons, see section 1744 and annotations thereunder. See also note under § 3233.

I. IN GENERAL.

Jurisdiction of Superior Court.—The superior court acquires jurisdiction over proceedings to partition lands upon their being transferred by the clerk thereto, in term, and may proceed therewith and fully determine all matters in controversy. In such case it is immaterial whether it was properly instituted before the clerk. Baggett v. Jackson, 160 N. C. 26, 76 S. E. 86.

Necessity of Possession.—Tenants in common who are not in possession can not procure an order for partition. Church v. Thornton, 158 N. C. 119, 73 S. E. 810; Wood v. Sugg, 91 N. C. 93, 49 Am. Rep. 639.

The Petition—Omission of Term of Court.—A petition entitled in the original cause, but addressed to the clerk, in special proceedings for partition is not demurrable because it does not give the term of court or any court in the caption. Hartsfield v. Bryan, 177 N. C. 166, 98 S. E. 379. For full treatment of the requirements of the petition, see 9 Enc. Dig. 875 et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 158 et seq.

Same—Possession.—If the petition alleges that the petitioners are tenants in common in fee, it will not be dismissed for failure to allege that they are entitled to immediate possession. Epley v. Epley, 111 N. C. 505, 16 S. E. 321; Alexander v. Gibbon, 118 N. C. 796, 24 S. E. 748, 54 Am. St. Rep., 757.

Same—Leave to Amend.—On petition before the clerk for partition, permission to amend the petition is purely within the discretion of the clerk. Simmons v. Jones, 118 N. C. 472, 24 S. E. 114.

Lands Not Included in Petition.—The petitioners are not entitled as a matter of right to have a part only of the lands divided, and the defendants may have other land held in common included. Luther v. Luther, 157 N. C. 499, 73 S. E. 102. But see section 3227 and notes thereto.

Not Proper Remedy for Ouster.—Where a tenant in common has been actually ousted by his cotenant, his remedy is by ejectment, and not partition. Thomas v. Garvin, 15 N. C. 223, 25 Am. Dec. 708, cited in note in 20 L. R. A. 627.

Divorced Wife against Husband's Grantee.—When marriage is dissolved by divorce the husband and wife become tenants in common of property formerly held by the entirety, and are entitled to partition. McKinnon, etc., Co. v. Caulk, 167 N. C. 411, 83 S. E. 559, L. R. A. 1915C, 396.

Partition as to Churches. — Churches belonging to an association controlling a school are not entitled to partition. Church v. Thornton, 158 N. C. 119, 73 S. E. 810.

II. PARTIES.

As to parties in partition proceedings generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. 873 et seq.

In General.—Parties claiming to hold in common may properly be brought in as defendants. McKeel v. Holloman, 163 N. C. 132. Partition can be made only by tenants in common who are seized of the freehold, and not by those in remainder or reversion. Ordinarily, partition lies only in favor of one who has a seizin and right of immediate possession. Osborne v. Mull, 91 N. C. 203.

Sale or Partition of Reversions, Remainders and Executory Interests.—This section is no authority for partition as between the life tenant and remaindermen, except where the proceeding is brought by the remaindermen, and the life tenant is joined. Burton v. Cahill, 192 N. C. 505, 510, 135 S. E. 332. For a full treatment of the sales mentioned in the catch-line, see section 3234 and the notes thereto.

Persons Bound. — Persons not parties are not bound. Henderson v. Wallace, 72 N. C. 451; Patillo v. Lytle, 158 N. C. 92, 73 S. E. 200. And if named as parties they must be served with process. Putillo v. Lytle, 158 N. C. 92, 73 S. E. 200.

Partition by Infant and Another.—Where partition was brought by a minor and another, the latter was bound by the judgment, although it was not approved by the judge of the court. Lindsay v. Beaman, 128 N. C. 189, 38 S. E. 811.

Claimant of Paramount Title.—In an action for partition of lands, it is proper to allow another party claiming paramount title to the land to intervene and assert his rights. Roughton v. Duncan, 178 N. C. 5, 100 S. E. 78. But such a claimant may be estopped by his laches. Thomas v. Garvin, 15 N. C. 223, 25 Am. Dec. 703.

Administrator as Party.—In an action by the heirs at law for partition of an intestate's lands, the administrator can not be made a party defendant, on his opposition to the partition, and application to sell the land for debts of the estate. Garrison v. Cox, 99 N. C. 478, 6 S. E. 124.

Judgment Creditors and Mortgagees.—In proceedings for partition, judgment creditors of the individual tenants, and their mortgagees, are proper parties to the proceedings; and where such lienors have been made parties thereto, it is error for the trial judge to dismiss the action as to them. Holley v. White, 172 N. C. 77, 89 S. E. 1061.

Making Additional Party for Purpose of Setting Aside Sale.—An application to be made a party defendant in partition proceedings after confirmation of sale was properly denied, where it was based on deeds from persons who never had claimed any title and accompanied by a motion to set aside the sale to permit his principals to make a bid. Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162 N. C. 145, 77 S. E. 113.

Presence of Unnecessary Party.—The presence of an unnecessary party, in proceedings for partition of lands, will be regarded as immaterial, except as affecting costs. Baggett v. Jackson, 160 N. C. 26, 76 S. E. 86.

Unknown Parties.—See section 3218 and notes thereto.

III. PLEA OF SOLE SEIZIN.

As to determination of titles in partition proceedings generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. 867 et seq.

Effect of Plea.—Where the plea of sole seizin is set up, the effect is practically to convert it into an action of ejectment. When it is not set up, the parties are taken to be tenants in common, and the only inquiry is as to the interests owned. Haddock v. Stocks, 167 N. C. 70, 74, 83 S. E. 9; Graves v. Barrett, 126 N. C. 267, 270, 35 S. E. 539. Where the plea is set up the proper course is for the court to try title to the land. Purvis v. Wilson, 50 N. C. 22, 69 Am. Dec. 773. The action should not be dismissed because of the policy of the code that all matters of controversy concerning the same subject, between all the parties having an interest therein, be disposed of in one action. Goodman v. Sapp, 102 N. C. 477, 9 S. E. 483.

Plea Not Put in before Partition Ordered. — Where, in partition, a plea of sole seisin is not put in before the order of partition is made, it will be considered as waived. Wright v. McCormick, 69 N. C. 14.

Burden of Proof.—Where the defendants plead sole seizin in proceedings to partition lands, the burden of proof is with the plaintiff, which will devolve upon the defendant to establish adverse possession, when relied upon for title, after a prima facie case of tenancy in common is made out. Lester v. Harvard, 173 N. C. 83, 91 S. E. 698.

Effect of Adjudication When Title Put in Issue.—While proceedings for the partition of lands do not ordinarily place the title at issue, such may be done by the tenants in common, and the judgment thereunder will estop them. Baugham v. Trust Co., 181 N. C. 406, 107 S. E. 431; Buchanan v. Harrington, 152 N. C. 333, 67 S. E. 747, 136 Am. St. Rep. 838.

Cited in Brittain v. Mull, 91 N. C. 498, 504.

§ 3216. Surface and minerals in separate owners; partitions distinct.— When the title to the mineral interests in any land has become separated from the surface in ownership, the tenants in common or joint tenants of such mineral interests may have partition of the same, distinct from the surface, and without joining as parties the owner or owners of the surface; and the tenants in common or joint tenants of the surface may have partition of the same, in manner provided by law, distinct from the mineral interest and without joining as parties the owner or owners of the mineral interest. In all instances where the mineral interests and surface interests have thus become separated in ownership, the owner or owners of the mineral interests shall not be compelled to join in a partition of the surface interests, nor shall the owner or owners of the surface interest be compelled to join in a partition of the mineral interest, nor shall the rights of either owner be prejudiced by a partition of the other interests. (Rev., s. 2488; 1905, c. 90.)

§ 3217. Petition by judgment creditor of cotenant; assignment of homestead.—When any person owns a judgment duly docketed in the superior court of a county wherein the judgment debtor owns an undivided interest in fee in land as a tenant in common, or joint tenant, and the judgment creditor desires to lay off the homestead of the judgment debtor in the land and sell the excess, if any, to satisfy his judgment, the judgment creditor may institute before the clerk of the court of the county wherein the land lies a special proceeding for partition of the land between the tenants in common, making the judgment debtor, the other tenants in common and all other interested persons parties to the proceeding by summons. The proceeding shall then be in all other respects conducted as other special proceedings for the partition of land between tenants in common. Upon the actual partition of the land the judgment creditor may sue out execution on his judgment, as allowed by law, and have the homestead of the judgment debtor allotted to him and sell the excess, as in other cases where the homestead is allotted under execution. The remedy provided for in this section shall not deprive the judgment creditor of any other remedy in law or in equity which he may have for the enforcement of his judgement lien. (Rev., s. 2489; 1905, c. 429.)

§ 3218. Unknown parties; summons and representation.—If, upon the filing of a petition for partition, it be made to appear to the court by affidavit or otherwise that there are any persons interested in the premises whose names are unknown to and cannot after due diligence be ascertained by the petitioner, the court shall order notices to be given to all such persons by a publication of the petition, or of the substance thereof, with the order of the court thereon, in one or more newspapers to be designated in the order. If after such general notice by publication any person interested in the premises and entitled to notice fails to appear, the court shall in its discretion appoint some disinterested person to represent the owner of any shares in the property to be divided, the ownership of which is unknown and unrepresented. (Rev., s. 2490; 1887, c. 284.)

See section 1744 and notes thereto; as to parties to partition proceedings generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. 873 et seq.

Appointment Discretionary.—It is discretionary, by the express terms of the statute, with the trial judge as to whether he will appoint some disinterested person to represent the interest of unknown persons, etc., and this discretion is not reviewable. Lawrence v. Hardy, 151 N. C. 123, 65 S. E. 766.

Purchaser Acquires Good Title.—When the service of summons has been made by publication on parties unknown, as required by this section, the proceedings being regular upon their face, and the court having jurisdiction of the subject matter, a purchaser for full value without notice acquires title, free from claim or demand of such heir upon whom summons has been thus served. Lawrence v. Hardy, 151 N. C. 123, 65 S. E. 766.

Purchaser Cannot Resist Payment of Purchase Price. — Where the method prescribed by this section is followed, a purchaser may not successfully resist payment of the purchase price of the land on the ground of a defect in title for that the commissioner's deed would not preclude the claim of the missing heir. Bynum v. Bynum, 179 N. C. 14, 101 S. E. 527.

§ 3219. Commissioners appointed.—The superior court shall appoint three disinterested commissioners to divide and apportion such real estate, or so much thereof as the court may deem best, among the several tenants in common, or joint tenants. Provided, in cases where the land to be partitioned lies in more than one county, then the court may appoint such additional commissioners as it may deem necessary from counties where the land lies other than the county where the proceedings are instituted. (Rev., s. 2487; Code, s. 1892; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 1; 1924, c. 62.)

Cross References.—See notes to section 3222; as to the salaries and fees of commissioners in partition proceedings, see section 3895.

Editor's Note.—The provision of this section in regard to the appointment of additional commissioners when the land lies in more than one county was added to the original section by the amendment of 1924.

§ 3220. Oath of commissioners.—The commissioners shall be sworn by a justice of the peace, or other person authorized to administer oaths, to do justice among the tenants in common, in respect to such partition, according to their best skill and ability. (Rev., s. 2492; Code, s. 1893; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 2.)

As to the form of the oath, see section 3199.

§ 3221. Delay or neglect of commissioner penalized.—If, after accepting the trust, any of the commissioners unreasonably delay or neglect to execute the same, every such delinquent commissioner shall be liable for contempt and may be removed, and shall be further liable to a penalty of fifty dollars, to be recovered by the petitioner. (Rev., s. 2498; Code, s. 1901; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 10.)

§ 3222. Commissioners to meet and make partition; equalizing shares.—The commissioners, who shall be summoned by the sheriff, or any constable, must meet on the premises and partition the same among the tenants in common, or joint tenants, according to their respective rights and interests therein, by dividing the land into equal shares in point of value as nearly as possible, and for this purpose they are empowered to subdivide the more valuable tracts as they may deem best, and to charge the more valuable dividends with such sums of money as they may think necessary, to be paid to the dividends of inferior value, in order to make an equitable partition. (Rev., s. 2491; Code, s. 1894; 1887, c. 284, s. 2; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 3.)

Cross References.—As to owelty generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. 883, et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 165 et seq.; as to determination of mode of partition, see 9 Enc. Dig. 879 et seq.

Applies Only to Compulsory Partition or Sale. — Where the partition was not compulsory but was under an agreement between cotenants, this section is not applicable. Outlaw v. Outlaw, 184 N. C. 255, 258, 114 S. E. 4; Newsome v. Harrell, 168 N. C. 295, 84 S. E. 337.

Action of Two Commissioners Valid.—Where three commissioners are appointed to partition land the action of any two of them is valid. Thompson v. Shemwell, 93 N. C. 222. And this action may consist in filling the vacancy caused by the absence of the third commissioner, when done in the presence of the interested parties and without their objection. Simmons v. Foscue, 81 N. C. 86.

By the very terms of section 3228, the signature of two of the commissioners to their report is sufficient. Thompson v. Shemwell, supra.

Existing Easement.—It would seem that existing easements are not destroyed by a division in partition. See Jones v. Swindell, 176 N. C. 34, 96 S. E. 663.

Improvements.—A tenant in common is entitled to recover against a co-tenant for betterments he has placed on the land. Daniel v. Dixon, 163 N. C. 137, 79 S. E. 425. Section 699 does not apply in such a case. See the section and the last paragraph of the notes thereto.

Where no appeal is taken from the order allowing for the improvements, it concludes the plaintiff from having the good faith of the defendant, in making the improvements, inquired into. Fisher v. Toxaway Co., 171 N. C. 547, 88 S. E. 887.

But where in a partition an excessive portion is allotted to one, which is reduced on a re-allotment, he can not be allowed for improvements made on the excess, as it was his own folly to make them before obtaining a final decree and his deed. Carland v. Jones, 55 N. C. 506.

Basis of Owelty.—The right to owelty on an unequal partition is based on the implied warranty attaching to each share from all the others. Cheatham v. Crews, 88 N. C. 38; Nixon v. Lindsay, 55 N. C. 230.

Owelty Not Mere Lien Debt. — The charge in partition upon the more valuable shares is not a mere debt secured by lien. The debtor is a tenant in common with the holder of the share in whose favor the decree is entered to the extent of the charge, until the same shall be satisfied. In re Walker, 107 N. C. 340, 12 S. E. 136.

Same—Charge upon Land.—The sums charged upon "the more valuable dividends," in partitions of lands are charges, not upon the persons of the owners of such dividends, but upon the land alone. Young v. Trustees, 62 N. C. 261.

Owelty Follows Land.—Charges upon land for equality of partition follow the land into the hands of all persons to whom it may come; and they are held to be affected by constructive notice. Powell v. Weatherington, 124 N. C. 40, 32 S. E. 380; Dobbin v. Rex, 106 N. C. 444, 11 S. E. 260. As to the docketing of owelty charges, see section 3232.

When Land Charged with Payment of Several Shares.—Payment under execution of the charge in favor of one share does not discharge the land in the hands of the purchaser from the payment of a charge in favor of another share. Meyers v. Rice, 107 N. C. 24, 12 S. E. 66.

Effect of Discharge in Bankruptcy on Owelty.—A discharge in bankruptcy does not cancel the charge of owelty of partition against the land of the bankrupt. In re Walker, 107 N. C. 340, 12 S. E. 136.

Division of Costs.—The costs in proceedings for partition (including the expenses of the partition) are charges upon the several shares in proportion to their respective values. Hinnant v. Wilder, 122 N. C. 149, 150, 29 S. E. 221.

Costs Precede Homestead Exemption.—Where in an ex parte proceeding for the partition of lands, partition was duly made and one part was assigned in severalty to A, and A failed to pay the costs adjudged against her and the share allotted to her was sold on execution issued on the judgment, and no homestead was allotted to A, who has no other land, and her interest was not worth $1,000. In an action by the heirs of A against the purchaser at the execution sale, the sale was held to be valid. Hinnant v. Wilder, 122 N. C. 149, 150, 29 S. E. 221.

Procedure to Subject Land Charged.—A motion in the cause for execution is the proper proceeding to subject land charged with owelty of partition to the payment thereof. Meyers v. Rice, 107 N. C. 24, 12 S. E. 66.

Charges for equality of partition should be enforced by proceedings in rem against the more valuable shares of the land divided, and not by personal judgments against the owners thereof. Young v. Trustees, 62 N. C. 261; Waring v. Wadsworth, 80 N. C. 345; Meyers v. Rice, 107 N. C. 24, 12 S. E. 66, 67.

Confirmation Necessary to Execution.—No execution can issue to satisfy a charge against land in partition proceedings until the commissioner's report has been confirmed. In re Ausborn, 122 N. C. 42, 29 S. E. 56.

Parties to Action to Recover Owelty of Partition.—The widow of the party upon whose land a charge is placed is not a necessary party to an action brought to recover the sum charged. Ruffin v. Cox, 71 N. C. 253.

Counterclaim.—A cotenant, who is charged in the partition proceedings with owelty, may set up by way of counterclaim damages sustained by his eviction from part of the land awarded to him. Huntley v. Cline, 93 N. C. 458.

Cited in Capps v. Capps, 85 N. C. 408, 409.

§ 3223. Owelty to bear interest.—The sums of money due from the more valuable dividends shall bear interest until paid. (Rev., s. 2496; Code, s. 1899; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 8.)

§ 3224. Owelty from infant's share due at majority.—When a minor to whom a more valuable dividend shall fall is charged with the payment of any sum, the money shall not be payable until such minor arrives at the age of twenty-one years, but the general guardian, if there be one, must pay such sum whenever assets shall come into his hands, and in case the general guardian has assets which he did not so apply, he shall pay out of his own proper estate any interest that may have accrued in consequence of such failure. (Rev., s. 2497; Code, s. 1900; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 9.)

Charged Land Inherited by Infants. — Owelty may be enforced against land inherited by infants from an adult who owned the land when the owelty was made a charge against it, though as to land partitioned to an infant cotenant owelty is not payable until he reaches his majority. Powell v. Weatherington, 124 N. C. 40, 32 S. E. 380.

§ 3225. Partition where shareowners unknown or title disputed.—If there are any of the tenants in common, or joint tenants, whose names are not known or whose title is in dispute, the share or shares of such persons shall be set off together as one parcel. If, in any partition proceeding, two or more appear as defendants claiming the same share of the premises to be divided, or if any part of the share claimed by the petitioner is disputed by any defendant or defendants, it shall not be necessary to decide on their respective claims before the court shall order the partition or sale to be made, but the partition or sale shall be made, and the controversy between the contesting parties may be afterwards decided either in the same or an independent proceeding. (Rev., ss. 2491, 2511; Code, s. 1894; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 3; 1887, c. 284, ss. 2, 4.)

Cross References. — As to unknown parties, see section 3218; as to shares of unknown parties when land sold, see section 3245.

§ 3225(a). Judgments in partition of remainders validated.—In all cases where land has been conveyed by deed, or devised by will, upon contingent remainder, executory devise, or other limitation, where a judgment of partition has been rendered by the superior court authorizing a division of said lands upon the petition of the life tenant or tenants and all other persons then in being who would have taken such land if the contingency had then happened, and those unborn being duly represented by guardian ad litem, such judgment of partition authorizing a division of said lands among the respective life tenants and remaindermen, or executory devisees, shall be valid and binding upon the parties thereto and upon all other persons not then in being: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to impair or destroy any vested right or estate. (1933, c. 215, s. 1.)

Ordinarily, proceedings for partition of land cannot be maintained when the plaintiff holds only a contingent interest in the lands, determinable on the death of the life tenant who is still living at the time the suit is instituted. See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 221.

§ 3226. Dower claims settled on partition; dower valued.—When there is dower or right of dower on any land, petitioned to be sold or divided in severalty by actual partition, the woman entitled to dower or right of dower therein may join in the petition. The land to be divided in severalty shall be allotted to the tenants in common, or joint tenants, subject to the dower right or dower, and either may be asked and assigned at the same time that partition thereof is made and by same commissioners. On a decree of sale, the interest of one-third of the proceeds shall be secured and paid to her annually; or in lieu of such annual interest, the value of an annuity of six percent on such third, during her probable life, shall be ascertained and paid to her absolutely out of the proceeds. (Rev., s. 2517; Code, s. 1909; 1893, c. 341; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 18.)

See notes to section 3235; as to the allotment of dower generally, see section 4104 et seq.

Partition and Dower in Same Proceedings.—Partition of lands and the allotment of dower therein may be had in the same proceedings. Baggett v. Jackson, 160 N. C. 26, 76 S. E. 86. See also Vannoy v. Green, 206 N. C. 77, 173 S. E. 277.

Allotment before Division. — The widow of a deceased owner of lands held by him in common with another may have her dower interest therein set apart to her before division of the lands among the heirs at law. Dudley v. Tyson, 167 N. C. 67, 82 S. E. 1025.

Immediate Payment of Dower.—In a sale for partition of land subject to dower, where the widow is a party, her life estate may be valued in money and the money paid to her in lieu of the interest for life on one-third of the proceeds of the sale. Ex Parte Winstead, 92 N. C. 703.

Dower Allotment Cannot Be Attacked Collaterally.—An allotment to the widow in dower proceedings cannot be attacked collaterally in proceedings for partition of the lands of the deceased ancestor by his heirs at law. Dudley v. Tyson, 167 N. C. 67, 82 S. E. 1025.

§ 3227. Partial partition; balance sold or left in common.—In all proceedings under this chapter actual partition may be made of a part of the land sought to be partitioned and a sale of the remainder, or a part only, of any land held by tenants in common, or joint tenants, may be partitioned and the remainder held in cotenancy. (Rev., s. 2506; 1887, c. 214, s. 1.)

Intent of Section. — This section does not authorize a partition or a sale of a fractional part of the land only. Patillo v. Lytle, 158 N. C. 92, 73 S. E. 200; Brooks v. Austin, 95 N. C. 474.

§ 3228. Report of commissioners; contents; filing.—The commissioners, within a reasonable time, not exceeding sixty days after the notification of their appointment, shall make a full and ample report of their proceedings, under the hands of any two of them, specifying therein the manner of executing their trust and describing particularly the land or parcels of land divided, and the share allotted of each tenant in severalty, with the sum or sums charged on the more valuable dividends to be paid to those of inferior value. The report shall be filed in the office of the superior court clerk. (Rev., s. 2494; Code, s. 1896; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 5.)

Cross References.—See section 3222 and notes thereto; as to the report when a sale is ordered, see section 3243 and notes thereto; as to the report generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. 889 et seq.

Alteration of Report. — The report of commissioners in partition proceedings, dividing land, when filed, approved, confirmed, recorded and registered, becomes a muniment of title, and the commissioners, without the order and approval of the court, have no right to alter or change the same. Clinard v. Brummell, 130 N. C. 547, 41 S. E. 675.

Findings as to Value of Property.—The findings of commissioners on value is not subject to review in the appellate court. Fisher v. Toxaway Co., 171 N. C. 547, 88 S. E. 887.

§ 3229. Map embodying survey to accompany report.—The commissioners are authorized to employ the county surveyor or, in his absence or if he be connected with the parties, some other surveyor, who shall make out a map of the premises showing the quantity, courses and distances of each share, which map shall accompany and form a part of the report of the commissioners. (Rev., s. 2493; Code, s. 1895; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 4.)

§ 3230. Confirmation and impeachment of report.—If no exception to the report of the commissioners is filed within twenty days, the same shall be confirmed. Any party after confirmation may impeach the proceedings and decrees for mistake, fraud or collusion by petition in the cause: Provided, innocent purchasers for full value and without notice shall not be affected thereby. (Rev., s. 2494; Code, s. 1896; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 5.)

Proceedings Interlocutory until Confirmation.—Until the decree of confirmation by the judge, the proceedings for the partition of lands are not final, but interlocutory, and rest in his discretion. Tayloe v. Carrow, 156 N. C. 6, 72 S. E. 76.

Effect of Failure to Object.—Where no exceptions were filed and no objections made, plaintiff was entitled to a decree of confirmation as a matter of law. Roberts v. Roberts, 143 N. C. 309, 55 S. E. 721.

Time for Filing Exception.—Exceptions to the report of the commissioners appointed to make partition of land must be filed within twenty days after the report is filed. Floyd v. Rock, 128 N. C. 10, 38 S. E. 33. As to objection to confirmation, see sec. 3243 and notes thereto.

Sufficiency of Exception.—Where within 20 days after filing the report the defendant notified the clerk that he desired to file exceptions, whereupon the clerk made a memorandum that the defendant had objected to the report, and later amended exceptions, setting out various grounds why the report should not be confirmed, were filed with the clerk without objection, it was held error to confirm the report on the ground that no exception had been filed within 20 days. McDevitt v. McDevitt, 150 N. C. 644, 64 S. E. 761.

Resale after Confirmation. — After confirmation a resale may be ordered for sufficient cause shown; but should be upon petition or notice to the purchaser who has acquired equitable rights under the first confirmation. Ex parte White, 82 N. C. 378.

Estoppel as to Lands Not Included in Petition.—When land is assigned in a decree in a partition proceeding with the knowledge and consent of the parties thereto, the administrator of one of the parties is estopped from denying that the land was not originally included in the petition for partition. Lindsay v. Beaman, 128 N. C. 189, 38 S. E. 811.

Appeals May Be to Different Judges.—When appeals from the clerk in proceedings for partition are made successively to different judges, a judge before whom comes a later appeal may set aside or modify a former interlocutory order, it not being required for that purpose that the same judge should have passed upon the former appeals. Tayloe v. Carrow, 156 N. C. 6, 72 S. E. 76.

Jurisdiction of Judge in Chambers.—A judge in chambers has jurisdiction of appeals from the report of commissioners appointed in special proceedings to partition land. McMillan v. McMillan, 123 N. C. 577, 31 S. E. 729.

Right of Clerk to Set Aside Former Order.—Where it appears of record that the clerk of the court in proceedings to partition lands had rendered a judgment in the plaintiff's favor, and had set it aside on the defendant's motion made before him seventeen months thereafter upon allegation of fraud in its procurement, and likewise that he had fraudulently prevented them from appearing and defending, to which the plaintiff did not except, his motion in the superior court, in the cause transferred, for judgment in his favor upon the whole record cannot be allowed. It is held that the clerk was within the provisions of this section in setting aside his former order, in plaintiff's favor, on defendant's motion, at the time it was made before him. Turner v. Davis, 163 N. C. 38, 79 S. E. 257.

Statute of Limitation. — Where the commissioners to divide lands held by tenants in common award owelty to one of them to equalize his share with the other, the ten-year statute of limitations begins to run from the confirmation of the report by the clerk, approved by the judge, and the fact that the clerk has not docketed the judgment in the seven years, as between the parties having at least constructive notice of the proceedings, does not alone repel the bar of the statute. Cochran v. Colson, 192 N. C. 663, 135 S. E. 794.

Some of the earlier cases, since overruled, held that limitations do not run against a charge on land for owelty of partition. In re Ausborn, 122 N. C. 42, 29 S. E. 56; Sutton v. Edwards, 40 N. C. 425.

Under the Acts of 1837.—For a case where proceedings for a partition of lands were under the provisions of chapter 85 Revised Statute of 1837, which did not contain provisions similar to this section and the section immediately following, see Power Co. v. Taylor, 188 N. C. 351, 124 S. E. 634.

§ 3231. Report and confirmation enrolled and registered; effect.—Such report, when confirmed, together with the decree of confirmation, shall be enrolled and certified to the register of deeds and registered in the office of the county where such real estate is situated, and shall be binding among and between the claimants, their heirs and assigns. (Rev., s. 2495; Code, s. 1897; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 6.)

Effect of Adjudication before Clerk.—In proceedings to partition lands among tenants in common, the adjudication before the clerk operates as an estoppel as to them and those in privity with them, when no appeal has been taken. Southern State Bank v. Leverette, 187 N. C. 743, 748, 123 S. E. 68 and cases cited. Matters not in issue and claims for different rights are not, however, concluded. Gillans v. Edmonson, 154 N. C. 127, 69 S. E. 9.

Color of Title.—The record of the proceedings constitutes color of title. Lindsay v. Beaman, 128 N. C. 189, 38 S. E. 811.

Admissibility of Record in Evidence.—The record of the proceedings is admissible in evidence though not recorded as required by this section. Lindsay v. Beaman, 128 N. C. 189, 38 S. E. 811.

§ 3232. Clerk to docket owelty charges; no release of land and no lien.—In case owelty of partition is charged in favor of certain parts of said land and against certain other parts, the clerk shall enter on the judgment docket the said owelty charges in like manner as judgments are entered on said docket, persons to whom parts are alloted in favor of which owelty is charged being marked plaintiffs on the judgment docket, and persons to whom parts are alloted against which owelty is charged being marked defendants on said docket; that said entry on said docket shall contain the title of the special proceeding in which the land was partitioned, and shall refer to the book and page in which the said special proceeding is recorded; that when said owelty charges are paid said entry upon the judgment docket shall be marked satisfied in like manner as judgments are canceled and marked satisfied; and the clerk shall be entitled to the same fees for entering such judgment of owelty as he is entitled to for docketing other judgments: Provided, that the docketing of said owelty charges as hereinbefore set out shall not have the effect of releasing the land from the owelty charged in said special proceeding: Provided, any judgment docketed under this section shall not be a lien on any property whatever, except that upon which said owelty is made a specific charge. (1911, c. 9, s. 1.)

As to owelty charges, see section 3222.

Effect of Failure to Docket.—Failure of the clerk to docket the owelty of partition upon his judgment docket, within seven years after such date, does not affect the right of plaintiff to enforce payment of the owelty by execution. Cochran v. Colson, 192 N. C. 663, 135 S. E. 794.

Art. 2. Partition Sales of Real Property

§ 3233. Sale in lieu of partition.—Whenever it appears by satisfactory proof that an actual partition of the lands cannot be made without injury to some or all of the parties interested, the court shall order a sale of the property described in the petition, or any part thereof. (Rev., s. 2512; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 13, 31.)

Cross References.—As to the power of the court to collect money on judicial sales, see section 621 and annotations thereunder; as to partition by agreement, see 9 Enc. Dig. 861 et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 159 et seq.; as to determination of mode of partition, see 9 Enc. Dig. 879 et seq. See, also, for sale of lands in partition proceedings, 9 Enc. Dig. 895 et seq.; as to notice to unknown parties, see section 3218.

Entitled to Actual Partition.—Tenants in common are entitled to an actual partition, if it can be made without injury to any of the co-owners. Tayloe v. Carrow, 156 N. C. 6, 72 S. E. 76; Gillespie v. Allison, 115 N. C. 542, 548, 20 S. E. 627. See 9 Enc. Dig. 879 et seq. as to determination of mode of partition.

Tenant Entitled to Homestead.—That a tenant in common is entitled to a homestead against the judgment cannot prevent a sale for partition. Holley v. White, 172 N. C. 77, 89 S. E. 1061.

Purchase of Lands by Tenant in Common.—A tenant in common suing to partition the premises controlled by him as agent for the cotenants cannot, on being appointed commissioner to sell the premises, purchase them at the sale nor procure any one to do it for him, and he cannot speculate for his own benefit or do any act detrimental to the interest of his cotenants. Tuttle v. Tuttle, 146 N. C. 484, 59 S. E. 1008. See also Credle v. Baugham, 152 N. C. 18, 67 S. E. 46.

Issues of Fact—Questions of Fact.—In Ledbetter v. Piner, 120 N. C. 455, 27 S. E. 123, it is held: "The only controverted fact arising on the pleadings was as to the advisability of a sale for partition or an actual division. This was not an issue of fact but a question of fact for the decision of the clerk subject to review by the judge on appeal." Vanderbilt v. Roberts, 162 N. C. 273, 78 S. E. 156.

Question for Court.—Whether or not, in a proceeding instituted under § 3215, for partition of the land of tenants in common, there shall be an actual partition, or a sale for partition, involves question of fact to be determined by court. In such proceedings, an allegation that the land is incapable of actual division without injury to some or all of the tenants in common raises a question of fact for the trial judge, and not an issue of fact for the jury, and he has the power to order a sale for partition. Barber v. Barber, 195 N. C. 711, 143 S. E. 469.

Effect of Interests of Others.—The owner of an undivided one-half interest in land can not be denied his rights to have a partition or sale in lieu of partition, because of interests which defendants, other than his cotenants, claiming under him, have acquired in and to his undivided interest. Barber v. Barber, 195 N. C. 711, 143 S. E. 469.

Effect of Trust Created by Another Co-Tenant. — The right of a tenant in common to have the lands sold for a division, under this section cannot be defeated by a trust creating an interest in the lands by another of the tenants. Barber v. Barber, 195 N. C. 711, 143 S. E. 469.

Parties—Trustee and Beneficiaries. — The trustee and beneficiaries under a trust created in lands by a tenant in common are proper parties to the proceedings for a sale for division. Barber v. Barber, 195 N. C. 711, 143 S. E. 469.

Same—Right of Wife of Co-Tenant to Resist Partition.— The wife of a tenant in common has an interest in his portion of the lands or the proceeds of the sale thereof, for division, contingent upon her surviving him, and is a proper party to the proceedings for partition, under this section or section 3215, with the right to be heard when the lands are sold for division in order to protect her contingent interests in the proceeds of the sale. But she cannot resist the plaintiff's right to a partition nor challenge the power of the court to order sale for partition. Barber v. Barber, 195 N. C. 711, 143 S. E. 469.

Interest of Trust Beneficiaries Attaches to Proceeds. — The interest of the beneficiaries under a deed of trust upon the interest of a tenant in common in land will upon its sale under this section attach to the proceeds and be fully protected in the final judgment or order in the proceedings. Barber v. Barber, 195 N. C. 711, 143 S. E. 469.

Review of Decision.—The action of a judge of the superior court in setting aside the report of partition commissioners, advising actual partition, and ordering a sale, is not reviewable, unless an error of law was committed. Tayloe v. Carrow, 156 N. C. 6, 72 S. E. 76; Albemarle Steam Nav. Co. v. Wovell, 133 N. C. 93, 45 S. E. 466.

§ 3234. Remainder or reversion sold for partition; outstanding life estate.—The existence of a life estate in any land shall not be a bar to a sale for partition of the remainder or reversion thereof, and for the purposes of partition the tenants in common or joint tenants shall be deemed seized and possessed as if no life estate existed. But this shall not interefere with the possession of the life tenant during the existence of his estate. (Rev., s. 2508; 1887, c. 214, s. 2.)

See section 1744 and notes thereto. See, also, notes to the succeeding section.

Rule before Section Adopted.—Before the passage of this section cotenants in remainder or reversion had no right to enforce a compulsory partition of land in which they had such estate. Gillespie v. Allison, 115 N. C. 542, 20 S. E. 627, 628. See Wood v. Sugg, 91 N. C. 93; Ex parte Miller, 90 N. C. 625. But partition was permitted between the holder of the life estate and the owner in fee. McEachem v. Gilchreet, 75 N. C. 196.

Section Not Limited to Sale.—By the wording of this section, that is, "a sale for partition" followed by the words "purposes of partition," it is apparent that the Legislature did not intend to limit the application of the section to sales, and it is held that it is to be construed to include actual partition by the remaindermen, as well as for a sale for division by them. Baggett v. Jackson, 160 N. C. 26, 76 S. E. 86.

Section Enlarges Vested Rights.—A statute giving to remaindermen the right to have partition of lands in remainder vested before the passage of such statute is remedial and, instead of impairing, enlarges vested rights. Gillespie v. Allison, 115 N. C. 542, 20 S. E. 627.

All Parties Interested.—A sale for partition will not be decreed when there are contingent remainders or other conditional interests therein unless all the persons who may be by any possibility interested unite in asking such a decree. Pendleton v. Williams, 175 N. C. 248, 95 S. E. 500, quoting Aydlett v. Pendleton, 111 N. C. 28, 16 S. E. 8. See § 1744 and notes thereto.

If contingent interests are to be affected by the partition they must be represented. Overman v. Tate, 114 N. C. 571, 19 S. E. 706.

Life Estate with Power of Sale.—When lands are devised to the wife for life, giving her control thereof with power of sale, pay debts, etc., this section does not apply, for if applied it would defeat the very purpose as to powers given the wife. Makely v. Makely, 175 N. C. 121, 95 S. E. 51.

Holder of Contingent Interest.—Proceedings for partition of lands cannot be maintained when the plaintiff holds only a contingent interest in the lands, determinable on the death of the life tenant, who is still living at the time. Vinson v. Wise, 159 N. C. 653, 75 S. E. 732.

§ 3235. Life tenant as party; valuation of life estate.—In all proceedings for partition of land whereon there is a life estate, the life tenant may join in the proceeding and on a sale the interest on the value of the share of the life tenant shall be received and paid to such life tenant annually; or in lieu of such annual interest, the value of such share during the probable life of such life tenant shall be ascertained and paid out of the proceeds to such life tenant absolutely. (Rev., s. 2509; 1887, c. 214, s. 3.)

See notes to section immediately preceding.

Life Tenants May Waive Rights.—Under a will providing that "home place shall remain a home for all the single members of the family as long as they shall live, if they choose to do so, and then be divided between the next of kin," single members of the family were entitled to partition of the home place among remaindermen as directed by will, where they showed the court that they no longer desired to retain it as a home, since life tenants could waive the right if they desired to enjoy their share in severalty. Sides v. Sides, 178 N. C. 554, 101 S. E. 100.

Estate Durante Viduitate.—This section does not apply to an estate durante viduitate, as there is no practicable rule by which the present value of such an estate can be determined; hence, where land to which an estate durante viduitate attached was sold for partition and the proceeds are in custody of the court below, they cannot be divided among the widow and the remaindermen, against the will of the remaindermen, but will remain real estate until partition can be made at the termination of the estate durante viduitate. Gillespie v. Allison, 117 N. C. 512, 23 S. E. 438.

Same—Payment until Termination of Estate.—Where the tenant of an estate durante viduitate joins with some of the remaindermen for a sale for partition of the lands, this section will be satisfied with the payment to her of the interest upon the proceeds of the lands sold, until the termination of the particular estate by her marriage or death. Gillespie v. Allison, 115 N. C. 542, 20 S. E. 627.

Application of Life Tenant for Sale.—While under this and the preceding section there is authority for a sale for partition, at the instance of the remaindermen, of the reversion, or by their joining the life tenants, or between tenants in common or joint tenants, there is no statute which authorizes the sale on the application of the life tenant as against the remaindermen. Ray v. Poole, 187 N. C. 749, 751, 123 S. E. 5.

Cited in Pendleton v. Williams, 175 N. C. 248, 95 S. E. 500.

§ 3236. Sale of standing timber on partition; valuation of life estate.—When two or more persons own, as tenants in common, joint tenants, or copartners, a tract of land, either in possession, or in remainder or reversion, subject to a life estate, on which there may be standing timber trees, a sale of said timber trees, separate from the land, may be had upon the petition of one or more of said owners, or the life tenant, for partition among the owners thereof, including the life tenant, upon such terms as the court may order, and under like proceedings as are now prescribed by law for the sale of land for partition: Provided, that when the land is subject to a life estate, the life tenant shall be made a party to the proceedings, and shall be entitled to receive his portion of the net proceeds of sales, to be ascertained under the mortuary tables established by law. (Rev., s. 2510; 1895, c. 187.)

§ 3237. Sale of mineral interests on partition.—In case of the partition of mineral interests, in all instances where it is made to appear to the court that it would be for the best interests of the tenants in common, or joint tenants, of such interests to have the same sold, or if actual partition of the same cannot be had without injury to some or all of such tenants (in common), then it is lawful for and the duty of the court to order a sale of such mineral interests and a division of the proceeds as the interests of the parties may appear. (Rev., s. 2507; 1905, c. 90, s. 2.)

§ 3238. Sale of land required for public use on cotenant's petition.—When the lands of joint tenants or tenants in common are required for public purposes, one or more of such tenants, or their guardian for them, may file a petition verified by oath, in the superior court of the county where the lands or any part of them lie, setting forth therein that the lands are required for public purposes, and that their interests would be promoted by a sale thereof. Whereupon the court, all proper parties being before it, and the facts alleged in the petition being ascertained to be true, shall order a sale of such lands, or so much thereof as may be necessary, in the manner and on the terms it deems expedient. The expenses, fees and costs of this proceeding shall be paid in the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 2518; Code, s. 1907; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 16.)

§ 3239. Manner and terms of partition sale.—The sale shall be made by some person appointed by the court, on such terms as to size of lots, place or manner of sale, time of credit and security for payment of purchase money, as may be most advantageous to the parties concerned. (Rev., s. 2512; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 13, 31.)

Private or Public Sale.—The superior court may, in the exercise of its discretion, order a sale of lands in proceedings for partitions, where minors are interested and represented by guardian ad litem, either to be publicly or privately made. Ryder v. Oates, 173 N. C. 569, 92 S. E. 508. And where no abuse of this discretion is shown on appeal, the action of the lower court will not be reviewed. Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162 N. C. 145, 77 S. E. 113.

Private Bids.—The court may authorize its commissioner in a proceeding for sale for partition to receive and report to it a private offer or bid for the land. Wooten v. Cunningham, 171 N. C. 123, 88 S. E. 1.

§ 3240. Notice of partition sale.—The notice of sale, under this proceeding, shall be the same as required by law on sales of real estate by sheriff under execution: Provided, however, that in case a re-sale of such real property shall become necessary under such proceeding, that such real property shall then be re-sold only after notice of re-sale has been duly posted at the courthouse door in the county for fifteen days immediately preceding the re-sale and also published at any time during such fifteen day period once a week for two successive weeks of not less than eight days in some newspaper published in the county, if a newspaper is published in the county, but if there be no newspaper published in said county the notice of re-sale must be posted at the courthouse door and three other public places in the county for fifteen days immediately preceding the re-sale. (Rev., s. 2514; Code, s. 1905; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 14; 1933, c. 187.)

As to execution and judicial sales, see section 687 and notes thereto.

See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 219, for brief review of this section.

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1933, c. 187, added the proviso at the end of this section relating to notices of resale.

§ 3241. Title made to purchaser; effect of deed.—On the coming in of the report of sale, and confirmation thereof, and payment of the purchase money, the title shall be made to the purchaser or purchasers at such time and by such person as the court may direct, and in all cases where the persons in possession have been made parties to the proceeding, the court may grant an order for possession. And the deed of the officer or person designated to make such sales shall convey to the purchaser such title and estate in the property as tenants in common, or joint tenants, had. (Rev., s. 2512; Code, ss. 1904, 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 13, 31.)

Cross References.—As to unknown parties and their effect on purchaser's title, see sections 3218 and 3245; as to actual partition, see section 3231 and notes thereto.

Sale an Official Act.—When an officer of the court, designated either by his official or individual name in the order, is commissioned to make sale of real or personal estate, he acts in his official capacity and his sureties undertake for the fidelity of his conduct. Kerr v. Brandon, 84 N. C. 128, 131.

Enforcement.—Upon acceptance by court's commissioner of a bid, whether at public or private sale, for land involved in partition proceedings, the court has jurisdiction over the purchaser to enforce the bid. Wooten v. Cunningham, 171 N. C. 123, 88 S. E. 1.

Same—Balance of Bid.—The purchaser of land at a judicial sale for partition can be required by summary proceedings to pay into court the amount of his bid which remains unpaid after the confirmation of the sale and delivery of the deed; such statute not being unconstitutional as depriving the purchaser of his right to a jury trial. Lyman v. Southern Coal Co., 183 N. C. 581, 112 S. E. 242.

When Title Passes.—Where, under a petition of tenants in common, lands are sold for division under the provisions of this section, title to the lands held in common will not pass to the purchaser until the purchase price has been paid, and a deed executed to the purchaser by the one appointed to sell under the order of the court. Crocker v. Vann, 192 N. C. 422, 135 S. E. 127.

Title of Intending Purchaser before Confirmation.—An intending purchaser at a partition sale is a mere preferred proposer, and not a purchaser, until after the sale has been confirmed. Patillo v. Lytle, 158 N. C. 92, 73 S. E. 200.

Same—After Confirmation.—Under section 3243 after confirmation by the court of a judicial sale of lands, the purchaser is regarded as the equitable owner, and the sale, as it affects his interest, can only be set aside for "mistake, fraud, or collusion," established on petition regularly filed in the cause. Upchurch v. Upchurch, 173 N. C. 88, 91 S. E. 702.

When Purchaser Fails to Pay.—Where a purchaser of land under decree of court fails to pay the price, the title will not be made even though there be a confirmation of the sale. And if the land in such case be sold under an execution against said purchaser, the purchaser thereof takes subject to the equities against the defendant in the execution. Burgin v. Burgin, 82 N. C. 197.

Formal Direction to Make Title Unnecessary.—A formal direction to make title is not necessary when the order of sale reserves the title as an additional security for the purchase-money, and the money has been paid. Latta v. Vickers, 82 N. C. 501.

Purchaser Need Not Look beyond Decree.—A purchaser at a judicial sale, if not a party to the proceeding, is not bound to look beyond the decree if the facts necessary to give jurisdiction appear on the face of the proceedings. If there has been an irregularity, or the jurisdiction has been improvidently exercised, it will not be corrected at his expense. Herbin v. Wagoner, 118 N. C. 656, 657, 24 S. E. 490.

When Judgment Creditor Not Made Party. — Where judgment creditors of a tenant in common are not made parties to a partition proceeding, the purchaser buys subject to their liens. Holley v. White, 172 N. C. 77, 89 S. E. 1061.

Estoppel of Persons Parties to Sale.—One who was a party to ex parte partition proceedings, was present at the sale, and received her share of the purchase money could not thereafter have the judgment and sale set aside for division as to her. In re Wilson, 161 N. C. 211, 75 S. E. 1086; Hargrove v. Wilson, 148 N. C. 439, 62 S. E. 520.

Liens against Interest of Tenant in Common.—A sale of land for partition does not destroy liens against the interest of one of the tenants in common, and therefore the proceeds of the sale of the tenants' interest can not be applied to payment of the liens. Jordan v. Faulkner, 168 N. C. 466, 84 S. E. 764.

Proceedings Cannot Be Collaterally Attacked. — When land is sold and the sale confirmed, in proceedings for partition of lands, and the record therein is regular in form, and on its face it appears that plaintiffs were parties, the proceedings cannot be collaterally attacked, as the remedy is by petition in the cause. Hargrove v. Wilson, 148 N. C. 439, 62 S. E. 520.

Deed Erroneously Made to Husband and Wife.—Where the wife alone is entitled to a deed in the severance of her interest as a tenant in common of lands sold for division, and in proceedings thereunder it is erroneously adjudged by the court that the deed be made to her and her husband by entireties, the title will inure only to her under a resulting trust, and the husband cannot acquire by survivorship. Crocker v. Vann, 192 N. C. 422, 135 S. E. 127.

§ 3242. Who appointed to sell.—The court may authorize any officer thereof, or any other competent person, to be designated in the decree of sale, to sell the real estate under this proceeding; but no clerk of any court shall appoint himself or his deputy to make sale of real property or other property in any proceeding before him. (Rev., s. 2513; Code, s. 1906; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 15; 1899, c. 161.)

Editor's Note.—The last part of this section was passed to abolish the practice of clerks appointing themselves to make partition sales. This practice was condemned in Evans v. Cullens, 122 N. C. 55, 28 S. E. 961, and thereupon the next Legislature adopted the last clause.

§ 3243. Report of sale; filing; confirmation and impeachment.—Such officer or person shall file his report of sale, giving full particulars thereof, within ten days after the sale, in the office of the clerk of the superior court, and if no exception thereto is filed within twenty days, the same shall be confirmed. Any party, after the confirmation, shall be allowed to impeach the proceedings and decrees for mistake, fraud or collusion, by petition in the cause: Provided, innocent purchasers for full value and without notice shall not be affected thereby. (Rev., s. 2513; Code, s. 1906; 1899, c. 161: 1868-9, c. 122, s. 15.)

Cross References.—As to the confirmation and impeachment of partition sales generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. 895 et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 166 et seq.; as to the purchasers title generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 168 et seq.; as to the commissioner's report when actual partition is made, see section 3228 and notes thereto; as to the confirmation and impeachment of such report, see section 3230 and notes thereto.

In General.—This section does not require formal exceptions; but because of the use of the word "shall" it is a prerequisite to the power of the court to order a resale that exceptions in a recognized legal way be made within the time prescribed. McConnick v. Patterson, 194 N. C. 216.

What Exceptions Contemplated.—In the contemplation of this section an exception is an objection to the regularity of the proceeding or sale or because of "inequitable adjustment." McConnick v. Patterson, 194 N. C. 216.

Section Relates Only to Public Sale.—This section relates only to public sales, and does not prevent confirmation of a private sale within 20 days. Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162 N. C. 145, 77 S. E. 113.

Execution Sales.—This section is not applicable to execution sales. Weir v. Weir, 196 N. C. 268, 269, 145 S. E. 281.

Effect of Failure to File Report.—Upon the commissioner's failure to file a report and final account with the clerk, as provided by this section, the demand upon the commissioner or his administrator, for the disbursement of the funds, will be considered to have been made as a matter of law upon the failure to act and disburse the proceeds. Peal v. Martin, 207 N. C. 106, 176 S. E. 282.

Power of Superior Court to Confirm Sale.—The superior court in a partition action having general jurisdiction in law and equity has power to order and confirm a private as well as a public sale. Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162 N. C. 145, 77 S. E. 113; McAfee v. Green, 143 N. C. 411, 418, 55 S. E. 828.

Power to Set Aside.—Where lands are ordered to be sold for partition by a court of equity, the authority of the court to set aside an inchoate sale and reopen the biddings applies as well to cases where all the parties are adults as where some of them, or all, are infants. Ex parte Post, 56 N. C. 482.

Same—Objection Must Be Timely. — Under this section exceptions must be filed or an increased bid placed upon the purchase price within twenty days or before a motion to confirm the sale is made. McCormick v. Patterson, 194 N. C. 216, 219; as to objections to report, see section 3228 and notes.

Same—Sufficiency of Objection. — Where three commissioners for the sale of lands in partition proceedings for a division have regularly sold the locus in quo as provided by law, and two of them have filed the report of sale, and the other protests against its confirmation upon the ground of a mistake in fact and appears before the clerk and gives his reason therefor within the statutory time, his conduct may amount to a substantial compliance with the statute leaving the matter within the power of the court to order a resale. McCormick v. Patterson, 194 N. C. 216.

Advance in Bid.—Before a partition sale has been confirmed, if an advanced bid of 10 per cent. is offered, the court may, in its discretion, order a resale. Trull v. Rice, 92 N. C. 572. But where no increase bid was received within twenty days and the purchaser moved promptly for confirmation, an increased bid received thereafter will not prevent confirmation. Ex parte Garrett, 174 N. C. 343, 93 S. E. 838.

Same—Where Parties Do Not Join in Motion.—The court did not abuse its discretion in a partition action in refusing to grant a re-sale upon an offer of an advance bid on motion of the officer in which none of the parties joined. Thompson v. Rospigliosi, 162 N. C. 145, 77 S. E. 113; Tayloe v. Carrow, 156 N. C. 6, 72 S. E. 76.

Same—Ten Per Cent Advance Unnecessary. — While it has been in accord with the practice in this State to refuse to confirm a judicial sale unless there has been an advanced bid from a responsible bidder, this is but to afford evidence as to the inadequacy of the price, which the court, in the exercise of its discretion to confirm or set aside the sale, may regard or disregard; and while a bid of 10 per cent will customarily be considered, so may, also, an advanced bid in a less sum, when the amount is large. Upchurch v. Upchurch, 173 N. C. 88, 91 S. E. 702.

Cited in Buncombe County v. Arbogast, 205 N. C. 745, 748, 172 S. E. 364.

§ 3244. Shares in proceeds to cotenants secured.—Upon confirmation of the report, the court shall secure to each tenant in common, or joint tenant, his ratable share in severalty of the proceeds of sale. (Rev., s. 2513; Code, s. 1921; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 31.)

§ 3245. Shares to persons unknown or not sui juris secured.—When a sale is made under this chapter, and any party to the proceeding be an infant, a married woman, non compos mentis. imprisoned, or beyond the limits of the state, or when the name of any tenant in common is not known, it is the duty of the court to decree the share of such party, in the proceeds of sale, to be so invested or settled that the same may be secured to such party or his real representative. (Rev., s. 2516; Code, s. 1908; 1887, c. 284, s. 3: 1868-9, c. 122, s. 17.)

As to notice to unknown parties, see section 3218.

Effect on Title.—This section in nowise interferes with power to free the title and make a valid conveyance of the same. Bynum v. Bynum, 179 N. C. 14, 17, 101 S. E. 527.

Same—Failure to Invest. — A purchaser for full value, without notice, of lands at a sale for partition thereof by the heirs at law, acquires a title which is not affected by the failure of the court to retain and invest funds sufficient to protect the rights of such unknown persons, served with summons by publication, who may afterwards appear and establish an interest in the lands. Lawrence v. Hardy, 151 N. C. 123, 65 S. E. 766.

Consent of Court Necessary to Agreement.—Parties can not stipulate as to the distribution of the proceeds of a judicial sale without the full knowledge and consent of the court, especially where there are infants in the case whose rights may be seriously prejudiced by such an agreement. Lyman v. Southern Coal Co., 183 N. C. 581, 112 S. E. 242.

Infant's Share of Proceeds Remains Realty. — The proceeds of land, sold for partition, to which an infant is entitled, remain real estate until such infant comes of age and elects to take them as money. Bateman v. Latham, 56 N. C. 35.

Payment to Guardian.—A payment made by purchaser of lands, under a decree for the sale and partition of lands which directed the proceeds to be paid over to the parties according to law, to the guardian of one of the tenants in common, is proper and in pursuance of the statute. Howerton v. Sexton, 104 N. C. 75, 10 S. E. 148. As to sufficiency of payment to husband before the modern statute liberating married women from their legal disabilities, see Burgin v. Burgin, 82 N. C. 177.

Art. 3. Partition of Lands in Two States

§ 3246. Petition to partition lands in two states descended or devised.—Whenever on the death of any person his lands in this state, and in another state, descend or are devised to several persons, who, by the law of this and the other state, hold in the lands undivided estates as tenants in common, or by any other undivided tenancy, and such heirs or devisee cannot, without suit, have partition for want of consent, or because of inability in any of the cotenants, then, if such deceased person was at the time of his death a resident of the state, or not then a resident of any of the states in which his lands lie, and in the last case the most valuable part of such lands lie in this state, such heir or devisee, or any person claiming under him, may file a petition in the superior court for the county where the deceased resided at his death, or where any part of the land lies in this state, setting forth all the lands in which the plaintiff has an undivided estate, without and within the state, described by their names and boundaries, or by the adjoining tracts, and also the estate the deceased had in them, and the supposed value of the lands in each state, and the share, in severalty, to which the plaintiff and each of his cotenants is entitled under the laws of the several states, and praying for partition to be made of all the tracts, according to their respective interests. The material facts set forth in the petition shall be verified by the affidavit of the plaintiff or his guardian, or other person, at the discretion of the court; and all persons concerned in interest in the lands shall be made parties, according to the practice of the superior court in this state. (Rev., s. 2499; Code, s. 1911, 1868-9, c. 122, s. 20.)

§ 3247. Court may decree partition.—On the hearing of the petition, the court may decree a partition; and shall allot in severalty to each tenant his just share of the lands, according to the value of his interest in the same, by the laws of the several states in which they are situated. (Rev., s. 2500; Code, s. 1912; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 21.)

§ 3248. Commissioners appointed; how partition made; report and confirmation.—The court making such decrees shall issue a commission to three respectable freeholders in this or any other state where any part of the land may lie, unconnected by blood or interest with the parties, directing them or a majority of them to make partition between the cotenants, plaintiffs and defendants in said petition, and to assign each his respective share in the value, in severalty, in any tract or tracts, in any or all the states. Before making the allotment the commissioners shall make a valuation of all the lands held by the cotenants in all the said states; and where they cannot, without injury to the value of some shares, make an exact division of the lands, they shall charge the more valuable dividends with money to be paid to the tenants of a less valuable dividend to make equality of partition. They shall report their proceedings as they may be directed, and the report shall contain a valuation of all the estate in this and the other states, and the division among the cotenants according to such valuation. The court may confirm such report, or on sufficient cause shown may correct and alter, or set it aside and order a new commission. (Rev., s. 2501; Code, s. 1913; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 22.)

§ 3249. Provisions as to owelty.—Where any sum is charged on a more valuable dividend, it shall be a charge on the land into whose hands soever it may come, although it may be taken without notice, and shall bear interest at a rate not greater than allowed in this state. The tenant of the larger dividend may discharge himself from accruing interest by paying the whole amount due at any time. The court may direct, if the tenant taking such a dividend is an infant, that the sum charged shall not be paid till a future day. (Rev., s. 2501; Code, s. 1913; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 22.)

See section 3231 and notes thereto as to owelty on land within the States.

§ 3250. Final decree; enrollment and registry; service on parties; effect.—The court shall, upon the confirmation of any report of the commissioners, make a final decree. And where all the parties are within the jurisdiction of this court, the court shall, by the usual proceedings, direct and compel the parties to execute and deliver deeds and assurances, sufficient, by the laws of this state and the other states, to give the partition full force and validity in all states; and in case any of the parties are under such disabilities that they cannot execute such assurances, or are without the jurisdiction of the court, then the court, upon receiving evidence from the plaintiff that, by a law of the other state in which lie the parts of the lands described in the petition to be without this state, the decree can have effect thereon, shall direct the decree to be enrolled, and a copy of it shall be registered in the register's office of all the counties within this state where any of the lands lie; and a copy shall also be furnished to the plaintiff or other party interested, duly certified, to the end that, as to the lands without this state, it may be carried into effect in the state in which the said lands may be, in such manner as said state may direct; and on satisfactory evidence being made to the court in this state that the decree may have full effect by the law of such other state, the court in this state shall by its decree declare the partition in the land in this state to be final and conclusive. The decree shall be firm and irreversible, as hereinafter provided; and shall, on registration as aforesaid, pass to the tenants the title in severalty to the lands in this state in the same manner as if all the land mentioned in the decree were situate within this state. (Rev., s. 2501; Code, s. 1913; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 22.)

§ 3251. Effectuating decree of sister state; enrollment; registry and confirmation; effect.—Where real estate may be partly in this state and partly in another state, and the deceased person from whom it was derived by descent or devise was, at the time of his death, a resident of some other state, or was a resident of none of the states in which he held lands, and in this last case the lands of which he was seized in this state were of less value than the lands of which he was seized in any other state, the courts of the state in which such deceased person had his residence at his death, or in which he held lands of greater value than those he held in this state, shall have full power and authority, under any law passed by the legislature of such state substantially in accordance with the provisions herein made on this subject, to decree partition of the lands in this state, together with those within such other state, in the same manner as if the whole real estate were within the jurisdiction of such court, and in the same manner as the courts in this state are directed and authorized to do by the preceding section, as to the lands of deceased persons resident here at their death, or leaving lands of greater value here than in any other state. In case any person having an interest in the final decree, made as aforesaid in another state, as to lands in this state, shall, within twelve months after the same may be entered up in the courts of said state, produce the records and proceedings of such courts of record duly certified to a superior court of any county in this state where any of the lands of this state lie, the court, on petition ex parte in such case, shall order such proceedings to be entered of record in the court of this state, and order that the said decree shall be of the same force and validity as if it had been a decree of the court in this state in which the petition is filed, upon a petition and regular proceedings had thereon, and the decree of the court of such other state, and the proceedings on it by petition in the superior court in this state confirming it and giving it validity, being enrolled in the said court of this state and registered in all the counties where the lands lie in this state, shall pass the lands in this state, according to the decree, and shall vest estates in severalty therein declared, as to said lands, in the same manner and with the same effect in law as if the lands in this state had been so allotted on a petition for partition, according to the provisions of the former sections of this chapter. (Rev., s. 2502; Code, s. 1914; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 23.)

§ 3252. When court may decide whether statute passed in another state.—Where a copy of a decree and proceedings of a suit in any other state are produced, as in the preceding section, and also when it is necessary for a superior court to be certified that its decree of a partition of lands without this state and within the territory of another state can have effect herein, it is competent for the judge of the superior court before which the existence of a law in such other state is to be proved, to decide whether any act of the legislature of such state has been passed. (Rev., s. 2503; Code, s. 1915; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 24.)

Art. 4. Partition of Personal Property

§ 3253. Personal property may be partitioned; commissioners appointed.—When any persons entitled as tenants in common, or joint tenants, of personal property desire to have a division of the same, they, or either of them, may file a petition in the superior court for that purpose; and the court, if it think the petitioners entitled to relief, shall appoint three disinterested commissioners, who, being first duly sworn, shall proceed within twenty days after notice of their appointment to divide such property as nearly equal as possible among the tenants in common, or joint tenants. (Rev., s. 2504; Code, s. 1917; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 27.)

Exclusiveness of Remedy.—A petition for the partition of personal property is the only remedy one tenant in common has against another for withholding possession. Grim v. Wicker, 80 N. C. 343; Powell v. Hill, 64 N. C. 169.

Same—No Right to Exclusive Possession.—One tenant in common or joint owner of personal property cannot maintain an action against the other tenant or owner to recover the exclusive possession of the property because the defendant forcibly took it from the plaintiff's possession; the plaintiff's only remedy is to have the property partitioned. Thompson v. Silverthorne, 142 N. C. 12, 54 S. E. 782.

Injunction to Prevent Destruction.—Where, pending a suit for partition of personal property, the defendant threatened the destruction or removal of the property, the court, on the plaintiff's application, might grant an injunction or appoint a receiver. Thompson v. Silverthorne, 142 N. C. 12, 54 S. E. 782.

Title to Personalty.—In petitions for the partition of personal property owned in common, where the defendant sets up title in severalty in himself, the title to the property may be tried on the petition. Edwards v. Bennett, 32 N. C. 361, cited in note in 27 L. R. A., N. S., 69.

Notes.—The owners of notes, as tenants in common, are entitled to partition. Central Bank, etc., Co. v. Board of Commissioners, 195 N. C. 678, 681, 143 S. E. 252.

§ 3254. Report of commissioners.—The commissioners shall report their proceedings under the hands of any two of them, and shall file their report in the office of the clerk of the superior court within five days after the partition was made. (Rev., s. 2505; Code, s. 1918; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 28.)

As to the commissioner's report in proceedings for the partition of real property, see section 3228 et seq.

Cited in Clement v. Ireland, 129 N. C. 220, 39 S. E. 838.

§ 3255. Sale of personal property on partition; report of officer.—If a division of personal property owned by any persons as tenants in common, or joint tenants, cannot be had without injury to some of the parties interested, and a sale thereof is deemed necessary, the court shall order a sale to be made by some officer of the court or other competent person, who shall file his report of sale in the office of the clerk of the court within ten days after sale. (Rev., s. 2519; Code, s. 1919; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 29.)

As to the sale of real property in partition proceedings, see section 3242 et seq.

§ 3256. Confirmation and impeachment of reports of commissioners or officer.—If no exception to the report of the commissioners making partition, or to the report of the officer making sale, as the case may be, is filed within twenty days, the same shall be confirmed. Any party, after confirmation, shall be allowed to impeach the proceedings and decrees for mistake, fraud or collusion, by petition in the cause: Provided, innocent purchasers for full value and without notice shall not be affected thereby. (Rev., ss. 2505, 2519; Code, ss. 1918, 1919; 1868-9, c. 122, ss. 28, 29.)

Cross References.—As to the confirmation or impeachment of the commissioner's report in partition of real property, see section 3230.

As to the confirmation and impeachment of sales, see section 3243.

§ 3257. Notice of sale of personal property.—The sale shall be made after twenty days notice, by advertisement in three or more public places in the county and shall be on such terms as the court may direct. (Rev., s. 2520; Code, s. 1920; 1868-9, c. 122, s. 30.)

As to the statutory provision regarding the notice of sale of real property, see section 3240.

CHAPTER 64

PARTNERSHIP

Art. 1. Limited Partnership

§ 3258. Purposes for which formed.—Limited partnership for the transaction of any mercantile, manufacturing or mechanical business within the state may be formed by two or more persons, upon the terms and with the rights and powers and subject to the conditions and liabilities in this chapter; but its provisions shall not be construed to authorize any such partnership for the conducting of a banking or insurance business, other than writing or soliciting insurance. (Rev., s. 2521; Code, s. 3088; 1860-1, c. 28.)

Justice's Jurisdiction.—Where the liability of a defendant, sued in a justice's court as a general partner of a partnership indebted to the plaintiff, depends upon the legal sufficiency of the articles of limited copartnership and matters connected with their registration and publication, and there being no equities to adjust, the justice had jurisdiction, and a motion to dismiss for want of such jurisdiction, based on the ground that it was necessary to bring an action in the superior court to declare the articles void, was properly refused. Davis v. Sanderlin, 119 N. C. 84, 25 S. E. 815.

§ 3259. General and special partners; liability.—Such partnerships may consist of one or more persons, who are general partners, and are jointly and severally responsible as partners are now by law, and of one or more persons, who contribute in actual cash payments a specific sum as capital to the common stock, who are called special partners, and who are not liable for the debts of the partnership beyond the funds so contributed to the capital. (Rev., s. 2522; Code, s. 3089; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 2.)

As to effect of false statement upon status of special partner, see section 3264.

See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 79.

Liability.—In a special partnership the power of each partner in regard to dealings with third persons, who have notice of the terms, is special. If, however, the terms are violated and the transaction inures to the benefit of the partnership, the partnership is liable. Clark v. Bernheim, 76 N. C. 139.

Nature of Liability.—Under the provisions of this section, the liability of each partner for the firm's debt is made both joint and several, and the English equitable doctrine that requires the firm's creditors to exhaust the partnership assets and then call in aid the property of the individual partner for the unpaid balance of the firm's debts no longer obtains in this jurisdiction. As to whether the individual and private creditors of a deceased partner are entitled to share ratably with the creditors of the partnership in the deceased partner's interest in the firm assets, quere? Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Walston, 187 N. C. 817, 123 S. E. 196.

When a Special Partner Is Liable.—A partner, not bound by the act of his associate in its inception, assumes the obligation when he takes the benefit of the property acquired by his copartner and assents to its going into the common stock, as truly as if the right to bind the firm in the premises existed. Johnston, etc. Co. v. Bernheim, 86 N. C. 339, 342.

The power of each partner is special in regard to all dealings with third persons, at least, who have notice of the terms. But even in that case, if the terms are violated, as if a partner buy on time, when he ought to buy for cash, and the thing bought comes into the partnership, and the partnership takes the benefit, the partnership must pay for it; and so must each member of the firm be liable if necessary, out of his individual estate. Johnston, etc., Co. v. Bernheim, 86 N. C. 339, 341.

Benefit Need Not Accrue to Him Separately.—It is not necessary in order to reach this result that the benefit should accrue to him separately and peculiarly. It is sufficient if the funds of the firm are argumented by the acquisition, in which he could participate, or the joint liability for expenses incurred in conducting the business are paid or lessened in amount by an appropriation of the proceeds, for the obvious reason that each partner has a direct interest in both. Johnston, etc., Co. v. Bernheim, 86 N. C. 339, 342.

§ 3260. Certificate filed; contents.—The persons desirous of forming such partnership must make and severally sign a certificate containing: First, the name or firm under which such partnership is to be conducted; second, the general nature of the business to be transacted; third, the names of all the general and special partners interested therein, distinguishing which are general and which are special partners, and their respective places of residence; fourth, the amount of capital which each special partner has contributed to the common stock; fifth, the period at which such partnership is to commence and terminate. (Rev., s. 2523; Code, s. 3090; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 3.)

The articles of limited partnership must be filed and recorded as required by the statute. Southern States Supply Co. v. Lyon, 173 N. C. 445, 447, 92 S. E. 145.

§ 3261. Certificate proved and registered. — The certificate must be acknowledged or proved before some one competent to take the probate of deeds and ordered registered in the same manner as provided for deeds, and must be registered in the county in which the principal place of business of such partnership is situated. If the partnership has places of business in different counties, a transcript of the certificate and acknowledgement certified by the register must be registered and filed in the register's office of each of such counties. (Rev., s. 2524; Code, ss. 3091, 3092; 1860-1, c. 28, ss. 4, 5.)

As to who may take acknowledgment and proof, see sections 3293 et seq.; as to registration, see sections 3308-3321.

§ 3262. Affidavit as to cash payment.—At the time the certificate is ordered to be registered an affidavit of one or more of the general partners shall be made before the officer taking such acknowledgment, stating that the sums specified in the certificate to have been contributed by each of the special partners to the common stock have been actually in good faith paid in cash, and the affidavit so made shall be registered with the original certificate. (Rev., s. 2525; Code, s. 3093; 1860-1, c. 28. s. 6.)

§ 3263. Probate and registration necessary.— No such partnership shall be deemed to have been formed until such certificate and affidavit have been made, acknowledged, or proved, and registered as required in the preceding sections. (Rev., s. 2526; Code, s. 3094; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 7.)

As to probate and registration generally, see sections 3293 et seq.

§ 3264. Effect of false statement.—If any false statement is made in such certificate of affidavit, all the persons interested in such partnership shall be liable as general partners. (Rev., s. 2527; Code, s. 3095; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 8.)

§ 3265. Terms of partnership published.—The terms of the partnership must be published immediately after its formation for six successive weeks, in at least one newspaper in the same county or near the place of said partnership business, and if such publication be not made, the partnership shall be deemed general. (Rev., s. 2528; Code, s. 3096; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 9.)

Publication of the terms of the partnership in a newspaper, as directed by the section, is indispensable in order to constitute a limited partnership; if such publication be omitted, the partnership is general. Davis v. Sanderlin, 119 N. C. 84, 25 S. E. 815.

§ 3266. Proof of publication. — Affidavits of such publication, made by the proprietor of such newspaper in which the same is published, may be filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such business is conducted, and shall be evidence of the fact. (Rev., s. 2529; Code, s. 3097; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 10.)

§ 3267. Requirements for renewals and continuances.—Every renewal or continuance of such partnership beyond the time originally fixed for its duration must be certified, acknowledged and registered, and on affidavit of a general partner made and filed, and notice given by publication as required for its original formation, and every such partnership which is otherwise continued must be deemed a general partnership: Provided, the affidavit herein required may state that the amount of cash therein specified had been originally paid in good faith, and that it is represented by goods or merchandise then on hand, and has not been impaired in the course of trade. (Rev., s. 2530; Code, s. 3098; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 11.)

§ 3268. Alteration deemed a dissolution.— Every alteration which is made in the names of the partners, in the nature of the business, in the capital or shares thereof or in any other matter specified in the original certificate must be deemed a dissolution of the partnership; and any such partnership which is in any manner carried on after such alteration has been made must be deemed a general partnership, unless renewed as a special partnership, according to the preceding sections. (Rev., s. 2531; Code, s. 3099; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 12.)

§ 3269. Name of firm.—The business of the partnership must be conducted under a firm, in which the names of the general partners only are inserted, without the addition of the word "company" or any other general term, except the word "limited"; and if the name of any special partner is used in the firm with his privity, he shall be deemed a general partner. (Rev., s. 2532; Code, s. 3100; 1899, c. 75; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 13.)

§ 3270. Actions as in general partnership. — Suits in relation to the business of the partnership may be brought and conducted by and against the general partner in the same manner as if there was no special partner. (Rev., s. 2533; Code, s. 3101; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 14.)

§ 3271. Special stock not withdrawn nor reduced.—No part of the sum which any special partner has contributed to the capital stock must be withdrawn by or paid to him in the shape of dividends, profits or otherwise, at any time during the continuance of the partnership; but any partner may annually receive lawful interest on the sum so contributed by him, if the payment of such interest does not reduce the original amount of such capital; and if, after the payment of such interest, any profit remain to be divided, he may receive his portion of such profits. (Rev., s. 2534; Code, s. 3102; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 15.)

§ 3272. Depleted capital restored.—If it appears by the payment of interest or profits to any special partner that the original capital has been reduced, the partner receiving the same is bound to restore the amount necessary to make good his share of the capital without interest. (Rev., s. 2535; Code, s. 3103; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 16.)

§ 3273. Rights of special partner.—A special partner may from time to time examine into the state and progress of the partnership concern; he may advise as to its management and act as attorney at law, but must not transact any other of the partnership business, nor be employed for that purpose as agent or otherwise; and if he interfere contrary to this section he is deemed a general partner. (Rev., s. 2536; Code, s. 3104; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 17.)

§ 3274. Accounting inter se. —These general partners are liable to account to each other, and to the special partners, for their management of the partnership, as other partners. (Rev., s. 2537; Code, s. 3105; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 18.)

§ 3275. Special partner as a creditor in insolvency.—In case of the bankruptcy or insolvency of the partnership, no special partner, under any circumstances, is to be allowed to claim as a creditor until the claims of all the other creditors of the partnership are satisfied. (Rev., s. 2538; Code, s. 3107; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 20.)

§ 3276. Notice of dissolution.—No dissolution of such partnership by the acts of the parties must take place before the time specified in the certificate of its formation, or in the certificate of its renewal, until a notice of its dissolution has been registered in the register's office in which the original certificate was registered, and published once a week for four successive weeks in the nearest newspaper to each of the places where the partnership transacts its business. (Rev., s. 2539; Code, s. 3108; 1860-1, c. 28, s. 21.)

In a case involving the dissolution of a general partnership it was held that personal notice of dissolution of a partnership should be given to those who had theretofore sold it goods, and notice by newspaper publication to the public generally. Where a vendor ships goods to a partnership who had theretofore dealt with it, upon the order in the partnership name, without knowledge of the dissolution or notice sent to that effect, each member of the partnership is liable therefor. Southern States Supply Co. v. Lyon, 173 N. C. 445, 92 S. E. 145.

Art. 2. Surviving Partners

§ 3277. Surviving partner to give bond.—Upon the death of any member of a partnership, the surviving partner shall, within thirty days, execute before the clerk of the superior court of the county where the partnership business was conducted, a bond payable to the state of North Carolina, with sufficient surety conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties in the settlement of the partnership affairs. The amount of such bond shall be fixed by the clerk of the court; and the settlement of the estate and the liability of the bond shall be the same as under the law governing administrators and their bonds. (1915, c. 227, ss. 1, 2, 3.)

The death of a partner works, by operation of law, a dissolution of the firm. George on Partnership, 257; Bates on Partnership, sec. 610; Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135 N. C. 556, 568, 47 S. E. 618.

Applied in Reel v. Boyd, 198 N. C. 214, 151 S. E. 192.

§ 3278. Effect of failure to give bond.—Upon the failure of the surviving partner to execute the bond provided for in the preceding section, the clerk of the superior court shall, upon application of any person interested in the estate of the deceased partner, appoint a collector of the partnership, who shall be governed by the same law governing an administrator of a deceased person. (1915, c, 277, s. 4.)

§ 3279. Surviving partner and personal representative make inventory.—When a member of any partnership dies the surviving partner, within sixty days after the death of the deceased partner, together with the personal representative of the deceased partner, shall make out a full and complete inventory of the assets of the partnership, including real estate, if there be any, together with a schedule of the debts and liabilities thereof, a copy of which inventory and schedule shall be retained by the surviving partner, and a copy thereof shall be furnished to the personal representative of the deceased partner. (Rev., s. 2540; 1901, c. 640.)

Not Retroactive.—This section does not apply to actions then pending and is not retroactive. Bank v. Hodgin, 129 N. C. 247, 39 S. E. 959.

Property Vests in Surviving Partner.—The surviving copartner has the closing up of partnership affairs, the reduction of personal property to cash and the settlement of partnership affairs, and, under Revisal 1905, sec. 1579, now section 1735 of this Code, the title to this class of personal property vests at once in the surviving partner and not in the personal representative of the deceased partner. Sherrod v. Mayo, 156 N. C. 144, 72 S. E. 216.

Same—Duty.—After the dissolution of a firm by the death of one of the partners, it is the duty of the surviving partner to settle up the joint estate in the manner most conducive to the interest of all persons interested. Calvert v. Miller, 94 N. C. 600.

"Although as to future dealings," remarks Story, "the partnership is terminated by the death of one partner, yet for some purposes, it may be said to subsist, and the rights, duties, powers and authorities of the survivors remain, so far as is necessary to enable them to wind up and settle the affairs of the partnership." Story Part., Sec. 344. Quoted with approval in Calvert v. Miller, 94 N. C. 600, 603.

Same—Rights.—It is the right as well as the duty of a surviving partner to close up the affairs of the firm. He has the right, therefore, to receive and to collect the debts and assets of the partnership, and apply the same toward the payment of the debts and liabilities of the firm. Story on Partnership, sec. 344; Weisel v. Cobb, 114 N. C. 22, 18 S. E. 943; Hodgin v. Bank, 124 N. C. 540; Hodgin v. Bank, 128 N. C. 110, 111, 38 S. E. 294.

Same—Same—To Create New Debts.—A surviving partner has no right to create or contract new debts binding upon the partnership, except to the extent of purchasing new material and making new debts so far as may be necessary to work up unfinished material and sell the same. Howell v. Boyd Mfg. Co., 116 N. C. 806, 22 S. E. 5.

Same—Power to Endorse Note.—A surviving partner has no power after dissolution to renew or endorse a firm note in the name of the firm. Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135 N. C. 556, 47 S. E. 618.

A surviving partner who, more than two years after dissolution of the firm, indorsed a note in the firm name for the renewal of notes outstanding similarly indorsed, was individually liable on such indorsement, though it did not bind the firm. Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135 N. C. 556, 47 S. E. 618.

Same—Impressed with a Trust.—The death of a partner, in the absence of any stipulation in the articles of copartnership to the contrary, works an immediate dissolution, and the title to the assets vests in the surviving partner, impressed with a trust to close up the partnership business, pay the debts and turn over to his personal representative the share of the deceased partner. Walker v. Miller, 139 N. Co. 448, 52 S. E. 125.

When Danger of Misapplication of Funds.—In case of danger of misapplication by the surviving partner of partnership funds, the court would certainly, in behalf of the representatives of a deceased partner, interfere and restrain by injunction the surviving partner from such acts, or grant other proper relief; and there is no reason why they should not interfere in behalf of a creditor in such a case. Hodgin v. Bank, 128 N. C. 110, 111, 38 S. E. 294.

When Surviving Partner Is Agent of Executor.—Where one of the members of a firm was constituted its general managing agent by the articles of partnership, and upon the death of one partner his executor consented to a continuance of the business, it was held that the manager became the agent of the executor as well as of the other surviving member, and a demand and refusal to account are necessary to terminate the agency and put the statute of limitations in operation. Patterson v. Lilly, 90 N. C. 82.

When Property Held in Common.—An arrangement between distributees and legatees to permit their property with the consent and co-operation of the representatives of the deceased partners to remain in common and to be used for their joint benefit, adopting the name of the old firm, constitutes a partnership. Walker v. Miller, 139 N. C. 448, 52 S. E. 125.

Personal Property Exemptions.—A surviving partner of an insolvent firm is not entitled to have his personal property exemptions paid out of the partnership assets. Southern Commission Co. v. Porter, 122 N. C. 692, 30 S. E. 119.

Competency of Witness.—In an action for goods sold to a firm, the testimony of one partner, who admitted his liability by failing to answer, that the goods were furnished by the plaintiff on the order of the firm, is not competent as against the executor of the deceased partner or against the firm. Fertilizer Co. v. Rippy, 124 N. C. 643, 32 S. E. 980; Moore v. Palmer, 132 N. C. 969, 44 S. E. 673.

A surviving partner, who assigns partnership property of an insolvent firm to pay his own debts pro rata with those of the firm, cannot be allowed to testify that he did not thereby intend to defraud the firm creditors. Southern Commission Co. v. Porter, 122 N. C. 692, 30 S. E. 119.

When Representative Not Subject to Suit.—The representative of a deceased partner cannot be sued while there is a surviving partner. Burgwin v. Hostler, 1 N. C. 167.

§ 3280. When personal representative may take inventory; receiver.—If the surviving partner neglect or refuse to have such inventory made, the personal representative of the deceased partner may have the same made in accordance with the provisions of the preceding section. Should any surviving partner fail to take such an inventory or refuse to allow the personal representative of the deceased partner's estate to do so, such personal representative of the deceased partner's estate may forthwith apply to a court of competent jurisdiction for the appointment of a receiver for such partnership, who shall thereupon proceed to wind up the same and dispose of the assets thereof in accordance with law. (Rev., s. 2541; 1901, c. 640, s. 2.)

Receiver Appointed When Assignee Holds for Indefinite Time.—Where an assignment was made by a surviving partner of an insolvent firm, and the assignee was empowered to continue the business for an indefinite term, a receiver might be appointed to administer the partnership fund among the creditors though the deed was not set aside. Southern Commission Co. v. Porter, 122 N. C. 692, 30 S. E. 119.

When Surviving Partner Appointed Receiver.—Where the surviving partner of a firm is appointed receiver of the firm, he cannot maintain an action against one who, as surety for the accommodation of the deceased partner indorsed the latter's note, which was discounted by the firm, if it appears that the assets of the partnership are sufficient to pay its debts and leave a surplus against the deceased partner's share of which the note can be charged. Patton v. Carr, 117 N. C. 176, 23 S. E. 182.

Duty of Assignee to Charge Interest.—Where the surviving partner of a firm conveyed the assets to an assignee to settle the estate, it was the duty of the assignee, notwithstanding a contrary custom existing in the town where the business has been conducted, to charge and collect interest on all good overdue accounts from the end of a year after dissolution of the copartnership, and he is liable to the surviving partner for his failure to do so. Weisel v. Cobb, 118 N. C. 11, 24 S. E. 782.

Same—Assignee Liable for Interest.—The assignee of a surviving partner is chargeable with interest on the partnership moneys kept by him after twelve months from the time he assumed the trust until he disbursed it. Weisel v. Cobb, 118 N. C. 11, 24 S. E. 782.

§ 3281. Notice to creditors.—Every surviving partner, within thirty days after the death of the deceased partner, shall notify all persons having claims against the partnership which were in existence at the time of the death of the deceased partner, to exhibit the same to the surviving partner within twelve months from the date of first publication of such notice. The notice shall be published once a week for four weeks in a newspaper (if there be any) published in the county where the partnership existed. If there should be no newspaper published in the county, then the notice shall be posted at the courthouse and four other public places in the county. (Rev., s. 2542; 1901, c. 640, s. 3.)

Where a dissolution of a firm occurs by operation of law, by the death of one of the partners, the giving of notice of such dissolution is not necessary to prevent liability from attaching to the estate of the deceased partner or of the surviving partners for any future contracts made in the name of the firm. Bank v. Hollingsworth, 135 N. C. 556, 47 S. E. 618.

§ 3282. Debts paid pro rata; liens.—All debts and demands against a copartnership, where one partner has died, shall be paid pro rata, except debts which are a specific lien on property belonging to the partnership. (Rev., s. 2543; 1901, c. 640, s. 4.)

When Interest of Firm Demands Creation of Debt.—While a surviving partner cannot enter into contracts, or create liabilities which will bind the estate of his deceased partner, yet he is not bound to sacrifice the interests of the firm, and if he contracts debts, bona fide, for the interest of the common property, he may pay them out of the common fund. Calvert v. Miller, 94 N. C. 600.

Same—Creditors Advancing Funds to Market Product.—Where a surviving partner has purchased materials and contracted new debts to complete unfinished products and placed the finished article on the market, the creditors advancing the necessary funds are entitled to pay out of assets of the partnership. Howell v. Boyd Manufacturing Co., 116 N. C. 806, 22 S. E. 5.

Personal Debt as Set-Off.—In an action brought by a surviving partner for a debt, a debt due from him may be pleaded as a set-off. Hogg v. Ashe, 2 N. C. 471.

But a defendant cannot avail herself of a debt due to her by a deceased member of the firm, though the contract between the latter and the defendant was that the debt, being for the board of his partner, should be paid out of the store in which the plaintiff and the defendant were copartners. Norment v. Johnston, 32 N. C. 89.

Division Not Permitted before Settlement.—"There can be no division of partnership property," in the language of Ruffin, C. J., in Baird v. Baird, 21 N. C. 524, "until all the accounts of the partnership have been taken and the clear interest of each partner ascertained." Mendenhall v. Benbow, 84 N. C. 646, 650.

Prior Encumbrance.—The claims of a surviving partner upon the proceeds of sale of the deceased partner's half of the real estate (here mill property), to reimburse him to the amount of half the expenditures incurred in the conduct of the joint business and improvements put upon the property, constitute a prior encumbrance and must be paid, to the postponement of creditors of the deceased partner. Mendenhall v. Benbow, 84 N. C. 646.

When Assignment for Indefinite Term Fraudulent.—An assignment by a surviving partner of an insolvent firm for an indefinite term, the assignee to have the right to employ servants and to replenish the stock, and out of the proceeds to pay firm debts, and also the individual debts of the survivor pro rata, is fraudulent as against creditors. Southern Commission Co. v. Porter, 122 N. C. 692, 30 S. E. 119.

When Bank May Not Apply Deposits to Debts.—When a bank knew that the plaintiff was the only surviving partner of a firm, and that he was making deposits as such, it had no right to apply them to the payment of a debt created by the partnership before its dissolution, without the consent of the depositor. Hodgin v. National Bank, 125 N. C. 503, 34 S. E. 709, 712.

Accommodation Indorser of Note for Member of Firm.—A note executed by a member of a partnership to a third party who, as surety for the accommodation of the maker, indorses it and receives no benefit from it, cannot be subject to an action at law against the indorser by the firm, nor in case of the death of the maker of the note can the surviving partner maintain an action on the note against the accommodation indorsers unless the firm is insolvent. Patton v. Carr, 117 N. C. 176, 23 S. E. 182.

Prior Law.—A surviving partner, is not compelled to pay the debts of the partnership pro rata, or in any prescribed order. Hodgin v. Bank, 124 N. C. 540, 32 S. E. 887. It is true that he holds the funds in trust for the payment of the partnership debts, but he has the same discretion as to preference in the payment of those debts as the firm had before the dissolution by death of one of the partners. He is not bound by any rule prescribed by statute, as are executors and administrators, in this respect. Hodgin v. Bank, 128 N. C. 110, 112, 38 S. E. 294. This case was decided in the February term, 1901, before the section went into effect. It would seem that it is now obsolete under the terms of the section.

§ 3283. Effect of failure to present claim in twelve months.—In an action brought on a claim which was not presented within twelve months from the first publication of the general notice to creditors, the surviving partner shall not be chargeable for any assets that he may have paid in satisfaction of any debts before such action was commenced, nor shall any costs be recovered in such action against the surviving partner. (Rev., s. 2544; 1901, c. 640, s. 5.)

§ 3284. Procedure for purchase by surviving partner.—1. Appraisal of Property.—The surviving partner may, if he so desire, make application to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the partnership existed, after first giving notice to the executor or administrator of the time of the hearing of such application, for the appointment of three judicious, disinterested appraisers, one of whom may be named by the surviving partner, one by the representative of the deceased partner's estate, and the third named by the two appraisers selected, whose duty it shall be to make out under oath a full and complete inventory and appraisement of the entire assets of the partnership, including real estate if there be any, together with a schedule of the debts and liabilities thereof, and to deliver the same to the surviving partner; they shall also deliver a copy to the executor or administrator, and file a copy with the clerk of the court.

2. Surviving Partner May Purchase.—The surviving partner may, with the consent of the executor or administrator of the deceased partner and the approval of the clerk of the superior court by whom such executor or administrator was appointed, purchase the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership assets at the appraised value thereof, including the good will of the business, first deducting therefrom the debts and liabilities of the partnership, for cash or upon giving to the executor or administrator his promissory note or notes, with good approved security, and satisfactory to the executor or administrator, for the payment of the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership assets.

3. Surviving Partner to Give Bond.—In case the surviving partner shall avail himself of the privilege of purchasing such interest as provided for in this section, he shall give bond to the executor or administrator with surety for the payment of the debts and liabilities of the partnership, and the performance of all contracts for which the partnership is liable.

4. Sale of Real Estate.—In case of such sale of the real estate belonging to the partnership, the title to the real estate so purchased shall not pass until the sale thereof has been reported to and confirmed by the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the partnership was located, in a special proceeding to which the widow and heirs at law devisees of the deceased partner are duly made parties. (Rev., s. 2545; 1901, c. 640, s. 6; 1911, c. 12.)

§ 3285. Surviving partner to account and settle.—In case the partner shall not avail himself of the privilege of purchasing the interest of the deceased partner, he shall, within twelve months from the death of the deceased partner, file with the clerk of the superior court of the county where the partnership was located, an account, under oath, stating his action as surviving partner, and shall come to a settlement with the executor or administrator of the deceased partner: Provided, that the clerk of the superior court shall have power, upon good cause shown, to extend the time within which said final settlement shall be made. The surviving partner for his services in settling the partnership estate shall receive commissions to be allowed by the court, and in no case to exceed five per cent out of the share of the deceased partner. (Rev., s. 2546; 1901, c. 640, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—The English doctrine is that surviving partners, trustees, etc., are not entitled to commissions or compensation for their services. However, the doctrine has met with little favor in the American courts. The rule in America has been to allow commissions. The rule was laid down in this State, by Mr. Chief Justice Ruffin in Boyd v. Hawkins, 17 N. C. 195. It seems that the great Chief Justice correctly pointed out the reason for the difference between the English and the American rule in that case. In England persons acting in a fiduciary capacity are not practically at any trouble or expense about their trusts, because the whole business is managed through attorneys. In this country the custom is different. The surviving partner himself looks after the closing out of the business, often involving much time and expense.

The holding of the courts and the tendency of legislation in this State has been to provide compensation for persons acting in a fiduciary character. Yet, it was 1901 before the Legislature finally confirmed the rule laid down by the court by statutory enactment.

Presumption of Equal Interest. — In the absence of evidence to the contrary, each partner is presumed to be equally interested in the joint business. State v. Brower, 93 N. C. 344.

If an agreement for a common or special partnership appears to have existed between parties for the purchase of property, with intent to sell the same for the profit of the parties, and no express agreement be proved adjusting the division or share of the profits, the law extends the concern to all the goods purchased by either of the parties; and the parties are entitled to share the profits, without regard to the payments or advances made by either for the purpose of effecting the purchase, if there be no contract as to the amount of the advances to be made by them respectively. Taylor v. Taylor, 6 N. C. 70.

Note Arising Out of Business.—In stating an account between an executor and the surviving partner of the testator, it is not error to charge the surviving partner with the value of a note due the testator of the plaintiff individually, if such note arose from or grew out of the business of the co-partnership business. Royster v. Johnson, 73 N. C. 474.

Compensation.—Under the law of this State, a surviving partner is entitled to reasonable compensation for his services in settling up the partnership business. Royster v. Johnson, 73 N. C. 474. See Editor's Note above.

In Weisel v. Cobb, 118 N. C. 11, 24 S. E. 782, it was held, that two and one-half per cent. commissions on receipt and disbursement was enough to be allowed the assignee for his services, under the circumstances in that case.

Loss.—Where the surviving partner, has acted in good faith in a fiduciary character he is not chargeable with loss. Thompson v. Rogers, 69 N. C. 361.

§ 3286. Accounting compelled.—In case any surviving partner fails to come to a settlement with the executor or administrator of the deceased partner within the time prescribed by law, the clerk of the superior court may, at the instance of such executor, administrator or other person interested in such deceased partnership estate, cite the surviving partners to a final settlement as provided for by law in the case of executors and administrators. (Rev., s. 2547; 1901, c. 640, s. 8.)

§ 3287. Settlement otherwise provided for.—When the original articles of partnership in force at the death of any partner or the will of a deceased partner make provision for the settlement of the deceased partner's interest in the partnership, and for a disposition thereof different from that provided for in this chapter, the interest of such deceased partner in the partnership shall be settled and disposed of in accordance with the provisions of such articles of partnership or of such will. (Rev., s. 2545; 1901, c. 640, s. 6.)

Art. 3. Business Under Assumed Name Regulated

§ 3288. Certificate filed; contents.—No person shall hereafter carry on, conduct or transact business in this state under assumed name, or under any designation, name or style other than the real name of the individual owning, conducting or transacting such business, unless such person shall file in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such person owns, conducts or transacts, or intends to own, conduct or transact such business, or maintain an office or place of business, a certificate setting forth the name under which such business owned is or is to be conducted or transacted, and the true or real full name of the person owning, conducting or transacting the same, with the home and post-office address of such person. The certificate shall be executed and duly acknowledged by the person so owning, conducting or intending to conduct such business: Provided, that the selling of goods by sample or through traveling agents or traveling salesman, or by means of orders forwarded by the purchaser through the mails, shall not be construed for the purpose of this section as conducting or transacting business so as to require the filing of such certificates. (1913, c. 77, s. 1.)

Highly Penal.—The section is of a highly penal character, and its meaning will not be extended by interpretation to include cases that do not come clearly within its provision. Jennette v. Coppersmith, 176 N. C. 82, 97 S. E. 54.

Purpose and Operation.—This statute manifestly is for the protection of creditors of persons who fail to comply with its provisions, or of others who do business with them. The consequences of a violation of the statute are prescribed by sec. 3291. They seem to be limited to punishment as a misdemeanor, for it is expressly provided that failure to comply with this section, shall not prevent a recovery in a civil action by the person who shall violate the statute. Farmers' Bank, etc., Co. v. Murphy, 189 N. C. 479, 127 S. E. 527, 529.

The section was enacted as a police regulation to protect the general public from fraud and imposition, and a person violating the same may not enforce a contract in our courts made in the course of such business, though the statute does not expressly invalidate such transactions. Courtney v. Parker, 173 N. C. 479, 92 S. E. 324. The rule laid down in this case is now changed by legislative enactment. See sec. 3291 and annotations thereto.

The intent of chapter 77, Public Laws 1913, now this and the following sections of this article requiring that a partnership under an assumed name shall file a certificate in the office of the clerk of the superior court setting forth the name under which the business is conducted, with the full names and addresses of the persons owning and conducting it, etc., was to prevent fraud or imposition upon those dealing therewith, and to afford them means for knowing the statute and responsibility of the concern with which they deal. Price v. Edwards, 178 N. C. 493, 101 S. E. 33.

When Not Applicable.—It does not apply between partners who are presumed to know these conditions; and a surviving partner may maintain his action against the heirs of the dead one to recover his share in the assets of a partnership in a legitimate business, notwithstanding the business had been conducted in the name solely of the dead partner, and the requirements of the statute had not been complied with. Price v. Edwards, 178 N. C. 493, 101 S. E. 33.

Same—Surname of Proprietors. — Where a partnership business is being conducted under the surname of the proprietors in such manner as to afford a reasonable and sufficient guide to a correct knowledge of the individuals composing the firm, chapter 77, Laws 1913, forbidding the carrying on or transacting business under an "assumed name," etc., does not apply. Befarah v. Spell, 176 N. C. 193, 96 S. E. 949.

Same—A Silent Partner.—Where a partnership in a legitimate business has been conducted in the name of one of the partners alone, as between themselves, chapter 77, Public Laws 1913, now this article does not apply, and an action of the silent partner to recover his share of the assets from the other is not founded upon any wrong, and the principles relating to such transactions do not apply, or avoid his recovery. Price v. Edwards, 178 N. C. 493, 101 S. E. 33.

§ 3289. Index of certificates kept by clerk. — The several clerks of the superior court of this state shall keep an alphabetical index of all persons filing certificates provided for herein, and for the indexing and filing of such certificates they shall receive a fee of twenty-five cents. A copy of such certificates duly certified to by the clerk in whose office the same shall be filed shall be presumptive evidence in all courts of law in this state of the facts therein contained. (1913, c. 77, s. 2.)

§ 3290. Corporations and limited partnerships not affected.—This article shall in no way affect or apply to any corporation created and organized under the laws of this state, or to any corporation organized under the laws of any other state and lawfully doing business in this state, nor shall it in any manner affect the right of any persons to form limited partnerships as provided by the laws of this state. (1913, c. 77, s. 3.)

§ 3291. Violation of article misdemeanor. — Any person owning, carrying on or conducting or transacting business as aforesaid, who shall fail to comply with the provisions of this article, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars or imprisonment in the county jail for a term of not exceeding thirty days. Provided, however, that the failure of any person or persons owning, carrying on, or conducting or transacting business as aforesaid, to comply with the provisions of this article shall not prevent a recovery by said person or persons in any of the courts of this state. (1913, c. 77, s. 4; 1919, c. 2.)

Nature of Section.—As stated in Courtney v. Parker, infra, and reaffirmed in Price v. Edwards, infra, this statute is "a police regulation to protect the general public, as heretofore stated, from fraud and imposition." Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

Application.—In Courtney v. Parker, 173 N. C. 479, 92 S. E. 324, it was held that the statute was enacted as a police regulation to protect the general public from fraud and imposition, and a person violating the same may not enforce a contract made in the course of such business, though the statute does not expressly invalidate such transactions. See note infra.

This statute was further considered by the court in Jennette v. Coppersmith, 176 N. C. 82, 97 S. E. 54. In that case, Courtney v. Parker, supra, was distinguished, and the plaintiffs allowed to recover without filing the certificate required by sec. 3288, because the title of the plaintiffs' firm, Jennette Bros., afforded a reasonable and sufficient guide to correct knowledge of the individuals composing the firm, and therefore did not come clearly within the doctrine of "assumed" names. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 630. See note following immediately hereafter.

When Courts Will Not Lend Aid.—The courts will not lend their aid to extend a highly penal statute, although it is within the police power, unless the case comes within the letter of the law, and also within its meaning and palpable design. It is just as clearly the policy of the law that it will not lend its aid in enforcing a claim founded on its own violation. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

In Jennette v. Coppersmith, supra, the court, reviewing Courtney v. Parker, after referring to the highly penal character of this statute, says: "It should not be extended or held to include cases that do not come clearly within its provision." Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

Same—Act Not Forbidden by Statute.—In Hines v. Norcott, 176 N. C. 123, 130, 96 S. E. 899, the court held that this statute did not apply, because the action did not arise out of the doing of an act forbidden by the statute. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 630.

Same—When Transaction Illegal.—In Fineman v. Faulkner, 174 N. C. 13, 16, 93 S. E. 384, L. R. A. 1918F 337, the plaintiff had not violated any statute, but was suing the administrator of Mamie Faulkner who was engaged in an illegal business, and the court says: "In all the cases in which recovery has been denied, it will be found that either the consideration or the transaction was illegal or the vendor participated in the illegal purposes of the purchaser." Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 630. See notes supra.

Same—Courtney v. Parker Overruled by 1919 Amendment.—The foregoing were decided by the court prior to the enactment of chapter 2, Public Laws 1919. This enactment added the proviso now appearing in this section, and this proviso had the effect to change the decision in Courtney v. Parker, supra, as to violations of section 3288. The legislative intent is clear, not only in the act itself, but the title: "An act to amend chapter 77 of the Public Laws of 1913, regulating the use of assumed names in partnerships, so as to permit recovery in actions brought by a partnership which has failed to register." Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

In Real Estate Co. v. Sasser, 179 N. C. 497, 498, 103 S. E. 73, the court considers this statute (Public Laws 1913, ch. 77) together with chapter 2, Public Laws 1919, now contained in sections 3288-3291, inclusive, and allows the plaintiff to recover, although he was carrying on a real estate business, and he admitted direct violation of this statute. The court says that this amendment (chapter 2, Public Laws 1919) applied to pending actions and to transactions prior to its enactment, in the absence of a saving clause (36 Cyc. 1164). And, since it is a mere police regulation, it may be abolished at any time and no vested rights are required under it. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

Same—Contracts Not Void.—It is clear by express enactment, that the Legislature intended by adding the proviso that the punishment should be confined to the fine or imprisonment, set out in this section, but that contracts made by persons carrying on or conducting or transacting business in violation of this statute, should not be void. Security Finance Co. v. Hendry, 189 N. C. 549, 127 S. E. 629, 631.

§ 3292. Person trading as "company" or "agent" to disclose real parties; married woman not disclosing, a free trader.—If any person shall transact business as trader or merchant, with the addition of the words "factor," "agent," "& Co.," or shall conduct such business under any name or style other than his own, except in case of a corporation, and fail to disclose the name of his principal or partner by sign placed conspicuously at the place wherein such business is conducted; or if any married woman conducts such business through her husband or any other agent, or if a husband or agent of any married woman conducts such business for her without displaying the Christian name of such married woman, and the fact that she is a feme covert, by a sign placed conspicuously at the place wherein such business is conducted, then all the property, stock of goods and merchandise, and choses in action purchased, used and contracted in the course of such business shall, as to creditors, be liable for the debts contracted in the course of such business by the person in charge of same. A married woman conducting such business as aforesaid without complying with the provisions of this section shall for all purposes be deemed and treated, as to all debts contracted in the course of such business, as a free trader as fully as if she had in all respects complied with the provisions of law for a registered free trader: Provided, this section shall not apply to any person transacting business under a license as an auctioneer, broker, or commission merchant; in all actions under this section it is incumbent on such trader, merchant or married woman to prove compliance with the same. (Rev., s. 2118; 1905, c. 443.)

Constitutionality.—The section declaring a married woman a free trader, as to goods purchased in conducting a mercantile business, in charge of her husband as agent, etc., without displaying a sign to that effect in the manner directed, is constitutional and valid. Scott-Sparger Co. v. Ferguson, 152 N. C. 346, 67 S. E. 750.

The penalty fixed for the violation of the section is that the married woman so violating shall be deemed a free trader and shall be liable for her debts but she is not deprived of her rights to her personal property exemption, because such right is guaranteed by the Constitution. Crummen v. Bennett, 68 N. C. 494; Arnold v. Estes, 92 N. C. 162; Rankin v. Shaw, 94 N. C. 405; Dortch v. Benton, 98 N. C. 190, 3 S. E. 638; Rose v. Bryan, 157 N. C. 173, 72 S. E. 960; Bristol Grocery Co. v. Bails, 177 N. C. 298, 300, 98 S. E. 768.

Purpose of Section.—The purpose of the section is to prevent a married woman from conducting her business through her husband or any other agent so as to mislead her creditors in believing they are dealing with the person legally responsible in advancing credit to the husband or other agent, and from concealing her identity and coverture to that end. Weld v. LaMarguerite Shop Co., 147 N. C. 588, 61 S. E. 573.

When within Jurisdiction of Justice of Peace.—An action to make a stock of goods liable for a debt of a feme covert for goods sold and delivered, the business being hers and run by the husband as her agent, without complying with the provisions of the section, requiring the sign to be displayed showing such fact and the christian name of the feme covert, is cognizable in the court of a justice of the peace when the amount is within his jurisdiction. Scott-Sparger Co. v. Ferguson, 152 N. C. 346, 67 S. E. 750.

Application.—When the wife's name is properly displayed, it is necessary to show some fraud on the part of the husband in order to hold him under the section. Morse v. Shultz, 156 N. C. 165, 72 S. E. 218.

The stock of goods of a feme covert in charge of her husband as her agent, etc., when the provisions of the section have not been complied with, requiring the sign to be displayed showing her christian name, and the fact that she was a feme covert, is liable for debts for goods sold to the husband for the business, notwithstanding the vendor knew the fact that the husband, for a brief interval previous to the purchase in question, did not run the business. Scott-Sparger Co. v. Ferguson, 152 N. C. 346, 67 S. E. 750.

Goods knowingly sold to and upon the responsibility of the wife, who was not a free trader, by the agent of the creditor, who knew the husband and was by him referred to the wife, with whom he made the contract in her own behalf, are not within the mischief intended to be suppressed by the statute so as to charge the feme covert or her property. Weld v. LaMarguerite Shop Co., 147 N. C. 588, 61 S. E. 573.

One partner may execute a valid mortgage on the partnership property to secure a partnership debt; and when the general manager of a firm composed of a feme covert and another executes such mortgage and has it registered and its execution and registration are admitted by the other partner as a partnership mortgage, it will be binding upon the partnership property, whether its execution on the part of the feme covert was formally and correctly proved or not. Stone Co. v. McLamb & Co., 153 N. C. 378, 69 S. E. 281.

CHAPTER 65.

PROBATE AND REGISTRATION

Art. 1. Probate

§ 3293. Officials of state authorized to take probate.—The execution of all deeds of conveyance, contracts to buy, sell or convey lands, mortgages, deeds of trust, assignments, powers of attorney, covenants to stand seized to the use of another, leases for more than three years, releases and any and all instruments and writings of whatsoever nature and kind which are required or allowed by law to be registered in the office of the register of deeds or which may hereafter be required or allowed by law to be so registered, may be proved or acknowledged before any one of the following officials of this state: the several justices of the supreme court, the several judges of the superior court, commissioners of affidavits appointed by the governor of this state, the clerk of the supreme court, the several clerks of the superior court, the deputy clerks of the superior court, the several clerks of the criminal courts, notaries public, and the several justices of the peace. (Rev., s. 989; Code, s. 1246; 1899, c. 161, ss. 1, 3; 1897, c. 87.)

Cross References.—For a complete treatment of the nature and incidents of acknowledgments and proof of instruments, see 1 N. C. Enc. Dig. 80 et seq.; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 14, et seq.

Effect of Disqualification.—If the disqualification of either the probating or acknowledging officer appears upon the face of the record, the registration is a nullity as to subsequent purchasers and incumbrances. Quinnerly v. Quinnerly, 114 N. C. 145, 19 S. E. 99. But when the incapacity of the acknowledging or probating officer is latent, i. e., does not appear upon the record, one who takes under the grantee in such instrument gets a good title, unless the party claiming the benefit of the defective acknowledgment or probate is cognizant of the facts. See cases cited in the opinion of Clark, J., and also Richmond Co. v. Walston, 187 N. C. 67, 122 S. E. 663; County Sav. Bank v. Tolbert, 192 N. C. 126, 130, 133 S. E. 558.

Woman Notary Qualified.—A woman is qualified to act as a notary public since the adoption of the amendment to the Constitution of this State, Art. VII, sec. 7; and also to pass upon the proper probate of a deed to lands, and make a valid certificate for its registration, when deputized by the clerk of the superior court under the provisions of our statutes. Preston v. Roberts, 183 N. C. 62, 110 S. E. 586.

Interest and Relationship.—As to disqualification on the ground of interest and relationship, see sections 3299, 3305, and annotations thereto.

Cited in McClure v. Crow, 196 N. C. 657, 146 S. E. 713.

§ 3294. Officials of the United States, foreign countries, and sister states.—The execution of all such instruments and writings as are permitted or required by law to be registered may be proved or acknowledged before any one of the following officials of the United States, of the District of Columbia, of the several states and territories of the United States, of countries under the dominion of the United States and of foreign countries: Any judge of a court of record, any clerk of a court of record, any notary public, any commissioner of deeds, any mayor or chief magistrate of an incorporated town or city, any ambassador, minister, consul, vice consul, consul general, vice consul general, or commercial agent of the United States, any justice of the peace of any state or territory of the United States. If the proof or acknowledgment of the execution of an instrument is had before a justice of the peace of any state of the United States other than this state or of any territory of the United States, the certificate of such justice of the peace shall be accompanied by a certificate of the clerk of some court of record of the county in which such justice of the peace resides, which certificate of the clerk shall be under his hand and official seal, to the effect that such justice of the peace was at the time the certificate of such justice bears date an acting justice of the peace of such county and state or territory and that the genuine signature of such justice of the peace is set to such certificate. (Rev., s. 990; 1899, c. 235, s. 5; 1905, c. 451; 1913, c. 39, s. 1; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 72, s. 1.)

See sections 963, 967, 968, 3175, 3176.

Compliance Essential.—This section prescribing how deeds may be proved and acknowledgment and privy examination taken in other states as well as in foreign countries, must be followed, or they and the registration thereon will be declared void. New Hanover Shingle Mills v. Roper Lumber Co., 171 N. C. 410, 88 S. E. 633.

Probate by Commissioner of Deeds in Another State. — Where the probate to a deed is taken by a commissioner of deeds in another state, and the certificate of the clerk of the court of that county is alone to that effect, without indication of authority of the commissioner to act therein for the State of North Carolina, the registration here upon the probate, as well as the probate, are both ineffectual, and will not be received as evidence of title, New Hanover Shingle Mills v. Roper Lumber Co., 171 N. C. 410, 88 S. E. 633.

In Wood v. Lewey, 153 N. C. 401, 402, 69 S. E. 268, the deed was acknowledged before a commissioner of deeds for the State of New Jersey, and not before some official authorized by the laws of this State to take such acknowledgment. The court declared that the probate was void and that the registration was also void. New Hanover Shingle Mills v. Roper Lumber Co., 171 N. C. 410, 411, 88 S. E. 633.

Proof before Notary Public in Another State.—A deed regularly proved before a notary public in South Carolina by authority of this section, is effectual to pass title as against creditors. County Sav. Bank v. Tolbert, 192 N. C. 126, 133 S. E. 558.

Proof in This State by Notary of Another State.—The probate of an instrument taken in this State by a notary public of another state is defective. County Sav. Bank v. Tolbert, 192 N. C. 126, 133 S. E. 558.

Same—Rights of Purchaser Where Record Is Clear.—While a probate of a mortgage taken in this State by a notary public of another state is defective, the purchaser at the mortgage sale will acquire by his deed the title as against a subsequent judgment creditor, when the probate appears of record, in the office of the register of deeds in the county wherein the land is situate here, to have been regularly taken in South Carolina, and there is no evidence that such purchaser had knowledge of the defect at or before the time he acquired his deed. County Sav. Bank v. Tolbert, 192 N. C. 126, 133 S. E. 558.

By Woman Notary Public.—The position cannot be maintained that the probate is fatally defective, being taken by a woman, for it will be assumed that the notary was rightfully appointed in the State in which the deed was probated, and her act will be recognized as valid here. Nicholson v. Eureka Lumber Co., 160 N. C. 33, 75 S. E. 730.

§ 3295. Commissioner appointed by clerk for nonresident maker.—When it appears to the clerk of the superior court of any county that any person nonresident of this state desires to acknowledge a power of attorney, deed or other conveyance touching any real estate situated in the county of said clerk, he shall issue a commission to a commissioner for receiving such acknowledgment, or taking such proof, and said commissioner may likewise take the acknowledgment and privy examination of a married woman separate and apart from her husband, touching her assent to any power of attorney, deeds or other conveyances, touching real estate in said county. The commissioner shall make certificate of the acknowledgments or proof and privy examination made by him, and shall return the same to the clerk of the superior court, whereupon he shall adjudge that such conveyance, power or other instrument is duly acknowledged or proved, and that such examination, is in due form and shall order the same to be registered. (Rev., s. 991; Code, s. 1258; 1869-70, c. 185.)

§ 3296. By justice of peace of other than registering county.—If the proof of acknowledgment of any instrument is had before a justice of the peace of any county other than the county in which such instrument is offered for registration, the certificate of proof or acknowledgment made by such justice of the peace shall be accompanied by the certificate of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said justice of the peace resides, that such justice of the peace was at the time his certificate bears date an acting justice of the peace of such county, and that such justice's genuine signature is set to his certificate. The certificate of the clerk of the superior court herein provided for shall be under his hand and official seal. (Rev., s. 992; 1899, c. 235, s. 4.)

Omission to Register Seal Not Fatal.—The execution of a deed was proved before a justice of the peace in the County of Franklin, and the clerk of the superior court of that county certified the official character of the Justice of the peace under his official seal; the deed was thereupon registered in Granville County upon the fiat of the clerk of the superior court of the county, but the official seal of the clerk of Franklin superior court was not registered: It was held that the registration was valid. Perry v. Bragg, 111 N. C. 159, 16 S. E. 10.

§ 3297. When seal of officer necessary to probate.—When proof or acknowledgment of the execution of any instrument by any maker of such instrument, whether a married woman or other person or corporation, is had before any official authorized by law to take such proof and acknowledgment, and such official has an official seal, he shall set his official seal to his certificate. If the official before whom the instrument is proved or acknowledged has no official seal he shall certify under his hand, and his private seal shall not be essential. When the instrument is proved or acknowledged before the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is to be registered, the official seal shall not be necessary. (Rev., s. 993; 1899, c. 235, s. 8.)

See note under § 3179.

Name of Notary on Notarial Seal.—The statute does not require that his name or any name should be used on the notarial seal, though customarily the name of the notary does appear thereon. The seal appended by the notary to his certificate is presumably his, in the absence of evidence to the contrary. This is not rebutted by the mere fact that the notary signs his name "Geo. Theo. Sommer" and the seal has on it the name of "Theo. Sommer," when the fact of the execution of the deed is adjudged to have been proved by such seal and certificate of the notary. Deans v. Pate, 114 N. C. 194, 196.

Effect of Omission of Justices' Seal.—The omission by a justice of the peace to attach his seal to a certificate of the proof of execution of a deed and privy examination of the wife will not invalidate his action, otherwise regular. Lineberger v. Tidwell, 104 N. C. 506, 10 S. E. 758.

No Seal When Not Required by Statute.—The certificate of probate to a deed need not have a seal if not required by statute at the date of the execution. Westfelt v. Adams, 131 N. C. 379, 42 S. E. 823.

Presumption as to Seal.—When a copy of the certificate of the commissioner of affidavits concludes, "Given under my hand and seal," the presumption is that the seal was affixed to the original, though not appearing in the copy. Johnson v. Eversole Lumber Co., 147 N. C. 249, 60 S. E. 1129.

§ 3298. Officials may act although land or maker's residence elsewhere.—The execution of all instruments required or permitted by law to be registered may be proved or acknowledged before any of the officials authorized by law to take probates, regardless of the county in this state in which the subject-matter of the instrument be situated and regardless of the domicile, residence or citizenship of the person who executes such instrument, or of the domicile, residence or citizenship of the person to whom or for whose benefit such instrument may be made. (Rev., s. 994; 1899, c. 235, s. 13.)

§ 3299. Probate where clerk is a party.—All instruments required or permitted by law to be registered to which clerks of the superior court are parties or in which such clerks are interested may be proved or acknowledged and privy examination of any married woman, when necessary, taken before any justice of the peace of the county of said clerk, which clerk may then, under his hand and official seal, certify to the genuineness thereof, or before any judge of the superior court or justice of the supreme court, and the instrument probated and ordered to be registered by such judge or justices of the supreme court in like manner as is provided by law for probates by clerks of the superior court in other cases: Provided, that nothing contained herein shall prevent the clerk of the superior court, who is a stockholder or officer of any bank or other corporation, from adjudicating and ordering such instruments for registration, as have been acknowledged or proven before some justice of the peace or notary public. All probates made prior to March 8, 1921, by any such clerk of conveyances or other papers by any corporation in which such clerk was an officer or stockholder are hereby validated and declared sufficient for all such purposes. (Rev., s. 995; 1891, c. 102; 1893, c. 3; 1913, c. 148, s. 1; 1921, c. 92; 1921, c. 106, s. 2.)

See sections 3305, 3343.

Officer Party Trustee or Cestui Que Trust.—An acknowledgment and privy examination before an officer who was a party, trustee or cestui que trust in the deed is invalid. Long v. Crews, 113 N. C. 256; McAllister v. Purcell, 124 N. C. 262, 264, 32 S. E. 715.

Relation to Parties Not a Disqualification.—Probate and private examination taken before an officer are not invalid simply because he is related to the parties. McAllister v. Purcell, 124 N. C. 262, 32 S. E. 715.

§ 3300. Attorney in action not to probate papers therein.—No practicing attorney at law has power to administer any oaths to a person to any paper writing to be used in any legal proceedings in which he appears as attorney. (Rev., s. 2350; Ex. Sess. 1908, c. 105, s. 2.)

§ 3301. Probates before stockholders in building and loan associations.—No acknowledgment or proof of execution, including the privy examination of any married woman, of any mortgage or deed of trust executed to secure the payment of any indebtedness to any building and loan association shall hereafter be held invalid by reason of the fact that the officer taking such acknowledgment, proof or privy examination, is a stockholder in said building and loan association. This section does not authorize any officer or director of a building and loan association to take acknowledgments, proofs and privy examinations. (1913, c. 110, ss. 1, 3.)

§ 3301(a). Probate before stockholders in banking corporations.—No acknowledgment or proof of execution, including privy examination of married women, of any mortgage, or deed of trust executed to secure the payment of any indebtedness to any banking corporation, taken prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine, shall be held invalid by reason of the fact that the officer taking such acknowledgment, proof or privy examination, was a stockholder or director in such banking corporation: Provided, that this section shall not affect litigation pending at the time of the passage of this section. (1929, c. 302, s. 1.)

Under this section where a mortgage is executed on the equity in lands in order to secure endorsers on a note against loss and the note is discounted at a bank, the contract to secure the endorsers against loss is a collateral agreement between the makers and endorsers to which the bank is not a party, and the acknowledgment to the mortgage taken by an official of the bank is valid. Watkins v. Simonds, 202 N. C. 746, 164 S. E. 363.

§ 3302. Subpœnas to maker and subscribing witnesses.—The grantee or other party to an instrument required or allowed by law to be registered may at his own expense obtain from the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is required to be registered a subpoena for any or all of the makers of or subscribing witnesses to such instrument, commanding such maker or subscribing witness to appear before such clerk at his office at a certain time to give evidence concerning the execution of the instrument. The subpœna shall be directed to the sheriff of the county in which the person upon whom it is to be served resides. If any person refuses to obey such subpœna he is liable to a fine of forty dollars or to be attached for contempt by the clerk, upon its being made to appear to the satisfaction of the clerk that such disobedience was intentional, under the same rules of law as are prescribed in the cases of other defaulting witnesses. (Rev., s. 996; Code, s. 1268; 1899, c. 235, s. 16; 1897, c. 28.)

See next section and notes thereto.

§ 3303. Proof of attested writing.—If an instrument required or permitted by law to be registered has a subscribing witness and such witness is dead or out of the state, or of unsound mind, the execution of the same may be proved before any official authorized to take the proof and acknowledgment of such instrument by proof of the handwriting of such subscribing witness or of the handwriting of the maker, but this shall not be proof of the execution of instruments by married women. Provided, that no instrument required or permitted by law to be registered shall be acknowledged or probated upon the oath and examination of a subscribing witness, who is also the grantee his agent or servant in said instrument; and the registration of any such instrument, which has been proven by the oath and examination of a subscribing witness, who is the grantee in said instrument shall be invalid; provided further, that nothing herein shall invalidate the registration of such instruments prior to the enactment of this section. Provided further, that this section shall apply also to agricultural liens. (Rev., s. 997; 1899, c. 235, s. 12; 1935, c. 168.)

Cross References.—See Black v. Justice, 86 N. C. 504, in annotation to the following section. As to proof by attesting witnesses of instruments which are not required to be attested, see section 1782; as to proof of handwriting by comparison, see section 1784.

Editor's Note.—The provisos at the end of this section were added by the 1935 amendment.

§ 3304. Proof of unattested writing.—If an instrument required or permitted by law to be registered has no subscribing witness, the execution of the same may be proved before any official authorized to take the proof and acknowledgment of such instrument by proof of the handwriting of the maker, but this shall not apply to proof of execution of instruments by married women. (Rev., s. 998; 1899, c. 235, s. 11.)

Admission to Probate by Proof of Handwriting of the Maker.—A deed having no subscribing witness, may be admitted to probate and registration upon proof of the handwriting of the maker; or, if the subscribing witness be dead, upon proof of his handwriting. Rollins v. Henry, 78 N. C. 342, overruled upon this point. Black v. Justice, 86 N. C. 504.

Proof of Writing of Nonresident by Resident Party. — Where the parties to an instrument requiring registration are nonresidents, except one, the instrument may be probated by proving the handwriting of the nonresident by the resident party. LeRoy v. Jacobosky, 136 N. C. 443, 48 S. E. 796.

§ 3305. Clerk to pass on certificate and order registration.—When the proof or acknowledgment of the execution of any instrument, required or permitted by law to be registered, is had before any other official than the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which such instrument is offered for registration, the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is offered for registration shall, before the same is registered, examine the certificate or certificates of proof or acknowledgment appearing upon the instrument, and if it appears that the instrument has been duly proved or acknowledged and the certificate or certificates to that effect are in due form, he shall so adjudge, and shall order the instrument to be registered, together with the certificates. If the clerk of the superior court is a party to or interested in such instrument such adjudication and order of registration shall be made by his deputy or by the clerk of the superior court of some other county of this state, or by some justice of the supreme court of this state or some judge of the superior court of this state. The acknowledgment of such instruments may also be made before a justice of the peace of said county, and the adjudication of the sufficiency of the certificate of said justice may be made by said clerk or his deputy: Provided, that nothing contained herein shall prevent the clerk of the superior court, who is a stockholder or officer of any bank or other corporation, from adjudicating and ordering such instruments for registration, as have been acknowledged or proven before some justice of the peace or notary public. All probates made prior to March 8, 1921, by any such clerk of conveyances or other papers by any corporation in which such clerk was an officer or stockholder are hereby validated and declared sufficient for all such purposes. (Rev., s. 999; 1899, c. 235, s. 7; 1905, c. 414; 1921, c. 91.)

Cross References.—See section 3299; As to form of adjudication and order of registration, see section 3322.

Elements of Adjudication.—If the certificate is not found in due form, the instrument is rejected. If the certificate is adjudged in due form, then the clerk admits to probate, i. e., probates it, passes upon the certificate as furnishing proof of execution, adjudges as to the genuineness of the certificate, the authority of the officer, and whether the justice or officer certifying is such, and the sufficiency of proof as certified. White v. Connelly, 105 N. C. 65, 66, 68, 11 S. E. 177.

Adjudication by Clerk Mandatory.—That this section requiring clerks of the superior court to adjudicate upon the probate to a deed for lands situated here is mandatory, and its omission will invalidate the conveyance as against the rights of purchasers and creditors. Champion Fibre Co. v. Cozad, 183 N. C. 600, 112 S. E. 810.

The requirement of this section that the clerk of the court shall pass upon the sufficiency of the probate of a deed is mandatory and not directory. Woodlief v. Woodlief, 192 N. C. 634, 635, 135 S. E. 612.

The decision seems to overrule an earlier contrary holding in Darden v. Neuse, etc., Steamboat Co., 107 N. C. 437, 125 S. E. 46, where it was held that when an acknowledgment or proof of the execution of a deed, or other instrument required or allowed to be registered, is taken by any other officer than the clerk of the superior court of the county where the land lies, it is not essential to the validity of registration that the latter should add an adjudication, or order of registration to the certificate and fiat of the officer taking the probate, as the provisions of this section were not intended to be mandatory, but directory merely. Darden v. Neuse, etc., Steamboat Co., 107 N. C. 437, 12 S. E. 46.

Same—Qualification of the Rule.—While it is held that such act of adjudication and order of registration are directory upon the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the land is situated, it is so only where the fiat or order of registration has been properly made by the clerk of another county upon which such power has been conferred by the statute, and in the absence of any proper fiat or order for registration, the conveyance will be ineffectual against the rights of purchasers and creditors of the grantor. Champion Fibre Co. v. Cozad, 183 N. C. 600, 112 S. E. 810.

Same—Where Probate Taken by Foreign Commissioner of Deeds.—The probate to a mortgage of lands situated in North Carolina, taken by the commissioner of deeds in another state, registered without the fiat or order for registration by a clerk of the superior court within the State, and clothed with authority to do so by our statute, is ineffectual as against purchasers or creditors to pass title to the purchaser at the foreclosure sale, or those claiming under him. Champion Fibre Co. v. Cozad, 183 N. C. 600, 112 S. E. 810.

Requirement as to Adjudication by Other Officer When Clerk Interested Mandatory.—The requirements of our statute as to certain other officials who shall pass upon the sufficiency of probate of mortgages when the clerk of the court is a mortgagee, in order to give priority of lien over those subsequently registered, must be observed in order for a valid registration of the instrument, it being a matter referred to the legislative branch of the government, with which the courts may not interfere. Norman v. Ausbon, 193 N. C. 791, 138 S. E. 162.

Where the clerk of the superior court is the grantee in a mortgage on lands, his passing upon the sufficiency of the grantor's probate before a justice of the peace is a judicial act which this section forbids, and cannot have the effect of giving his subsequent registration of the instrument priority of lien over a subsequent mortgage, properly probated and prior registered. Id.

Use of Words "In Due Form" Not Essential to Adjudication.—The adjudication by the clerk of the superior court that "the foregoing instrument has been duly proved, as appears from the foregoing seal and certificate," does not follow the very words of the statute in that it does not adjudge that said probate is "in due form." But it is intelligible and means substantially the same thing and "will be upheld without regard to mere form." Devereux v. McMahon, 102 N. C. 284, 9 S. E. 635. The acknowledgment was before an officer authorized to take it and probate was in fact in due form. The omission, therefore, of the clerk to adjudge in just so many words that the probate was "in due form" when in substance he did so adjudge, was not sufficient ground to exclude the deed. Deans v. Pate, 114 N. C. 194, 196, 19 S. E. 146.

Adjudication Cannot Be Delegated—Adjudication by Interested Clerk.—When the clerk of the superior court, upon the certificate of the acknowledgment of a grantor in a conveyance, or of proof of its execution, and privy examination of a married woman by a justice of the peace, adjudges such certificate to be in due form, admits the instrument to probate, and orders its registration, this is the exercise of a judicial function, which cannot be delegated to a deputy, nor exercised by the clerk as to an instrument to which he is a party. Hence, when the clerk, who is the grantor in a deed of trust, acknowledges the execution of the same before a justice of the peace, who also takes the privy examination of grantor's wife, and the clerk adjudges the certificate made by the justice of such acknowledgment and privy examination to be in due form, admits the instrument to probate and orders registration: It was held that such registration is without legal warrant, and invalid as to third parties. White v. Connelly, 105 N. C. 65, 11 S. E. 177.

Substantial Compliance Sufficient.—A substantial compliance with this section and section 3322, is all that is necessary to be observed by the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the land lay, in passing upon the certificate to a deed thereto made and executed in another state; and when objection to the validity of registration is made on that ground and it appears of record on appeal that the certificate made in such other state is in fact sufficient, the validity of the registration will be declared and upheld by the Supreme Court. Kleybolte & Co. v. Black Mountain Timber Co., 151 N. C. 635, 66 S. E. 663.

Certificate of Probate or Acknowledgment Necessary Even if Probate Made before Clerk.—The statutes of North Carolina require, as the method of authentication and warrant to the register to record a deed, that a certificate complying substantially with the terms of the statute shall be attached to or indorsed upon the deed, even though probate is had before the clerk of the superior court, and where no sufficient certificate was attached to or indorsed upon an instrument, it could not be shown by parol that proper proof was made before the clerk. National Bank v. Hill, 226 Fed. 102, 103.

Registration No Evidence of Adjudication without Signed Certificate of Clerk.—Where a justice of the peace has properly and in due form taken the acknowledgment of the grantor and his wife to a deed to lands, and the clerk of the court has failed or omitted to sign his name to the certificate for registration, the registration of the instrument is no evidence that the clerk or his deputy has complied with the provisions of this section requiring the clerk, etc., to adjudicate the sufficiency of the certificate of the justice of the peace, or permit a copy of such deed to be used in evidence under the provisions of section 1763. The curative statutes, 3331, 3336 (a), (b), (c), (d), have no application. Woodlief v. Woodlief, 192 N. C. 634, 135 S. E. 612.

No Adjudication When Instrument Proved before Clerk.—It is only required for a valid probate that the clerk should certify to the proof of a deed taken before him and it is only when he passes upon a probate taken before some other officer that he is required to certify to the correctness of the probate and certificate, and order the instrument to be registered. Table Rock Lumber Co. v. Branch, 158 N. C. 251, 73 S. E. 164.

Adjudication of Instrument Probated in Another State.—When a deed in trust made and executed beyond the borders of this State conveying lands herein has been there acknowledged and probated before a notary public, and (unnecessarily) the clerk of the Supreme Court in compliance with a statute there, has certified the official character of the notary and his authority as such, it is a sufficient compliance with this and section 3322, for the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the land lay, to certify that "the foregoing and annexed certificate of (naming the clerk), a clerk of the Supreme Court, etc., duly authenticated by his official seal, is adjudged to be correct, in due form and according to law, and the foregoing and annexed deed of trust is adjudged to be duly proved, etc." Kleybolte & Co. v. Black Mountain Timber Co., 151 N. C. 635, 66 S. E. 663.

Failure of Certificate to Recite Death of Witnesses and Maker.—Failure of the certificate to recite that the maker and attesting witness were dead did not render the registration of the deed improper, for those jurisdictional facts will be presumed. Richmond Cedar Works v. Stringfellow, 236 Fed. 264, 265.

Certificate of Clerk for Registration of Grant by State Not Required.—The certificate of the clerk of the court, required as a prerequisite to the registration of instruments of writing named therein, is not essential to the validity of the registration of a grant; the great seal of the State being sufficient authority for such registration. Ray v. Stewart, 105 N. C. 472, 11 S. E. 182.

Presumption of Regularity from Clerk's Certificate.—Where it appears that the clerk appended to a lease offered for registration his certificate, it will be presumed, nothing to the contrary appearing, that it was in due form. Darden v. Neuse, etc., Steamboat Co., 107 N. C. 437, 12 S. E. 46.

Instrument Proved in Another County—Extent of Adjudication.—It is not essential to the validity of registration of an instrument proved in another county that the clerk of the county where the land lies should have adjudged that it had been duly acknowledged and proved in the same manner as if taken before him. Darden v. Neuse, etc., Steamboat Co., 107 N. C. 437, 12 S. E. 46.

Defective Corporate Deed—Invalid Notwithstanding Adjudication.—A corporate deed of trust was executed by the trustee, as well as the corporation, and bore a notary's certificate of proof of the trustee's execution, and a certificate of the clerk that the instrument had been duly proved, "as appears from the foregoing seals and certificate, which are adjudged to be in due form and according to law," but no certificate as to the proof of execution by the corporation was attached. It was held, under this section that the clerk's certificate was invalid, and did not entitle the deed to registration. National Bank v. Hill, 226 Fed. 102, 103.

§ 3306. Probate of husband's deed where wife insane.—When a deed executed by a married man whose wife is insane or a lunatic, and whose homestead has been allotted, together with the certificate of the clerk of the superior court or with the certificate of the superintendent of the insane institution of the state where the wife is confined in conformity to section 1004 under the chapter Conveyances, is offered for probate before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land conveyed is situated, and the execution of such deed is acknowledged or proved, the clerk shall adjudge whether the certificate of the superintendent or the clerk is in due form, and if adjudged to be in due form he shall order the registration of the deed and certificate. (Rev., s. 1000; 1905, c. 138, s. 2; 1919, c. 20.)

§ 3307. Probate of corporate deeds, where corporation has ceased to exist.—It is competent for the clerk of the superior court in any county in this state, on proof before him upon oath and examination of the subscribing witness to any contract or instrument required to be registered under the laws of this state, to adjudge and order that such contract or instrument be registered as by law provided, when such contract or instrument is signed by any corporation in its corporate name by its president, and when such corporation has been out of existence for more than ten years when the said contract or instrument is offered for probate and registration, and when the grantee and those claiming under any such grantee have been in the uninterrupted possession of the property described in said contract or instrument since the date of its execution; and said contract or instrument so probated and registered shall be as effective to all intents and purposes as if signed, sealed and acknowledged, or proven, as provided under the existing laws of this state. (1911, c. 44, s. 1.)

Art. 2. Registration

§ 3308. Probate and registration sufficient without livery.—All deeds, contracts or leases, before registration, except those executed prior to January first, one thousand eight hundred and seventy, shall be acknowledged by the grantor, lessor or the person executing the same, or their signature proven on oath by one or more witnesses in the manner prescribed by law, and all deeds executed and registered according to law shall be valid, and pass title and estates without livery of seizin, attornment or other ceremony. (Rev., s. 979; Code, s. 1245; 1885, c. 147, s. 3; 29, Ch. II, c. 3; R. C., c. 37, s. 1; 1715, c. 7; 1756, c. 58, s. 3; 1838-9, c. 33; 1905, c. 277.)

Cross References.—For a full treatment of the nature and necessity of acknowledgment and proof of instruments, see 1 N. C. Enc. Dig. 80, et seq.; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 14, et seq.

Purpose of Section.—This section together with section 3311 were intended to uproot all secret liens, trusts, unregistered mortgages, etc., and under its force it has been held that no notice, however full and formal, will supply the place of registration. Robinson v. Willoughby, 70 N. C. 358; Hooker v. Nichols, 116 N. C. 157, 160, 21 S. E. 207.

Application to All Deeds.—The construction first put upon this section was, that it only applied to such deeds as operated at common law by livery of seizin. Hogan v. Strayhorn, 65 N. C. 279. But our courts, in their policy of relaxing the rigid and technical rules of common law, have since extended the construction so as to bring all of our deeds of conveyance within the purview of that statute. Thus it has been held that deeds of bargain and sale covenants to stand seized to uses are put on the same footing with feoffments at common law, with respect to seizin, the declaration of uses thereon, and the consideration. Love v. Harbin, 87 N. C. 249; Ivy v. Cranberry, 66 N. C. 224. Prior to that statute, and the more recent interpretation upon it, if there was a deed of bargain and sale upon a consideration, the consideration raised a use for the bargainee, and then the statute transferred the legal estate to the uses, that is, to the bargainee, but no further use could be declared by the deed, for it was held a use could not be mounted upon a use. But there is no reason now why it may not be done, since the registration of the deed has all the effect of livery of seizin. Jones v. Jones, 164 N. C. 320, 324, 80 S. E. 430.

All Registered Deeds Put on Same Footing with Feoffment.—This section in terms at least, does not give to registered deeds the effect of conveyances with livery, but on the contrary enacts that registered deeds without livery shall pass title. It is, however, settled law in North Carolina that by the statute all registered deeds "are put on the same footing with feoffments at common law, with respect to seizin, the declaration of uses thereon, and the consideration." Bryan v. Eason, (1908) 147 N. C. 284, 61 S. E. 71. That is, because the statute has abolished livery, all registered deeds operate as if they were given with livery. 1 N. C. Law Rev. 155.

Probate May Be Sufficient as Contract.—While the order of probate cannot authorize the registration of an instrument in the form of a deed which has been defectively executed, it is sufficient, nevertheless, to authorize its registration as a contract to convey, which is expressly provided for in this and the following section. Haas v. Rendleman, 62 F. (2d) 701.

Subsequently Acquired Title—Estoppel.—See article in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 153, as to relation of this section to the doctrine of estoppel and rebutted where the grantor at the time of conveyance has no interest in the property conveyed but subsequently acquires title thereto.

Registration between Parties Not Necessary to Validity of Conveyance.—See annotations to next section.

§ 3309. Conveyances, contracts to convey, and leases of land.—No conveyance of land, or contract to convey, or lease of land for more than three years shall be valid to pass any property, as against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration, from the donor, bargainor or lessor, but from the registration thereof within the county where the land lies: Provided, the provisions of this section shall not apply to contracts, leases or deeds executed prior to March first, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, until the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six; and no purchase from any such donor, bargainor or lessor shall avail or pass title as against any unregistered deed executed prior to the first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, when the person holding or claiming under such unregistered deed shall be in the actual possession and enjoyment of such land, either in person or by his tenant, at the time of the execution of such second deed, or when the person claiming under or taking such second deed had at the time of taking or purchasing under such deed actual or constructive notice of such unregistered deed, or the claim of the person holding or claiming thereunder. (Rev., s. 980; Code, s. 1245; 1885, c. 147, s. 1.)

I. IN GENERAL.

The object of probate and registration in the county where the land lies was intended to give notice to creditors and purchasers for value, or others whose rights might otherwise be seriously and unjustly impaired by the deed. Warren v. Williford, 148 N. C. 474, 62 S. E. 697; Weston v. Roper Lumber Co., 160 N. C. 263, 266, 75 S. E. 800.

Not Applicable to Grants.—This section does not apply to grants, the registration of which is regulated by sections 7578, 7579. Wyman v. Taylor, 124 N. C. 426, 32 S. E. 740.

Date of Registration Controls Title as against Purchasers.—Under this section a grantee in a deed acquires title thereto, as against subsequent purchasers for value, from the date of the registration of the instrument. Sills v. Ford, 171 N. C. 733, 88 S. E. 636.

Liberal Construction of Proviso.—The words of the proviso should receive a liberal construction so as to give full force and effect to the spirit and intention of the section. Cowen v. Withrow, 112 N. C. 736, 737, 17 S. E. 575.

Similar Construction with Section 3311.—This section and section 3311 in view of the similarity of their terminology, may be construed interchangeably. Cowen v. Withrow, 112 N. C. 736, 740, 17 S. E. 575.

Registry Does Not Cure Lack of Mental Capacity, though Prior Deed Unregistered.—Where a deed, void for mental incapacity of the grantor to make it, is registered prior to one theretofore made by the same grantor, for a valuable consideration, when he had sufficient mental capacity, the registration under this section can give no effect to the invalid deed, and the valid deed, though subsequently registered, will be effective. Thompson v. Thomas, 163 N. C. 500, 79 S. E. 896.

Effect of Amendment of 1885, Connor Act.—Under this section a conveyance of land, made prior to the amendment of 1885, is not valid against creditors or bona fide purchasers, unless registered before 1 January, 1886. Phillips v. Hodges, 109 N. C. 248, 13 S. E. 769.

Conversion in Partition Proceedings—Registration before Confirmation of Sale.—In a sale of lands in proceedings for partition, the conversion from realty to personalty does not take place until the land is sold and the sale confirmed by the court. Therefore, an unregistered deed made by some of the cotenants of their interest in the lands held in common is not good as against a subsequently made and registered deed by the same grantors of the same interest, to another, after the decree of sale for partition, but before the sale was confirmed. McLean v. Leitch, 152 N. C. 266, 67 S. E. 490.

Registration of Plat as Notice.—It was formerly held that the registration of plats not being required or allowed by our registry laws, it does not give constructive notice to innocent purchasers for value. Sexton v. Elizabeth City, 169 N. C. 385, 86 S. E. 344. But registration of plats is now required by that section.—Ed. Note.

II. REGISTRATION AS BETWEEN THE PARTIES.

Formerly Registration Prerequisite Even as between Parties.—The provision of this section prior to its amendment, as construed in White v. Holly, 91 N. C. 67, was that "no conveyance of land nor contract to convey, etc., shall be good and available in law, unless the same shall be acknowledged by the grantor, or proved, etc., and registered. At the next session of the General Assembly the law was so amended as to provide that "no conveyance of land or contract to convey, shall be valid to pass any property, as against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration from the donor, bargainor or lessor, but from the registration thereof in the county where the land lies." The manifest purpose of this section therefore, is to protect purchasers for value and creditors, and leave the parties to contracts for the sale of lands inter se to litigate their rights under the rules of evidence in force. Hargrove v. Adcock, 111 N. C. 166, 167, 170, 16 S. E. 16.

At Present Instrument Good between Parties without Registration.—A deed is good and valid between the parties thereto without registration, and may be proved on the trial as at common law. Warren v. Williford, 148 N. C. 474; Weston v. Roper Lumber Co., 160 N. C. 263, 266, 75 S. E. 800.

Contracts to convey land, as between the parties thereto, may be read in evidence without being registered. Hargrove v. Adcock, 111 N. C. 166, 16 S. E. 16.

Same—Deed Effective under Statute of Uses.—Under this section registration is not necessary to the validity of a deed for valuable consideration, effective under the Statute of Uses, as between the parties. In cases where livery of seisin was formerly required registration still supplies the place of that ceremony. Hinton v. Moore, 139 N. C. 44, 46, 51 S. E. 787.

Same—Registration after Commencement of Action.—As between the parties, there being no question of title arising from prior registration of junior deeds, a deed registered after the commencement of an action is admissible in evidence. Hudson v. Jordan, 108 N. C. 10, 12 S. E. 1029.

Same—Analogy with Section 3311.—The Connor Act (the amendment to this section) has substantially the same legal effect upon deeds that the Act of 1819 had upon mortgages and deeds in trust (Robinson v. Willoughby, 70 N. C. 358, 362), leaving them, although unregistered, valid as between the parties and as to all others except purchasers for value, and creditors. King v. McRackan, 168 N. C. 621, 624, 84 S. E. 1027.

III. WHAT INSTRUMENTS AFFECTED.

Instruments in Writing Dealing with Estate Which Lie in Grant.—It will be observed that this section, in terms, applies only to conveyances of land, contracts to convey, and leases of land for more than three years. Such instruments deal with estates that lie in grant, and therefore, are required to be in writing under the statute of frauds and under the law of North Carolina. Spence v. Foster Pottery Co., 185 N. C. 218, 220, 117 S. E. 32.

Same—Parol and Implied Trusts Not Affected.—The primary purpose and intent of the Legislature, in the passage of this act, was to establish a known and ready method for the settlement of conflicting claims and priorities arising from registrations. Hence, from its very nature and purpose it would seem to require that it be restricted to written instruments capable of being registered. There are certain parol trusts, and those created by operation of law, dealing with beneficial interests in lands, which are fully recognized in this jurisdiction. Jones v. Jones, 164 N. C. 320, 80 S. E. 430, and cases there cited. And it has been held with us consistently that these trusts, though resting in parol, or not evidenced by any writing, may be enforced against the holder of the legal title, unless it appear that such holder, or some one under whom he claims, has acquired his title for a fair and reasonable value and without notice of the trust. Here it will be observed that a bona fide purchaser for value without notice (but not a creditor) is protected against the claim of one in whose favor the trust is sought to be established, not by virtue of the terms of this section, but on the broad principles of equity. Spence v. Foster Pottery Co., 185 N. C. 218, 220, 117 S. E. 32; Sills v. Ford, 171, 733, 88 S. E. 636; Pritchard v. Williams, 175 N. C. 319, 95 S. E. 570; Roberts v. Massey, 185 N. C. 164, 116 S. E. 407; Eaton v. Doub, 190 N. C. 14, 21, 128 S. E. 494.

Parol trusts, and those created by operation of law, such as are recognized in this jurisdiction, do not come within the meaning and purview of this section. These trusts were purposely omitted from its terms for the reason that, being incapable of registration because not in writing, it was considered unfair and subversive of right to destroy them in favor of one who had acquired his title with full knowledge of their existence. See concurring opinion of Hoke, J., in Pritchard v. Williams, 175 N. C. 319, 95 S. E. 570, 326, and opinion of Connor, J., author of the act, in Wood v. Tinsley, 138 N. C. 507, 51 S. E. 59. See, also, Roberts v. Massey, 185 N. C. 164, 116 S. E. 407; Spence v. Foster Pottery Co., 185 N. C. 218, 220, 117 S. E. 32.

Certain parol trusts in land are enforceable in this jurisdiction when the holder of the legal title, or those claiming under him, have not acquired it for a fair and reasonable value without notice; and this section requiring notice by registration as against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration from the donor, bargainor, or lessor, necessarily, in contemplation of the express provisions of the statute, refer to such instruments as are in writing and capable of registration. Spence v. Foster Pottery Co., 185 N. C. 218, 117 S. E. 32.

When the plaintiff seeks to engraft a parol trust in his favor against the holder of the legal title to lands, only a bona fide purchaser for value without notice is protected, and this under the broad principles of equity, and creditors expressly referred to in this section, are not included, Spence v. Foster Pottery Co., 185 N. C. 218, 117 S. E. 32.

A declaration of trust is not a conveyance, or contract to convey, or lease of land, requiring registration as against creditors, by virtue of the provisions of this section. Crossett v. McQueen, 205 N. C. 48, 51, 169 S. E. 829.

Contracts to Sell—The One First Registered Prevails. — Among two or more contracts to sell land, the one first registered will confer the superior right. Combes v. Adams, 150 N. C. 64, 68, 63 S. E. 186.

Wills Not Affected—Purchaser under a Will Not Purchaser for Value.—The evil which it was intended to remedy by this section was the uncertainty of title to real estate caused by persons withholding deeds, contracts, etc., based upon a valuable consideration, from the public records. This evil could not exist in regard to wills, where the devisee is not a purchaser for value, but takes as a donee or volunteer. Bell v. Couch, 132 N. C. 346, 349, 43 S. E. 911.

Hence it is not necessary to examine the book of wills to see if the grantor of lands has devised them, or a part thereof, to another, and actual notice thereof will not affect the title conveyed by a registered deed. Harris v. Dudley Lumber Co., 147 N. C. 631, 61 S. E. 604.

Same—Will Not a Conveyance.—Looking to the purpose of the Legislature and the meaning of the language used, the statute can not by construction include wills under the general term "conveyance." Bell v. Couch, 132 N. C. 346, 349, 43 S. E. 911.

Same—But Purchaser from Devisee Prevails against Unregistered Deed.—This section requiring conveyances of land, contracts to convey, and leases to be recorded, applies when the grantee in a deed fails to record his deed until after the probate of a will of the grantor devising the same land, and after the registration of a deed for the same land from the devisee to a purchaser for value. Bell v. Couch, 132 N. C. 346, 43 S. E. 911.

What Included in Phrase "Unregistered Deed" in Proviso. —The use of the words "unregistered deed" in the proviso is in their broad generic sense and has reference to the same scope as the words "conveyance of land, or contract to convey, or lease of land," used in the first part of the section. McNeill v. Allen, 146 N. C. 283, 59 S. E. 689.

Agreement for Division of Proceeds of Sale Not Affected. —An instrument which is neither a conveyance of land, nor a contract to convey, nor lease of land, but only an agreement for a division of the proceeds of sales thereafter to be made of land and authority to one to take entire control and management of sales of land for the parties, is not required to be registered. Lenoir v. Valley River Min. Co., 113 N. C. 513, 18 S. E. 73.

Applies to Both Lost and Unlost Deeds.—This section applies both to lost and unlost deeds executed after 1 December, 1885, and there was no error in rejecting parol evidence to show that the plaintiff's grantor deeded the land in controversy to W. in 1891 and that the said deed had been lost before registration, where the plaintiff was purchaser for value of said title under registered conveyances. Hinton v. Moore, 139 N. C. 44, 51 S. E. 787.

Lease in Writing.—In order to affect with notice and bind a purchaser of lands to a contract of lease for more than three years made by a tenant with a former owner, it is necessary that the lease be registered in the proper county, and, consequently, the lease must be in writing. Mauney v. Norvell, 179 N. C. 628, 103 S. E. 372.

Mortgages Included.—Mortgages have been uniformly held to be conveyances of the legal title, and require the formality of a conveyance in their assignment as against purchasers for value, and, therefore, as against purchasers, the legal title vested in the mortgagee comes within the provisions of the registration act, and this section includes mortgages within its terms. First Nat. Bank v. Sauls, 183 N. C. 165, 170, 110 S. E. 865.

Creation of Building Restrictions Included. — A building restriction, being an easement, which must be created by a grant is within this section. Davis v. Robinson, 189 N. C. 589, 127 S. E. 697.

IV. RIGHTS OF PERSONS PROTECTED.

Cross References.—For a construction of § 1138 in connection with this section see annotations under that section.

In General.—By virtue of this section only creditors of the donor, bargainor, or lessor, and purchasers for value are protected against an unregistered deed, contract to convey, or lease of land for more than three years. Gosney v. McCullers, 202 N. C. 326, 162 S. E. 746.

Right to Easement.—Under this section where a grantor conveys land by registered deed creating an easement in land reserved by grantor, his grantee is entitled to the easement unaffected by an unregistered contract to convey the reserved land executed prior to the deed. Walker v. Phelps, 202 N. C. 344, 162 S. E. 727.

Where a deed provides that it is subject to a written lease previously executed by the grantor, the grantee takes the premises subject to the lease although the lease is for more than three years and is not recorded. Hildebrand Machinery Co. v. Post, 204 N. C. 744, 169 S. E. 629.

Creditors Put upon the Same Plane as Purchasers.—No distinction is made in the statute or in the opinions of the court, construing and applying the statute, between creditors and purchasers for value. No conveyance of land is valid to pass any property from the donor or grantor, as against either creditors or purchasers for value, but from the registration thereof. As to a purchaser for value, who has recorded his deed, it has been held that a prior deed from the same grantor, unregistered, does not exist, as a conveyance or as color of title. The same is true as against the creditors. Eaton v. Doub, 190 N. C. 14, 19, 128 S. E. 494.

Volunteers and Donees Not Protected.—This section for lack of timely registration, only postpones or subordinates a deed older in date to creditors and purchasers for value. As against volunteers or donees, the older deed, though not registered, will, as a rule, prevail. Tyner v. Barnes, 142 N. C. 110, 113, 54 S. E. 1008.

The trustee in bankruptcy is regarded as a purchaser for value under the amendment to the Bankrupt Act of 1910, and acquires a valid title as against the holder of the unregistered deed, under this section. Lynch v. Johnson, 171 N. C. 611. 89 S. E. 61.

Dower Where Title Divested Prior to Marriage.—Where a man executed and delivered a deed to a tract of land prior to his marriage and remained on the land up to his death, and the deed was not recorded until after his death, his widow is not entitled to dower. She is not a purchaser. Haire v. Haire, 141 N. C. 88, 53 S. E. 340.

Possessor under Unregistered Contract to Convey—Rights to Improvements.—One who goes into possession of land, under a parol contract to convey, paying the purchase money and making improvements thereon, cannot assert the right to remain in possession until he is repaid the amount expended for purchase money and improvements as against a purchaser for value from the vendor, under a duly registered deed. Wood v. Tinsley 138 N. C. 507, 51 S. E. 59. As to a purchaser for value, for the common grantor, the rule applies to one in possession, under an unregistered deed, who has enhanced the value of the land by improvements, although made in good faith. Eaton v. Doub, 190 N. C. 14, 21, 128 S. E. 494. Expressions in Kelly v. Johnson, 135 N. C. 647, 47 S. E. 674. Conflicting with these views were obiter and this was corrected by Wood v. Tensley, Supra.

Tort Feasor Neither a Purchaser Nor a Creditor.—A tort feasor, whose negligence has damaged a chattel in the rightful possession of the mortgagor, is neither a purchaser nor creditor within the contemplation of our registration laws, this section and section 3311, 3312, and an action may be maintained against him for the consequent damage either by the mortgagor or mortgagee, and a settlement with one will preclude a recovery by the other. Harris v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 190 N. C. 480, 130 S. E. 319.

Trustee or Mortgagee as Purchaser.—A trustee or mortgagee, whether for old or new debts, is a purchaser for valuable consideration. Brem v. Lockhart, 93 N. C. 191.

Priorities between Unregistered Deed and Execution of Judgment.—A sale of land under the execution of a judgment in the due course and practice of the court, and conveyance to the purchaser at the sale, regular in form and sufficiently describing the land, conveys the title superior to that of an unregistered deed from the judgment debtor to another, previously made, no notice, however formal, being sufficient to supply that required by registration; though a mortgage for the balance of the purchase price had been given by the grantee of the debtor, and duly registered before the docketing of the judgment, under the execution of which the conveyance had been made to the purchaser at the sale. Wimes v. Hufham, 185 N. C. 178, 116 S. E. 402.

Purchaser under Execution Sale — Prior Purchaser in Possession.—The purchaser at execution sale who registers his deed prior to a deed from the defendant in execution to his wife, which was executed before the sale, acquires the title to the land; and the wife in possession of the land conjointly with her husband at the time of the sale and of the execution of the sheriff's deed to the plaintiff, is not within the saving clause of the act, as the plaintiff does not take as purchaser from the "donor, bargainor or lessor," as against a donee in possession under an unregistered deed, but from the sheriff, who is the agent of the law. Cowen v. Withrow, 109 N. C. 636, 13 S. E. 1022.

Extent of Judgment Creditor's or Execution Sale Purchaser's Right.—A judgment creditor or purchaser at an execution sale can acquire no greater lien or interest in the property of the judgment debtor than such debtor had at the time the judgment lien became effective. Bristol v. Hallyburton, 93 N. C. 384, 387; Spence v. Foster Pottery Co., 185 N. C. 218, 117 S. E. 32.

Rights of Creditor Whose Judgment Docketed between Execution and Registration of Prior Deed.—The grantee, in a deed executed by the grantor and deposited with the holder of a mortgage under an agreement between the latter and the grantee that it should not be registered until the payment of the purchase price, took subject to the lien of a judgment creditor of the grantor, whose judgment was rendered and docketed between execution and registration of the deed. Board v. Micks, 118 N. C. 162, 24 S. E. 729.

Execution Purchaser with Notice Prior to 1885, Subordinate to Prior Unregistered Deed.—The proviso that no purchase of land from a donor, bargainor or lessor shall avail or pass title as against any unregistered deed executed prior to 1 December, 1885, where there is constructive or actual notice, applies as well to a purchaser of land at an execution sale with actual notice as to a purchaser from the "bargainor or lessor." Cowen v. Withrow, 112 N. C. 736, 17 S. E. 575.

Priority of Judgment Obtained before Registration of Prior Deed.—Where a judgment is obtained against a grantor of lands subsequent to the execution of the conveyance, but prior to the time of its registration, the lien of the judgment has priority over the title of the grantee, and the lands conveyed are subject to execution under the judgment. Maxton Realty Co. v. Carter, 170 N. C. 5, 86 S. E. 714.

The lien of a regularly docketed judgment is superior to a claim under an unrecorded deed from the judgment debtor. Eaton v. Doub, 190 N. C. 14, 128 S. E. 494.

Same—Agreement between Parties as to Registration.—Under the provisions of this section the holder of a subsequently registered conveyance takes subject to the lien of a judgment creditor of the grantor where the judgment was rendered and docketed before the registration of the deed, even though there was an agreement between the grantor and the grantee that such deed should not be registered till the payment of the purchase money. Board v. Micks, 118 N. C. 162, 24 S. E. 729; Bostic v. Young, 116 N. C. 766, 21 S. E. 552; Francis v. Herren, 101 N. C. 497, 8 S. E. 353; Colonial Trust Co. v. Sterchie Bros., 169 N. C. 21, 24, 85 S. E. 40.

Same—Judgment against Grantee.—Where a judgment has been obtained and docketed against the grantee, the lien thereof immediately attaches upon the registration of his deed, and cannot be defeated by a deed in trust subsequently registered and carrying out the agreement theretofore resting only in parol; and the consideration recited in grantee's deed is immaterial. Colonial Trust Co. v. Sterchie Bros., 109 N. C. 21, 85 S. E. 40.

Collateral Attack by Creditors for Want of Registration.—The want of registration does not invalidate the instrument so that creditors, merely as such, may treat it as a nullity in a collateral proceeding; but it is void against proceeding instituted by them and prosecuted to a sale of the property or acquirement of a lien, as against all who derive title thereunder. Boyd v. Turpin, 94 N. C. 137; Brem v. Lockhart, 93 N. C. 191; Francis v. Herren, 101 N. C. 507, 8 S. E. 353.

V. NOTICE.

No Notice Will Supply Want of Registration.—No notice, however full or formal, will supply the want of registration of a deed. Collins v. Davis, 132 N. C. 106, 43 S. E. 579.

A deed to lands registered under this section, conveys title as against any unregistered deed though previously executed to the knowledge of the grantee of the later deed, no notice supplying the place of registration, though the claimant is in possession; the provision of this section as to such possession is restricted to deeds executed prior to 1 December, 1885. Lanier v. Roper Lumber Co., 177 N. C. 200, 98 S. E. 593.

No notice however full and formal as to the existence of a prior deed can take the place of registration. McClure v. Crow, 196 N. C. 657, 659, 146 S. E. 713.

See note under § 3311.

In order for a registered deed to give constructive notice to creditors or purchasers for value, the probate must not be defective upon its face as to a material requirement, and where the probate is taken upon the examination of an attesting witness it must actually or constructively appear upon the face of the probate that the certificate was made upon evidence taken of the subscribing witness under oath, and if not so appearing the registration of the deed is insufficient to give the statutory notice. McClure v. Crow, 196 N. C. 657, 146 S. E. 713.

Possession No Notice after 1885.—The mere possession of the locus in quo under an unregistered ninety-nine year lease or any other circumstance is not sufficient notice to the owner of the fee under a valid paper chain of title. Dye v. Morrison, 181 N. C. 309, 107 S. E. 138.

Possession as Notice Only as to Deeds before 1885.—The proviso making actual possession notice to subsequent purchasers, applies only to deeds executed prior to 1 December, 1885. Collins v. Davis, 132 N. C. 106, 43 S. E. 579.

A deed executed prior to the Registration Act of 1885, ch. 147, but not registered until after the registration of a mortgage from the same grantor, is competent evidence to show title in the grantee, he being in possession before the passage of the said act. Eaton v. Crowell, 136 N. C. 377, 48 S. E. 767.

Doctrine of Estoppel Not Applicable.—The equitable doctrine of estoppel has no application to an innocent purchaser of lands for a valuable consideration, where the party setting up the estoppel under his deed has not had the latter recorded; for no notice, however full or formal, will, under this section, supply the place of registration. Revisal, sec. 980; Sexton v. Elizabeth City, 169 N. C. 385, 86 S. E. 344.

VI. EFFECT OF DEFECTIVE REGISTRATION.

Registration of Defectively Probated Deed Ineffective. — The registration of a deed executed outside of the State with defective probate is without authority and ineffective for any purpose; such a deed previously executed and so registered, unless probated and registered prior to January 1, 1866, takes effect to pass the legal title only from the date of lawful registration, and is invalid as against a conveyance made and registered in the meantime under a decree of court against the grantor which left in him no title to pass thereunder. United States v. Hiawassee Lumber Co., 202 Fed. 35.

The registration of a deed upon an unauthorized probate is invalid, and it cannot be introduced in evidence for the purpose of showing an essential link in the chain of title. Allen v. Burch, 142 N. C. 524, 525, 55 S. E. 354.

While a defective probate of a deed to lands appearing upon its face is ineffectual to pass title as against creditors, etc., it is otherwise when the probate appears to have been in conformity with law, regularly taken by a notary public in some other state and there is no evidence that the grantee in the commissioner's deed under the foreclosure of a mortgage had actual notice of the defect. County Sav. Bank v. Tolbert, 192 N. C. 126, 133 S. E. 558.

Provisions as to Adjudication by Interested Clerk Must Be Observed.—The requirements of section 3305 that other officials shall pass upon the sufficiency of probate of mortgages when the clerk of the court is a mortgagee, in order to give priority of lien over those subsequently registered, must be observed in order for a valid registration of the instrument. Norman v. Ausbon, 193 N. C. 791, 138 S. E. 162.

VII. UNREGISTERED DEED AS COLOR OF TITLE.

Unregistered Deed as Color of Title—Synopsis of Law.—Formerly an unregistered deed was in all cases color of title if sufficient in form (Hunter v. Kelly, 92 N. C. 285), but after the passage of that act it was held in Austin v. Staten, 126 N. C. 783, 36 S. E. 338, that an unregistered deed was not color of title.

The question was again considered in Collins v. Davis, 132 N. C. 106, 43 S. E. 579, and the ruling in the case of Austin v. Staten was modified so that it only applied in favor of the holder of a subsequent deed executed upon a valuable consideration, and the court has since then consistently adhered to the latter decision. Janney v. Robbins, 141 N. C. 400, 53 S. E. 863; Burwell v. Chapman, 159 N. C. 209, 211, 74 S. E. 685; Gore v. McPherson, 161 N. C. 638, 644, 77 S. E. 835; King v. McRackan, 168 N. C. 621, 624, 84 S. E. 1027.

Where one makes a deed for land, for a valuable consideration, and the grantee fails to register it, but enters into possession thereunder, and remains therein for more than seven years, such deed does not constitute color of title and bar the entry of a grantee, in a subsequent deed for a valuable consideration, who has duly registered his deed. Collins v. Davis, 132 N. C. 106, 43 S. E. 579. Except in cases coming within this rule, the rights acquired by adverse possession for seven years under color of title are not disturbed or affected by this section. Roberts v. Massey, 185 N. C. 164, 116 S. E. 407; Eaton v. Doub, 190 N. C. 14, 18, 128 S. E. 494.

Same—Qualification — Adverse Possession. — The principle, that under this section an unregistered deed does not constitute color of title, does not extend to a claim by an adverse possession held continuously for the requisite time under deeds "foreign" to the true title or entirely independent of the title under which the plaintiff makes his claim. Austin v. Staten, 126 N. C. 783, 36 S. E. 338, distinguished; Janney v. Robbins, 141 N. C. 400, 53 S. E. 863.

But where one makes a deed for land for a valuable consideration and grantee fails to register it, but enters into possession thereunder and remains therein for more than seven years, such deed does not constitute color of title and bar the entry of a grantee in a subsequent deed for a valuable consideration who has duly registered his deed. King v. McRackan, 168 N. C. 621, 624, 84 S. E. 1027.

Same—No Color of Title as against Judgment Creditors.—The possession of a grantee under an unregistered deed of lands is not under color of title as against subsequent judgment creditors of his grantor, who have thus obtained their liens on the locus in quo, the source of title being a common one, nor can the grantee establish his rights to betterments. Eaton v. Doub, 190 N. C. 14, 128 S. E. 494.

Registration as Affecting Commencement of Limitations.—The statute of limitations does not begin to run in favor of the lessee in possession under a ninety-nine-year lease of lands until the registration of the lease, as against the owner of the fee under a paper chain of title from a common source. Dye v. Morrison, 181 N. C. 309, 107 S. E. 138.

§ 3310. Unregistered deeds prior to January, 1890, registered on affidavit.—Any person holding any unregistered deed or claiming title thereunder, executed prior to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety, may have the same registered without proof of the execution thereof by making an affidavit, before the officer having jurisdiction to take probate of such deed, that the grantor, bargainor or maker of such deed, and the witnesses thereto, are dead or cannot be found, that he cannot make proof of their handwriting, and that affiant believes such deed to be a bona fide deed and executed by the grantor therein named. This section shall not interfere with vested rights nor shall a deed so admitted to record be used as evidence in any action now pending. Said affidavit shall be written upon or attached to such deed, and the same, together with such deed, shall be entitled to registration in the same manner and with the same effect as if proved in the manner prescribed by law for other deeds. (Rev., s. 981; 1885, c. 147, s. 2; 1905, c. 277; 1913, c. 116; 1915, cc. 13, 90; 1924, c. 56.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1924, Public Laws, c. 56, extended the operation of this section to deeds executed between 1885 to 1890.

Affidavit in Case of Corporation Grantee, by Whom Made.—Where a corporation is the holder of such a deed, the affidavit under this section, may properly be made by its president. Richmond Cedar Works v. Pinnix, 208 Fed. 785.

Affirmation of Belief That Deed Is Bona Fide, Essential.—The probate of a deed dated in 1845 upon an affidavit that the affiant claims title under the said deed and that the maker of said deed and the witnesses thereto are dead, and that he cannot make proof of their handwriting, is defective, in that it does not appear by the affidavit that the "affiant believes such a deed to be a bona fide deed and executed by the grantor therein named." Allen v. Burch, 142 N. C. 524, 525, 55 S. E. 354.

§ 3311. Deeds of trust and mortgages, real and personal.—No deed of trust or mortgage for real or personal estate shall be valid at law to pass any property as against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration from the donor, bargainor or mortgagor, but from the registration of such deed of trust or mortgage in the county where the land lies; or in case of personal estate, where the donor, bargainor or mortgagor resides; or in case the donor, bargainor or mortgagor resides out of the state, then in the county where the said personal estate, or some part of the same, is situated; or in case of choses in action, where the donee, bargainee or mortgagee, resides. For the purposes mentioned in this section the principal place of business of a domestic corporation is its residence. (Rev., s. 982; Code, s. 1254; R. C., c. 37, s. 22; 1829, c. 20; 1909, c. 847, s. 1.)

Dig. 6 et seq.; for identity in phraseology and purpose the constructions placed upon section 3309 are, for the most part, applicable to this section. See annotations to that section.

I. IN GENERAL.

See note under § 3312.

Section Liberally Construed. — This section is liberally construed. General Motors Acceptance Corp. v. Mayberry, 195 N. C. 508, 142 S. E. 767.

Registration Statutory.—The probate and registration of deeds and mortgages are entirely statutory, and creditors and purchasers are entitled to rely upon at least a substantial compliance with the statute. National Bank v. Hill, 226 Fed. 102.

The object of this section was to prevent fraud, and to that end it requires all encumbrances upon estates to be registered, so that purchasers and creditors might have notice of their existence and nature, and that all persons might see for what the encumbrance was created.

When the registration is made the means of knowledge thus furnished, it enables creditors of the mortgagor to avail themselves of their legal remedy against the equity of redemption in the land. This publicity affords the creditor all the benefit he can reasonably ask or that the law intended. Starke v. Etheridge, 71 N. C. 240, 244.

Character of Registration.—The recording of the transfer is not required by this section in the sense in which that word is used in section 60b of the National Bankruptcy Act concerning voidable preferences. In re Cunningham, 64 F. (2d) 296, 299.

Effective from Time of Registration.—A mortgaged deed, not registered within time, when registered operates from the time of registration only, and has no relation back to its date. Davison v. Beard, 9 N. C. 520.

Identical Construction with Section 3309. — In view of practical identity of the terminology of this section and section 3309, the construction put upon them will be identical. Cowan v. Withrow, 112 N. C. 736, 740, 17 S. E. 575; Francis v. Herren, 101 N. C. 497, 8 S. E. 353.

Registration of Chattel Mortgages at Common Law.—At common law, mortgages of personal property were not required to be reduced to writing, and our statute only requires them to be reduced to writing and registered as affecting creditors and purchasers for value. Butts v. Screws, 95 N. C. 215.

The Words "at Law" Construed.—The words "at law" in this section do not mean in a court of law only, but in all courts. "At law" is an expression in a statute which does not mean merely a legal tribunal as distinguished from an equitable jurisdiction, but, generally, our system of jurisprudence, whether legal or equitable. Hooker v. Nichols, 116 N. C. 157, 160, 21 S. E. 207.

Effect of Defective Registration.—A defective registration is no registration and is void; and hence does not prevent the rights of subsequent purchasers for value from attaching upon the property. Such is a registration of a deed acknowledged before a clerk who was a party to the deed. Cowan v. Dale, 189 N. C. 684, 128 S. E. 155, 156.

Under this and the following section where a chattel mortgage is registered prior to the registration of the title-retaining contract the lien of the chattel mortgage is superior to that of the title-retaining contract. Jordan v. Wetmur, 202 N. C. 279, 162 S. E. 610.

Want of Registration at Any Particular Time Does Not Avoid Instruments.—This section does not avoid a deed of trust for want of registration at any particular time, but declares that it shall not operate "but from" the registration; and that is deemed to be done on the day of its delivery to the register, as noted by him on the deed. McKinnon v. McLean, 19 N. C. 79.

Determination of Priorities between Mortgages by the Time of Filing.—The priorities between two mortgages or deeds of trust on land, appearing upon the index of the register of deeds to have been registered on the same month, exact date not given, nothing else appearing, may be determined by the time of filing for registration, and their relative position on the index. Attention is called to ch. 68, Laws 1921, amending sec. 3553, though not applicable to the instant case. Blacknall v. Hancock, 182 N. C. 369, 109 S. E. 72.

Sale of Mortgaged Property—Left with Mortgagor — Waiver by Mortgagee.—Where the mortgagor of an automobile has sold it to another after the registration of the mortgage, in claim and delivery, there was conflicting evidence as to whether the mortgagee gave permission for the sale. It was held, that an instruction that the registration of the mortgage was notice of the lien to the defendant purchaser, and he acquired the automobile subject to the mortgage lien, unless the jury find that the plaintiff mortgagee had waived the right to his lien, is correct. This principle is distinguished from one in which a mortgage is taken of an entire stock of goods which was left with the mortgagor for sale. Rogers v. Booker, 184 N. C. 183, 113 S. E. 671.

Applied in Commercial Casualty Ins. Co. v. Williams, 37 F. (2d) 326; First Nat. Bank v. Raleigh Sav. Bank & Trust Co., 37 F. (2d) 301; Ward v. Southern Sand & Gravel Co., 33 F. (2d) 773.

II. REGISTRATION AS BETWEEN PARTIES.

Between the Parties—Valid without Registration. — As between the parties a mortgage is valid without registration. Leggett v. Bullock, 44 N. C. 283, 285.

As between the parties, a mortgage is valid without registration, but not so as to creditors. Ellington v. Supply Company, 196 N. C. 784, 789, 147 S. E. 307.

Same—Personal Representative Occupies Intestate's Position.—As between the original parties, the lien of an unregistered mortgage holds priority. Wallace v. Cohen, 111 N. C. 103; 15 S. E. 892; Deal v. Palmer, 72 N. C. 582; Leggett v. Bullock, 44 N. C. 283. And the personal representative of a deceased mortgagor stands in the shoes of the latter. Hence, the plaintiff holding an unregistered second mortgage on the lands of the defendant's intestate is entitled to his lien upon the funds derived from the sale in excess of the first mortgage, in preference to other creditors of the deceased. McBrayer v. Harrill, 152 N. C. 712, 68 S. E. 204.

Intended Primarily to Protect Creditors and Purchasers.—This section was intended primarily to protect creditors and purchasers, and not to attach to the instrument additional efficacy as between the mortgagor and the mortgagee. South Georgia Motor Co. v. Jackson, 184 N. C. 328, 331, 114 S. E. 478.

III. INSTRUMENTS AFFECTED.

Absolute Sale Not Affected.—When the circumstances of a given transaction amount to an absolute sale, rather than a mortgage, such transaction is valid without registration as against the persons protected under this section. Chemical Co. v. Johnson, 98 N. C. 123, 3 S. E. 723.

It is not necessary under this section that a sale or conveyance of personal property by a corporation shall be in writing or shall be registered for any purpose when such sale is absolute and delivery of the property is made to the purchaser. Carolina Coach Co. v. Begnell, 203 N. C. 656, 166 S. E. 903.

Same—Except Where It Is Actually a Mortgage.—A bill of sale of property, absolute on its face, but intended as a mortgage, is void as against a purchaser for valuable consideration, by force of this section requiring mortgages, etc., to be registered. Dukes v. Jones, 51 N. C. 14.

Agreement in Substance a Chattel Mortgage.—A bankrupt, having several textile mills, in order to provide working capital agreed that claimants, who were factors, should advance on its goods, in process of manufacture, in transit, in the hands of finishers, and in the possession of customers until paid for, and that the goods should be subject to advances to him, made generally by claimants against all merchandise in and produced at enumerated mills. It was to be held in effect a chattel mortgage, and not an equitable lien, and hence such contract, not being recorded as required, was not a valid lien against the creditors of the bankrupt. In re Southern Textile Co., 174 Fed. 523.

Under this section where a transaction is in effect a pledge of security for borrowed money, it is not a chattel mortgage requiring registration as against creditors and third persons. Bundy v. Commercial Credit Co., 201 N. C. 604, 163 S. E. 676.

Advancement of Money to Pay Off Lien.—This section does not apply to the application of the equitable subrogation of lien in favor of one advancing money to pay off existing mortgage liens upon lands. Wallace v. Benner, 200 N. C. 124, 125, 156 S. E. 795.

Preferred Stock Giving Lien.—Where preferred stockholders of a corporation are given a priority over creditors by an agreement in its charter and certificates of stock giving the holders thereof a lien on its realty, even if the agreement be construed as a mortgage, it is inoperative as to creditors without compliance with this section requiring registration. Ellington v. Supply Co., 196 N. C. 784, 147 S. E. 307.

IV. RIGHTS OF PERSONS PROTECTED.

Not Valid without Registration — As against Judgment Creditor.—Under this section a deed of trust is of no validity whatever as against a judgment creditor unless registered. Bostic v. Young, 116 N. C. 766, 21 S. E. 552. See "Place of Registration" under this section.

Same—As against Subsequent Purchasers Whose Deeds Are Registered.—A mortgage not registered in time is ineffectual against purchasers subsequent to the mortgage whose conveyances are registered before the mortgage. Cowan v. Green, 9 N. C. 384. See "Place of Registration" under this section.

Void as to Creditors of Mortgagor and Not of Mortgagee.—An unregistered mortgage or deed of trust is void as against creditors of the mortgagor, and not of the mortgagee. Chemical Co. v. Johnson, 98 N. C. 126, 3 S. E. 723.

Between Mortgagee and Creditor.—While the sale of property to a creditor in possession in partial payment of a preëxisting debt is not good as against the equity of a mortgagee having a prior unregistered chattel mortgage against the property, since the creditor takes the property subject to the equities existing against it in the hands of the debtor, the chattel mortgage in itself creates no equity in favor of the mortgagee therein, and where the mortgagee shows no equity existing in his favor, the creditor takes the property free from the lien of the unregistered chattel mortgage in view of this section. Weil v. Herring, 207 N. C. 6, 175 S. E. 836.

General Creditors Not Protected.—Under this section general creditors are not protected as against prior unregistered mortgages or deeds of trust, unless and until such general creditors have secured a specific lien upon the property covered by the mortgage or deed of trust. Only the lien creditors are protected. National Bank v. Hill, 226 Fed. 120, 103. See also In re Cunningham, 64 F. (2d) 296.

Same—Even in Bankruptcy Proceedings. — In Holt v.

Crucible Steel Co., 224 U. S. 262, 56 L. Ed. 756, 32 S. Ct. 414, Justice Van Devanter discussed the Kentucky statute in regard to the registration of mortgages, which, in this respect, is the same as this section, holding that, as no creditor has fastened any lien upon the property covered by the mortgage prior to the proceedings in bankruptcy, by which the title passed to the trustee, the mortgage was valid as against him. Davis v. Hanover Sav. Fund Society, 210 Fed. 768, 127 C. C. A. 318; National Bank v. Hill, 226 Fed. 102, 115.

Before a creditor can claim a lien given by a state statute on property of a bankrupt, he must perfect the same, as required by such statute. In re Franklin, 151 Fed. 642.

Mortgagee for Future and Contingent Debts.—A debtor may lawfully mortgage his property to secure future and contingent debts, and that he does so is not of itself proof of a fraudulent intent. The mortgagee in such case is deemed a purchaser for value, and his rights are not affected by a prior unregistered mortgage. Moore v. Ragland, 74 N. C. 343.

Trustee or Mortgagee as Purchaser.—A trustee or mortgagee, whether for old or new debts, is a purchaser for a valuable consideration. Brem v. Lockhart, 93 N. C. 191.

Right of Attachment Creditors. — The registration of a mortgage prior to attachments issued by creditor makes it superior to the creditor's lien, but only on property situated in the county where the mortgage was registered. Williamson v. Bitting, 159 N. C. 321, 74 S. E. 808.

Collateral Attack by Creditors Not Warranted.—The want of registration does not invalidate the instrument so that creditors, merely as such, may treat it as a nullity in a collateral proceeding; but it is void against proceedings instituted by them and prosecuted to a sale of the property or acquirement of a lien, as against all who derive title thereunder. Boyd v. Turpin, 94 N. C. 137; Brem v. Lockhart, 93 N. C. 191; Francis v. Herren, 101 N. C. 497, 507, 8 S. E. 353.

Rights of Mortgagee Registering within Four Months of Bankruptcy of Mortgagor.—Under the Federal Bankruptcy Act of 1898, section 60b, and under this section a chattel mortgage given by a bankrupt, but not registered until some time after its execution and within four months of the filing of the petition, is a "preference," if on the date of its registration the mortgagee knew that the mortgagors were insolvent and that the mortgage would constitute a preference, though the mortgagors were solvent at the date of the execution of the mortgage. Brigman v. Covington, 219 Fed. 500.

Priority between Judgment Creditor and Purchaser at the Same Term.—A. executed a mortgage upon his land; the mortgage was filed for registration during a term of the superior court, at a subsequent day of which a judgment was rendered against him and duly docketed. It was held that the lien of the judgment was prior to that of the mortgage. Fleming v. Graham, 110 N. C. 374, 14 S. E. 922.

Mortgagee for Purchase Price—Priority against Subsequent Mortgage.—A mortgage executed and registered contemporaneously with a deed by the same parties to the same land, to secure the balance of the purchase price, is one act, giving the mortgagee a lien on the land described superior to that of a later executed and registered mortgage thereon. Allen v. Stainback, 186 N. C. 75, 118 S. E. 903.

Tort Feasor as Purchaser or Creditor.—See Harris v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 190 N. C. 480, 130 S. E. 319, annotations sec. 3309.

Trustee in Bankruptcy.—A mortgagee who failed to register his mortgage has no rights to the property mortgaged as against the trustee in bankruptcy of a corporation, to which the mortgagor subsequently conveyed the property in consideration of stock in such corporation. Holt v. Pick & Co., 25 Fed. (2d) 378.

Where Mortgagor Displaying Property in Sales Room.—Where a mortgagee of an automobile permits the mortgagor, a dealer, to keep it on display at his show room for sale with others therein, and the mortgage sufficiently describes the property, giving the serial and motor numbers and is duly registered under the provisions of this section the mortgagee by his conduct does not lose his right of lien as against a subsequent purchaser from the dealer, and the doctrine of implied authority to the dealer to sell the machine free from the mortgage lien as agent of the mortgagee does not apply under the facts of this case. Whitehurst v. Garrett, 196 N. C. 154, 144 S. E. 835.

Priority is given to the mortgage first recorded, by virtue of this section. Wayne Nat. Bank v. National Bank, 197 N. C. 68, 72, 147 S. E. 691. As to priority in proceeds of insurance on property, see note under § 6420.

V. NOTICE.

No Notice Will Take Place of Registration.—No notice, however full and formal, will supply the place of registration, in the case of mortgages and deeds of trust, as is the case under section 3309. Robinson v. Willoughby, 70 N. C. 358; Blacknall v. Hancock, 182 N. C. 369, 371, 109 S. E. 72; Robinson v. Willoughby, 70 N. C. 358; Hooker v. Nochols, 116 N. C. 157, 160, 21 S. E. 207. Therefore, mortgage given for the purchase-money of land is not entitled to priority over a second mortgage which is filed first, though the second mortgagee has notice thereof. Quinnerly v. Quinnerly, 114 N. C. 145, 19 S. E. 99. But see Collins v. Davis, 132 N. C. 106, 43 S. E. 579, the syllabus of which states the following rule of law: "A person who purchases land with notice of an uncanceled mortgage thereon is charged with notice of all rights of the mortgagee and those claiming under him." Collins v. Davis, 132 N. C. 106, 43 S. E. 579.

"In construing the registration laws of this State, this Court has consistently held that no notice, however full and formal, will supply the place of registration. Whitehurst v. Garrett, 196 N. C. 154, 144 S. E. 835; Mills v. Kemp, 196 N. C. 145, 309, 145 S. E. 557; Salassa v. Mortgage Co., 196 N. C. 501, 146 S. E. 83; Weeks v. Adams, 196 N. C. 512, 146 S. E. 130." Ellington v. Supply Co., 196 N. C. 784, 789, 147 S. E. 307.

No notice, however full and formal, will supply the place of registration required by this section, and a registered mortgage on lands constitutes a first lien on the mortgaged lands as against prior mortgages or equities which the registration books in the county in which the land lies does not disclose. Duncan v. Gulley, 199 N. C. 552, 155 S. E. 244.

No notice, however full and formal, can replace the statutory notice of registration as against creditors or purchasers for value, and where a mortgage on lands is executed and delivered, but not registered until after the registration of a later executed mortgage, the prior registered mortgage is a first lien on the land, and it is not sufficient to change this result that the prior registered mortgage was marked upon its face "second mortgage." Nor can notice aliunde advantage the holder of the mortgage first executed. Williams v. Lewis, 158 N. C. 571, 74 S. E. 17, cited and distinguished. Story v. Slade, 199 N. C. 596, 155 S. E. 256.

No notice, however full and formal, can replace the statutory notice of registration, and where a second mortgage is executed and delivered, but not registered until after the registration of a third mortgage, the mortgage third in execution is prior to the mortgage secondly executed and subsequently registered, and this result is not changed by the fact that the mortgage third in execution contained a reference in a first and second deed of trust, and contained a warranty against encumbrances "except as above stated," the references being insufficient to show that the parties intended to recognize the prior instruments as superior liens. Lawson v. Key, 199 N. C. 664, 155 S. E. 570.

Same—Except Where Fraud Is Used.—Where one who knows of a prior unregistered deed of trust or mortgage, procures a mortgage for his own benefit on the same property, which is registered first, he gets the first lien on the property, unless he used fraud to prevent the registration of the mortgage which is first in date. Traders Nat. Bank v. Lawrence Mfg. Co., 96 N. C. 298, 3 S. E. 363.

Same—Except When Subsequent Mortgage Recites Prior Mortgage.—While it is the established rule that as notice however full and formal, can take the place of registration, where the subsequent mortgage of the same property recites that it is made subject to a prior mortgage, such recitation is more than a mere notice of the prior incumbrance; and it establishes a trust in equity in favor of the prior incumbrances ever though his instrument is not registered. Bank v. Vass, 130 N. C. 590, 594, 41 S. E. 791; Avery County Bank v. Smith, 186 N. C. 635, 120 S. E. 215.

Where a trust deed is given to secure purchase money for land, and later a mortgage is given on the same land, which refers to the trust deed as a prior lien for purchase money, and the mortgage is registered before the trust deed, the debt secured by the trust deed must be paid by the mortgagee from the proceeds of the sale of the land, but the mortgage is entitled to the possession of the land. Bank v. Vass, 130 N. C. 590, 41 S. E. 791.

Constructive Notice to All the World.—Under this section deeds of trust and mortgages on real and personal property, when properly probated and registered, are constructive notice to all the world. Whitehurst v. Garrett, 196 N. C. 154, 144 S. E. 835.

Registration upon a defective probate does not have the effect of actual or constructive notice of the existence of the mortgage deed, so as to affect a subsequent purchaser for value. Todd, etc., Co. v. Outlaw, 79 N. C. 235.

Same—Mortgage for Future Advances—Effect of Actual Notice.—Where the plaintiffs took a mortgage from A. to secure future advancements, there being a prior mortgage to B. defectively registered, it was held that if after the execution of the plaintiffs' mortgage, and before they had made any part of or all the advancements stipulated, they had been fixed with actual notice of prior mortgages in equity, any advancements subsequently made by them would have been made at their peril; but if they were unaffected with notice before they paid out their money, their legal title must prevail as a security for repayment. Todd, etc., Co. v. Outlaw, 79 N. C. 235.

Same—Corporate Deed. — Where the execution of a corporate deed of trust was not proved as the statute required, its registration was without warrant or authority of law, and as against creditors and purchasers for value it was not registered until subsequently probated in proper form and again registered. National Bank v. Hill, 226 Fed. 102.

VI. PLACE OF REGISTRATION.

County of Actual Personal Residence.—The mere fact that a person had personal property in a certain county does not constitute residence. The purpose of the statute is to have the deed of trust or mortgage of personalty registered in the county where the donor, bargainor, or mortgagor has actual personal residence. The reason is that persons interested to have knowledge in such respect would go to the county where a person resides to see what disposition he had made of his personal property by deeds and other instruments required to be registered; they would not ordinarily look elsewhere. The statutory requirement is too plain to be mistaken. Harris v. Allen, 104 N. C. 86; Bank v. Cox, 171 N. C. 76, 79, 87 S. E. 967.

The term "residence" as used in this section is the actual personal residence of the mortgagor. Industrial Discount Corp. v. Radecky, 205 N. C. 163, 170 S. E. 640.

Registration in County Where Land Lies.—Under this section a mortgage deed, conveying land which is not registered in the county where the land lies, is not valid as against creditors or purchasers for value. King v. Portis, 77 N. C. 25.

Same—Where Land Lies in Two or More Counties.—Upon the question whether a mortgage of one tract of land described by metes and bounds and registered in one county only—both mortgagor and mortgagee believing the whole tract to be situated in such county—is valid against creditors and purchasers, when in fact a part of said tract is situated in an adjoining county, about which the controversy arose, it was held invalid. King v. Portis, 77 N. C. 25, 26.

Registration at Changed Residence.—We know of no law requiring a new registration of mortgages of personal property whenever the mortgagor changes his residence. Weaver v. Chunn, 99 N. C. 431, 6 S. E. 370; Harris v. Allen, 104 N. C. 86, 90, 10 S. E. 127.

Effect of Registration in Wrong County.—This section requires that a mortgage or personal property be registered where the mortgagor resides, and where a mortgage on such property has been registered in the wrong county, and subsequently registered in the right one, but after a mortgage on the same property has been given to another and properly registered, the second mortgage has priority of lien over the first one, and no other notice, however full, will take the place of that of registration required by the statute. Bank v. Cox, 171 N. C. 76, 87 S. E. 967.

§ 3311(1). Blank or master forms of mortgages, etc., embodiment by reference in instruments later filed.—It shall be lawful for any person, firm or corporation to have a blank or master form of mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument conveying an interest, in, or creating a lien on, real and/or personal property, filed, indexed and recorded in the office of the register of deeds. When any such blank or master form is filed with the register of deeds, he shall record the same, and shall index the same in the manner now provided by law for the indexing of instruments recorded in his office, except that the name of the person, firm or corporation whose name appears on such blank or master form shall be inserted in the indices as grantor and also as grantee. The fee for filing, recording and indexing such blank or master form shall be five ($5.00) dollars.

When any deed, mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument conveying an interest in, or creating a lien on, real and/or personal property, refers to the provisions, terms, covenants, conditions, obligations, or powers set forth in any such blank or master form recorded as herein authorized, and states the office of recordation of such blank or master form, book and page where same is recorded such reference shall be equivalent to setting forth in extenso in such deed, mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument conveying an interest in, or creating a lien on, real and/or personal property, the provisions, terms, covenants, conditions, obligations and powers set forth in such blank or master form. Provided this section shall not apply to Chowan, Stanly, Iredell, Yates, Watauga, Guilford, Camden, Transylvania, Jackson, Washington, Alleghany, Bladen, Halifax, Ashe, Dare, Beaufort, Moore, Swain, Orange, Granville, Perquimans, Martin, Vance, Columbus, Cartaret, Cleveland, Avery, Sampson counties. (1935, c. 153.)

§ 3312. Conditional sales of personal property.—All conditional sales of personal property in which the title is retained by the bargainor shall be reduced to writing and registered in the same manner, for the same fees and with the same legal effect as is provided for chattel mortgages, in the county where the purchaser resides, or, in case the purchaser shall reside out of the state, then in the county where the personal estate or some part thereof is situated, or in case of choses in action, where the donee, bargainee or mortgagee resides. (Rev., s. 983; Code, s. 1275; 1891, c. 240; 1883, c. 342.)

Cross References.—As to power of sale, see section 2587; for a complete treatment of the law of conditional sales, see 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 113 et seq.; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 427.

See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 322.

In General.—Prior to the time when this section became operative, "conditional sales" of personal property, that is, sales, whether the contract of sale was reduced to writing or not, in which it was stipulated, that although the property agreed to be sold, was placed in the possession of the bargainee and used by him, the title to the same should not pass to him, but should remain in, and be retained by, the bargainor, until the bargainee should pay the price agreed to be paid for it, were upheld in this State, as valid against all persons claiming under the bargainee, without registration. Such sales became frequent and a public grievance. They were the source of much fraud, and many fraudulent practices. The bargainee having possession of the property, and being the apparent owner, easily obtained credit on the faith of it, and when it became necessary to resort to it to satisfy his just debts, he would take shelter behind the bargainor, who retained the title. To cure this evil, the statute was passed. The bargainor really retained the title to the property so sold by him, only as a security for the purchase money due him for it. The Legislature, therefore, deemed it just and salutary, that he should be required to reduce the contract of sale to writing, and register the same, just as creditors are required to do, who take the lien created by chattel mortgages. Empire Drill Co. v. Allison, 94 N. C. 548, 552.

The purpose of this section requiring all conditional sales of personal property to be reduced to writing and registered, is to protect creditors and purchasers for value. It is no part of its purpose to render such sales, whether in writing or not, invalid as between the parties to it. As between them, such sale has the same qualities and is just as effectual as it would have been, and may be proven by the like evidence as before the statute was enacted, and the parties may have the like remedies against each other. Brem v. Lockhart, 93 N. C. 191; Empire Drill Co. v. Allison, 94 N. C. 548; Butts v. Screws, 95 N. C. 215; Kornegay v. Kornegay, 109 N. C. 188, 190, 13 S. E. 770.

Purpose of Section—Forfeiture Proceedings by Government. — This section is designated for the protection of creditors or purchasers for value, without notice, and the government of the United States, in a forfeiture proceeding under the National Prohibition Act does not come under either class. So, the failure to register a conditional sales contract does not render the seller's lien void as against the government's claim of forfeiture. General Motors Acceptance Corp. v. United States, 23 Fed. (2d) 799, 802.

Section Liberally Construed.—This section is liberally construed. General Motors Acceptance Corp. v. Mayberry, 195 N. C. 508, 142 S. E. 767.

The effect of this section requiring all conditional sales of personal property to be reduced to writing and registered, is to render inoperative, as against creditors and purchasers for value, so much of the contract as reserves the title in the vendor unless and until the contract is registered. Brem v. Lockhart, 93 N. C. 191.

Where personal property is sold under a registered conditional sales contract and the purchase price is not paid in accordance with the agreement, the seller is the owner thereof and is entitled to possession as against the purchaser and all persons claiming under him. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. Carolina Bowling Alleys, 204 N. C. 609, 169 S. E. 186.

Validity of Conditional Sales Apart from this section.—Aside from this section, a conditional sale contract is valid without registration not only between the parties but also as against all the world. Perry v. Young, 105 N. C. 463, 466, 11 S. E. 511.

Sufficiency of Form.—The certificate of registration of a contract of sale of personal property reserving title need not be in any particular form to meet the requirement for registration. Manufacturers' Finance Co. v. Amazon Cotton Mills Co., 182 N. C. 408, 109 S. E. 67.

Where the certificate for registration of a contract of sale of personal property thereon appears to have been "subscribed before" a notary public, with the seal attached showing the county, and has been certified to for registration by the clerk of the court of that county, and in the caption of the contract also appears the name of the county and state in which it had been registered, and by reference to the certificate and the paper to which it relates the names of the parties sufficiently appears, it was held, that the contract is sufficient in form for the purposes of registration as to the venue, the name of the party, and as to its having been sufficiently acknowledged; the fact that it was sworn to as well as subscribed is regarded as surplusage and immaterial. Manufacturers' Finance Co. v. Amazon Cotton Mills Co., 182 N. C. 408, 109 S. E. 67.

No Registration or Writing as between Parties.—As between the parties, a conditional sale is binding without registration, and is only void if not reduced to writing and registered as against creditors and purchasers for value. Deal v. Palmer, 72 N. C. 582; Gay v. Nash, 78 N. C. 100; Reese & Co. v. Cole, 93 N. C. 87. And as between the parties it is not essential that it should be reduced to writing, for the act gives to conditional sales the same effect as that given by law to chattel mortgages. But chattel mortgages are not required to be reduced to writing, except when it is necessary to have them registered to validate them against creditors and purchasers for value, and then only for the reason they could not be registered without being reduced to writing. Butts v. Screws, 95 N. C. 215, 218.

It has been uniformly held that a mortgage or conditional sales contract although not recorded, is valid as between the parties. It is void only as against creditors or purchasers for value. Cutter Realty Co. v. Dunn Moneyhun Co., 204 N. C. 651, 653, 169 S. E. 274.

Other Notice Will Not Take Place of Registration.—No notice however full and formal can supply notice by registration and thus by virtue of this section where a conditional sale contract has not been registered a subsequent purchaser acquires title free from its lien. Brown v. Burlington Hotel Corp., 202 N. C. 82, 161 S. E. 735.

Registration Required to Prevail over Subsequent Chattel Mortgage.—A conditional sale requires registration in respect to its priority of lien over chattel mortgages subsequently given to others upon the same property and registered in the proper county. Commercial Inv. Trust v. Albemarle Motor Co., 193 N. C. 663, 137 S. E. 874.

Regarded as Chattel Mortgages as to Registration. — Under this section conditional sales are regarded as chattel mortgages and void as to creditors and purchasers, except from registration. Observer Co. v. Little, 175 N. C. 42, 94 S. E. 526.

Priority between Vendor and Mortgagee of After-Acquired Property. — Under this section conditional sale contracts of personal property are in effect chattel mortgages, and are required to be recorded as such, and such contracts covering machinery or fixtures sold to a corporation and attached by the purchaser to realty which is subject to a mortgage containing an after-acquired property clause, unless recorded, are not effective as against the mortgagee. Union Trust Co. v. Southern Sawmills, etc., Co., 166 Fed. 193.

Where the bargainor under a conditional sale to a corporation has not recorded the instrument, as required by this section and a receiver has been appointed under the provisions of sec. 1210, his right to a preferential lien has been lost by his failure to register the instrument, the receiver representing the rights of the other creditors, and he is only entitled as any other general distributee of the funds. Observer Co. v. Little, 175 N. C. 42, 94 S. E. 526. But see Union Trust Co. Southern Sawmills, etc., Co., 166 Fed. 193 where it is held that contracts of conditional sales of loose personal property, such as live stock, to a corporation, although not recorded as required by this section, where the property passes into the hands of a receiver for the corporation and is sold together with its other property, entitle the sellers to priority of payment from the proceeds over the holders of a prior mortgage upon the property of the corporation containing an after-acquired property clause.

Priority between Widow's Year's Allowance and Vendor's Rights.—A conditional sale of personal property made to the husband, registered after his death, like a mortgage, takes precedence over an allotment of a year's allowance, made to his widow after the registration. Williams v. Jones, 95 N. C. 504; Hinkle, etc., Co. v. Greene, 125 N. C. 489, 34 S. E. 554.

Transactions Constituting Conditional Sales.—Where the vendor of personalty ships to itself as consignee, order notify the purchaser, and the latter has received money from another with which to pay the draft and obtain the goods from the common carrier, under an agreement that the title to the goods shall vest in such third person until the goods are paid for, the effect of the contract is a conditional sale falling within the meaning of this section. General Motors Acceptance Corp. v. Mayberry, 195 N. C. 508, 142 S. E. 767.

A contract under which the seller ships to the purchaser certain goods, to which the latter acquires title upon the payment of the specified purchase price, is a conditional sale, requiring registration as against the rights of creditors. National Furniture Mfg. Co. v. Price, 195 N. C. 602, 143 S. E. 208.

See Hetherington & Sons v. Rudisill, 28 Fed. (2d) 713.

Necessity for Registration—Between Parties to Contract.—Between the parties to a conditional sales contract probate and registration is not required by this section. Pick & Co. v. Morehead Bluffs Hotel Co., 197 N. C. 110, 147 S. E. 819; General Motors Acceptance Corp. v. Mayberry, 195 N. C. 508, 142 S. E. 767; National Furn. Mfg. Co. v. Price, 195 N. C. 602, 143 S. E. 208; Andrews Music Store v. Boone, 197 N. C. 174, 148 S. E. 39.

Same—As to Receiver of Corporation.—While a conditional sale to a corporation does not require registration as between the parties, after receivership of the corporation its validity as to the rights of creditors depends upon its registration. General Motors Acceptance Corp. v. Mayberry, 195 N. C. 508, 142 S. E. 767; National Furniture Mfg. Co. v. Price, 195 N. C. 602, 143 S. E. 208; Hetherington & Sons v. Rudisill, 28 Fed. (2d) 713.

Registration in County of Residence at Time of Purchase.—The provision of this section requiring conditional sales to be reduced to writing and registered in the county where the purchaser resides, refers to the county in which he resides at the time the contract is made, and as construed by the Supreme Court of the State the contract is valid if there recorded, although the property is thereafter removed into another county to which the purchaser changes his residence. In re Franklin, 151 Fed. 642.

A bankrupt at the time of purchasing property under a conditional sale contract had acquired no fixed place of residence in the state but was then residing and receiving his mail in the county where the contract was made and to which the property was shipped. It was held that the recording of the contract in that county was sufficient to preserve the seller's lien. In re Franklin, 151 Fed. 642.

No Registry Required in the County of Removal. — An instrument constituting a conditional sale of personal property is properly registered in the county where the purchaser resides, and in case of the latter's removal to another county with the property, need not be again recorded in the latter county. Barrington v. Skinner, 117 N. C. 47, 48, 23 S. E. 90.

Transaction in Effect Absolute Sale.—Where goods were sold and delivered under a contract in which it was stipulated that the vendee should deliver to the vendor the notes taken by the vendee from purchasers of such goods, to be held by the vendor "as collateral security for the payment of the purchase-money to him," and further, that such "goods," as well as the proceeds therefrom, are to be held in trust by him for the payment of the price to the vendor." It was held that this agreement was not a mortgage, nor a conditional sale, but an absolute sale of the goods, and its registration was not necessary. Chemical Co. v. Johnson, 98 N. C. 123, 3 S. E. 723.

Instrument in Effect Conditional Sale Required to Be Registered.—A contract for the "lease" of personal property upon payments of rent, the property to belong to the lessee upon the last payment of rent, is in effect a conditional sale, and unless registered its stipulation for the retention of title by the vendors is invalid as to third parties. Clark v. Hill, 117 N. C. 11, 23 S. E. 91.

Conditional Sale, and Conditional Hiring Distinguished.—A contract of "conditional sale," and a contract of hiring, conditional in its provisions, are essentially different in their respective natures and purposes. The latter need not be in writing, and when it is, it need not be registered. The former, to be effectual against creditors and subsequent purchasers for value, must be in writing and registered. Foreman v. Drake, 98 N. C. 311, 315, 3 S. E. 842.

Priority over Attachment.—A title retaining contract in the sale of personalty is in the nature of a chattel mortgage, and when registered prior to an attachment of the property it is superior to the claim of the attaching creditor. And this is true though the purchaser falsely entered into the contract under an assumed name. Weeks v. Adams, 196 N. C. 512, 146 S. E. 130.

Section Not Repealed by Laws 1923—Registration Cannot Be Dispensed with Notice.—Chapter 236, Public Laws of 1923, requiring a certificate of the transfer of title to an automobile to be issued to the purchaser by the Secretary of State does not repeal this section so as not to require the registration of title retaining a contract to secure the balance due on the purchase price of an automobile, as against subsequent purchaser for value, and no notice, however formal, is sufficient to supply that of registration required by the statute. Carolina Discount Corp. v. Landis Motor Co., 190 N. C. 157, 129 S. E. 414. See Whitehurst v. Garrett, 196 N. C. 154, 144 S. E. 835. See also note under § 3311.

Tort Feasor as Purchaser or Creditor.—See Harris v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 190 N. C. 480, 130 S. E. 319, annotations to sections 3309, 3311.

This section has no retroactive effect. Harrell v. Godwin, 102 N. C. 330, 8 S. E. 925.

Interest of Innocent Party in Unregistered Mortgage Not Subject to Confiscation. — Failure to register a mortgage taken to secure payment on an automobile, will not subject the interest of an innocent mortgagee to confiscation under section 3404, for violation of that section relating to seizure of automobiles engaged in illegal transportation of liquor. South Georgia Motor Co. v. Jackson, 184 N. C. 328, 114 S. E. 478.

Question for Jury.—Upon conflicting evidence as to whether one was a purchaser for value from the vendee in a conditional sales contract, the issue is properly submitted to the jury, and a motion as of nonsuit is properly denied. Andrews Music Store v. Boone, 197 N. C. 174, 148 S. E. 39.

§ 3313. Conditional sales or leases of railroad property. — When any railroad equipment and rolling stock is sold, leased or loaned on the condition that the title to the same, notwithstanding the possession and use of the same by the vendee, lessee, or bailee, shall remain in the vendor, lessor or bailor until the terms of the contract, as to the payment of the installments, amounts or rentals payable, or the performance of other obligations thereunder, shall have been fully complied with, such contract shall be invalid as to any subsequent judgment creditor, or any subsequent purchaser for a valuable consideration without notice, unless—

1. The same is evidenced by writing duly acknowledged before some person authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds.

2. Such writing is registered as mortgages are registered, in the office of the register of deeds in at least one county in which such vendee, lessee or bailee does business.

3. Each locomotive or car so sold, leased or loaned has the name of the vendor, lessor, or bailor, or the assignee of such vendor, lessor or bailor plainly marked upon both sides thereof, followed by the word owner, lessor, bailor or assignee as the case may be.

This section shall not apply to or invalidate any contract made before the twelfth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three. (Rev., s. 984; Code, s. 2006; 1883, c. 416; 1907, c. 150, s. 1.)

§ 3314. Marriage settlements.—All marriage settlements and other marriage contracts, whereby any money or other estate is secured to the wife or husband, shall be proved or acknowledged and registered in the same manner as deeds for lands, and shall be valid against creditors and purchasers for value only from registration. (Rev., s. 985; Code, ss. 1269, 1270, 1281; 1885, c. 147; R. C., c. 37, ss. 24, 25; 1785, c. 238; 1871-2, c. 193, s. 12.)

Cross References.—As to the general nature of, and what constitutes, marriage settlement, see 7 N. C. Enc. Dig. 335 et seq.

Place of Registration.—Registration of a marriage settlement, embracing the slaves of a feme, was held to be properly made in the county where the feme resided and the slaves were, at the time the instrument was executed. Latham v. Bowen, 52 N. C. 337.

Deed Possessing Two Characters.—A deed combining the two characters of a deed of trust to secure creditors, and a deed of settlement in trust for a wife and children, may operate and have effect in both characters, provided it has been duly proved and registered. Johnston v. Malcom, 59 N. C. 120.

Registration after Three Years, as against Subsequent Creditors.—A deed of settlement, in trust for a wife and children, proved and registered three years after the date of its execution, was held to be valid as against creditors, whose debts were contracted after such registration. Johnston v. Malcom, 59 N. C. 120.

Agreement in Effect Not a Marriage Settlement. — An agreement by which the husband consents that the wife may convert one tract of land, which is in nowise subject to the claims of his creditors, into another tract of land; and in order to enable her to make the conversion he stipulates to allow her to hold as her separate property the price of her land until it can be reinvested in another tract of land, is not a marriage settlement falling within the section. Teague v. Downs, 69 N. C. 280, 287.

The Law of What Time Governs. — Where a marriage took place, and a deed was made between husband and wife prior to 1868, it is governed by the law as it then existed, and is not affected by the changes in the marital relations brought about by the Constitution of 1868, and the statutes passed in pursuance thereof, although the deed was not registered until 1884. Walton v. Parish, 95 N. C. 259.

Registration in Another State.—An antenuptial contract entered into between a husband whose domicile was in North Carolina and a wife whose domicile was in New York, and which was duly registered in New York, but not in North Carolina, is good against the creditors of the husband, although the property was removed to North Carolina and changed from what it originally was when the contract was signed. Hicks v. Skinner, 71 N. C. 539.

§ 3315. Deeds of gift.—All deeds of gift of any estate of any nature shall within two years after the making thereof be proved in due form and registered, otherwise shall be void, and shall be good against creditors and purchasers for value only from the time of registration. (Rev., s. 986; Code, s. 1252; 1885, c. 147; R. C., c. 37, s. 18; 1789, c. 315, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The time of the registration of deeds of gifts under this section has beeu affected by seciton 7593(a) of this Code which extends the time until September 1, 1926. The effect of the curative act has given rise to some conflict of opinion in the case of Booth v. Hairston, 193 N. C. 278, 136 S. E. 879. In that case A made a deed of gift of her property, which deed was not registered until after the statutory period of two years had expired. After such expiration A devised this land to her daughter. The question arose whether the devisee under the will or the grantee under the deed prevailed under the statute above referred to; the court held that the deed was void, not having been registered within the time prescribed, and that the statute extending the time would not validate a deed which had been once avoided, so as to impair vested rights. This decision met a strong dissent in the same case and has also been criticized in 5 N. C. Law Review 365. The criticism is based on the ground that as the devisee took no interest under the will until after the death of the testatrix (for the will speaks as of the dates of the death of its maker) no vested rights of third parties were involved and that as between the grantor and the grantee the deed would be validated, even though not registered within two years, under the extension given by the above referred to statute.

Though met with criticism and dissent, it seems that the majority holding is correct. This conclusion may be justified first (1) upon the analogy of the effect of curative statutes upon a right of action already barred under the statute of limitations. It has been uniformly held throughout this country that where a right of action has been barred by the statute of limitations a subsequent statute extending the time of its enforcement does not revive the right of action already barred. It may also be justified (2) upon the ground of legislative intention as expressed by the use of the word "extended". This word in its etymological sense confers the idea of continuity without any intermission. It follows that the word "extended" as used in this statute cannot refer to the registration of a deed which has already been barred. Extension of a limitation can only take effect from a time on or prior to the expiration of such limitation. Any new time limited thereafter is not an "extension" of the prior limitation, but a new limitation in itself.

A deed of gift not registered within the time prescribed by this section is void, and thereafter the Legislature is without power to bring it to life again by the enactment of a statute lengthening the period in which it may be registered. Booth v. Hairston, 195 N. C. 8, 141 S. E. 480.

Formerly when this section was differently worded it was held that the requirement of recordation of deeds of gift applied only where creditors and purchasers were interested. Hancock v. Hovey, 1 N. C. 152. But the present section in plain terms rebuts this holding.—Ed. Note.

Registration as Notice. — The registration of the prior voluntary deed is notice to the subsequent purchaser. Taylor v. Eatman, 92 N. C. 602.

§ 3316. Deeds of easements.—All persons, firms, or corporations now owning or hereafter acquiring any deed or agreement for rights of way and easements of any character whatsoever shall record such deeds and agreements in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the land affected is situated. Where such deeds and agreements may have been acquired, but no use has been made thereof, the person, firm, or corporation holding such instrument, or any assignment thereof shall not be required to record them until within ninety days after the beginning of the use of the easements granted thereby. If after ninety days from the beginning of the easement granted by such deeds and agreements the person, firm, or corporation holding such deeds or agreements has not recorded the same in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the land affected is situated, then the grantor in the said deed or agreement may, after ten days notice in writing served and returned by the sheriff or other officer of the county upon the said person, firm, or corporation holding such lease or agreement, file a copy of the said lease or agreement for registration in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the original should have been recorded, but such copy of the lease or agreement shall have attached thereto the written notice above referred to, showing the service and return of the sheriff or other officer. The registration of such copy shall have the same force and effect as the original would have had if recorded: Provided, said copy shall be duly probated before being registered.

Nothing in this section shall require the registration of the following classes of instruments or conveyances, to wit:

1. It shall not apply to any deed or instrument executed prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and ten.

2. It shall not apply to any deed or instrument so defectively executed or witnessed that it cannot by law be admitted to probate or registration, provided that such deed or instrument was executed prior to the ratification of this act.

3. It shall not apply to decrees of a competent court awarding condemnation or confirming reports of commissioners, when such decrees are on record in such courts.

4. It shall not apply to local telephone companies, operating exclusively within the state, or to agreements about alley-ways.

Any person, firm, or corporation knowingly and willfully violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and each day's continuance of this violation shall be a separate offense.

This section shall not apply to Alleghany, Harnett, Lee, Surry and Wilkes counties. (1917, c. 148; 1919, c. 107.)

§ 3317. Powers of attorney.—Every power of attorney, wherever made or concerning whatsoever matter, may, on acknowledgment or proof of the same before any competent official, be registered in the county wherein the property or estate which it concerns is situate, if such power of attorney relate to the conveyance thereof; if it does not relate to the conveyance of any estate or property, then in the county in which the attorney resides or the business is to be transacted. (Rev., s. 987; Code, s. 1249; 1899, c. 235, s. 15.)

Power of Attorney Given by Married Woman. — See Hollingsworth v. Harman, 83 N. C. 153, prior to this section, holding that a power of attorney given by a married woman to dismiss an action concerning her land need not be registered to give it validity.

§ 3318. Plats and subdivisions.—Any person, firm or corporation owning land in this State may have a plat thereof recorded in the office of the registrar of deeds of the county in which such land or any part thereof is situated, upon proof upon oath by the surveyor making such plat that the same is in all respects correct and was prepared from an actual survey by him made, giving the date of such survey. Such plat, when so proven and probated as deeds and other conveyances, shall be recorded either by transcribing a correct copy thereof upon or by permanently attaching the original to the records or in a book to be designated the "Book of Plats"; and when so recorded shall be duly indexed. Reference in any instrument heretofore or hereafter executed to the record of any plat herein authorized or validated shall have the same effect as if the description of the lands as indicated on the record of the plat were set out in the instrument.

Where any map or plat has been recorded, either by transcribing a correct copy thereof upon or by permanently attaching the original to the records or in a book designated "Book of Plats," such map or plat shall be deemed to have been recorded in full compliance with this section, notwithstanding the fact that the same has not been probated in accordance with the provisions hereof; and the registration of all plats and maps which have been recorded by transcribing a correct copy thereof upon or by permanently attaching the original to the records or in a book designated "Book of Plats" is hereby validated as fully as if the statute had been fully and completely complied with: Provided, this paragraph shall not apply to pending litigation, nor shall it affect vested rights accrued prior hereto. (1911, c. 55, s. 2; 1923, c. 105; 1935, c. 219.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 so changed this section that a comparison is necessary to determine the full extent.

Object in Enacting Section.—This section was enacted in view of a decision of the Supreme Court in Sexton v. Elizabeth City, 169 N. C. 385, 86 S. E. 344, in which it was held that a purchaser in reference to a second plat who had registered his deed would take precedence over one under a former plat, but who had failed to have his deed registered; this on the ground that, as no statute provided for registration of plats, the date of registration of the deed would determine the matter. Wittson v. Dowling, 179 N. C. 542, 547, 103 S. E. 18.

Intended to Regulate Priorities.—The statute was designed to regulate priorities as between two conflicting dedications, and does not and was not intended to affect the general principles, dedication and acceptance, and the owner's right of revocation. Wittson v. Dowling, 179 N. C. 542, 547, 103 S. E. 18.

§ 3319. Certified copies may be registered; used as evidence.—A duly certified copy of any deed or writing required or allowed to be registered may be registered in any county; and the registry or duly certified copy of any deed or writing when registered in the county where the land is situate may be given in evidence in any court of the state. (Rev., s. 988; Code, s. 1253; 1858-9, c. 18, s. 2.)

For records of court as proof of lost instruments, etc., see §§ 376, 377.

Registration of Copies in Proper County Allowed.—This section allows certified copies of deeds erroneously registered to be recorded in the proper counties. Weston v. Roper Lumber Co., 160 N. C. 263, 75 S. E. 800.

Proper Registration of the Original Presumed.—It is to be assumed that the deed was properly put upon the registry, until the contrary is made to appear, and nothing more is required to render the copy competent evidence when certified by the register. Starke v. Etheridge, 71 N. C. 240; Love v. Hardin, 87 N. C. 249; Strickland v. Draughan, 88 N. C. 315, 317.

Copy of Contract Used in Evidence to Prove Lost Original.—For proof of the loss of a contract to convey land, a copy thereof, if shown to be correct, is admissible as secondary evidence to prove the contents of the original, though no search was made to ascertain whether the original was registered. Such a contract is valid between the parties without registration. Mauney v. Crowell, 84 N. C. 314.

Certified Copy 100 Years Old May Be Registered though Mutilated.—Under this section a certified copy of a deed over 100 years old, which showed that the original was a perfect deed of conveyance, is admissible to probate and registration, though by reason of the mutilation of the records some lines of the conveyance showing the consideration therefor were lost; this being particularly true where an earlier certified copy of the same conveyance included the destroyed portions. Richmond Cedar Works v. Stringfellow, 236 Fed. 264.

§ 3319(a). Photostatic copies of plats, etc.; fees of clerk.—In all special proceedings in which a plat, map or blue-print shall be filed as a part of the papers, the Clerk of the Superior Court may have a photostatic copy of said plat, map or blue-print made on a sheet of the same size as the leaves in the book in which the special proceeding is recorded, and when made, shall place said photostatic copy in said book at the end of the report of the commissioners or other document referring to said plat, map or blue-print. The Clerk of Superior Court shall be allowed a fee to be fixed by the County Commissioners not exceeding the sum of five dollars to be taxed in the bill of costs, which fee shall cover the cost of making said photostatic copy and all services of the clerk in connection therewith. (1931, c. 171.)

§ 3320. Register to fill in deeds on blank forms with lines.—Registers of deeds shall, in registering deeds and other instruments, where printed skeletons or forms are used by the register, fill all spaces left blank in such skeletons or forms by drawing or stamping a line or lines in ink through such blank spaces. (1911, c. 6, s. 1.)

§ 3321. Errors in registration corrected on petition to clerk.—Every person who discovers that there is an error in the registration of his grant, conveyance, bill of sale or other instrument of writing, may prefer a petition to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said writing is registered, in the same manner as is directed for petitioners to correct errors in grants or patents, and if on hearing the same before said clerk it appears that errors have been committed, the clerk shall order the register of the county to correct such errors and make the record conformable to the original. The petitioner must notify his grantor and every person claiming title to or having lands adjoining those mentioned in the petition, thirty days previous to preferring the same. Any person dissatisfied with the judgment may appeal to the superior court as in other cases. (Rev., s. 1008; Code, s. 1266; R. C., c. 37, s. 28; 1790, c. 326, ss. 2, 3, 4.)

Proceedings provided for by this section are exclusive. Hopper v. Justice, 111 N. C. 418, 16 S. E. 626.

Same—Grantor Cannot call upon Grantee to Correct Mistake.—Where, by the mistake or oversight of the makers of a deed, the same is incorrectly written, they have no equity to call upon the grantee to correct the mistake in the books of the register, as they have an ample remedy under this section and a promise by the grantee to make such correction at his own expense and trouble would be nudum pactum. Oldham v. First Nat. Bank, 85 N. C. 241.

The Register May Correct His Mistake.—The order of registration by the clerk is a continuous one, with which the register may subsequently comply upon inadvertently having omitted to copy the words it contained upon his book. Brown v. Hutchinson, 155 N. C. 205, 71 S. E. 302.

Original Deed as Evidence to Show Mistake of Register.—The original deed may be shown in evidence to correct an omission by the register of deeds of the signature of the justice of the peace before whom the deed was acknowledged. Brown v. Hutchinson, 155 N. C. 205, 71 S. E. 302.

Art. 3. Forms of Acknowledgment, Probate and Order of Registration

§ 3322. Adjudication and order of registration.—The form of adjudication and order of registration required by section 3305 shall be substantially as follows:

North Carolina, ... County.

The foregoing (or annnexed) certificate of (here give name and official title of the officer signing the certificate passed upon) is adjudged to be correct. Let the instrument and the certificate be registered.

This ..... day of ....., A. D.....

.....

(Signature of officer.)

But the order of registration may be substantially in the form: "Let the same with this certificate be registered." (Rev., ss. 1001, 1010; 1899, c. 235, s. 7; 1905, c. 344.)

See section 3305 and annotations thereto.

It is a sufficient compliance with this section for the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the land lay, to certify that "the foregoing and annexed certificate of (naming the clerk), a clerk of the Supreme Court, etc., duly authenticated by his official seal, is adjudged to be correct, in due form and according to law, and the foregoing and annexed deed of trust is adjudged to be duly proved, etc." Kleybolte & Co. v. Black Mountain Timber Co., 151 N. C. 635, 66 S. E. 663.

§ 3323. Acknowledgment by grantor.—Where the instrument is acknowledged by the grantor or maker, the form of acknowledgment shall be in substance as follows:

North Carolina, ... County.

I (here give the name of the official and his official title), do hereby certify that (here give the name of the grantor or maker) personally appeared before me this day and acknowledged the due execution of the foregoing instrument. Witness my hand and (where an official seal is required by law) official seal this the .... day of .... (year).

(Rev., s. 1002.)

Acknowledgment Taken Over Telephone. — Section 997, providing the proper mode of conveyance of real property by husband and wife of his lands, tenements and hereditaments, contemplates that the acknowledgment and the privity examination of the wife provided for shall be made in the presence of the officer, which is emphasized by this section and section 3324 as to acknowledgments of grantors and married women; and such acknowledgment, taken of the wife over a telephone, does not meet the statutory requirements, and renders the conveyance invalid as to her. Southern State Bank v. Summer, 187 N. C. 762, 122 S. E. 848.

Position of the Name of the Justice.—It is not necessary to the validity of the probate of a deed that the signature of the name of the justice before whom it was acknowledged should be recorded at the end, when it appears from the certificate as recorded and from the clerk's adjudication thereon that his name appeared in the first line, and that in fact he properly took the acknowledgment. Brown v. Hutchinson, 155 N. C. 205, 71 S. E. 302.

Cited in McClure v. Crow, 196 N. C. 657, 146 S. E. 713.

§ 3324. Private examination of wife.—When an instrument purports to be signed by a married woman, the form of certificate of her acknowledgment and private examination before any officer authorized to take the same shall be in substance as follows:

North Carolina, ... County.

I (here give name of the official and his official title), do hereby certify that (here give name of the married woman who executed the instrument), wife of (here give husband's name), personally appeared before me this day and acknowledged the due execution of the foregoing (or annexed) instrument; and the said (here give married woman's name), being by me privately examined, separate and apart from her said husband, touching her voluntary execution of the same, doth state that she signed the same freely and voluntarily, without fear or compulsion of her said husband or any other person, and that she doth still voluntarily assent thereto.

(Rev., s. 1003; 1899, c. 235, s. 8; 1901, c. 637.)

For provisions related to this subject, see sec. 997.

"And Doth Voluntarily Assent Thereto" Not Essential.—The privy examination of a feme covert which sets out that she signed the deed of her own free will and accord, and without any compulsion of her husband, is sufficient, without adding the words, "and doth voluntarily assent thereto." Robbins v. Harris, 96 N. C. 557, 2 S. E. 70.

§ 3325. Husband's acknowledgment and wife's examination before same officer.—Where the instrument is acknowledged by both husband and wife or by other grantor before the same officer the form of acknowledgment shall be in substance as follows:

North Carolina, ... County.

I (here give name of official and his official title), do hereby certify that (here give name of the grantors whose acknowledgment is being taken) personally appeared before me this day and acknowledged the due execution of the foregoing (or annexed) instrument, and the said (here give the name of the married woman or women), wife (or wives) of (here give name of husband or husbands), being by me privately examined, separate and apart from her said husband, touching her voluntary execution of the same, doth state that she signed the same freely and voluntarily, without fear or compulsion of her said husband or any other person, and that she doth still voluntarily assent thereto.

See section 997 and annotations thereto; as to seal of probating officer, see section 3297.

§ 3326. Corporate conveyances.—The following forms of probate for deeds and other conveyances executed by a corporation shall be deemed sufficient, but shall not exclude other forms of probate which would be deemed sufficient in law. If the instrument is executed by the president or presiding member or trustee and two other members of the corporation, and sealed with the common seal, the following form shall be sufficient:

North Carolina, ... County.

This ..... day of ....., A. D. ....., personally came before me (here give the name and official title of the officer who signs this certificate), A. B. (here give the name of the subscribing witness), who, being by me duly sworn, says that he knows the common seal of the (here give the name of the corporation), and is also acquainted with C. D., who is the president (or presiding member or trustee), and also with E. F. and G. H., two other members of said corporation; and that he, the said A. B., saw the said president (or presiding member or trustee) and the two said other members sign the said instrument, and saw the said president (or presiding member or trustee) affix the said common seal of said corporation thereto, and that he, the said subscribing witness, signed his name as such subscribing witness thereto in their presence. Witness my hand and (when an official seal is required by law) official seal, this.... day of ..... (year).

.....
(Signature of officer.)

If the deed or other instrument is executed by the president, presiding member or trustee of the corporation, and sealed with its common seal, and attested by, its secretary or assistant secretary either of the following forms of proof and certificate thereof shall be deemed sufficient:

North Carolina, ... County.

This .... day of ....., A. D. ....., personally came before me (here give name and official title of the officer who signs the certificate) A. B. (here give the name of the attesting secretary or assistant secretary), who, being by me duly sworn, says that he knows the common seal of (here give the name of the corporation), and is acquainted with C. D., who is the president of said corporation, and that he, the said A. B., is the secretary (or assistant secretary) of the said corporation, and saw the said president sign the foregoing (or annexed) instrument, and saw the said common seal of said corporation affixed to said instrument by said president (or that he, the said A. B., secretary or assistant secretary as aforesaid, affixed said seal to said instrument), and that he, the said A. B., signed his name in attestation of the execution of said instrument in the presence of said president of said corporation. Witness my hand and (when an official seal is required by law) official seal, this the ..... day of ..... (year).

(Official seal.)

North Carolina, ... County.

This is to certify that on the .... day of ....., 19...., before me personally came ..... (president, vice-president, secretary or assistant secretary, as the case may be), with whom I am personally acquainted, who, being by me duly sworn, says that ..... is the president (or vice-president), and ..... is the secretary (or assistant secretary) of the ....., the corporation described in and which executed the foregoing instrument; that he knows the common seal of said corporation; that the seal affixed to the foregoing instrument is said common seal, and the name of the corporation was subscribed thereto by the said president (or vice-president), and that said president (or vice-president) and secretary (or assistant secretary) subscribed their names thereto, and said common seal was affixed, all by order of the board of directors of said corporation, and that the said instrument is the act and deed of said corporation. Witness my hand and (when an official seal is required by law) official seal, this the .... day of ..... (year).

If the deed or other instrument is executed by the signature of the president, presiding members or trustee of the corporation, and sealed with its common seal and attested by its secretary, the following form of proof and certificate thereof shall be deemed sufficient:

This .... day of ....., A. D. ....., personally came before me (here give name and official title of the officer who signs the certificate) A. B., who, being by me duly sworn, says that he is president (presiding member or trustee) of the ..... Company, and that the seal affixed to the foregoing (or annexed) instrument in writing is the corporate seal of the company, and that said writing was signed and sealed by him in behalf of said corporation by its authority duly given. And the said A. B. acknowledged the said writing to be the act and deed of said corporation.

(Signature of officer.)

If the officer before whom the same is proven be the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of the county in which the instrument is offered for registration, he shall add to the foregoing certificate the following: "Let the instrument with the certificate be registered." (Rev., s. 1005; 1899, c. 235, s. 17; 1901, c. 2, s. 110; 1905, c. 114; 1907, c. 927, s. 1.)

For validation of corporate probates, see section 3352-3356.

Power of Directors to Mortgage Corporate Property.— This section appears to recognize inferentially the power of a board of directors to mortgage the corporate property. Wall v. Rothrock, 171 N. C. 388, 390, 88 S. E. 633.

Reference to Forms of Probate Sufficient by Common Law. — This section providing that it shall not exclude "other forms of probate which would be deemed sufficient in law," can only refer to forms of probate deemed sufficient by the common law, under which a certificate, showing that the officer whose duty it was to affix the seal acknowledged that he did so, is sufficient. National Bank v. Hill, 226 Fed. 102.

Substantial Compliance Sufficient. — Under the decisions of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, the probate of a deed of a corporation is sufficient if it substantially shows the facts required by the statute which expressly provides that the form prescribed "shall not exclude other forms of probate." Board v. Wills & Sons, 236 Fed. 362.

Where the probate of a corporation's deed for land is in substantial compliance with this section, parol evidence is competent, in an action attacking its validity, that tends to corroborate the recitations of the probate, and to further show that the president and secretary had proper authority to act therein on its behalf. Bailey v. Hassell, 184 N. C. 450, 115 S. E. 166.

While it is the better course to follow the suggested methods of this section, in the execution of a corporate chattel mortgage, there being no general law or charter provision to the contrary, it is not necessary to its validity that the witness to the probate certifies in its probate that he saw the presiding member sign it, when otherwise it complies with the requirements of the general law. Merchants, etc., Bank v. Pearson, 186 N. C. 609, 613, 120 S. E. 210.

Same—What Does Not Constitute Substantial Compliance.—When it does not appear from the probate of a corporation's deed to lands that the seal affixed is the common seal of the corporation, or that it was affixed by the proper officers of the corporation, it is not a substantial compliance with this section, and the deed is ineffectual to pass title to the lands as against creditors and purchasers. Withrell v. Murphy, 154 N. C. 82, 69 S. E. 748.

A corporation's deed is defective which fails to show by its certificate, read in connection with the deed, that the corporate officials acknowledged the instrument as the act and deed of the corporation, or that the official executing the deed in behalf of and under authority from the corporation acknowledged it to be "his" act and deed, as such. Withrell v. Murphy, 154 N. C. 82, 69 S. E. 748.

Same—Seal of Corporation. — It is not necessary to the valid probate of a deed made by a corporation that it literally follows the statutory printed forms of this section if it substantially complies with the law regulating the probate of a conveyance of land; and where the probate shows the acknowledgment of the president and secretary, each acting in his official capacity, or as representing the corporation, who is designated as "the grantor, for the purpose therein expressed," it is sufficient; and the finding of the jury, upon evidence, that their officials were properly authorized to act for and in behalf of the corporation, and had so acted; and had used the word "seal" enclosed in scroll, that had been lawfully adopted for the purpose, makes it a valid execution and probate of the deed as an act of the corporation itself; and were it otherwise, the defects as to the "seal" seems to be cured under the provisions of § 3354, and as to signatures of the officials by § 3355. Bailey v. Hassell, 184 N. C. 450, 115 S. E. 166.

Acknowledgment of Individuals Instead of Officers.—The probate of a deed of a corporation by the acknowledgment of individuals instead of by its officers, is fatally defective and its registration, in consequence, is a nullity. Bernhardt v. Brown, 122 N. C. 587, 29 S. E. 884.

§ 3327. Clerk's certificate upon probate by justice of peace.—When the proof or acknowledgment of any instrument is had before a justice of the peace of some other state or territory of the United States, or before a justice of the peace of this state, but of a county different from that in which the instrument is offered for registration, the form of certificate as to his official position and signature shall be substantially as follows:

North Carolina, ... County.

I, A. B. (here give name and official title of a clerk of a court of record), do hereby certify that C. D. (here give the name of the justice of the peace taking the proof, etc.), was at the time of signing the foregoing (or annexed) certificate an acting justice of the peace in and for the county of ..... and state (or territory) of ....., and that his signature thereto is in his own proper handwriting.

In witness whereof, I hereunto set my hand and official seal, this ..... day of ....., A. D. .....

.....

(Rev., s. 1006; 1899, c. 235, s. 8.)

§ 3328. Clerk's certificate upon probate by nonresident official without seal.—When the proof or acknowledgment of any instrument is had before any official of some other state, territory or country and such official has no official seal, then the certificate of such official shall be accompanied by the certificate of a clerk of a court of record of the state, territory or country in which the official taking the proof or acknowledgment resides, of the official position and signature of such official; such certificate of the clerk shall be under his hand and official seal and shall be in substance as follows:

.....County.

I, A. B. (here give name and official title of the clerk of a court of record as provided herein), do hereby certify that C. D. (here give name of the official taking the proof, etc.) was at the time of signing the foregoing (or annexed) certificate a (here give the official title of the officer taking proof, etc.) in and for the county of ..... and state of ..... (or other political division of the state, territory or country, as the case may be), and that his signature thereto is in his own proper handwriting.

In witness whereof, I hereunto set my hand and official seal, this .... day of ....., A. D. .....

.....

(Signature of Clerk.)

(Rev., s. 1007; 1899, c. 235, s. 8.)

§ 3328(a). Verification; form of entry.—The registers of deeds in the several counties of the State shall, after each instrument or document has been transcribed on the record, verify the record with the original and the entry of record shall read "Recorded and Verified," and the same shall be without extra charge. (1929, c. 320, s. 1.)

Art. 4. Curative Statutes; Acknowledgments; Probates; Registration

§ 3330. Clerk's certificate failing to pass on all prior certificates.—When it appears that the clerk of the superior court or other officer having the power to probate deeds, in passing upon deeds or other instruments, and the certificates thereto, having more than one certificate of the same or a prior date, by other officer or officers taking acknowledgment or probating the same, has in his certificate or order mentioned only one or more of the preceding or foregoing certificates or orders, but not all of them, but has admitted the same deed or other instrument to probate, it shall be conclusively presumed that he has passed upon all the certificates of said deed or instrument necessary to the admission of the same to probate, and the certificate of said clerk or other probating officer shall be deemed sufficient and the probate and registration of said deed or instrument is hereby made and declared valid for all intents and purposes. (1917, c. 237.)

§ 3331. Defective certification or adjudication of clerk, etc., admitting to registration. — In all cases where, prior to January first, nineteen hundred and nineteen, instruments by law required or authorized to be registered, with certificates showing the acknowledgment or proof of execution thereof as required by the laws of the state of North Carolina, have been ordered registered by the clerk of the superior court or other officer qualified to pass upon probates and admit instruments to registration, and actually put upon the books in the office of the register of deeds as if properly proven and ordered to be registered, all such probates and registrations are hereby validated and make as good and sufficient as though such instruments had been in all respects properly proved and recorded, notwithstanding the failure of clerks or other officers qualified to pass upon the proofs or acknowledgments of instruments and to admit such instruments to registration to adjudge or certify that said instruments were duly proven, and notwithstanding the failure of such officers to adjudge or certify that the certificates of proof or acknowledgment of said instruments were correct or in due form. This act shall not affect any suit, action, or proceeding pending in the courts of this state March 10, 1919, and shall not impair vested rights. (1919, c. 248.)

§ 3332. Order of registration omitted.—In every case where it appears from the records of the office of the register of deeds of any county in this state that the execution of a deed of conveyance was duly acknowledged before the clerk or deputy clerk of the superior court of such county and the certificate of such officer taking the acknowledgment was made complete except that the order of registration was omitted, and such deed, with the certificate of such officer, was duly registered without any order of registration, any and all such probates and registrations are hereby validated, and the records of such deeds of conveyance may be read in evidence upon the trial or hearing of any cause with the same force and effect as if the same had been duly ordered registered. This section only applies to deeds so acknowledged and registered prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen. Suits pending October 13, 1913, are not affected by this section. (1911, c. 91; 1911, c. 166; 1913, c. 61; Ex. Sess. 1913, c. 73; 1915, c. 179, s. 1.)

§ 3333. Official deeds omitting seals.—All deeds executed prior to August 22, 1924, by any sheriff, commissioner, receiver, or other officer authorized to execute a deed by virtue of his office or appointment, in which the officer has omitted to affix his seal after his signature, shall be good and valid nevertheless: Provided, this act shall not apply to actions pending August 22, 1924. (1907, c. 807; 1917, c. 69, s. 1; 1924, c. 64.)

See section 8031 for tax deeds.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1924 re-enacted this section, bringing it down to date and inserting receivers in the list of officers.

§ 3333(a). Defective acknowledgment on old deeds validated.—The clerk of the superior court may order registered any deed, or other conveyance of land, in all cases where the instrument and probate bears date prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and seven (1907) where the acknowledgment, private examination, or other proof of execution, has been taken or had before a notary public residing in the county where the land is situate, where said officer failed to affix his official seal, and where the certificate of said officer appears otherwise to be genuine. (1933, c. 439.)

§ 3334. Probates omitting official seals.—In all cases where the acknowledgment, private examination, or other proof of the execution of any deed, mortgage, or other instrument authorized or required to be registered has been taken or had by or before any commissioner of affidavits and deeds of this state, or clerk or deputy clerk of a court of record, or notary public of this or any other state, territory, or district, and such deed, mortgage, or other instrument has heretofore been recorded in any county in this state, but such commissioner, clerk, deputy clerk, or notary public has omitted to attach his or her official or notarial seal thereto, or it does not appear of record that such seal was attached to the original deed, mortgage, or other instrument, or such commissioner, clerk, deputy clerk, or notary public has certified the same as under his or her "official seal," "notarial seal," or words of similar import, and no such seal appears of record, then all such acknowledgments, private examinations or other proofs of such deeds, mortgages, or other instruments, and the registration thereof, are hereby made in all respects valid and binding. The provisions of this section apply to acknowledgments, private examinations, or proofs taken prior to January first, 1929; provided this section does not apply to pending litigation. (Rev. s. 1012; 1907, cc. 213, 665, 971; 1911, c. 4; 1915, c. 36; 1929, c. 8, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 amended the last two sentences as formerly appearing in this section to read as the last sentence above.

§ 3335. Registrations by register's clerks or deputies.—All registration of deeds and other instruments heretofore made by the several registers of deeds of the several counties of the state by their deputies and clerks, and signed in the name of the register of deeds by a deputy or clerk, and when said registration is in all other respects regular, are hereby validated and declared of the same force and effect as if signed in the name of the register and not by a deputy or clerk. This section does not affect litigation pending March 8, 1911, in any state or federal court or any suit in substantial renewal of any pending litigation. (1911, c. 184, s. 1.)

§ 3336. Before officer in wrong capacity or out of jurisdiction.—All deeds, conveyances, or other instruments permitted by law to be registered in this state, which have been probated or ordered to be registered previous to January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, before any officer of this or any other state or country, authorized by law to take acknowledgments or to order registration, where the certificate of the probate or order of registration is sufficient in form, but appears to have been certified by the officer in some capacity other than that in which such officer was authorized to act, or appears to have been made out of the county or district authorized by law, but within the state, and where the instrument with such certificate has been recorded in the proper county, are hereby declared to have been duly proved, probated and recorded, and to be valid. This section does not affect actions pending March 11, 1913. (Rev., ss. 1017, 1030; 1913, c. 125, s. 1.)

Deeds, etc., Ordered to Be Registered by Justices Validated.—All deeds, conveyances, or other instruments permitted by law to be registered in this State which have been probated or ordered to be registered by any of the several justices of the peace appointed under the Act of 1921 L. 237, set out since the first Monday in April, nineteen hundred and twenty-five, where the certificate of the probate is sufficient in form, but appears to have been certified by one of the several justices of the peace named in said act, are hereby declared to have been duly proved, probated and recorded, and to be valid. 1927, ch. 189, section 2.

Has no Retroactive Effect as to Vested Rights of Third Parties.—Acts validating irregular acknowledgments and probates while good, as between the parties, and as to third parties from the passage of the acts, would not validate such acknowledgments and probates as to third parties whose rights had already been acquired prior to the validating statutes. Gordon v. Collett, 107 N. C. 362, 12 S. E. 332; Williams v. Kerr, 113 N. C. 306, 310, 18 S. E. 501.

§ 3337. Before justices of peace, where clerk's certificate or order or registration defective.—In every case where it appears from the record of the office of any register of deeds in this state that a justice of the peace in this state has taken and certified the proof of any instrument required by law to be registered, or the privy examination of a married woman thereto, and the deed and certificate have been registered, prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and seven, in the county where the lands described in the instrument are located, without or with a defective certificate of the clerk of the official character of the justice, or as to the genuineness of his signature, or without the order of registration of the clerk, or his adjudication of due probate, or with a defective adjudication thereof, such proofs, certificates and registration are validated; but as against creditors or purchasers from donor, bargainor or lessor, only from February first, nineteen hundred and seven. (1907, c. 83, s. 1.)

For amendment applicable in Clay county only, see P. L. 1933, c. 530.

§ 3338. Probates on proof of handwriting of maker refusing to acknowledge.—All registrations of instruments, prior to February fifth, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven, permitted or required by law to be registered, which were ordered to registration upon proof of the handwriting of the grantor or maker who refused to acknowledge the execution, are hereby validated. (Rev., s. 1026; 1897, c. 28.)

§ 3339. Before judges supreme or superior courts or clerks before 1889.—Wherever the judges of the supreme or the superior court, or the clerks or deputy clerks of the superior court, or courts of pleas and quarter sessions, mistaking their powers, have essayed previously to the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, to take the probate of any instrument required or allowed by law to be registered, and the privy examination of femes covert, whose names are signed to such deeds, and have ordered said deeds to registration, and the same have been registered, all such probates, privy examinations and registrations are validated. (Rev., s. 1009; Code, s. 1260; 1871-2, c. 200, s. 1; 1889, c. 252; 1891, c. 484.)

In General.—It is evident from the general scope of all the legislation upon this important subject that this section was intended to ratify and validate what had erroneously been done by officials having general or special powers of probate and registration, so that the essence of what was done should not be sacrificed to the form of doing it, and to save rights of property where no substantial departure from legal requirements appeared, but merely an irregularity which could be cured without injury to the rights of others. Weston v. Roper Lumber Co., 160 N. C. 263, 75 S. E. 800, 801.

Liberal Construction.—The statutes validating defective probates and registrations of deeds are remedial, and must be liberally construed to embrace all cases fairly within their scope. Weston v. Roper Lumber Co., 160 N. C. 263, 75 S. E. 800.

Defective Probates of County Courts Embraced.—Where it is argued by counsel that this section does not refer to probates taken by the county courts, but to those of the clerks of said courts, it was held that the probates of the county courts were intended to be validated. The phraseology and punctuation, as well as the grammatical construction, of the statute, lead to that conclusion. If the other meaning had been intended, the preposition "of" would have been inserted before the words "courts of pleas and quarter sessions." The section also validates registrations made upon such probates. Weston v. Roper Lumber Co., 160 N. C. 263, 75 S. E. 800, 801.

Was Not Intended to Validate Intentional Breaches of Authority. — There was no purpose to give efficacy and vitality to a certificate of probate or adjudication of its correctness, where the error consisted not in misconceiving the extent of the power affirmatively conferred by law, but in disregarding a plain prohibition of the statute, and committing a breach of propriety in breaking over the barriers constructed to limit their authority. It was never intended that an officer, who exercised authority in the face of a plain statutory prohibition, should under the curative provisions of this section derive benefit from thus disregarding such legal restrictions for his own advantage or convenience. Freeman v. Person, 106 N. C. 251, 253, 10 S. E. 1037.

Probate of Officer Who is a Party Not Validated.—This section has been considered in Freeman v. Person, 106 N. C. 251, 10 S. E. 1037, and it is there held that it cannot be construed to validate the probate of an officer in regard to a matter in which he or his wife was a party. White v. Connelly, 105 N. C. 65, 71, 11 S. E. 177.

Probate by Deputy Clerks.—At the time, and prior to the enactment of this section, deputy clerks could not, take proof of deeds and other instruments requiring registration; but an erroneous impression prevailed then and before that time, that they and the judges of the courts had authority to do so, and in many instances they undertook to exercise such authority. This was attributable to confused legislation on the subject of the probate of deeds and other instruments, and the fact that such officers were invested with such power before the present statutes on that subject were enacted. To cure errors in this respect, and render effectual many official acts done by honest misapprehension of the law, the Legislature enacted this section. Tatom v. White, 95 N. C. 453, 458. Deputy clerks are now authorized by section 3293 to take probate on instruments.—Ed. Note.

Same—Signing by Deputy Clerk.—This section validates probates of deeds and privy examinations taken before a deputy clerk prior to January 1, 1889, and it is immaterial whether the deputy clerk, in making the probate, signed as deputy clerk or merely signed the name of the clerk thereto. Gordon v. Collett, 107 N. C. 362, 12 S. E. 332.

Constitutionality.—This curative statute is constitutional and valid if rights of third parties have not accrued, but it would not divert the title of a party acquired by a subsequent deed from the same grantor which is registered prior to the enactment of the curative statute. Gordon v. Collett, 170 N. C. 362, 12 S. E. 332.

Scope of the Original Section. — This section originally rendered valid all probates of deeds, etc., made before the officers therein named, prior to 12 February, 1872; and registrations made in pursuance of such probates were held embraced within the operation of the statutes, although made after that date, but before the enactment of the Code. Tatom v. White, 95 N. C. 453.

§ 3340. Before clerks of inferior courts.—All probates and orders of registration made by and taken before any clerk of any inferior or criminal court prior to the twentieth day of February, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, and valid in form and substance, shall be valid and effectual, and all deeds, mortgages or other instruments requiring registration, registered upon such probate and order of registration, shall be valid. This section shall apply only to the counties of Halifax, Northampton, Hertford, Buncombe, Mecklenburg, Granville, Beaufort, Lenoir, Robeson, Cumberland, Ashe, Martin, Wayne, Greene, Iredell, Bertie, Edgecombe, Duplin and New Hanover. This section applies to probates and private examinations taken before the clerks of the criminal court of Buncombe prior to February second, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three. (Rev., ss. 1020, 1021; 1885, cc. 105, 108; 1889, c. 143; 1889, c. 463.)

§ 3341. Before de facto officers of Greene county.—The probate of all instruments requiring registration made by Alexander Taylor while acting as and being the de facto clerk of the superior court of Greene county during the month of December, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight, and during the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, are hereby de-cleared valid; and the registration of all instruments requiring registration as made by W. E. Murphrey while acting as the de facto register of deeds of Greene county during the month of December, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight, and during the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, are declared valid. (Rev., s. 1029; 901, c. 369.)

§ 3342. Order of registration by judge, where clerk party. — All deeds, mortgages or other instruments which prior to the twentieth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three, have been probated by a justice of the peace and ordered to registration by a judge of the superior court or justice of the supreme court, to which clerks of the superior court are parties, are hereby confirmed, and the probates and orders for registration declared to be valid. (Rev., s. 1011; 1893, c. 3, s. 2.)
